Coolidge, for instance, was perhaps least afflicted with this malady that attacks the strongest individual when he walks under the white-pillared portico of 1600 Pennsylvania avenue to stay for at least four years. And Coolidge was about as rich in front page material of his own making as the clam he sought to emulate.

I remember a remark William Hard, now an editor of Reader's Digest, once made to me:

"Cal never seemed to suffer from presidentitis" (Hard invented the word, I believe)—"he is the only occupant of the White House I know of who, when he lay down to take his daily siesta, didn't think when he awoke that the world had gone to pieces."

No newsman, except toward the last, could complain about Franklin Roosevelt's news conferences. Regardless of what one might think of his views, his news was always printable. It will be hard to produce another such.

The heavy majority of those who traveled with Dewey on his campaign trips had nothing but praise. But a few of those who had experienced his press conferences, and had enjoyed—or otherwise—his press relations in earlier days were cynical.

"Wait," they said, "until the honeymoon is over."

I found it hard to get concrete predictions. I myself had seen a vast improvement in Dewey's press relations over the years since his first campaign. And I see no reason why a person can't and doesn't learn.

On the train, whenever he could (and that is the way most of the correspondents described it—"could," not "would"), Dewey went into the press car attached to his train, chatted individually with the fellows, learned to connect names with new faces, answered questions, and at least appeared to be frank and free with his "off the record" remarks concerning Republican doubts and fears, real, imagined, or assumed. He sometimes took time for a game of chess "with the boys."

There was, however, much less informality in the atmosphere of his entourage than there was in Truman's. The Dewey affair moved so smoothly that a creak or two would have been welcome. Like the farmer in the poem "so even ran his course of life the neighbors thought it odd."

There was one man who made press relations on the Dewey campaign train a joy—well, two men. One was Jim Hagerty, trained reporter himself, who is expected to be the public relations secretary in the White House. The other was a man who probably won't be in Washington at all—Dewey's veteran political adviser, Edwin Jaeckle.

There was no conflict between the two, a rare situation indeed. Jaeckle supplemented Hagerty.

This would seem to contradict the sharp charges of Warren Moscow, author of "Politics in the Empire State" which came out this fall. Moscow, one of New York City's top-rank political reporters, who also covered Albany, claims that Dewey shut down news sources during his governorship in an attempt to thwart any criticism. That he even tried to lay down a press conference rule that a question was "off the record," thus covering up the fact that an answer had been given not to be made public or had been refused. Moscow asserts that Dewey wanted to be the oracle, the one and only, the sole source of what should be reported.

If that was true earlier in Dewey's career, the dapper New Yorker who has been widely-touted of late for being able to take advice and for being able to pick people who know how to advise, has had some good advice. If he should revert to methods such as Moscow describes, two things would happen: first, he would suffer; second, he would fail in his attempt, and the effects of the effort might be permanently disastrous.

Some presidents have tried to conduct government by disturbing the "checks and balances." It never works long and the freedom of the press is one of the checks—a principle that is part and parcel of the American concept of government.

A notable example of how the very weight of the news, legitimate news, breaks through any wall, was the case of the financial conference called by President Hoover just before the end of his regime—1931, to be exact. Hoover had no intention whatever of deceiving the public. He simply didn't understand that you couldn't have a gathering like that without making an adequate explanation of some kind. At any rate just a bare announcement was issued.

Free Press Is Best Check

The next day at the White House news conference, Hoover said he would not comment on the meeting (though the notice had appeared in the papers), and that he considered it the duty of the press not to print anything which was only partially true, or else incomplete.

Richard Oulihan of the New York Times, one of the most beloved and respected correspondents who ever covered Washington, and an outstanding leader, made a typically dignified, but very emphatic protest then and there. He said it was out of the question to ask the reporters not to get as complete a story as they could. It was pointed out by another well-known reporter that the press would have to have the story, and the reporters would have to get it, regardless of the President's wishes.

The President refused at first, but the reporters insisted. Finally he agreed to give out an official statement after the conference.

I have known other examples of short-lived gag rules. One which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau tried to establish on the treasury. He issued an order that none of the treasury officials could talk with newsmen. He might as well have told reporters not to read the market quotations. It failed. Legitimate news continued to be reported as it always had been.

Franklin Roosevelt had, at one time, at least 80 per cent of the newspapers "against" him. He knew he couldn't change their editorial views by giving out news to their representatives. He also knew that if he tried to withhold news, the American people would be far less likely to support him. And because he understood the meaning of the freedom of the press, he wouldn't have thought of trying. And he knew how to make it appear as favorable as possible.

The most effective check in a democracy is not the first, second or third, but the fourth estate. An unenlightened public conceivably might elect a totally bad president and a totally bad congress which would establish a totally bad supreme court, but unless the press is gagged, the public in a democracy cannot be democratically unenlightened

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

THERE seems to be a rather widespread opinion that you must look for value in ballplayers among the averages. The averages slip you a pretty fair answer—but not the entire story.

For example we'll take the 1948 season. It is dead sure to furnish the hottest race in years in locating the most valuable ballplayer—the one who has rendered greatest service to his mates. There are certainly five men worth consideration—Ted Williams and Verne Stephens of the Red Sox—Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees—Lou Boudreau of the Indians—and Stan Musial of the Cardinals. Yet their averages are wide apart in many respects.

KELLER

In this group Williams, Musial and Boudreau all have been hitting over .360 most of the year. DiMaggio and Stephens have been under .300. Yet the effective play of DiMaggio and Stephens lists them high up, practically on even terms with those having far higher batting averages.

The hottest race will be in the American league when it comes to naming the most helpful star. Stan Musial should take over the National league selection with several kilometers to spare.

Keller's Good Nature

You can get an idea of Charlie Keller's type from this incident. When they wanted to give him a "Keller Day," the Yankee outfielder insisted that all receipts taken in be used for a Maryland university scholarship for some needy youth.

That would be Charlie Keller's way. The Yankee outfielder graduated from Maryland 11 years ago, came to Newark in 1937 and reported to the Yankees in 1939. He was not only a great ballplayer at Maryland but also an honor student and one of the most popular fellows on the Maryland campus.

I asked him once where he got that pair of hands—the most powerful looking I'd seen in baseball. "Milking 12 cows every morning," Charlie said with a grin.

Keller was born in Middletown, Md., in September, 1916, some 32 years ago. He came from the right state as a slugger—the state that gave the game Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx and Home-Run Baker. In his first year with the Yankees, Keller hit .334 and followed this with a world series mark of .438. Except for the roughest luck you can imagine, he could have been one of the greatest power men of the game.

He was on his way to lead the American league in all power departments when he broke an ankle. He was heading back when war arrived and took him away from the scene in his prime. Once again he fought his way up, then a spinal injury cut him down. Now he is coming along again in his fourth surge.

Maryland university, under the direction of Curley Byrd, is moving up in both education and athletic ranking. Under Coach Jim Tatum's sound guidance and a few better football players, it is a worthy opponent for any team it meets—it could be said here that Maryland graduates and Maryland students are proud of student Keller and ballplayer Keller, who has never broken a training rule in his career, either via the alcohol or nicotine route.

Keller could have accepted Keller Day with the usual thanks. In place of this, the Yankee hitter insisted that the main benefits to be derived on such a day should be given in the form of a scholarship or scholarships to deserving young men who wanted a college education.

Football Prowess

I ran into a rugged Texan the other day who has followed football closely for many years.

"I can't deny that I'm biased," he said, "but, throwing all bias out of the window, I can't agree with those who place the Midwest over the Southwest. I'd like nothing better than to have a substantial bet on S.M.U., Texas, T.C.U. and Rice against Notre Dame, Michigan, Purdue and Minnesota. On the side, we have Arkansas and others who are much stronger than the remaining Midwest teams.

"Notre Dame would be hard to handle, but I doubt that Leahy's team could beat S.M.U. or Texas. Minnesota has a great line but no backs to compare with the passers and runners we have in Texas.

"I don't believe Michigan is deep enough after her losses from 1947's big squad. Texas is much deeper than Michigan.

"It has been said that no Southwest team will play Notre Dame. I don't think Notre Dame would have the slightest trouble getting on almost any Southwest schedule, including S.M.U. and Texas."

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

AUTOS, TRUCKS & ACCESS.

1940 INTERNATIONAL 42-passenger bus for sale, new motor, tires practically new. LYLE E. RIDENOUR, Monticello, Ia. Ph. 140-W

SCHOOL BUS, 37 FORD 24 pass.; Superior body, good condition mech. Al. Orland Nerness, Cambridge, Ia.

BUSINESS & INVEST. OPPOR.

FOR QUICK SALE Welding and blacksmith shop. New bldg., first class equipment. Doing very good business. Reason arthritis. Write J. T. KRUGER, Belle Plaine, Iowa

FOR SALE—Building suitable for manufacturing plant in Owatonna, Minn., located on Milwaukee R.R. trackage, steel quonset 24x84 fully insulated with 4" rock wool, large forced air gas heater, location handy to business district, cement floor underlaid with rock gravel for warmth. Write LEUTHOLD ST. CLAIR CO. Owatonna, Minnesota

DOGS, CATS, PETS, ETC.

IRISH SETTER PUPS, 8 WEEKS OLD Sired by Tyronne Farm Clancy. DR. JOHN R. KAPP, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa

FARM MACHINERY & EQUIP.

Tractors, Pickers, Combines; always plenty to choose from. All kinds other farm mach. for sale. To buy or sell mach. see L. McFadden, 2500 E. Euclid, Des Moines, Ia. 62-0218.

FARMS AND RANCHES

CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FREE INFORMATION on farm settlement opportunities. Fertile soils. Reasonably priced. R. C. Bosworth, Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station, St. Paul, Minn.

120 A. GOOD LAND FOR SALE ½ mi. off U. S. 69, Harrison Co., Mo. Good improvements, low taxes. L. S. SHOCKLEY, 329 W. 6th St., St. Paul, Minnesota

IMP. and unimp. farms in Brown Spink and Day counties, So. Dak. Yielding high returns October possession. Priced right. Terms. Write JOE WILLIAMS, Groton, S. Dak.

454-A. Charlton River bottom, upland farm 8 mi. S. Callao, Macon Co., Mo. RFD, tele., watered by creek, ponds, well 5-rm. house, cellar, tile silo, 2 barns, New poultry house, hog pens, corn crib, gar. Approx. 60 a. corn, 40 a. soybeans. Landlord's share goes to buyer. $65 acre. Poss. March 1, 1949. W. E. James, Owner, 714 Main, Davenport, Ia.

MISCELLANEOUS

LIGHTNING RODS Better built; streamlined. Free estimate. O. E. ROUTSON & SON 280 Day Rd., Des Moines, Iowa. 3-3728

HATCH AND PROD. Loc. separate towns. N. W. Iowa Highway 30. Hatch. 35,000 cap. Priced reas. Produce. good profitable bus. B. A. MAC DONALD, Scranton, Ia.

REAL ESTATE—HOUSES

LARGE APARTMENT Building. 1 apartment available immediately for purchaser. LAREW CO. Iowa City, Iowa

WANTED TO TRADE

WILL TRADE 54 ft. by 125 ft. concrete garage building, located in Waubun, Minn. for good late model car. Write S. KOPPANG % Gen. Del. Minneapolis, Minn.

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

DIONNE 'QUINTS' relieve coughs—surface congestion of CHEST COLDS RUB ON MUSTEROLE

Helps keep me on my feet!

say many old folks about good tasting SCOTT'S EMULSION

Thousands of happy folks know this! Good-tasting Scott's Emulsion helps you ward off colds—helps you get well faster—and helps you keep going strong when your diet needs more natural A&D Vitamins! Scott's is a HIGH ENERGY FOOD TONIC—rich in natural A&D Vitamins and energy-building natural oil. Try it! See how well you feel. Easy to take and digest. Economical. Buy today at your drug store!

MORE than just a tonic—it's powerful nourishment!

SCOTT'S EMULSION HIGH ENERGY TONIC

WNU—N 44

FOR YOU!

New Reliable

ADDING MACHINE

ON 10-DAY MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

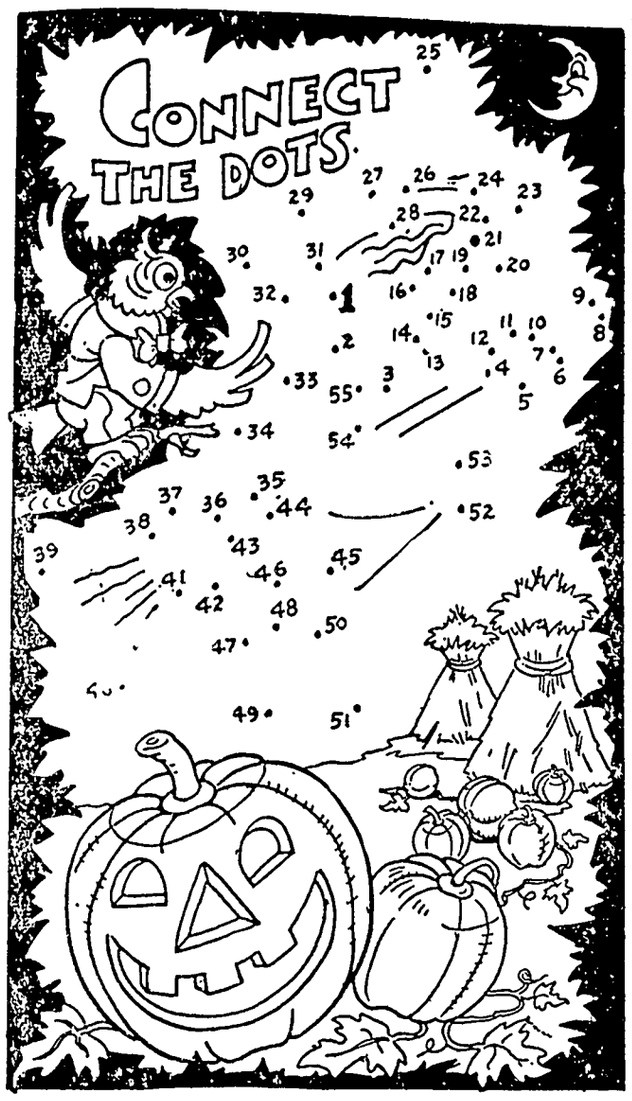
Adds, subtracts, multiplies. Fast and easy to operate. Portable. $999,999.99 capacity. Praised by farmers, business and professional men everywhere. Ideal for Income Tax work. Pays for itself in time saved and mistakes avoided. Over 100,000 in use. Send only $12.95 and Addometer will be sent postpaid. Use it 10 days, then return for refund if not 100% satisfied.

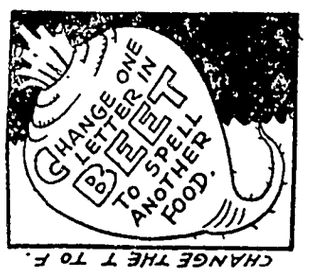
AMAZING VALUE Only $12.95

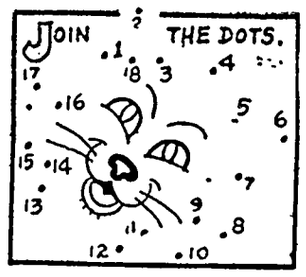
RELIABLE TYPEWRITER & ADDING MACHINE CO. Dept. N-11, 303 W. Monroe St., Chicago 6, Illinois

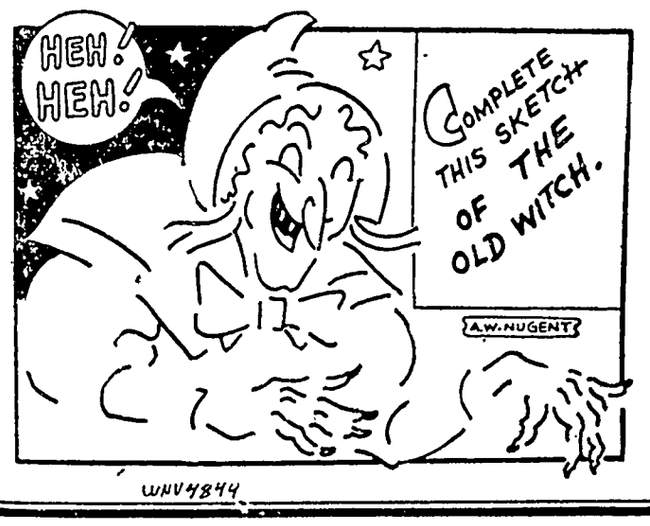
FUNLAND

By A.W. NUGENT



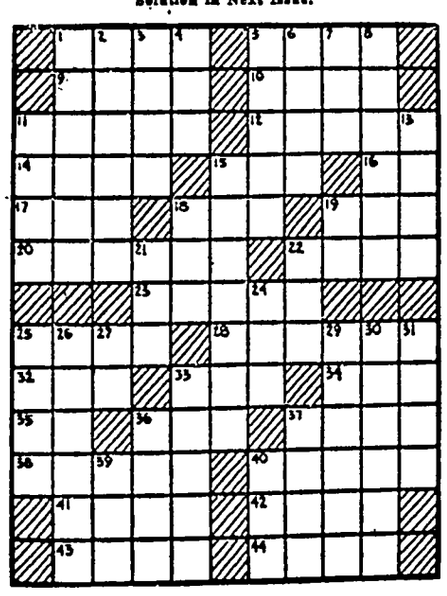






CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Solution in Next Issue.



No. 6

Across

1. Nocturnal birds
5. A quadrat (abbr.)
9. River duck
10. Wavy (Her)
11. Befitting the stage
12. Helped
14. Little girl (Scot.)
15. Division of a play
16. River (It.)
17. To be in debt
18. Writing fluid
19. Nourished
20. Residence of a king
22. Italian goddess
23. City (Fla.)
25. Lose color
26. The bleekbok
32. Fuss
33. Emmet
34. Male adult
35. Depart
36. Owing
37. Whirl
38. Branch
40. Buckets
41. Melody
42. Ireland
43. Prophet
44. Asquint (Scot.)

Down

1. City (Can.)
2. Mink-like mammal
3. Loiters
4. Cunning
5. Charlatan
6. Least whole number
7. Sum up
8. To make deeper
11. Spill over
13. Extinct bird
15. Flower
18. River (So. Am.)
19. Chinese provincial department
21. Devoured
22. Receptacle for preserves
24. Place
25. Cigarettes (slang)
26. Takes as one's own
27. Perform
29. Vast kingdom
30. "Old——," famous London prison
31. Taverns
33. Carpenter's tool
36. To take dinner
37. A vast expanse of canvas
39. Regret
40. Wooden pin

Answer to Puzzle No. 5

		W	E	A	L		M	A	A	M
R	I	L	E	D		A	U	R	A	L
I	S	M	S		W	I	N	T	R	Y
A	D			R	A	N	T		G	R
T	U	E		U	S	E		L	I	E
A	M	B	U	S	H		C	O	N	S
		O	R	E		C	A	T
F	I	N	N		T	H	R	U	S	H
I	C	Y		T	O	O		S	P	Y
L	I		C	R	A	W			R	E
E	C	H	O	E	D		E	R	I	N
S	L	A	V	E		A	R	E	N	A
E	Y	E	S		B	A	T	T

Series K—48

WNU4844

THE GARBLE SISTERS

"Did you read that Llandudno speech?"

"No, I don't pay much attention to what them Notre Dame football stars say."

"This Llandudno is a place Winston Churchill made a terrific speech there He warned French labor that any more strikes would be like insurrection and said everybody working in an atomic bomb plant should answer yes or no whether he is a Communist."

—•—

"The situation is getting worse and worse. Do you think there will be a world war this season?

"Not at present inflation prices. Nobody can afford it, not even under lend lease."

"Have you been following them Paris meetings at the Palaise de Chenille?"

"No. I think we should follow our own styles and forget them Paris dress designers."

—•—

"How are you going to vote in the coming election?"

"I'm waiting for the next Hooper ratings on all the candidates We should have a man in the White House who can hold his radio audience without a jackpot or free ice boxes"

"I can't make up my mind whether to vote for Truman or Dewey. They're both friendly to the American Indian I suppose Truman will have to take the blame for the world series It was permitted while he was in office"

—•—

"What did you think of Satira being released?"

"Those New York Yankee club owners don't care who they fire as soon as the season ends."

"That was strange about General Marshall being rushed back to this country for a talk with President Truman with Cleveland leading by three games to one, wasn't it?"

"What was it all about?"

"There was some idea of sending Boudreau to Moscow or someplace."

—•—

"Did you see where John L. Lewis had Lincoln's birthday named after him?"

"Yeah, but he didn't pitch that good. They got two hits off him"

"Are you seeing any football games?"

"I seen the Cleveland-Yale game by video, that's all. Veeck was too good for Yale Shotton is pretty old but New Haven will keep him another year."

—•—

"The spy investigations at Washington have slowed down lately."

"Yeah. Alger Whittaker has sued Chambers Hiss and the winner sues Lizzie Bentley or somebody. Then if it turns out Moscow has the atom bomb we sue Vishinsky in a playoff."

"Do you think the Russians have the bomb yet?"

"How can anybody tell until they cross-examine Tokio Rose."

• • •

The American Chemical society reveals that it is now possible to treat sawdust chemically so that it can be used as a substitute for cattle and poultry feed. Somehow or other we are a little afraid of a pork chop with an oak flavor and a steak that has the taste of Oregon pine. Not to mention Junior's complain that he just got a splinter in his hand from an egg.

• • •

"Istanbul, Turkey.—The National party, Turkey's third political group, has joined in the sharp attack on ERP as ruinous to the country. It says the terms of the Marshall plan infringe on Turkish sovereignty and encroach upon financial independence. 'The government made serious errors in accepting the terms of the latest loan which amounts to nothing,' says a statement."—News item.

—•—

The loan was one of 10 million for 90 days. It's a dirty shame the way some of those European nations have to stand for American millions!

• • •

Pete, a hippopotamus at the Bronx zoo, just reached his 45th birthday. He attributes his long life to the fact he watches his diet, never having a bale of hay more than twice a day.

• • •

Stalin recently asked an American envoy to come up and have a cocktail with him any time. We will wager that Joe can shake up a drink so it will not agree with anybody.

• • •

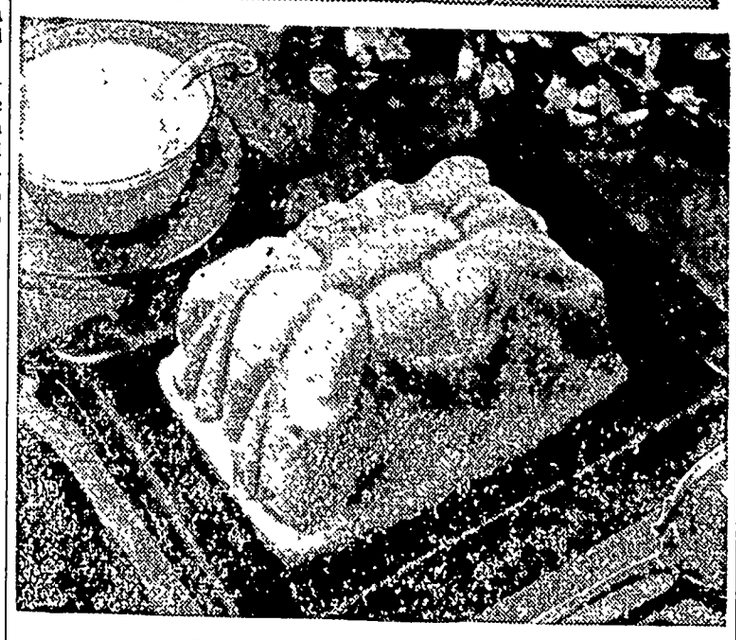
New York taxicab interests say the business is in a terrific slump. It is so bad they can hear a flag drop.

• • •

Scientists warn that there is not enough food in the world to go around. A lot of restaurants seem to have discovered this months ago, lettuce and beets excepted.

• • •

"Loyal Worker" beat "Why the Rush" at Saratoga recently, and the boss says it is mighty encouraging.



Families Enjoy Variety in Desserts!

(See Recipes Below)

Dessert Patterns

"MY FAMILY CAN enjoy the same meat and vegetable dishes," says a homemaker, "but they really want variety in their desserts. It's hard to keep enough good, easy to make things on hand to satisfy them"

Well, our hunger patterns are usually satisfied by the time we get to the "frosting" of the meal, and we all like something special. We may want to savor the main course, but we like surprises for desserts.

The woman who is busy with many household duties might like to skip dessert just because she can't think of something new, or because desserts are a bit too complicated to prepare, or so she thinks. How about some easy but sure to be good desserts for family or company dinners?

• • •

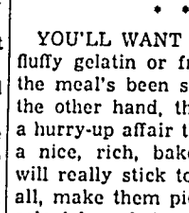
YOU'LL WANT to choose a light, fluffy gelatin or fruit dessert when the meal's been substantial. If, on the other hand, the meal has been a hurry-up affair then give the folks a nice, rich, baked dessert which will really stick to the ribs. Above all, make them picture pretty, gay, colorful and breath-takingly good like those in the column today.

Cranberry Log

½ cup sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar.

Beat egg whites until frothy. Add cream of tartar and beat stiff. Add ¼ cup sugar and beat until points are formed. Add remaining sugar to egg yolks and beat until thick and light colored. Fold carefully into egg white mixture. Then fold in sifted dry ingredients. Pour into a shallow pan, 9 by 12 inches, which has been greased and lined with waxed paper. Bake 20-25 minutes at 350 degrees. Have ready a strip of waxed paper cut about 15 inches longer than the cake, Sprinkle thickly with powdered sugar the section on which the cake will be turned. Roll up 15 inches of paper to form a thin roller which will make center for the rolled cake.

When cake has baked, turn out on powdered sugar. Remove paper from cake. Then, starting with roller, roll up cake like a jelly roll. Cool.



Unroll cake when cool and spread with softened cream cheese and reroll tightly.

• • •

Cherry Cream Pudding
(Serves 6-8)

6 eggs, separated
1¼ cups sugar
½ cup boiling water
1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract

Slowly boil sugar and water until it threads when dropped from the end of a spoon. Beat the whites stiff. Pour hot syrup over whites slowly, and beat until cool. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored and blend in egg white mixture. Add flavorings, then sifted dry ingredients. Bake in an ungreased tube pan in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until golden and done, about one hour. Cool and fill center with one can (No. 1) of black, pitted cherries which have been folded in two cups sweetened whipped cream.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

Swiss Steak with Brown Gravy
Baked Potatoes
Green Peas with Onion
Tossed Vegetable Salad
Rolls Beverage
•Orange Spanish Cream
Cookies
•Recipe Given.

Molded Rice Pudding
(Serves 6-8)

2 cups cooked rice
1 No. 2½ size can apricots
2 tablespoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 slices pineapple, cut up
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Add the juice from the can of apricots to the cooked rice Stir over a low flame until rice has absorbed the juice. Soak gelatin in cold water. Stir into hot rice. Add all except a few apricots (saved for garnish) which have been rubbed through a sieve. Mix in pineapple Mix lightly so as not to mash the rice. When mixture begins to set, add whipped cream which has been mixed with sugar and vanilla Pour into a cold rinsed mold and allow to chill. Turn out onto platter and garnish with apricot halves and additional whipped cream, if desired.

• • •

HERE ARE EASY variations of an unflavored gelatine and orange juice dessert. You also may use any other fruit juice you prefer to unlock even more possibilities for you.

Basic Clear Orange Gelatine
(Serves 4)

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold orange juice
1½ cups hot orange juice
⅓ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatine in cold orange juice. Add hot orange juice, sugar and salt; stir until dissolved. Pour into molds and chill until firm.

ORANGE WHIP: Use basic recipe with following change. Chill gelatine mixture until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg whites; beat with rotary beater until light and fluffy. Turn into molds and chill until firm •ORANGE SPANISH CREAM: Use basic recipe with following changes. Soften gelatine in one cup cold milk in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water. Add sugar and salt and stir until gelatine and sugar are dissolved. Beat two egg yolks slightly. Pour a small amount of the hot mixture over egg yolks. Return to double boiler and cook over hot, not boiling, water, stirring constantly until mixture coats the spoon. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in three-quarter cup cold orange juice; chill until thickened. Beat two egg whites until stiff. Fold in gelatine mixture and chill until firm in mold.

Released by WNU Features.

LYNN SAYS:
Provide Hot, Hearty Meals on Cold Days

Give pork chops a new and different flavor by breading them, and then baking in tomato juice with slices of lemon.

All fruit salads may be made to appear richer when made with fruit flavored gelatin and sieved cottage cheese, and then molded.

If you're afraid that dinner won't fill appetites well enough, add a hot cream soup or chowder to the menu.

Serve hot breads with plenty of sweetened spreads such as jam, jelly, marmalade or fruit butters to add calories to otherwise slender meals.

Ham, broccoli and cheese baked in ramekins provide a tasty and nourishing cold weather main dish. Use a cream sauce to bind all ingredients together.

The addition of chopped eggs to salad dressings for vegetable or main dish salads is an excellent way of getting your daily quota of this fine protein food.

Beautiful Gift Doll

BE WISE Mrs. Santa! Begin this doll now for Christmas or birthdays! Fifteen inches tall, with straw yarn hair, a tiered, gathered dress.

Oh what a beautiful doing too! Pattern 7373, clothes pattern.

And easy sewsfer 15-in. doll;

Sewing Circle Needlecraft Dept.
564 W. Randolph St. Chicago 80, Ill.
Enclose 20 cents for pattern.
No.
Name
Address

Get Well QUICKER
From Your Cough Due to a Cold
FOLEY'S Honey & Tar Cough Compound

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

SHELL-EASY JUMBO PECANS
Fresh, golden, tender-meated paper-shell pecans, direct from Texas' most famous orchards. For YOU... for GIFTS! So plump, so easy to shell, so delicious! 1½ lbs. $1.00; 5 lbs. $2.50; 10 lbs. $4.50. Postpaid Cont. U.S. and Canada. Important—order now! LUCAS PECAN ORCHARDS, Brownwood, Tex., Dept. 36

7 DAYS WILL DO IT

YES, in just 7 days... in one short week... a group of people who changed from their old dentifrices to Calox Tooth Powder averaged 38% brighter teeth by scientific test. Why not change to Calox yourself? Buy Calox today... so your teeth can start looking brighter tomorrow!

Accepted by Good Housekeeping

CALOX TOOTH POWDER
McKesson & Robbins Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

AS PURE AS MONEY CAN BUY
St. Joseph ASPIRIN
WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢

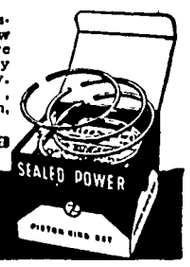
WATCHMAKING
Be a Watchmaker—Be Independent
Get practical training at the only school in Chicago accredited by the Horological Institute of America.
Approved for Veterans
Day and Evening Classes
Write Today for Free Information
Chicago Institute of Watchmaking
7 SOUTH PULASKI ROAD
MT. VERNON BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL.

Restore horsepower for NEW-CAR FEEL!

When you restore horsepower with a set of new Sealed Power Piston Rings, your car, truck or tractor will give you that NEW-CAR FEEL again! You'll save oil! You'll save gas! You'll lengthen engine life! There's a Sealed Power Ring Set specifically engineered to do the best possible job in your engine, whatever the make, model, or cylinder wear condition! See your Sealed Power Dealer today!

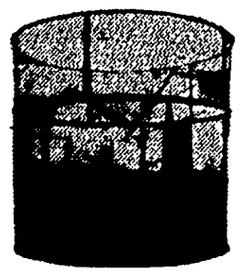
Send a postal for illustrated, informative new booklet on 7 ways to save oil. It's free and may save you lots of money. Sealed Power Corp., Dept. W11, Muskegon, Mich.

INDIVIDUALLY ENGINEERED



SEALED POWER PISTON RINGS
BEST IN NEW ENGINES! BEST IN OLD ENGINES!

CORN CRIBS -- IMMEDIATE DELIVERY



All Steel--Portable--Easy to Set Up

Built in sections of heavy expanded metal (not woven or wire mesh) this easily set-up and movable corn crib can be built to any height. No bolts or nuts—sections pin in place, hold securely. Limited supply—hurry.

WRITE FOR FREE CIRCULAR TODAY!

LOWEST PRICED all-steel crib on market, will last a lifetime, can be used also for hay, corrals, etc. WE also offer VENTILATORS for cribs you have.

STEEL CRIBS are hard to get—we can supply you immediately.

DEALERS—WRITE FOR FULL DETAILS

CROMB & GAGEL, INC., Box 166, Kansas City, Mo.

IF PETER PAIN PUMMELS YOU WITH BACKACHE

● Rub in gently-warming, soothing Ben-Gay ...It acts fast! Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times more methyl salicylate and menthol—pain-relieving agents known to every doctor—than five other widely offered rub-ins. Get genuine Ben-Gay, the original Baume Analgésique, for speedy relief!

Also for Pain due to RHEUMATISM, MUSCLE ACHE, and COLDS.

Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.

QUICK... RUB IN Ben-Gay

LORMA BLANK BECOMES BRIDE OF RAYMOND ZINNEL

(The West Bend Journal)

In a beautiful ceremony solemnized in Peace Lutheran Church Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31st, Miss Lorma Elaine Blank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blank, became the bride of Raymond E. Zinnel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zinnel, Sr.

Rev. A. E. Krause delivered a wedding sermon, while Rev. Otto Engel, the bride's uncle performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Blank, given in marriage by her father, wore a white over-all lace gown. A satin trimmed ruffle followed the low rounded neckline while the sleeves were traditionally pointed. The full circular skirt fell into a small train. Her full length veil was held in place by a matching lace coronet.

She carried a shower bouquet of yellow and white roses. For jewelry, she wore a rhinestone necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Gracka Blank, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor while Mrs. Myron Rutledge, a close friend of the bride, served as matron of honor. The two additional attendants were Elaine Krahn, a training classmate of the bride, and Marcella Zinnel, sister of the groom.

The attendants wore gowns of over-all blue lace with a high neckline, cap sleeves, fitted to the waistline, then falling into a fish-tail tunis over white satin skirts. Their coronets and mitts were of matching materials. Their shower bouquets were of yellow and white baby mums tied with little white ribbons.

The ring bearer, with his traditional white satin pillow, was Williard Engel, cousin of the bride, while Carol Zinnel, the groom's niece, was the flower girl. Both were dressed in white satin.

Henry Zinnel, Jr., served as best man, and Allan Wehrspann, Henry Falb, Jr., and Frederick Blank were ushers. The men wore white dinner jackets with bronze mums as boutonnieres.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Rosina Kitzman, organist, and by Gilbert Berninghaus who saang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

Miss Lorma Blank is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. T. Blank.

Company Completes Highway Graveling

Hancock County Supervisors Tuesday approved the report of County Engineer Charles F. Merten announcing that the Clermont Brick and Sand company has completed its contract for surfacing certain Hancock County roads with gravel. The contract totaled $59,850 and entailed the hauling of approximately 81,000 cubic yards of gravel.

KLEMME

MOVIES

NOVEMBER 11

"Perils of Pauline"

BETTY HUTTON

NOVEMBER 18

"Wild Harvest"

ALAN LADD

WILLIAM BENDIX

Comedy Each Show

Show At 8:00 P. M.

Saving Time on Farm

J. D. Blickle, specialist in agricultural engineering, Ohio State university, often wonders why a farmer who is eager to get a better cornpicker to save hours of harvesting time will store corn in an out of the way crib that compels the same man to put in extra days in feeding livestock. Building layouts on thousands of farms are 1880 models and quite a fraction of them were planned just before their owners left to gather up a few sacks of California gold in 1849. Bickle claims a lot of time could be saved on thousands of farms by relocating some of the smaller buildings and by changes in the interior of the barns. Fifty extra feet of travel twice a day adds up to a 20-mile jaunt in the course of a year, and a bushel of corn carried one way on the trip would make a 10-ton load for the walker if he moved all of it at once. This university specialist claims that a farmer accepts his sentence to hard labor in doing chores because he can serve a little of it at a time. A half hour early in the morning and repeated at night permits the farmer to use an installment plan to pay for the extra years he spends in the chore gang.

Russia's 150,000 Doctors Are Paid by Government

In contrast to pre-revolution times when there were only 18,000 physicians in the entire country, Russia now has 150,000 medical doctors, half of whom are women.

All doctors now are members of the "trade union of medical workers" and are paid between 1,500 and 2,000 rubles a month in government pay, which is between two and three times what the ordinary workers make.

If a doctor succeeds in becoming a professor of medicine he eventually may make 6,000 to 7,000 rubles a month.

(The ruble is worth about 18 cents at the official rate, but only 8½ cents at the diplomats' exchange rate.)

State-employed doctors are allowed to practice privately after hours if they want to enlarge their income. Standard medical service is supposed to be available to any person, regardless of his position. There are some hospitals, however, such as Moscow's top-notch Kremlin, which are not open except to big-time officials, diplomats and the like.

But ordinary folk have ample facilities and the services of the best specialists.

Students begin a six-year medical course after high school, and start work with patients after the third year. A student draws 225 to 300 rubles a month, but must pay 400 rubles a year in fees.

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of Americans are rededicating themselves to the support of our Government by word and action. Nearly 10 million of them are doing their share through the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds on the easy, automatic payroll savings plan. They realize that a dollar saved is a dollar fighting against inflation. And some day, these dollars saved, will be returned to them with interest, $4 for every $3 invested. These bonds are truly security bonds as they help to stop spiraling prices. You too can become an investor through the steady accumulation of Savings Bonds. If self-employed, an automatic bond buying plan is available to you through the Bond-a-Month plan at your bank.

U. S. Treasury Department

Swallows of Capistrano Follow Legendary Pattern

There is a well-known story that the swallows of the Mission San Juan Capistrano return each year to their summer nesting place at the mission on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, and depart, or rather used to depart, for the South on St. Juan's Day, October 23, and have done this from time immemorial. A few days before March 19, when the swallows are due, a few birds appear as scouts and these go back to convoy the main flock. The time of day may vary, but it's always on March 19. Though St. Juan's Day has been the traditional day for the swallows to leave, in recent years the mission reports that they have been leaving earlier in July.

The identity of the birds is easy. The swallow that makes its flask-shaped mud nests under the eaves of the mission is the cliff swallow, which also nests commonly elsewhere in California. Naturalists find that swallows arrive in California with great regularity in the latter part of March, and most of them leave by September. Naturalists do not, however, subscribe to the view that they reach and leave any given locality on a given day, year after year.

Cow-Catcher Was Invented To Prevent Derailments

It was Isaac Dripps, boss mechanic of the Camden and Amboy railroad, who thought up the cow-catcher, or pilot. The road was having no small amount of trouble with derailments caused by wandering horses and cattle, who were forever getting onto the tracks The line's superintendent asked Dripps if he couldn't do something to relieve the situation.

Dripps built a low truck and attached it to the front end of the engine. Sticking out ahead of the two truck wheels were several long and pointed bars of wrought irnn. "That rig," Isaac Dripps declared of the formidable weapon, "ought to impale any animal that may be struck and prevent it from falling under the engine wheels."

It did, too. A few days after this first cow-catcher had been installed, the Camden & Amboy locomotive hit a big and mean bull so hard that the animal was held by the iron prongs and could be detached only by the use of block and tackle. Such a cow-catcher was only too efficient, so Dripps took away the pointed prongs and substituted a heavy bar at right angles to the rails; this shortly was modified again and became the pilot or cow-catcher much as we know it today Thus did Dripps contribute a feature that still sets American locomotives apart from those of almost all other countries.

Roquefort Cheese Produced In France's Darkest Caves

Roquefort cheese is named after a village in southwestern France built at the foot of a rockslide. Main industry of this village is the production of its famous cheese.

Fifteen hundred of the 1,900 inhabitants of the village are engaged in the production of this product, which is made of sheep's milk.

The work of producing and maturing the cheese goes on underground, in caves, where the average temperature is 37 degrees Fahrenheit the year around.

The men who supervise the production of Roquefort cheese are members of one of the tightest monopolies in the world. Directors of this organization were considerably upset because, during the war, there appeared in the United States a cheese labeled "American Roquefort."

Often during the occupation of France the Germans visited Roquefort, usually in search of tinfoil supplies, but they never succeeded in requisitioning the Roquefort society's five-year supply, which was hidden in one of the remotest an' darkest caves.

The people of Roquefort claim that the canyon-like fissures of the caves where the cheese is made. provide the natural air-conditioning which gives the cheese its peculiar properties.

Diagnosis in Rabies

The high incidence of rabies among dogs, foxes, and cattle in central New York and its gradual spread through that region, brought more than 1,000 specimens for diagnosis last year to the diagnostic laboratory, New York State Veterinary college at Cornell. The Cornell laboratory, according to its director, Dr. W. M. Evans, is the largest one of five accredited in the state for the purpose, handling more than 70 per cent of the work. The laboratory is necessary, he says, because while many persons believe rabies can be detected by mere observation of an animal, brain examination is really the only reliable method. Other diseases give similar symptoms, and it is especially important to be sure of diagnosis as someone's life may be at stake. To the Cornell laboratory in the three years since the rabies outbreak has been serious, have gone specimens of dogs, foxes, cattle, raccoons, and practically every other animal native to the state, including bats. Of these, the director reports more than 50 per cent were rabid.

Hunters Must Leave Feet And Heads Attached To Dressed Ducks And Geese

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife service has pointed out that a new Federal regulation requires that all hunters, when transporting ducks and geese, are now required to leave the head plumage and feet attached to assist law inforcement officers in identification. Hunters can make interstate shipment of the birds up to 48 hours following the close of the shooting season in the state where the birds were taken.

At 40, Burns Baker, father of six children, courageously reshaped his life to conquer his tragic handicap. Today with his blind assistant and guide dog, he conducts an insurance business which provides amply for his family. Read "Suddenly He Was Blind" in The American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN.

Celebrated Fifth Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Neuberger entertained thirty relatives to dinner Sunday in honor of their daughter Claudia's fifth birthday which was on Nov. 7th, and their son Franklin's 4th birthday which will be November 19th.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neuberger, Elaine and Alan; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neuberger, Roger and JoAnn; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schulz; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Schulz; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lemke and Pamela; Mrs. Louisa Neuberger; Wert Loger; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hippen and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Anderson.

Each of the children had a birthday cake, decorated and lighted with candles and each received many nice gifts.

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

SAVED HIS HAT

Bill Brookman of Clarinda was driving his truck one day last week when the wind whipped his hat from his head. He grabbed for the hat and his truck went over the shoulder, turning over once but coming to rest on its wheels. The hat was undamaged.

DOUBLE-LITTER

Near Pleasantville, a Duroc sow owned by Clyde Core farrowed 12 live pigs but refused to suckle them. They were transferred to other sows. About a month later, theh original sow presented Mr. Core with 13 more live pigs. She is taking care of them as a mother should.

THIS YEAR "PERSONALIZE" YOUR

CHRISTMAS CARDS

WITH PHOTOGRAPHS . . . .

I am now making up CHRISTMAS CARDS using photographs of children and adults, and have samples on display at the Corner Store.

I am equipped to come to your home and take pictures of yourself or children and make up the cards.

All work guaranteed to be satisfactory, and prices are no more than other good cards.

Phone 7F58

DEAN RASMUS

Klemme, Iowa

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY

2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF

Dead Stock

Phone

KLEMME 580

BELMOND 580

We Pay The Call

A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.

Belmond By-Products

"Your Home Plant"

Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa.

Klemme Food Mkt.

Friday & Saturday Specials

Save The Self-Serve Way!

Beef Steak lb. 69c | Beef Roast lb. 49c

Pure Ground Beef lb. 42c

HILEX

QUART - - for 17c

Sorghum Flavored Syrup
SYRUP pint jar 20c

TANG 47c

BUTTERNUT COFFEE per lb. 51c

LIPTON TEA BAGS per box 19c

Sweetose Honey Flavored
SYRUP pint jar 20c

Jack Sprat 8 oz jar
SWEET PICKLES 22c

CHEERIOS (breakfast cereal) 2 boxes 29c

DUZ

3 BOXES $1.00

SOS

PADS - - - - 19c

Shina Dish per box
SOAP 29c

Beef Boil lb. 33c

CHILI ETS per can 10c

Scarlet King
PEAS 2 cans 29c

DATES pkg. 19c

Five Minute box only
CREAM OF WHEAT 27c

Lifeboy 3 bars
SOAP deal 3 bars for 25c

Bring Us Your Eggs CASH or TRADE

Klemme Food Market

Klemme, Iowa

We Reserve The Right To Limit

...ys Move To Fort Dodge

...ad Mrs. A. L. Kingery some of their belongings ...t Dodge Sunday where ...ere able to obtain a room ...esidence. They have re... their room in the Bulka ...here until they can find ...ent living quarters in ...odge, which is centrally ... for Mr. Kingery's work.

...UCTIONEER

FARM SALES
HOUSEHOLD GOODS
STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
...SWALVE

...me - Iowa

...ANK YOU

...I am deeply appreciative of the confidence ...have placed in me by giving me your vote ...the recent election.

...To continue to be worthy of your support ...be my aim during my term as your County ...ditor.

MAYNARD SCHONEMAN
Auditor

...ANK YOU

...want to thank the voters of Hancock Coun... for electing me as State Representative.

...I want to serve you to the best of my ability.

PENN ECKLES
Representative

...EAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED

Britt Rendering Co.
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22

WE PAY PHONE CHARGES

KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000

Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load

TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

...VERYBODY WANTS

HIS MONEY'S WORTH

And a good dealer will see that his cus...ers get it. In keeping with this policy we ...e taken the dealership for

Dow Chemicals

FOR WEED SPRAYING AND INSECT CONTROL

The Dow Chemical Company is one of ...oldest and largest companies in the busi... Their reputation is beyond question and ...price of their chemicals is right.

If you plan to spray for weed and insect ...trol it will pay you to have us book your order ...for future delivery.

FRED J. ARNOLD
...er Sales and Service — Klemme, Iowa

6,051 VOTES CAST IN HANCOCK COUNTY

A total of 6,051 Hancock County residents cast their vote at the general election Nov. 2, according to information received from the office of Hancock County Auditor Maynard Schoneman. This is slightly under the total cast in 1944 when 6,103 voted. The heaviest vote cast was in 1940 when 7,172 voters went to the polls. Total votes cast for the head of the ticket in presidential election years since 1932 was as follows:

1932, 6,254, 1936, 6,629; 1940 7,172; 1944, 6,103, and 1948, 6,501. Considering there are approximately 9,000 eligible voters in Hancock county, approximately 67 percent of the eligibles went to the polls compared to 84 percent in 1940.

'What Is Light?' Problem Still Is Mystery to Science

From the dawn of civilization, displays of light and color have fascinated and inspired human beings, ... Better Vision institute. The ... the primary source of light, has ... worshipped by primitive peo... the world over Through the ... artists have attempted to ... part of the light and color ... nature for the visual enjoy... of their friends. And in ... faces and colorful clothing ... add glamour to their person... to delight eyes of others.

Philosophers early began to specu... about the nature of light and ... Plato spoke about "divine fire" ...ating from the human eye. Pythagoras thought vision resulted from streams of tiny particles from luminous bodies falling upon the eye.

Through the centuries light was ... principal topic of scientific in... tion and two theories about ... ture of light have evolved. One follows the reasoning of Py... goras that light consists of tiny ... of matter The other holds that light is a form of wave motion transmitted through a hypothetical substance which fills all space Such a substance, referred to as the ether, has defied detection, a fact which has caused some modern investigators to deny its existence.

However, light definitely acts sometimes like a wave motion, and at other times like streams of energy Thus, the question, "What is light?", is perhaps the most embarassing question that faces scientists today

Although scientists do not know exactly what light is, they do know how it acts and have devised many ways to put it to use in helping mankind

Southern Drawl, Eastern Accent Are Disappearing

The southern drawl and the "down east" accent may be headed the way of the dodo.

John Webster Spargo, professor of English at Northwestern university, believes all United States residents eventually will sound just like Mid westerners

Already the Middle West style is winning the battle of accents in Florida and California, he observed explaining

"Persons from the Midwest go in great numbers to other sections of the country to take up residence, establish businesses or for extended vacations Instead of adopting the regional accents of the states to which they migrate, they impose their own type of speech"

Although regretting the eventual disappearance of colorful and distinctive modes of speech in the United States, Spargo pointed out that one of the values of varying dialects is that they are interesting phenomena witnessing to the prevalence of change in the language "English is changing constantly, and more rapidly than most other languages," he said.

Good Tools Pay

The key to easy gardening is often good tools A few simple, lightweight, good quality tools are best for home gardening. Poorly designed equipment made of cheap or low grade materials can increase the amount of work required to care for the garden For the small garden the necessary tools are a shovel or long handled spading fork, a steel bow rake, a 7-inch common hoe, a strong cord for laying off rows and enough hose to reach all parts of the plot. A trowel is useful in transplanting but not essential In large gardens covering 2,000 square feet or more, a sturdy wheel hoe is worthwhile. It takes the place of the common hoe and covers the larger area with less effort. Tools should be well cared for A thorough cleaning and a wipe with an oiled rag will prevent rusting. Hand hoes and wheeled implements should be kept sharp for greatest efficiency of operation.

Eliminate Barn Hazards

Barns are the principal work centers for the daily farm chores. Suitable places should be found for storage of tools, boards and sacks that have accumulated in the barn and obstruct doors and alleyways. Loose materials should not be hung in rafters -this is particularly true of pitchforks shovels, scrapers and brooms Electric light switches should be dusted off and cobwebs removed. If lanterns must be used, hooks or wires on which to hang them will reduce fire hazards. Stairways that have been used as feed chutes are danger spots. Loose straw or hay makes footing uncertain. Hay loft ladders should extend well above the loft floor Checking potential hazards to safety can mean greater work efficiency and less time lost because of accidents

Cycle of Earth

Earth is closest to the sun, or in perihelion, on January 4 when the distance between the two is about 91,450,000 miles. Aphelion, when the earth is farthest from the sun, occurs July 5 when the distance between earth and sun is 94,550,000 miles. When earth is nearest sun winter occurs in the northern hemisphere. This is due to the fact that the seasons are caused chiefly by the inclination of the earth's axis, the northern end of which is turned away from the sun in winter and toward the sun in summer.

...of Dresses Prolongs Wear and Improves Looks

The care you give your dress, whether it is cotton, silk or rayon, has much to do with the way it looks and how long it wears, according to extension clothing specialists.

The best of seams will give way if you yank or pull hard enough when you take off and put on a dress. The dress fabric also may break If a seam rip or hole appears, mend right away before the damage gets any worse. Many holes and worn places can be darned so the mend is hardly noticeable. When patching a print dress, match the patch with the print so it will be less noticeable. A stitch in time will catch a loose button and may save you from having to replace a whole set.

Give your dresses enough closet room so they will not be crowded. A little open space between each garment helps to hold the press and preserves the fabric from getting that stringy look. Hang up your dresses as soon as you take them off.

Unless your closet is well ventilated, hang a dress where air can circulate freely through it before you put it away. This is important in hot weather when frocks are often damp with perspiration.

Before you hang a garment be sure to fasten it enough so it will not sag out of shape. Remove the belt from the dress and hang it separately.

When traveling, pack dresses loosely with tissue paper between folds and in sleeves. Unpack and hang up dresses as soon as you can.

Experiments With Silage Show Fallacy of Maxim

For dairymen the well-worn maxim on making hay when the sun shines can be revised to "make money by not making hay." Make silage instead, from first and second crops of alfalfa. The gain works out as the result of actual experience at the research center of the department of agriculture at Beltsville, Md., in the harvesting of alfalfa for dairy cows.

Even with ideal haying weather, the farmer who cures his hay in the field loses more than a third of the protein between the cutting and the feeding The protein is destroyed by the various steps in haying and storing the alfalfa. Some loss is unavoidable, but it can be cut in half if the alfalfa is stored in the silo instead of in the haymow. In one test at Beltsville analysis showed a loss of 264 pounds of protein to the acre from alfalfa stored as hay and 127 pounds loss when made into silage.

The bureau of dairy industry, which cooperated with the bureau of plant industry, soils and agricultural engineering in making these tests, converts the value of the 137 pounds of protein saved to its equivalent in linseed oil meal. This would be $15.60 when the meal is selling at 4 cents a pound.

Painting Concrete

Rubber base paints now are frequently used for painting concrete floors and basements because they are resistant to alkali which would adversely affect some other types of paint. Before applying rubber base paints to a concrete floor, any old paint should be removed with paint remover, all residue from the paint remover washed off with turpentine or mineral spirits, and the floor thoroughly dried out. A further precaution before painting this type of cellar floors, either new or old, is to etch them with muriatic acid solution in the proportion of about one pint of acid to one gallon of water If the acid solution is used the floor should be well rinsed to remove traces of the acid and then thoroughly dried before painting. Two coats of the rubber base paint then can be applied, being careful that the first coat is dry before the second coat is applied.

Light to Convert Oils

Petroleum compounds soon may be converted into rubbers, plastics and industrially important compounds by the aid of light, Prof. Keith J Laidler of the Catholic University of America believes. Photo-sensitized chemical reactions, stimulated by metallic vapors which have absorbed energy from light, can remove hydrogen atoms and molecules from hydrocarbon compounds and change them into active olefins or into polymers, which are chains of molecules typical of rubbers and plastics. Zinc, cadmium and mercury, because they absorb light readily, will bring about chemical reactions which vary markedly with the particular hydrocarbon employed, the metal carrier, and the wave length or color of the light.

Aged In Minutes

Recently scientists discovered a process which, they claim, will make it possible to "age" whisky in a matter of hours or even minutes—by sound. According to these experts, research has shown that the maturing of whisky is the result of a series of chemical reactions between substances in the spirit, oxygen in the air and other elements which reach the liquor through the wooden casks. Waves of sound of very high frequencies, it is claimed, greatly quicken such reactions, and hence it should be possible before very long to mature whisky in short order

Cage Pairings Made

The Hanncock County schoolmasters' club met at the Hull cafe dining room and made pairings for the annual county basketball tournament to be played late in January.

Nick Venechuk Met With The County Women's Committee

Nick Venechuk, Dairy Quality fieldman, met with the county Women's committee at the regular November meeing. Mr. Venechuk told the women that he is willing to co-operate with the women's Family Living program. He will be available for talk and demonstrations on the importance of clean cream, care of cream, and keeping it a nigh quality product.

Mr. Venechuk will be asked to attend Women's township meetings to give the people in the county information that will aid them in producing the high quality product that the consumer wants to buy.

Recent Rains Not Enough To Carry Perennials Through The Winter

Even though recent rains fell in Hancock County the past week or two perennial plants including grass, evergreens, berry plants and ornamental shrubs are in serious danger of being drouth killed this winter if folks don't give them a good soaking, Paul Henderson, county extension director, warned this week.

Perennials don't have much of a chance of getting through the winter unless the ground is wet to a depth of 12 inches when winter sets in. Recent rains have fallen short of that mark, Henderson reminded.

Larry Grove, extension horticulturist at Iowa State College, says that one thorough soaking will do the trick. He recommends applying water when the temperature is low at the time plants are ready to go into a dormant condition.

Little Time Left To Finish 1948 Conservation Practices

With winter not many weeks away there is little time left in which to complete conservation practices under the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program, says the Hancock County Agricultural Conservation Committee. They urge farmers who have unfinished practices to use the remaining time to complete their conservation jobs.

Early frost annd bad weather often end conservation work before projects are completed. Every bit of conservation work can be completed will mean that much more soil saved, or water conserved.

They urge farmers who have conservation work to report their projects to the county Agricultural Conservation Program office. Sales slips, receipts, weight tickets or other required evidence should be presented.

"This kind of cooperation on the part of the farmers of Hancock County will help speed up the work of the county office and insure earlier payments to farmers of the Government's share of the cost of the approved conservation practices," said the Hancock County Conservation Committee.

We specialize in printing Wedding Announcements

Squirrel Season Closes November 15

The 1948 squirrel season closes November 15, after what has been described as a good shooting season. Bag limit on squirrels is six with a possession limit of twelve.

Trapping Season Opened On Some Fur Animals

The 1948 trapping season on raccoon, skunk, opossum, civet cat, and badger opened at 12:00 noon, November 10, and it has now become legal to hunt raccoon with dogs.

The muskrat and mink season does not open until December 1 and is closed in the following counties this year: Harrison, Shelby, Audubon, Guthrie, Dallas, Pottawattamie, Cass, Adair, Madison, Warren, Marion, Mills, Montgomery, Adams, Union, Lucas, Clarke, Monroe, Wapello, Jefferson, Henry, Fremont, Page, Taylor, Ringgold, Decatur, Appanoose, Wayne, Davis, Van Buren.

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res. Phone 133W2
Phone 133 — Garner, Iowa

THANK YOU

I owe the people of Hancock County a lot more than I will ever be able to repay. You have been kind to me in the past and again on November 2, of this year.

I want you to know that I appreciate that kindness, for without it I never could be elected Sheriff.

L. M. BROWER
Sheriff

We Will Give Away

$500.00

IN MERCHANDISE

We appreciate the fine patronage given us by our customers during the past year and will give away the merchandise listed below. Call at the store for details on how you may receive one of these nice gifts FREE.

We Will Give Away These Fine Gifts:

Majestic Console Radio and Record Player	$210.95
Portable G. E. Radio, standard and short wave	$ 99.50
Universal Electric Bed Blanket	$ 39.95
Eureka Cordless Electric Flat Iron	$ 19.95
2-Slice Electric Toaster	$ 13.45
3 Kinkless Extension Cords, each valued at	$ 2.95

ASSORTMENT OF MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS

Also about FIFTY other miscellaneous items including kitchen cutlery, utensils, flashlights, soap, etc. etc. All FREE!

BUY YOUR APPLIANCES HERE!

We have a large line of merchandise: Refrigerators, Deep Freezes, Electric and Gas Ranges, Washing Machines, Ironers, Console and Table Radios, Floor Lamps, Popular Phonograph Records, Automatic Water Heaters, Water Softeners . . . in fact a complete line of everything Electrical at prices you can afford to pay. Buy here and save on your Christmas Shopping

All of the above gifts will be given away at our store on Wednesday evening, December 22 at 9:00 o'clock.

JOSTEN APPLIANCE

SHELLANE GAS — Phone 149-R2 — KLEMME, IOWA

THANK YOU

Thanks sincerely for your support.

FERN PECK KATTER

Recorder

I WISH TO THANK . . .

my many friends for their support at the general election.

Your vote of confidence is greatly appreciated.

I will strive to fulfill the trust you have placed in me.

Sincerely,

CLINTON D. DANIELS

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

To Dunk or Not To Dunk?

Dunking doughnuts is Sober Hopkins' favorite morning pastime ... and for a long time Ma Hopkins has been trying to break him of the habit. Feels it sets a bad examp' for the children.

So one morning she puts a hea frosting of chocolate on the doug nuts ... figuring that will stop him. Sober thinks it over for a while and then: Dunk! Taste? Smile!! And Sober compliments the missus on the lovely mocha flavor!

I guess there'll always be two schools of thought: to dunk or not to dunk. But from where I sit, it's a matter of personal choice and taste—like some folks prefer beer to cider, ale to beer. And the less we criticize those differences of taste, the better.

In fact, Ma Hopkins got so curious about the flavor of chocolate-covered doughnuts dunked in coffee, that she tried it herself. Now—you've guessed it—she's a daily dunker, too!

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

IOWA CHRISTIAN OVERSEAS PROGRAM HELD MEETING THURSDAY AT GARNER

Rev Calvin Grosshuesch Of Klemme Presided

The Iowa Christian Overseas Program is taking shape in Hancock County. At a meeting held at the courthouse in Garner on Thursday evening the plan was outlined by the Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch of Klemme who was the convenor and presided.

The program which has the endorsement of all the church groups, Catholic, Rural Life, Lutheran World Relief, Church World Service, Farm Bureau, Extension Service, Department of Public Instruction, Farmers Union and various other civic groups, will reach every farm and urban home in the county according to Hilary Greiman, who was named Chairman of the Program in the county. Other officers elected to assist Greiman with carrying out the details of the solicitation program are: Vice Chairman, The Reverand R. D. Kitterman of Kanawha; Reverend Hugo Beyer of Woden; and the Reverend Calvin Grosshuesch of Klemme. E. H. Olsen of Britt was elected secretary of the organization, Martin Barz of Klemme will serve as treasurer and Fred C. Missal was appointed publicity director.

Township chairman are being appointed in all townships and every farm home in the county will be solicited for donations of corn and soybeans between the date of November 21 to 28 inclusive. The commodities listed are to be assembled by Dec. 7, at depots to be selected at several vantage points in Hancock county. The Hancock county goal is three car loads of corn and beans. These will be attached to the train being assembled about December 15, to be shipped to the Port of Philadelphia for shipment overseas. The program will operate similar to the Friendship train program immediately following the cessationt of hostilities.

Two educational films "Seed of Destiny" and "This Road We Walk," will be used in acquainting the public with the program and the need for it. Chairamn Greiman requests that all Hancock County citizens acknowledge with thankful hearts the bountiful blessings we enjoy in Free America and manifest this thanks with a generous response.

FRED C. MISSAL

SHAMROCK NEWS

Editor ..... Iris Rosendahl
Asst. Ed. ..... Donna Fjetland
Hi School Rep. ..... Maurice Trumbell
Grade Rep. ..... Isabelle Gibbs
Sports ..... Robert Baack

HIGH SCHOOL HI-LIGHTS

The past week the high school has been busy trying to sell magazines, and competition between the two teams, (Army and Navy) has been great. The Navy was trailing but finally has sold some magazines and now everyone is beginning to wonder who will win since the Navy is catching up with the Army.

A prominent feature in school now days is the movies which have been shown to many classes. These movies have proved to have much educational value to Bookkeeping, Physics, General Science, Home Economics, and many other classes. We wonder if included in these educational values is the time off from our regular routine classes.

It seems as if the Seniors have been having fun in American History with Mr. Ahrenkiel gone two times. But it looks as if he is going to make up for lost time because a nice little test is coming up soon.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Norma Early, our early bird of the class, is our topic of interview this week. She was born near Goodell on July 16, 1931. Her favorite pastime is reading (not comic books, we hope). Mathematics is her favorite subject and we hear that she does quite well in it too. Norma's hobby is talking about photographs and we hear that one of the photographs is of a certain senior girl's legs. He ambition is to be a beekkeeper and to have a handsome boss. "Life Gets Tedious Don't It?" is her favorite song as we can see by the pace she sets. She only has one thing against K. H. S. and that is not being able to chew gum, but we think she does enough of that anyway.

INQUIRING REPORTER

What was one of your embarrassing moments?

Mrs. Andreae: The first day I started teaching at Klemme when everyone stared at me.

Mildred Meinders: When I spilled coffee on a teacher's skirt.

Unknown: When I said something in my sleep that embarrassed me.

Alice Meyer: When I was a freshman I was going out to see a baseball game when my skirt caught on the door and I fell down.

KINDERGARTEN NEWS

We have several pets in our room. We have two turtles and their names are Timothy and Diddle-did. Hoppy is the name of our canary. Goldie, Tippy and Toppy are the names of the Gold fish. We take turns caring for our pets.

We are having a unit on Farm Animals. We are coloring pictures of farm animals and are going to put them in a booklet.

MENU

November 15:
Juice
Riced Potatoes and Gravy
Slice of Cold Meat
Carrot Strips
Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Apple Crisp
Milk

November 16:
Juice
Vegetable Hamburger and Bun
Buttered Peas
Pudding
Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Milk

November 17:
Juice
Bean Soup
Lettuce and Dressing
Peach Upside-down Cake
Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Milk

November 18:
Juice
Scalloped Potatoes
Baked Beans
Tomatoes
Orange Half
Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Milk

November 19:
Juice
Potatoes
Salmon Salad
Cabbage Slaw
Apple Sauce
Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Milk

AROUND IOWA

TREE BATTLE

When B. A. Holm of near Mediapolis lost a court fight to save the tree bordering his farm, he arranged settlement out of court. The county agreed to leave the trees if Holm will keep them trimmed and assume liability for damages.

KILLED BY HOGS

19-month-old Raymond Allen Larrington of near Lucas was killed last week, when he slipped through the fence into the hog-pen and was madly mauled by the animals. He died after being rushed to the hospital.

LOST WAY

Donald Oltrogge, 10 year old Sumner youth, had quite a bicycle ride recently. Out to see the country-side, he lost his way and wound up in Fayette. On leaving Fayette, he got lost again and wound up in West Union. Back he pedaled to Fayette, where police questioned him and got word to his parents just in time to stop a mass search by 300 persons who had gathered at the Oltrogge home to hunt for the missing boy.

SAVED

As Donald Brent was grinding oats on his farm near Havelock, the oats stopped running. Climbing to the top of the bin he saw the small hand of his five-year old son sticking out of the top of the oats, into which he had fallen. Revived, the youngster said, "Daddy, I was trying to help."

PUZZLE EXPERT

At Forest City, Mrs. Nels Nelson celebrated her 75th birthday by working a few crossword puzzles. She picked up the hobby some 30 years ago and can work the average puzzle in 10 minutes. Her big problem, she says, is finding puzzles hard enough to be enjoyable.

LOST HIS LIFE

Crawling through a fence with a loaded shot-gun cost LeRoy Kittleson, 22, of St. Ansgar his life last week. He was on a hunting expedition at the time and was able to make his way home but died the following day.

COON

Two persons who went outa-hunting captured some game in unusual fashion at Fredericksburg. Rev. Frank Deaver and Rev. D. D. Harner, while searching for squirrels, pulled a 30-pound coon out of a hollow tree. They set it free.

MARRIED PLAYMATE

At Gladbrook, Henry Engel recently married a child-hood playmate, Annamarie Dohrn, of Germany, who came here with her nine-year old daughter Sept. 16. The former Mrs. Dohrn lost her husband during the war.

LOST BOY

The story of a lost boy near Genoa had a happy ending last week. Small Gary Elliott, 5, wandered away from his home and was found late at night in the woods about 2½ miles from home, quite unconcerned and still accompanied by three faithful family dogs who had stayed with him until help came.

SPANISH RACKET

Miles Chesebro, Shell Rock, has received a letter inviting him to contribute funds to a "prisoner" in Mexico City. If he accepts, he has been promised one-third of a $449,000 cache in U. S. currency now "deposited" in a U. S. customs house. Mr. Chesebro is going to pass up this guilt-edge opportunity.

DIES

Pete Binder, 68, of near Granville, while unloading corn, was either caught on the machinery of a corn silo and dragged into the pit, or suffered a heart attack and fell into it. His lifeless body was found in the pit of the silo.

FIFTY YEARS

At Shellsburg, Rutherford Barnes, has recently completed 50 years of active service in the practice of pharmacy. The 71 year old druggist is the oldest active business man at Shellsburg.

AIRPORT

A $35,000 improvement program will be under way soon at the Jefferson airport. Through farming operations of the airport grounds, the city's airport commission now has enough funds to match a $17,000 federal grant.

DUST AND DIRT IN CREAM CANS

Farmers, you are all trying to keep your cream clean you strain your milk and cream, keep all your milking equipment clean, brush and wash your cows utters before milking, keep your cream in cooling tank, and still you get a can of rejected cream back, you all wonder, well, just what is the reason why I got this cream back.

Here is the reason for about 75 percent of the rejected cream. It all lies in where you store and if you wash that can that goes to the creamery. Usually that can sets around for a day or two in the middle of the yard or in a building and the doors are left open, and this can collects a lot of dirt and dust, and when you pour your cream into this dirty can, all your efforts have failed. Let's wash this can before using, take about a gallon of hot water and a little wetting agent such as Vel, Dreft, or Swirl, and with a brush wash this can before using. Pour your clean cream in a clean can, keep the lid on tight in a good cooling tank, and the next time you get a sediment test back on your cream, it should be much better.

If you dont want it, sell it with a Times Want Adv.

Soil Conservation Service Moves Office

On November 1, the Soil Conservation Service moved from its former quarters in the AAA office, to a new location in the southwest corner of the Avery theater building in Garner.

Friday of each week will be office day reports Vernon Moss, farm planner for Hancock County. This schedule will be followed as far as possible to provide a day each week when farmers can find the office open.

For Quick Truck Delivery On

D.X PRODUCTS

Phone 149-R2

ERNEST HENSCHEN

Klemme, Iowa

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS

Osteopathis Physician

Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment

Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

THANK YOU

I take this means of extending my appreciation of the fine support of my friends in the recent election.

To continue to be worthy of your support will be my aim during the coming term.

RUTH HUGHES

Clerk of the District Court

THANK YOU

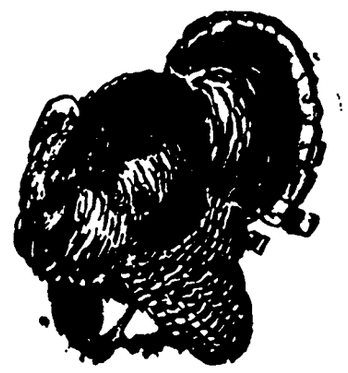
I want to thank all my friends for their generous support during the recent campaign.

I assure you I will do my best to merit your confidence.

ROY L. McMILLIN

County Treasurer

Garner American Legion



GIFFORD OLSON POST

Presents Its Eleventh Annual

Feather Party

AT THE BOCK MOTORS - OIL - TRANSPORTS

(Pontiac Garage)

At Garner Beginning At 7:30 P. M.

Saturday, Nov. 20th

TURKEYS - DUCKS - GEESE - CHICKENS

EVERYONE WELCOME—FUN FOR ALL

The Auxiliary Will Serve Lunches

When you compare, you're bound to decide

CHEVROLET IS BUILT TO SERVE BETTER—LONGER

—and to lead in value as it does in nationwide registrations

FIRST in Knee-Action Riding Smoothness

You get a much smoother, safer ride in Chevrolet because it brings you the original and outstanding Unitized Knee-Action Ride—proved and perfected during 14 years of experience in building Knee-Action units—and exclusive to Chevrolet and higher-priced cars!

FIRST in Valve-in-Head Performance with Economy

Chevrolet brings you the enviable performance, dependability and economy of the World's Champion Valve-in-Head Engine, which has delivered more miles of satisfaction to more owners than any other power-plant. Valve-in-Head is found elsewhere only in costlier cars.

Yes, people everywhere agree that

CHEVROLET LEADS

in strong, sturdy construction

...in durability and dependability...in

BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST PRICES

FIRST in this Fourfold Safety Protection

Chevrolet is the one low-priced car with the fourfold safety-protection of Fisher Unisteel Construction, safety plate glass in all windows, Unitized Knee-Action Ride and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes. Another combination of features found elsewhere only in costlier cars.

FIRST in Tasteful Beauty

You'll take real pride in owning this car with the world-famous Body by Fisher. It's the body, that's better by far, and more beautiful by far, inside and out, in hardware and upholstery as in line and color. And it, too, is exclusive to Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

Compare Values!... Compare Prices!...

CHEVROLET—and Only CHEVROLET—IS FIRST!

GARNER MOTOR SALES

GARNER, IOWA

ou Bet - - t's Good!

Just try some of our delicious cinnamon rolls.

AND, MAY WE ADD

or good health and good eating — that you be ure to include fresh bakery goods at every eal. And, here's the place to get them. Here ou will find a treat for the whole family.

CAKES, COOKIES, PIES, ROLLS AND READ BAKED FRESH EVERY DAY. They are ll tasty and nourishing — if it is bakery goods, e have them.

FINE QUALITY AT THE RIGHT PRICE

Garner Bakery

tto Lohman, Prop. Phone Garner 134

QUARTER HORSE

Back in 1944 Fred Shields of Montgomery County brought in some "quarter-horses" from Texas, now has his 725 acre farm well populated with them. The quarter-horse, called America's greatest "cow pony," gets its name from the fact that it is a speedy runner, as its over a quarter-mile racing course.

JUMPED

Four Decorah boys jumped for their lives last week—and made it. Their car stalled on the railroad track in front of a fast Milwaukee passenger train and the boys leaped out with seconds only to spare. Lloyd Holven was driver of the automobile.

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

NEW DRAFT BOARD IN HANCOCK BEGINS WORK

Oscar E. Johnson of Kanawha, Guy McGinnis of Britt, and Clinton D. Daniels of Garner have resigned from the Hancock County selective service board and Thursday evening 3 new members were sworn in. They are Lyle W. Ruka, Kanawha, who will serve as chairman; Kenneth F. Broughton of Britt and Ernest A. Haes of Garner. All 3 nnew members are world war II veterans. Miss Evelyn Denny of Britt is clerk to the board.

Entertained At New Home

Mrs. Louisa Knoke entertained the following to dinner Sunday at her new home:

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Erdman and Harold, Mrs. Ed Schimp and Larry, Mrs. Minnie Koplin and children, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mourlam and Donnie all of Belmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ausborn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Erdman, Mr. and Mrs. Irvan Ausborn of Klemme, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Groh and family of Livermore. In the evening they played games.

KLEMME FOLKS ENJOYED TRIP ON WAY TO FLORIDA

The Times received a letter from Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Johnson telling about the nice trip they had on their way to Florida to spend the winter. They were accompanied by their daughter, Clarice and Mr. Wm. Stille.

From Klemme they first drove east and visited Buffalo, New York, Washington, D. C. and the Gettysburg Battlefield and all other places of historical interest in that region. They enjoyed the wonderful scenery through the Blue Ridge Mountains and arrived at their destination, Ruskin, Florida where the Johnsons have cabins and where the party will spend the winter.

All extend greetings to their friends and relatives here.

HELLO FOLKS

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Blanchett of Klemme are the parents of twin daughters, weight 5 lbs. 6 oz. and 6 lbs. 14 oz. born at the Mercy hospital in Mason City on Tuesday, November 9th. They also have two other children in their family.

Taking Inventory

The Northern Lumber Co. is this week taking their annual inventory of stock. Officials of the Company from Estherville came Monday to assist in the work.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE—1948 K-9 International ½ Ton Pickup Truck. Northern Implement Co. (1tc)

FOR SALE—TWO GOOD LOTS. Sarah Goll. (2tp)

FOR SALE—GLOBE CIRCULating heater, inquire at The Times Office. (2tp)

WE HAVE A WIDE ASSORTment of Christmas Cards. Stop in at The Times Office today.

FOR SALE — ONE STOKER left in stock, a real buy on this last one. Urbatsch Hardware & Appliance, Goodell, Phone 58531. (2tc)

FOR SALE — PURE BRED Black Poland China Boars. Alvin Goll. (2tp)

FOR SALE — FRIGIDAIRE Electric Range. Excellent condition. Price reasonable Stan Bulka. (1tc,

FOR SALE — BOY'S TENNIS Shoes size 8½. Like new, Reasonable.
Mrs. Verner Lewis. (1tc)

FOR SALE—WE HAVE QUAKer and Silent Sioux oil burning heaters in stock, see us for a real buy or trade-in. Can furnish both circulating and forced draft fans with heaters. Urbatsch Hardware & Appliance, Goodell, Phone 58531. (2tc)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal. We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO., Goodell, Iowa.

FOR SALE— THE G. S. C. S. of the Methodist Church are taking orders now for Christmas Cards at $1 00 per box. (tfc)

HOUSE FOR SALE — THREE room house, insulated, wired, floor-coverings, built-in cupboards, double sink and porch. 4½ miles south of Britt. Phone 5301 Britt, Don Gifford. (2tp)

Miscellaneous

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident. (Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS— ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired. Expert workmanship, reasonable prices. Times Office. (tfc)

Card Of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

I want to take this means of expressing my sincere thanks to all who sent me cards, letters, flowers, and gifts. and who visited me while I was in the hospital. and also at home.
Mrs. Esther Barz. (1tp)

Isotopes Represent Gains In Medicine and Chemistry

Atomic weapons produced during the war were laboratory products experimental devices not only designed but also largely fabricated and assembled by the scientists who conceived them at Los Alamos.

With the ending of the war came an interval of readjustment during which weapon development was carried on under very difficult conditions. It became clear that for the longer-term operation, a much broader base for operations was needed to insure against "bottlenecking" at any stage.

During its first year, therefore, the weapon program was directed toward converting from unit fabrication to a different scale of weapon production. This necessitated basic changes in organization and planning including:

Expansion of production facilities, to effect a continuous flow of component parts.

Development of new designs, stemming partly from work done during the war.

Improvement and standardization in the design of component parts.

Standardization of procedures — and provision of standard instructions—for storage and handling. Progress is being made towards these objectives.

Active isotopes for off-project distribution are produced at Oak Ridge. The stable isotopes are separated in the magnetic machines built during the war to extract U235 from common uranium. The radioactive isotopes are manufactured by irradiation of materials in reactors constructed for the production of plutonium. Thus, isotopes are by-products of the manufacture of the atomic bomb.

If the development of atomic energy had produced nothing else, its cost would have been balanced within a few years by the gains in knowledge that the nation is making with isotopes—in medicine, chemistry, industry, and agriculture. The atomic energy commission's aim is to make isotopes available to all qualified users in quantities as large as can be profitably used, in variety as great as can be developed, and at the lowest possible cost.

Surinam, or Dutch Guiana, To Offer DP's Farm Haven

Surinam, where some 30,000 European refugees soon may get their chance to start life anew, provided three-fifths of the bauxite for America's stepped-up production of aluminum during World War II. But farming, not mining, will be the livelihood for families resettled in the Netherlands colony on South America's shoulder.

Known also as Dutch Guiana, Surinam has room for colonization. One-sixth larger in area than New York state, it contains fewer than 200,000 people, notes the National Geographic Society. By contrast, the Netherlands itself holds nine million people in less than one-fourth Surinam's area.

Wedged between British Guiana on the west and French Guiana on the east, Surinam has about 250 miles of Atlantic coast. Its farmable area is virtually limited to the low coastal plain, widening from a ten-mile inland reach along the Maroni river on the eastern boundary to 50 miles at the Courantyne river on the west.

Much of this plain is swamped at high tide. Dutch colonists, sea fighters by heritage, have built dikes at the mouths of several rivers to protect the rich soil where agriculture is concentrated.

These cultivated regions, planted chiefly in sugar, coffee, and rice, total less than 200 square miles. However, much larger areas could be reclaimed. Behind the coastal lowland strip is the so-called savanna belt, 30 to 40 miles wide. Savannas (treeless plains) occur here and there, but their sandy soil is poorly suited for farming. Forestland is dominant.

The biggest portion by far is the thickly forested interior rising to mountain peaks over 4,000 feet high. Descendants of Negro slaves and American Indians are scattered along its rivers. They live partly by logging and collecting balata, a base for chewing gum.

What Is Nylon?

Contrary to the common idea, nylon is not a single substance. It is a new and basic class of materials with many of the qualities of metals, plastics and rubber. It can be made in different degrees of toughness, hardness, flexibility, solubility and color. The individual filaments of nylon yarn are cylindrical, smooth and uniform and act differently from most other fibers.

The commonest textile form of nylon is made from two chemical compounds: hexamethylene diamine and adipic acid. The diamine is made from coal (coke), air and water; from cyclohexane, a petroleum product; or from furfural, an agricultural by-product. Adipic acid is made either from coke, air and water or from cyclohexane. The diamine and acid are combined to form "nylon salt," which gives molten nylon when heated. This is extruded through fine orifices to form filaments which are stretched to between four and seven times their original length and twisted into a thread.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Phone 12, we'll take your news.

Don't miss attending the Bazaar at the church Nov. 10th.

Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Anderson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker and Mr. and Mrs. Benn Coobs to dinner Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Buntenbach entertained a number of relatives and friends at a turkey dinner on Tuesday evening in honor of their son Edward Jr's. 21st birthday. A special cake was baked for the occasion. The evening was spent playing cards.

Mrs. Emil Pringnitz of Kanawha, and Mrs. Art Stark of Columbus, Wisconsin visited at the E. G. Beier home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Stark is a cousin of Mrs. Pringnitz and George, Art, Vic and Edd. Schoenwetter.

Edna, Lester and Curtis Bredlow of Thornton were Sunday dinner guests at the E. G. Beier home.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lemke and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beier were supper guests at the Will Beier home at Goodell Saturday evening. It was Will Beier's birthday anniversary.

Treat an empty gun as if it were loaded.

Meeting Postponed

The Jolly Workers Club meeting wil be held at the home of Edith Kramer on Tuesday, Nov. 16th instead of November 10th. Mae Blumer is co-hostess.

Plow Your Garden This Fall For Best Results

Early fall is an excellent time to collect soil samples to be tested for lime and fertilizer needs You can now spot the fields did not produce so well this year and may be deficient in lime or fertilizer, says Walter Fitts, head of the Soil Testing Laboratory at Iowa State College

Hogs from the 1948 spring pig crop probably will be held longer than usual so they can be fed on new corn and to heavier weights, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

We specialize in printing Wedding Announcemen's.

PUBLIC SALE

I have quit farming and gone into business I will sell all my personal property at Public Sale without reserve at the farm ½ mile east of Klemme on Wednesday, Nov. 17

SALE TO START AT 1:00 P. M.

18 Head Of Livestock 18

HORSES

ay Gelding wt about 1900
Chestnut Gelding wt. about 1800

SHEEP

10 Head of Ewes
6 Head of Ewe Lambs

Farm Machinery, Etc.

F-20 FARMALL TRACTOR
WITH CULTIVATOR

1 2-Bottom 16-in. Little Genius Plow
1 Bradley Spreader on Rubber
John Deere Corn Planter
McCormick Deering Hay Loader
Emerson Side Delivery Rake
McCormick Deering 6-ft Mower
Spring Tooth Harrow
4-Section Steel Drag
Boss Harrow
10-in. Hammermill
8-ft. McCormick Deering Grain Binder
McCormick Deering Corn Binder
Wagon on Rubber, with box
Steel Wheel Wagon
McCormick Deering Cream Separator
13-inch Norge Heater
1 Set Tractor Chains
Silage Rack

Combine
McCORMICK DEERING 4FT.

2 16-ft. Feed Bunks
40-ft. Extension Ladder
28-ft. Extension Ladder
Macomb Brooder Stove
35-bu. Self Feeder
20 A-Type Hog Houses, used 2 years
Oil Burning Tank Heater
Cow Boy Tank Heater
Set Back Pad Harness
Tractor Scraper
70-gal. Hog Waterer
Electric Chicken Waterer
2 Chicken Feeders
80-gal. Gas Barrel
Rotary Water Pump
100-ft. Garden Hose
2 Tackles, Vise, Chain
Separator Jack, Etc.

1500 Bales Of Good Mixed Hay

TERMS—CASH. No property to be removed until settled for.

Glen Terhufen, Prop.

First National Bank, Klemme, Clerk

A. REEMTSMA, Auctioneer

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

NOVEMBER 10, 11
Wednes. - Thursday
BEWARE OF THE MAN WHO WEARS . .
THE CHECKED COAT
TOM CONWAY
And NOREEN NASH

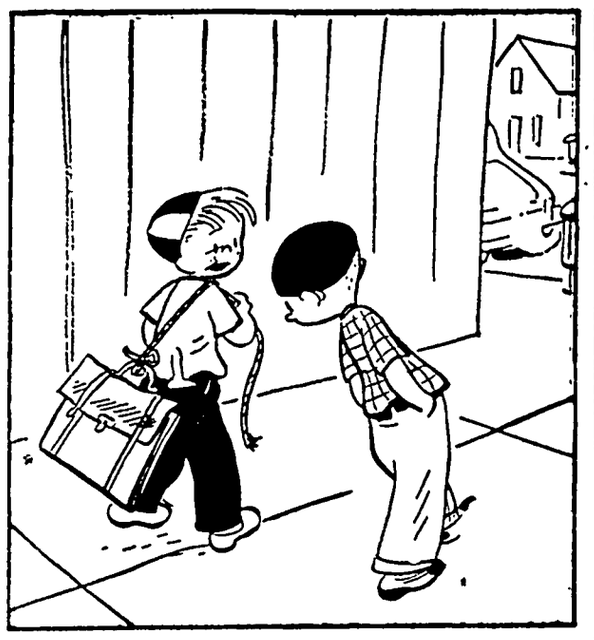
NOVEMBER 12, 13
Friday - Saturday
A STORY OF A HORSE!
BLACK EAGLE
Starring
WILLIAM BISHOP
And
VIRGINIA PATTON

NOVEMBER 14, 15, 16
Sun. - Mon. - Tues.
THRILLING BEYOND WORDS!
ON AN ISLAND WITH YOU
Starring
ESTHER WILLIAMS
Peter Lawford, Jimmy Durante, Cyd Charisse, Ricardo Montalban, Xavier Cugat.

NOVEBER 17, 18
Wednes. - Thursday
A BUMSTEAD KNOCK-OUT!
BLONDIE'S REWARD
Starring
PENNY SINGLETON
ARTHUR LAKE

Cross Town
by Roland Coe



"IT'S FOR STUFF THAT WON'T FIT IN MY POCKETS."

Bobby Sox
by Marty Links

"MOM, IS THERE SOME OTHER WAY TO CATCH A MAN BESIDES BEAUTY, BRAINS, CHARM OR MONEY?"

GAGS
BEST LAUGHS OF THE WEEK

INKLINGS — By Jarvis

"NEW HERE, AREN'T YOU?"

NANCY — By Ernie Bushmiller

LITTLE REGGIE — By Margarita

NO MORE CANDY REGGIE— IT'S BAD FOR YOUR TEETH!
I NEVER EAT CANDY!
AND YOUR AUNT PEARL HAS BEAUTIFUL TEETH!
THEY'RE ABSOLUTELY PERFECT!
WELL GEE THEY OUGHT TO BE....
...SHE PAID ENOUGH FOR THEM!

MUTT AND JEFF — By Bud Fisher

OLD MR. GRUNCH HAS TO BE CAREFUL WHAT HE EATS SO HE NEEDS AN OFFICIAL FOOD TASTER! IT PAYS $60 A WEEK!
SAY! WHEN DO I START?
OH, YOU CAN START RIGHT NOW!
WHO'S THAT MUTT?
OH, THAT'S THE FORMER OFFICIAL FOOD TASTER HE'S DEAD!
TOO BAD! HOW'D HE DIE, MUTT?
POISON! -- YOU SEE MR. GRUNCH HAS MANY ENEMIES --- WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
I AIN'T HUNGRY!

JITTER — By Arthur Pointer

WOW THIS LANDSCAPE WILL GET A RIBBON, SURE, AT THE CAMERA CLUB!
....CAN'T WAIT TO GET HOME AND DEVELOP IT!
THIS RED LIGHT DOESN'T SHOW MUCH BUT I MUSN'T FOG IT WITH ANYTHING STRONGER.
OHHHHMM

REG'LAR FELLERS — By Gene Byrnes

I REALLY CAN'T AFFORD TO WINDOW-SHOP IN A JOINT LIKE THIS, ZOOLIE -- I'M OUTA MY CLASS!
NOTHING OVER $25,000.00
SPIFFANY'S
EVEN THESE WINDOWS ARE OVER MY HEAD -- IT'S BEEN A TOUGH YEAR!
NOTHING (MUCH) OVER 10¢
5¢ & 10
AIN'TCHA GOT A BARGAIN BASEMENT?
WOT?
UNCLE MIKE'S PUSHCART MART
NOTHING OVER 1¢

SUNNYSIDE — by Clark S. Haas

VIRGIL — By Len Klein

WEEKLY RIB! — By Roy Mathison

"WHY CAN'T I GIVE IT TO 'BUTCH' MYSELF?"

NEXT DOOR — By Gluyas Williams

FRED PEPPLEY HAS A SINKING FEELING WHEN HE SEES THAT HIS WIFE IS AT THE STATION TO MEET HIM, BECAUSE SINCE SHE GOT SO BUSY IN WOMEN'S CLUB AFFAIRS IT IS ONLY WHEN SHE WANTS HIM TO REARRANGE THE FURNITURE, NEEDS A NEW DRESS OR PLANS TO TAKE HIM TO A LECTURE TONIGHT THAT SHE HAS TIME TO MEET THE 5:15 AND DRIVE HIM HOME

BACK HOME AGAIN — By Ed Dodd

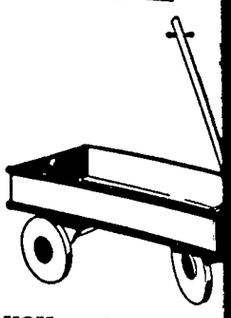
Sturdy Express Wag For Junior t



IF YOU want to make so boy happy and at the sa develop his interest in wo ing, build one of these st press wagons from the pattern offered below It i build.

Pattern is merely traced on specified. User then saws and exactly as and where the patter Full size patterns, step-by-st tions and numbered assembly l take all the mystery out of bu materials can be obtained at lumber yard No special too quired

Send 35c for Pattern No 40 Pattern Company. Dept. W ville, N Y

A cheerful Christmas the news that your C budget can be made to wonders with little time fort. Just write down th of friends who smoke; t a neighborhood dealer well stocked with gay c mild, flavorful Camel c and pound tins of mild Prince Albert Smoking T the National Joy Smo gifts come ready-dressed ful Christmas containe can even dispense with fussing with cards, du novel space provided sonalized season's gree the wrappings of both ite budget will like these gifts. And your friends tain to welcome holi Camels and Prince Alber

Doesn't seem mo sensible

ALL-VEGETA LAXATI

NATURE'S REMEDY (N LETS—A purely vegetable l relieve constipation without griping, sickening, perturb tions, and does not cause a NR—you will see the differ coated or candy coated—th is dependable, thorough, ye millions of NR's have prov 25c box and use as directed.

Nature's Rem NR TO-NIGHT TOM

FUSSY STOMACH? RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN TUMS THE

The Ads Guide Your Shopping

Beware Co From Common That HANG

Creomulsion relieves promp it goes right to the seat of to help loosen and expel phlegm and aid nature to heal raw, tender, inflamed mucous membranes. Tell yo to sell you a bottle of C with the understanding yo the way it quickly allays or you are to have your m

CREOMUL for Coughs, Chest Colds,

Relieves Distress of FEMALE WEAKNESS

Also Helps Build Up

Do female functional d turbances make you suffer nervous, irritable—at such try Lydia E. Pinkham's relieve such symptoms. Tablets are also very effe build up red blood in sim

Lydia E. Pinkham's T

That Nags Back

May Warn of Di Kidney Act

Modern life with its h irregular habits, impro drinking—its risk of exp tion—throws heavy str of the kidneys. They are over-taxed and fail to f and other impurities fro blood.

You may suffer nag headache, dizziness, ge leg pains, swelling— tired, nervous, all worn of kidney or bladder di times burning, scanty urination.

Try Doan's Pills. kidneys to pass off harm waste. They have had century of public appro mended by grateful u Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S

FICTION CORNER

WEATHER AHEAD

By JOHN H. HOSE

...ounter man reminded Harv of someone he knew—a brilliant ... life had been destroyed by a selfish, beautiful woman.

...ane settled down on the ...field, and jolted to a halt ... explanation for the un... ...stopover was simply the ... statement, "Weather ...ice stewardess had no in... ...about the length of the ...o we walked across the ...d the town. Harvey Al... ...were bound for the coast ... business trip, seeking a ...ct for one of our major ...oductions.

...ed along the main—and ...t of the little town until ...a small restaurant. It ...and cool inside after the ...dare of the midafternoon ...o sun Settling in one of ...ths which lined the wall, ...some lunch Except for ...man and a tired looking ...e place was empty. I ...r staring intently at the ...f the counter. I glanced ...e fellow was a stranger

...m?" I asked. Harv had ...knowing people every... ...and remembering them. ...eds me of someone," he ...The girl came with our ...re ate quietly for a few ...Harvey continued, then,

...ever know Mark Stev...

...at my iced tea before

...e was before my time. ...rse, I've heard about ...sn't? Isn't he the chap

...lled back to the air... ...ed the question that ... my mind ever since ...ed that story.

...od glamour gal took ...eg?"

...d. "Elsa Armstrong. ...figure that launched ...pes! Elsa the beau... ...e magnificent." He ...glass in toast,

... Destroyer of men— ...evens in particular. ...e to hear what really ...!"

...cigar as I replied in ...re Harvey settled ...oth as he recounted ...Mark Stevens.

...rs ago, this business ...st a puppy. And the ...t puppy was Mark ...was the brain that ...rtising business. You ...at $150 suit you're ..., Stu. Mark Stevens ...of the mire and into ...e all owe him plenty. ...his organization by ...here he found it, and ...ns for finding it. I ...was doing advance ...ams' Brothers Carni... ...et him. We got to... ...Antonio one night. ...day I was working ...like that.

...call—writing copy on ...that weren't too im... ...all the time I was ...master, learning all ...es and twists, get... ...e day he saw fit to ...a notch. It wasn't ...either. The firm ...and I was right in ...a year, Mark opened ...in Chicago. I went ...chief. From that ...business and I ...Dallas, Seattle, Den... ...ver, San Francisco. ...er that meeting in ...was head of the San ...We had branched ...country, but this ...office was second in ...to the home office

...ced advertising had ...ge, the Mark Stev... ...really hit the top. ...ollywood office and ...only the largest ac... ...down from San ...ead the new office, ...almost monthly into the office. Another shrug; Mark owed her something for the way he'd acted, she felt.

"My personal opinion was that he'd acted pretty generously toward her. Too generous, from the shape both he and the firm were in. I said so. And I nearly choked when she agreed with me. Yes, she was very candid about the whole thing. Very candid, indeed. I almost gagged. I gave her a brief idea of what I thought of her, adding that we weren't paying any more bills. Without further ceremony, I left.

"When I got back to Beverly Hills, Mark was awake, sober, and sick as a dog. I told him I'd seen the books . . . and Elsa. I told him a lot of other things, too. Boss or no boss, I got the whole works off my chest. But it wasn't Mark Stevens I was talking to. It was the beaten, wasted shell of a man I once knew and respected. He took it all without a word. When I finished, he just sat there, nodding his head foolishly. I walked out in disgust. I never saw Mark Stevens again.

"The rest of the story you've heard, Stu. How he walked out on everything and just disappeared. The company was taken over by the associates; but his genius was gone, and a few months later we folded."

Harv snapped open his cigarette case, lighted the smoke casually, indicating that was the end of the story. Finally, I broke the silence to ask,

"And what became of Elsa?"

"Elsa? Oh, she dropped out of sight shortly afterwards. A scandal washed her up in Hollywood."

APPARENTLY Harvey was no longer interested in the story or its principal actors. He just sat there watching the counter man, and I was mulling over the details of the story, thinking about how easy it was for a guy to go haywire Just then, one of the airline employees looked in, saw us and announced that the flight would start in twenty minutes. We rose to leave. While I paid the waitress, Harv walked over to the counterman and said quietly,

"Good luck, friend."

As we strolled back to the airport, I asked the question that had been in my mind ever since Harvey started that story.

"Harv, that guy back in the restaurant . . . was that Mark Stevens?"

He smiled. "No, that wasn't Mark. Didn't even look like him."

"Then why," I asked, "did you happen to recall the story of Stevens? And why did you wish him luck?"

"Because, if things haven't changed, there's weather ahead for him," he replied softly. "You see, the waitress in there was Elsa."

tricks for teens

by NANCY PEPPER

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

A Sloppy Joe is the new name for a Dagwood Sandwich?

A Schmoehopper is a girl who dates nothing but Drips?

An S. S. N. D. is a Steady Saturday Night Date?

Fish Bait is your name for anyone who reminds you of a worm?

Custardy is the expressive new synonym for Smooth?

K. O. is the new way to say "Drop Dead" because it means "Keel Over"?

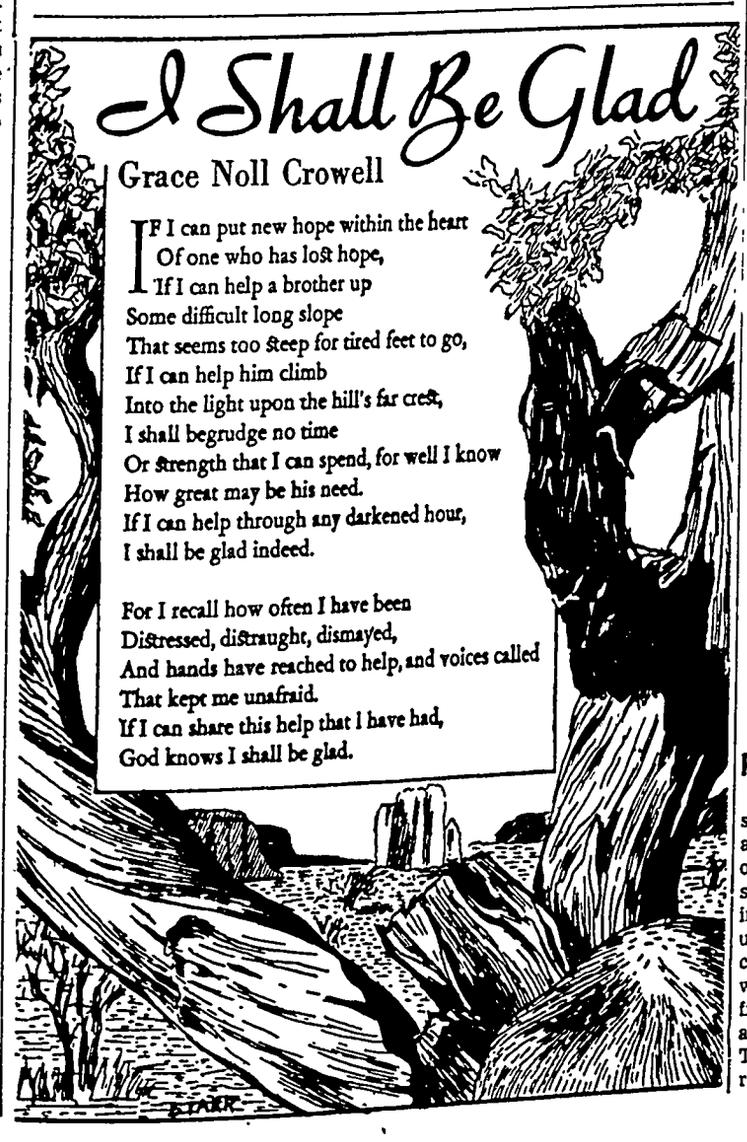
A Sleek Sheik is the Wolf that you should keep away from your door?

• • •

Well, if you don't know ANYTHING, you'd better fill your ball pen with Info Fluid. It's a wonderful new invention, indispensable during Finals' week, on account of it's guarantced to write only the Right Answers.

I Shall Be Glad

Grace Noll Crowell



IF I can put new hope within the heart
Of one who has lost hope,
If I can help a brother up
Some difficult long slope
That seems too steep for tired feet to go,
If I can help him climb
Into the light upon the hill's far crest,
I shall begrudge no time
Or strength that I can spend, for well I know
How great may be his need.
If I can help through any darkened hour,
I shall be glad indeed.

For I recall how often I have been Distressed, distraught, dismayed,
And hands have reached to help, and voices called
That kept me unafraid.
If I can share this help that I have had,
God knows I shall be glad.

THE HOME TOWN REPORTER IN WASHINGTON

By WALTER SHEAD, WNU Correspondent

VA Does a Job

JUST a block down the street from the Western Newspaper Union news bureau here in Washington stands the huge block-long, 10-story building housing the Veterans' administration.

It is on 15 street between I and H streets At noon and at 5:00 p. m. some 12,000 employees are cause for a traffic jam as they hurry out of the cavernous building for lunch and to transportation facilities to their homes. These men and women of the Veterans' administration comprise a cross-section of America for there are represented citizens of every state in the Union, 90 per cent of them veterans themselves.

The Veterans' administration has had its ups and downs, its turn at scandal and inefficiency. Established in 1930, it has, however, worked for the betterment of and to administer laws passed for the nation's veterans of all wars.

Since World War II its problems have become gigantic, for the scope of its operations is tremendous, working as it does for the nation's 18 million veterans of all wars and their families who make up one-third of the country's population. By 1952 it is estimated that veterans and their families will comprise 43 per cent of the population.

Veterans' administration is overseeing the training of more than 2.8 million veterans in schools, colleges and on-the-job. More than four billion dollars have been spent on veterans' education and training alone since 1944—more than half of it last year.

It maintains 130 million administrative records which does not include 100 million insurance records. It handles 125 million pieces of mail a year, more than normally is handled by Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Kansas City or Seattle.

It is the largest life insurance business in the world. It maintains 21 VA hospitals with 100,000 veterans as patients. It is training doctors, nurses, psychiatrists and other professional men in the field of medicine. It maintains 13 field branches. It handles tens of millions of visits by veterans to offices for aid and advice and its responsibilities are on the increase in housing, in administering new laws, and as the families of the veterans grow for it serves not only veterans but their dependents and families.

• • •

A voice out of the blue from Leslie S. Hubbard, president of the Northeastern Poultry Producers council says: "Farmers have had seven or eight good years and if they're not ready to stand on their own feet without government supports now, they never will be." He said the price support law is a "hopeless botch . . . useless as a long range program and plain damfoolish for the immediate future." NPPC claims 100,000 producers in 13 states from Maine to Virginia.

• • •

High Cost of Fishing

Fish and other sea food grow wild, so to speak. You don't have to buy feed for them. But according to cost of living statistics the retail price of fish has increased over 200 per cent since the 1934-39 average.

Your Home Town Reporter can understand this if personal experience is a criterion. Four of us recently drove from Washington to the New Jersey coast off Barnegat light house, "the finest fishing grounds on the north Atlantic coast."

We hired a 40-foot sea-going boat and guide for the day—cost $45. A case of refreshments cost $3.50; lunch, breakfast and dinner for four, $10.80. Twenty gallons of gas, $4.80. Total cost, $64.10.

The four of us worked hard all day in a choppy sea. We caught one blue fish, three flounders and three small sea bass—total, eight pounds. Which made our fish cost us $8.25 a pound. A boat that docked next to us, though, took a 650-pound tuna.

• • •

Just for the record, only seven building and loan associations have been placed in receivership by the Home Loan Bank board in the past 14 years. The 2,566 building and loan associations insured by the board have increased their combined reserves from 181 million dollars in 1941 to 585 million dollars this year.

• • •

Price-Fix System Doomed

It is almost a foregone conclusion that the 81st congress will pass a law which will nullify the decision of the U. S. Supreme court on the so-called basing-point system of fixing prices. The decision declared unlawful the practice of cement companies filing identical bids which included real or phantom freight charges on cement. Steel and other industries were affected. The senate committee likely will recommend the bill.

Blouse and Skirt Pair Is Ideal for Juniors

8261
11-18

Junior Wardrobe

YOU'LL never tire of this smart, well-tailored blouse and skirt pair. A "must" in every junior wardrobe—ideal for the business gal, too. Choose a pretty, bright wool plaid, for instance, for the skirt, and crisp white for the blouse—have short or long cuffed sleeves

• • •

Pattern No. 8261 is for sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12, skirt, 2 yards of 54-inch, blouse, 2⅛ yards of 39-inch.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.
Pattern No._____ Size_____
Name_____
Address_____

Splendid Cough Relief Is Easily Mixed at Home

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your kitchen. Once tried, you'll never be without it.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money Never spoils. Tastes fine.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is surprising. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you sleep. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Pinex Is Swift Acting!

"Things Are Natural Now!"

"For over 15 years constipation had me down. Now, ever since I started eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily, things are natural—and what relief that is."—Miss Hazel Rufsnyder, Pottstown, Pa.

If your diet lacks bulk for normal elimination, this delicious cereal will supply it. Eat an ounce every day in milk—and drink plenty of water. If not satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

GET THIS BUNNY AND 9 OTHER TOY PATTERNS FOR JUST $1.00

Make gifts and profits from colorful Felt. Ten individual patterns. Full size. Easy to follow. Send $1.00 for ten Patterns and Felt supply catalog.

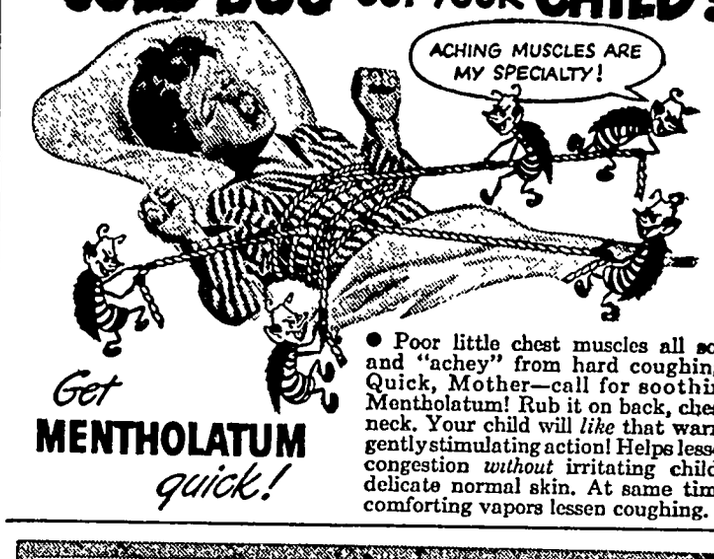
THE FELT CRAFTERS • PLAISTOW 41, N. H.

Planning for the Future? Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

How to Make Delicious POP-CORN BALLS

FIRST get a can of Jolly Time Pop Corn. It is tender and hulless—the most delicious pop corn ever grown. See back of can for best of all recipes for pop corn balls and candied corn. Easy to make!

"COLD BUG" GOT YOUR CHILD?



Get MENTHOLATUM quick!

● Poor little chest muscles all sore and "achey" from hard coughing? Quick, Mother—call for soothing Mentholatum! Rub it on back, chest, neck. Your child will like that warm, gently stimulating action! Helps lessen congestion without irritating child's delicate normal skin. At same time, comforting vapors lessen coughing.

Need Luxury Radios have Fancy Price Tags?

Not by a jugful! And the tags on Sparton's new big 1949 models prove it! See for yourself—

Take a good, close-up look at the beautiful new Sparton models displayed by your home town Sparton dealer. Then eye the price tags.

You're seeing right. Top quality radio-phonographs for as much as $50 under the retail prices of comparable sets! Here's why Sparton can turn the trick:

There's no middleman in Sparton's picture. Sparton saves extra commissions and handling costs by selling direct to one exclusive dealer in a community. Those savings help Sparton give you more set for less money.

Compare the 1949 Sparton models with other makes from base to top—you'll see what a whale of a buy Sparton gives you! If your town has no Sparton dealer, write Sparton, Dept. WN, Jackson, Michigan, for the name of the nearest one.

HERE'S A BUY! Stunning consolette radio-phonograph . . . fast, silent, automatic record-changer . . . superb 10" speaker . . . famed Sparton tone . . . many luxury features. Model 1030 in beautiful mahogany veneer with antique-gold grille. Model 1031 in blond mahogany veneer. Can't be beat at $99.95*

AND HERE'S ANOTHER! Nifty utility model . . . sturdy plastic case, black ebony finish . . . operates on AC or DC current . . . 5" speaker . . . built-in aerial . . . wonderful, rich Sparton tone. Model 103. A positive steal at only $19.95*

*All prices slightly higher west of Rockies

Sparton

RADIO-TELEVISION'S BIGGEST VALUES

The Sparks-Withington Company, Jackson, Michigan

See these new models at your Sparton dealer's now

Throat specialists report on CAMEL MILDNESS

30-Day Test of hundreds of Camel Smokers revealed

NO THROAT IRRITATION DUE TO SMOKING CAMELS

In a recent test, hundreds of men and women all across the country smoked Camels—and only Camels—an average of one to two packages a day—for 30 consecutive days. Each week their throats were examined by noted throat specialists—a total of 2470 examinations—and these doctors found not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels.

Prove it Yourself! Make the Camel 30-Day Test in Your T-Zone

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Winton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Etchen, who attends a school at Ames, fell while crossing the railroad track, breaking 2 bones in his foot.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Clarence Kluckhohn, Mrs. Fred Bell, and Mrs. John Neuberger visited with Mrs. Louisa Knoke in her new home.

Arthur Wellemeyer
FUNERAL DIRECTOR

—with long experince and best equipment.

PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE

Phone 23-R2 Day or Night

Klemme - Iowa

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Esther Barz returned home Thursday from the Mercy hospital at Mason City where she underwent an operation. She is getting along fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ridder of Nora Springs and Mrs. Ida Ridder and son, Walter of Leland were Sunday afternoon callers at the Frank Ward home.

The past week Dr. Dulmes had a cement floor built on the east side of his house and will move his garage from near the alley to the new floor. This arrangement will give him a drive-in from Main street.

Charles Gibbs, of Big Lake, Minn., came last Thursday for a visit with Klemme relatives until the first of the week. Mr. Gibbs reported that crops in his section of Minnesota were very good this year.

Hunting Season!

We have some 12 gage shells just in case you need them, either day or night.

Meet Your Farmer Friends At

Joe's Place

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Marvin Isvik spent the week end visiting with his family in Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bridgeford of Mason City spent Sunday visiting at the parental Harry Gibbs home near Klemme.

Clarence Larsen, Jr., student at Iowa State College, spent the week end visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Quandt and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi and Gracka of Des Moines, were Mason City visitors Saturday.

GOODELL

Evangelical United Brethren Church

W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.

The Life of Christ, motion picture, will be shown at the church at 7:30 P. M. Everyone welcome. Free will offering.

Girls Missionary Guild meets Thursday evening at 7:30 at the home of Evelyn Haupt. Bring articles for the "Pack-a-Towel" also your monthly dues.

Choir practice Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Remember the Ladies Aid Bazaar at the church Wednesday, Nov. 17.

November 21st will be Harvest Home Sunday. There will be a basket dinner at noon followed at 1:30 by our first quarterly conference.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

The Misses Ruth Stille of Des Moines, and Lois Stille, student at Waldorf College, spent the week end visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stille.

Mrs. Norman Eckes of Long Prairie, Minn. visited with Mrs. Elwood Geary Thursday. Mrs. Eckes and son Merlin are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Neuhring.

Mrs. A. H. Dulmes and Dick visited Saturday and Sunday with Miss Ada Mutch at Grundy Center.

Fall flowers were still in bloom in several Klemme gardens the past week as a nice bouquets were on display in the churches.

Last week from Sunday until Wednesday, Mrs. Louisa Knoke visited with Mrs. Lillian Mourlam in Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reed of Marshalltown spent the week end visiting at the Fred Bell home.

Mrs. Mildred Day went to Mason City Monday evening to help her grandson, Gary Day, celebrate his birthday on Tuesday. She baked and decorated a nice cake for the event.

Dr. H. G. Voetberg of Garner was a business caller in Klemme on Tuesday. The Voetbergs expect to move into the new home they are building in time for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Weisbrod of Fenton visited with Mrs. Arthur Schoenwetter Monday at the Hampton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Verle Keraus and children of Garner were dinner guests Sunday at the parental Ed. Buntenbach home.

Miss Ruth Smith, student at Mason City Business College was home over the week-end visiting her parents.

Mr. Otto Freie of Los Angeles came the first of the week for a visit with his sister, Mrs. George Lawhorn, and with other Iowa relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schaefer entertained their children and families at dinner Sunday in honor of their sons, Merle, who is here from the state of Washington, and "Joe" who came home from working in Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ripperger of Sallem, Oregon, are spending a month visiting relatives and friends in Iowa. Mrs. Ripperger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller of Goodell. Monday they visited at the T. Blank home in Klemme.

Sharon and Larry, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lemke of Des Moines came Thursday for a visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lemke and with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lemke. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lemke and Pamela took them back to Des Moines Sunday evening.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services, Nov. 14th:

Morning Worship at 10 A. M.
Sunday School at 11:00 A. M.

Algona District High School Youth Fellowship Rally Sunday afternoon and evening in the Clarion church. Those planning to attend will meet at the Klemme church at 2 o'clock.

The Intermediate Fellowship will meet in the church at 7:00 o'clock.

Unit WSCS meeting on Tuesday in the Liberty Church, with morning session at 9:45 and the afternoon session at 1:15. The Liberty ladies will serve a lunch at noon in the church basement for visiting delegates.

Choir rehearsal on Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the church.

Annual Bazaar of the Klemme WSCS will be held in the church basement on Thursday, Nov 18, with sale of articles beginning at two o'clock. Lunch will be served during the afternoon and supper hour.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services: Nov. 14th.

Sunday School 10:15 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:20 A. M.

The Liberty WSCS will entertain the Unit meeting on Tuesday. There will be a morning session at 9:45 and an afternoon meeting at 1:15: The Liberty ladies will serve lunch at noon in the church basement for visiting delegates.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. George Schoenwetter and Mrs. Wm. Ax drove to Hampton Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Arthur Schoenwetter at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rasmussen and children of Kansas City spent last Wednesday and Thursday visiting with their cousin, Wesley Patterson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Arnold and son Bobbie, left Friday afternoon for Wisconsin to hunt deer over the week end. Luck must not have been too good as venison is conspicuous by it absence on Klemme tables.

Mrs. Arthur Schoenwetter has been a patient at the Hampton hospital for the past two weeks being treated for pneumonia. Reports are that she is now getting along much better.

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH

Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

Sunday:
10:00 A. M. Morning Worship.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.
7:00 P. M. Young People's Bible Class.

Wednesday:
8:00 P. M. Choir.

Saturday:
9:00 A. M. Confirmation Class.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Elsie Baack and Dorance were dinner and supper guests Sunday at the Howard Baack home.

Order your Christmas Cards today at The Times Office.

Mrs. Alta Karselner of Northwood, County Nurse for Worth County, and Miss Harriett Oxley, Hancock County Nurse, were Klemme visitors Friday.

Penn Eckels of near Woden, Hancock County Representative, was calling on Klemme friends Thursday.

Mrs. Ernest Gerardi and children of Des Moines came Thursday and visited until Sunday at the parental Conrad Quandt home.

Gary Day of Mason City spent several days the latter part of the week visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Day as the Mason City schools were closed while the teachers attended Institute.

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA

Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED

Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

KLEMME LOCAL

Miss Marcille Josten, at State Teachers Colle the week end visiting parents, Mr. and Mrs Josten.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey have recently improve nice home in southeast by having a new gar near the house.

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LA
Office Over Federated
Phone 20 Garne

Klemme Ameri Legion's ANNUA FEATHER PARTY

and CARNIV

Community
MONDA
NOV. 2
Begins at 8:00

- Turkeys
- Geese
- Ducks

FREE COFFEE DOUGHNU

FUN FOR ALL . . . ALL FO

Everybody We Bring The Fo

FELCO

40% Hog Balancer

We have been able to get enough ingredients so that we could make up a good supply of this feed. This is the feed developed by the Iowa Farmers Elevator Service Co., with Iowa State College cooperating and is being sold by Iowa Farmers Elevators.

Most Of Our Members Have Already Tried It With Fine Results

You'll Find It Profitable, Too.

KLEMME COOPERATIVE GRAIN COMPANY

Glen Bridges, Manager Klemme, Iowa

Thada's

The Store Of Everyday Low Prices!

FRIDAY & SAT., NOV. 12 & 13

A Few of the Many Money Saving Items

PICNICS Cooked - - Ready To Eat Per Pound Only . . 45c

Buy Now For Thanksgiving — 2 lbs. CRANBERRIES ____ 35c

CALIFORNIA — 2 dozen ORANGES ____ 35c

Large Texas — 10 for GRAPEFRUIT ____ 35c

½ crate $2.00

Bacon Ends CHOICE SLICED Per Pound 31c

Plain and Fancy — 3 pounds COOKIES ____ $1.00

All Flavors Of — 3 boxes JELLO ____ 20c

Chocolate Cream — 1 lb. bags, 2 for COFFEE ____ 98c

The new wonder Soap - 6 large boxes TREND ____ $1.00

ENGLISH — Stock Up Now For The Holidays

Walnuts FRESH -- NEW CROP per pound only 29c

All Brands — OLEOMARGERINE ___ 42c

Palmolive — 2 bars SOAP ____ 19c

Staleys — 1 lb. box GLOSS STARCH ____ 09c

Halves or Sliced — per gallon PEACHES ____ 55c

Thada's

A Good Store In A Good Town Klemme, Ia.

Highest Market Price For Your Eggs CASH or Trade

1949 Automobile and Truck Plates

GO ON SALE DECEMBER 1ST, 1948

We have on hand the new license plates for automobiles and for the year 1949.

We have not had new plates for two years and in 1948 you st 1947 plates on your car, with a registration slip and number for 19

This year it will be necessary for you to bring your registrati with you for we have no way to find your card unless you do this. send your check in by mail, be sure to mail the registration slip or we will have to return it to you. Our cards are all filed by nu your registration certificates and not by number of your plate.

Owing to the fact that the reserved list has mounted every ye now is over the 400 mark, it will be impossible for us to reserve an bers. They will be registered just as you come to the office. Firs first served.

We will try our best to satisfy each one and we hope you w with us to get our registrations out on time. Please do not ask f save your old number.

Remember that trailer licenses become delinquent at the sa as your auto licenses.

Keep the date in mind - December 1st - numbers go on sal
FIRST COME FIRST SERVED

Roy L. McMillin

COUNTY TREASURER

CIAL
NTY
R

THE KLEMME TIMES

me 54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1948 Number 1.

EMME HIGH SCHOOL OPENS BASKET BALL SEASON FRIDAY

T BASKET BALL GAME F THE SEASON HERE FRIDAY EVENING

e Klemme Shamrocks will their 1948-49 basket ball n on the home floor this y evening when Woden school will be entertained a double header starting at o'clock.

ething New In Klemme

r the first time in the his- of K. H. S. a girls team will the Woden girls in the cur- riser. The Shamrockettes training for the season and already booked the follow- schedule:

v. 19 Woden here
c. 23 Hayfield there
n. 7 Kanawha
(K. H. S. Gym)
n. 21 Hayfield here
b. 1 Kanawha here
b. 15 Rowan here.

me out to the games Fri- night and see a real thrill- when the Shamrocks meet en and the Shamrockettes their first game of their dule.

HOME GAMES

v. 19 ---------- Woden
v. 30 ---------- Britt
c. 17 ---------- Fertile
n. 7 ---------- Thornton
n. 18 ---------- Crystal Lake
n. 21 ---------- Hayfield
b. 1 ---------- Kanawha
b. 8 ---------- Ventura
b. 15 ---------- Rowan
b. 18 ---------- Garner

GAMES AWAY

v. 23 ---------- Hayfield
c. 3 ---------- Belmond
c. 7 ---------- Kanawha
To be played in Klemme)
c. 10 ---------- Crystal Lake
c. 21 ---------- Britt
n. 14 ---------- Garner
n. 26-29 County Tourney
(At Britt)
b. 4 ---------- Corwith
b. 11 ---------- Fertile t's boost this years team at y game.

OWA CHRISTIAN RELIEF TRAINS — NOV. 21-28

s Made For CROP Drive In Hancock County

a meeting held in Garner y evening officials of the Christian Overseas Pro- for Hancock County, the were made to distribute lies for the CROP drive in ock County to township man. Hilary Greiman, the ty Chairman, reports that ounty was divided in quar- with Greiman assuming the manship for the 4 North- townships in the county. Reverend Calvin Gross- ch of Klemme as chairman e four Southeast townships. Reverend Hugo Beyer of ey and E. H. Olson as co- man for the Northwest four ships and the Reverend R. Kitterman of Kanawha as man of the four Southwest ships.

pplies will be distributed township chairman and the will proceed as planned, g the week of November to 28 inclusive. Hancock ty's quota is three cars of and beans. Every home in ounty will be solicited. Of- s hope that Hancock Coun- itizens will respond generous- ring the week set aside for ful nation to express its ks."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE NEW CONGRESS

By R. A. Jorgenson, Sr.

With the re-election of President Truman, and a Democratic House and Senate, there has been considerable speculation as to what the people may expect in the matter of legislation. In his bid for re-election President Truman made many promises. Democratic candidates in many instances too, went far out on a limb in their pledges to the voters. Now it remains to be seen whether they can deliver. On some they no doubt will make good. On others they won't.

The Davenport Times, in an editorial bearing the caption, "Little Man What Now?" makes some observation on what may be expected of the 81st Congress.

"The new Truman administration will be confronted with a dilemma as crop surpluses continue," the newspaper states. "If the general price level is to be lowered, as a means of combating inflation, grain prices cannot be held at an artificially high level. The issue must be faced by congress whatever its political complexion."

On the matter of housing the newspaper has the following to say:

"We may look to a more realistic housing program than that produced by the last congress, but as long as shortages of labor in the building trades and many materials continue, it will take more than legislation at Washington to overcome many of the difficulties and conditions which have boosted the price of homes to their present figure without effectively overcoming critical shortages of shelter."

Labor legislation too may cause the new administration no small amount of trouble. The Democratic platform advocated repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, and President Truman campaigned on that issue. Organized labor played an important part in swelling the Democratic vote, particularly in the industrial areas, and has taken credit for defeat of many congressmen who supported the labor act in the 80th Congress.

But, as the Times points out, a survey of the new congress reveals that the new House will have at least 221 members who voted for the law, over the President's veto, and the Senate's 55 supporters, more than a majority of its membership.

There is every reason to believe that the Taft-Hartley act will be modified but according to political observers there is little prospect for outright repeal which the labor leaders have demanded.

No Luck On Pheasants But Bags Red Fox

Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel did not have any luck on pheasants on the opening day but did even better, he bagged a nice Red Fox.

Some fellows have all the luck!

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH

Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

Sunday:
10:00 A. M. Morning Worship.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.
7:00 P. M. Young People's Bible Class.
Wednesday:
8:00 P. M. Choir.
Saturday:
9:00 A. M. Confirmation Class.
Worship Service on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25th at 10:00 A. M.

Cookies and articles of clothing for the Indian School and Mission may be brought to the church during the Thanksgiving week.

WITHOUT HELP OF "CROP," MANY PEOPLE MAY DIE

According to United Nations report, one child out of three in Europe shows serious symptoms of undernourishment such as rickets and tooth decay. The lack of high vitamin foods for those too poor to buy from Marshall Plan or their country's own economy is also causing a far higher than average death rate, especially among the very young.

To answer this need, churches of America have bandeed together to sponsor the Christian Rural Overseas Program (crop), the only direct relief agency providing food in bulk to the needy in 43 countries.

The small numbers, ill health, and poor nutrition of present herds of European cattle is one of the main factors in the continuing hunger of the people. After three years of peace, the farmers are still caught in the vicious circle caused by loss of two-thirds of their cattle and more than half their horses during the war.

In prewar Poland, manure formed 90 percent of plant food that was returned each year to the sandy soils. Lacking nearly two-thirds of their customary supply of farmyard manure and unable to obtain its equivalent in chemical fertilizers, farmers still are obliged to go on decreasing their fields. The result is increasing deterioration of the soil, with little more than half of the normal yields.

On one particular farm of 25 acres, which is much above usual size of Polish farms, most of the acreage was sown to rye in 1947. The yield was low - about 12 bushels per acre - largely because the farmer was able to obtain only half as much phosphate fertilizer for the land as he did before the war. Normal yield before the war was about 24 bushels per acre.

This farmer is well off for livestock because he has two horses, three cows, and nine small pigs, housed in a delapidated barn. From the meager crop, he will have enough grain to feed his own family until the next harvest, but little left over for seed or to feed his livestock. The number of pigs will be cut down first, and the horse or cattle will have to be curtailed next.

There will be no food left over for D. P.'s, war victims, and those in institutions for the orphaned or aged. These can be added through the church relief agencies that are supplied by the Iowa Christian Rural Overseas Program. Collections will begin in Hancock County Thanksgiving week. Those living in rural communities will give what they can from their harvest or livestock. Iowa products especially needed are corn, soybeans, livestock, dariy products, wheat and oats. Other farm products and cash will also be accepted.

JOIN OUR—

2 IN 1 CLUB

There should be a new club organized here and it should be called the "Two-In-One" Pheasant Hunters Club and we would nominate young Bobby Arnold president. Here's the dope:

On the opening day Bobby went hunting with his grandfather, "Pat" Carr of Garner. Bobby, who is a good shot for a young nimrod, knocked down TWO cock pheasants with one shot on the opening day.

On Saturday, Nov. 13, Johnnie Schwichtenberg, while hunting, also shot two birds with one shot. That should qualify Johnnie as Vice President of our new club.

Are there any other eligible members?

WEDDING DATE SET— MR. and Mrs. Benn J Coobs of Klemme announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Peggy Lou to Walter C. Clark, son of Mr and Mrs. Russell Clark of Woodward. The wedding will take place Nov. 28 at 3 p. m. in the Klemme Methodist Church.

Farmer Builds New Road

"Shorty" Kraus has improved his farm at the northwest edge of Klemme by having a construction crew rebuild the lane leading from the Farm-To-Market road through Klemme to his farm buildings. The new graded road will also be graveled.

SERVICES WILL BE HELD FRIDAY FOR MRS. HENRY JOSTEN

Mrs. Henry Josten died at her home in Klemme Tuesday night. Funeral services will be held at the Klemme Evangelical and Reformed Church Friday afternoon, Nov. 19 at 2.00 o'clock, with Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch in charge.

Left Tuesday To Spend The Winter In The Sunny South

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dutheridge left Tuesday in their car and trailer home for the south to spend the winter months. From here they will go to Fort Worth and Dallas, Texas, then on to Brownsville, Texas. When they left Klemme they did not have any definite destination in mind and may go to Florida again and perhaps California before returning to their farm in the spring.

AVERY 4-H LEADERS RECEIVE LESSONS

The Avery and Twin Lake township Homemaker's leaders were given the lesson "How To Use Your Broiler" my Miss Van Wert, on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Ward. There were ten leaders and two township chairmen present.

The next lesson will be "Meat Cookery" and will be on Nov. 29 at 1:30 p. m. at the Melvin Schaefer home.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:
Morning Worship at 10 A. M.
Sunday School at 11:00 A. M.

Youth Fellowship, Intermediate and High School groups 7.

The choir will meet for rehearsal in the church on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The first men's meeting of the fall season will be held in the Klemme Church on Tuesday evening, November 30th at 8:00.

Program, fellowship, refreshments.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

The first Brotherhood meeting of the fall season will be held in the Klemme Church on Tuesday evening, November 30th at 8:00 o'clock. Program, refreshments, fellowship.

MEETING HELD FOR OFFICERS AT BRITT

Officers And Leaders Attend District 4-H Training School

Eight Hancock County 4-H club officers and leaders were trained in the duties of officers at a district training school held in Britt last Friday, November 12, county extension director, Paul Henderson, reports.

Pointers on being effective officers were given to the delegation. They also received instructions for holding a county 4-H officers' training school. It will be held in Garner, November 27th.

Those attending the training school were. Carol Lawson, Corwith, Co. 4-H girls president, Velma Johnson, Garner, vice president; Mercedes Formanek, Garner, sec.-treas.; Iris Rosendahl, Klemme, historian; Norman Stromer, Garner, county boys president; Eugene Smith, Kanawha, sec.-treas; and Allan Anderson, reporter. Leaders accompanying the group were Mrs. Elmer Doughan, county extension director, Paul Henderson and Elsie Mae VanWert, county extension home economist.

All those from Hancock County had a part on the program

The club officers heard a talk by P. O. Taff, state 4-H club staff member, on "You and our 4-H Organization." Delegates also observed a model creamery for the recognition of 4-H club leaders.

A major discussion of the conference was on "How To Improve Our 4-H Clubs," by Miss Elisabeth Smith, Ass't. state 4-H girls leader.

Celebrates Birthday Nov. 14th

Mrs. Clarence Lemke planned a surprise Sunday evening, Nov. 14th, when she invited in a number of friends to help her husband celebrate his birthday.

The evening was spent playing "500" at three tables with Mrs. Harvey Hubbard and James Larsen winning high score prizes and Mrs. Curtis Waddingham and Walter Rosendahl low prizes. At the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Clarence received many nice gifts as a remembrance of this happy occassion

Study Group Met

The Study Group of the Methodist Church met Wednesday afternoon, November 10th at the home of Mrs. Clarence Lemke with Mrs. Lester Stille as co-hostess. Mrs. Geo. Schoenwetter led devotions and Mrs. Roy Arnold gave the lesson. Questions were in charge of Mrs. Vivian Mace.

"Ivory Palace" was sung as a duet and "America the Beautiful" was sung by a Sextette.

At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses. There were 32 present.

NEW PLATES FOR CARS - TRUCKS

LICENSE PLATES WILL BE AVAILABLE DEC. 1

Hancock County automobile license plates have been received at Garner. They may be obtained by car owners at the courthouse from Dec. 1 to Feb. 1, according to County Treasurer McMillin.

The 1949 plates are colored black with white letters and are made of aluminum. Because this metal lacks the strength of conventional steel plates, McMillin recommends that car owners either use metal frames to hold the plates, or reinforce them by placing a steel license plate behind them. Otherwise, he said, vibration may cause the plates to break off from the bolts.

The plates were made at Anamosa Men's reformatory.

KLEMME LEGION TO STAGE ANNUAL EVENT MONDAY EVE

Cooling Tanks Needed In Winter And Summer

Farmers, you all know why you are using cooling tanks. You all know that water is a necessity in cooling milk or cream, and now that the weather is cooling off, you think well it's cool enough to set it on the back porch and it will not sour. Well, maybe it won't sour, but at the same time the air will not cool it properly. It will not draw the animal heat out like cold water will and it leaves the cream with off-flavor.

Let's clean, repair, and insulate our cooling tanks now so they are ready for winter use Nick Venechuk, county dairy fieldman, reports the best and cheapest way to insulate a cooling tank is to build a box around the tank from four to six inches larger than the tank and fill this with ground corn cobs. This makes a very good insulation for the winter and summer. Just be sure that the tank does not leak, and that the outlet, can handle the water coming through the tank. This should keep the water and cream from freezing if you have a tank in a building.

Klemme Couple Moved To New Home At Clear Lake, Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker chased home at Clear Lake Saturday and are now comfortably moved into their recently purchased home.

Some months ago the Becker's purchased a nice home near Oakwood Park on the south shore of Clear Lake on the Bayside road. There are 10 acres of ground with the house and other buildings and is a very attractive location.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Josten, who purchased the Becker home in Klemme, will move to town this fall or early winter.

Press Club Met

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. attended a dinner meeting of the Hawkeye Press Club at the Cerro Gordo Hotel at Mason City Saturday evening. Rueben Moos of Nora Springs was elected President for the coming year and Leon Barnes of Northwood, Vice President. Mrs. Barnes will again serve as Secretary Gordon Aasgaard of Lake Mills is the retiring president of the organization composed of publishers of North Iowa.

PHEASANT HUNTING GOOD IN NORTH IOWA OPENING DAY

Nearly all hunters who went into the fields on Armistice Day, the opening day of the pheasant season in Iowa, returned home with their limit of two cock pheasants. Most hunters reported easy going the first day. Since then the birds have been more wary and harder to get up in the fields.

GOODELL

Evangelical United Brethren Church

W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.

This is Harvest Home Sunday as well as Thanksgiving Sunday. A special Thank Offering will be received at this service.

There will be a basket dinner at noon and the first quarterly conference at 1.30.

G. M. G. and Youth Fellowship.

Thanksgiving breakfast at the parsonage Thursday morning at 7 o'clock.

Anyone having a musical instrument they would be willing to donate to York College please notify Rev. Boston.

KLEMME LEGION FEATHER PARTY TO BE HELD ON MONDAY NIGHT

The Klemme American Legion's annual "feather party" will be held at the Community Hall on Monday evening, Nov. 22, beginning at 8:00 o'clock.

This event, held each year just before Thanksgiving, is well known throughout the community and no one needs to be told that there's fun for everyone.

This year, the Legion is having all of the poultry dressed and they will have some nice plump turkeys, geese and ducks to distribute.

You and your family are invited. The Auxiliary ladies will serve lunch.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF HUNTING SAFELY

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before your pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

KLEMME NAVY FLYER TOOK PART IN BAHAMA ISLAND MANEUVERS

Keith E. Stille, parachute rigger, first class, USN, son of Mrs. Blanche Stille of Klemme, is serving aboard the escort carrier USS Mindoro with Composite Squadron 23, which recently returned to Norfolk Va., after extensive anti-submarine and pro-submarine training exercises in the Atlantic.

The exercises were based on a 40-ship convoy movement from the Bahama Islands to Norfolk.

It was opposed by elements of the Atlantic Submarine Forces and the primary mission of Squadron 23 was to hunt, find, and sink the enemy submarines. Hunter-killer techniques with coordination of air reconnaissance, convoy and escort groups was employed. Squadron 23 was credited with three sinkings.

ANNUAL BAZAAR WILL FEATURE FIVE BOOTHS AT CHURCH

The annual Klemme Methodist Bazaar will be held at the church parlors Thursday afternoon and evening, November 18th. Selling of goods and serving will begin at 2:00 p. m.

This year the ladies will have five booths as follows:

Booth No. 1 Needle Craft.

Booth No. 2 Grocery Store (Baked Goods.)

Booth No. 3 Sweet Shop (Candy and Pop Corn.)

Booth No. 4 Flower and Gift Shop.

Booth No. 5 Antique Shop (Grab Bag, White Elephants, etc.)

During the afternoon and evening the ladies will serve hot chili and crackers, relish, chicken sandwiches, pies, cakes doughnuts and coffee or milk.

The public is invited to attend.

Cross Town by Roland Coe

"I'VE REACHED A VERDICT, YOUR HONOR."

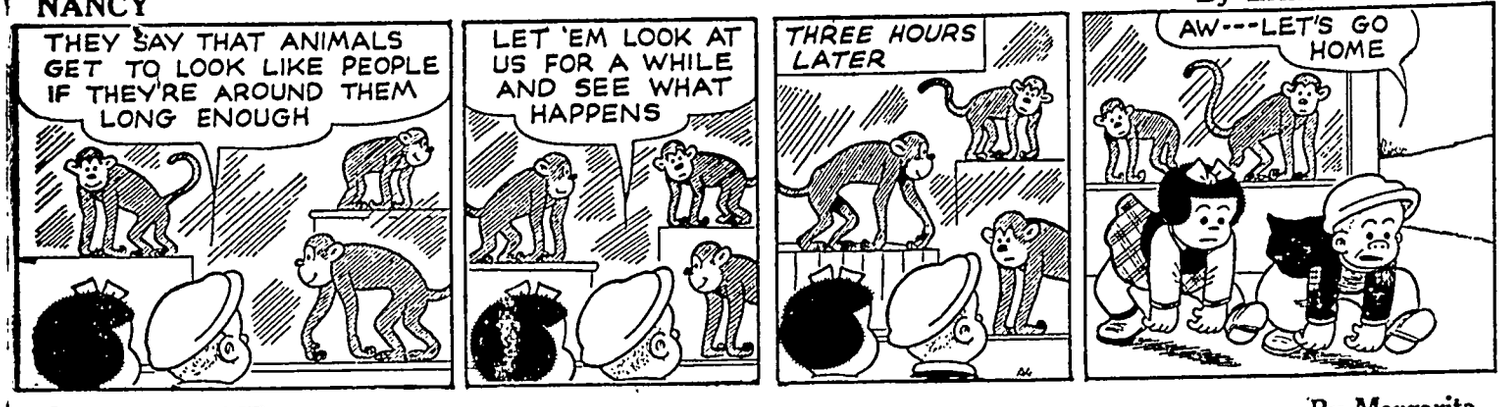
Bobby Sox by Mary Links

"WE GOTTA GET TRANSFERRED TO MEN'S TIES. THERE'S NO FUTURE HERE!"

TEEN-AGE TRIUMPHS By Stookie Allen

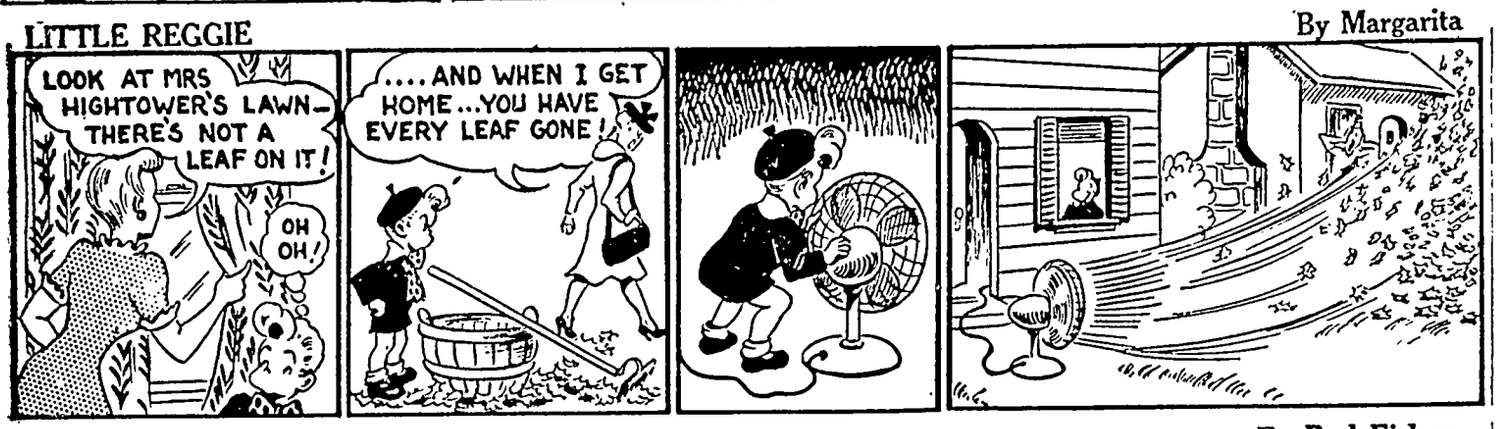
JIMMY SADLER (13) OF LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, WAS GIVEN A PONY ON HIS BIRTHDAY. HE FOUND OUT THAT HE COULD SELL RIDES AT A BEACH FOR 10¢ EACH. JIM BOUGHT ANOTHER PONY WITH THE INTAKE AND SOON HAD 3 PONIES, 2 DONKEYS AND HIS BIG BROTHER WORKING FOR HIM. NOW HE MAKES $200 A WEEK!

NANCY By Ernie Bushmiller

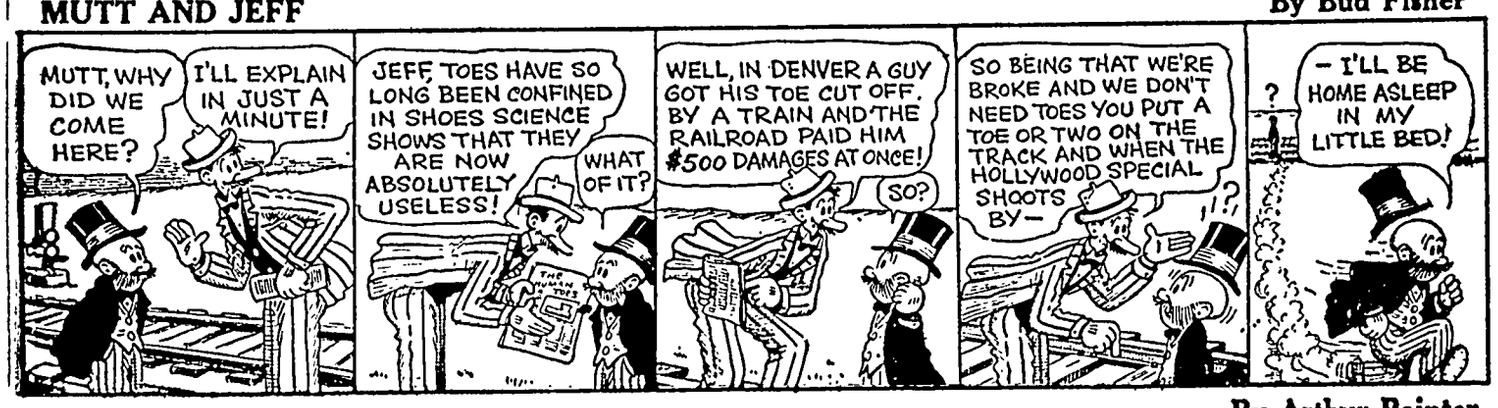


THEY SAY THAT ANIMALS GET TO LOOK LIKE PEOPLE IF THEY'RE AROUND THEM LONG ENOUGH
LET 'EM LOOK AT US FOR A WHILE AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS
THREE HOURS LATER
AW---LET'S GO HOME

LITTLE REGGIE By Margarita



MUTT AND JEFF By Bud Fisher

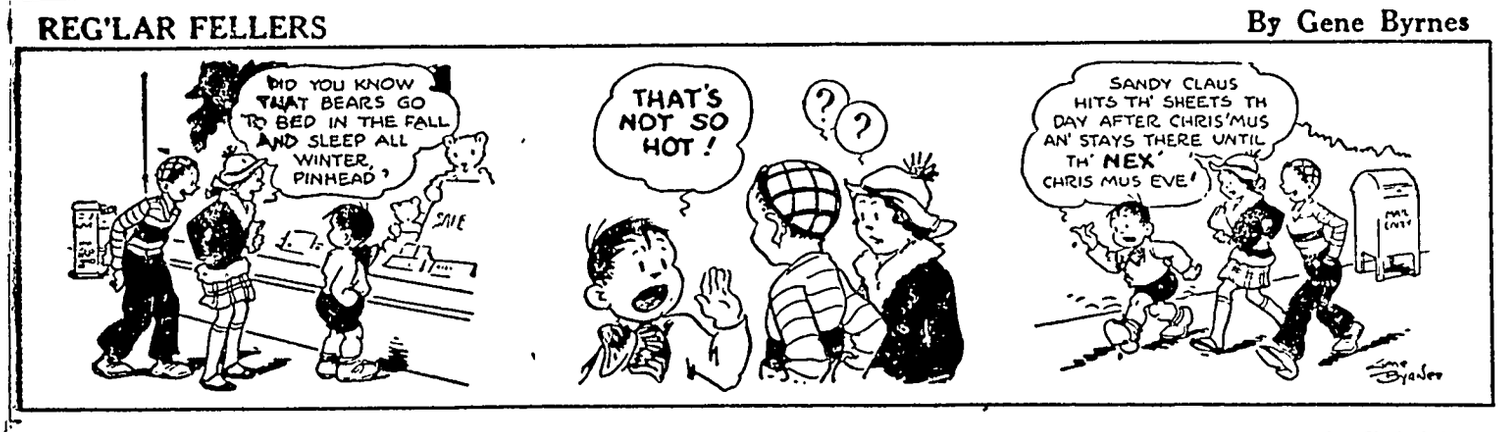


MUTT, WHY DID WE COME HERE?
I'LL EXPLAIN IN JUST A MINUTE!
JEFF, TOES HAVE SO LONG BEEN CONFINED IN SHOES SCIENCE SHOWS THAT THEY ARE NOW ABSOLUTELY USELESS!
WHAT OF IT?
WELL, IN DENVER A GUY GOT HIS TOE CUT OFF. BY A TRAIN AND THE RAILROAD PAID HIM $500 DAMAGES AT ONCE!
SO?
SO BEING THAT WE'RE BROKE AND WE DON'T NEED TOES YOU PUT A TOE OR TWO ON THE TRACK AND WHEN THE HOLLYWOOD SPECIAL SHOOTS BY—
?
—I'LL BE HOME ASLEEP IN MY LITTLE BED!

JITTER By Arthur Pointer

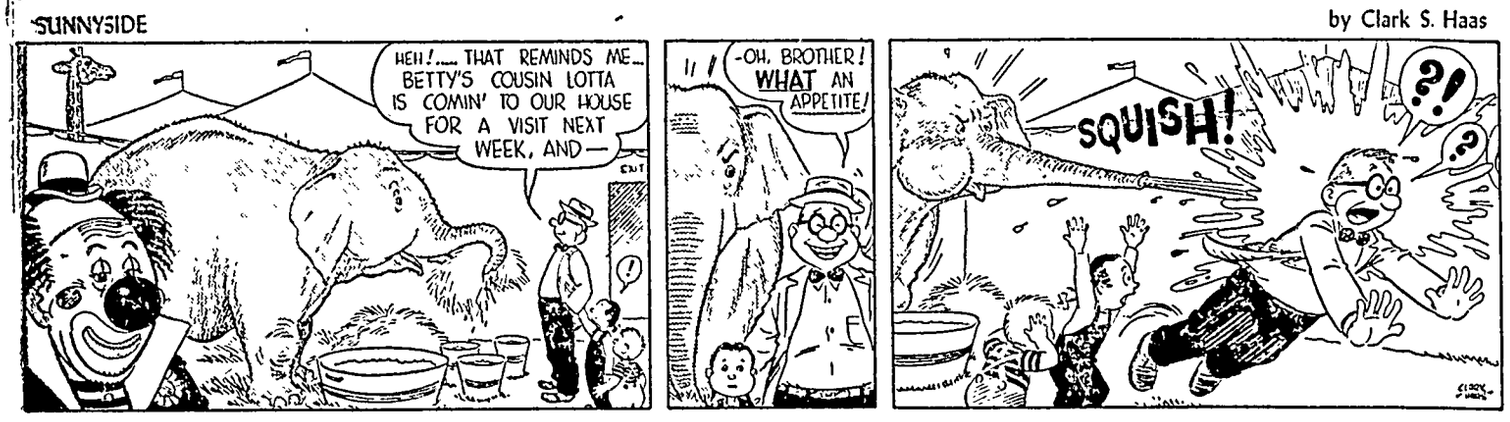
I DON'T LIKE TO KEEP YOU AFTER SCHOOL, WOODY, BUT IF YOU CAN'T BEHAVE YOU'LL HAVE TO PAY FOR YOUR FUN!
I DECLARE... IF YOU KEEP ON WITH YOUR MONKEY BUSINESS, FIRST THING YOU KNOW YOU'LL LOOK LIKE ONE!

REG'LAR FELLERS By Gene Byrnes

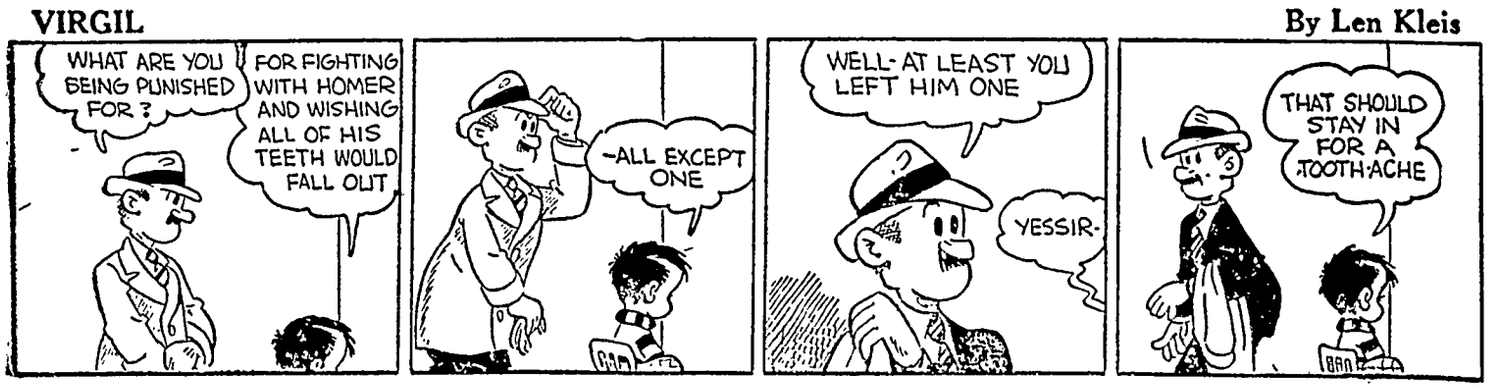


DID YOU KNOW THAT BEARS GO TO BED IN THE FALL AND SLEEP ALL WINTER, PINHEAD?
THAT'S NOT SO HOT!
SANDY CLAUS HITS TH' SHEETS TH DAY AFTER CHRIS'MUS AN' STAYS THERE UNTIL TH' NEX' CHRIS MUS EVE!

SUNNYSIDE by Clark S. Haas

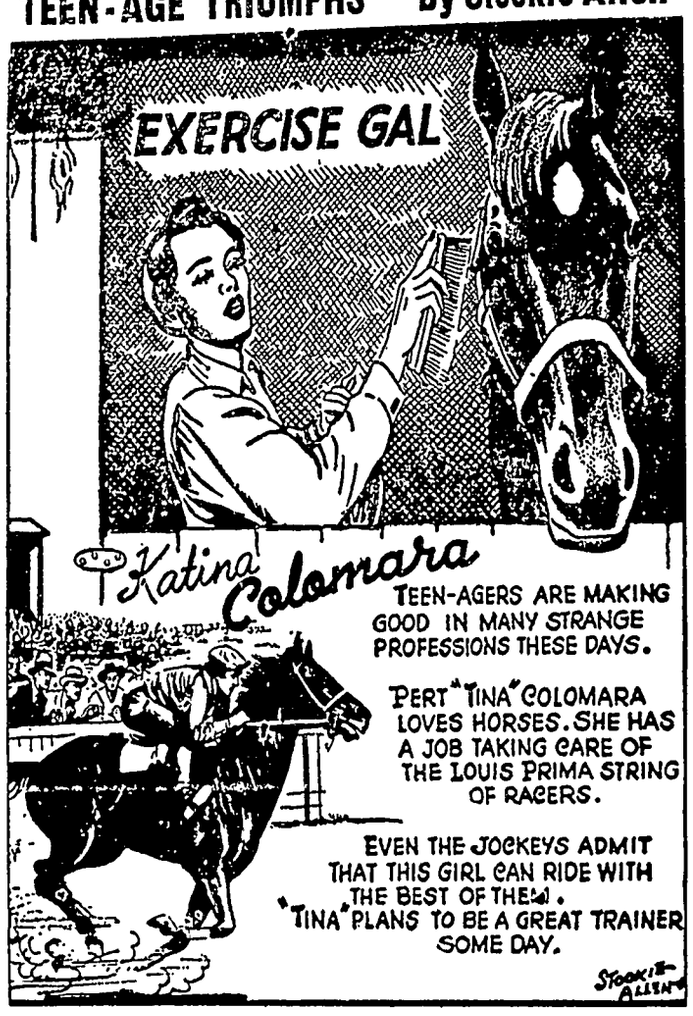


VIRGIL By Len Kleis



WHAT ARE YOU BEING PUNISHED FOR?
FOR FIGHTING WITH HOMER AND WISHING ALL OF HIS TEETH WOULD FALL OUT
-ALL EXCEPT ONE
WELL-AT LEAST YOU LEFT HIM ONE
YESSIR-
THAT SHOULD STAY IN FOR A TOOTH-ACHE

TEEN-AGE TRIUMPHS By Stookie Allen



TEEN-AGERS ARE MAKING GOOD IN MANY STRANGE PROFESSIONS THESE DAYS.

PERT "TINA" COLOMARA LOVES HORSES. SHE HAS A JOB TAKING CARE OF THE LOUIS PRIMA STRING OF RACERS.

EVEN THE JOCKEYS ADMIT THAT THIS GIRL CAN RIDE WITH THE BEST OF THEM. "TINA" PLANS TO BE A GREAT TRAINER SOME DAY.

KRNT RADIO THEATER
DES MOINES, IOWA.
ONE NIGHT ONLY—TUESDAY, NOV. 23
LEWIS and YOUNG present
A MAGNIFICENT NEW PRODUCTION OF The DESERT SONG
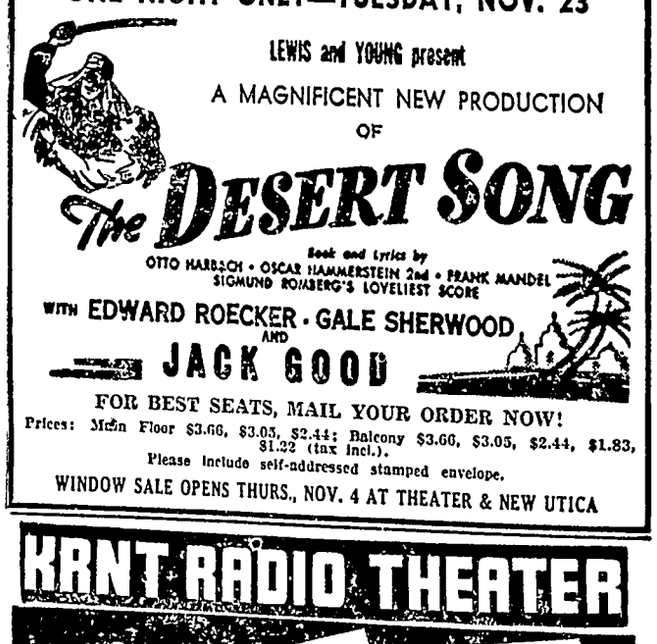
Book and Lyrics by OTTO HARBACH • OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN 2nd • FRANK MANDEL
SIGMUND ROMBERG'S LOVELIEST SCORE
WITH EDWARD ROECKER • GALE SHERWOOD AND JACK GOOD
FOR BEST SEATS, MAIL YOUR ORDER NOW!
Prices: Main Floor $3.66, $3.05, $2.44; Balcony $3.66, $3.05, $2.44, $1.83, $1.32 (tax incl.).
Please include self-addressed stamped envelope.
WINDOW SALE OPENS THURS., NOV. 4 AT THEATER & NEW UTICA

KRNT RADIO THEATER



TWO PERFORMANCES ONLY!
Wed., Nov. 24, 8:30 p. m.
Special Thanksgiving Matinee
Thurs., Nov. 25, 3:00 p. m.
FRED WARING
WITH ALL THE PENNSYLVANIANS
MUSIC • SONG • GAIETY • VARIETY.
FOR BEST SEATS MAIL YOUR ORDER NOW!
Prices: Main Floor $3.66, $3.05; Balcony $3.66, $3.05, $2.44, $1.83. All prices include tax.
Please enclose addressed stamped envelope and specify performance desired.
WINDOW SALE OPENS THURS., NOV. 4, AT THEATER & NEW UTICA
KRNT RADIO THEATER

Growth of Baby T
When a baby is born t teeth are already formed gums, although they usu begin to come through tween the sixth and eight
The diet of the mother
the baby was born deter health of the baby's teeth begin growing five or six before birth.
The permanent teeth a
the baby teeth begin to fore birth. The baby's die the condition of these secon Calcium in milk and Vita fish-liver oil are essen strong healthy teeth.

You can breeze through part of your Christmas sh by simplifying your gift probably a fact that a good of your friends enjoy cigar pipe smoking. You can please these friends by g
several cartons of mild,
Camels and pound tins tasting Prince Albert from dealer. Both these popula come ready-wrapped in g day dress. No other gift ping is necessary. There's space for your personal g
Save time and energy this mas season by giving co
Camels and mellow Prince
Smoking Tobacco. (Adv.)

How To Relie
Bronchit
Creomulsion relieves promptly it goes right to the seat of the to help loosen and expel ger phlegm and aid nature to soo heal raw, tender, inflamed mucous membranes. Tell your to sell you a bottle of Creo with the understanding you the way it quickly allays th or you are to have your mone
CREOMULSI
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bro

REASON IT OUT AND PREFER
ALL-VEGETA
LAXAT
NATURE'S REMEDY (NR)
LETS—A purely vegetable relieve constipation without griping, sickening, perturbi tions, and does not cause a NR—you will see the differe coated or candy coated—thei is dependable, thorough, yet millions of NR's have prove 25c box and use as directed.
Nature's Remed
NR TO-NIGHT
FUSSY STOMACH?
RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN
TUMS
THE

Check that Co
from a cold
Before It Gets W
—and get well quick with the NEW FOLE
The NEW FOLEY'S HONEY contains one of the most import treatment developments in years
ACTUALLY HELPS SPEED
ERY. Also soothes throat, che
ing. Also delicious, non-narcotic upset digestion. But most import
FOLEY'S helps you get well cough due to cold. At your drug

Black Leaf 40
JUST A DASH IN FEATHERS
OR SPREAD ON RO

CHANGE of LIFE?
Are you going through tional 'middle age' period to women (38 to 52 yrs.)?
make you suffer from ha feel so nervous, highstrun
Then do try Lydia E. P
Vegetable Compound to re symptoms. Pinkham's C also has what Doctors c machic tonic effect!
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S

Watch Your
Kidne
Help Them Cleanse th of Harmful Body W
Your kidneys are constantly waste matter from the blood s kidneys sometimes lag in the not act as Nature intended—move impurities that, if re poison the system and upset body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging persistent headache, attacks getting up nights, swelling under the eyes—a feeling anxiety and loss of pep and
Other signs of kidney or order are sometimes burning too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt
treatment is wiser than Doan's Pills. Doan's have new friends for more than
They have a nation-wide
Are recommended by grate country over. Ask your n
DOAN'S PI

CTION Corner

JACK

By JOHN H. HOSE

and John wanted a dog but they weren't getting far with Then a stray mongrel wandered upon the scene one day and great deal of excitement.

, how do you do! Won't come in?" asked Mother ened the front door. Both nd I looked up to see who might be.

des were drawn in the liv- so we couldn't see who ing on the porch. Mother ned the room to protect ers because Freddy had es He was covered with and curled up on the day had been moved down airs. I was spread out on with the erector set.

ed to see the unexpected nd imagine our surprise walked a big brown dog. omer trotted across the nspect me, and I patted head Then he went over bed and nuzzled his big nst Freddy, as much as ere, Bud, I've come to get well!"

Mom," cried Freddy ex- dog! Can we keep him, ere did he come from? name?"

ow, not so fast, son," in- Mother, as she settled nder the blanket again. ame to the door when I t the mail, and I thought d help you pass the time re closed up here with the Do you like him?"

'll say," Freddy and I unison, "he's swell!"

comer, who was busy in- the premises, was just redale part hound. He gravish-brown, and would l for a genuine airedale t had those big floppy, ears.

always wanted a dog but e didn't have a place for he wouldn't have one if keep it tied.

we call him, Mom?" I erly on't you and Freddy fig- ut for yourself, son," she went toward the kitchen ner under way.

life I had wanted people Jack, because I liked it ame, but all I ever heard plain John, so I said: all him Jack, Freddy." Jack's a good name all re, Jack, come over here, he called to the dog. And ged his tail, put his big s up on the couch, and ddy on the nose ock, John," said Freddy, s his name already."

a wonderful time with Dad came home.

going on here?" he hen he saw the dog out on the living room here did that mongrel n?"

e to help me get well, d Freddy from his haven bed.

always could work Dad nything, and when he fin- g Dad how the dog just came up and knocked on o help Freddy get well, grinned and said grudg-guess we can keep him e . . until you get well

Freddy got well, Jack d kicked about it a little, lly agreed to let us have kept him in the basement nd the dog didn't get into e promised! But keeping f trouble was like trying to keep water from flowing down- hill. Everything went along fine un- til Mr. Westour came over to com- plain that Jack had dug up his gar- den to bury a bone. All our efforts to explain didn't appease Dad very much, and he was disgusted.

Then Jack chased Roush's cat, and the cat got caught in the porch railing, and couldn't get out until old man Roush sawed the railing loose. Naturally, he wasn't too pleased about that.

Dad was adamant by that time, and insisted Jack would have to go. He had found some farmer who would take the dog. But Jack had a knack for taking things into his own hands, or I guess we ought to say, his own paws!

He had a habit of following us to school, but we'd usually chase him home after a block or two. But one morning, when the snow was com- ing down pretty heavily, Jack trot- ted along behind us.

"Go back, Jack," I shouted at him. "Go on home, old boy," but the dog kept trotting along behind us. I threw stones at him and tried everything I could think of, but he kept coming right along. Nothing we could do would persuade him to go back. We knew we'd be late if we didn't hurry, so we went on to school. As we entered the building, Freddy shouted to the dog:

But keeping Jack out of trouble was like trying to keep water from flowing downhill.

"You wait here till we come out, Jack!"

I asked my teacher if I could bring Jack in, and she gave con- sent if I would promise to keep him quiet. I hurried out to find him, but Jack had disappeared.

WHEN we got home that night, Mother asked:

"Where's Jack? I haven't seen him all day."

"He followed us to school this morning, Mamma," I explained, "but when I came out to get him, he was gone."

"Well, I suppose that saves your father the trouble of getting rid of him," she said "Take off your coats and hang them up to dry. You're all wet from the snow."

No one had much to say at the supper table that night. Even Dad was pretty quiet, and he went to the window several times to look out before we went to bed.

Two dejected little boys prayed fervently for the safe-keeping of a lost dog that night. We rolled and tossed all night long, wondering where our pet might be.

That was the last we saw of Jack until about a month later. One of the neighbors said:

"You know, I think I saw your dog this morning over at the Whit- tier school. He was outside watch- ing the children as they came out. I stopped the car and turned around, but by the time I went back to look for him, he was gone."

Mother replied that Jack was probably making the rounds of the schools looking for us. We kept searching and hoping, renewed by the news that Jack was still alive. But we didn't have much time to hunt for him, as I was practicing every night for a school play. The night of the play's performance we almost found Jack again.

During the second act, there was a lot of commotion near the back of the auditorium, and several ushers ran up and down the aisles. It was pretty hard for us to enact the scene with all that commotion going on in the auditorium.

On the way home, I asked Mom what the noise was, and she laughed.

"I think it was your old friend," she replied.

"What do you mean, Mom?" I questioned.

"Why a dog got in during the play and made a bee-line for the stage when the ushers caught him. I looked around to see four of them dragging him up the aisle, and it looked for all the world like Jack."

"But let's go back and look for him," I cried.

"Your father and I did look for him, son, as soon as the play was over," said Mother as the car turned in the driveway at home. "But we couldn't find him anywhere. I guess we're just not supposed to have him back anymore."

But two days later, just as sud- denly as he had gone, Jack came home! Freddy was out shoveling snow off the sidewalk, and Jack came bounding up the street just like he'd never been away from home. Everyone welcomed him back, and even Dad didn't say a word.

But our pleasure in our dog didn't last long. About a month later, Jack was lying on the front porch. Teddy Long, a tot about two who lived across the street from us, was playing on the sidewalk in front of his house. He toddled toward the curb, and was climbing down into the street when Jack leaped to the center of the street, barking furi- ously at the youngster. Just then a car came around the corner, and struck Jack. Jack wasn't dead, but nearly all his ribs were broken.

Dad sat up with him through two long nights, feeding him and nurs- ing him, but old Jack just couldn't make it.

Our only consolation was that Jack had undoubtedly sacrificed his life to save little Teddy; for the car could have struck the youngster just as easily. But this was a logic dif- ficult for youngsters to understand. Freddy cried as though his heart would break, and I guess I was pretty tearful myself.

After waiting so long to get our dog back, it was pretty tough, hav- ing to lose him so soon. Things were so glum around the house that Mother decided we ought to have a party to cheer things up. But it was no use . . . nothing could take the place of our lost dog. Even when spring came and Dad took us on a fishing trip, something was missing.

We were sitting on the porch one afternoon waiting for Dad to come home for supper. Freddy sighed and said:

"Poor old Jack."

Mother asked, "Boys, you're sure- ly not moaning about that dog yet, are you?"

Just then Dad swung the car into the driveway. From along side the house, we heard him honk the horn. Freddy ran to see what he wanted. Suddenly, he burst around the cor- ner of the house, carrying a squirm- ing puppy in his arms and shouting:

"Hey, Mom, look what Daddy brought home. He's our new dog, Mom . . . and you know what his name is, Mom? His name is Jack!"

Mom looked at Dad and smiled, and I thought I saw just the least sign of a tear in the corner of Dad's eye, as the new puppy kissed Fred- dy on the nose.

Evening Prayer

THIS is a holy time—be still, be still; Grace Noll Crowell

A child's white prayer is winging its sure way the throne of God. Across the sill t red light fades from the winter day, ung mother who is very wise
ing a child to pray.

ll white candles burn beside her chair,
the dusk; they center in the eyes kneeling child like twin stars shining there;
limmer through the twilight of the room,
ke a halo of the mother's hair.

than the candles or the sunset light the fruit born of this precious hour nted seed of faith will bear a white le flower,
t implanted in a child's heart may nder-fruit some future day.
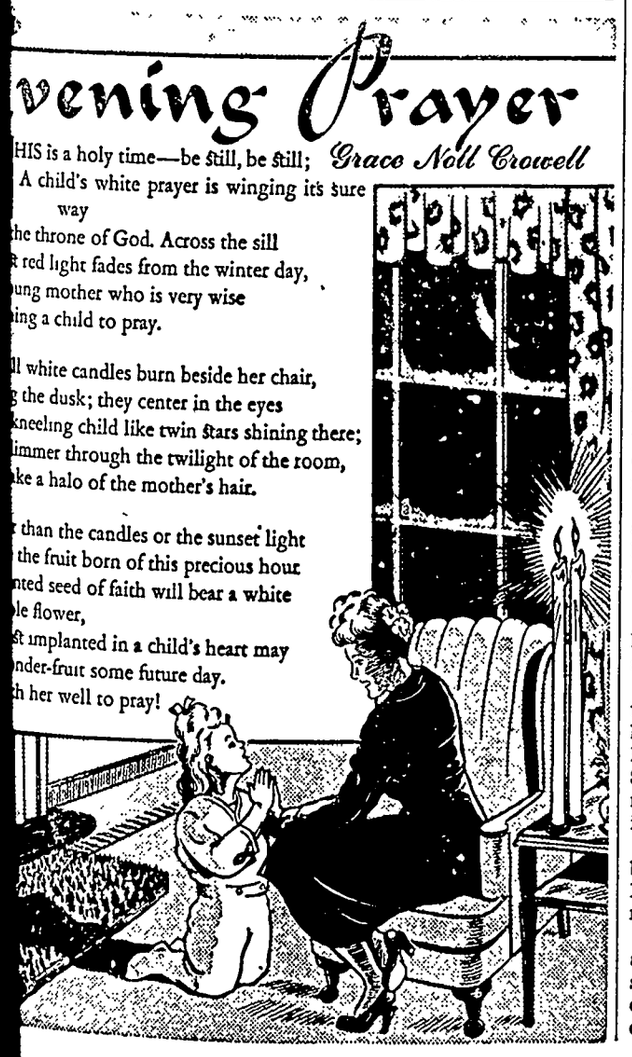
h her well to pray!



THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: I Samuel 2:1-10; II Samuel 1:19-27; Psalms 23—24; 103; 136:1-9; Lamentations 3:19-39; Habakkuk 3:17-19; Luke 1:46-55.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 147:1-12.

Truth Set to Music

Lesson for November 21, 1948

"THE opposite of poetry is not prose; it is science." There were poets in the world long before there were scientists, but that does not prove that poets are out of date. Many people in our modern world think we could not get along without sci- ence but could well burn all the books of poetry. If we did, it would be a dreadful mistake Poet and scientist each has his truth to see and to speak. We need them both. Certainly if we tried to burn all the poems we should have to destroy some of the best-loved parts of the Bible.

Dr. Foreman

* * *

Not All Poets Have Long Hair

SOME "practical" people sniff at poets for being peculiar. "Long- hairs" is a slang name for them as for other people who know some- thing besides arithmetic.

As a matter of fact, many poets are very practical people them- selves; engineers, farmers and sol- diers all have written poetry. The poets of the Bible are of many sorts. If you will look into an edition of the Bible in which the poetic sec- tions are printed as poetry is print- ed in other books, you will be im- pressed by the very large propor- tion of poetry, especially in the Old Testament. The new Study Bible or the American Revised Version or Moffatt's translation will show this at a glance.

These Bible poems are of va- rious kinds. Some are war- songs (Judges 5), some are prov- erbs (the book of Proverbs), drama (Job), love-songs (the Song of Songs), odes (Isaiah 40), prayers (Psalm 16), hymns for public worship (the Psalms).

The writers were never profes- sional poets, so far as we know. Of the poems which are this week's lesson Scripture, two were written by housewives, one by a sheep-herd- er, one or more by a soldier-king, one by a preacher (Habakkuk), and only one (Lamentations) possibly by a professional poet. The original Hebrew book of Lamentations does not claim Jeremiah for its author; but if he was the writer, then it was written by the most practical man of his time.

* * *

World's Greatest Hymn Book

"LET me write a nation's songs, and I care not who writes their laws," said a famous man. The same thing can be said about re- ligion. "Let me write a church's hymnbook, and I care not who writes their theologies."

The hymns our mothers loved, the hymns we heard before we heard any other kind of poetry, the hymns that we have learned by heart and that become a part of our minds— these mean far more to most peo- ple than all the printed creeds.

Now the Christian religion is a singing religion. Our very first hymnbook was the Book of Psalms, and all the hymnals since, down to the present day, grew out of this one book in the Bible. It is the greatest hymn- book in the world; not the long- est nor the oldest, but the great- est in its influence for good upon mankind.

* * *

Poetry Was in Jesus Blood

OF OUR Lord Jesus himself, it truly can be said, poetry was in his veins. He came of a poetic family His most famous ancestor, David, was a poet; another royal ancestor, Hezekiah, wrote poetry. The book he knew best, the Old Testament, was full of poetry. His own mother Mary, before he was born, sang a song of her own mak- ing, so beautiful that it is still sung in Christian churches and loved the world around.

When Jesus died on the cross, two of the last seven sentences that came from his lips were quotations from the Psalms. The poetry of his people was in his blood, for in his last agony the words that came from his break- ing heart were words first spok- en by the poets of the Bible long ago.

So it is always. "Truth in song will tarry long." Today and al- ways, the parts of the Bible which are most cherished, the parts most often learned by heart, the parts which we carry with us to the val- ley of the shadow of death, are the truths set to music, long centuries ago, by inspired men who knew how to clothe truth with garments of shining and immortal loveliness

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERNS

Junior Frock Is Simple Sewing Scallops Trim Button Fronter

Simple Sewing

HERE'S something simple for a young sewer. The results are rewardingly handsome. Use a bright plaid for this yoked style, and have short or push-up sleeves.

* * *

Pattern No 1703 comes in sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12, three-quarter sleeve, 3¾ yards of 35 or 39-inch.

Front Buttons

A NEAT, extremely pretty day- time frock for the more ma- ture figure. It comes in a wide size range. It buttons down the front, has nice scalloped detail at the shoulders.

* * *

Pattern No. 3281 is for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, short sleeve, 5 yards of 39-inch.

Send for your copy of the Fall and Winter FASHION — 60 pages of smart, easy-to-make styles; special designs, fab- ric news—free doll pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.
Pattern No. Size
Name
Address

Honey During the Ages

Interesting are the stories of symbolic ceremonies associated with weddings among people of Asia, Africa, and Europe. Not the least of these tells of the part played by honey. Honey was re- spected as an important commodi- ty, as a symbol of sweetness in family relations, and of protection against evil spirits, and as a food. History records that in the mar- riage contracts of ancient Egypt the bridegroom has to promise his bride a definite amount of honey each year. Among the Hindus and certain Central European people honey was used to bless the home or anoint the bridal couple. In Rome and among the Slavs honey or a honey beverage was served to the bride and the bridegroom as a special part of the ceremony. In a few countries some of these and similar customs still persist.

Crunchy toasted Kellogg's All-Bran muffins laced with cheese . . . you'll get "raves" on these every time!

2 tablespoons melted shortening	1 cup sifted flour
1 egg, slightly beaten	2½ teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup milk	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	1 cup grated American cheese

1. Combine shortening, egg and milk; add All-Bran and let soak for five minutes.
2. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add cheese. Add to first mix- ture and stir only until combined.
3. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 25 minutes.

Yield: 9 muffins (2¼ inch size).

America's most famous natural laxative cereal —try a bowlful tomorrow.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

ARE YOU A HEAVY SMOKER?

Change to SANO—the distinctive cigarette with

51.6%* LESS NICOTINE

Not a Substitute—Not Medicated

Sano's scientific process cuts nico- tine content to half that of ordinary cigarettes. Yet skillful blending makes every puff a pleasure.

FLEMING-HALL TOBACCO CO., INC., N. Y.

Average based on continuing tests of popular brands*

ASK YOUR DOCTOR ABOUT SANO CIGARETTES

IF PETER PAIN HAS YOU ALL TIED UP WITH CHEST COLD
● Rub in Ben-Gay, quick! Gently warming Ben-Gay brings speedy, welcome relief from chest-cold discom- fort. You see, Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times more methyl salicylate and menthol—two pain-relieving agents known to all doctors—than five other widely offered rub-ins. Insist on genuine Ben-Gay, the orig- inal Baume Analgésique.
Also for Pain due to RHEUMATISM, MUSCLE ACHE, and STRAINS.
Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.
QUICK... RUB IN Ben-Gay

Here's How Throat Specialists Proved

CAMEL MILDNESS

in 30-Day Smoking Test!

● In a recent test, hundreds of men and women smoked Camels — and only Camels — for thirty consecutive days. Smoked an average of one to two packs a day. Each week, the throats of these smokers were exam- ined by noted throat specialists — a total of 2470 examinations. These throat specialists found NOT ONE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

Prove it Yourself! Make the Camel 30-Day Test in Your "T-Zone"

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

CPL. H. E. HARVEY IN FRANCE

So many have written for Elwood Harvey's address, which is as follows:

Cpl. H. E. Harvey
Room 316,
American Embassy,
2nd Avenue Gabriel,
Paris 8, France.

Cpl. Harvey is doing special work for the U. S. Government in his new work in France.

DON'T DELAY IN

Winterizing Your Car

- Adjust Brakes
- Check Your Battery
- Protect Your Radiator
- Get Winter Lubrication
- Have Your Engine Tuned Up

WRECKER SERVICE
Day Phone 38 Night Phone 144R2 or 51F42

HANCOCK COUNTY COOP. OIL ASSOCIATION
Harold Kothenbeutel, Mgr. Klemme, Ia.

SHAMROCK NEWS

Editor ---------- Iris Rosendahl
Asst. Ed. ------ Donna Fjetland
Hi School Rep. ------- Maurice Trumbell
Grade Rep. ---- Isabelle Gibbs
Sports ---------- Robert Baack

HIGH SCHOOL HI-LIGHTS

The Juniors are quite happy this morning and they have a good reason to be. They received their class rings this forenoon and they are really thrilled over it. They are a little ahead of the Seniors because the Seniors just got theirs a few weeks ago. We must admit, though, that their rings are very pretty.

Armistice Day gave us a chance to hear an interesting speech by Reverend Egeland. It also gave us a chance to get out of school for a half day of vacation. The band did a very good job under the direction of Mr. Andreae. Mr. Bulka was at Alexander so Mr. Andreae substituted.

Classes are progressing nicely and by next week we will have our six weeks tests. Just how nice they will be we have yet to discover. It is our opinion that no one will exactly appreciate them.

Ever day now it seems that another student gets the chicken pox. We wish to say that we hope to see everyone well and back in school again very soon!

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council and students of Klemme High School wish to thank you for your cooperation and assistance in making our magazin drive a successful one. The Student Council's share from the magazine selling was approximately a $180.00. This money will be used for the benefit of the students in one way or another. The plan at present is to try and buy black-out curtains for the gym windows but if the cost is too high this money will be used in other ways as paying for assembly programs, etc. And again we wish to thank you.

ATHLETICS

Season tickets went on sale this week and are being sold by members of the basketball teams. The sale will continue until the first home game with Woden on November 19th. The price of the season ticket is $4.00 for ten home games or 40 cents per game. Regular admission will be 50 cents per game. Let's buy a season ticket and save $1.00. Back your team by attending every game.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Klemme High School will field its first girls basketball team this winter. The team will be coached by Mr. Juhl who is also the seventh and eighth grade teacher in the school system. The interest seems to be high with about twenty-four high school girls interested in playing and this number will be bolstered by possibly seventh and eighth grade girls who are also eligible to compete in girls basketball. It is planned to schedule a few games and at this time five games have been scheduled. Hayfield has been scheduled for two games, Kanawha (girls team for the first year) for two games and Rowan for one game. It is not expected that the girls will be too successful this year but we hope that with a year of learning that they will be winner in future years. The games that have been scheduled will replace the second team games on the schedule.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Donna Fjetland, the brains of the class, gets grades without studying.

I wonder why her hobby is shows. Is it the shows of the dark and a certain young man Donna? Her favorite pastime is roller skating, which we have noticed by all the trips to Cornelia. There must be some nice boys around the rink to hold her interest.

Her favorite song is "Rainbow At Midnight," the reason for this is that midnight is usually the time when she gets home.

Bookkeeping is the subject she likes best. Her ambition is undecided, but it will probaby be a house wife.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

It seems the chicken pox has the best of our class president, Mary Ann Blumer. We all wish you a speedy recovery Mary Ann.

We have had a movie on "Preserving Foods" in Biology which we thought very interesting. Also we have been learning the different types of worms and their characteristics.

In our History class we saw a movie which told us how the government of the United States functions.

It seems Geometry has not been so hard for us since Mr. Andreae does most of the difficult work for us.

Most of our studying in Literature has been the different types of essays.

Next week is six weeks test, therefore we suppose there will be more studying than usual.

MENU

Monday, November 22:
Juice
Potatoes
Baked Beans
Buttered Corn
Prunes
Bread and Butter
Milk

Tuesday, November 23:
Juice
Chili
Lettuce
Half an Apple
Bread and Butter
Milk

Wednesday, November 24:
Thanksgiving Dinner

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res. Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

For Quick Truck Delivery On
D.X PRODUCTS
Phone 149-R2
ERNEST
HENSCHEN
Klemme, Iowa

NEW 4-H CLUB FOR TWIN LAKE TWP.

Twin Lake girls met at the home of Beverly Sheriff to organize a new 4-H club. The name selected for the club was the Twin Lake Go-Getters.

The officers elected were as follows: Betty Johnson, president; Beverly Sheriff, vice president; Faye Janssen, Secretary; Shirley Johnson, Treasurer; Loretta Foss, reporter; and Darlene Bunn, Historian. Mrs. Kenneth Johnson and Mrs. Wm. Sheriff were chosen as the new leaders.

Any girls who are interested in coming to the next meeting may contact any of the officers or leaders.

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

KITCHEN SUPPLIES FOR THANKSGIVING DINNERS . . .

- Roasters
- Kitchen Cutlery
- Food Mixers
- Electric Roasters
- Pyrex Ware
- Aluminum Ware
- Mixing Bowls

KLEMME HDW. COMPANY
Klemme - Iowa

THANK YOU
AND ANNOUNCING . . .

That I have sold my business, includ building, equipment and stock to Wilbur Ha ner, who is now in possession of the repair sh and service station, which I operated.

I want to take this means of expressing sincere thanks to all for their good will and p ronage extended me during the time I ha been in Klemme. Your support and frien ship was greatly appreciated.

EARLE SMITH
Smith's Service Klemme, Io

Garner American Legion

GIFFORD OLSON POST
Presents Its Eleventh Annual
Feather Party
AT THE BOCK MOTORS - OIL - TRANSPORT
(Pontiac Garage)
At Garner Beginning At 7:30 P. M.
Saturday, Nov. 20th
TURKEYS - DUCKS - GEESE - CHICKENS
EVERYONE WELCOME—FUN FOR ALL
The Auxiliary Will Serve Lunches

Thada's

The Store Of Everyday Low Prices!

FRIDAY & SAT., NOV. 19 & 20

A Few of the Many Money Saving Items

BOLOGNA COURSE GROUND Per Pound 39c

MACARONI 2 lb. box -- 29c
SPAGHETTI 2 lb. box -- 29c

Whole Kernel CORN 2 No. 2 cans ---- 29c
Only 29c

For That Added Flavor Use CHOCOLATE CHIPS -- 19c

GROUND BEEF lb. 39c

SUPER SUDS large box -- 29c
MATCHES 6 box carton -- 29c

Self Polishing Wax FLOR-GLAZE per qrt. -- 49c
Pound Package Of MARSHMALLOWS Only -- 29c

Quaker Oats 3 pound tube 33c

CATSUP large 14 oz. bottle 15c
CRANBERRIES per can - 19c

PURE PORK SAUSAGE per pound 35c

Thada's
A Good Store In A Good Town Klemme, Ia.
Highest Market Price For Your Eggs CASH or Trade

Sure There's A SANTA CLAUS - - - -

. . . AND HE'S RIGHT HERE AT OUR STORE!

And on Wednesday, December 22nd Santa Claus is going to give away o FIFTY nice Christmas Gifts at our Store, including the following:

Majestic Console Radio and Record Player	$210.
Portable G. E. Radio, standard and short wave	$ 99.
Universal Electric Bed Blanket	$ 39.
Eureka Cordless Electric Flat Iron	$ 19.
2-Slice Electric Toaster	$ 13.
3 Kinkless Extension Cords, each valued at	$ 2.

ASSORTMENT OF MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS

Also about FIFTY other miscellaneous items including kitchen cutlery, ut sils, flashlights, soap, etc. etc. All FREE!

See these fine Gifts in our show window and then come in and ask us fof tails as to how you may receive one of these gifts absolutely free.

JOSTEN APPLIANCE
SHELLANE GAS Phone 149-R2 KLEMME, IO

CORN PICKER

corn-picking accidents last William Kahn and his Gale, of New Hampton, lost limbs. But on successive days, Kahn lost his jacket, which torn from his body, and caught in the same ma-, lost his pants.

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS
Osteopathis Physician
Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

Notice

Drowsiness, nausea, and fever without any apparent reason may be signs of allergy. The sufferer may be able to trace the source of his allergy by carefully watching his diet, but the treatment is then up to a doctor who will prescribe a proper remedy. The story points out some unusual causes of allergy, and shows how an allergy is tracked down. Read "Have you An Alergy?" in the American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD - AMERICAN.

Celebrated 12th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neuberger and family of Clear Lake; Mrs. Lewis Neuberger and Wert Loger; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neuberger and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Neuberger and family came with well filled baskets to the Clarence Lemke home Monday evening, November 15th to help Mr. and Mrs. Lemke celebrate their 12th wedding anniversary.

Entertained Saturday Bridge Club

Mrs. M. L. Harson entertained the Saturday Bridge Club at her home on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Orville Bridges won the high score in bridge and Mrs. Ed. Buntenbach scored second high for the afetrnoon. A nice lunch was served by the hostess.

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

NOVEBER 17, 18
Wednes. - Thursday
A BUMSTEAD KNOCK-OUT!
BLONDIE'S REWARD
PENNY SINGLETON
ARTHUR LAKE

NOVEMBER 19, 20
Friday - Saturday
BLAZING, BLASTING ACTION!
"LASH" LaRUE
GHOST TOWN RENEGADES
With
AL "FUZZY" ST. JOHN

NOVEMBER 21, 22, 23
Sun. - Mon - Tues.
A LOVE STORY TOO BOLDLY LIVED!
THE WALLS OF JERICHO
Starring
CORNELL WILDE
LINDA DARNELL
ANNE BAXTER
KIRK DOUGLAS
ANN DVORAK

NOVEMBER 24, 25
Wednes. - Thursday
THE SAINTED SISTERS
BARRY FITZGERALD
VERONICA LAKE
JOAN CAULFIELD

WANTED

Every Methodist woman to donate a cup or dish towel to the church. Please have it marked, and bring Thursday, as they are much needed.

The Goodwill Truck

The Goodwill truck will make its next visit to Klemme Tuesday, November 23rd. It will help if material is brought to the Methodist Church.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE—PUREBRED BERKshire Boars. Vaccinated and eligible to register. 4 mi. west, 3 mi. north of Klemme. Paul Zrostlik, Garner. (Dec. 1 tp)

FOR SALE—LADIES SUMMER coat, also winter coat. Bust measure 53. Call Times Office. (1tc)

FOR SALE—TRUCK CHAINS: 1 pr 32-600 single; 1 pr. 620 dual, 1 pr. 560-20 dual. Dwight Hummel, Klemme (1tc)

FOR SALE—A C CIRCULAR saw mount for tractor Northern Lumber Implements. (1tc)

FOR SALE—POLAND CHINA boars, choice of 25 head. The easy feeding, faster maturing kind. Priced to sell O. W. Friedow, phone Britt 4616. (tfc)

FOR SALE—80 ACRES CLARion and Webster soil, fair buildings. Located 2 mi. north, 4¼ mi. east of Klemme. See Curtis Riehm, Garner. (tfc)

FOR SALE—TWO GOOD LOTS. Sarah Goll. (2tp)

FOR SALE — PURE BRED Black Poland China Boars. Alvin Goll. (2tp)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal. We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO, Goodell, Iowa.

FOR SALE THE G S C. S of the Methodist Church are taking orders now for Christmas Cards at $1 00 per box. (tfc)

Miscellaneous

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident. (Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS— ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired Expert workmanship, reasonable prices. Times Office (tfc)

Lost And Found

LOST — BLACK GILT TUESday, wt. about 250. Reward to finder. Call Herman Meints, Klemme. (1tp)

Card Of Thanks

I want to take this means of expressing my sincere thanks to friends and relatives who so kindly remembered me with their flowers, cards and gifts while I was a patient at the Hampton hospital. Everything you did for me was greatly appreciated . Mrs. Arthur Schoenwetter. (1tc)

We wish to thank all who were so kind to us and who assisted us in our recent sorrow. We also want to thank all who contributed flowers and expressions of sympathy in memory of our son and brother, LeRoy.
Mrs. Tillie Bachman
Martin and Eugene Bachman
Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bachman
Mr. and Mrs. Raymon Bachman
Mr and Mrs. Robert Yohn. (1tp)

We would like to say Thanks so very much to the many organizations, clubs and individuals, who sent flowers, gifts, letters and cards, also those who visited Mrs. Weaver while she was confined to the hospital, and also when she returned. We would especially like to thank Rev. Stuebbe, and everyone who helped care for our two sons. Your thoughtfulness and kindness will long be remembered. Mr. and Mrs. Emory Weaver. (1tc)

Klemme Youth Honored At University

A resident of your community, Melvin Coobs has recently been initiated into the national honorary engineering fraternity, Tau Beta Pi at Iowa University.

Qualifications for election to this, the outstanding engineering honorary in the country, include high scholarship standing and excellent character. Mr Coobs is a senior student of Electrical Engineering at the State University of Iowa.

DROWNS

Death by drowning, following an auto accident, was the fate of Orlan Gorsch, 26, of Marengo. Probably due to fog, his car hit a concrete bridge and upset, throwing Gorsch into a ditch in two feet of water. Apparently, he was not seriously hurt by the accident itself.

At Maquoketa, the post-office received a card addressed to a former resident, who left that city 35 years ago. The card had been mailed in 1908.

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office Over Federated Store
Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

Arthur Wellemeyer
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
—with long experince and best equipment.
PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE
Phone 23-R2 Day or Night
Klemme - Iowa

AUCTIONEER
- FARM SALES
- HOUSEHOLD GOODS
- STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
SWALVE
Klemme - Iowa

THANK YOU

I am sincerely grateful for the loyal support shown me in the general election.

Very truly yours,

CURTIS G. RIEHM
COUNTY ATTORNEY

to Go ROCK ISLAND

Bad weather needn't delay your trip—if you go Rock Island. In the solid comfort of Rock Island's modern Sleeping Cars or Coaches, you're cozy and contented no matter what the weather outside.

Speed consistent with safety . . . dependable, on-time service . peace of mind all the way . . . that's Rock Island transportation! To be sure you'll get there—take the train.

For travel information, reservations and tickets, consult:
M. L. HARSON, Agent
Klemme, Iowa

ROCK ISLAND LINES
the road of Planned Progress

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF
Dead Stock

Phone
KLEMME ---------- 580
BELMOND ---------- 580

We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.

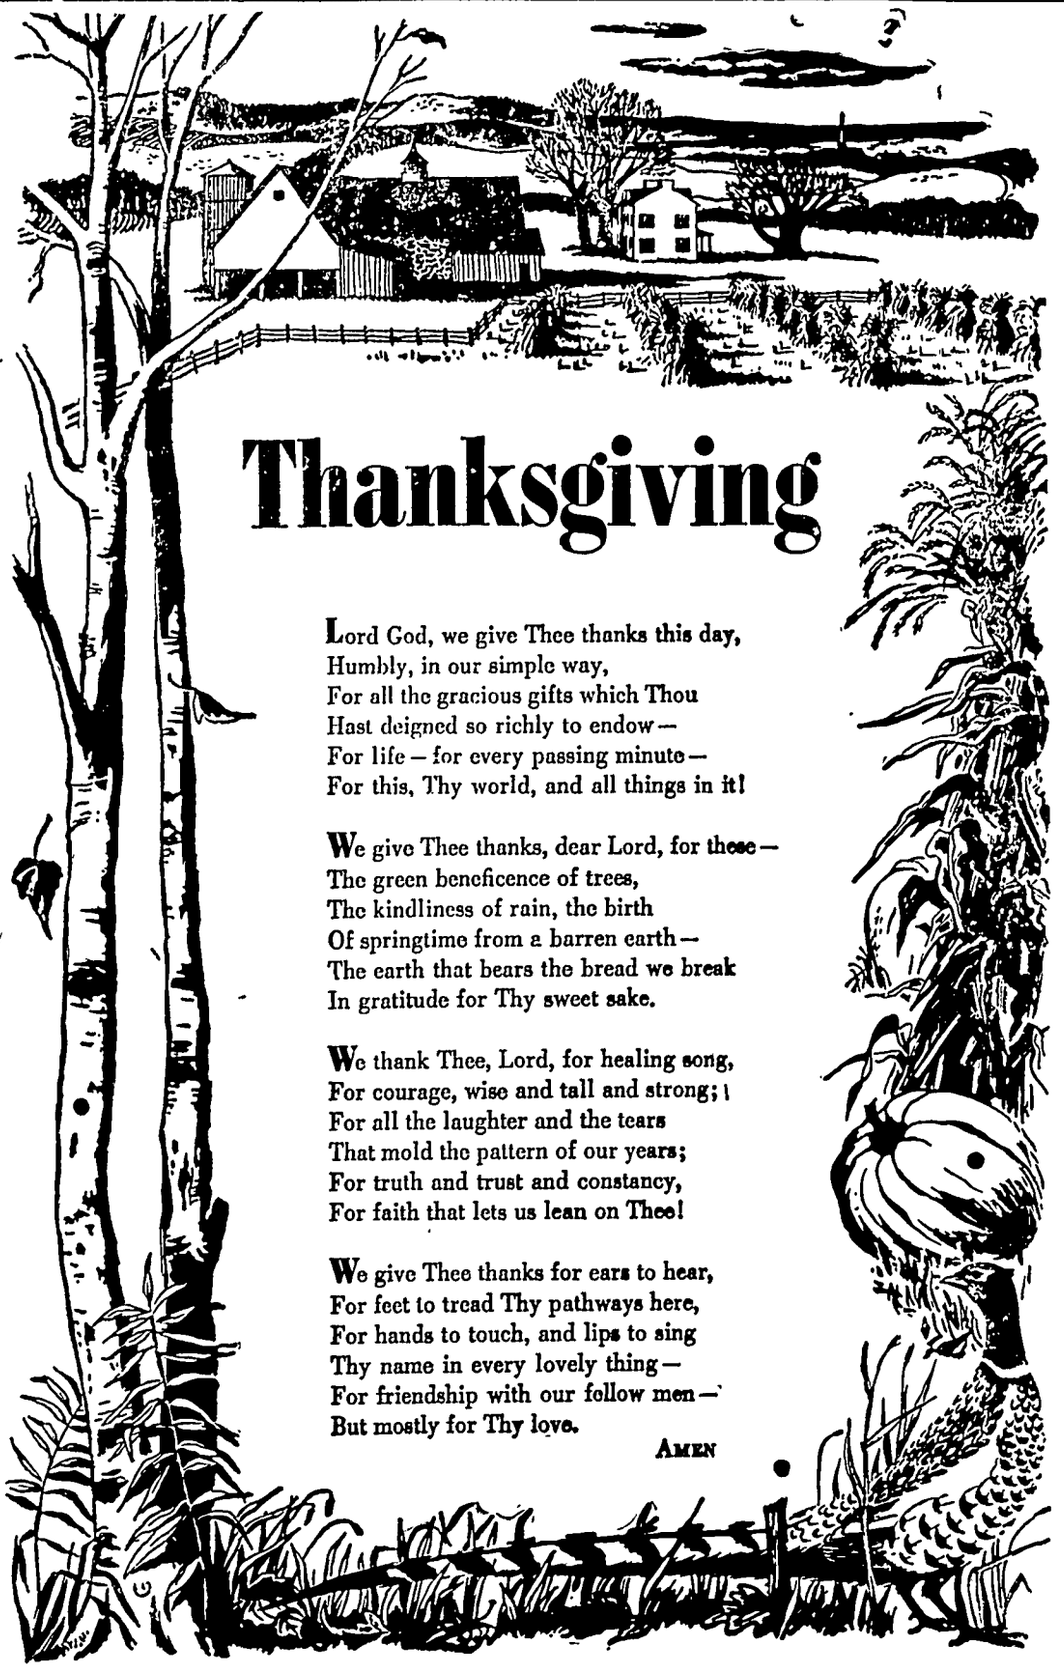
Belmond By-Products
"Your Home Plant"
Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa.

YOUR HEALTH IS YOUR FORTUNE

So Drink Plenty of Milk ! !

From babyhood and throughout your life rich, wholesome milk is your protective food . . . your strength building food . . . the food for stamina. Full of essential vitamins and minerals, it should be included in every diet. Call 57 and have your milk delivered regularly.

KLEMME COOP. CREAMERY COMPANY



Thanksgiving

Lord God, we give Thee thanks this day,
Humbly, in our simple way,
For all the gracious gifts which Thou
Hast deigned so richly to endow—
For life—for every passing minute—
For this, Thy world, and all things in it!

We give Thee thanks, dear Lord, for these—
The green beneficence of trees,
The kindliness of rain, the birth
Of springtime from a barren earth—
The earth that bears the bread we break
In gratitude for Thy sweet sake.

We thank Thee, Lord, for healing song,
For courage, wise and tall and strong;
For all the laughter and the tears
That mold the pattern of our years;
For truth and trust and constancy,
For faith that lets us lean on Thee!

We give Thee thanks for ears to hear,
For feet to tread Thy pathways here,
For hands to touch, and lips to sing
Thy name in every lovely thing—
For friendship with our follow men—
But mostly for Thy love.

AMEN

CENTRAL STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY

FELCO

Look Over This List of Feeds

Feeds Are No Better Because The Are Manufactured Outside Of Klemme!

FELCO PIG MEAL 26%
FELCO HOG FEED 40%
FELCO MINERAL
FELCO CHICK MASH 17%
FELCO SCRATCH GRAIN
FELCO LAYING MASH 20%

FELCO Feeds Are Made Here In Our Mixer

KEEP OUR MEN BUSY MIXING!
WHY NOT BUY FROM YOUR COMPANY
YOUR COOPERATIVE?

Klemme Coop. Grain Company
"The Farmers Elevator" Glen Bridges, Manager

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russ Reject U. N. Berlin Proposal; Stalin Hits Three Western Powers As Attempting to Start a New War

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DIFFERENT COAL STRIKE . . . French troops in battle array march into the Villiers mine in the St. Etienne area of France as the government seized strike-bound coal mines throughout northern France. Vicious rioting and assorted civil battles preceded the government's action in taking over the mines.

REJECTION:
U. N. Proposal

Russia wouldn't play ball with the United Nations on the settlement of the Berlin dispute.

A six-power "face-saving" resolution for solving the crisis was presented to the U. N. security council and promptly batted down by the Soviets—to the surprise of no one concerned.

THE RESOLUTION proposed that Russia lift the Berlin blockade immediately; that the four military governors of Germany begin immediate negotiations to implement the Moscow agreement of August 30 for a Soviet-backed, four-power controlled mark in Berlin by November 20, and that a foreign ministers' council be convened within 10 days thereafter to take up other serious differences over Germany.

Russia's stated objection to the resolution was that it provided for the lifting of the blockade before the currency control went into effect.

Previously, the western powers had turned down Andrei Vishinsky's counter proposal for simultaneous lifting of the blockade and putting into effect the currency agreement.

IN REALITY, this point of difference upon which the latest deadlock centered was a minor one, but it served to illustrate the vast gap that must be closed before a meeting of minds between the East and West can be achieved.

MOREOVER, it has become increasingly clear that Moscow does not even have any desire to lift the blockade. It is, for them, too good a weapon with which to attempt to bludgeon the U. S. and the West into granting them further concessions in Germany, including a voice in the operation of the all-valuable Ruhr industrial area.

STALIN TALKS:
'Horrors'

In what is probably the most amazing outburst he has made since the war, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin told the world that the U. S., Great Britain and France are seeking a new war through a "policy of aggression."

The accusation, despite the high level of its source, amounted to nothing more than a repetition of the already stereotyped Russian practice of attempting to turn an opponent's reasoning back on him.

HOWEVER, he added, the "public forces favoring peace" are too strong to permit "the instigators of a new war" to plunge the world again into the "horrors" of conflict.

Stalin named Winston Churchill as "the main instigator of a new war" and predicted that Churchill's "pupils of aggression" would be rejected by the people just as Churchill has been.

Although he did not label President Truman or any other leader as a "pupil in aggression," the implication was too clear to be mistaken, particularly since the Moscow radio had broadcast a prediction that Mr. Truman would be defeated on November 2.

STALIN accused the U. S. and Britain of twice rejecting settlements of the Berlin crisis with Russia and said that debate on the Berlin question in the U. N. security council "was a display of aggression on the part of Anglo-American and French ruling circles."

The British and Americans, the Soviet premier said, declared "null and void" an agreement reached in the Kremlin conferences August 30 that would have lifted the Soviet blockade and ended the crisis.

HE CHARGED that the western powers fear "most of all" to reach any agreement with the Soviet Union

"What they want is not agreement and cooperation, but talk about agreement and cooperation, so as to put the blame on the U. S. S. R. by preventing agreement, and to 'prove' that cooperation is impossible."

Stalin's statement obviously was issued as a high-powered propaganda stroke—a move the Russians undoubtedly hoped would tip the Berlin scales in their favor

Old-Fashioned, but . . .

Toothaches are old-fashioned. That is the opinion of Dr John C. Brauer of the University of Washington school of dentistry, a leading authority on children's dentistry and care of the teeth.

Dr. Brauer said few children would experience dental pain during their lives if they practiced preventive measures now known to dental science. Most older people are doomed because of their past habits.

Headliners

IN YORK, Pa. . . . Mrs. Walter Sechrist made a wide-eyed announcement that her gas range picks up short wave transmissions made by her next-door neighbor, an amateur radio operator, vowed it had broadcast a conversation between the neighbor and another operator in South America.

IN SALEM, Mass. . . . Robert C. Carter claimed in a divorce suit that his wife had deserted him a block from the church just two minutes after they were married in 1944.

IN HAGERSTOWN, Mo.... Thieves broke into the Potomac Edison building, got away with a specially equipped camera set up to take pictures of thieves breaking into the Potomac Edison building.

IN LITTLE BRICKHILL, Eng. . . . Postmaster N. C. Parrott looked down his nose at the man with the gun trying to rob him of his postal receipts, sneered, "The revolver is not loaded, you know." "Sorry," said the crushed desperado, slinking away.

IN DURAND, Wis. . . . Frank Weimirski was forced to reassure his customers as to the fact that he still was in the popcorn and soft drink business after he began making deliveries with an old hearse.

BLUFFING:
In Berlin

Gen. H. H. Arnold, wartime commander-in-chief of the U. S. air forces, turned up in the news with a military man's hearty opinion about what to do with the Russians in Berlin.

"WHY NOT take a motor convoy and push it through the corridor to Berlin?" he suggested. "Perhaps we might have learned something from Gen. George Patton's technique If Patton were running the show he would take it through."

Russia, he claimed, is attempting a tremendous bluff against the U. S. and the western allies, but is "not ready to fight, doesn't want to fight and won't fight" if someone should call her bluff.

WHAT would the Russians do if an armed convoy did plow through the blockade? "Not much, if anything," was Arnold's laconic estimate.

"It would be a grave and basic error to let the Communists bluff us out in the present deadlock in Germany.

" ney are not ready to fight and they do not want to fight. We should curb the national tendency to be in awe of the Russians, an awe amounting almost to fear.

"TIME plays with the Russians. We have the superior power now. They may have it later. Meantime, it would be folly to let them bridge the gap by bluff alone."

Whether he was right or wrong, Hap Arnold at least had done the worrying U. S. public one favor: By reducing the problem to hard, simple terms of pure action and divorcing it from the intricate realm of diplomacy he made it appear more understandable, less overwhelming and less frightening. General Arnold, at least, isn't expecting a war tomorrow.

TREATY:
On the Way?

In view of the existing physical and ideological rift which has divided the world into two opposing battalions, it has come to seem almost inevitable that the western bloc sooner or later would devise some kind of formal military treaty for the mutual protection of the nations concerned.

AND A few days before the election word began to creep out from among "high American sources" that a military treaty was on the way.

The report was that drafting was scheduled to begin soon of an agreement pledging full aid to the five-nation Brussels alliance of western Europe. Results of the U. S. election were in no way supposed to affect the plan, since both major parties had committed themselves in principle to backing the Brussels alliance.

SUCH AN alliance supposedly will link the United States and Canada in formal treaty relationships with Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

From a behind-the-scenes standpoint, this will not be a new move. It is highly probable, indeed, that the broad outlines of a north Atlantic pact—with some details sketched in—has been in existence for some time.

The alliance is expected to commit the U S. and Canada to:

1. BUILD up air, land and sea forces of the Brussels powers.
2. STANDARDIZE equipment and training
3. CREATE a seven-nation unified military strategic command under an American commander-in-chief.
4. PLEDGE a guarantee of each nation's territorial integrity in case of war.
5. GIVE the North American powers the right to establish air, land or sea bases in any of the five other countries.

U. S. officials expect that the treaty will be ready for ratification by the middle of 1949, barring extraordinary events. How congress will react to such a treaty is, for the time being, a debatable question.

SHIPBUILDING:
Navy Expands

Increasing importance in the minds of U. S. defense chiefs of underwater and air warfare, including consideration of possible attacks across the Arctic, was revealed in a statement outlining the navy's post-war shipbuilding program.

Vice Adm. Earle M. Mills, chief of the bureau of ships, listed the development of advanced prototypes in four major fields as the aim of the building and conversion plan:

"FIRST, aircraft carriers capable of handling the fast, heavy long-range naval planes developed and under development since the war; second, high-speed, deep-submergence submarines; third, anti-submarine vessels to combat these submarines; fourth, ships equipped for Polar and picket service."

Battleships were not mentioned in the statement, nor was there any direct reference to preparations against air attack over the roof of the globe, but the program's emphasis on polar ships was considered self-explanatory.

IN THIS phase of the program, two destroyer escorts and two submarines will be specially fitted for off-shore aircraft detection. One cargo ship and two floating drydocks for landing ships will be converted for service in polar waters.

The aircraft carrier part of the program includes the construction, to begin late this year or early in 1949, of the yet-unnamed supercarrier of 85,000 tons, designated as the CVA-58.

Conspicuous First

One of the minor sidelights of the late, great election was provided by Mrs. Fannie Rockwell of Danbury, Conn. She turned 104 years old on October 25 and celebrated this chronological attainment six days later, on November 2, by casting a vote for the first time in her life.

RED PRICES:
Going Up

America doesn't have a capitalistic monopoly on inflation. Russia is getting her share of that uncomfortable condition, too.

Here's what happened in Russia in August: Postal and telegraph rates were boosted 33⅓ per cent. Train fares and long distance phone call rates went up in varying amounts. In Moscow subway fares jumped 25 per cent and streetcar fares from 50 to 100 per cen'

Washington Digest

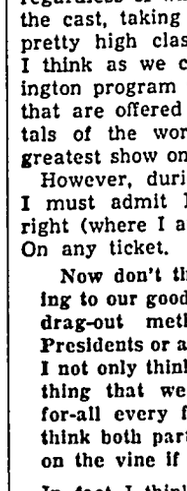
Elections Will Bring Out Those Cave Man Instincts

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—I know you may find it hard to believe, but I was not greatly stirred up over the election campaign and its outcome. I have a job and it's as tough under one party as another. I have no vote, and between you and me, I am not agitating for a civil rights bill which will get me one.

Like all of the citizens of the District of Columbia, I share the delightful irresponsibility with minors, idiots and criminals who don't have a vote either.

Thus, I am without political affiliation, obligation, or prejudice.



Baukhage

Well — sometimes I do have one prejudice—a race prejudice. Sometimes I get awfully prejudiced against the human race.

Another reason that I am not politically excited this year is that I have been watching the Washington vaudeville show from a good seat in the gallery press and radio gallery—most of the time for the past three decades, and although the performers have changed, there hasn't been to much alteration of the script. A Republican or a Democratic politician, to a reporter, smells no sweeter by any name.

It is my business to report what they do and say, and, of course, from my standpoint, the more they do and say, the better—let the brickbats fall where they may.

I have observed a good many acts on the Washington scene that got top billing—and deserved it. I have also listened to a lot of pretty sad comedians and seen a lot of hams.

But on the whole I believe that, regardless of who happens to be in the cast, taking it all in all, it's a pretty high class drama In fact, I think as we compare the Washington program with most of those that are offered by the other capitals of the world, it's really the greatest show on earth.

However, during campaign time I must admit I would rather be right (where I am) than President. On any ticket.

Now don't think I am objecting to our good old knock-down, drag-out method of electing Presidents or any other officials. I not only think it's a wonderful thing that we have this free-for-all every four years, but I think both parties would wither on the vine if we didn't.

In fact I think the abandonment of our method would probably bring crashing to the ground the palladium of our republic, would destroy our opportunity to pursue life, liberty ahd happiness—and the weekly pay envelope—and would reduce these United States to such a condition that the Indians wouldn't take the property back if we offered it to them.

I base this statement not upon mere guess but upon sound scientific studies of the question of why we behave like human beings (when we do).

Now I don't know how far you will go along with the psychiatrists who claim your athlete's foot is due to a complex created when you were two years old by having your big brother drop a baseball bat on your toe. Nevertheless I think one thing has been established by psychiatry—a truism confirmed by writers and poets of all ages and which you can confirm yourself by going over some of your own inner thoughts. Especially when you think what you'd like to do to the man who crumpled your fender while you were attending prayer meeting.

I refer to the accepted truism that even the most benign and mild-mannered Mr. Milquetoast has a caveman deep within him.

One has only to observe one's own angel-child who, on his way home from Sunday School, and in cooperation with the angel-children of one's neighbors, will tie a can to a dog's tail or engage in a dozen other "humane" activities that would give a visiting cannibal from the South Seas something to write home about.

We DO have a caveman within us; we DO have primitive, aggressive instincts. We have the instinct to give pain, to destroy, to take advantage of our fellow-man. The early period of our lives is spent in being taught to turn these instincts to good purpose. The psychologists call it "sublimating" them. The sadistic inclination of a medical student can be transmuted, under the influence of civilized society, to make him the finest surgeon.

The desire to plunder and rob and destroy, common to even the most angelic little ones, can be channeled into the ingenuity by which the engineer moves mountains and captains of industry push railways through the forest, and thus benefit instead of harm mankind.

Do you suppose we could put on that greatest of all exhibitions—a World Series game—if it weren't for the old cave-man?

I have heard it said that baseball has become the monarch of sports because it brings into play so many of the primitive emotions. First, we have pursuit, without which primitive man could not get the food necessary to sustain himself and his family (or even a wife to raise the family).

Then—another primitive pastime used in baseball—pity the poor cave-man who couldn't accurately heave a rock! It only requires plenty of practice in a summer camp plus what was learned in the sandlot to turn that basic desire into the ability to pitch a no-hit, no-run game.

Take one more example. As the cave-man progressed, he learned to use a club. So there it is—base runner, pitcher, batsman.

Primitive Urges Basic in Democracy

Just as the sublimation of primitive instinct has formed the great sport of the greatest democracy in the world—so the sublimation of some of these instincts behind ancient tribal customs has made our democracy itself possible.

In a successful democracy, instincts are not repressed. They are merely modified so that they fit into a human and humane society.

As you know, by the time man had reached the point where he had organized himself into a clan, it was the "papa" who ran things. He was the chief because he had the one quality most essential in those days for self and group protection—strength.

His term of office was not limited by statute. Some of the chiefs even ran for a fourth term.

But as the "papa" grew older—if not wiser—he also grew weaker. But his sons were growing stronger. Finally they felt it was time to hold an election. (They had had their primaries of course, and had picked a candidate). Then the campaign began. It was usually quite short—but very snappy. Both candidates were armed with good-sized clubs. The debate took place at some point where the non-voting but interested electorate (this was before women's suffrage) could watch with as little personal danger as possible.

Of course the best man finally won. Inauguration ceremonies took place immediately, attended by all of the tribe except a couple who were delegated to bury the defeated candidate. Then the younger brothers and the females settled down to maintain peace, prosperity, and the pursuit of happiness.

Let me quote one or two paragraphs from the work of that very fascinating book by Dr. Gregory Zilboorg — "Mind Medicine, and Man."

"It is difficult to find any function of our democratic society which surpasses or even approximates an electoral campaign in intensity and blatancy of aggression Acrimony, anger, hate, slander, venality appear — everything except actual homicide The proverbial lid is literally off the reservoir of patricidal drives, and society hurls itself on its symbolic victim with all the energy of a primitive cannibal. It is primitive cannibalism, whether it expresses itself in campaign slander, whispering campaigns, political maneuvering, or flattery of the indolent who do not care. A father is to be killed by way of democratic ceremonial, and a new one will at once be set up by way of the same ceremonial."

In other words, we had a healthy fight in November and got it out of our systems. The cave-man within us was satisfied. We've got ourselves a President, and nobody has committed murder.

And there in we have an advantage not shared by some other countries. For here, even between elections, we allow the cave-man to roar unmuzzled in the press, over the radio, and from the rostrum. He can brandish his verbal club and hurl his barbed epithets in the very face of the President, the congress, and the town meeting.

And thereby, likewise, we prove our strength, a strength which derives not from the atomic bomb, but from a power that can and does penetrate peacefully even through an iron curtain.

A married man is a better adapter than a single man, says the American Machinist. He probably has learned that it is adapt or increase Fido's housing problem.

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

IN THE general collision of the World Series and a new football season, a crash between a budding cyclone and a dying tornado, several baseball details have come up for inspection.

One is that Casey Stengel, as good as he is, isn't going to win any pennant or run second with the team Bucky Harris carried on his back—largely aided by Joe DiMaggio.

STENGEL

Everyone knows that Bucky Harris wasn't fired for inefficiency. He was fired because he is a friend of MacPhail's. In our book it was a stupid move, as Bucky has always been a high-grade manager and the type of man baseball needs.

The selection of Casey Stengel was a smart move, following a dumb one, which doesn't often happen. Stengel is also a high-grade manager who knows his trade. But there won't be as many laughing stories written about Casey in 1949 —not with the job he has ahead.

Cleveland, the best team in baseball, won the 1948 world series. The Indians should be the best team in baseball in 1949 and should win again—unless the Red Sox can locate a few pitchers. Then it would be different.

The Yankee farm system has bogged down in recent years, and no matter how Stengel hustles, he doesn't know where his players are coming from. He needs one outfielder, three infielders, a catcher and three pitchers—all good.

This makes a total of some eight ball players, good ball players, better ball players than most of those he has except DiMaggio, Henrich, Lindell and Raschi. Yogi Berra is a useful fellow to have around.

Infield Lacks Hitters

Last season Stirnweiss and Rizzuto drove in 82 runs. Gordon and Boudreau drove in 252 runs. Stephens and Doerr drove in 250 runs.

We are speaking now of second-base combinations Rizzuto and Stirnweiss were a brilliant defensive team. But they were so far behind Stephens and Doerr, Boudreau and Gordon, there was no comparison. You could trace at least 10 games, in a nip-and-tuck race to this missing clutch hitting. Maybe 15 games.

The Yankee infield, plus erratic Yankee pitching, kept the Yankees from winning by 10 or 15 games. There was certainly no outfield to match Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich, Lindell, Keller and Berra. They drove in over 400 runs, far more than the Red Sox outfield hammered in.

Here they are: DiMaggio, 156; Henrich, 100; Berra, 98; Keller, 45; Lindell, 55. Total: 454.

What about the Red Sox? Williams, 128; Dom DiMaggio, 85; others, less than 80. Far below the Yankees. So was Cleveland. The Yankees had the outfield.

* * *

Outlook for 1949

The middle of the 1948 football season seems to be a somewhat early date to be discussing the September finish of pennant races for 1949. But no one can be arrested and shot for trying.

The two American league teams to beat in 1949 should be the Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox. They have, by far, the better infields, which are the basic strength of a baseball team, especially the play around short and second.

There isn't a chance the Yankees will have anything to match Boudreau and Gordon or Stephens and Doerr when you consider both the offense and defense. Both sets are standouts.

Cleveland has the better of the pitching with Bearden, Lemon, Feller and Gromek. Neither the Red Sox nor Yankees have a dependable pitcher. The Tigers still have pitching possibilities, but little else.

The Athletics can finish fourth or fifth—no better. Majeski and Joost are hardly likely to be as good as they were this year. Both were extra good.

The Yankees only strength is in the outfield—the section, headed by Joe DiMaggio that carried the rest of the team — DiMaggio, Henrich, Lindell, Keller and Berra. Keller's health is still uncertain.

Cleveland's outfield is only fair even with an improving Doby. The Red Sox could use new pitchers.

National League

In the older league, the Braves and Dodgers have the call for 1949 —with the Dodgers well in front. The Braves need infield and outfield improvements in rather large quantities. In Sain and Spahn, they have the two best pitchers in their league —the best nucleus for a winning staff.

The Dodgers have added another year's experience which is all they needed—plus some saner handling.

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

AUTOS, TRUCKS & ACCESSORIES

ST. LOUIS AUTO AUCTION
EVERY MONDAY & FRIDAY
3907 EASTON AVE., ST. LOUIS, Mo.
DEALERS ONLY—Phone FR

1940 INTERNATIONAL 42-passenger bus for sale, new motor, tires practically new. LYLE E. KIMMOUR, Monticello, Ia. Ph. 146-J

SCHOOL BUS, 37 FORD 24 pass.; Superior body, good condition mech. Al. Orland Nerness, Cambridge

1936 CHEV. L.W.B. truck for sale, tires, motor and body. Reasonable. JOHN E. PATTERSON Box 121 - - Colling

BUSINESS & INVEST. OPP.

FOR QUICK SALE Welding and blacksmith shop, New first class equipment. Doing very good business. Reason arthritis. Write J. T. KRUGER - Belle Plaine

AGENTS—Sell Connee Brush-Curler, sational new beauty item that brushes, inserts bobby pin automatically. $2.10 or write BRUSH-CURLER Co. Dept. 31, 120 Broadway, New York,

SINGLE UNIT MILL and Ford truck mos. old. A-1. Gross $6.000 year. C. J. O. HAMMOND 313 E. Main - Clear Lake,

LOCKER PLANT

New plant located at Barnum, near Dodge. All new equipment with cold facilities for killing, curing and smoking. 300 lockers now installed with room for over 400. Customers anxious for plant open. Will be complete next week. Ice available. Ph. or write JAMES REFRIGERATION CO. Mason City -

DOGS, CATS, PETS, ETC.

GREAT DANE PUPPIES FOR SALE 8 weeks old, golden faun, black mask. Champion bloodlines, show prospects reasonable BELL & SHROPSHIRE La Porte City, Iowa - Phone

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT

FOR SALE—110 VOLT, 2000 WATT plant, fully automatic, used only months. Have REA new JIM GRAVEN - Jefferson,

FARMS AND RANCHES

CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FREE INFORMATION on farm settlement opportunities. Fertile soils. Reasonably priced. R. C. Bowen, Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station, St. Paul, Minn.

270 A. IN GARDEN SPOT OF KANSAS 1½ miles from county seat and U. S. highway, 13 miles west St. Joe. 8-room house, electricity available. Rock road, fine spring. $150 per acre. Write M. C. FINKLEA Warner - - Otta

IOWA—260 ACRES JASPER COUNTY Gravel road, 1 mile from town, 200 acres level, fenced hog tight. 3 springs in pastures. Mod. house, good farm buildings, electric lighted. A bargain at $175 per A. Ph. 1318 or see JOHN CHAPLIN - Newton, IOWA—80 A. 5 mi. Manson gvl. rd. 4 imp. all till. $275 A.

113 A. imp., elec., all till. on prt. Pomeroy. $248 A.
160 A. near Curlew. Very well improved. Elec. All tillable. $255 A.
160 A. well imp. Elect. Water system, stk. and grain farm. 3 mi. Manson. $175 A.
200 A. imp. Elect. Stock and grain farm. 4 mi. Manson. $150 A.
Also have a good number of well improved Minnesota farms for sale. See C. C. HANSMAN (Sod Seller) - Manson,

A REAL OPPORTUNITY

To own your own farm, at a low investment. 320 Acre dairy and Hereford farm. 8-room house, beautiful lawn. Barn for 30 Cattle shed, 24x96, and other buildings. Now making good profits. Write today for complete details to Ralph B. Mendenhall Mora - - -

LIVESTOCK

FOR SALE Entire flock 36 registered Hampshire ewes and 1 buck—also 8 Angora goats. FRED M. MEAD - Collins,

FOR SALE—Registered Angus cows and calves suitable for club work. C. WEITL - Templeton,

MISCELLANEOUS

LIGHTNING RODS Better built; streamlined. Free estimate. O. E. ROUTSON & SON 280 Day Rd., Des Moines, Iowa.

HATCH AND PROD. Loc. Agency towns, N. W. Iowa Highway 30. Hatch 35,000 cap. Priced reas. Produce. A profitable bus. B. A. MAC DONALD Scranton, Ia.

RATS ARE CUNNING. Will not eat ordinary baits. Will eat my scientific poison baits that kill rats. Send $3.00 for 2 lbs. Results guaranteed. D. W. WASHBURN - Colfax,

BIG TOY CATALOG! LARGEST, most complete selection of toys ever offered by mail. Send 10c (refunded first order) KAYSONS', Inc., Evansville 4,

PECANS—Large graded stock, paper shell type. Send $2.50 for 5 pound carton, postpaid. Add 15 cents west of Denver. BEVERLY PRODUCE, Ochlocknee,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

100 New Piano Accordions $35, $65, $145, $165, $198, $225, $295 BAND INSTRUMENTS ON SALE $45, $65, cornets, trumpets, clarinets, saxophones, trombones. Linquist Music, 26 N. 8th St., Mpls.

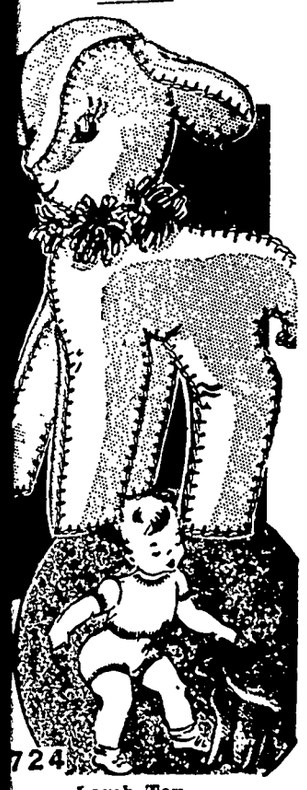
Planning for the Future
Buy U. S. Savings Bonds
★★★★★★★★★★

PILES Hurt Less Than Sin! But Now I Get

Thousands change groans to grins with a doctors' formula to relieve discomfort of piles. Sent druggists by noted Thornton & Minor Clinic. Surprising palliative relief of pain, itch, irritation. Tends to soften, shrink swelling in doctors' way. Get tube Thornton & Minor's Rectal Ointment or Rectal Suppositories today. Follow label directions. For sale at all drug stores everywhere.

WNU—N

...te Toy for Toddlers



Lamb Toy

...the nursery set—a soft ...ddly stuffed lamb that's ideal ...ke to bed. It's 9 inches tall ...s made of pink flannel with ... stitching. Pastel wool pom- ... make a pretty neck-ruff.

* * *

...btain complete sewing instructions ...ll directions for making Lamb Toy ...ept No 5724) send 20 cents in coin, ...name, address and pattern number.

...WING CIRCLE NEEDLEWORK ... South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill. ... Enclose 20 cents for Pattern.

...me_____

...ress_____

...p a clean glass ash tray on ... the range. It's ideal for hold- ...poons being used for stirring. ... the stove top won't get ...ed.

—•—

...mmon baking soda is excellent ...moving stains from enameled ...ils Sprinkle a dampened cloth ...soda and rub gently until the ... disappears.

—•—

... a company dish, fry chicken ...make a cream gravy, then add ...rs to the gravy and serve with ...iscuits.

—•—

...ss knockers and doorknobs ...tay clean and bright longer if ...ed with paraffin after they are ...ed and polished with a soft, ...loth.

—•—

... not shake the measuring cup ...ming flour, or it will pack and ...measurement will not be ac- ...e.

...mptly relieves coughs of ...IGHT ACHING ...HEST COLDS ...UB ON MUSTEROLE

...y EVER PAY MORE? Why Joseph ASPIRIN ACCEPT ...'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢ LESS?

When ...our Children ...ave COUGHS ...DUE TO COLDS

GIVE THEM GOOD-TASTING SCOTT'S EMULSION

...ps build stamina — helps build ...tance to colds, if youngsters don't ...enough natural A&D Vitamins! Scott's is a high energy FOOD TONIC—a "gold mine" of natural A&D Vitamins and energy-building natural oil. Easy to take. Many doctors recommend it! Buy today at your drug store.

MORE than just a tonic— it's powerful nourishment!

...OTT'S EMULSION ...IGH ENERGY TONIC

...OU WERE A WAVE, ...C, MARINE or SPAR

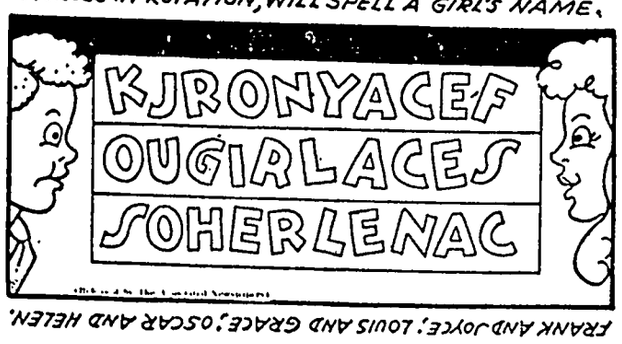
...ind out what ...Nursing ...ffers you!

...ucation leading to R. N. ... opportunities every year in ...tals, public health, etc. ...allowance under the C. I. Bill ...lits often covers your entire ...g course. ...r more information ... hospital where you ... like to enter nursing.

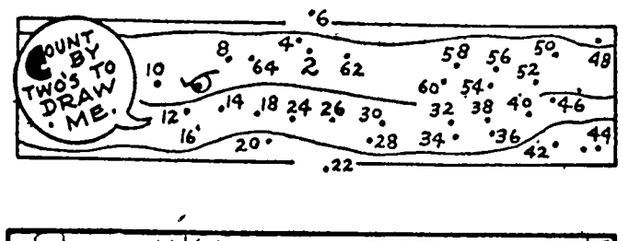
FUNLAND

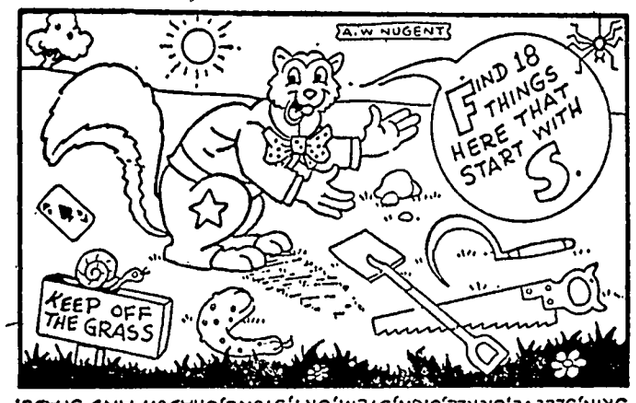
BY A.W. NUGENT

FROM EACH GROUP, CROSS OUT THE JUMBLED LETTERS NEEDED TO SPELL A BOY'S NAME SO THAT THE REMAINING LETTERS, READING ACROSS IN ROTATION, WILL SPELL A GIRL'S NAME.

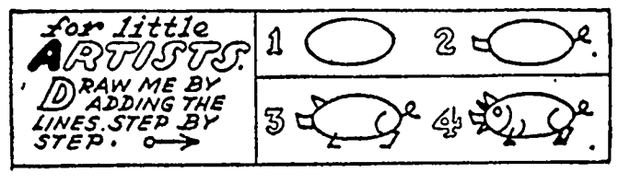


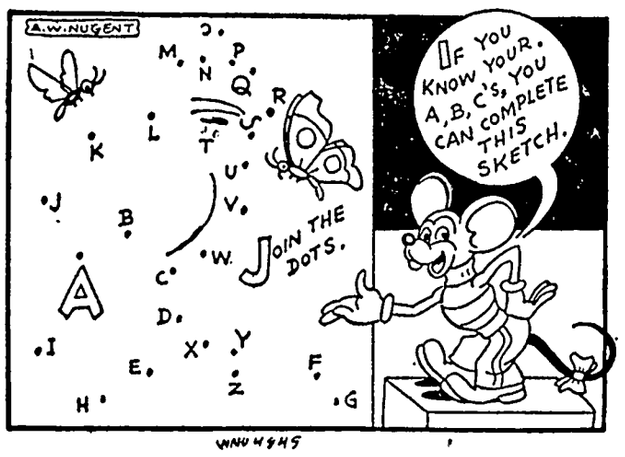
FRANK AND JOYCE; LOUIS AND GRACE; OSCAR AND HELEN.





SQUIRREL, SNAIL, SPIDER, SUN, SHELL, STAR, SAW, SHOVEL, SQUASH, SKIN, SLEEVE, SICKLE, SIGN, STEM, SKY, STONE, SHADOW AND SPADE.





WNU FEATURES

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

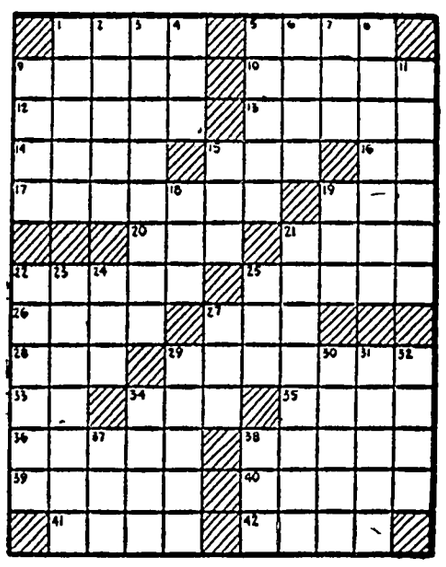
Horizontal

1 Source of cocaine
5 Boil slowly
9 Wooden shoe
10 Heaped
12 Girl's name
13 Imply
14 Dollar (Mex.)
15 A darling
16 Diminutive of Vivian
17 Stanched
19 Clamor
20 Forbid
21 To become sullen
22 Emitting an offensive odor
25 A game of skill
26 Small wild ox (Celebes)
27 Exclamation
28 Shrub (Jap.)
29 Shade of red
33 A game of cards (var.)
34 Varnish ingredient
35 Temper
36 Retinue
38 Periods of time
39. Long for
40 Composition for 8 parts (mus.)
41 Strong, low cart
42 Pieces out

Vertical

1 Military student
2 Fat
3 So. Am. republic
4 Devoured
5 Watched secretly
6 Tinge
7 Sprite
8 Species of beetle (pl.)
9 Weakens
11 Swallows, as liquid
15 Writing implement
18 Insane
19 Owing
21 Irish national emblem
22 Imperfect
23 Bore
24 Also
25 Greek letter
27 Portion of a curved line
29 Frugal (Scot.)
30 To fry lightly
31 Monsters (myth.)
32 Snug retreat
34 Coin (It.)
37 River (Swiss)
38 Garden tool

Solution in Next Issue.



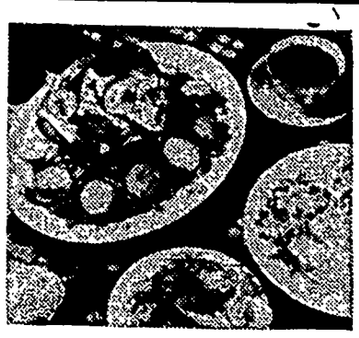
No. 7

Answer to Puzzle No. 6

O	W	L	S		Q	U	A	D
	T	E	A	L		U	N	D	E
S	T	A	G	Y		A	I	D	E	D
V	A	S	S		A	C	T		P	O
O	W	E		I	N	K		F	E	D
P	A	L	A	C	E		J	U	N	O
			T	A	M	P	A
F	A	D	E		O	U	R	E	S	I
A	D	O		A	N	T		M	A	N
G	O		D	U	E		S	P	I	N
S	P	R	I	G		P	A	I	L	S
		T	U	N	E		E	I	R	E
		S	E	E	R		G	L	E	Y

Series K—48

WNU FEATURES



This lamb shoulder takes on its extender in the form of a delightful fruit-bread dressing. The dressing has in it prunes and apricots as well as orange for tartness. The boned meat also makes an easy job of carving.

Dress Economy Cuts Of Meat, Save Money, Please Family Tastes

EVERY WOMAN will agree that there are very few cuts of meat that are really economical, but it's true there are some that are at least a bit cheaper than steaks, roasts or chops.

You'll do well to watch for bargains weekly. If you don't want to buy as much meat as formerly, then extend what you get with vegetables or stuffings, and have plenty of other things to go with the dinner.

Don't economize to the extent that the family will grumble about what they eat. Make everything palatable and attractive when served and pay particular attention to having platters look lovely. Here's the time to use pickled fruits and rinds to garnish meat platters without anyone's knowing that even these are an extender.

* * *

Fruit Stuffed Lamb Shoulder
(Serves 6)

1 lamb shoulder, boned
2 cups bread crumbs
6 cooked apricots
6 cooked prunes
1 small orange, chopped
1 beaten egg
Salt and pepper

Have lamb shoulder boned and sew it on three sides, leaving the fourth side open for dressing. Make dressing of bread crumbs, diced apricots and prunes, orange, egg and seasonings. Pile into pocket.

Skewer or sew edges together. Place lamb shoulder on a rack in an open roasting pan and roast at 300 degrees, allowing 30 to 35 minutes to the pound.

* * *

HERE'S A MEAT loaf that has vegetables right in it. You'll like the interesting flavor combination.

Vegetable-Meat Loaf
(Serves 8)

3 tablespoons chopped onion
⅓ cup ground green pepper
2 cups ground carrots
½ cup soured cream
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ pounds ground veal

Mix all ingredients together. Shape into a loaf and place in casserole or loaf pan. Cover. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes, then uncover and bake for 20 minutes longer.

* * *

HERE'S AN INTERESTING variation for drumsticks, using only a pound and a quarter of meat:

California Chicken
(Serves 4-6)

¼ pound ground pork
1 pound ground veal
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper.
¼ cup crushed pineapple, drained
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
Lard for browning
Bread crumbs

Combine ground meats, salt, pepper, green pepper and pineapple. Shape like a chicken leg on a wooden skewer. Combine beaten egg with water. Roll "drumsticks" in bread crumbs, then in egg-water mixture, and again in bread crumbs. Let stand for 30 minutes in the refrigerator. Brown in hot lard; cover closely and cook slowly for 45 minutes.

* * *

THE RICHNESS of pork sausage combines with nourishing kidney beans to make a hearty, meat-saving but appetizing casserole for cooler days:

Barbecued Sausage Casserole
(Serves 6-8)

1 pound sausage links
2 tablespoons water
1 onion, chopped
½ green pepper, chopped
6 pieces of celery, chopped
1 can tomato soup
½ cup catchup
1 No. 2 can kidney beans

Place sausage links in frying pan. Add water; cover and simmer for five minutes or until water evaporates. Remove cover and brown links. Add onion, celery, green pepper, catchup and tomato soup. Cover and simmer slowly for 30 minutes. Add beans to cooked mixture and heat thoroughly.

* * *

SPANISH PORK is pork simmered to perfection. It's a beautiful red-brown color with peas and tomatoes combined with potatoes to make a perfectly extended meat dish that's complete enough to serve as a main course.

Spanish Pork
(Serves 6)

2 pounds pork shoulder, boned and diced
Flour and lard
4 medium-sized potatoes
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
2 cups tomatoes
2 cups canned peas
1 green pepper
Salt and pepper

Have pork shoulder cut into 1-inch cubes. Dredge in flour and brown in hot lard. Place alternate layers of meat and vegetables in a casserole dish. Pour tomatoes over all. Season and cook in a moderate (350 degree) oven until meat and vegetables are done, from one and a half to two hours.

Spanish pork is a delicious as well as handsome vegetable-extended meat dish. The pieces of succulent pork ride in a tomato-red gravy with green peas which will make the family delighted with its eye appeal.

WHEN PROPERLY prepared, kidneys can be a very tasty dish. Why not try these delicious veal kidneys, braised and served over hot, steaming noodles?

Braised Veal Kidneys
(Serves 6)

3 veal kidneys
Salt and flour
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons fat
1 cup canned tomatoes
1 bay leaf
Hot, cooked noodles

Cut kidneys in half lengthwise; remove white membrane; soak in cold water for 15 minutes. Cut into one-inch pieces, season with salt and dredge with flour. Brown onion in hot fat. Add kidneys and cook with onion until browned for about five minutes. Add tomatoes and cook for 10 minutes, covered, until kidneys are tender. Drop in bay leaf during last five minutes of cooking.

Roast Beef Salad
(Serves 4 to 6)

1 cup diced cooked beef
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 tomatoes, quartered
1 small head of lettuce
French dressing or mayonnaise

Toss first three ingredients together. Serve on lettuce with dressing. Use diced cooked ham, tongue or corned beef, if desired.

Released by WNU Features.

LYNN SAYS:
Make Winter Foods More Savory

Next time you're serving oyster stew, add a sprinkling of grated cheese just before you place it on the table.

For your steamed puddings, serve hard sauce which has been patted flat on a cookie sheet, chilled, then cut with fancy cookie cutters.

Leftover pieces of fowl which aren't enough to make a meal, can be mixed with corn kernels, milk and egg and baked in a casserole.

Canned cling peaches make a delicious salad-desert if you fill them with cream cheese mixed with a bit of orange marmalade and candied ginger.

Chop orange pulp which has been scooped from orange shells and mix with mashed sweet potatoes, seasoned with butter, milk and nutmeg. Refill shells and heat.

Let slices of bologna fry slowly in a skillet in a bit of fat until the edges curl. These make excellent little cups for scrambled eggs—a good luncheon combination.

"COLD BUG" "GOT CHILD ALL STUFFED UP?

Get MENTHOLATUM quick!

● Poor little nose—raw and tender and stuffed up from a cold! Quick, Mother, Mentholatum! Immediately it starts to lessen congestion, thins out thick mucus. Soon child's head feels clearer. She breathes better, sleeps better.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE AN EXPERT

TRY THIS NEW RED STAR HOLIDAY RECIPE

THANKSGIVING SWEET ROLLS

2 packages Red Star Dry Yeast
½ cup warm water
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, beaten
5¾ cups sifted flour (approximately)
¼ cup shortening

Dissolve 2 packages Red Star Dry Yeast in ½ cup warm water. Let stand 2 to 3 minutes. Place ¼ cup sugar, salt and 1 cup lukewarm water in a large bowl. Stir yeast solution thoroughly and add to this mixture. Add beaten eggs and half the flour mixing well. Add melted and cooled shortening, stirring vigorously. Add remainder of flour and mix well. Place dough on lightly floured board and knead for 3 minutes. Shape into smooth ball and place in greased bowl. Brush top lightly with shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place for 45 minutes. Punch dough down and shape into crescents, or braids. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise in warm place for 45 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes. Makes 3 dozen rolls.

WHAT IS DRY YEAST?
DRY YEAST IS YEAST THAT KEEPS FOR MONTHS WITHOUT SPOILING
TELL ME MORE
RED STAR DRY YEAST IS FASTER RISING
RED STAR NEVER FAILS TO GIVE ME LARGER, BETTER-TASTING BAKED GOODS
Red Star
QUICK RISING
Dry Yeast
QUICKER · EASIER FOR MIXING FOR BAKING

KAY ROGERS SAYS: "Get acquainted with RED STAR by baking these delicious Thanksgiving Sweet Rolls. Your family will love them."

RED STAR DRY YEAST

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Assure Your Own Personal Security— Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Two Way AGREEMENT

Yes! When it comes to smoking pleasure, pipe fans and "makin's" smokers agree: "There's no other tobacco like mild, rich-tasting Prince Albert!" P. A. is America's largest-selling smoking tobacco.

RICH-TASTING P.A. GIVES ME REAL PIPE COMFORT. P.A. SMOKES SO COOL AND EASY ON MY TONGUE!
Tom Ford
I LIKE THE WAY P.A.'S NEW HUMIDOR TOP KEEPS EASY-TO-ROLL, CRIMP CUT P.A. FRESH FOR TASTIER, MILDER 'MAKIN'S' SMOKES!
Herman Berks
PRINCE ALBERT

"I go for crimp cut Prince Albert because it smokes cool and mild—real easy on the tongue," says Tom Ford. Yes, Tom! Prince Albert's choice, rich-tasting tobacco is specially treated to insure against tongue bite.

"I've enjoyed rich-tasting Prince Albert for years," says Herman Berks. "And now, with the new Humidor Top on the pocket tin, crimp cut P.A. is more than ever my favorite for fast, easy rolling of neat cigarettes."

The new humidor top locks in the freshness and flavor

More Men Smoke PRINCE ALBERT than any other tobacco.

THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE

Tune in "Grand Ole Opry," Saturday Nights on NBC

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA

Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED

Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Keraus of Osage, spent the week end at the W. C. Keraus home.

Mrs. Art Schoenwetter, who has been a patient at the Lutheran hospital at Hampton, returned home Tuesday afternoon.

WHAT'S A

Mugwump?

. . . it's a bird that straddles the fence wih his mug on one side and his wump on the other!

(Note: There is no open season on mugwumps.)

Meet Your Farmer Friends At

Joe's Place

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kluckhohn visited over the week end with their son Eugene and family at Stanhope.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen were at Rochester, Minn. the past week where Mr. Larsen had a check-up at the Mayo Clinic.

Arnold McCollough and Wayne Pavey of Webster Ctiy were hunting pheasants in this community Thursday and were supper guests at the W. F. Pavey home.

Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Neuhring, and Laverne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verner Lewis, joined the Army and left Tuesday for the Air Base at San Antonio, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutch Turgasen and sons, and Mrs. Sadie Turgasen of State Center spent the week end with Klemme relatives Mrs. Sadie Turgasen just returned from Chicago, where she visited several weeks with her son, Vernon and family.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Karl Sanderfeld and son, Kermit, of near Latimer, were business callers in Klemme Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson, Jr. and Mrs. Wm. Fuss were at Forest City on business Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Van Winkle and daughter, Kathryn, of Aberdeen, South Dakota, have spent the week end at the Lee Jennings home. Mr. Van Winkle is Mrs. Jennings' brother.

Mrs. W. F. Missman, Mrs. A. H. Dulmes and Miss Gertrude Grosshuesch attended a banquet and convention of Registered Nurses at the Hamford Hotel at Mason City Tuesday evening.

Cliff Brouwer of California spent the past week visiting relatives in the Klemme and Garner communities. Mr. and Mrs. Ben V. Greiman took him back in their car and are enjoying a vacation and sight-seeing trip in the West.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Charles Hitt underwent an operation at the Mercy hospital at Mason City Saturday.

Miss Peggy Coobs and Walter Clark of Des Moines spent the week end at the Benn Coobs home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stokesbary of Garner, were guests at the Orville Stokesbary home Sunday.

Mrs. Martha Ridder accompanied Mr. and Mrs. James Fredin back to Fort Dodge Sunday for a visit at the Fredin home.

Lloyd Smith of Garner was a business caller in Klemme Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson, Jr. and Judy were at Mason City on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Geary and sons of Claremont, Minn. visited over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Geary.

Bob Hartzell and Melvin Schlei attended the Iowa State-Michigan State football game at Ames Saturday. Michigan drubed Iowa 48 to 7.

Edmund Josten and family visited at the Les Hartbeck home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Steen of Chicago, Ill. came Friday to spend the week end visiting at the Dr. W. F. Missman home. The ladies are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Polsdofer visited with his aunt, Bertha Moorehead at Rockwell, Saturday. Some of Mr. Polsdofer's relatives from Indiana were visiting at the Moorehead home.

Mr. and Mrs. Reasoner and son of Belmond were dinner guests at the M. L. Harson home on Tuesday evening. Mr. Reasoner is depot agent in Belmond.

Phone 12, we'll take your news.

Mr. and Mrs. "Buddy" Wilcox of Ames spent the week end visiting at the parental C. G. Waterman home and enjoyed pheasant hunting while here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson, Jr. and children, Judy and Ray III, were dinner guests Sunday evening at the M. L. Harson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Wellemeyer returned home Tuesday from several days spent visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Mohler at Dayton, Ohio.

Rev. W. T. Boston of Goodell attended the Hancock County Ministerial Association meeting at the Nazarene Church in Britt Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Grosshuesch attended a ministers conference at Manly on Tuesday.

Mrs. Allen Barz is employed as bookkeeper and assistant at the Josten Appliance store.

Mrs. Edmund Josten, Clara Barz, and Mrs. Lena Schroeder were Mason City visitors Monday.

Edmund Josten and family spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson in their new home at Clear Lake. Mr. Anderson was manager of the telephone company here a few years ago. He is now in the heating and air-conditioning business.

Lyndon "Pete" Kilgore left Saturday in his car for Van Nyes, California where he will spend the winter and work in a commercial printing plant. "Pete" will return again in the spring to assist with farming at the Joe Burgess place.

If you dont want it, sell it with a Times Want Adv.

Mrs. Mildred Day returned home Friday evening from Mason City where she spent several days visiting her son, Dorance and family. While there Mrs. Day waas ill and confined to her bed a few days with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell were dinner guests Sunday at the home of the latter's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Olt of Chapin. In the afternoon they visited the beautiful new stone church being built at Latimer. The structure is now nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorance Day and Gary of Mason City spent the week end visiting with Mrs. Mildred Day. Mr. Day and family will soon move to Des Moines where Mr. Day has been transferred in his insurance work. The transfer also comes as a nice promotion for Mr. Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker, now, residents of Clear Lake, were visiting in Klemme Monday.

Mrs. Clara Barz, Mrs. G. A. Goll and Mr. and Mrs. George Thieman visited Sunday afternoon and were supper guests at the Fred Becker home at Clear Lake.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Wiley Weaver and Terry visited with Mrs. Emory Weaver Friday afternoon.

Mrs. John Bachman left for her home in Waterloo Friday. She came to attend the funeral of her nephew.

The Misses Marie Blank and Irene Schmidt and Mrs. Conrad Quandt were visiting in Des Moines Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pherson and son of Ames spent the week end visiting at the J. C. Thomas home.

Ruth Smith, student at the Hamilton business college at Mason City, spent the week end here visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gruis and family of Kansas City, Mo. arrived Friday evening to spend the week end visiting the former's brother, Bernard Gruis and family. On Sunday both families attended the wedding of their niece, Adeline Gruis at Thornton.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Weaver returned home Wednesday evening from Rochester, Minnesota where they spent three days while Mrs. Weaver went through the Mayo Clinic. They will return to Rochester again today, Wednesday, when Mrs. Weaver will receive treatment.

KLEMME
MOVIES

NOVEMBER 18
"Wild Harvest"
ALAN LADD
DOROTHY LAMOUR

NOVEMBER 25
Trouble With Women
RAY MILLAND
Comedy Each Show
SHOW AT 7:45 P. M.

Klemme American Legion's
ANNUAL FEATHER PARTY

and
CARNIVAL

Community Hall
MONDAY
NOV. 22
Begins at 8:00 P. M

- Turkeys
- Geese
- Ducks

FREE COFFEE AND DOUGHNUTS

FUN FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR FUN

Everybody Welcome
Bring The Family

Klemme Food Mkt.

Friday & Saturday Specials

Save The Self-Serve Way!

Pork Chops LB. 49c

Hamburger LB. 42c

BREEZE 3 for $1

CRANBERRIES per can ____ 18c

PUMPKIN No. 2½ can ____ 13c

SWEET POTATOES per pound __ 09c

MIRACLE WHIP pint ____ 39c

Certainty Flour 25 POUND SACK Also a waste paper basket FREE! $1.79

CHOCOLATE CHIPS Per Pkg.____ 19c

MINCE MEAT per pkg. ____ 19c

VAN CAMP BEANS 2 cans for 35c

TIDE 3 FOR $1

LIBBY'S MIXED VEGETABLES Special at Glass Jar 13c

MONARCH PICKLJOYS Only per jar ____ 37c

Coffee Chocolate Cream Per Pound 49c

MONARCH GRAPE JAM Per Jar____ Only 20c

SEEDLESS GRAPES No. 1 can __ 17c

REGULAR SIZE WHEATIES 2 Boxes For ____ Special 29c

BLU WHITE per box ____ 08c

Beef Steak lb. 69c

Beef Roast lb. 49c

Bring Us Your Eggs CASH or TRADE

Klemme Food Market
Klemme, Iowa

We Reserve The Right To Limit

DEAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED

Britt Rendering Co.
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22

WE PAY PHONE CHARGES
KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000

Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load

TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

K. H. S. OPENS 1948-49 SEASON

Basket Ball

At The K. H. S. Gymnasium On

Friday, Nov., 19

At 7:30 o'clock

TWO THRILLING GAMES!

Shamrockettes
VS
Woden H. S. Girls

Shamrocks
VS
Woden H. S. Boys

BUY A SEASON TICKET

Save money—Buy a season ticket good for 10 home games for $4.00.

Come out and see the first game of the season. The Klemme Girls have a team for the first time in history. Come and cheer them and give them a good send off.

Adult Admission 50 cents

THE KLEMME TIMES

54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1948 Number 2.

Are Fortunes To Be Found In—

THE DESERTS IN THE WEST

A. Jorgenson, Sr.

of the first articles on trip we will tell some interesting facts con-
the deserts of the West-es. The word "desert"
a vast amount of ter-
both east of the Rockwell as west. However, portant deserts can be in Southern California, portant being the Ma-
bert and to the northeast
Death Valley.

crossed a section of the Desert which begins few miles out of Los Anand along our route ex-practically to Las Veg-
, and even beyond.

always thought of a being nothing but sand across a vast space and up into sand dunes. How-did see miles and miles and experienced a mild storm, much like a mild in Iowa. The sand drifts the highway wherever ob-
by cactus and other

the desert varies from dry ds, to rolling land and small mountains, but all vegetated with cactus,
ch and a variety of desrts and flowers. These plants must be packed rchamins in order to grow aces where the hardiest weeds would wither and ssed the pretty time of r in driving through the as in the spring the des-wers are very beautiful, er, there were still a few flowers in bloom, mostly

, gray, and a few blue

ugh summers are intense-t, a cooling breeze was g over the desert the day sed and a light coat felt table. Summer day-time ratures sometimes reach grees, but the nights are east of the Majave Des-Death Valley, the lowest in the United States, 276

low sea level in the glis-
g-white salt beds of the Water region. In contrast
Whitney in the distance, s towering peaks upward feet, the highest point in ited States.

desert scenery is rather sing, but at times, also
There are a few towns the desert, usually a of filling stations and a houses. Thus the tourist helped to establish some es in the desert.

ever, the desert is not en-barren and worthless. Val-chemicals and mineral de-have been located and some mining done where rich deposits have been by some old desert "rat" spector.

desert also yields hund-of thousands of dollars of semi-precious gems ear. Nearly every kind of can be found in the desen an occasional diamond and there. Other gems are lapis lazuli, rose bloodstone, chrysocolla, various colors, tourmarquoise, rubies, and what ou. But it takes a geolo-and a real gem hunter to the gem-bearing pockets, in rock crevices, sand hills.

ons of years ago, during ions of the earth, super-water was forced up rock crevices under rrific pressure that it was melt certain minerals in ck. When the rock cool-ese minerals crystallized ry much as salt crystals when a saturized solution water cools. This crys-ion could only take place
kets—crevices in the rock llow the crystal to form pockets are no bigger than mp and others are small Locating these pockets big job for the prospector.

At Los Angeles we saw a gem cutter working on stones that had been brought in from the desert. Perhaps you are wearing a pretty ring or other piece of jewelry that came from a rock in the Majave desert.

What today appears to you and I as a vast region of worthless land may some day be the richest land in the world. Vast amounts of gems and chemicals are waiting for the young geologist to uncover.

Desert land is fertile and where there are watering holes the vegetation grows profusely. There is a lot of irrigated land in the west and more dams are being built to form vast lakes to irrigate more land. It is a remote possibility that the real desert will ever be irrigated. Mining for gems and chemicals holds greater possibilities.

We did not see any mirrages on the desert, but we were greatly fooled by visiual distance. The party in the car made a guess at the distance of a hill ahead on the highway. The guess ranged from 3½ to 5 miles. The distance was actually 31.9 miles. That experiment showed how clean and pure the desert air was that day. After that we quit guessing how far ahead a certain land mark appeared to be in miles.

Crossing the desert we did not see any sign of either animall or bird life. Lack of water is perhaps the reason. We noted that the entire west had few birds as compared to Iowa and the middle-western states. The reason for this we did not learn.

We had heard many tales of how terrible it was to cross the desert, but we did not find it so. Rather, we found a lot of beauty there.

GIRLS BASKET BALL NOT NEW IN THE KLEMME HIGH SCHOOL

Last week The Times stated that the present Girls Basket Ball Team was the first in the history of the Klemme Schools. The writer said the wrong thing that time.

The Times had several telephone calls from some of the ex-basket ball girls of several years back who played on a high school team, and called our attention to the fact.

Those gals on the old team could probably give the present girls a real run for their money. Maybe a game could be arranged to be played during the holidays. If the old-timers would wear the old suits of their time, well it would be something to behold!!

WM. VELAU TO HOLD SALE NEXT WEEK WEDNESDAY

The Times is this week publishing a salle for Wm. Velau to be held at his farm next Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Velau are retiring from farming and will dispose of their livestock and farm machinery. Turn to the sale adv in this issue.

Methodist Men Will Meet On Tuesday Evening, Nov. 30

Men of both Liberty and Klemme Methodist Churches will meet at the Klemme Methodist Church on Tusday evening Nov. 30th at 8.00 o'clock. There will be a program and lunch.

GOODELL

Evangelical United Brethren Church

W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.
Choir practice Wednesday evening at 7:30.
Girls Missionary Guild and Fellowship Thanksgiving breakfast at the parsonage Thursday morning at 7 o'clock.

WOMAN KILLED IN CRASH NORTH OF MESERVEY

FOUR TAKEN TO HOSPITAL IN MASON CITY

Truck Strikes Automobile At Intersection

Mrs. Forrest Gobeli was killed Friday afternoon at an intersection of 2 county roads 4 miles north of Meservey when the car in which she was riding was struck by a truck driven by Frederick Weide, Meservey.

Her husband and son, Harlan Gobeli, driver of the car and his wife, as well as Weide, were taken to a Mason City hospital after the accident but none were seriously injured, according to deputy sheriffs who investigated the accident.

Not Serious

Forrest Gobeli and Mrs. Harlan Gobeli were not immediately released from the hospital but attendants said Saturday morning that their condition was not serious.

The Gobeli car was eastbound on a gravel road, officers said, while the truck was southbound on a county road. Harlan Gobeli told the officers that he looked northward as he stoped for the county highway and the road was clear. He then turned to speak to the other occupants of the car and looked to the south along the highway as he drove onto it, he said.

Weide told officers that his truck came up over a hill toward the intersection and he saw the Gobeli car slowing down. He then looked to the east, he said, and immdiately afterward the collision occured.

Strikes Car Door

Officers said the truck struck the left rear door of the Gobeli car, beside which Mrs. Forrest Gobeli was sitting. The car and truck both came to a stop in the ditch on the southeast side of the intersection. Neither turned over.

Mrs. Gobeli was the 501st person killed on Iowa roads this year compared with 493 in the same period last year. Here was the 4th traffic fatality in Cerro Gordo county during 1948.

She was born Jan. 11, 1905. The Gobelis live on a farm five miles northwest of Meservey.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

KLEMME STORES WILL BE CLOSED THANKSGIVING

Klemme business places will observe Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 25 by being closed on that day. Business places will be closed Wednesday evening until Friday morning. Klemme schools will be dismissed Wednesday afternoon until Monday morning in order to allow teachers to spend Thanksgiving and the week end at their respective homes.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen will celebrate their Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, November 28. They expect to leave next Monday on a trip to Illinois and will visit Mrs. Etchen's sister in Chicago.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The meeting was called to order by vice patrol leader, Delores Thieman in the bank basement on November 22nd. The motto, slogan, laws and promise were recited and the business went on. Charlotte Neuhring told the group of the kits we're sending to Europe. The group divided and went into their patrols. Number ones served the lunch.

Iris Schaefer, Scribe

PAPERS WERE PARTLY PRINTED UPSIDE DOWN LAST WEEK

Sure, we know that part of The Klemme Times was printed upside down last week. In fact, it was done intentionally . . . and the pressman was not drunk either!

The office was flooded with calls, telling us that the paper was partly upside down! The reason is that in the process of folding and cutting, one edge did not fold evenly and one sheet over-lapped the other slightly. In the second run through the big press these sheets would catch and tear, so the only solution was to run them through the other way.

And . . . don't be too surprised if the papers are that way again this week if the mechanical trouble cannot be remedied by that time.

At least we KNOW lots of people read the Times! Thanks for telling us.

NOTICE TO OUR READERS

Due to the fact that the Times was being printed on Monday and Tuesday this week in order to get the paper in the mails before Thanksgiving Day, some of the news had to be left out.

THE KLEMME LEGION AUXILIARY MEMBERSIP OVER THE QUOTA

Mrs. Helen Stille, secretary of the Klemme American Legion Auxiliary, announced that the Klemme Unit exceeded its membership quota before the deadline and the Auxiliary now has 69 paid up members of the roll. Eligible members who have joined for the first time are Mrs. Nettie Roths, Marlene Roths, Mrs. Fern Linshon, Mrs. Marian Arnold, Jean Kothenbeutel and Mrs. Bernadine Schmidt.

The Auxiliary is also planning to hold a Christmas Party at the December meeting and will have an exchange of gifts, according to Mrs. Margaret Thomas, Unit President.

METHODIST BAZAAR HELD SUCCESSFUL

The Methodist ladies are well pleased with the outcome of their annual Bazaar which grossed $408.00.

Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. Entertained U-Delt-Em Club Friday

Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. entertained the U-Delt-Em Club at her home Friday afternoon. Mrs. Edna Thada won high score in contract bridge and Mrs. Fred J. Arnold won second high honors. Lunch was served after the games.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:
Morning Worship at 10 A. M.
Sunday School at 11:00 A. M.
Youth Fellowship at 7 for both High School and Intermediate groups.
Tuesday. 8 P. M. Klemme-Liberty Methodist Men's meeting in the Klemme Church.
The choir will meet for rehearsal in the church on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:
Sunday School 10:15 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:20 A. M.
Men's meeting on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Klemme Church.
Woman's Society Christmas meeting on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the home of Mrs. J. L. Abele.

SHAMROCKS WIN FIRST GAME

KLEMME SHAMROCKS WIN FIRST GAME FROM WODEN 48-27

Klemme Girls Lost First Game To Woden Girls 13-44

The newly organized K. H. S. Girls basket ball team got a lot of experience in their first game Friday evening against Woden with the visitors taking an easy 44-13 victory. The entire Shamrockette squad saw action in the game and showed prospects of a good team that later in the season may prove real competition for the other girls on the schedule.

Schmidt Leads Shamrocks

In the feature game of the evening, the Shamrocks got off to a slow start with Woden pacing them in the first quarter, but which the Shamrocks tied up 7 to 7, and leading 20 to 14 at the half. From there on the Shamrocks piled on the scores and were ahead 30 to 19 at the end of the 3rd quarter and finished up 48 to 27.

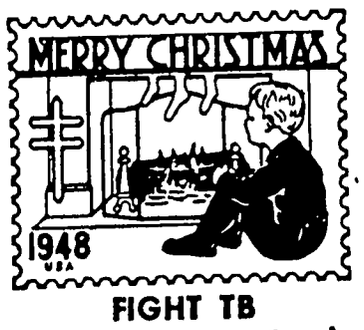
"Red" Schmidt was going on high gear as he sent 24 poitns sailing through the hoop. Brinkman was good for 11 points, followed closely by Kaduce, a new member of the squad, with 10 markers. Barz hit a free one and Bob Baack racked up 3 points. Bob Baack played an outstanding defensive game at guard and broke up Woden's offense.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank all who sent me cards and gifts and all who came to visit me on my 85th birthday. It was greatly appreciated. Mrs. Anna Wille.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank all who sent me cards and who called on me while I was a patient at the hospital. I appreciate your kindness. Charles Hitt. (1tp)



FIGHT TB
Buy Christmas Seals

SEALS GO INTO MAIL

The 42nd annual Christmas seal sale to raise tuberculosis control funds will begin Monday morning with the mail delivery of seals to residents throughout the county. The sale, conducted by the Hancock County Tuberculosis Association, will continue until Christmas.

Of the money raised, in Hancock County, approximately 75 per cent will be used within the county to fight tuberculosis and to promote better public health. An additional 20 per cent will be used on a state level and the remaining 5 per cent will help finance services on a national level.

When you open your envelope and find the seals there, remember that each one purchased will help hasten the eradication of tuberculosis. All you have to do is put the money in the return envelope and mail it.

When we buy Christmas seals, we are supporting a campaign to control tuberculosis, a disease which causes more deaths among Americans between the ages of 15 and 35 than any other; a disease which kills person of all ages at the rate of one person every ten minutes.

Christmas seals are the little things in themselves. But the thing they stand for is big—as big as the health of every man, woman and child in our county.

SERVICES HELD FRIDAY P. M. FOR MRS. HENRY JOSTEN

CHARLES GIBBS, BIG LAKE, MINN., DIED MONDAY MORNING

Charles Gibbs, age about 70, died at his home at Big Lake, Minn. Monday morning of a heart attack. Funeral services will be heldWednesday afternoon at Monticello, Minn.

Mr. Gibbs, who visited with relatives in Klemme only a couple of weeks ago, is a brother of Harry Gibbs, Miss Anna Gibbs and Mrs. F. A. Arnold.

KLEMME COUPLE CELEBRATED 42ND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Webner celebrated their 42nd wedding anniversary on Sunday, November 14th at their home northeast of Klemme.

In the evening their children and families came to help them celebrate the event. After visiting a nice lunch was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kinsella of Ventura; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Palmer and family of Clear Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Webner and family of Corwith; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Webner and Denny and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bier and Roberta, and Ted Webner.

William Stille Ill At Ruskin, Fla., Condition Improved

Lester Stille received word the latter part of the week that his father, Wm. Stille, had suddenly become ill at Ruskin, Florida where he had gone with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson to spend the winter. Later reports Monday stated Mr. Stille was again up and around.

Lester Stille went to Charles City early Tuesday morning and there was joined by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Anderson and children and all drove to Florida to be with Mr. Stille.

Birthday Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Neuberger entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen at a chicken dinner Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Etchen's birthday. A decorated angel food cake was also on the menu.

Celebrated 81st Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen attended a birthday party in honor of Mr. Lew Avery's 81st birthday on November 12th, at his home. All of the guests brought food and had a nice lunch.

Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Roths of Klemme, is now stationed at Sheperd Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Texas. His address is as follows:

Franklin D. Roths,
A. F. 17254646
3754 T. N. Z. Sqdn., Flight 169
Sheperd Air Force Base,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH

Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

THANKSGIVING DAY
NOV. 25TH

10:00 A. M. Worship Services. Thanksgiving Offering.

Sunday:
10:00 A. M. Celebration of Lord's Supper.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.
7:00 P. M. Young People's Bible Class.

Wednesday:
2:00 P. M. Women's Guild.
8:00 P. M. Choir.

Saturday:
9:00 A. M. Confirmation Class.

Donations of cookies, clothing etc. for our Indian Mission may be brought to the Church during Thanksgiving week, not later than Sunday the 28th.

MRS. HENRY JOSTEN DIED AT HER HOME HERE ON TUESDAY EVENING

Was A Resident Of Klemme For The Past Thirteen Years

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Klemme Evangelical and Reformed Church for Mrs. Henry Josten, 72, who, died at her home in Klemme Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Josten had lived in their home in northwest Klemme for the past 13 years. Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch, pastor, conducted the last rites for Mrs. Josten. Burial was in the Ell Township Cemetery near Klemme, with the following as casket bearers: George Thieman, Emil Lau, Albert Priebe, Edwin Josten, Erwin Priebe and Erwin Haupt.

Obituary

The following obituary was read during the service by the Rev. Grosshuesch:

Bertha Josten nee Priebe, the youngest child in a family of nine children, was born on the 10th of May, 1876 at Redlien, Pommern, Germany. She was Baptized in the Lutheran Church at Kurlein where her parents were members. She came to America with her parents at the age of five years. After a six months stay at Milwaukee, Wisc., where father Priebe worked as a tailor, the family moved to Hancock County in Iowa, and located on a farm now owned by John Lemke. After four years they moved to the farm where Werner Priebe lives now. She was confirmed in the Ell Town Church by the Rev. Hy Treick May 17th, 1891.

On the 24th of February 1904 she was united in marriage to Henry Josten. Rev. Albert Muehlmeier performed the ceremony. They located on a farm east of Klemme where their oldest son Ewald is now living. After nine years they moved to the second farm where their other son August now lives. In the year 1935 they retired and moved to Klemme. Mrs. Josten was a faithful member of the Evangelical and Reformed Church where she and her family were regular in attendance. She died Tuesday evening, November 16th, 1948 at 0:30 o'clock at the age of 72 years, 6 months and 6 days.

Five sisters and one brother preceded her in death. Surviving her and mourning her death are her husband, Henry Josten; two sons, Ewald and August of Klemme; two brothers, Julius and Herman Priebe of Klemme; and six grandchildren.

Special music was provided by the male quartette: Raymond Barz, Ed. Thieman, Edward Barz and Milvern Barz, who sang, "Rock of Ages" and "Wait on God and Trust Him." Iris Roendahl accompained at the organ.

HAVE MOVED INTO NEW HOME IN COUNTRY EAST OF TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schulz moved Saturday into their new farm home located on the southeast corner of the Frank Schulz farm, four miles east of Klemme and one-half mile south.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schulz are farming in partnership with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Neuberger on the Frank Schulz farm. In addition to the new house Mr. and Mrs. Schulz also have a garage. Later they plan to put up other farm buildings.

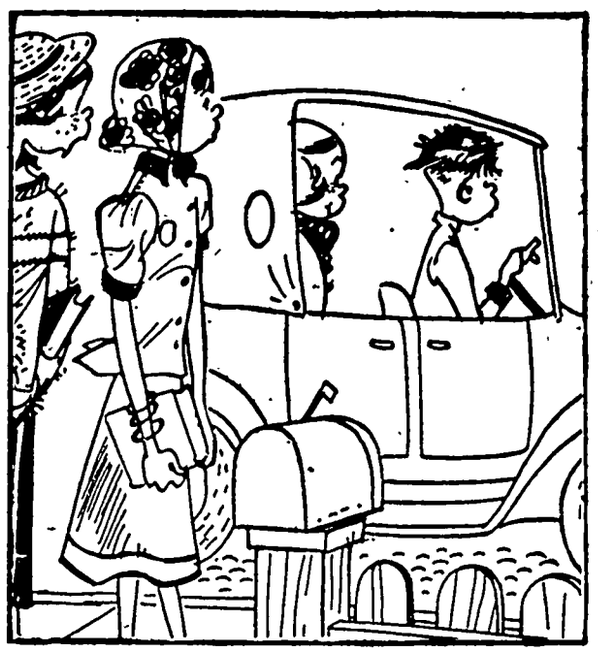
BOYS 8 TO 20 INVITED TO JOIN ELL 4-H MIDGETS

The Ell Midgets 4-H Club will meet November 29 at Ell No. 5 School to entertain all boys age 8 to 20 who are interested in 4-H activities, and who would like to join them. Parents are also invited to come to the meeting next Monday night.

Cross Town by Roland Coe

"HE'S VERY INTELLIGENT, DON'T MENTION ANY THING ABOUT S-A-L-A-R-Y IN HIS PRESENCE!"

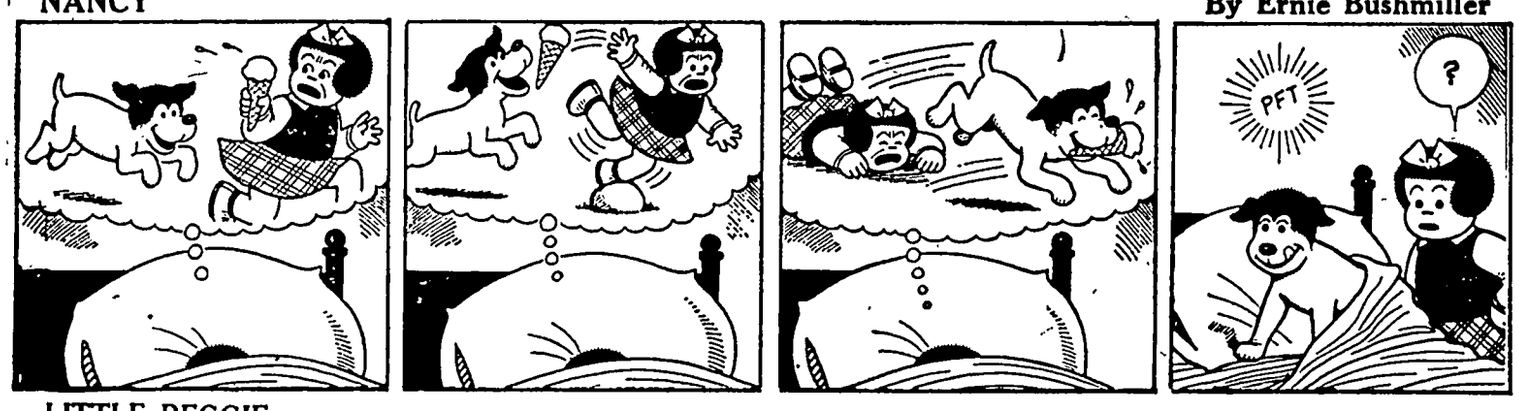
Bobby Sox by Mary Links



"MARGE CAN'T STAND RONALD, BUT SHE FINDS HIS CAR IRRESISTIBLE!"

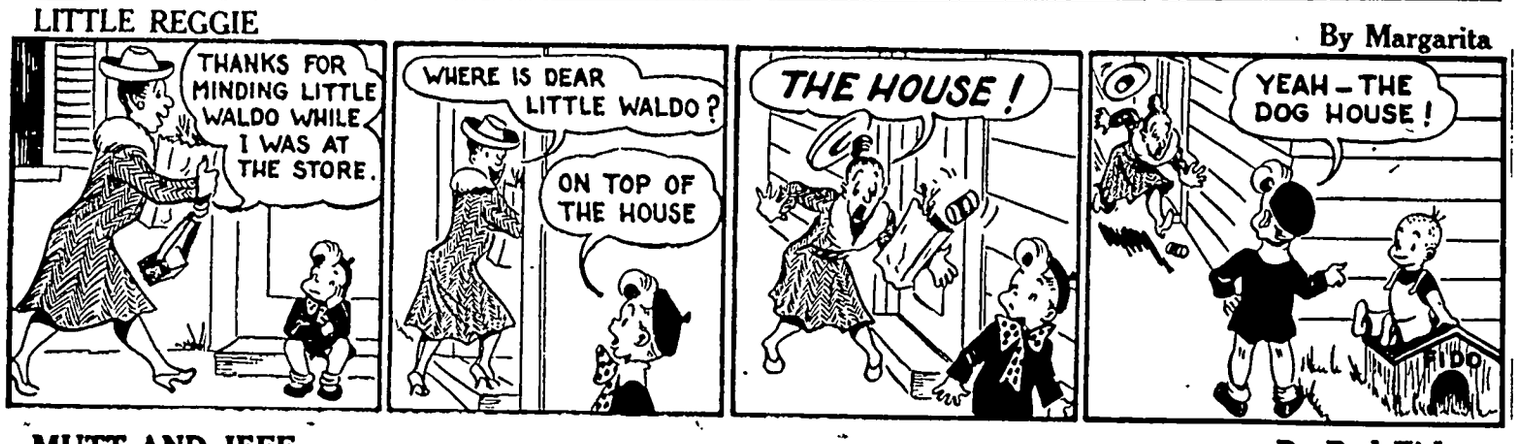
NANCY

By Ernie Bushmiller



LITTLE REGGIE

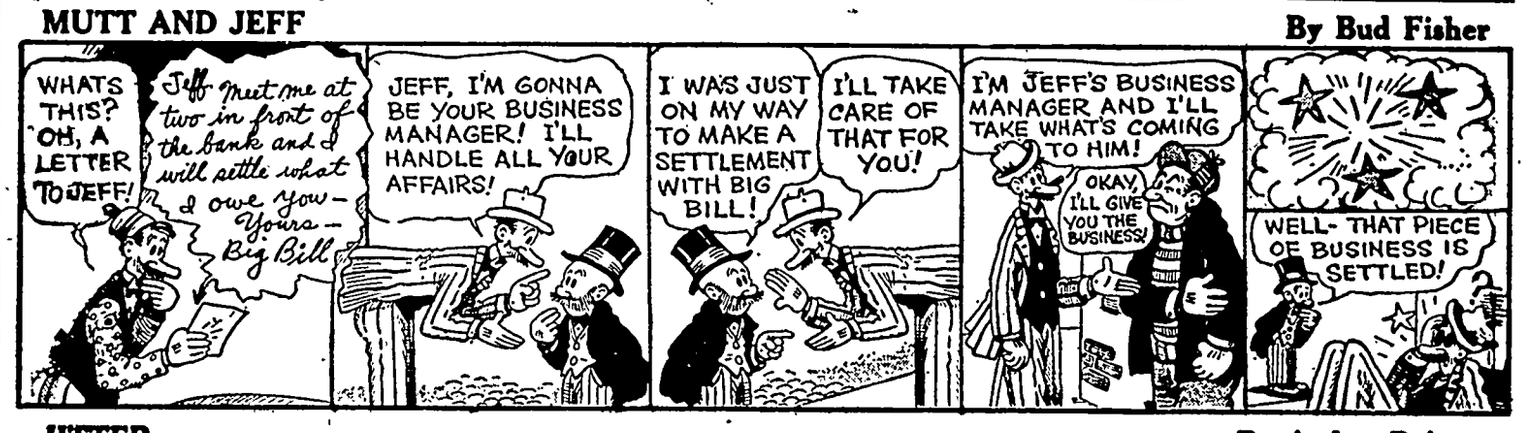
By Margarita



THANKS FOR MINDING LITTLE WALDO WHILE I WAS AT THE STORE.
WHERE IS DEAR LITTLE WALDO?
ON TOP OF THE HOUSE
THE HOUSE!
YEAH - THE DOG HOUSE!
FIDO

MUTT AND JEFF

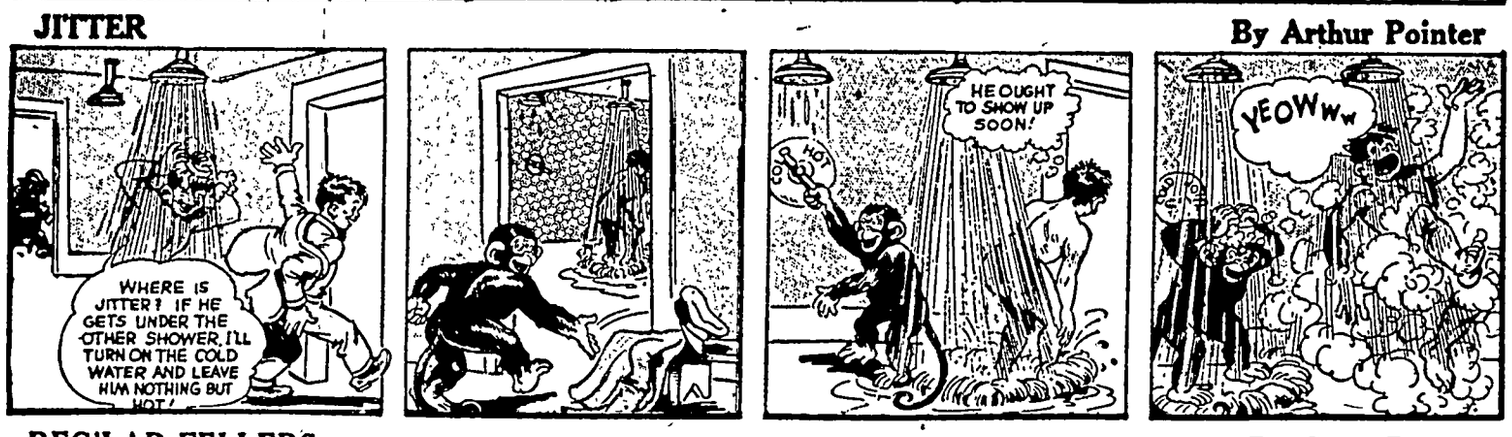
By Bud Fisher



WHAT'S THIS? OH, A LETTER TO JEFF!
Jeff Meet me at two in front of the bank and I will settle what I owe you - Yours - Big Bill
JEFF, I'M GONNA BE YOUR BUSINESS MANAGER! I'LL HANDLE ALL YOUR AFFAIRS!
I WAS JUST ON MY WAY TO MAKE A SETTLEMENT WITH BIG BILL!
I'LL TAKE CARE OF THAT FOR YOU!
I'M JEFF'S BUSINESS MANAGER AND I'LL TAKE WHAT'S COMING TO HIM!
OKAY, I'LL GIVE YOU THE BUSINESS!
WELL- THAT PIECE OF BUSINESS IS SETTLED!

JITTER

By Arthur Pointer



WHERE IS JITTER? IF HE GETS UNDER THE OTHER SHOWER, I'LL TURN ON THE COLD WATER AND LEAVE HIM NOTHING BUT HOT!
HE OUGHT TO SHOW UP SOON!
YEOWWW

REG'LAR FELLERS

By Gene Byrnes

MY GOSH" WHAT A FLOCK OF ALL DAY SUCKERS' YEP' SEVEN OF EM'
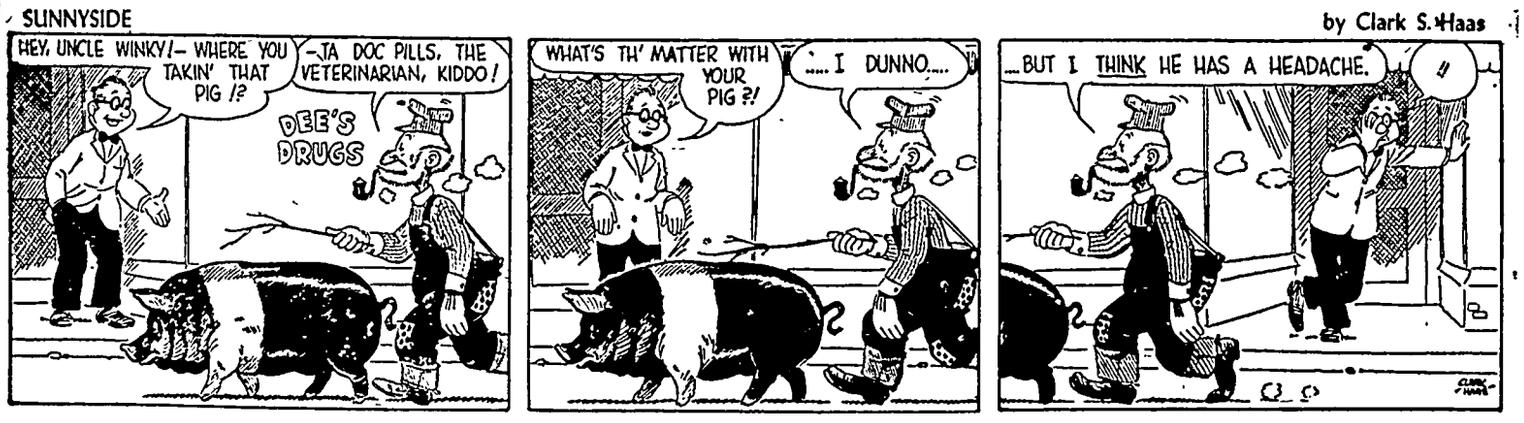
WELL, IF YA LOOKIN' FOR SOMEONE TO HELP YA EAT 'EM-
THEY AIN'T FOR EATIN', BUTCH - - THEY'RE FOR A INVENTION'
IF I KIN FIND SOME WAY TO STICK 'EM TOGETHER, I'M COMIN' OUT WITH TH' DUFFY BRAND "ALL-WEEK SUCKER!"
SLUP!

SUNNYSIDE

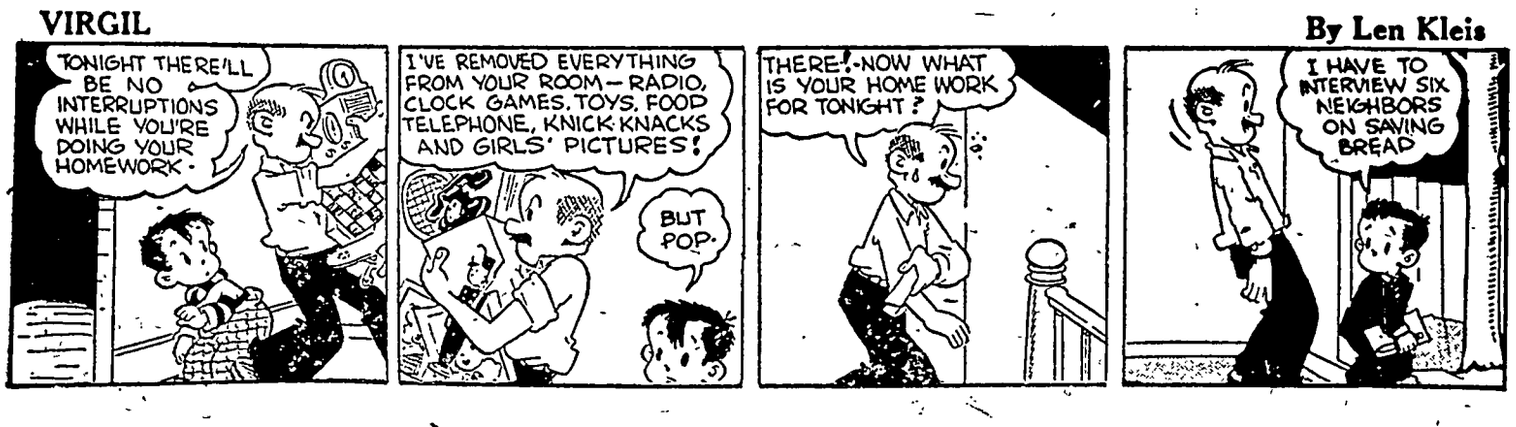
by Clark S. Haas



HEY, UNCLE WINKY!- WHERE YOU TAKIN' THAT PIG!?
-TA DOC PILLS, THE VETERINARIAN, KIDDO!
DEE'S DRUGS
WHAT'S TH' MATTER WITH YOUR PIG?!
.....I DUNNO.....
...BUT I THINK HE HAS A HEADACHE.

VIRGIL

By Len Kleis



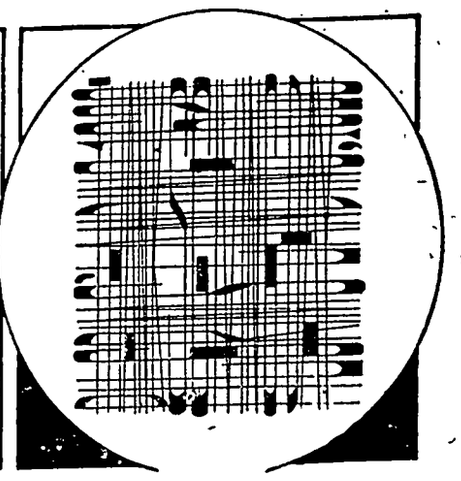
TONIGHT THERE'LL BE NO INTERRUPTIONS WHILE YOU'RE DOING YOUR HOMEWORK.
I'VE REMOVED EVERYTHING FROM YOUR ROOM—RADIO, CLOCK GAMES, TOYS, FOOD TELEPHONE, KNICK-KNACKS AND GIRLS' PICTURES!
BUT POP.
THERE!-NOW WHAT IS YOUR HOME WORK FOR TONIGHT?
I HAVE TO INTERVIEW SIX NEIGHBORS ON SAVING BREAD

FUNLAND

BY A.W. NUGENT

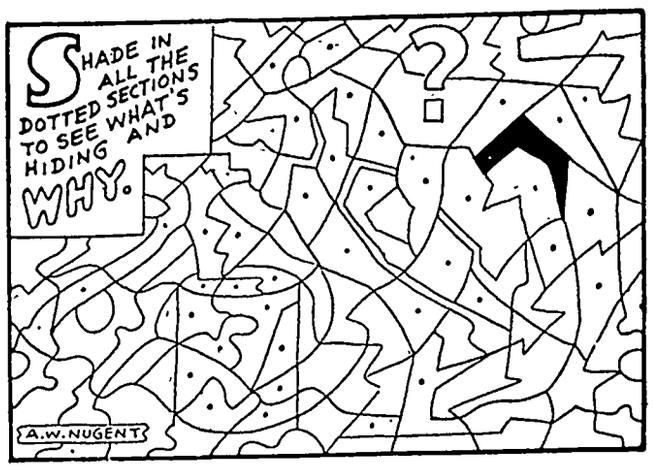
HOLD THIS DESIGN FLAT AT THE LEVEL OF YOUR EYES. TO READ AN AMERICAN HOLIDAY. GIVE THE DRAWING A QUARTER TURN RIGHT TO READ AN EVENT IN AMERICAN HISTORY.

A.W. NUGENT

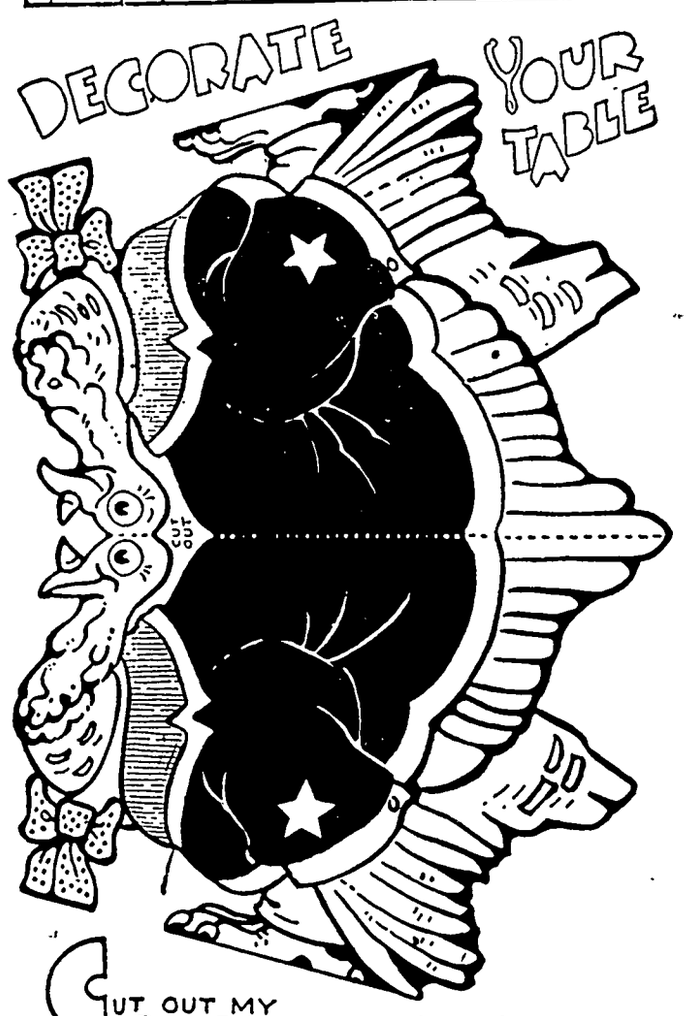


SHADE IN ALL THE DOTTED SECTIONS TO SEE WHAT'S HIDING AND WHY.

A.W. NUGENT



DECORATE YOUR TABLE



CUT OUT MY PICTURE, IN ONE PIECE, AROUND THE OUTLINE. THEN BEND THE HALVES DOWNWARD ON THE DOTTED LINE TO MAKE ME STAND.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

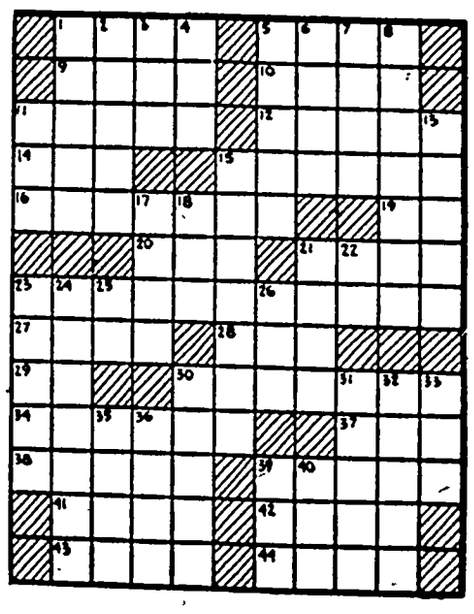
Horizontal

1 Lint
5 One of two equal parts
9 Particle
10 Elaborate solo part (Opera)
11 Place of worship
12 Cautions
14 Perched
15 Tell
16 Continue in progress
19 Of age (abbr.)
20 Away
21 Placed
23 Impulsively
27 State of mind
28 Metal
29 River (It.)
30 Animal jelly
34 A commission
37 Wine cup
38 Any climbing vine
39 Marshal
41 Pack
42 Side of stage platform
43 Female fowls
44 Comfort

Vertical

1 Thread across field of view
2 Game of chance
3 The eye: in symbolism
4 Organ of hearing
5 Turned to the left
6 Inland sea (Asia)
7 Coin (It.)
8 Species of pigeon
11 Viper
13 Shabby
15 Denied
17 Girl at a co-educational school
18 Lizard
21 The moon-goddess (Rom. Relig.)
22 Roman pound
23 Urge forward
24 Pertaining to the Moors
25 Petty officer (abbr.)
26 Lubricate
30 Chews
31 Mountain pools
32 Semblance
33 Negative vote
35 Value
36 Soon
39 Solemn wonder
40 Narrow inlet

Solution in Next Issue.



No. 8

Answer to Puzzle No. 7

		C	O	C	A		S	T	E	W
S	A	B	O	T		P	I	L	E	D
A	D	E	L	E		I	N	F	E	R
P	E	S	O		P	E	T		V	I
S	T	E	M	M	E	D		D	I	N
			B	A	N		S	U	L	K
F	E	T	I	D		C	H	E	S	S
A	N	O	A		A	M	A
U	D	O		C	A	I	M	S	U	N
L	U		L	A	C		R	A	G	E
T	R	A	I	N		H	O	U	R	S
Y	E	A	R	N		O	C	T	E	T
		D	R	A	Y		E	K	E	S

Series K—48

WNU 4647

Fire-Flies Use Signals to Find

Man uses light s ern warfare, but been using this me ing for thousands flies have their lig the underside of The intermittent li signals that enable find their mates. organ is controlled system, enabling f nal at will to attrac

MIGHTY FAST RHEUM ACHES- RUB ON MUS

IT'S ASPIRIN A St.Josep WORLD'S LARGEST

To Help COLD COU due to c

Many Doctors recommend SCOTT'S EMULSIO

If you catch colds often—because you don't get enough A&D Vitamin food— for the way good Emulsion helps build ward off colds, bu resistance. ENERGY rich in natu and energy oil. Good digest. Eco today at yo

MORE tha it's power

SCOTT'S E HIGH ENER

7 DA WILL

YES, in just 7 days... i a group of people who old dentifrices to Calox aged 38% brighter tee Why not change to C Calox today... so yo teeth can start looki brighter tomorrow!

CA TOOTH P McKesson & Robbins

PILES H Sin! But N

Thousands change a doctors' formula t of piles. Sent druggi ton & Minor Clinic. palliative relief of p Tends to soften, sh doctors' way. Get Minor's Rectal Oint positories today. Fol For sale at all drug

KEMP'S FOR COUGHS

WNU—N

CTION CORNER

SEAL OF APPROVAL

By JOHN H. HOSE

away a long time but Armand's appeared much the en to the apartment across the street which he nearly his bitterness.

looked much the after seven years. counter on the right length of the room, tings of the soda in dual rows as themselves in the the counter. To the red leather booths. was a wide doorway dining rooms and ed. I looked for old -up man who was the high school kids the place. But he ght. A new soda jerk celess surface before girl who took my order rcomer.

malted," I said, and jukebox in the far the little mixer nched the numbers fed the music box a ool I saw that Ar- at the little alcove the entire room.

It started to rain. Belting down hard, little torrential streams poured from the awnings, just as they had the first night we came to Armand's Her guardian angel, she'd called him. He had to meet and approve all her new friends. For years they had been neighbors, and Armand was a kind of paternal friend since her own father had died.

As the old boy gave me the once over that night, she had laughed gaily. And silly or not, I felt pretty swell when he came over and treated us. She told me he gave his seal of approval by treating if he liked you. I was in.

I ordered another malted for the sake of the memory, and looked up toward the little alcove, Armand had detached himself from his chair, and with no small amount of effort, was waddling along behind the counter. I waited, thinking of that other night when she had been at my side. The scent of her had been everywhere, her soft hair cascading gently to her shoulders, the d her had been everywhere, her soft hair cascading r shoulders, the big brown eyes, long lashes, her soft d her pouting lips, vividly but carefully painted to en- of me.

in this spot, or ool in the cashier's ked up and smiled buddha come to life. k. I thought:

remember me. But ly customer in the have smiled at me. bers me all right," d doubtless doesn't ory."

. I couldn't help but window. Her apart- across the street, . The windows over- were dark. Being the butterflies hop- of my stomach. I fountain and sipped

How do people mark seven years? To gan of a witch's curse irror. The return of end of the itch. Pil- Mecca. Sabbatical chers. Each has his ening. Seven years ory.

Armand. To him it another chin . . . To her . . . I had no big brown eyes, long lashes, her soft white skin, and her pouting lips, vividly but carefully painted to entice the likes of me. The old guardian and I looked at each other for a long minute. I wondered if he was remembering. Finally he smiled. So . . . he hadn't forgotten.

"It's been a long time, Mr. Anderson," he said in his ingratiating rumble.

I STUCK out my hand, replying, "It's been a very long time, Armand. How've you been?"

"Not bad, not bad," he shrugged "A bit older, a trifle wiser. I can't complain." His eyes wandered across the street as he left unsaid the answer to my unasked question.

"Are you back in town to stay," he added, as a kind of afterthought.

"That all depends," I said, and wondered about that "wiser" business. She certainly must have told him all about me. But he sounded friendly enough. I watched as he glanced again toward the front. I knew he was looking up at her apartment windows.

I tried to sound casual as I asked, "Anita been in lately?" He stroked his handful of chins, and seemed to be making a decision before he answered. I fidgeted and sipped again at the malted. He stood watching me for a long minute, then he said:

"She was in last night," he said. "As a matter of fact, we were talking about you, Mr. Anderson." He picked up my empty glass, and forced it down over the automatic washer.

I nodded, too busy thinking about what he said to even reply properly. So they had been talking about me? What did that mean? I was certain neither of them knew the real story behind my sudden departure. I'd had to go in a hurry. No one knew except John and Peggy. As far as the others were concerned, I was just a guy who had taken his firm for a few hundred dollars. They probably figured I'd been lucky to escape prison.

That I had been covering for John was nobody's business. I didn't approve what Johnny had done, but Peggy was my sister. With three kids and another on the way, Johnny knew his salary wouldn't be able to stand the stretch. Instead of laying his problems before his boss and asking for a raise he lost his head. He did the foolish thing. Others had done it before. I got him out of the mess, but no one knew this but the three of us.

So I figured any conversation about me wouldn't be complimentary . . . unless they'd discovered that I wasn't just a cheap thief. I wondered. She lived at the same place. Armand was friendly toward me. What did it all add up to?

But did they know these things about Peggy and John? Did they know that the money had been repaid, Or were they like the others —did they suspect that I was just a bum? I guess I might just as well forget about the whole thing and go some place to start all over again. I took one last look toward her apartment, picked up my coat, and asked the girl for my check. Armand had stepped to one of the booths to greet some folks who had come in just as the rain started. I waited for him at the cashier's booth at the end of the counter.

I was disgusted and showed it, I guess. Finally Armand shuffled over to the cash register and took the check the girl had given me.

"That's all right, Mr. Anderson," he said, "This is my treat. Good luck."

I muttered my thanks and went outside to stand under the awning, wondering where to go in the gloomy downpour. Then it suddenly dawned on me . . . Armand had treated! His seal of approval! I was still Mr Big across the street —that's what he was trying to tell me!

Armand had let me know that in his quaint, unobtrusive way. I looked again at the apartment windows. There was a light there now She was home!

I didn't even look up and down the street, but dashed out into the rain. This was it! The thing I'd waited a million minutes for. This made up for every lonely night, every remark handed out by those who didn't know I was going home. I could say all the things that had been bottled up inside me for so long. I could tell her now how much I loved her, how I had longed for her. I glanced back as I entered the building. Armand was peering out the door, his round face pressed against the glass, a wide smile spread across his countenance as I waved merrily before climbing the stairs to the third floor front.

GRIEFS

the many griefs of yesterday
Have left me, one by one,
Until no shadow of them falls
today's bright sun.

thought that they would never go
my sad belief;
ked my hearth and set a plate
ach old weary grief.

now today, new sorrow comes,
change, unwelcome guest.
ker will he take his leave crew, like the rest?

keep remembering
ese griefs passed on,
ll not hurt me; I can wait too, is gone.

Grace Noll Crowell

tricks for teens

by NANCY PEPPER

Petticoat Influence.

Say, who's that walking down the street in front of us? We mean that beruffled dresden doll who pauses to swish up her skirts as she steps daintily up and down the curb? Could it be the same teen-ager we used to deplore in jeans and shirts?? It could—and it is! It's YOU in the petticoats that have changed your whole manner and personality along with your appearance.

Conceal or Reveal?—A survey indicates that most of you approve of the petticoat that hangs a bit beneath your skirt. And just to make sure that it doesn't blush unseen you're catching up one side of your skirt with a bow or clip. All this despite protests from the same Joes who so vigorously and futilely opposed your New Look. Will they be sewing ruffles on their trousers in protest, now that you've all subscribed to the P.H.D. society (Petticoat Hanging Down, that is)?

Petticoat Pretties—Down in Louisville, Ky., teens are living up to Southern Bell traditions by pinning artificial flowers to their petticoat ruffles to match the boutonnieres on their suits or blouses. Out West we hear they're sewing heart-shaped pockets near the hem of their petticoats for handkerchiefs or sachets. And, all over the country you're lifting a corner of your skirt with that new Petticoat Peeper pin with a metal clip at the end of its chain shaped like a little hand.

Well, as the Ruffle said to the Flounce, "Let's Hang Around a Little Longer."

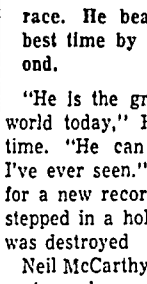
Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

IN THE opinion of George Widener, one of our ablest turfmen, foreign horses are never given a chance to win over here.

"These foreign entries are sent over from five days to three weeks before the race," Widener said. "They should be sent over from six months to a year ahead of time. Otherwise they will have no chance.

"Years ago, I recall when Meadowbrook was challenging for the cup. Harry Payne Whitney sent all the American ponies to England at least six months in advance. He said that it would take six months or longer to have them ready for their best work.



Grantland Rice

"Now we all know that most of the foreign horses we have seen run —those from France, Belgium, Ireland, etc.—are much better horses than they proved to be. Their air voyages were badly upsetting, and they had little chance to get in anything like real shape.

"It is really a shame, and I hope that in the future, owners of all invading foreign entries give their thoroughbreds at least some sort of a chance."

There isn't the least doubt about Widener's opinion. I could tell you about any number of foreign horses to prove his point.

Argentina's Top Horse

Some years ago, Charley Howard, owner of Sea Biscuit, bought Sorteado, winner of Argentine's triple crown. He paid $40,000 for the horse. After several weeks training, I saw his first start at Santa Anita Sorteado reared up and was doing a jig on his two hind legs when the race started.

Weeks later he was little better. But a year later, in New York, I sat with owner Howard while Sorteado broke a world's record for a mile and a half race. He beat War Admiral's best time by one-fifth of a second.

"He is the greatest horse in the world today," Howard said at the time. "He can outrun any horse I've ever seen." Sorteado went out for a new record a few days later, stepped in a hole, broke a leg, and was destroyed

Neil McCarthy bought an Australian horse known as Shannon II He was an Australian champion. He was an American flop the first few months. Now Shannon II is winning big stakes and beating such horses as On Trust He's one of the best.

Even Jimmy Jones told me he made a mistake in flying Armed to California five days in advance of his race. "I should have sent him three weeks ahead, since he traveled by plane," Jimmy said.

A race horse needs ample time to accustom himself to new surroundings, climate and environment especially after a long trip.

If we sent our horses abroad, including Citation, under the same conditions, they would be run into the ground Foreign owners should either keep their thoroughbreds at home or give them from six months to a year to go after the rich purses they can win from Belmont to Santa Anita, from Chicago to Hialeah.

Fighting Horses

John Partridge, the veteran trainer, was telling a story about Col. E. R. Bradley, the famous Kentucky breeder.

"This was years ago," John said. "Colonel Bradley had hired a trainer to help look after his fighting chickens and also his horses. The colonel was kind of proud of those chickens.

"One night there was a private party where several of his game chickens were entered. They didn't look any too good. In fact three of his fighting chickens turned and ran. The trainer felt pretty bad about this, and naturally the colonel was angry. To have his game chickens run away was the last word.

"Next day," John continued, "the trainer started across a field. There were several horses around, including two of Bradley's stallions. The two stallions began fighting. The trainer rushed over and tried to separate them. He didn't do a good job. Both were badly cut up.

"When Colonel Bradley heard about it, he was furious. He sent for the trainer and gave him a terrible bawling out. Then he fired him.

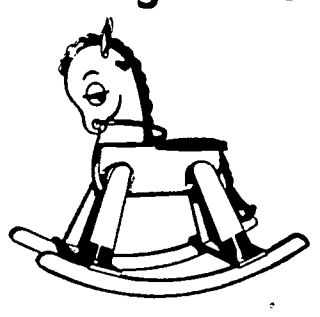
"'This is the best break I ever had,' the trainer said to the colonel, 'For this is the craziest place I ever worked. I don't want any part of it.'

"'What do you mean, the craziest place you ever worked?' the colonel said. "'What's wrong with it?'

"'I'll tell you what's wrong with it,' the trainer said. 'I've been three weeks at this great Bradley place in Kentucky, and all I've seen is running chickens and fighting horses.'

"I don't think it is necessary for me to say," John added, "that Colonel Bradley not only didn't fire the trainer but gave him a nice raise."

Rocking Horse Has Personality



HERE'S a rocking horse that has personality. It's one that has special appeal for youngsters of varying ages. You can have as much fun making and painting it as some lucky youngster will have using it.

The full size pattern offered below really simplifies making, user merely traces pattern on wood, saws and assembles. No special tools or skill are required

Pattern also provides printed outlines for tracing mouth, nose, eyes, etc., on wood, thus no decorating skill is needed to paint rocker with a professional touch.

Ears are made from a piece of old felt hat, tail from a piece of rope.

Send 35 cents for Pattern No. 53 to Easi-Bild Pattern company, Dept. W, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Caution for Swimmers

Stay out of the water for at least an hour after eating, and swim in sight of others. Be sure water is deep enough and free of obstructions before diving. Don't try to swim too far.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's truly excellent, for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it eases breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Pinex Is Quick Acting!

BUY U. S. SAVINGS BONDS.

Tells the World "No More Laxatives!"

"I was so constipated I had to take laxatives all the time. That's over now—I'll tell the world KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day really keeps me straight."—Mrs. Laura H. McNew, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

If your diet lacks bulk for normal elimination, this delicious cereal will supply it. Eat an ounce every day in milk—and drink plenty of water. If not satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

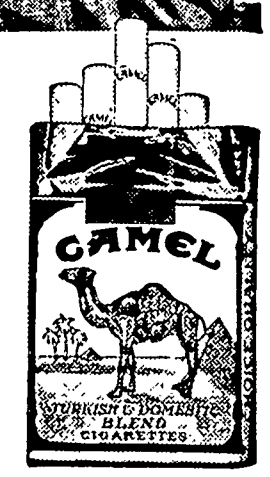
THAT 30-DAY TEST I MADE WON ME OVER TO CAMELS FOR KEEPS...THEY'RE WONDERFULLY MILD!
I'VE SMOKED CAMELS FOR YEARS ...I KNOW THEY'RE MILD...AND THEY TASTE GREAT!

PROVE

CAMEL MILDNESS

FOR YOURSELF!

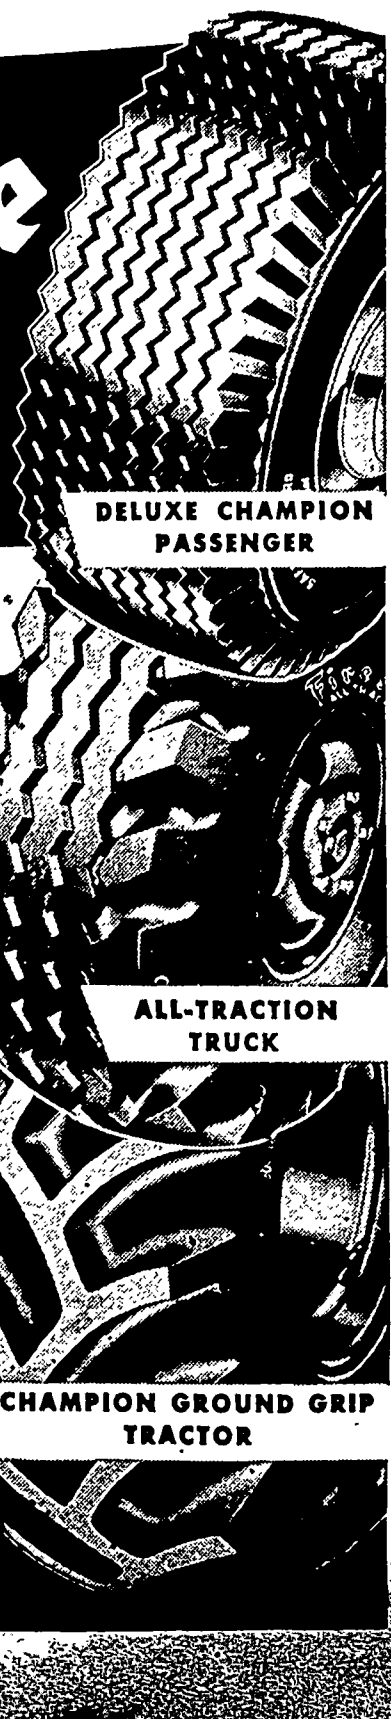
● In a recent test, hundreds of men and women all across the country smoked Camels—and only Camels—an average of one to two packages a day—for 30 consecutive days. Each week their throats were examined by noted throat specialists—a total of 2470 examinations—and these doctors found not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels.



ALWAYS THE GREATEST VALUES IN THE FARM TIRE FIELD . . .

Firestone TIRES

FOR YOUR CAR, TRUCK OR TRACTOR



FIRESTONE makes a tire for every wheel that rolls on your farm. More than likely you are using Firestone Tires on some of your equipment now. You're dollars ahead with Firestones on ALL of your equipment because ALL Firestone Tires are built for extra service and they cost you no more.

Today you save even more on Firestone Tires because they are built to give better service than ever before, built to outperform and outlast any tire ever built. And your net cost is actually lower because of the extra-liberal allowance for your trade-in tires.

See your Firestone Dealer or Store for low cost estimate.

Listen to the Voice of Firestone every Monday evening over NBC

Copyright, 1948, The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

Proved by Test to be the BEST In North, South, East and West

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA

Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED

Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

TEACHER

A pupil gave a box of candy to a teacher recently. The pupil was 83 year old Gabe Pederson of Waterville; the teacher was 94 year old Charles Dahl of Waterville. Dahl taught Pederson in rural school back in 1881 and the two have been friends ever since.

WHAT'S A

Mugwump?

. . . it's a bird that straddles the fence wih his mug on one side and his wump on the other!

(Note: There is no open season on mugwumps.)

Meet Your Farmer Friends At

Joe's Place

GRIND ALFALFA COARSE TO FEED YOUNG PIGS

Grind alfalfa coarse for growing and fattening pigs, recommends Damon Catron, Iowa State College animal husbandman. He bases his recommendation on results of experiments conducted at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the American Dehydranters' Association.

Tests showed that coarsely ground alfalfa mixed in a supplement will produce economical gains. Too, coarsely ground alfalfa costs less to prepare, requires less powder to grind and is easier to handle.

Pigs receiving course alfalfa meal gained 1.77 pounds per day compared to 1.71 pounds per day gained by pigs fed finely ground alfalfa and 1.66 pounds per day by pigs fed medium-fine ground alfalfa. Pigs fed coarsely ground alfalfa required the least amount of feed per 100 pounds gain, in tests comparing fineness of alfalfa meal.

In comparing a dehydrated chopped hay and ground alfalfa meal, chopped feed gave best results in the tests. These pigs gained 1.78 pounds per day compared to 1.77 pounds gained by pigs fed coarse alfalfa meal. Those fed dehydrated chopped alfalfa hay required 339 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of gain, topping alfalfa meal in that comparison.

All pigs on test receive the same supplement of soybean oilmeal, meat and bone scrapes, trace minerals, and vitamin D. Chopped hay was fed separately while alfalfa meal was added to the supplement.

Catron points out that all the alfalfa products used in the experiments were made from the good, high-quality dehydrated alfalfa.

BIG YIELD

Pete DeVries, of Little Rock, claims a yield of 170 bushels to the acre on a small acreage. Can any one top this?

Little Cattle Feeders Held Meeting

The Little Cattle Feeders of Grimes Township, Cerro Gordo County, met at the home of Dick Gilpin on Thursday evening, November 18 at 8:00 o'clock. Twenty members answered the roll call.

Leonard Gobeli gave an interesting talk on his trip to the Fat Stock Show at Waterloo. The next meeting will be held at Billy Fisher's, which will be a Christmas party.

A very delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Gilpin.

MANY DISEASES OF MAN ARE CARRIED BY RATS

Rats are the reservoir and the source of several disease of mankind, Harold Gundrson, the extension entomologist at Iowa State College, said this week as he urged Iowans to make the most of the few rat-killing days left before winter sets in.

He pointed out that dollars-and-cents damage, or loss of grain and food, by rats is quite obvious. But the loss of human life caused by rats is hard to measure, and folks who have not had it "strike home" are apt to forget that rats are guilty on this count.

According to a statement from P. J. Houser, associate director of the Division of Public Health Engineering of the Iowa State Department of Health,, rats have been implicated in the spread of bubonic plague, murine typhus fever, rabies, rat bite fever, spirochetal jaundice (Weil's disease), trichinosis and food poisoning. Rats were found to be infected with trichinae in seven out of eight outbreaks of human trichinosis in Iowa. Hogs on farms were the source of the human cases, with rats having served as a reservoir of infection for the hogs.

Gunderson said that this unmeasurable loss caused by rats is just one more reason why all Iowans, farmers and town or city residents, should get rid of rats yet this fall.

He points out that effective rat control is simple and inexpensive. Clean up all rat harbors, such as piles of trash, boards, fence posts and junk piles. Prebait to gain the rats' confidence and to find out how many rats are present. Poison the existing population with red squill, Antu or barium carbonate. Finally, rat-proof buildings to discourage any transient rats in the neighborhood from moving in.

Gunderson pointed out that dry oil baits should be used to poison rats during the freezing weather. Moist baits are less effective in cold weather.

Thoroughly rat-proof all your farm buildings.

Klemme Food Mkt.

Friday & Saturday Specials

Save The Self-Serve Way!

Pork Chops LB. 49c | Hamburger LB. 42c

Beef Steak lb. 69c | Crisco 3 pounds $1.19

RINSO 3 for $1

KIX 2 for ____ 29c

KRINKLY NOODLES per pkg. ___ 17c

MATCHES per carton ____ 36c

NABISCO SHREDDED WHEAT 2 boxes __ Only 33c

TUNA FISH per can ____ 44c

COCOANUT per pkg. ____ 14c

BRIARDALE CATSUP bottle __ 17c

TENDERLEAF TEA BAGS per pkg. ____ Only 17c

ASHLAND PAPER NAPKINS per pkg. __ Special 12c

BABO 10c Can

SCOTTIES (facial tissues) per box __ 14c

SUNSWEET PRUNES 2 lb. pkg. __ 39c

APPLE PYEQUICK per box ____ 37c

BLUE BARREL SOAP 2 bars for ____ Special At 29c

IVORY SNOW 3 FOR $1

Folgers Coffee Per Pound 51c

Bring Us Your Eggs CASH or TRADE

Klemme Food Market
Klemme, Iowa

We Reserve The Right To Limit

We are Sorr

That We Can't Display The Merch In Our Warehouse

HERE IS A PARTIAL LIST:

Complete Bath Rooms
Sinks
Septic Tanks
Water Heaters - electric - Water Softeners
Green Colonial Delux Fur
Green Colonial Conversion
Oil Burners
Furnace Blowers
Stokers
Space Heaters - Oil - Coa
Water Systems - deep wel shallow well (Meyers

KLEMME HARDWARE COM
Willam Fuss - Harry Schuster
Phone 13 Klem

We Thank You

We want to take this Thanksgi to express our sincere "THANKS" to th of this community for their patronage will shown us during the past year.

It will be our first thought to g and everyone the best service, and we ful that we may continue to serve yo in the coming year with our Quality Building Materials, and Mill Work.

We extend our sincerest wish may be a most enjoyable Thanksgiving you.

NORTHERN LUMBER COM
LUMBER and BUILDING SUPPL
Lloyd Sherwood, Manager

Thanksgiving Greetings!

To say that we appreciate your business and friendship du past year is putting it mildly. We are indeed very grateful people of this community for their loyalty and their fine spiri operating with us in the past year.

This is YOUR Cooperative and by all of us pulling together continue to grow as we have done in the past years. By patroniz Cooperative you are helping yourself as well as your Cooperativ splendid team-work have shown wonderful results and so we ha to be Thankful for at this Thanksgiving Season.

From the Officers, Directors and Personnel of this home-own we extend Hearty Thanksgiving Greetings and Best Wishes.

Klemme Coop. Grain Compa
"The Farmers Elevator"
Glen Bridges,

UCTIONEER

FARM SALES
HOUSEHOLD GOODS
STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
SWALVE
Iowa

HE DIDN'T KNOW

At Adel, well known Zack Smith passed away recently, six weeks after the death of his son Earl, in California. Due to the father's illness, news of his son's death was kept from him and he died without knowing his son had preceded him.

WE HAVE A WIDE ASSORTment of Christmas Cards. Stop in at The Times Office today.

S YEAR "PERSONALIZE" YOUR RISTMAS CARDS
TH PHOTOGRAPHS . . . .

I am now making up CHRISTMAS CARDS using photos of children and adults, and have samples on display e Corner Store.

I am equipped to come to your home and take pictures yourself or children and make up the cards.

All work guaranteed to be satisfactory, and prices are ore than other good cards.

Phone 7F58
DEAN RASMUS
Klemme, Iowa

hank You!

At this Thanksgiving season we extend greetgs and thank you for your patronage of the t year.

Bakery Specials

Whatever your requirements we can take e of any special baked goods you need for ties and dinners.

FINE QUALITY AT THE RIGHT PRICE

arner Bakery
Lehman, Prop. Phone Garner 134

NOT ALL LUMPY CEMENT NEED BE THROWN AWAY

Too many farmers throw away cement that appears lumpy when it can be used satisfactorily, says extension agricultural engineers at Iowa State College.

They point out that two things can cause cement to become hard and lumpy when it is stored on the farm—weight of cement bags piled upon one another and the moisture taken from the air. Hardness or lumpiness caused from the cement being pressed together does not make it useless. However, cement hardened by taking on moisture is no good.

Dry storage conditions are necessary to keep bags of cement from becoming worthless lumps, the engineers says. Stored cement must be protected from moisture from all directions if it is to keep.

Besides being under a good roof in weather-tight building, stored cement needs to be protected from capillary moisture underneath the pile if the bags are stacked on a concrete floor. Roll roofing placed on the floor before the cement is piled prevents soil moisture rising up through the floor from getting into the bags of cement.

Another good idea is to consolidate the pile as much as possible. Have a minimum of surface area exposed to circulating air.

SMOTHERED

While playing in a nine-foot bin of shelled corn, seven year old Johnny Ocherfels sank out of sight and was smothered. As the elevator was running it was several minutes before the loud screams of his little sister who was with him, attracted attention. Workmen tore out the side of the crib but were unable to revive the child.

POPPED CORN

Martin Flynn, of near Lecn, found some ears of pop corn in his field, on which numerous kernels had popped in the field. Who says it wasn't hot in Iowa?

MOVED

Fifteen years ago when Mrs Max Jones of Colfax was in grade school, her teacher gave out names of pupils in foreign countries. Mrs. Jones started writing to Hilda Turner of Salford, England. The correspondence continued and as a result Hilda and her husband came to Colfax to make their permanent home.

Farm fires cost Iowans nearly 2 million dollars last year.

Plan Ahead For—

BETTER FAMILY LIVING

Whether it's fixing up the kitchen, or buying clothes for the family, or putting money into new household equipment, it's good to know what the year ahead may hold.

You've been hoping for a long time that food prices would come down, that maybe you could afford some new furnishings for the house or do some remodeling about the place.

Perhaps some new equipment is on your list of things to get, if you can find what you want and can afford it. And so are clothes to buy for the children, or a new coat for yourself, or a suit for Dad.

Just what are the chances of getting some or all of these new things?

Many Iowa families right now are taking a look ahead to what they can expect in 1949, and making plans accordingly. Outlook information is coming to them from extension specialists of Iowa State College.

Food Prices

Food prices won't come down much. Cereal products will drop a little but other food may go up some. There's going to be more pork but less beef on the market. Eggs and poultry aren't going to be overly plentiful for some time to come. Prices of eggs will be about the same, poultry a little more until next fall. As for turkeys, the crop is the smallest for many years, prices will be quite high.

Not much more milk will be going to the market this year. Folks who have a plentiful supply of fluid milk near at hand are advised to use lots of it in everyday meals. It's good from the standpoint of health and economy.

As for fruits, citrus fruits and canned juices are an excellent buy. There's plenty to be had and it gives much-needed vitamin C. Most Iowa folks don't eat enough citrus fruit for best health. Count on more bananas, but not so many apples, peaches and pears. There will be plenty of cranberries for holiday feasts.

In vegetables the canned and frozen pack was smaller this last year. Some fresh vegetables are good buys now—but you will be wise to plant a garden next spring.

Dried beans are a good buy. The crop is large, prices are lower. You may wish to ease food costs by making liberal use of this high protein food.

Building Costs

If you're thinking of building right now, consider that costs of materials are going to stay high, may go higher, say housing authorities. Remodeling may be a more practical idea, they say. Shortages of steel in almost all areas, plus shortages of lumber and cement in some localities, mean difficulty in building.

Better quality home appliances from the long—time established manufacturers are on the market. You will have a wider range of choice this year. But you'll pay high prices. Utility costs are going up—all of them—and shortages of electricity will continue.

You'll have more to choose from in home furnishings this year, but shop carefully. It's still hard to find good furnishings in prices you may wish to pay. Sheets, towels and linens are back in good supply. Lower prices in these items are at hand.

As for clothing, if you have ability to sew for your family, you will be able to make garments of better quality for the money you spend. Women's clothing prices are high; may be higher. Men's clothing may come down a little in price. Best idea is to buy classic style clothes, and get one good buy rather than two or three poor ones.

Personality sketches showing how handicaps have become springboards to success for many people. Louise Baker, the unaped best-selling author, and a blind masseuse are among those cited. Read "Your Handicap May Be Your Best Friend" in the American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN.

BONFIRE

At the Cornell college homecoming, a pre-game bonfire got out of hand and set fire to a storage shed. Students kept the flames from spreading to the railroad right of way. The building was a total loss.

Drive safely, the life you save may be your own.

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

For Quick Truck Delivery On
D.X PRODUCTS
Phone 149-R2
ERNEST
HENSCHEN
Klemme, Iowa

Advertisement

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It's Your Fight, Too!

Bing Crowley was "beefing" the other day about all that Our Town's doing in the way of sending food and clothes to Europe. Bing felt that those struggling democracies should look after themselves.

But most agreed with Judge Cunningham who said: "So long as any family or individual in Europe is helping hold the line for freedom—against the forces of intolerance—it's common sense, and common decency, to help 'em."

Because that's everybody's fight: To see that individual freedom is preserved in every aspect, big or little—whether it's the right to vote, or the right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer or ale with friends.

And from where I sit, no liberty's too small to overlook. Because the minute one small freedom is threatened, all the others are in jeopardy—just as the minute one small country loses freedom, all its neighbors are in danger!

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

WE INVITE YOU TO DO YOUR Christmas Shopping
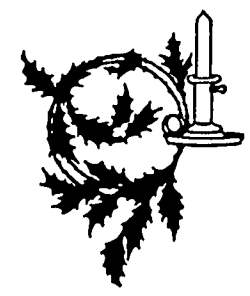
RIGHT HERE AT HOME



Decorations For The Home —

Bubble-Lights
Icicles
Wreaths
Tree Balls
Wrapping Paper
Christmas Bells
Colored Rope
Tree Lights

For The Little Children —

Trucks, little ones and up
Dolls, all kinds, very nice!
Books, for all ages of tots
Games, many different kinds
Dishes, a number of sets

For The Grown Ups —

Shaving Sets, Razors
Cologne, Powder, Lipstick
Evening in Paris Sets
Wrisley Cosmetics Sets
Billfolds, Cigarette Lighters
Clocks and many other items!

Come In, Look Around, See Our Big Line Of Christmas Gifts!

THE CORNER STORE
Glen Terhufen, Proprietor Klemme, Iowa

ure There's A
ANTA CLAUS - - - - -
ND HE'S RIGHT HERE AT OUR STORE!

n Wednesday, December 22nd Santa Claus is going to give away over f nice Christmas Gifts at our Store, including the following:

ic Console Radio and Record Player	$210.95
le G. E. Radio, standard and short wave	$ 99.50
sal Electric Bed Blanket	$ 39.95
Cordless Electric Flat Iron	$ 19.95
Electric Toaster	$ 13.45
less Extension Cords, each valued at	$ 2.95

ASSORTMENT OF MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS

bout FIFTY other miscellaneous items including kitchen cutlery, utenleshlights, soap, etc. etc. All FREE!

se fine Gifts in our show window and then come in and ask us fof de- to how you may receive one of these gifts absolutely free.

JOSTEN APPLIANCE
LANE GAS Phone 149-R2 KLEMME, IOWA

1949 Automobile and Truck Plates

GO ON SALE DECEMBER 1ST, 1948

We have on hand the new license plates for automobiles and trucks for the year 1949.

We have not had new plates for two years and in 1948 you still had 1947 plates on your car, with a registration slip and number for 1948.

This year it will be necessary for you to bring your registration slip with you for we have no way to find your card unless you do this. If you send your check in by mail, be sure to mail the registration slip with it, or we will have to return it to you. Our cards are all filed by number of your registration certificates and not by number of your plate.

Owing to the fact that the reserved list has mounted every year and now is over the 400 mark, it will be impossible for us to reserve any numbers. They will be registered just as you come to the office. First come first served.

We will try our best to satisfy each one and we hope you will work with us to get our registrations out on time. Please do not ask for us to save your old number.

Remember that trailer licenses become delinquent at the same time as your auto licenses.

Keep the date in mind - December 1st - numbers go on sale.
FIRST COME FIRST SERVED

Roy L. McMillin
COUNTY TREASURER

PROCEEDINGS OF THE HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

6TH ADJOURNED SEPTEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with John Chambers, George Th. Gerdes and F. J. Schoun present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

WHEREAS the Currie Engineering Company of Webster City, Iowa has certified that Pittsburgh-Des Steel Company of Des Moines, Iowa, has completed its contract for construction of a 10,000 gallon tank on a 76 foot tower, also the water mains, hydrants and gate valves and has made repairs to the water mains, due to defective tapping of the mains and there is due Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company of Des Moines, Iowa, the sum of $30088 43 less 10/ percent 59; that Thorpe Well Company of Des Moines, Iowa, has completed its contract for the installation of a Turbine pump and is entitled to $1992 50 less 10 percent or $1793 25; and Currie Engineering Company of Webster City, Ioaw for Engineering Services the sum of $1642.15

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa acting for and in behalf of the Benefited Water District of Woden, Iowa, that the final report and special assessment of the Engineer be and it is hereby accepted as amended and certified.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Gerdes, was seconded by Supervisor Schoun, whereupon the Chairman, J A Chambers, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is George Th. Gertes, F J Schoun and J. A. Chambers, aye, nays - none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion by Supervisor Gerdes and second by Supervisor Schoun, Hancock County's assessment on Woden Water Works in amount of $141 43 is hereby accepted and approved and ordered paid

To the Board of Supervisors of Hanoock County, Iowa
Gentlemen:

In the matter of the protest of the assessment on the N½ SW¼ tnd S½ NW¼ all in sec. 12-95-24, by Ben F Greiman for the Wm. Greiman Estate, stating that part of this land was tiled south and out of Drainage District No. 3 and 4, I have the following to report.

I have made an examination of the above described tracts of land. There is a six inch tile outlet on the north side of Section 13-95-24, which runs up into the NE¼ SW¼ and also into or near the south side of the SE¼ SW¼ (all in sec 12-95-24) The location of this tile line makes it advisable to make certain changges in the assessment of D. D. No. 3 and 4.

I recommended that the following changes be made in the assessment of Drainage District No. 3 and 4 Section 12-95-24.

1. Reduce NE¼ SW¼ 40.00, 000-34%, Amount $19 38 to W 15 acres NE¼ SW¼ 15 00 acres, .00013%, Amount $7 41

2. Reduce SE¼ NW¼, 37 34 acres 00254% Amount, $144 78 to SE¼ NW¼ exc S 5 A E½ 32.34 acres, 00220%, Amount $125 40.

3 Increase Hancock County Roads from 03759 per cent, Amount $2142 63
to 03814 per cent, Amount $2173 98.
Dated October 19, 1948

Respectfully submitted,
WM HENSCHEN
Registered Engineer No. 1451

To the Board of Supervisors
of Hancock County, Iowa

In the matter of the verbral protest of Carl P Rasmussen, of the assessment of the NW¼ NW¼ Section 8-96-23, stating that he owns only the north 65 rods of said tract I report as follows:

The listed assessment in the official publication was Carl P Rasmussen North 378 A NW¼ NW¼ 00095% Amt. $54 15.

The records show that the assessment should have been divided as listed below:

¼ ¼
Section 8-96-23

Carl P Rasmussen N. 65 rods NW¼ NW¼, .00081%, 30.5 acres, Amt. $46.17 Anthony Rasmussen S 15 rods NW¼ NW¼, .00014% 7 3 Acres, Amt. $7.98.

Respectfully submitted,
WM HENSCHEN
Registered Engineer No. 1451

On motion and second the registration of James R. Cooper, Deputy tive as of November 15, 1948, is Sheriff of Hancock County, effechereby approved.

Supervisor Schoun is appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 80, main.

Supervisors Chambers is appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D D. No. 34.

WHEREAS, there is now in the hands of the County Treasurer the sum of $1809.80 credited to Drainage District No. 8 fund and

WHEREAS there is now in the hands of, the Treasurer the sum of $3081 55 credited to Drainage District No 105 and

WHEREAS there is now in the hands of the Treasurer the sum of $6721 29 credited to Drainage District No. 108 and

WHEREAS it is desired to trasfer $2963.01 from D D. No. 105 to D D. 8 and $6632 82 fro D. D. No. 108 to D D No. 8 for the following reason the above mentioned amounts are the assessments levied for outlet privileges to D. D. No. 8 by D D No 105 and D. D. No. 105 and D. D No 108

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa that said sums be and the same are hereby ordered transferred from D. D. No. 108 and D. D. No. 105 to D. D. No 8 and the County Auditor is Directed to correct his books accordingly and to notify the Treasurer of this transfer, accompaning the notification with a copy of this resolution and the record of its adoption. The vote thereon being as follows: F J Schoun, George Th Gerdes, and J A Chambers, aye, nays, none.

Whereupon the chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

WHEREAS Wm. Henschen, Engineer has to report that Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City, Iowa, has completed his contract for excavation and clearing on D. D. No. 65 to his entire satisfaction and there is due on said contract a final estimate in the sum of $723 53

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 65, that the report of the Engineer is hereby tentatively approved and further hearing on the report will be held at the courthouse in Garner, Iowa at 10:00 A M. on the 15th day of November A. D., 1948. The County Auditor is hereby directed to cause notice of such hearing to be published as by law directed

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Schoun, who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisors Gerdes, whereupon the chairman, J. A. Chambers, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is F. J. Schoun, George Th. Gerdes and J. A. Chambers, aye, nays, none. Whereupon the chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

WHEREAS, C. F. Merten, Engineer, has to report thaat Clermont Brick and Sand Company has completed its contract for surfacing roads in Hancock County, to his entire satisfaction and there is due on said contract, a finaal estimate in the sum of $5985.00.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa that the report of the Engineer be and the same is hereby approved and the County Auditor be and he is hereby. authorized and ordered to draw a warrant on the Road Construction Fund of Hancock County, Iowa in favor of Clemont Brick and Sand Company in the sum of $5985.-00 as a final payment on said contract, all as by law directed.

This being the 2nd day of November A. D., 1948, a date heretofore fixed for the adjourned hearing on the report of the Commissioners heretofore appointed to classify lands and assess benefits in D. D. No. 3 and 4, Hancock County, Iowa, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the proof of publication being on file and the board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. Written objections were read by the County Auditor and fully considered and discussed by the Board and all landowners present at the hearing The Engineer's revised report on objections were read and approved as read. All objections being satisfactory, the report of the commissioners in approved as amened, and the assessments confirmed, as amended, and ordered levied, as amended in accordance with Chapter 455, Code of Iowa, 1946.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa acting for and in behalf of Drainage District No. 3 and 4, Hancock County, Iowa, that the report of the Commissioners heretofore appointed to classify lands and assess benefits in D. D. No. 3 and 4, Hancock County, Iowa, which report was filed on July 19, 1948, be and the same is hereby approved and confirmed as amened.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that said assessements be levied and spread in accordance with the drainage laws of Iowa.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Schoun, who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Gerdes, whereupon the Chairman, J A Chambers, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call, the vote thereon is F. J. Schoun, George Th Gerdes, and J. A. Chambers, aye, nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

BE IT RESOLVED THAT the claims hereinafter set out be allowed in amounts designated thereon and the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed and authorized to draw warrants on the several funds of Hancock County, Iowa, in payments of such claims in amounts set opposite each claim, all as by law provided.

COUNTY FUND

M L. Swaney Act. P. M postg., cthouse	72 00
Garner Water Works, water rent 3rd qtr.	6.53
Marshall & Swift, cleaning cthouse	.93
John Carothers, fre., cthouse	10.32
John Carothers, fre. courthouse	3 99
Northwestern Bell Tele Co. cthouse tolls	110.33
T A Chambers, sess and comm	171.40
T A Chambers, sess and comm mi	79 80
F J Schoun, sess and comm	168 50
F J Schoun, sess and comm mi	79 65
Geo Th Gerdes, sess and comm	171 40
Geo. Th. Gerdes, sess and comm mi	84.00
Curtis G. Riehm atty. exp.	15 16
Harriet Oxley R. N., nurse exp and mi	68.63
L. M. Brower, sher exp	61 50
Tim Cooper, dep sher exp	47.00
Blank Drug Store, flashlight sher	.36
Kanawha Reporter, bd proc and ads	46.15
Britt News-Tribune, publ ballots, bd proc and ads	506.07
Garner Printing & Publ, bd proc supp and ads	124.03
Addressograph - Multigraph cabinets-Treas.	149 73
Yelland & Hanes, supp-and	5 57
Anna Pitcher, penalty cards treas.	3.00
Marion I Panosh, money adv. OAA	6.68
Ribbon & Carbon Supply, supp. OAA and, clk.	18.18
Curtis 1000, Inc., supp. treas.	15.37
Charles Bruning Co., supp assr	9.32
Matt Parrott & Son, elec. supp, assr seal	817.17
Klipto Loose Leaf Co., supp treas. clk	15.70
Monroe Calculating Mach Co., mach maint	15.00
Central States Elec., serv cthouse	61.86
Costello Mfg Co., supp cthouse	17 40
Capital Sanitary Supply, supp. cthouse	5.82
Carl W Bohn supp, courthouse	19 03
Brueckner's Drug Store, supp. cthouse	6 12
Lime Chemical Co., supp cthouse	5 33
Gambles mdse. cthouse	2 00
Viken E S mdse-cthouse	43 56
Concord Twp. Trustees, trustee meeting	4 00
C D Daniels trustee	4 00
Reuben Snell trustee	4 00
Wm Boehnke, trustee	4 00
H J Ollenburg trustee	4 00
W G McFarland, weed cmsr	37 60
Kenneth Doughton Harmdirks & Nelson exps	26.05
Hollis McCullough, Harmdirks-witness	2 60
Paul Beckwith Harmdirks, witness	2.60
W A Love, witness, Harmdirks	2.10
Carl W Bohn, witness, Nelson	2 30
Ray Haberkamp, witness Nelson	2.10
Warren Hubbard, witness Nelson	2.10
Tom Hagnan witness, Nelson	2.10
T N. Stell, rodman, Co Adv	14.00
John H Peck, rodman, Co. adv	7.00
Marlyn L Borchers, rodman, co., adv.	13.50
Wm Henschen, preliminary engineer	84.00
Ray E. Hunsley weed comm Dingman	42.10
Lutheran Children's Home Oct. care Bromes, Fisher	175 00
Drs Swanson and Marinos prof serv. Nagell	35.00
Rest Haven Nursing Home care, Lutz	6.87
Dr Marinos hosp., noble	18.00
Dr N P Morgan prof serv Benson and Halverson	86 50
Jackson Nursing Home care Heath	20 00
Dr Thos A Burke, med. care Adreon	100.00
Klemme Feed Mkt hog feed co home	105 00
Louis Jensen work, co home
Garner Bakery, prov - co home	53.34
Frank Liska, rep tractor co home	1.33
Gilner & Paulson, clothing co home	19.11
Griesemer Harness Shop, co home	4.94
Gilles Twins tobacco, co home	16.60
Farmers Cooperative Co., oats and Grinding	132.03
Farmers Co-op. Society, supp, co home	91.84
Peter Falada, gros-co home	46.05
Dept. of Social Welfare, aid to dep child	195.62
Edelen Food Mkt., prov,co home	43.22
Mrs. Lena Ax, wk, county home	7.50
Dept. of Social Welfare, emerg relief	10.16
Dept of Social Welfare, aid to blind	24.62
Brueckner's Drug Store, prescr, Gelner and Anderson	9.49
Blark Drug Store, mads. co home	15.06
Martie Branstad, work, co home	5.00
Ben Franklin Store, supp, co home	7.63
Carl W. Bohn, supp, co. home	24.11
Brueckner's Drug Store, supp, co home	5.09
Blank Drug Store, supp Noble, Filbe	13.00
Central States Elec., serv co home	38.32
Zack Bros. Elec. Co., rep. co home	12 46
Woodford-Wheeler Lbr. sup co home	1.34
E. S Viken, supp, co home	38 46
Tande & Son, supp, co home	1.57
C J Schneider, stove and prov, co home	947.72
W W Olson, groc, co home	18.71
Quentin Stille, labor rep co home	6.50
Herman Paul, prov moneey adv co home	28.00
St. Joseph Mercy Hosp,, hosp Noble, James Anderson	245.34
Garner Electric Shop, radio tube, co home	2.64
E. S Viken, paint co home	15 15
Woodford - Wheeler Lbr., mdse, co home	46.69
Scanlon Electric Shop, mdse and rep, co home	7 90
Hilary Greiman, oats and hauling co home	48 63

ROAD MAINT. FUND

Darwin Boller, co shop land	65 00
George Gerdes, labor road tile and intakes	157 50
Love Oil Co., gasoline	940 92
John Carothers, freight	1.29
Northwestern Bell, serv co shop	9 29
John Carothers, freight	5 99
Bernard Abbas, labor	213 84
Kenneth O. Boller, labor	201.92
Kenneth O. Boller, labor	31 75
Marvin Bredlow, labor	213.76
Elmer Carr, labor	197 84
Merle Deibler, labor	209 19
Emmett Devin labos	213.84
John Haaf, labor	197 84
Paul Halfpop, labor	209 19
Carl John Heginger, labor	209 19
Donald Hodson, labor	211 44
Leo L. Hughes, labor	209 00
Ivan Iverson, labor	209.19
Carl Kluseman, labor	193 84
Louis Knoke labor	200 94
Clifford Montgomery, labor	206 14
L. F Schleuger labor	195 75
Henry Steinlicht, labor	213 84
George Stille labor	209 11
Geo. Stille, labor	8.00
Gene Sweeney, labor	209 19
J. L. Tobin, dragline operator	281.84
Wm. J. Wood, labor	209 19
Marvin Bredlow, labor	8.00
Leo I. Hughes, consstruction work	4.25
L. F Schleuger, extra work	7 25
C. F Mertes, engineer	205 04
C. F. Merten, engineer	60 90
Kenneth Shave, labor	42 00
D. D. No. 149, road assessment	462 82
Kanawha Reporter, notice	1.54
Garner Printing & Publ lumber sale ad	4 00
C H Paulson, expense	6.16
Central States Elec., elec. Serv	2.48
Central States Elec serv	1.86
Clermont Brick & Sand Co. hauling gravel	8098.95
D H Sonius road tile	10 50
Henry Haverly road tile	27 00
James T Denney, tiling	40.00
Ernest Helps, tileing	22.78
Redden Hardware, hardware	15.37
Oakes & Clark material	13 20
Woodford - Wheeler Lbr. material	96.14
Carl E. Franzen, oil	124 44
Ray Love, gear oil	153 56
Britt Oil Co., motor oil	282 74
Robert C. Hansen, labor	129 00
Milbern Rapp, labor	209.19
Bonte Hardware & Tin Shop paint	3.63
Woodfor - Wheeler Lbr. lumber	9 69
Kanawha Hardware, windows	2.39
Corwith Lumber Co. cement	841 15
Hawkeye Supply Co., antifreeze	215.99
Fulleton Lumber Co., cement and lumber	157.50
Woodford - Wheeler Lbr. post drivers	10 20
Herman M. Brown Co. material	302 32
Smith's Service, repairs	26.18
Seig Fort Dodge, repairs	136.81
Barton-Stephens & Co. repairs	35 99
Garner Auto Co., repairs	30.70
Waterloo Steel & Equip., repairs	223.24
Britt Paint & Body Shop repairs	73.92
Garner Motor Sales, repairs	281 14
Fabian Kadera, tile repair	12.00
Forest City Motor Co, repairs	21.00
H. R. Higdon, repairs	18.45
Thompson Distributing Co. repairs	59 08
J. H. Junke, repairs	68 27
Gibbs-Cook Tractor repairs	230.69
Roy C. Foss, cement	26.00
Christie and Greiman, tile repairs	127.50
Geo. Gerdes, labor	15 00
Boller's D-X, repairs	71.97
Farmers Co-op Soc, cement	2 81
E. S. Viken, material	6.85
Central Auto Elec Co., repairs	17 81
Harold H Rhine, labor	204 73
Woden Water Works Trustees, hook up-tisstal co shed	44.43
Woden Benefitted Water Dist., assess on co prop	100.00

ROAD CONST. FUND

Clermont Brick & Sand Est No. 5	7,695.00

Highway Const. Payroll

G. D. McNabb, foreman	75.40
Wm. Hughes, labor	96.40
John Brower, labor	69.30
Merle Cockerall, labor	62.80
H J. Brower, labor	113 00
Sheridan Grunsted, right of way	455.00
Herman Buns & Son, Est. No. 2	6,896 70
G. D. McNabb, foremas	100.60
Wm. Hughes, labor	104.80
John Brower, labor	94.05
Merle Cockrell, labor	96.50
L. M. Brower, labor	104.80
J M. O'Conner, gravel checker	185.45
Wm. Henschen, engineer	1.85
Philip Johnson, engineer	218.79
J. N. Stell, engineer	100.48
Merlyn Boachers, rodman	100.11
John H. Peck, rodman	13.86
Armco Drainage & Metal culverts	2,714.63
Lloyd Prochaska, right of way	96.80
Magnus Anderson, right of way	108.00
W. C. Brown Supply, nails	11 84
County Recorder, recording easements	2.55
Concrete Prod. Corp., culverts	72.45
Frank Thada, horrow dirt	911.00
Clear Lake Sand & Gravel sand and gravel	57.89
East End Foundry, grates	510.00
Iowa Concrete Prod. Co. culverts	2,707.94

COURT EXPENSE FUND

James H. Roberts, per diem and exp	92.96
West Publ. Co., subscr. clk	12.00
Hulls Cafe, meals, jurors	6.55
Mason Publ. Co., subscr. clk	15.00

CO. ASSESSOR FUND

Farmers Co-op Society, mdse assr office	6.12
Edward Mullin, exp-assr mtg Des Moines	9.75
Fred C. Missal, mi and exp assr mtg Des Moines	21.25

SOLDIERS RELIEF FUND

Daniel E. Wiliams, meeting	3.10
Rufus C. Walter, meeting	4.50
C. S. Rice, meeting	2.10

REFUND FUND

Rudolph C. Johnson, error Sold. Exemp.	24.50

MEM. HOSPITAL FUND

Fern Katter, Recorder recording deed	2.15

DRAINAGE FUND

Road Maint. Fund, tractor DD No. 1 and 2	120 00
C. F. Merten, engineer, DD No. 1 and 2	29.11
J. J. Bartek, tile repair, DD No. 1 and 2	27.00
Road Maint. Fund, culvert pipe, DD No. 3 and 4	117.00
Road Maint. Fund, bulkhear and dragline, DD No. 3 and 4	384.00
Road Maint. Fund, material and dragline, DD No. 3 and 4	172.60
Merle Deibler, labor, DD No. 3 and 4	4.95
Nielson Bros., Est. No. 3 DD No. 3 and 4	4,867.73
Louis Knoke, labor, DD No. 3 and 4	9.90
John H. Peck, rodman, DD No. 3 and 4	3.46
J. Steil, rodman, DD No. 3 and 4	24.25
F J. Schoun, hearing, DD No. 3 and 4	3.50
Merlyn L. Borchers, rodman DD No. 3 and 4	20 79
Wm Henschen, engineer, DD No 3 and 4	71.28
Garner Printing and Publ. publication and slips, DD No. 3 and 4	585.43
Fabian Kadera, labor and mat No. 3 and 4	4 80
Road Maint., material and dragline, DD No. 7	163.80
Christie & Greiman, mach and labor, DD No. 9 L. 2	34.50
Oscar Orthell, tile repair, DD No. 34	8 25
Road Maint. Fund, culvert pipe, DD No. 38	60.00
Road Maint., tractor, DD No. 48	60 00
Christie & Greiman, tile repair, DD No. 58	108.00
Road Maint. Fund, culvert pipe, DD No. 65	69.00
Sylvan C. Olsen, Est. No. 2 DD No. 65	1,940.52
Garner Printing & Publ., notice, DD No. 65	4 63
Wm Henschen, engineer J N Stoll, rodman, DD No. 65	55.16
John H. Peck, rodman, DD No. 65	13 86
Merlyn L. Borchers, rodman DD No. 65	3.47
Road Maint. Fund, Bulkhead repair, DD No. 71 M	17.32
C F Merten, engineer, DD No. 71	159.00
Road Maint. Fund, culvert pipe, DD No. 80 L 201 S	13 98
Road Maint. Fund, tile, DD No. 83	9.60
Chas. A Anderson, labor, DD No. 83	23.00
Road Maint Fund, DD No. 101 culvert pipe	3 50
Emmet Devin, labor, DD No. 101	36.00
Donald Hodson, labor, DD No. 101	19 80
Ivan Iverson, labor, DD No. 101	19 80
Wm. Henchen, engineer, DD No. 105	29 70
Oakes & Clark, mateial DD No. 108	35.64
T J. Bartak, D. D. No. 116 tile repair	1.84
Road Maint., material, DD No. 138	31 50
Road Maint. dragline work DD No. 139 M	28.20
Road Maint., dragline and tractor DD No. 139	679 00
Road Maint. dragline work DD No. 142 L 4	50 00
Road Maint., culvert pipe DD No. 144	7.00
Boller's D-X hauling tile DD No. 145	446.40
Road Maint., dragline wk DD No.	18.00
George Gerdes, repairing tile, DD No. 149	119.00
Road Maint. Fund, material DD No. 37-39	34 50
Road Maint. Fund, 6 inch pipe, DD No. 31-36	5 46
Geo. Gerdes, labor, DD No. 46-3	16.06
George Gerdes, DD No. 46-3 tile repair	20.85
Leo L. Hughes, labor, DD No. 46-3	31.28
Road Maint., tractor, DD No. 61-1-145	10.62
Gus Arne, labor, DD No. 93-100-131	15.05
Roderick Carr, labor, DD No. 93-100-131	.29
Merrill Vickroy, labor DD No. 93-199-131	15
	.15

On motion and second the Board adjourned to November 8, 1948 at 9:00 A. M.

ATTEST:
MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J. A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman

REGULAR NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
November 8, 1948

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in regular session as required by law, on above captioned date with George Th Gerdes, J A. Chambers and F J Schoun present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

This being the 8th day of November A. D., 1948, the day set by law for the canvass of the votes at the General Election held on November 2nd, A. D., 1948, and the hour of 12 o'clock noon having arrived, the Board of Hancock County Iowa, proceeded to organize and act as a Board of Canvassers and did proceed to canvass the vote cast at the General Election on November 5, 1948, A. D., and recorded their findings in the official canvass record and reported same to the Secretary of the State and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Iowa. All as provided for by law.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to 9 o'clock Monday, November 15th, A. D., 1948.

ATTEST:
MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J. A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman

1ST ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
November 15, 1948

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with F J. Schoun, J. A. Chambers and George Th. Gerdes present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

BE IT RESOLVED that the claims of election judges and clerks for the General Election of November 2, 1948, in the sum of $1,414.00 are hereby ordered paid from the General Fund of Hancock County, Iowa.

RESOLUTION

Concurring on Recommended Award of Contracts for FEDERAL AID SECONDARY ROAD PROJECT NO. S-1040 (2). Hancock County, Iowa.

WHEREAS the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, has considered the bids received by the Iowa State Highway Commission on November 9, 1948, for constuction work on Federal Aid Secondary Project No. S-1040 (2), Hancock County.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED the said Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, concurs in the Commissions recommendation that contracts for said work be awarded to the low bidders as follows:

Surfacing, to Maudlin Construction Co., Webster City, Iowa, $5,330.-21. Passed and approved this 15th day of November 1948.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
HANCOCK COUNTY
ATTEST:
BY J A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman
MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor

This being the 15th day of November, 1948, a date heretofore set for a hearing on the report of Wm. Henschen, Engineer, recommending that the contract of Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City, Iowa, for excavation and clearing on D. D. No. 65 be accepted as completed, and final estimate in the sum of $723.53 be paid, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the proof of publication being on file, and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. There was no objections on file, oral or written, and no objectors appeared at the hearing.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, acting for and in behalf of D. D No. 65, that the report of the Engineer recommending a final payment on the contract with Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City, Iowa, for excavation and clearing on D. D. No. 65 be approved, is approved and final estimate ordered paid as by law directed.

Board Of Review Minutes

The appointive Board of the Hancock County, Iowa Board of Review met in session on above captioned date as required by law with members of the Board of Supervisors, Board of Education and mayors of Hancock County, present.

The Board proceeded to organize by appointing George Th. Gerdes, chairman on motion by Drieste and second by Berge, and on motion by Berge and second by Andregg, Maynard Schoneman was appointed secretary

On motion by Drieste and second by Quist, H D Schroeder was nominated to succeed himself as the contractor member on the Board of Review for a term of four years from January 1, 1949

On motion by Quist and second by I. A. Yeahel that nominations cease, the vote thereon was unamipously aye.

On motion and second the appointive Board of Review adjourned upon call of the Auditor and Supervisors.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION WARRANTS PAID AUGUST 5, 1948 AS APPROVED BY COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

William Huenemann, extra help	129.25
LaVon J Higdon, extra help	3.35
Bella Kurtz, extra help	2.55
Annette Kock, extra help	3.55
Mrs. Marie Niemeyer, extra help	4.50
Chas S. Whitney, mileage exp.	69.45
V A Cook, mileage exp.	4.10
W E. Puffer, mileage exp	8.75
Edmund Andregg, mileage exp.	3.80
H R. Brooks, mileage exp.	5.30
Kanawha Reporter, printing of budget	10.27
Britt News-Tribune, printing budget	10.27
Klipto Loose Leaf Co., supplies	38 75
Loring Supply Co., supplies	3.22
Iowa State Highway, county maps	3.31
M. L. Swaney Act. P. M. stamps	18.00
W E. Puffer, mileage and exp.	15.85
V. A Cook, mileage and exp.	10.20
H. R. Brooks, mileage and exp.	9.40
Edmund Andregg, mileage and exp.	9.60
Chas. S. Whitney, mileage, exp.	43.96
Chas. S. Whitney, mileage, exp.	63.96
Chas. S. Whitney, mileage, exp. to Milwaukee	46.41
Chas. Wellik, bond	15.00
R. A Jorgenson, printing budget	15.80
Garner Leader, printing budget	14.73
Hawkeye School Supply Co. mimeo paper	27.24
Iowa State Dept. of Health PHN Forms	3.00
Midwest Visual Education, radient screens	27.54
Midwest Visual Education, radient screens	77 26
Loring Supply Co., memeo supplies	15.05
Klinto Loose Leaf, supplies	66.03
Klinto Loose Leaf, supplies	95.21
Phillips School Service, annual	22.74
Smith Store bond premium	2.50
N E A. books	3.10
Kanawha Reporter, printing	9.75
Koch Brothers, supplies	21.99

COUNTY LIBRARY

Beckley-Cardy Co., books	12.32
Mrs. Andrew Verlo, books	2.50

COUNTY INSTITUTE

Multiple - County Institute, Robert Coon	9.60
Emma Onfer, multiple-County Inst.	9.60
Albert Potter, multiple-County Inst.	38.40
Dr E. Voltmer, Multiple-County Inst.	38.40
M F Crossoup, Multiple-County Inst.	38.40
Arlene Russel, Multiple-County Inst.	38.40
Helen Maguire, Multiple-County Inst.	38.40
Hazel Chappell, Multiple-County Inst.	18.11
American Book Co., book	7.84

WARRANTS PAID NOVEMBER 8, 1948

W E. Puffer, mileage and exp.	13.17
H. R. Brooks, mileage and exp.	13.17
Edmund Andregg, mileage and exp.	3.40
V. A. Cook, mileage and exp.	2.55
Chas. S Whitney, mileage and exp.	22.11
Chas. S. Whitney, mileage	21.85
Yelland & Hanes, supplies	4.00
Britt News-Tribune, supplies	57.38
Reta Humphrey, extra help	4.50
Iowa Dept. of Health.PHN Forms	1.50
Monroe Calculating Co., monroe calculator	326.40
N E. A., books	9.00
Sharleen Hanson, extra help	8 25
Midwest Visual Educ., film	15.30
Loring Supply Co., correction fluid	3.03
Mrs. Asa Legge, yearbook	2.00
Klipto Loose Leaf, supplies	76 44

COUNTY INSTITUTE

World Book Co., tests	19.95

Arthur Wellemeyer
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
—with long experince and best equipment.
PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE
Phone 23-R2 Day or Night
Klemme - Iowa

DR. E. H. PHILLI
Osteopathis Physician
Xray - Short Wave D
thermy and Ultra Vio
Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Io

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Inter
No Fees No Commiss
Wm. F. Johannab
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iow
Phone 50

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
24-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF
Dead Stock
Phone
KLEMME
BELMOND
We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver
Your Neighborhood Daily.
Belmond By-Products
"Your Home Plant"
Phone 580 Belmond, Io

The freshest notes

in Christmas dress!
Arrow Carol Tone

There's a striking shir handkerchief ense
from Arrow this mont
and we have it in for Christmas wearin
Christmas giving).

The shirt is of luxu
broadcloth, in blue, green, and wine. Se ized-labelled, fabric age less than 1%.

The ties are of rayon fabrics, made cially for the shirt.

The handkerchiefs
plete the outfit, cost

WE ARE THANKFUL
On this Thanksgiving Day we want a hearty "Thank You, Folks," for your age and friendship of the past year.
GET TO KNOW
GILDNER - PAULSON
Clothing and Shoes Garn ARROW

Thank You!

On this Thanksgiving Day we want to say "THANK YOU" for your good will and patronage extended to us during the past year.

And, it is our sincere wish that you and yours will enjoy Thanksgiving Day in this World of Peace.

NORTHERN LUMBER COMPANY
FARM IMPLEMENTS
Phone 49 Klemme, Iowa

FOUND AUTO

A brief flurry of excitement over a Model A Ford reported stolen from Elmer Heeren of Little Rock, died as suddenly as it began last week. After searching the town, the car was found parked inside a downtown auto agency. It had been driven inside, thinking it was a car one had taken in on a trade.

POWER SAW

George Clevenger of Liberty, Mo., husband of a former Iowan, Dorothy Garton of Lohrville, suffered an unusual injury recently while running a power saw. A three-foot piece of board flew off piercing his lung. He is now under an oxygen tent.

Phone your news to 12.

Advertisement

From where I sit ... Joe Marsh

Television on the Farm

Buck Childs' home has become mighty popular ever since he got that television set—one of the few sets in our town, outside of Andy's Garden Tavern.

Not only do the kids stay home nights, but the neighbors drop in to see whatever's being telecast. And Buck and the missus always make them welcome, with a mellow glass of beer or ale (with cider and cookies for the youngsters).

While I guess everyone admits that television still has far to go, it's not hard to see that it will some day be as much a part of American home and farm life as the temperate glass of beer that Buck serves, and the hospitality that goes with it.

And from where I sit, anything that adds to gracious living in America brings folks together for temperate, quiet entertainment—is a boon to this home-loving land of ours. (We're thinking of buying a television set ourselves!)

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

PUBLIC SALE

I am going to quit farming, I will sell my personal property at Public Sale without reserve at my farm located 3 miles west, 1 mile south and ¼ mile west of Klemme, on . . .

Wednesday, Dec. 1

Sale To Begin Promptly At 1:00 P. M.

18 Head Of Livestock 18

HORSES

2 Black Mares, 9 and 10 years old weight 1500 pounds

CATTLE

8 Head of Milk Cows
8 Head of Calves

Farm Machinery, Etc.

F-20 FARMALL TRACTOR
WITH CULTIVATOR
Recently Overhauled—A-1 Shape

McCORMICK-DEERING
CORN PICKER
SINGLE-ROW PULL TYPE

A. C. Spring Tooth Harrow, good
2 John Deere Single-row Corn Plows, nearly new McCormick-Deering 16-inch, 2 bottom slatted mold board plow
New Idea Hay Loader, like new
John Deere 8-ft. Grain Binder, new
McCormick Side Delivery Rake
Iowa Cream Separator with electric motor
John Deere 10-ft. Disc
John Deere 5-ft. horse drawn Mower
20-ft. Moline Steel Drag

Moline End Gate Seeder
Moline Manure Spreader
Rubber Tired Wagon and Box
Hay Rack Hay Grabber
2 Hog Feeders
1 Hog Waterer
1 Set Harness and Collars
McCormick Corn Binder
1 12x14 Brooder House
Also many other small tools, etc. used on the farm.

30 Tons Timothy and Clover Mixed Hay In Barn

TERMS—CASH. No property to be removed until settled for.

William Velau Prop.

First National Bank, Klemme, Clerk

A. REEMTSMA, Auctioneer

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE— ONE PAIR BASketball Knee guards. Used one season. $2.00 Bud Montgomery

FOR SALE—PUREBRED BERKshire Boars. Vaccinated and eligible to register. 4 mi. west, 3 mi. north of Klemme. Paul Zrostlik, Garner. (Dec. 1 tp)

FOR SALE—POLAND CHINA boars, choice of 25 head. The easy feeding, faster maturing kind. Priced to sell O. W. Friedow, phone Britt 4616. (tfc)

FOR SALE—80 ACRES CLARion and Webster soil, fair buildings. Located 2 mi. north, 4¼ mi. east of Klemme. See Curtis Riehm, Garner. (tfc)

FOR SALE—CLEAN GOOSE Feather Pillows. Mrs. Kenneth Voights. (1tp)

FOR SALE—1946 W. C. ALLIS Chalmers with Cultivator and Manure Loader; two 10-ft. hydraulic wagon box dumps; Oliver 70, 1939 Row Crop with Clutivator and Loader; Oliver 70 Row Crop, 1938 with Cultivator.
Fred J. Arnold. (1tc)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal. We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO., Goodell, Iowa.

FOR SALE—NEW AND USED Sewing Machines. All kinds of Tredles, Cabintes and Portable Electrics. You'll find the finest selection here. Our prices are lowest, compare. All repair work guaranteed. See these machines at 1014 So. 4th Street, Clear Lake, Iowa. E T Neu. (Nov 24, Dec 15 tc)

FOR SALE— THE G S C. S. of the Methodist Church are taking orders now for Christmas Cards at $1.00 per box. (tfc)

HOUSE FOR SALE — FOUR rooms, bath, completely modern with automatic heat, automatic hot water. Location, Morningside Add. Two lots. Very reasonable Melvin Schlei. (N24-Dec. 1-8 tp)

Miscellaneous

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident. (Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS— ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired. Expert workmanship, reasonable prices. Times Office. (tfc)

Wanted To Rent

WANTED TO RENT—FARM, 160-240 acres. Have power machinery. Young man with life-time experience. Call Times Office. (1tp)

For Rent

FOR RENT — THREE ROOM house in Klemme, from Dec. 1 to March 1. Willard Fesseenden (tfc)

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and relatives for their many kindnesses and for the beautiful floral offerings during the passing of our husband and father, Mr. George Born. Mrs. George Born and Children. (1tp)

I wish to express my thanks to friends and neighbors for their kind help and sympathy extended at the time of the death of my mother. The floral offerings and tokens of sympathy were greatly appreciated.
Maurice Murray. (1tp)

We want to take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our neighbors, friends and relatives who so kindly assisted us in our recent bereavement. We also want to thank those who offered flowers and other expressions of sympathy in the time of our sorrow.
Henry Jooten and Family. (1tp)

I would like to take this means of thanking my friends for the calls, letters and cards sent me during my illness, also the Legion for the use of the hospital bed. Herbert Schwartz. (1tp)

MOTOR MISSING

Earl Bogue of Kansas City was troubled with a missing motor as he drove along near Hawarden recently. His engine dropped out and the front of his car folded up like an accordion. He suffered minor injuries.

BASEBALL TEAM

At Hinton, the stork recently left Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hintz their ninth son; just enough for a baseball team. There are nine boys and six girls in the family, including three sets of twins.

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

NOVEMBER 24, 25
Wednes. - Thursday
THE SAINTED SISTERS
BARRY FITZGERALD
VERONICA LAKE
JOAN CAULFIELD

Friday - Saturday
NOVEMBER 26, 27
GALS! GAGS! GANGSTERS!
BUD ABBOT
And LOU COSTELLO
In
THE NOOSE HANGS HIGH
With
CATHY DOWNS

Sun. - Mon. - Tues.
NOVEMBER 28, 29, 40
A HIT PARADE OF SONGS AND STARS!
JANE POWELL
WALLACE BEERY
In
A DATE WITH JUDY
With
CARMEN MIRANDA
ELIZABETH TAYLOR

Thanksgiving

We are thankful for your business and good will extended to us during the past year.

In keeping with the festive spirit this Bank will not be open for business on

THANKSGIVING DAY
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Announcement:

We wish to announce that we have purchased the former Smith's Service building, equipment and stock, and are now in possession.

We invite all of Mr. Smith's old customers to call on us and we also invite new customers to patronize us. Our aim is to give you prompt and efficient service at all times. Your trade will be greatly appeciated.

OUR OPENING DAY

We plan to hold "Open House" in the near future at which time we will have treats for all. Watch for announcement of our formal opening.

Drop In And See Us

Haefner Super Service

Wilbur Haefner, Prop. Klemme, Iowa

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

President Truman Astounds Nation By Winning Election Over Dewey; Senate, House Go Democratic, Too

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

ELECTION:
Ghost Walked

The night of November 2-3 was supposed to have been a wake for the defunct Democratic party but the corpse wouldn't lie still. It not only sat up but went around slapping the premature mourners on the back.

IN THE FACE of the supposedly cut-and-dried nature of the campaign between President Truman and Governor Dewey the results of the election were fantastic. Everybody had been wrong—from the second-guessers on every street corner to the "infallible" pollsters of public opinion.

It was Truman all the way—from the first early returns which indicated the trend until the great, pivotal states of Ohio, Illinois and California swung over into the Democrats' camp, crushed Dewey and forced him to concede.

MR. TRUMAN'S two million-plus plurality which gave him 304 electoral votes (to Dewey's 189) was nothing less than a popular directive to serve.

Thus, for the first time since he entered the White House, President Truman was able to feel that he had full, untrammeled control of the administration.

MORE THAN that, the President was enormously elated about the fact that the Democrats had gained control of both houses of congress. How justifiable that elation will turn out to be, however, is a question for time to answer.

"We have a congress now, and I'm sure we'll make some progress in the next four years," he said. Yet, full cooperation between a U. S. president and his congress, even when they are aligned politically, is, if not quite a rarity, at least unusual.

Personalities

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York must have been the most tormented man in the nation for a few days after November 2.

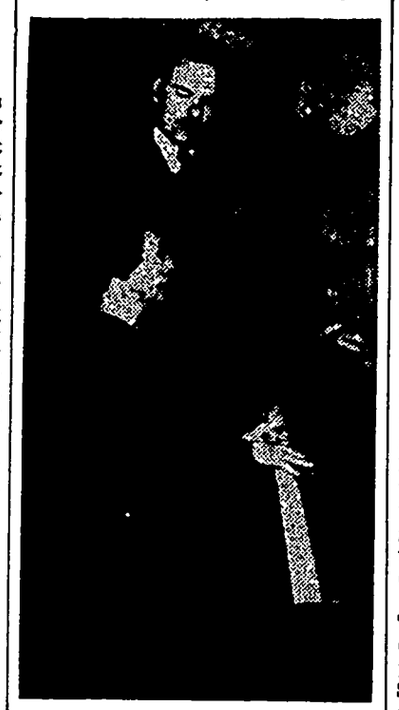
AT 46, an age when most men in politics are only beginning their climb to the top, he had sat for a few weeks on an imaginary pinnacle — created by himself, with yeoman help from the pollsters—only to feel it dissolve under him when the votes were counted.

Dewey was through, a man to be pitied. Never again would he find the ambition or the chance to be president of the United States.

BUT FOR President Truman these were days of such happiness and triumph as few men savor in a lifetime. He had pummeled his way through the allotted number of rounds in the campaign almost single-handedly.

He had fought Dewey and the Republicans. He had fought the apathy of his own party. He had fought for and won over to his side a majority of the United States voters.

Harry S. Truman was the man of the year.



THE VANQUISHED
Called the wrong tune

WHAT NOW?
Program

Now that it is going to be President Truman again for the next four years, what can the nation expect of him to do along legislative lines?

His program will probably be elucidated in two phases, his annual message to be delivered to the January 3 opening of congress and his inaugural address on January 20.

In the meantime, if his campaign speeches are taken as being reasonably reliable, Mr. Truman has committed himself to a program involving these principal issues:

PRICES: "I'm still in favor of action to hold down the cost of living." He wants price control laws, the President indicated.

LABOR: "The Taft-Hartley law is the opening gun in the Republican onslaught against the rights of the working man. It should be repealed." He also is expected to ask for the raising of the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

COMMUNISTS: "We are on guard against them."

CIVIL RIGHTS: "We cannot be satisfied until all our people have equal opportunity for jobs, homes, education, health and for political expression."

AGRICULTURE: "Full markets for farm products . . . a floor under farm income . . . increased farm income through cooperatives, market development and research."

SOCIAL SECURITY: "A comprehensive insurance system to protect all our people." Probably he will recommend expansion of the law to cover self - employed domestics, farm workers and others not now included.

ATOMIC ENERGY: "Civilian control under government management should be retained."

HOUSING: "The Taft - Ellender-Wagner bill passed the senate and should have passed the house."

TAXES: "The tax reduction (passed over his veto) is inequitable as well as untimely. Some readjustment is required to afford relief to families who are suffering. But total receipts should not be reduced."

CONGRESS:
Demo Gains

Although they had needed a net gain of only four senate and 31 house seats for control of the 81st congress, the Democratic party did much better than that.

By the time Dewey conceded the election, the Democratic party was assured of at least 18 senators against five for the Republicans and 188 representatives against 86 for the Republicans.

Forty-nine votes are necessary for senate control. The Democrats now have 54. Democrats have clinched at least 263 house seats. Only 218 are necessary for control.

Republican senators seeking re-election were defeated by Democrats in West Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Minnesota, Iowa, and Illinois. In other contests where Democrats were seeking re-election they won.

Colorado's Democratic Senator Johnson was a winner in his re-election campaign. In Oklahoma, where a Republican seat was at issue, former Gov. Robert Keer, Democrat, won.

Republican Senator Revercombe was defeated in West Virginia by Democratic Governor Neely. Hubert Humphrey, Democratic mayor of Minneapolis, won his bid for Republican Sen. Joseph H. Ball's job. In Illinois, Democratic Senate Candidate Paul Douglas defeated Republican Sen. C. Wayland Brooks by more than 100,000 votes.

GUARD:
Expansion

Soon after the 81st congress convenes on January 3 it will be requested to boost the authorized strength of the national guard by 100,000 men and put all its units on a ready-for-war basis.

And the way things look now, it appears that congress will agree to that request.

Guard officials said they would ask that the authorized strength be increased from the present 341,000 to 441,000. This, of course, would require special appropriations for armories and equipment.

These officials in Washington said they also will ask that all 27 divisions of the national guard be included in the army's stepped-up defense program.

The army so far has selected only six of the 27 divisions for its "mobilization day" force, the outfit that would be ready to strike back first if this nation were to be attacked.

Army spokesmen, however, claim their present funds and equipment cannot support more than six guard units on a war-ready basis.

THAT'S ALL, BROTHER

Won't Seek Presidency Again: Dewey

Two hours after he had conceded the election to President Truman, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had made his decision: He would not consider running for the presidency a third time.

At a post-election press conference the first question fired at Dewey was, "What happened?"

"I was just as surprised as you are and I gather that that is shared by everyone in this room," said he.

Dewey maintained that there had been no error in strategy in the conduct of his campaign. He added that he had talked the situation over with his running mate, Gov. Earl Warren, and that they had agreed they had waged a "clean and constructive campaign."

"We have no regret in the world," the defeated candidate said.

JOY ABROAD:
About Harry

Astonishment at the re-election of President Truman was not confined within the boundaries of the United States, and United Nations delegates in Paris received the news with a mixture of incredulity and happiness.

MAJORITY opinion among the delegates seemed to be that it was a good thing.

First, the western European leaders said, the continuity of the American government will hasten Atlantic pact negotiations. If Governor Dewey had been elected an inevitable delay would have resulted, pending the switch in administrations.

Second, most of the delegates of Russia and the eastern bloc of Europe, although chagrined at the miserable showing of Henry Wallace, asserted they preferred Mr. Truman to Dewey because they will be dealing with a man and administration with which they are acquainted.

THERE IS some doubt, however, as to whether that is the real Soviet attitude. The Russians and their satellites had been banking on a Republican victory because they were sure that if a GOP administration took over in the U. S. the last great depression that would destroy western capitalism would inevitably come.

They do expect, however, that Mr. Truman, now having the support of congress, will make a fresh approach toward improving U. S.-Soviet relations, probably renewing an effort to untangle the Berlin puzzle.

Concensus of all the delegates is that the success of President Truman demonstrates the unexpected strength of the liberal element in America combined with a powerful anti-Communist attitude.

GRAZING:
Western Problem

One of the greatest sins of the western United States has been the pasturing of too many cattle and sheep on the range—over-grazing, in other words.

Despite the apparent remoteness of the subject, it vitally concerns every housewife and every consumer who likes to eat meat, for much of the beef and lamb in the butcher shop originates in the 11 western states.

IT IS still the subject of hot debate among western stockmen and the U. S. forest service, however, whether the vast, public-owned lands are grazed too much or too little.

Yet, the evidence seems clear that when livestock or big game eat black grama grass, for example, too close to the ground it eventually dies.

Meat-producing grasses are driven out and replaced by worthless or inferior plants such as snakeweed, bitterweed, cactus, yuccas, creosotebush and the mesquites.

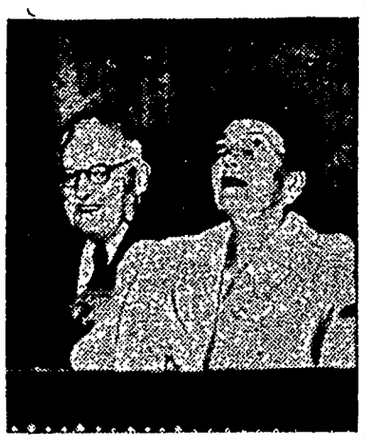
THIS condition is becoming more common throughout the West and Southwest. In southwest Texas, for instance, more than a million of acres of good grasslands have been depleted. Drouth and over-grazing has killed the choice grama and buffalo grasses and their place has been taken by mesquite, cedar and catclaw brush and by an assortment of low-value weeds. As a result of this abuse, meat production has been slowed definitely.

Nevertheless, there is definite proof that such a situation need not exist.

ON THE Jornada experimental range, a 192,000-acre cattle ranch owned and controlled by the U. S. forest service just north of Las Cruces, N. M., the cows are plump and the calves fat despite the third year of the worst drouth in 50 years.

And on similar land outside the ranch over-grazing has all but destroyed the grama grass. Worthless snakeweed has taken control of the land.

Blithe Spirit



With a let-joy-be-unconfined look on his face and obviously not in a vetoing frame of mind, Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet U.N. delegate, attends a special performance of the opera given for United Nations delegates in Paris. With him is Madame Vishinsky.

MOLECULES:
Inside Story

A new kind of light, consisting of radio waves less than a quarter of an inch long, is being used to study the inside of molecules, the basic chemical units of all matter.

These radiation waves, several thousand times longer than those of visible light and several-fold longer than infra-red "heat light" waves, are absorbed and reflected by the atoms making up the molecules.

Washington Digest

Abolish Post Exchanges? Oh! Perish the Thought

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINTON.—Members of a sub-committee of the armed services committee of congress have recently completed a highly interesting tour of investigation. It was ordered because of a spirited controversy now going on in Washington.

I can't help mentioning the subject because its background is made up of some ancient vivid memories—memories of the day when, as a lonely recruit in an ill-fitting uniform and sagging wrap-leggings, I wandered into an army post-exchange for the first time, more than three decades ago.

As I looked around the dreary setting my loneliness was not alleviated. I was at that moment yearning for the corner drugstore back home.

I can hardly reconcile that mental picture with the one of Corporal Roberts, shown on this page, as he reaches for his milkshake proffered by a plump and friendly damsel! The smile she is passing out with the drink would have meant far more to me that day than the smile on the face of the general. Now don't think I'm prejudiced against generals, as a class. (Some of my best friends are generals) But I must say that what I missed most in the gloomy PX of my rookie experience was not the gleam of a general's stars.

Baukhage

Since that sad day, I have visited many army post exchanges and some ships' service stores (the navy equivalent), and I was a little startled when I heard just recently that they were being threatened with abolition.

Of course there are two sides to every story. I'll try to forget personal prejudice in favor of anything that gives the armed services a break, and present both sides.

One side is represented by private businessmen. They charge that the exchanges which sell the soldier and his family a lot of things at reduced prices is "big business" subsidized by the government, competing with "little business" run by private enterprise.

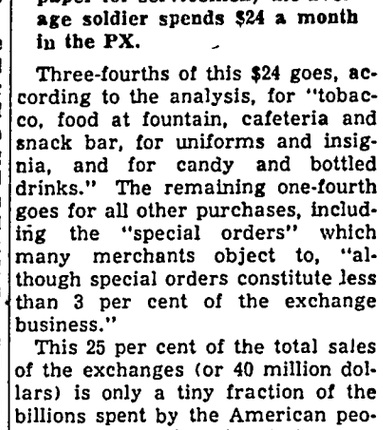
The exchanges take in about $130 million gross annually. According to a recent analysis, quoted by the "Army Times" (a non-official but approved newspaper for servicemen) the average soldier spends $24 a month in the PX.

Three-fourths of this $24 goes, according to the analysis, for "tobacco, food at fountain, cafeteria and snack bar, for uniforms and insignia, and for candy and bottled drinks." The remaining one-fourth goes for all other purchases, including the "special orders" which many merchants object to, "although special orders constitute less than 3 per cent of the exchange business."

This 25 per cent of the total sales of the exchanges (or 40 million dollars) is only a tiny fraction of the billions spent by the American people every year in private stores on jewelry, watches, radios, cosmetics, toilet goods, and semi-durable house furnishings which come under the head of the "all other purchases" bought in the exchange.

The Army Times points out that the PX competition is chiefly with the stores in the immediate vicinity of army posts. But would those business people rather have no post there at all? The soldier spends plenty off post. Enough, anyway, to have the congressman very anxious and very active in trying to obtain or hold army and navy installations within his constituency.

Looking at the other side of the picture, it is true that some servicemen and ex-servicemen have taken advantage of the exchanges. They have made purchases for resale and bought for friends who had no service connections Also retired personnel have made purchases when they no longer legally should exercise the privilege



Sgt. Walter W. Wynhoff and Capt. C. A. Cubbler look over a counter that Wynhoff built for the 34th general hospital at Seoul, Korea, during his off-duty time.

Restrictions have been tightened up, however, and every effort is being made to defeat the serviceman who is trying to cut off his own nose to spite his face when he violates regulations.

I think the returning congressmen will verify this.

The army and navy don't say so, but it is no pleasure to them to have to take on the burden of a business simply to offer advantages to servicemen and women and their families which make life easier and cheaper. Ask any post exchange officer how much of a headache an inventory is. He would far rather be inspecting foot-lockers or standing reveille.

The biggest gripe the retailers have against the post exchanges and ships' service stores is the fact that such stores don't have to pay (or charge for) excise taxes. In fact the retailers have demanded that the department of justice look into the legality of the situation.

How the department decides has nothing to do with the army and navy—that is, it will be a matter for the civilian branch in this respect: If the justice department says it's OK by them, the merchants probably will carry their lament to the congress. Then the congress which makes the tax laws and is elected by the people who pay those taxes and also the people whose sons and daughters are in the armed forces, will decide the matter.

And there is also this to be remembered: true, the exchange does have the excise tax-exempt privilege, but otherwise it must meet many if not most of the expenses any retailer has to meet. The exchange manager has help to pay and insure, has maintenance, supervision and accounting costs along with a host of other expenses faced by any merchant—costs and burdens which seldom occur to the average consumer.

New off-duty hangout for Fort Ord, Calif., soldiers was opened recently when soda fountain No. 10 was put into operation officially by Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe (left), the commanding general. Lois Kuykindall serves first milk shake to Cpl. James B. Roberts.

The exchanges also have to make a "profi"—not a profit to them, but a 6 per cent figure which the law demands they must clear over all expenses and turn into welfare funds. Their "mark-ups" are, of course, less than those of the merchant.

The Army Times puts the argument this way:

"Out of these markups, the exchanges run themselves and pay the 6 per cent to welfare. That is, the GI buying in an exchange pays enough over costs to return to himself over 70 per cent of the expense of a multitude of off duty activities —music, service clubs, day rooms, hobby shops, soldier shows, library service, athletic facilities and equipment, and the like.

"The theaters ante under 10 per cent of the welfare requirement; the taxpayers put up just about 15 per cent of the vitally necessary welfare and recreation bill."

If the exchanges didn't turn in that 6 per cent profit, the taxpayer would have to provide the welfare items mentioned above. Or the GI of today would have even less diversion to brighten the barren surroundings of camp or post than did this lonely rookie when he walked into the decidedly limited institution which the regular army post provided where your correspondent began his none-too-brilliant but nevertheless unforgettable army career.

Much of man's cussedness stems from poor food habits which undermine mental poise and sociability, says a paper read at the American Chemical society. Maybe it's time for the bride to take those jokes about her cooking seriously.

A letter to the American Machinist says that when an executive dates an employee he should never discuss it with other employees Maybe the less discussing she does the better, too.

Hens which drink from stagnant pools lay off-flavor eggs, says the Canadian Farm News. And ever their best friends won't tell them!

CLASSIFIED DEPARTME

AUTOS, TRUCKS & ACCESS.

REO 1946, 19BHS, 8:25 tires, 2 speed axle, hoist stock rack, gr. box, radio, heater. Exc. cond. Call or write ORLIE BESLER - Cascade, Ia.

BUSINESS & INVEST. OPPOR.

FOR QUICK SALE
Welding and blacksmith shop. New bldg., first class equipment. Doing very good business. Reason arthritis. Write J. T. KRUGER - Belle Plaine, Iowa

AGENTS. SELL CONNEE BRUSH-CURLER, sensational new beauty item that brushes, curls, inserts bobby pin automatically. Sample $2.10 or write: BRUSH-CURLER CORP., Dept. 31, 120 Broadway, N. Y.

BEER TAVERN AND CAFE
Only one in town, mod. 6 rm. liv. quar. above, steam heated. Gd. business. Priced Reaosnable.
HARDY CAFE, Hardy, Iowa, Phone 3472

GROCERY, small So. Iowa town, good husband and wife business. Brick bldg., fixtures, stock. $5,500. Other business.
LESTER JACK
CLIO - - IOWA

SELL, TRADE—Rio Grande Cabins. Val. $50,000 for farm. Sale: 320 A. Imp. stock farm, terms. W. H. HARRIS, Creston, Ia.

FARM MACHINERY & EQUIP.

MODEL 1 BUCKEYE DITCHER
A-1 cond. Priced to sell. NORMAN ACKER, Phone 14 or 10, Taylor Ridge, Ill.

FARMS AND RANCHES

CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FREE INFORMATION on farm settlement opportunities Fertile soils. Reasonably priced. R. C. Bosworth Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station, St Paul, Minn.

8 FARMS for sale account health Ia. 165 A. 1 mi. W. Davis City on U. S. 69. About half bottom drainage. Paid stock and grain farm. $100. 80 3 mi. N. E. Pleasanton on gravel road. 25 A. bottom stock and grain. $75. Mo. 120 3 mi. S. E. Pleasanton, Ia. Extra gd. imp. stock farm. $50. J. E. Leeper, Owner, Pleasanton, Iowa.

LIVESTOCK

MINNESOTA NO. 1 H
15 choice registered spring b gilts. Large litters, easy feed
Price $110 to $125.
E. M. WRIGHT, R. 4, WATER

MISCELLANEOU

LIGHTNING RODS
Better built; streamlined. Fr
O. E. ROUTSON & S
280 Day Rd., Des Moines, Iowa

HATCH AND PROD. Loc.
towns, N. W. Iowa Highway
35,000 cap. Priced reas. Proc profitable bus. B. A. MAC
Scranton, Ia.

FOR SALE—PT19 in good con hours on engine since overhaul work for relicense. $350 cash.
H. B. CHAMBERLA
311 N. Gilbert - Iowa

MUSICAL INSTRUM

100 New Piano Acco
$35, $65, $145, $165, $198, $22
BAND INSTRUMENTS ON $45, $65, cornets, trumpets saxophones, trombones.
Linquist Music, 26 N. 8th St.,

REAL ESTATE—BUS

FORCED TO SELL on accou my modern food store and l
terms if desired Write
HENRY MARTIN, Box 626,

CAFE, SEATS 28, LIVIN
In factory town of 1,000. Reason reason must sell at once.
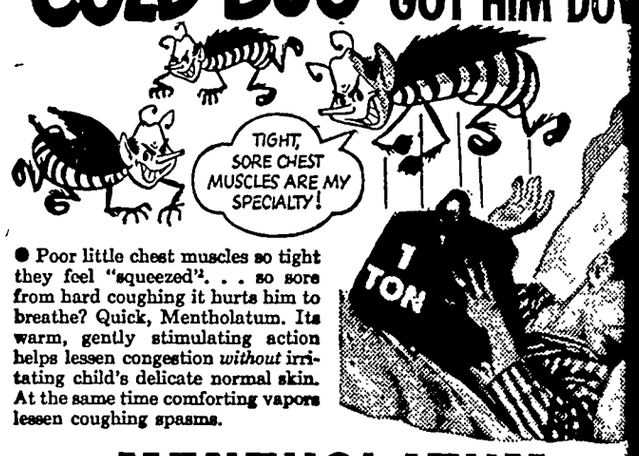
BOX 246 - -

Get Well
QUICK
From Your
Due to a
FOLEY'S Honey
Cough C

"COLD BUG" GOT HIM DOW



● Poor little chest muscles so tight they feel "squeezed"... so sore from hard coughing it hurts him to breathe? Quick, Mentholatum. Its warm, gently stimulating action helps lessen congestion without irritating child's delicate normal skin. At the same time comforting vapors lessen coughing spasms.

GET MENTHOLATUM QU

Sportsmen! GET TH
DOUBLE GIFT OF
2 GIFTS for less than the price c

TWELVE (12) BIG ISSUES OF SPORTS AFIELD... year's subscription to America's favorite outdoor ... with the best stories, articles, and photographs on ING, FISHING, and CAMPING. What a gift fo What a buy for yourself!

EXTRA! Famous Sports Afield HUNTING ANNUAL with each subscription at special holiday rate, if you order now. BIG LIFE-SIZE 64 page book filled with pictures, hunting lore and 29 feature articles. A BONUS BOOK when you mail that coupon!

REGULAR
Sports Afield
Hunting Annual
BIG $3
ALL
$2
If you or

Dept. 403
SPORTS AFIELD
402 Second Avenue South
Minneapolis 1, Minn.

For the enclosed $_____ send SPORTS AFIELD (1 year) and Hunting Annual (1
Name_____
Street_____
City_____ State_____
Send gift card with my name:_____

SPORTS AFIELD Magazine

GIFT CARD inscribed with your name, mailed on each gift subscription

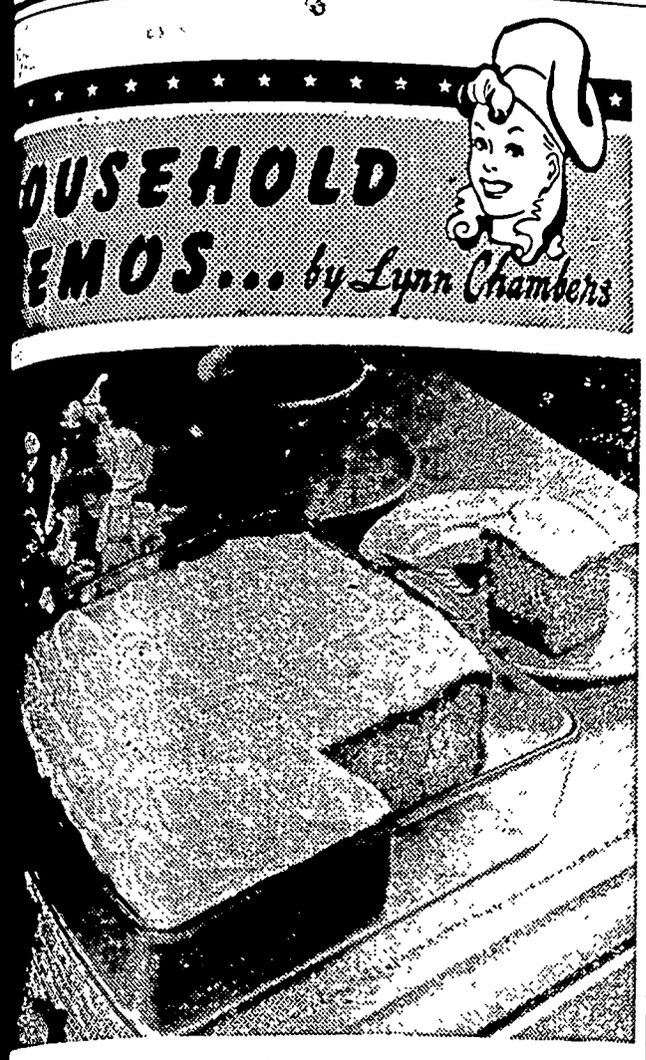
NOTE: You may order additional subscriptions with Hun bonus book. Simply write names and addresses on a shee and attach to the coupon with remittance at $2.00 each.

IF PETER PAIN KNOTS YOU UP WI
MUSCLE ACH

● Rub in gently-warming, soothing Ben-Gay for fa relief from muscular soreness and pain. Ben-Gay co tains up to 2½ times more methyl salicylate an menthol—famous pain-relieving agents known to even doctor—than five other widely offered rub-ins. Insi on genuine Ben-Gay, the original Baume Analgésiqu

Also for Pain due to RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and COLDS.
Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.

QUICK... RUB IN Ben-Ga



Plan to Bake Once a Week
(See Recipes Below)

Simplify Baking

R OUR MOTHERS and thers had more to do than s who are homemakers, owhow managed to find an a week in which to fill the with fragrant and delicious om the oven with weekly this was one of the most times in the whole week then I, too, could get my o pie crust or sweet roll It was great sport!

turally, this was not the ing that came from week- baking. We usually had deli- cious homemade bread as well as rolls or coffee cake for break- fast. To save time, the dinner for that evening was usually a baked one, a fragrant meat loaf or taste-tempting with a delicious baked for dessert. Then, too, the ar was filled for the best the week, and that meant for the lunch boxes and licious tidbits when we me from school!

our families missing these Then organize the house- hedule at once so that you e once a week, and fill the with such delicious things as y come from home baking.

w can you make all these one day? Here's how: mix dough and store in refrig- make ice box dough for olls, and store this, too. ough can be mixed in the or, if you are making quick ese can be mixed in a few right after lunch.

an plan the baking for any the week. We usually do it Saturday afternoon, so ll be a cake or pie in the Sunday, and, of course, olls and cookies for the eek.

• • •

T SOUND ambitious to at- this in one day, but it n't once you get into the it. Do all you can the eve- re, and keep on hand such piecrust and biscuit mix. ar cookies, too, take no all to bake, and they're ed ahead of time.

Refrigerator Rolls.
(Makes 12-16)

milk
poons shortening
poons sugar
oon salt cake

cups flour

k and in it dissolve short- ar and salt. When mix- m add yeast cake, crum- fine egg. Add flour gradu- ix thoroughly by beating. until doubled in bulk. Place of waxed paper over the old securely with a rub- Store in refrigerator until e.

rigerator dough may be loverleaf rolls, cinnamon ll filled rings or pecan

---

Tips Make Easier

e kerosene will remove dirt from enameled bath- s without scratching the lessening the gloss of the keep your silverware arnish-proof if you keep wrapped in a specially cloth which is actu- ated with particles of absorb the tarnishing in the air.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

Beef-Vegetable Pie with Mashed Potato Topping
Molded Pear Salad Rolls
Celery Sticks Carrot Curls
*Banana Spice Cake
Beverage
*Recipe Given

Whole Wheat Bread
(Makes 3 loaves)

- 1 quart hot water
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 2 tablespoons molasses
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds, if desired
- 1 yeast cake
- 6 cups all-purpose flour
- 4 cups whole wheat flour

Add shortening to hot water. When lukewarm, add all remaining ingredients. Stir for three minutes, or until thoroughly mixed, then set in a warm place to rise for two hours. Knead again until dough forms a ball, then let rise again, about one and one-half hours. Turn onto board; form into three loaves and place in greased bread pans Let rise until doubled in bulk, about one hour. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake for 45 minutes.

Nut Wafers

- ¼ cup lard
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1¼ cups flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup nuts, chopped

Cream butter, lard and sugar; add eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Fold in nutmeats and vanilla. Shape into roll, wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator until needed. Bake in a 400-degree oven for seven to 12 minutes.

Banana Spice Cake

- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup mashed banana
- ¼ cup milk

Cream shortening until fluffy, add sugar a little at a time, creaming after each addition. Stir in vanilla extract; add eggs and beat well. Sift all dry ingredients and add to shortening mixture alternately with mashed banana and milk. Pour batter into a well greased, heat-resistant square glass cake dish, eight-inch size. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven and let cool before spreading with the following icing:

- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1¼ cups confectioners' sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind

Cream shortening; add confectioners' sugar and lemon juice, beating until fluffy. Add lemon rind, and coloring. Spread on cool cake.

Released by WNU Features.

Leather pieces around the home like furniture, bookends, albums and waste baskets can be cleaned with a mild soap and luke-warm water shampoo.

Soak pastry cloths in cold water before washing. Brush away flour mixtures with a brush before washing in hot water or the matter will cake and stick.

Keep your pot holders immaculate if you want to avoid sticky fingers by working in the kitchen. Wash and rinse the holders out as you do the towels, after a meal.

ELEPHANTS ARE AVAILABLE

In the hour of inflation comes the news that elephants — are cheap Pachyderm prices have been slashed. You can get an elephant at a bargain and you won't have to wait your turn on the list. What's more, you won't have to turn in the old one

—•—

Ceremonial Indian elephants are down as low as $60. (Good condition, low mileage and without the need of an overhaul job!)

—•—

It is due to the maharajah situation which is all bad. For centuries an Indian maharajah sat on the top tier of those men who made a specialty of sitting pretty No curtailment could touch him. He had his own principality and carried a spare; he boasted a palace for every occasion and an elephant for every mood.

—•—

Of all his trappings the pachyderm was close to a number one spot. A maharajah was known by the elephants he kept. It took hay, but the expression "that ain't hay" never applied to a rajah's money. A rajah never seems to start with one elephant and work up. He was born with a big supply. And those elephants had to be good.

—•—

There were rigid tests and the minute an elephant showed wear and tear he was through. No deteriorations were stood for. You never heard of a reconditioned Jumbo.

—•—

But the new order in India has changed all that. The maharajah business is in worse than a slump. It is busted wide open. Cheap as a secondhand elephant is, you can get a brand new maharajah for less, and with time payments.

—•—

The best of them are scrimping to make both ends meet and the problem is not made any simpler by the fact there is an elephant at each end. In the past it has been traditional that a maharajah has been able to charge off the upkeep of his elephants to the state, billing his country for all the hay, hide polish and incidentals. But with India's freedom and the growing revolution this has been discontinued without notice. The Gaekwar of Baroda used to get 10 million dollars a year from the state, payable in advance, but now he, too, may have to go to work, and not in an elephant howdah.

—•—

Maharajahs have been forced to dispose of their palaces and drop their retinues of servants and dancing girls. Some of them are without visible means of support. Here and there you can find one who would give anything for a nice little quonset hut with just room enough to hang his elephant memories.

—•—

Throughout the world of rajahs there rings the command, "Take them there elephants out and unload 'em for what they will bring!" There are few left who are not complaining, "Things are not what they used to be. I am using the old Jumbo this year"

• • •

A man paid $2,600 for a painting by Ike Eisenhower the other day. He liked the way the General attacked a subject, struck such firm decisive strokes and achieved his goal with firmness.

• • •

John L. Lewis now gets $50,000 a year which is almost enough for him to live on without biting anybody.

• • •

Vanishing Americanisms

"Is there anything I can do? I'm not busy at the moment?"

"This job is all right, but there's not enough action in it."

"Let's try to make a cocktail that will really be fit for the guests to drink."

"This house is too small for us."

"I got this new limousine on the spur of the moment."

"Never mind looking at the menu prices; order what you want."

"I've saved up $25; that will cover all my presents this Christmas."

• • •

Bob Sheriffs reports the following movie sign:

A FRIEND WILL CALL TONIGHT.
ALSO THE ASSASSIN.

• • •

Through a new electronics device the entire script of "Gone With the Wind" was transcribed the other day in a little over two minutes. This means that with a little more work the text of a complete speech by Molotov or Vishinsky may be transcribed in a matter of nine or ten hours.

• • •

"Neither the new draftees nor their instructors will use profanity."—Army announcement.

—•—

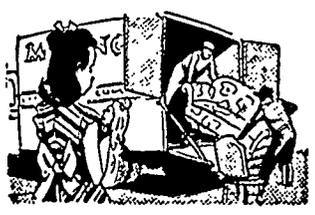
Wanna bet?

MIRROR of your MIND ● ● ● Don't Smile 'By Rule'

By Lawrence Gould

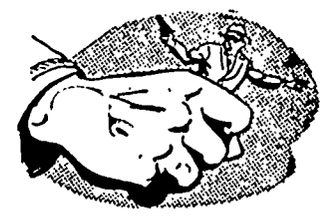
Should you make it a rule to "keep smiling"?

Answer: No. Smiling is one thing you should never do "by rule," except perhaps when politeness demands it. A consciously-forced smile will seldom fool others, while one which you do not realize is forced may mean you are fooling yourself dangerously. "Looking on the bright side" is a good idea if you do it spontaneously, but to force yourself to ignore things that frighten you or make you unhappy only lets them do more damage to your real, unconscious feelings than they could if you allowed yourself to face them.



Will "moving" handicap your children?

Answer: Yes, and though it may sometimes be necessary, this is a fact which you should consider when weighing a change of residence or business. The younger a child is, the harder it will be for him to adjust himself to new surroundings and make new friends. Dr. William W. Wattenberg in Education Forum says that children's having moved from one town to another is a significant factor in producing "maladjusted behavior," and urges that schools and teachers make a special effort to help young newcomers feel at home.



Are most criminals caught and punished?

Answer: By no means, to judge by recent figures of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. For each thousand crimes reported, only 140 offenders are caught and convicted. Certainty of being punished is not the main reason why "crime does not pay," any more than fear of punishment is what keeps most people law-abiding.

To be happy, you must have the approval of your neighbors and know you deserve it. If you feel yourself an "outlaw," you'll not only live in endless tension but may wind up getting yourself caught to end the suspense.

LOOKING AT RELIGION

By DON MOORE

THE OLDEST STANDING PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN AMERICA IS THE NORRITON CHURCH NEAR NORRISTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA. IT WAS BUILT IN 1698!
The 7th day
TO THE ANCIENT BABYLONIANS IN THEIR SEARCH FOR RELIGION EVERY SEVENTH DAY WAS REGARDED AS EVIL! THEY WERE FEARFUL DAYS WITH GREAT PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO DRIVE OUT DEMONS AND SINISTER SPIRITS!
HALLOWEEN (ALL SAINTS DAY) IS NOW BUT A HARMLESS REMAINDER OF THE WEIRD AND FRIGHTFUL 'HALLOWEEN' OF THE EARLY CELTS!

KEEPING HEALTHY

Allergies Often Cause Asthma

By Dr. James W. Barton

ONE of the distressing ailments that the physician of former years had to treat as best he could, because the cause was unknown, was asthma.

The patient coughed and coughed until he was able to cough up a little plug of mucous from one of the small tubes carrying air into and out of the lungs. Fortunately, though the efforts of coughing were exhausting, very few patients died from an attack.

When it was over, the patient rested for a period and was free of symptoms until the next attack occurred, which might be days, weeks or months later.

Today, the commonest cause of asthma is known to be allergy, sensitiveness to various substances. The treatment involves learning why a particular individual is liable to attacks from a certain substance or group of substances.

In "Minnesota Medicine," Dr. T. Laird states that while the search for the substance causing asthma is under way by the various tests, other conditions or circumstances that may be partly to blame for the attacks should be sought. Worries about financial and family affairs may depress the patient's ability to fight the allergic substance, so that he is more readily attacked.

"It is necessary for the patient to avoid mental disturbances, but it is also necessary to maintain the best possible conditions for general bodily health.

"Fresh air and exercise, adequate periods of rest, well planned diets, extra vitamins, and vaccines, and avoidance of fatigue are all helpful measures."

Not that all these helpful measures will prevent attacks. But they will enable the patient to withstand the shock and shaking-up caused by attacks of asthma.

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

A normal, healthy child should be outdoors as much as possible. This not only gives him a good appetite, but also the oxygen in the air helps body processes get more nourishment from the food eaten.

• • •

Cutting down on liquids and table salt helps many cases of Menière's disease—ringing ears and head noises.

Most immediate and effective treatment of an attack of asthma is by adrenalin or epinephrine, a hypodermic injection of seven to ten drops of a solution of 1 to 1,000.

• • •

While there may be circumstances where a physician must be obtained immediately, generally speaking the family physician always should be called first.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 5:1-7; Matthew 13:31-33, 44-46; Luke 10:25-37; 15:3-32.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Matthew 13:10-16, 51-52.

God's Story-Teller

Lesson for November 28, 1948

"TRUTH in a tale," it is said, "will enter in at lowly doors." The greatest truth of the entire Bible does not come to us in the shape of an essay but of a story—the story of Jesus.

Dr. Foreman

"The gospel did not appear on the editorial page but on the news pages." Many people can understand essays; millions more can understand a story. Jesus himself, when he gave the world his message, used stories to do it. We are told that he never made a talk to the people without using a parable. The parables of the Bible are simple stories, often no more than a sentence long.

They are all alike in this: Whatever the story may be, there is more in it than meets the eye. Parables were not a form of entertainment; they were a way of teaching.

• • •

No Cause Is Lost

SOMETIMES the teller of a parable would explain what he meant, as Isaiah does with his little song of the vineyard. Sometimes, and most often in Jesus' case, the meaning is so plain that only a very stupid person could miss it.

Matthew arranges several of Jesus' parables in pairs; one of these is the twin story of the mustard seed and the yeast in the meal (Matt. 13:31-33). Both mean the same thing, and both are so obvious that Jesus did not think it necessary to explain them.

The Kingdom of Heaven—the ideal world, the world as God intends it to be—is a living thing, a growing thing, something at first small, almost invisible. But it will grow; you cannot stop it.

So the ideal world, the Kingdom of Heaven, (Jesus hints) is not an artificial thing, it cannot be constructed by blueprints. It has to follow the course of living things. It does not come all of a sudden, it grows very quietly. You might not see the seed in the ground, but the farmer knows it is there.

• • •

Pearl of Great Price

SOMETIMES two or three of Jesus' parables are like a musical theme with variations. The twin stories of the pearl worth more than the jeweler's whole collection, and of the treasure hidden in the field, are very much alike, yet just a little different in meaning.

Both tell us that the Kingdom of God is more valuable than anything else on earth; indeed, it includes everything else of value. But the stories are different. One tells of a man who was looking for something, the other tells of a man who was surprised by finding something.

Once a Chinese gentleman became dissatisfied with his inherited Confucianism, and set out to find a better religion. For years he shopped around, never finding what he needed. He left Christianity to the last, for in his section of China only coolies and peasants were Christians. But when he began to make friends with some real Christians, he was overjoyed. This was what he had been looking for. This was the pearl of great price.

On the other hand, a drunken sailor, certainly not looking for religion, wandered one night into a Salvation Army meeting. They could do nothing with him, but before they dragged him off to the lodging-house one of them slipped a bit of paper into his pocket. The next morning, cold sober, wondering where he was, he put his hand into that pocket and pulled the paper out. On it were pencilled three words: God loves you. It hit him right between the eyes; and he became a Christian. That was the "treasure hid in the field."

• • •

How Far Will Love Go?

JESUS' contemporaries told parables too, but they have all been forgotten. Jesus' parables are incomparable, unforgettable, immortal. If Jesus had been known for nothing else, he would have been remembered for the four stories of the Good Samaritan, the Lost Sheep, the Lost Coin, the Lost Son.

These all have much the same point. "Lost" does not mean hopelessly doomed. How many persons we give up as hopeless! But God never gives up any one. A "lost" person is one whom God is seeking.

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

If you suffer from pocket-book pinch come the Yuletide season, here's a grand way to get around the gift-giving problem. For the smokers on your list, order cartons of mild, flavorful Camel cigarettes and pound tins of Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the largest-selling smoking tobacco in the country. When you give Camels or Prince Albert, you're giving smoking pleasure at its best—and a generous supply of it! The Camel carton, for example, contains 200 mild, cool cigarettes. Both Camels and Prince Albert packages will fit in perfectly with the spirit of the season, thanks to their colorful and gay wrappings. There's even ample space provided for a "Merry Christmas" message in your own handwriting. If you remind your dealer now to put away a gift-quota of Camels and Prince Albert, he can have them ready when you want them. (Adv.)

RELIEF AT LAST For Your COUGH

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

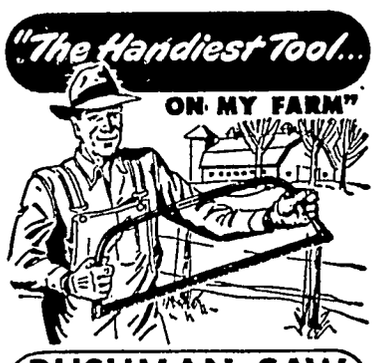
CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

NATURE'S REMEDY (NR) TABLETS—A purely vegetable laxative to relieve constipation without the usual griping, sickening, perturbing sensations, and does not cause a rash. Try NR—you will see the difference. Uncoated or candy coated—their action is dependable, thorough, yet gentle as millions of NR's have proved. Get a 25c box and use as directed.

Nature's Remedy
NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW ALRIGHT

FUSSY STOMACH?
RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN
EAT LIKE CANDY TUMS 10¢ TUMS STOMACH RELIEFS
FOR THE TUMMY!

Planning for the Future? Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!



BUSHMAN SAW
With Swedish Steel Blade

Thousands of progressive farmers know and appreciate the numerous uses of this all-purpose saw. Fine for cutting firewood, fence posts, tree trimming and general rough work. Razor sharp blade cuts smooth at high speed, stays sharp longer. 24, 30, 36, 42, 48 inch lengths.

"Insist on Bushman," nothing else compares.

AT LEADING HARDWARE STORES

GENSCO TOOL DIVISION
GENERAL STEEL WAREHOUSE CO INC
1830 N Kostner Ave Chicago 39

Relieves Distress of MONTHLY
FEMALE WEAKNESS

Also Helps Build Up Red Blood!

Do female functional periodic disturbances make you suffer pain, feel so nervous, irritable—at such times? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Tablets are also very effective to help build up red blood in simple anemia.

Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS

When Your Back Hurts -

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

DOAN'S PILLS

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office Over Federated Store
Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

We Will Close Our Store At Noon,
THANKSGIVING DAY
Thurs., Nov. 25
CORNER STORE
Glen Terhufen, Prop.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer of Mason City were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson, Jr. Thursday.

Mrs. Carl Bohn and Mrs. Rhine Lemke of Garner visited with Klemme friends and attended the Methodist Bazaar Thursday afternoon.

Wilbur Haefner and family are this week moving into their home in Klemme which they recently purchased from John Christians. The Martin Karsjens family, who lived in the house, moved into the Bill Johnson house on East Main, and Melvin Neuberger and family who lived in the Johnson house, moved into their own house, just completed, east of Mrs. Edna Thada's home.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Rev. A. M. Egeland and J. A. Chambers attended a Methodist meeting at Algona Friday.

Mrs. Andraea, home economics teacher in the local high school, is ill with chicken pox and will not be able to teach for a couple of weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Dulmes and Dick are leaving this Wednesday for Adel, Wisconsin to spend Thanksgiving with the doctor's family and relatives.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Albers were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lauster and Ruth Ann of near Thornton; Ted Albers and family of Swaledale; George Albers Jr. and family of Clear Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reuben of Kanawha and Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Lauster of Meservey.

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX AND ADMINISTRATOR

STATE OF IOWA, ss.
HANCOCK COUNTY No. 3200

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix and Administrator of the estate of George Born Deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

CLARA BARZ, Administratrix
RAYMOND BARZ, Administrator
B. C. BERGE, Attorney
Dated November 20, 1948

RUTH HUGHES,
Clerk District Court
(Pub. Nov 24, Dec. 1-8, 1948)

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Mildred Day went to Mason City Thursday to spend the week end visiting with her son. Dorance and family.

R. A. Jorgenson Sr. was at Mason City on business Thursday.

A number of folks from Klemme and communtiy took in the Legion Feather Party at Garner Saturday evening. Lunch was served by the Auxiliary. A large crowd was present and all had a fine time.

The Times is happy to report that Mrs. George Albers, who has been ill, is greatly improved at this writing. Mr. Albers, who recently underwent a major operation, is also making a good recovery.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Town Clerk of the Incorporated Town of Klemme, Iowa at his office in said town until 10:00 A. M. on the 9th day of December, 1948 for furnishing material and labor for the construction of concrete pavement widening with integral curb as more fully described in the plans and specifications therefore now on file in the office of the Town Clerk.

The extent of the work involved is the following:

Division II—Section A— Pavement Widening With Integral Curb

The construction of 2,465 square yards of concrete pavment with integral curb and 820 square feet of replacing sidewalks in, along and upon the following streets in the Town of Klemme, Iowa, to-wit:

On Main Street from the East line of Second Street to the center line of Third Street, a width of 16 feet in front of Lots 4 and 5, Block 12, Original Town and a width of 10 feet in front of other properties, on Main Street from the center line of Third Street to the County road running South-North on the East Section line, Section 31, T95N, R23W, a width of 5 feet in front of all properties; and including the intersections on Main Street at Third, Fourth and Fifth Streets.

The kind of material, size and amount required for which bids will be received are approximately as follows:

Sufficient material to lay approximately 2,465 square yards of concrete pavement six inches thick with integral curb and 820 square feet of replacing side walks four inches thick.

The concrete to be made of such material and to be mixed, placed and cured as provided in the plans and specifications therefor now on file in the Office of the Town Clerk of Klemme, Iowa.

All work is to be done in strict compliance with the plans and specifications prepared by Rowat and Murray, engineers, now on file in the Office of the Town Clerk of Klemme, Iowa.

All work to be commenced on or before May 23rd, 1949, and to be fully completed on or before June 18th, 1949.

All bids must be accompanied in a separate envelope by a check drawn on and certified by a Bank in Iowa payable to the Treasurer of said Town in the amount of ten per cent of the bid submitted which certified check will be held as security that the bidder will enter into a contract for the construction of the work and will furnish the required bond and in case the successful bidder shall fail or refuse to enter into contract and furnish required bond his certified check may be cashed and be retained by said Town as agreed and liquidated damages.

Payment Will Be Made To The Contractor As Follows:

Division II—Section A—Pavement widening with integral curb. Payment to the contractor will be made in special assessment certificates, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, issued in accordance with, the provisions of Chapter 396 of the Code of Iowa of 1946, to the extent that the cost of said improvement is assessable by law against the property abutting upon or adjacent to said improvement, and against the real estate and personal property of the railway and street railway companies whose tracks, rights-of-way or station grounds are located thereon, abut thereon, or are adjacent thereto, if any there may be; said certificates to be issued and delivered to the Contractor after the work is completed and accepted by this Council; any deficiency between the amount of the contract price and the amount of said certificates to be paid in warrants drawn on the general or other fund available for the year beginning April 1st, 1949.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a bond in an amount equal to 100 per cent of the contract price in the form to be supplied by said Town, said bond to be issued by responsible sureties approved by the Town Council and guarantee the faithful performance of the contact and the terms and conditions therein contained and shall guarantee the prompt payment of all materials and labor and protect and save harmless the Town from claims and damages of any kind caused by the operation of the contractor and shall also guarantee maintenance of said concrete in good repair for a period of three years from the date of the acceptance thereof by the Town Council.

By virtue of statutory authority a preference will be given to products and provisions grown and coal produced within the State of Iowa.

All proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Town Clerk, and each bidder will be required to state his prices for doing all the items in each section on which he makes a bid.

The Town reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, unless all bids are rejected, or the council for cause shall find it necessary to throw out one or more bids.

Copies of the plans and specifications are on file with the Town Clerk, Klemme, Iowa, and with the Engineers Rowat & Murray at Belmond, Iowa.

All bids will be opened in open council at a meeting to be held at the council chamber on the day and hour above fixed, and contract will be awarded at that time or at such subsequent time to which the Council may adjourn.

Published by order of the Town Council of said Town, and dated at Klemme, Iowa, this 21st day of November, A. D., 1948.

A. R. ARNOLD,
Town Clerk.
(Publish Nov. 24, Dec. 1, 1948.)

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen visited at the Rhine Schlawin home at Hayfield Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Frances Ridder was a dinner guest Sunday at the Wes Schuldt home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lawhorn were dinner guests Sunday evening at the Dr. A. H. Dulmes home.

Miss Helen Albers, who teaches at Ventura, will come today to spend Thanksgiving vacation visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Albers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Netland have recently improved their home in northwest Klemme. City water was piped to the house and sewer connections made. They now have a new bathroom and running water in the house. Their house was also reshingled, so they are all set for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buseman were dinner guests Sunday at the Lester Buseman home at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Waldek of Hayfield were supper guests at the Emil Patet home Sunday evening.

Rev. W. T. Boston and son. Bob attendeed the Brotherhood Thanksgiving banquet held at the Stilson E. U. B. Church on Monday evening. Rev. Boston was one of the guest speakers.

Miss Gladys Schlichting of Mason City spent the week end in Klemme visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schlichting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lowenberg of Belmond entertained to dinner last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen; Mrs. Minnie Smith and son, Avery Bier; Lew Avery. After dinner the evening was spent playing Bunco.

Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Anderson entertained the former's sister, Mrs. Emma Wesson of Garner, and her neighbors at dinner Sunday. The affair was a surprise for Mrs. Wesson. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Quintus, Miss Louis Gilbert, and Fred Meckstroth, all of Garner, and also Mrs. Wesson's daughter, Lucile of Des Moines.

KLEMME
MOVIES
NOVEMBER 25
Trouble With Women
RAY MILLAND
DECEMBER 2
"Adventure Island"
CINECOLOR
Comedy Each Show
SHOW AT 7:45 P. M.

DEAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED

Britt Rendering Co
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22
WE PAY PHONE CHARGES
KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000
Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load
TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

FARMERS OF WRIGHT AND HANCOCK COUNTIES
RELIABLE AND EFFICIENT ARTIFICIAL BREEDING SERVICE For Dairy Cattle
is now available for the improvement of yo herds at minimum cost. We present our New Technician With Highest Recomendatio
LESTER ANDERSON
North Iowa Breeders Co-op. Phone 1
Kanawha, Iowa

BASKET BALL
At The K. H. S. Gymnasium On Tuesday, Nov. 30
TWO THRILLING GAMES
First Game At 7:30 P. M.
LITTLE SHAMROCKS
VS
BRITT H. S. RESERVES
At 7:30 P. M.
KLEMME SHAMROCKS
VS
BRITT EAGLES
Adult Admission 50 cents

We Just Can't

Get new machinery for everybody that wants it. And it is possible that you are another man who will be forced to get along with some old machinery that will have to be repaired before another season rolls around.

Why not see us about getting the job done now so you will be ready to go when you need the machine. Make, model, or kind of machine makes no difference.

FRED J ARNOLD
Oliver Sales and Service Klemme, Iowa

Thada's
The Store Of Everyday Low Prices!
FRIDAY & SAT., NOV. 26 & 27
A Few of the Many Money Saving Items

BEEF ROAST Per Pound 49c

PURE GRAPE JELLY OR JAM 1 lb. jar ... 21c
Special
JACK SPRAT FLOUR 5 pounds ... 37c
Only
CHEESE 2 lb. box ... 79c
RICE 2 pounds ... 25c
PLAIN AND FANCY COOKIES 3 pounds $1.00
PASTE FLOOR WAX 1 lb. jar ... 29c
Special
HAMS Skinned and Smoked READY to EAT Per pound 59c
JELLO 3 boxes ... 20c
TOILET TISSUE 4 rolls ... 29c
STANDBY BABY FOOD doz cans ... 49c
Week End Special
KELLOGGS CORN FLAKES per box ... 13c
A Breakfast Treat
AMERICAN DRAIN PIPE CLEANER ... 19c
MIRACLE CLOTHES BLEACH gal. ... 29c
For Whiter Clothes
Minced Ham Per Pound 29c

Thada's
Highest Market Price For Your Eggs CASH or Trade
A Good Store In A Good Town Klemme, Ia.

We Are Thankful

At this Thanksgiving Time we are again remindful of the many things for which we are thankful . . . bounteful crops in our community . . . peace and happiness in our land.

And again we want to express our sincere thanks to our patrons and friends for their loyalty and patronage extended to us during the past year . . . without your fine spirit of cooperation it would not be possible for us to progress.

This is YOUR cooperative and with your continued support will continue to grow in the years ahead, and we will all be thankful

From All Of Us To All Of You Folks!

Klemme Coop. Creamery Co.
Pasteurized Milk and Cream Klemme, I

FFICIAL
OUNTY
APER

THE KLEMME TIMES

olume 54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER, 1 1948 Number 3.

ISS PEGGY LOU COOBS BRIDE OF WALTER C. CLARK HERE SUNDAY

SS PEGGY LOU COOBS BRIDE OF WALTER C. CLARK HERE SUNDAY

Miss Peggy Lou Coobs, daughr of Mr and Mrs. Benn J. obs of Klemme, and Walter Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. ssell D. Clark of Woodward, re married in the Klemme ethodist Church, on Sunday ternoon, November 28th, at 0 o'clock, with the Rev. Har- E. Buss, uncle of the bride d pastor of the Evangelical ited Brethren Church of adbrook, Iowa, performing the uble ring ceremony in front the altar lighted with 64 can- s and decorated with white d yellow chrysanthemums and llow and white streamers.

Nuptial music was provided by ss Mae Jeanne Hollis at the no and organ chime music yed on the sound system by uncle, Mr. Wallace Pavey rlan H. Buss sang "I Love u Truly," "Because" and "The rd's Prayer"

The bride, who was given in rriage by her father, wore a ite satin dress with lace yoke d pointed sleeves, with full n and a double lace bound l held by a tiara of seed rls matching her pearl neck- e, which was a gift of the oom. She carried a shower uquet of white and yellow rysanthemums and a white ble.

Miss Harriet Buss, cousin of e Bride was the Maid of Honor d was dressed in aqua blue h a net yoke with shoulder gth veil and carried a bou- et of yellow chrysanthemums. rmon Clark, brother of the oom was best man and the hers were Gene Haskins, Des ines, and Melvin Coobs broth- of the bride, of Iowa City.

The bride's mother wore a al blue dress with black ac- ssories and a yellow and white rsage of chrysanthemums. The ridegroom's mother wore a black pe dress with black accessor- s and her corsage was also of ite and yellow chrysanthe- ms.

Following the ceremony a re- ption was held in the church ng room which was oppropely decorated in yellow and ite and with vases of flowers. s. D. P. Anderson had baked d decorated a white and yel- four-tier wedding cake, top- with a bride and groom, ch was used as the center- e at the bride's table.

The bride graduated from the emme high school and the ital City Commercial Col- e at Des Moines and is em- yed at the Iowa Air National ard office in Des Moines.

The groom graduated from Ware, Iowa, High School and ds the C. C. C. C. at Des nes, where they will reside the present.

ys Registered Swiss Bull

E. LaFavre, Klemme, Iowa recently purchased the regred Brown Swiss bull, Manof Lilly Swiss No 89900 from & Smith, LaCrescent, Minn. rding to a report from Fred ltse, Secretary of the Brown s Cattle Breeders' Associa- Beloit, Wisconsin.

ANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH

Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

day:
:00 A. M. Worship Services.
:00 A. M. Sunday School.
:30 P. M. Rehearsal for the istmas Program.
:00 P. M. Young People's e Class.
day.
:30 P. M. Adult Bible Class. Grab-bag.
esday:
:30 P. M. Choir.
day:
:00 A. M. Confirmation Class.

MUSKRAT, MINK SEASONS OPEN DEC. 1ST

The 20-day muskrat and mink season opens at noon, December 1, and closes at noon, December 20. The season, shortened from 60 to 20 days, remains closed in 30 south and southwest Iowa counties. Although mink and muskrat pelts valued at more than one million have been taken during the past few years, the low populations and the shortened season are expected to bring the dollar value below the million mark this year.

Counties closed to muskrat and mink trapping include: Harrison, Shelby, Guthrie, Dallas, Pottawattamie, Cass, Madison, Adair, Warren, Marion, Mills, Montgomery, Adams, Union, Lucus, Clarke, Monroe, Wappello, Jefferson, Henry, Fremont, Page, Taylor, Ringgold, Decatur, Davis, Wayne, Appanoose, Van Buren.

Roughage Is Needed In Feed Of Young Calves

Feed young calves plenty of good roughage early in life, says Floyd Arnold, extension dairyman at Iowa State College.

Studies made over a period of two years by the United States Department of Agriculture show that calves are frequently anemic for a short time after they are born Two-thirds of all young calves studied had blood with low hemoglobin content.

Iron fed in the ration is the best cure for anemia in calves, and the best source of iron on Iowa farms is plenty of good quality roughage, Arnold points out.

IF NOT CHECKED, CATTLE LICE WILL CUT PROFITS

Cattle feeders are bringing cattle into this state to eat part of the bumper crop, but some of the corn isn't going to be turned into beef for market. It is going into lice.

Harold Gunndrson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College, says that many of the cattle being shipped in are lousy He points out that lice cause poor gains and make cattle rough. Lice may cause the death of young animals in poor condition.

Gunderson says to watch cattle, and if they start to rub on fences, buildings and fed bunks, start treatment.

Eight pounds of 50 percent DDT wettable powder applied as a spray at 75 to 400 pounds pressure is the recommended treatment. Apply thoroughly—in the ears because louse eggs are laid there, and on the underparts of the body as well as the more easily reached parts. Apply one gallon per animal. To get better coverage, Gunderson recommends adding a package of wetting agent to the solution.

One treatment will do the job, he says. DDT doesn't kill eggs but kills young lice in the crawling stage and lasts long enough to kill lice as they hatch.

This time of year no cattle grubs are showing up, but Gunderson says that a farmer might as well prepare for them by building a narrow chute. It can be used now for louse control and later for grub control. Farmers having cattle come in from the southwest should be on the watch for grub infection in December, he says.

College Students Home

It was good to see so many of our young pepole who were home from colleges over the week end during the short Thanksgiving vacation. Klemme is well represented in several colleges and universities with a fine group of young people. It will be nice to again see these young men and women when they come for Christmas.

ITS KANAWHA HIGH SCHOOL NIGHT AT KLEMME NEXT TUESDAY

The Kanawha High School will be the hosts at the Klemme high school gymnasium on next Tuesday night, Dec. 7th when their girls and boys basket ball teams come to do battle with the Shamrockettes and Shamrocks.

Because of the small floor and limited seating capacity of the Kanawha gym, that school rented the Klemme gym for the two games. Kanawha has a strong boys team this year. This is the first year of competition for the Kanawha girls.

Returned Home From Trip To The East Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Green returned home last Thursday from a two weeks visit at Buffalo and New York City, New York and other points of interest in the East.

They accompanied Lyle's brother, Delbert, who had been here for a visit, on his trip home. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Green returned to Klemme in a new Chevrolet car which they purchased in New York for Lyle's father, Ed Green of Corwith The Greens enjoyed their trip and saw a lot of interesting sights on thir trip East.

Will Spend Winter In Texas

Mr and Mrs. Clarence Neuberger left Saturday in their car for the south, with Brownsville, Texas, as their destination On the way south they will go through the Ozarks in Missouri and Arkansas and will also tour through some of the other southern States.

They have an apartment engaged at Brownsville for the winter and will return home in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Fessenden will live at the Neuberger farm during the winter.

Ever Tried Smoked Pheasant Breasts? Really Good!

The Editor's wife got in on a nice lunch prepared by Mr. and Mrs. W C. Keraus at Wellemeyer's store Saturday afternoon, for the employees.

The lunch consisted of smoked pheasant breasts in homemade buns, served with piping hot coffee If you have never tried smoked pheasant you have missed out on a delicious treat.

(Editor's note Now it can be told. The Editor also got in on the lunch later when the "better half" had sent us up town for some groceries.)

House Warming Party And Dinner Held At New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schulz were honored with a housewarming party at their new home east of Klemme Sunday when the following brought well filled baskets of food for a delicious dinner.

Mr and Mrs. Guy Geddes and Mr and Mrs. Gus Schulz and Don of Hayfield, Mr and Mrs. Chas. Strate of Nora Springs; Mr and Mrs. Frank Schulz and Mr and Mrs. Lester Neuberger and family of Klemme.

The afternoon was spent in visiting.

Garner Reformed Church

REV. R. D. STUEBBE

ZION CHURCH:

Choir practice on Thursday at 7:30.

Ladies Aid on Friday at 2:00 P. M.

Christmas Program practice on Saturday at 1:00 P. M.

Worship Services at 9:00.

Sunday School at 10:00.

PEACE CHURCH:

W. M. S. on Thursday at 2:00 P. M.

Choir practice on Thursday at 7:30 P. M.

Sunday School at 10:10.

Worship Services at 11:00.

SHAMROCKS WIN 1 LOSE

BRITT EAGLES TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM THE SHAMROCKS

It was a bad night Tuesday for the Klemme high school when Britt was entertained and the visitors went home with both basket ball games.

The Britt Reserves defeated the Little Shamrocks in a well playd game 17-11.

In the feature game the Britt Eagles lead 30 to 21 at half time and boosted their scoring to 42-27 at the end of the game "Red" Schmidt racked up 10 points to lead the Shamrocks.

KLEMME, HAYFIELD DIVIDE DOUBLEHEADER

The Klemme Shamrock boys team pulled a chestnut out of the fire in time to win a close game at Hayfield last Tuesday night 35-32

The Shamrockettes, girls team lost to the Hayfield girls in the opening game 33-48, after Hayfield lead them 24-14 at the half This was the Klemme girls second game and they showed a lot of improvement and with prospects of winning some games.

"CURLY" BACK RECEIVED PRIVATE PILOT RATING THANKSGIVING

Graydon "Curly" Back completed the necessary flying time and tests and was awarded his Private Pilot Licence by "Bill" Evans at Wicks Field at Garner on Thanksgiving morning

"Curly" is now qualified to carry non-pay passengers with him in light planes.

Congratulations, "Curly"

Attended Wedding Here

Out of town relatives and friends who came to attend the wedding of Miss Peggy Coobs and Walter Clark Sunday were Mr and Mrs. Archie Johnson of Balatan, Minn., Mr and Mrs Wayne Pavey of Webster City. Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coobs of Iowa City; Mr. and Mrs Paul Grange of Mason City, and Mr. and Mrs. P. W Johnson and Nancy of Dakota City

Birthday Party

Mrs. Frances Ridder entertained a number of ladies at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Minnie Lau, who was observing her birthday. A nice lunch was served by Mrs Ridder, and Miss Lau received some nice gifts

LEGION AND AUXILIARY TO MEET TUESDAY, DEC. 7

The Klemme Legion and Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday evening, December 7th, at the community Hall.

The Auxiliary ladies will also have a gift exchange, value not to exceed 75 cents.

HELLO, FOLKS!

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Loeffler of Belmond are the parents of a baby boy born Tuesday, November 30th at the Belmond hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Loeffler also have another son, Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Barz are the parents of a baby girl born November 16 at Corpus Christi, Texas. They also have one other daughter in their family.

Grandpa and Grandma Emil Barz of Lamont Iowa, spent their vacation with Max and family, and also toured through some of the Southern states.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR FARM PRICES

Kutish Sees Little Chance Of Slump Before Last Half Of 1949

Stepped-up European recovery spending until April 1, 1949 is likely to provide the punch that will insure a high level of business activity during the first half of 1949, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College economist.

The Recovery Programs spending schedule has lagged behind with the result that much spending will have to come about if the program is to use up its allotted $5 3 billion in the specified year's time

ERP Spending

Thus far, most of the spending allotments have been for agricultural products — chiefly grain. Production equipment and industrial goods orders now are on the increase. And while there is no shortage of grain, supplies of steel and metals are short, reminds Kutish.

These continued demands, plus the fact that actual payment of funds lags behind the placing of orders, indicate that most of the $5.3 billion actually will not be spent until the first half of 1949.

Supplies Larger

If these strong indications come about, the net result would be that generally business activity and demand would hold at about present levels. Although farm prices may average lower than in 1948, this will be due to an adjustment to larger supplies, rather than a drop in demand, says Kutish.

DUCK SEASON CLOSES NOVEMBER 27

The 1948 duck season closes November 27, after a 30- day season described as only fair by the Conservation Commission. Shooting on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers was good, with the opening on the Mississippi one of the best in recent years Inland duck hunters in greater numbers than ever before had poor shooting success during most of the season.

Fewer geese were killed in Iowa than in 1947, with game technicians attributing the lower bag to the fact that blue and snow geese were not as widely diffused over the state and did not stay as long as in the record breaking season of 1947.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

Morning Worship at 10 A. M.

The Sermon theme will be "Making Light of Life."

The December meeting of the CSCS (Children's Society of Christian Service) will meet at the hour of morning worsnip, in the church basement. Mrs. Prouty of Garner will speak to the children and display articles of interest from Chile, where Mrs Prouty's daughter is a missionary

Sunday School at 11:00 A. M.

Youth Fellowship at 7 for both High School and Intermediate groups.

The choir will meet for rehearsal in the church on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Study Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 9th at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. M. Isvik. The assisting hostess will be Mrs. C. A. Larsen and the Study Leader, Mrs. R. Arnold.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

Sunday School 10:15 A. M.

Morning Worship 11:20 A. M.

The Sermon theme will be "Making Light of Life."

The December Birthday Social will be held in the church on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

FARMER COMMITTEE ELECTIONS TO BE HELD IN HANCOCK COUNTY

LOTS OF ACTIVITY ALONG EAST MAIN STREET

Klemme's Main street, from the post office east to the end of the street is pretty well torn up in getting ready for the paving next spring.

The water mains are extended from Mrs. Rosendahl's corner lot to the east end of the street. The sewer has also been extended to the end of the street. A storm sewer is also being put in along the south side of the street to take care of the pavement drainage.

All city water connections along Main street must be copper and many old lines are being dug up and replaced with copper pipes. All sewer connections to adjacent lots are also being made where vacant lots did not have sewer connections. Town officials are hoping that the preliminary work can be done this fall.

FISHING SEASON CLOSES NOVEMBER 30

The season on all protected game fish closes November 30, after what is described by conservation officials as a good season. Highs and lows in fishing success were recorded, with outstanding bullhead fishing in many of the North Iowa lakes and with Storm Lake living up to its reputation as a heavy producer of eight and ten pound walleyes. The most disappointing feature of the fishing season was the drop-off in stream catfishing after the middle of the summer, attributable primarily to very low water stages.

W. S. C. S. Will Meet Thursday At Methodist Church

The Klemme W. S C. S. will meet at the church Thursday afternoon at 2 00 o'clock with Mrs. Herman Paul in charge of Devotions and with Mrs. Henry Busse as Program Leader.

The hostesses are Mrs. Claude White, Mrs Carl Finders and Mrs Jennings Anderson.

Lynn Carver, the actress, delayed her marriage to John Burt, when a prankster informed her by elephone that her groom was already married. Seven graves in a Scranton, Pa., cemetery are mute evidence of the effectiveness of another practical joke that backfired in a dynamite factory. Read "Practical Jokes Aren't Funny" in the American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN.

Jolly Workers Club Met Tuesday

The Jolly Workers Club met at the home of Edith Kramer on Tuesday, November 16th.

Sixteen members were present and three visitors. Each one answered roll call by telling of their plans for Thanksgiving.

Election of officers was held and our new president will be Bessie Marshall; vice-president, Ruth Trampel; Secretary and Treasurer is Louis Pearson. Edith Kramer and Irene Marshall are on the flower and card committee. Maude Bachman as reporter.

A committee was appointed for plans for our Christmas party with Lily Pearson as chairman. The Christmas party is to be at the home of Lily Pearson. Each member is to bring the gift for their "mystery friend." Price not to go over $1.50.

The club has sent their Holland family their Christmas box and has sent 255 pounds of used clothing. Irene Marshall passed out the cards we ordered and Mildred dismissed the meeting. A delicious lunch was served by Edith Kramer with Mae Blumer as co-hostess.

County Agricultural Convention Committee To Hold Elections December 1 To 9

Community farmer committee elections will be held in Hancock County during the period of December 1 to 9 inclusive, A. E. Rasmussen, Acting Chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee as announced today.

At these elections, committeemen to administer the Agricultural Conservation Program and related programs for 1949 will be chosen. Since both the Agricultural Conservation Program and Price Supports are of vital concern to farmers of Hancock County, it is to the best interest of each farmer to participate in this election.

This farm program with its elected farmer committees gives farmers an opportunity to administer their own program. It is truly a democratic method of administration.

Mr Rasmussen said that any person that is a bona fide farmer, living in the community, who is participating in the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program, Sugar Program, who is eligible for a commodity loan or other price support or who has a contract with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation is eligible to vote in the elections. Set out below are the place and dates for each township election. All meetings are to start at 8 P. M.

Amsterdam, Grade School at Kanawha, Saturday, December 4th

Avery, Community Hall, Goodell, Tuesday, December 7th.

Bingham, Community Hall at Woden, Thursday, December 9th.

Boone, Community Hall at Stilson, Tuesday, December 7th.

Britt, Central States Basement at Britt, Tuesday, December 7th.

Concord, AAA Office at Garner, Wednesday, December 8th.

Crystal, Crystal Lake Consolidated School, Thursday, Dec. 2nd.

Ell, Center School Ell No. 5, Wednesday, December 8th.

Ellington, Center School, Monday, December 6th.

Erin, Center School, Erin No. 5, Wednesday, December 1st.

Garfield, Garfield School No. 6, Thursday, December 9th.

Liberty, Center School, Liberty No. 5, Tuesday, Dec. 7th.

Madison, Madison School No. 6, Tuesday, December 7th.

Magor, Center School, Magor No. 5, Tuesday, December 7th.

Orthel, Center School, Orthel No. 5, Monday, December 6th.

Twin Lake, Center School, Twin Lake No. 5, Wednesday, December 8th.

Eveery farmer who is eligible to vote has a responsibility to cast his or her ballot, Mr. Rasmussen states. "We may well be at the cross-roads this year. We may neglect our opportunity to administer our own program and let control of agriculture slip away from us. Or we may unite back of the farm program and build for a better and stronger agriculture in the future. It is our choice."

Phone your news to 12.

GOODELL Evangelical United Brethren Church

W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.

Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.

Choir practice Wednesday evening at 7:30.

The W. S. W. S. will observe Family Night Friday evening, Dec. 3rd with a pot-luck supper at the church at 6. Meat and coffee will be provided. All families of the church are invited.

The Ladies Aid will meet at the church Wednesday, Dec. 8. Bring a guest and a 25 cent exchange gift.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

New Crisis Appears in Germany As Russ Threaten Berlin Airlift; Rent Control Extension Proposed

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

AIRLIFT: New Crisis

Morally defeated in their efforts to make good the blockade of Berlin, the Soviets were brewing up a new batch of trouble to keep American planes out of the skies over the German capital.

The Russian military administration in Berlin charged that foreign planes had flown illegally over the Soviet zone of Germany and threatened to force such planes down if it ever happened again.

IT HAD all the earmarks of a desperate, last-ditch attempt to keep the U. S. airlift from succeeding in its mission of supplying food and fuel to Germans inside the blockaded zones.

But American officials weren't having any of it. In a brittle reply to the Soviet letter, Brig. Gen. C. K. Gailey stated that if any Americans were injured as a result of a plane's being forced down the full responsibility would rest on Soviet shoulders.

THE RUSSIAN letter, received from Lt. Gen. G. S. Lukyanchenko, chief of staff of the Soviet military administration, asserted that "foreign aircraft not bearing identification marks of nationality" had flown over Soviet territory both within and without the international air corridors.

His missive concluded with a flat, two-point threat of Red intentions in the future:

1. SOVIET air patrols would force down all unidentified aircraft over the Soviet zone.

2. SOVIET air patrols would force down all foreign aircraft appearing over the Soviet zone outside the limits of the air corridors and greater Berlin.

The incident was tabbed as "the latest crisis" in the Berlin situation, but in comparison to the other crises that have come and gone this one appeared to be little more than a tempest in a teapot. It seemed to convey the impression that the Russians were losing their grip—that they couldn't even foment a real, hot crisis any more.

Not that the affair was to be taken lightly. In an atmosphere charged with hostility it wouldn't take much more than the intentional destruction of one American plane to touch off a serious conflict.

CONTROL: On Rents

One of the promises that President Truman made to the people during his campaign tour was that he would secure an extension of rent controls.

And scarcely had the startling election day passed before a concerted rent control effort was being brought under way by the Democrats. Rent Director Tighe E. Woods announced that he would ask the new congress not only to extend but to strengthen the present rent control law.

HE SAID he would ask congress to extend the rent law for 12 months past its present expiration date, March 31, and to close what he considers three big loopholes in the present act.

"The shortage of rental housing is more serious today, especially in the smaller communities, than it was a year ago," he declared.

In addition to extending and buttressing the present law, Woods indicated that he probably would propose that congress give him new authority to restore controls, or impose them for the first time, in areas that may be boomed by new defense activity.

These are the changes he will ask:

1. EVICTION CONTROLS — Restore federal control over evictions. Now evictions are left to local courts. The result, Woods said, is a serious black market in rents.

2. TREBLE DAMAGES—Give the rent director power to sue rent violators for three times their overcharge. Now only the tenant can bring such suits. This means that landlords usually get off with simple repayment of the overcharge.

3. CRIMINAL SANCTIONS—Provide jail terms and fines for convicted violators. This would give the rent director a weapon to back up his orders.

Woods was confident that the new Democratic congress would receive his proposals cordially, and most sources on Capitol Hill confirmed that belief.

LUCIUS CLOBB

On Election Polls

Lucius Clobb, elder statesman and political polltergeist of Pawhooley county, wore a strained expression as he opened the frosted glass and chicken wire door of Mayor Ryerson Bucket's office.

"Mornin' and a variety of congratulations, Rye," said he. "Mighty glad to see you overflowin' the same old hole in that chair seat. That upstart Clem Gropper that the opposition put up as a candidate agin you run a poor race, didn't he?"

"You mean," snapped Rye Bucket, "the upstart that you were running around the county winding your horn would win the election hands down? You and your scientific barber poll. Ha!" The mayor snorted stridently.

"Now, Rye," said Mister Clobb with some dignity, "you shouldn't talk like that. I voted for you. Or I would've if I hadn't sneezed in the voting booth and blew out the candle so I couldn't see where I was making an X. Turned out that I didn't get an X in any one of those danged circles."

"And what about your (yuk) barber poll?" yukked the mayor.

"Well, now that was what I thought was a genuine scientific poll from which I thought sure I could predict the outcome of the election. I was so blamed objective that I didn't ask nobody nothin'."

"Then how in the name o' Harry could you get any opinions?"

Mister Clobb combed his whiskers reflectively. "That's why I called it a barber poll," he said. "Day after day I set in Ebenezer Snock's barber shop and watched people get haircuts. I figured I had a system.

"When a man come in and said to Eb, 'Clippers all around, Eb,' I figgered him for a Demmycrat. And anybody who come in and asked to have the sideburns left on—well, what could he be but a Republican? I thought they'd vote accordin' to their haircuts.

"Beauty of the system was that it didn't involve no subtile unknown quantities like the quick shiftin' of a man's opinion or the deep currents that flow beneath a man's conscious thinkin'."

"Yeah, a beautiful system, Mister Clobb," sighed the mayor in a more kindly tone. "I'm kinda sorry it didn't work out right."

"Thanks, Rye," murmured the elder statesman, and his whiskers twitched. "It was beautiful. A beautiful system."

INDICTED: Thomas

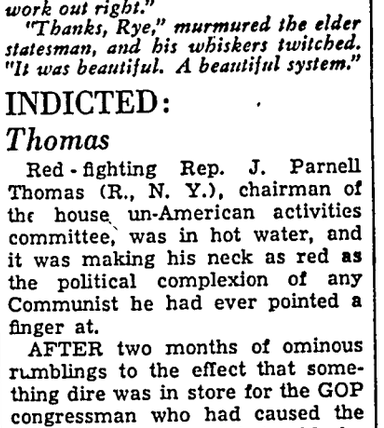
Red-fighting Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. Y.), chairman of the house un-American activities committee, was in hot water, and it was making his neck as red as the political complexion of any Communist he had ever pointed a finger at.

AFTER two months of ominous rumblings to the effect that something dire was in store for the GOP congressman who had caused the administration so much trouble by shouting that the government was employing Communists, the news broke: Thomas was charged by a federal grand jury of conspiring to pad the payroll of his congressional office.

The indictment accused Thomas and his former secretary, Miss Helen Campbell, of conspiring to maintain fictitious employees in Thomas' office so the salaries paid to these persons could be diverted into Thomas' bank account.

At his Allendale, N. J., home, Thomas growled, "I have nothing to say at this moment." But he would have an opportunity to speak when his trial got under way, probably in January.

Kicked Back



Miss Helen Campbell, ex-secretary to Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), is involved with the congressman in a federal grand jury indictment on charges that he "induced" her and another employee to "kick back" their salaries to him.

Woman of the Year

For "eminent achievement" in the field of commerce and industry, 70-year-old Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth (right) was honored by the American Woman's association as the nation's "Woman of the Year." Mrs. Fanny S. Sweeney presents the award. Dr. Gilbreth is the mother of 12 children and grandmother of 18.

CHINA WAR: Panic

In Nanking, Peiping, Shanghai and other terrorized cities along the China coast the words on the lips of all foreigners was "when will the Communists come?"

And the Chinese themselves, torn with indecision, doubts and mob violence, were wondering the same thing.

FOOD RIOTS and strikes flared in Hankow, Shanghai and Nanking. Undisciplined throngs roamed the streets. People were trampled to death or injured. Police fired on the rioters. The evacuation of Americans from China was being carried out hastily but efficiently.

In north central China the position of the Nationalist forces was growing worse hourly. Suchow and Pengup were reported virtually isolated by Communists. The Yangtze river was feared open to a Red crossing that would expose Nanking.

THE WHOLE economic structure of the Chiang Kai-shek government appeared to be crumbling and sliding into a Red ruin in the wild melee along coastal China. Value o' the gold yuan plummeted downward.

The question was not only, "when are the Communists coming?" but "how long will the central Chinese government last?"

This appeared to be the great, all-consuming crisis in Chiang Kai-shek's decade-long struggle to maintain a spark of life in the Chinese republic. But the cold, smothering wind of communism was blowing strong.

RED TROOPS had taken control of Manchukuo, former National stronghold in the North, and that victory appeared to be the key which the Communists could use to sweep down into the vital areas of China itself.

For Chiang and his woefully weak Nationalist government the past 11 years had been nothing but an agonizing battle against imperialism—from the Japanese fascistic brand beginning in 1937 to the Communist type which presents the current peril.

REBUILT: By Stassen?

In the clear, bitter post-election light the Republican party turned upon itself in a fury of self-examination and didn't like what it saw.

MOST OF the top-level influential party members wanted to see some changes made, and most of them seemed to think that Harold E. Stassen was the man to make them.

As a result, the former governor of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, may be assigned the job of rebuilding the GOP for the 1952 presidential campaign.

STILL licking their wounds, GOP leaders were urging the youthful Stassen to lead a movement to shape the party along more liberal lines. Those party liberals were planning to meet with Stassen for a "brass tacks" discussion of a party reconstruction.

Stassen was refusing to comment on the reports that he might step in as general contractor for the reconstruction job, but it was a known fact that he was being swamped with requests, many of them from Republican bigwigs, to undertake the task.

"I THINK the situation calls for some reflection," was the only comment the man who had been defeated by Governor Dewey for the GOP presidential nomination would make.

One of Stassen's promises when he dropped out of the presidential nomination fight at Philadelphia last June was to work toward strengthening "the liberal viewpoint within the party."

MILLIONS DEAD: Legally Now

The United Nations has made public a projected world convention for declaring dead the millions of refugees, soldiers and other persons who disappeared between 1939 and 1945 under circumstances suggesting "death as a consequence of events of war, of racial, religious, political or national persecution."

It is aimed to solve such problems as inheritances, adoption of children and remarriages.

Washington Digest

The U. S. Vice Presidency Called 'Unimportant' Job

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Just what are the thoughts of a vice president of the United States between the time of his election and the time he walks in and makes his opening address to the United States senate?

"There can be great judges, great governors, great senators, great representatives and great Presidents. A vice president may move into the presidency and be a great President. A great man may be vice president, but he can't be a great vice president, because the office in itself is unimportant. In my judgment, the four most potent offices in the nation are: The President, the speaker of the house, the majority leader of the senate, and the chief justice of the United States."

These were the remarks of former Vice President Garner as quoted by Bascom Timmons in his book, "Garner of Texas."

When "Cactus Jack" gave up the speakership of the house to accept the vice presidential nomination he called the office "a no-man's land somewhere between the legislative and the executive branch."

BAUKHAGE

I don't know whether Mr. Garner was any more reluctant to accept the vice presidential nomination than was Alben Barkley. Or than Governor Warren was, in accepting the Republican vice presidential nomination, for that matter. Warren, in particular, put up a lot of sales resistance. Dewey during the night after his own nomination, conferred with party leaders and came up with Warren's name for the vice presidency.

Warren at first refused, but accepted after Dewey promised to give him cabinet status and administrative duties, if elected. As Dewey put it, he wanted Warren to have a "full partnership" in helping to run the government.

Party loyalty was Alben Barkley's reason for accepting the job. He has been a hard worker in politics for 43 years. As senate Democratic leader for the past 11 years, he has faithfully steered administration programs through the upper house. Until the GOP captured the senate in 1946, his power and prestige were immense.

He probably will be asked to attend cabinet meetings as former Vice President Garner was asked by Roosevelt. Before Garner accepted, he made an agreement covering three things:

"In the first place, in order to serve the President and the country in that capacity, I did not feel I should make a public statement. I also suggested that we agree during my term in the vice presidency and association in the cabinet that I would not make any recommendation for public office unless I was asked for a recommendation.

"The third part of the agreement was that I would not make any recommendation as to national policy unless I was asked."

President Harding had extended a similar invitation to his vice president, Calvin Coolidge, who didn't have to worry about the first part of the Garner agreement. According to the record he was not heard at these meetings, and at many of them he was not even seen.

Vice President Dawes respectfully declined the invitation to attend cabinet meetings.

Curtis attended very seldom.

Garner Didn't Get Far Out of Touch

When Garner heard Mr. Dewey's statement regarding his conception of his running mate if he were elected, the sage of Uvalde said something to the effect that most of the time when he was vice president he was so worried that the Republican senators would put something over on him in case of a tie vote that he never dared to get more than a block away from the Capitol steps.

While it is quite true that the vice president is a member of the executive branch of the government, his chief function is presiding over the senate and casting a vote like any other member of the upper house in case of a tie.

If he were too closely associated with the executive branch of the government he might fail in his really important role, that of rallying support for administration measures in his own party and doing what he can to keep the majority party as favorably inclined to the White House as possible.

Most vice-presidents with a sense of humor have been careful not to take themselves too seriously. Vice President Marshall (under Wilson) made a considerable contribution to the climate of Washington by indulging in wisecracks and offering a sharp contrast to Wilson's less frivolous utterances.

Mr. Garner took a somewhat similar line when he said at the end of his first term: "The job is delightful. I like it. But it is entirely unimportant."

However, that was not entirely a flippant observation. Based on a long and successful political experience he felt that although the four potent offices were the presidency, the speakership of the house, the majority leadership of the senate and the chief justiceship, a vice president might at any time succeed to the presidency and, therefore, should be as carefully selected as the President.

Many less experienced people in public life and out of it have urged that the number two man on the party ticket should be expected to carry out a real assistant president's job. Heaven knows that the President needs assistance and the fact is generally accepted that a leader who cannot delegate responsibility should not himself be entrusted with it.

In recent years when it was realized that the man in the White House had a literally killing job, efforts have been made to provide assistance. The project was seriously undertaken, and perhaps if the theory set forth in the Brownlow report of 1937 had been carried out as intended, the effort might have been successful.

Originally it was intended that the presidential advisers should be a group of highly paid experts, with no political affiliations or passionate devotion to any cause or crusade. The only passion they were supposed to possess was one for anonymity.

But congress cut out the appropriation for their salaries and the result was the selection of brilliant and devoted young enthusiasts who, whatever they may have done for the New Deal, never seemed to achieve the authority which would have made it possible for them to take over the responsibility for presidential decisions—even in their own respective fields. Few could have been described as experts.

Political Following Might Cause Clash

A real assistant president would have to develop a certain following. That following could not help but take on the color of a political entity and, therefore, by its very nature, run head-on against the presidential authority itself.

Warren was generally considered a wise choice as a candidate and a strong one. A leader in his own right. Many Democrats, thinking with the natural wishfulness to be expected, predicted that if he were elected vice president, the tail might wag the dog—or, at least, might be inclined to register approval at its end of the avenue while the head was growling at the other end of the avenue—or vice versa.

Garner broke with Roosevelt, not merely because he disapproved of the third term, but because he was fundamentally opposed to many of the President's policies, if not to his basic political philosophy.

In the chamber of the upper house, Garner breathed a far more conservative air than that which circulated through the study and executive offices at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue. And it was more congenial to him.

But—when a vice president's political theories don't coincide with those of his boss in the White House, administrative bills are not likely to become laws.

However, no such differences of opinion are likely to harass the Truman-Barkley team. The two men see pretty much eye-to-eye politically at least. And their respective jobs will be made easier by the fact that they have such tremendous Democratic backing in house and senate for the policies, both domestic and foreign, that they wish to promote.

And although it may be hard for Barkley to accustom himself to the relative tranquility of the vice presidential job, he doesn't have to worry about being lost in the shuffle.

Not many former vice presidents are remembered for statesmanship — Calhoun is recalled mainly because he quit the job after quarreling with President Jackson, and Thomas R. Marshall for his clever crack that "what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar," Charles G. Dawes for his pipe, and so on.

But Barkley has already made his mark. He deserves a pleasant four-year sojourn presiding over the upper house which he has served so long and well.

Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

IT WAS a bright spot, among many other bright spots, to run across Rip Miller again at Annapolis. Rip, if you can't remember that far back, was one of the Seven Mules who supported the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame some 20 odd years ago.

Grantland Rice

The Seven Mules were [illegible]tionally [illegible]line, mere [illegible]overshadowed in the matter of publicity by Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden. Rip can still tell you about the time the Seven Mules stopped Ernie Nevers and Stanford on the one-yard line with four shots at the goal.

"Everyone knows what the football situation is," Rip said. "The first job is to get the material. This is the big scramble, and don't let anybody tell you they don't go after material just as keenly in one section as they do in another.

"The colleges don't pay, but the alumni do, and I mean every conference. Big Nine and all. This is something I can prove.

"What is coaching?" Rip asked. "Ninety per cent of coaching is the material you have. I get a laugh when I read about certain great coaches who only happen to have the best material. A dozen coaches could win with that sort of material. And win just as easily. Maybe two dozen coaches could do the same."

Rip Knows the Answers

Rip has been around a long time, and if he doesn't know the answer, who does? He is 100 per cent right about coaches and material. He was also right about the hypocrisy of so many of the spotless leagues who are after every good football player in sight. Especially where they have football scholarships. And a big cash reserve.

"We have a tough job at Navy," Rip said. "The course is hard, both mentally and physically with so many long working hours a day, there isn't much time left for football. It is all tired concentration.

"We have an outstanding star as a rookie. He's really something. He's leaving—can't take it. We've got the greatest bunch of young fellows here you ever saw. Not many football players. Great officer material.

"Too many good football players today want it easy. Good pay and little work. It's a good job, if you can get it. Only we can't offer them any such set-ups."

One answer is they are aiming for the Bears, Eagles, Yankees, Giants, etc. Maybe $20,000 a year for playing 15 or 20 minutes a game. As long as pro owners remain the suckers they have been so far.

• • •

Rose Bowl Contestants

Three of the four major bowls are all set for a big show.

The Cotton bowl, able to handle 65,000, has S M.U. as the major attraction.

The Sugar bowl, now a 73,000 attraction, can look over the field—North Carolina, Georgia Tech, Georgia, Missouri or possibly Tulane.

The Orange bowl, up around the 60,000 mark, will have two of the best teams in the country from the unbeaten and untied list. Certainly the Sugar and Orange bowls won't suffer with five or six strong teams waiting to be tapped or tagged.

This brings us to the Rose bowl. Michigan, the present champion, can't go. Neither can Illinois, now one of the stronger Big Nine teams.

It begins to look as if Northwestern would be the Big Nine selection. Michigan has already crushed Northwestern 28 to 0. Notre Dame will do the same. Ohio State, Minnesota and Illinois have already been grounded too many times.

This takes us to the west coast. California looks to be the best team in that sector. If California goes through unbeaten, will the Golden Bears be willing to meet Northwestern? This depends on how much or how little pride the West coast has left. It's a joke situation.

Other Contenders, Too

Now there's another Rose bowl angle. Oregon, beaten 14 to 0 by Michigan, barely able to get by Southern California and St. Mary's, a one-point scramble, only has a few more hurdles left.

Oregon hasn't lost a conference game. Oregon can lead California by seven conference wins to six, and thereby get the Rose bowl vote under a rule which favors the team that has been without a bowl bid for the longer time. This is a perfect comic opera situation, or could be. This would leave California, possibly the best team developed on the West coast in many years, out of the Rose bowl.

It would bring together Oregon and Northwestern, which would plant the famous Rose bowl in number four position among the major bowls.

ASK ME ANOTHER?

A General Quiz

The Questions

1. What fabulous lost body land will soon be searched for radar?
2. How many descendants the Mayflower colonists are th in this country?
3. Which ball game has highest forfeit score?
4. Was Abraham Lincoln only President of the U. S. b in a log cabin?
5. What is a bird's tempe ture?

The Answers

1. The legendary continent Atlantis.
2. About 61 million.
3. Baseball. The score of a feited baseball game is 9-0.
4. No, there were six othe Jackson, Polk, Buchanan, G field, Arthur and Harding.
5. From 104 to 110 degr Fahrenheit.

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMEN

AUTOS, TRUCKS & ACCESS

REO 1946, 19BHS, 8:25 tires, 2 spe axle, hoist stock rack, gr bo radio, heater. Exc. cond. Call or wr ORLIE BESLER - Cascade, PRICED TO SELL, 1944 Portable Ham Mill mounted on 1936 Chev truck MI PRODUCE STATION, Scranton, Iowa.

FARMS AND RANCHES

CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FREE IN FORMATION on farm settlement opportuniti Fertile soils. Reasonably priced B C Bowort Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station, S Paul, Minn.

FARM FOR SALE: 160 ACRES finest of practically all cleared. One mile from Oak, Florida. ½ mile of paved road. tric and phone service. Small tenant h and small barn. $35 acre. Easy terms. BRUCE MARTIN
585 N.E. 102nd St. - Miami,

HELP WANTED—MEN

WANTED—BOY—16. Work at natio known rabbitry. Pleasant work with ra and poultry. Slope Rabbitry, Montezum

INSTRUCTION

TRADE TRAININ
DAY OR EVENING SCHOOL
Air Conditioning, Body and Dent, Carpentry, Electricity, Lithography, Plumbing, Radio, Refrigeration, Architectural Draw, Automobile Repair, Mechanical Drawin, Machine Shop Pract, Pattern Making, Power Plant Operat, Welding
Ranken is approved for training vet ans under the G. I. Bill of Rights. I an endowed trade school founded 1907. Visitors are welcome.
Telephone FRanklin 0233 or write
The David Ranken, Jr., Sch of Mechanical Trades
4431 Finney Avenue, St. Louis 13,

POSTMASTERS? Yes, there will und edly be many new postmasters appo during 1949. Write immediately for d on Civil Service examinations requir FRANKLIN INSTITUTE
Dept. 1170-J - Rochester,

MISCELLANEOUS

WRITE FOR FREE CATALOGUE sh outstanding Curtain values for your Save 35-50%. THE CURTAIN HOUSE, 7, 201 N. Bemiston, Clayton 5, Mo.

LETZ MILL NO. 370
Shopworn, Below Wholesale.
WALL IMPL. CO., Woodward, Io

MATCH AND PROD. Loc sepa towns, N. W. Iowa Highway 30. Ha 35,000 cap. Priced reas. Produce profitable bus. B. A. MAC DONA Scranton, Ia.

REAL ESTATE—BUS. PR

FORCED TO SELL on account of my modern food store and locker terms if desired. Write
HENRY MARTIN, Box 626, Pierce,

RETIRE TO $8,000 YEARLY ASSU INCOME IN SUNNY TULARE, CA Buy this ALL MODERN COTTAGE C income property, 2 years old, 9 un 2 large, 2 R. Bungs., wood const., front, on busy #99 Hiway.
Only $55,000.
Might trade for farm. Owner wants court out here.
BOX 974 - Tulare

REAL ESTATE—HOUS

California. 2-bedrm. home, 5 acres in Oranges, berries, ideal climate. $9,000. M. A. Summs, Bloomington, Cal. R. 1,

Buy U. S. Savings Bon

SO FAST..PURE..DEPENDA
St. Joseph ASPI
WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER A

Promptly Relieves BABY'S COUGH (from a cold) Child's Mild For average baby's skin MUSTERO

WNU—N

HIGH-SCHOOL GRADUA

NURSING IS A PROUD PROFESSION!

—many opportunities for gradu fine hospitals, public health,
—leads to R. N.
—a well-prepared nurse need n without a job or an income.
—open to girls under 35, high graduates and college girls.
—ask for more inform at the hospital whe would like to enter n

POLLING THE VOLTS

Strides Made in Production of Electricity

While the output of electricity has more than doubled in the past eight years and has been rising to new record heights for each successive month, the unit cost to consumers is less than before the war.

In a recapitulation of strides made by the industry, an article in the November issue of "Business Comment," bulletin of the Northern Trust company, states that power production during the first nine months of 1948 was about 11 per cent above the corresponding period in 1947. Output in 1947 was 15 per cent above 1946.

The electric power industry now serves more than 40 million customers, contrasted with 29.1 million customers as of December 31, 1935, an increase of more than one-third.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS
by Lynn Chambers

Glorify the Savory Turkey!
(See Recipes Below)

Thansgiving Topics

THANKSGIVING IS ONE of the portant feast days of the year, d in a sense the beginning the holiday ason. Let's e it hearty, y, full of ks and cheer ce everyone ects a big t on the table the special oc- n, plan it carefully and start ing on it in advance so every- can be picture perfect. Plan ll white or ivory cloth and nap- as a simple background for the e. Have your glasses sparkling, er shining and the china washed rpic and span neatness.

* * *

F YOU WANT to have a first rse, plan an easy soup like m of mushroom or asparagus celery, a clear soup made beand. Here's a baked oyster that makes a nice appetizer:

Baked Oysters

e four to six oysters for each ng. Open the shells, cover oyswith Thousand Island dressing sprinkle with a sharp grated erican cheese. Bake until heated gh and the cheese is melted browned. Serve in the shells crisp crackers.

For the turkey, allow from three-quarters to one cup of bread crumbs for each pound of bird. Here's an interesting stuffing you'll like for variety:

Apple Sausage Stuffing
(For 12 pound turkey)

pound pork sausage links cups bread cubes tablespoons minced onion
Salt to taste teaspoon pepper tablespoons minced parsley tart apples, diced tablespoons sugar

sausage in thin slices. Saute add other ingredients. Toss and stuff bird.

To Roast Turkey

20 minutes to each pound sting time, using a moderate egree) oven. Baste frequent- If turkey becomes too dark, with water-moistened cheese-

Cranberry Salad
(Serves 8)

nd cranberries
rel oranges
sugar
kage lime-flavored gelatin boiling water diced celery chopped nutmeats

cranberries and oranges food chopper. Add sugar stand for two hours, stirring tly. Dissolve gelatin in boiler. When cool, add the fruit , celery and nuts. Pour into and chill until firm.

ed Stuffed Sweet Potatoes
(Serves 6)

ium-sized sweet potatoes chopped walnuts tablespoons butter spoon salt en marshmallows shredded pineapple
ce of 1 orange

the potatoes until tender, op them out of the shells. the pulp well, adding the alt and orange juice. Stir

AYS:

ntrast to Menus
eful Planning

o food combinations are so ether because of contrast , texture and color that the ens more satisfying. Here e foods you'll like for famertaining:

et potato casserole with makes a delicious main Creamed cabbage adds furist, and an apple dessert the right finish.

THANKSGIVING MENU

*Baked Oysters
*Roast Turkey with Apple-Sausage Stuffing
Mashed Potatoes
*Baked Sweet Potatoes
*Broccoli au Gratin
or Baked Squash with Peas
*Cranberry Salad Relishes
*Finger Rolls Beverage
*Pumpkin Pie
*Recipe Given.

in nuts and pineapple, making sure of getting an equal distribution. Refill shells with this mixture. Cut the marshmallows into small pieces and spread over the tops. Bake in a hot (375-degree) oven until brown.

Broccoli au Gratin
(Serves 6)

Use one pound of broccoli. Select stalks with dark green, tightly closed buds. Cook in boiling, salted water until easily pierced with fork. Drain. Make one cup thin white sauce, using one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour and one cup milk. Place broccoli in buttered casserole, pour over the white sauce, top with buttered bread crumbs and grated American cheese. Bake until cheese melts.

Baked Squash With Green Peas

Select small squash, split and bake until tender Fill with cooked green peas, seasoned and buttered, and sprinkle with crumbled bacon.

Pumpkin Pie
(Makes 2 9-inch pies)

3 cups steamed and strained pumpkin or 1 large can of pumpkin
1 cup light brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 tablespoons molasses
¼ teaspoon powdered cloves
3 teaspoons cinnamon
3 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups scalded milk

Mix ingredients in order given and bake in crust-lined pie plates. Set pie on bottom shelf of oven (450-degree) for 10 minutes, then move pie to middle shelf and reduce heat to moderate (350-degree) and bake for 40 minutes or until a silver knife comes out clean.

As a variation for pumpkin pie, add one teaspoon of grated orange rind to the filling before baking, if desired.

Finger Rolls
(Refrigerator)

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons lard
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups boiling water
2 yeast cakes
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar
2 eggs, beaten light
1½ pounds flour

Dissolve first four ingredients into boiling water. Let cool. Dissolve the yeast and sugar into the lukewarm water Combine first two mixtures, add the eggs. Add one-half of the flour and beat thoroughly, for 10 minutes. Add remaining flour and beat until mixture blisters. Brush top with melted butter, cover and place in refrigerator until mixture doubles. (Four to six hours) Shape into rolls. Let rise for two to three hours before baking in a hot (400-degree) oven for 10 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown.

Released by WNU Features.

With the blandness of veal as a main dish, you can properly add contrast with an onion soup as first course, and a cottage pudding with chocolate sauce as dessert.

Whitefish is so mild that it can easily be served with a piquant shrimp sauce, spinach or beets as a vegetable, and a tart lemon dessert.

With a simple baked ham dinner, serve oven browned potatoes and green peas with butter sauce, lemon or pineapple ice or sherbet completes the menu.

The Once Over
by H.I. Phillips

REAL CAMPAIGN HEROES

The real standouts for real courage, strength of purpose and endurance in the presidential campaign were not Thomas E. Dewey or Harry S. Truman.

—•—

They were Mrs. Dewey, Mrs Truman and Margaret Truman. What the women folks of a presidential candidate had to endure amounted to "heroism beyond the call of duty," and there should be a medal for it. Nobody got knocked around on the altars of patriotism more than these girls

—•—

There was the great burden of having to smile, to laugh, to seem unruffled and happy when everybody knows that no woman gets a kick out of rattling around railroad yards day after day and night after night and to what purpose? To hear their OWN husbands talk!

—•—

How things want to pot around the house! How the dust accumulated! How the dirt piled up behind the doors! And the mixup over the laundry! The milk that wasn't stopped! The things that happened to Fido!

—•—

Mrs. Truman, Margaret and Mrs. Dewey "seen their duty and they done it." They seemed pleased, calm and cooperative. No photo showed a frown on their faces, which is more than could be said for their husbands. They conveyed the idea, "How wonderful that fate has cast me in this glorious role!" But what they really were thinking was, "If this cockeyed ordeal goes on one more hour I'll scream," and, "If the old man drags me onto another platform I'll come out against him myself!"

—•—

Their thoughts if recorded might have run like this:

"Another terrible day of it! . . . How long does this sort of thing go on? . . . Suppose a man does get to be President of the United States, what does his wife get? . . . Indigestion! Circles under her eyes! A loathing for railroad trains and cracked hotel mirrors!

—•—

"From log cabin to White House! . . . That's what a man likes to dream of. . . . But the trip the wife has to make! . . From home comforts and regular meals to switchyard blues, screwball cooking and hurriedly applied mascara! . . . I want to confess something. . . . Everytime I heard my old man begin a speech with 'I am very happy to be here tonight,' I could have hit him with a chair! . . . That isn't what he told me after we got back on the train!

—•—

"If I don't see another motorcycle policeman in 10 years it will be wonderful! . . . I developed a phobia against train schedules, ice-water coolers, porters, conductors, auto cavalcades and the rattle of manuscripts. . . . And that husband of mine left out the one campaign promise I wanted. . . . A pledge to get a law against cold toast, awful coffee and defective Pullman plumbing!

—•—

"Thank heaven it's over. . . . Now I can get into a house-wrapper, disconnect the door bell, yawn when I wish, and call up the neighbors and ask how all the radio soap operas came out in my absence.

* * *

Yoo Hoo, Eric!

"Moments of suspense as a beautiful girl stares into his bestial eyes! . . . Moments of excitement as a killer realizes the enormity of his crime! 'You're everything that is bad but I never loved a man like this before,' she says. Don't miss 'Kiss the Blood Off My Hands.' "—From the announcement of a new movie.

—•—

Where do people get the idea that juvenile delinquency is in any way aided by the movies?

* * *

Joe Stalin now comes out with a statement that the rest of the world is desperately trying to bring on another global war but that he will oppose it to his last doubletalk.

—•—

Joe says that the trouble is that other nations BREAK THEIR AGREEMENTS! Take it from there, Vishinsky!

* * *

We liked the reply a sweepstakes winner says his wife made when he woke up early and told his wife he had just dreamed his horse had finished second. "Aw go back to sleep and dream him in first," she replied.

* * *

Can You Remember?

Away back when you could use a nickel?

* * *

New York is having its annual horse show. Once a year the people in any big city like to go down and see something they could buy without waiting three years.

* * *

"G. O. P. Puts $16,500 Into Races."—N. Y. Times.

—•—

Everybody's playing 'em.

MIRROR of your MIND
Bad Taste Questions
By Lawrence Gould

Are "personal questions" in bad taste?

Answer: I was brought up to believe so, and I've learned since that they defeat their own purpose. Trying to pry information out of people which they do not want to give you not only antagonizes them, but makes sure they'll tell you just as little as they possibly can. On the other side, most people want to talk about themselves and will seize the first opportunity to do so if they do not feel you have an axe to grind in listening to them. The less curious you seem, the more you'll find out by what psychiatrists call the "passive technique."

Are most people honest in small matters?

Answer: Rather more than half are, report a group of psychologists who dropped postal cards or stamped and addressed letters on the sidewalks of several cities. Eighty-five per cent of simple letters were mailed by the finders, but the figure dropped to 54 per cent when the letters contained slugs the size of a 50-cent piece. I wonder whether more people might not have been honest if the amount had been larger. A sum which is "no real loss" has a special appeal to the wish to get something for nothing.

Can a child be spoon-fed too soon?

Answer: Yes, says Dr C. Anderson Aldrich, professor of pediatrics of the Mayo Foundation. He cites this as characteristic of how we "expect young children to behave in ways for which they are not ready," since often the muscles of the lips and tongue have not been properly developed at the time we ask a child to adopt this new way of eating. "Premature attempts to train children in bowel and bladder control" may be still worse. Because they can't meet our demands, "children become confused, resistant and subject to emotional storms."

LOOKING AT RELIGION By DON MOORE

THE CHURCH
FRED REVELS OF NORWALK, OHIO, WAS ORDAINED AS THE MINISTER OF THE CHURCH OF GOD IN THAT CITY - AT THE AGE OF 80!
PLAYS AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN ACTUALLY SAFEGUARDING MENTAL HEALTH ACCORDING TO A RECENT REPORT BY THE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF MENTAL HYGIENE.
THE WORD 'RELIGION' DOES NOT OCCUR ANYWHERE IN THE OLD TESTAMENT.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Weak Heart Can Rest Too Much

By Dr. James W. Barton

WE ARE hearing and reading so much about coronary thrombosis (occlusion) that we may forget about the old-fashioned disease known as congestive heart failure, in which the heart muscle itself has become weak and is unable to pump sufficient blood for the patient's needs.

While a leaking valve may be putting extra work on the heart muscle because it has to pump some blood twice, most cases are caused by infection which not only damages the lining of the heart and valves but also weakens the heart muscle itself.

When the heart muscle begins to fail and congestion occurs, there will be swollen ankles, breathlessness, enlargement of the liver and general weakness. Because of these symptoms and because the patient is more comfortable while at rest, he is not inclined to be on his feet or do any walking.

Should the patient with chronic congestion of the heart rest "all" the time?

In "Medical Clinics of North America," Drs. Abraham Jezer and Harry Gross, Montefiore hospital, New York, N. Y., state that bed rest is necessary during acute heart failure, but the rest should not be too long as it causes stagnation of the blood in dependent parts of the body, increases congestion of the blood in the lungs and it of itself will not cure the patient.

Less rest should be given at the end of three weeks' bed rest, and the patient should return to his occupation if the work is light.

Salt and the amount of fluids should be controlled and food so arranged that there is no gain in weight. Rest periods are necessary but may be taken by increasing the time spent in bed at night and by staying in bed part of each week end.

"Home treatment and light employment are satisfactory and even preferable in chronic congestive heart failure."

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

While everybody has a light layer of fat under his skin, the overweight has a thick layer of fat there. This means that the heat manufactured in the body cannot easily get to the surface to be thrown off.

* * *

The use of drugs is not a safe method of reducing and should not be used except under a physician's guidance.

Fat acts as an insulator, as in a thermos bottle, keeping the heat of the body from being lost so readily. The fat individual doesn't really need as much food as the thin person to keep the body warm and the body processes well heated.

* * *

Everybody is interested in health, as good health is life's greatest human asset.

NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS

Gay Apron Has Circular Skirt Crocheted Motif Prize Winner

Kitchen Apron

A WONDERFUL idea for a kitchen shower or for your own apron wardrobe! This handsome circular skirt apron is so easy to make and does a good job of protecting pretty dresses. Gay colorful tulips are embroidered in simple cross stitch.

* * *

To obtain hot iron transfer for embroidery design, tissue pattern for medium size, step-by-step instructions for embroidering and sewing apron (Pattern No. 5798) send 20 cents in coin. YOUR NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Lacy Tablecloth

THIS lovely five-inch motif can be used for a lacy tablecloth, bedspread or as a long runner as pictured. Crochet it in white or ecru cotton. It's a design that has won many prizes; you'll look a long time before you find a prettier one.

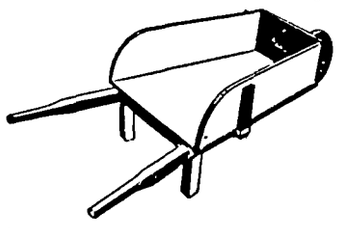
* * *

To obtain complete crocheting instructions, stitch illustrations and full directions for the Prize Runner (Pattern No. 5864) send 20 cents in coin. YOUR NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

SEWING CIRCLE NEEDLEWORK
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 20 cents for pattern.
No._____
Name_____
Address_____

Child's Wheelbarrow Is Constructive Toy

CHILDREN love equipment that looks like the real thing. This wheelbarrow is an exact duplicate, measuring 46 inches overall. Since the sides are removable, the youngster can help with many gardening tasks. Be sure to permit the child to help build this wheelbarrow. It will provide many constructive hours and tend to make him more careful when using it.



The full size pattern offered below takes all the mystery out of building Merely cut each piece of wood according to the pattern, then assemble it exactly as step-by-step directions indicate.

No special tools or skills are required. Anyone who knows the difference between a hammer and a saw should be able to build this wheelbarrow in a minimum of time.

* * *

Send 25c for Wheelbarrow Pattern No. 66 to Easi-Bild Pattern Company, Dept. W, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Household Hints

If the moths in your home seem to be coming out of nowhere, check the carpet sweeper. The wool picked up from rugs makes a perfect home for moths.

—•—

In cooking tough meat, add an acid, such as tomato or lemon, and it will tenderize the meat.

—•—

To clean lampshades made of metallic paper or genuine parchment apply a mixture of one part turpentine and 10 parts mineral oil with a soft cloth. Wipe off gently but thoroughly.

—•—

Try adding a little peanut butter to the melted butter you use on popcorn.

—•—

To prevent bacon from curling when it is fried, lay the slices in cold water for a minute before cooking. Drain on a paper towel.

When children are puny...

SCOTT'S EMULSION HELPS 'EM GROW STRONG

Weakly children who need more natural A&D Vitamins begin to grow and develop when you give them good-tasting Scott's Emulsion every day. It helps promote strong bones, sound teeth, a husky body—helps 'em fight off colds! Scott's is a HIGH ENERGY FOOD TONIC — a "gold mine" of natural A&D Vitamins and energy-building natural oil. TASTES GOOD—THEY LOVE IT! Economical! Buy today at your drug store.

MORE than just a tonic— it's powerful nourishment!

SCOTT'S EMULSION
HIGH ENERGY TONIC

PILES Hurt Like Sin! But Now I Grin

Thousands change groans to grins. Use a doctors' formula to relieve discomfort of piles. Sent druggists by noted Thornton & Minor Clinic. Surprising QUICK palliative relief of pain, itch, irritation. Tends to soften, shrink swelling. Use doctors' way. Get tube Thornton & Minor's Rectal Ointment or Rectal Suppositories today. Follow label directions. For sale at all drug stores everywhere.

KEMP'S BALSAM
FOR COUGHS DUE TO COLDS

For Your Future Buy U. S. Savings Bonds

HAS YOUR DOCTOR SAID: "REDUCE SMOKING"?

Then ask him about SANO, the safer cigarette with

51.6%* LESS NICOTINE

PLAIN OR CORK TIP

Not a Substitute—Not Medicated

Sano's scientific process cuts nicotine content to half that of ordinary cigarettes. Yet skillful blending makes every puff a pleasure.

FLEMING-HALL TOBACCO CO., INC., N. Y.

* Average based on continuing tests of popular brands

YOUR DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT SANO CIGARETTES

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA

Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED

Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Dolder, of Gowrie, entertained at their home on Thanksgiving, Mrs. Winie Kothenbeutel, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barz and Myrna, Ronald Barz and family, Harold Kothenbeutel and family and Rosalie Rosendahl, all of Klemme, and Dean Merkel of Des Moines.

Miss Mary Egeland, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Egeland, of Northwestern University, has spent the Thanksgiving vacation visiting with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynford Back entertained to dinner at their home east of town on Thanksgiving Day: Mrs. Verle Keraus, Mickey and Kaye of Garner; Frank Kluckhohn and son, Franklin; Kenneth Kluckhohn and family; Mrs. Blanche Stille; Ben Lilljenberg; Franklin Buseman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Back and sons, Lynford and Bill.

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Missman were dinner guests Thanksgiving day at the Gregory home in Des Moines.

Mrs. Mildred Day entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Bert Mathews' birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dorance Day and Gary and Kyle Edglington of Mason City, Mrs. Petersen and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mathews of Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Polsdofer entertained their children and families at a Thanksgiving dinner at their home Thursday. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bier and son of Goodell; Mr. and Mrs. Art Hanson and children, and "Bud" Polsdofer of Garner; and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rice and children of Rockwell.

M. Y. F.
BAKE SALE
Saturday
Dec. 4
Kluckhohn's Store

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

SHOP EARLY
ONLY 21 SHOPPING DAYS UNTIL CHRISTMAS!
Give him a carton of his favorite Cigarettes, tobacco or a case of beer.
Meet Your Farmer Friends At
Joe's Place

Klemme Food Mkt.
Friday & Saturday Specials
Save The Self-Serve Way!

VEL
3 For . . . $1.00

HILEX per gallon ------- 45c
OLD DUTCH CLEANSER can --- 09c
SWAN SOAP 2 large bars ----- 27c
TOMATOES per can ------ 17c
TANG Special At per can ---------- 47c
DEL MONTE FRUIT COCKTAIL Week End Special No. 2½ can 39c
MALT-O-MEAL per box ------ 27c
HERSHEY'S COCOA per box -- 19c
MONARCH STRAWBERRY PRESERVES Special At per jar -------- 43c
QUAKER YELLOW CORN MEAL Only small box ----- 14c
Hamburger LB. 42c
RICE KRISPIES 2 boxes ------- 25c
Pork Chops LB. 49c
Beef Steak lb. 69c
PORK & BEANS VAN CAMPS 2 cans .35c
RITZ CRAX 1 pound box ------ 29c
PIC L JOYS per jar --------- 37c
AMERICAN LYE 3 cans ----- 19c
GRIDDLE MIX per pkg. ---- 35c
Nash's Coffee 2 Lb. Cannister $1.00
OXYDOL 3 for $1
Bring Us Your Eggs CASH or TRADE
Klemme Food Market
Klemme, Iowa
We Reserve The Right To Limit

OFFICIAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Town Clerk of the Incorporated Town of Klemme, Iowa at his office in said town until 10 00 A. M. on the 9th day of December, 1948 for furnishing material and labor for the construction of concrete pavement widening with integral curb as more fully described in the plans and specifications therefore now on file in the office of the Town Clerk.

The extent of the work involved is the following:

Division II—Section A— Pavement Widening With Integral Curb

The construction of 2,465 square yards of concrete pavment with integral curb and 820 square feet of replacing sidewalks in, along and upon the following streets in the Town of Klemme, Iowa, to-wit

On Main Street from the East line of Second Street to the center line of Third Street, a width of 16 feet in front of Lots 4 and 5, Block 12, Original Town and a width of 10 feet in front of other properties, on Main Street from the center line of Third Street to the County road running South-North on the East Section line, Section 31, T95N, R23W, a width of 5 feet in front of all properties; and including the intersections on Main Street at Third, Fourth and Fifth Streets.

The kind of material, size and amount required for which bids will be received are approximately as follows:

Sufficient material to lay approximately 2,465 square yards of concrete pavement six inches thick with integral curb and 820 square feet of replacing side walks four inches thick.

The concrete to be made of such material and to be mixed, placed and cured as provided in the plans and specifications therefor now on file in the Office of the Town Clerk of Klemme, Iowa.

All work is to be done in strict compliance with the plans and specifications prepared by Rowat and Murray, engineers, now on file in the Office of the Town Clerk of Klemme, Iowa.

All work to be commenced on or before May 23rd, 1949, and to be fully completed on or before June 18th, 1949.

All bids must be accompanied in a separate envelope by a check drawn on and certified by a Bank in Iowa payable to the Treasurer of said Town in the amount of ten per cent of the bid submitted which certified check will be held as security that the bidder will enter into a contract for the construction of the work and will furnish the required bond and in case the successful bidder shall fail or refuse to enter into contract and furnish required bond his certified check may be cashed and be retained by said Town as agreed and liquidated damages.

Payment Will Be Made To The Contractor As Follows:

Division II—Section A—Pavement widening with integral curb Payment to the contractor will be made in special assessment certificates, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, issued in accordance with, the provisions of Chapter 396 of the Code of Iowa of 1946, to the extent that the cost of said improvement is assessable by law against the property abutting upon or adjacent to said improvement, and against the real estate and personal property of the railway and street railway companies whose tracks, rights-of-way or station grounds are located thereon, abut thereon, or are adjacent thereto, if any there may be, said certificates to be issued and delivered to the Contractor after the work is completed and accepted by this Council; any deficiency between the amount of the contract price and the amount of said certificates to be paid in warrants drawn on the general or other fund available for the year beginning April 1st, 1949.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a bond in an amount equal to 100 per cent of the contract price in the form to be supplied by said Town, said bond to be issued by responsible sureties approved by the Town Council and guarantee the faithful performance of the contact and the terms and conditions therein contained and shall guarantee the prompt payment of all materials and labor and protect and save harmless the Town from claims and damages of any kind caused by the operation of the contractor and shall also guarantee maintenance of said concrete in good repair for a period of three years from the date of the acceptance thereof by the Town Council

By virtue of statutory authority a preference will be given to products and provisions grown and coal produced within the State of Iowa.

All proposals must be made on blanks furnished by the Town Clerk, and each bidder will be required to state his prices for doing all the items in each section on which he makes a bid.

The Town reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, unless all bids are rejected, or the council for cause shall find it necessary to throw out one or more bids.

Copies of the plans and specifications are on file with the Town Clerk, Klemme, Iowa, and with the Engineers Rowat & Murray at Belmond, Iowa.

All bids will be opened in open council at a meeting to be held at the council chamber on the day and hour above fixed, and contract will be awarded at that time or at such subsequent time to which the Council may adjourn.

Published by order of the Town Council of said Town, and dated at Klemme, Iowa this 22nd day of November, A. D., 1948.

A. R. ARNOLD,
Town Clerk.

(Publish Nov. 24, Dec. 1, 1948.)

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX AND ADMINISTRATOR

STATE OF IOWA, ss.
HANCOCK COUNTY No. 3200

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix and Administrator of the estate of George Born Deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

CLARA BARZ, Administratrix
RAYMOND BARZ, Administrator
B. C. BERGE, Attorney
Dated November 20, 1948.
RUTH HUGHES,
Clerk District Court

(Pub. Nov 24, Dec. 1-8, 1948)

ALARMS

Just after "Fire Prevention Week," Clarion's volunteer fire department answered 4 alarms in one afternoon.

MARRIED HERE SATURDAY

Le Roy Bamman of Klemme and Ursula Van Sickle of Mason City were married at the Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme, Saturday eveninng at eight o'clock. Robert Bamman, brother of the groom and Mrs. Wayne Nail, sister of the bride were witnesses. The Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch performed the single ring ceremony.

Miss Iris Rosendahl played several selections on the organ.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson and daughter, Oda, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lewis were dinner guests Thanksgiving day at the Kermit Schlei home.

Alice Mae Anderson spent her Thanksgiving vacation at the home of her parents, Jennings Anderson. Alice Mae is attending College at Iowa City this year.

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS
Osteopathis Physician
Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

AUCTIONEER
- FARM SALES
- HOUSEHOLD GOODS
- STOCK SALES

CALL CLARENCE SWALVE
Klemme - Iowa

For Quick Truck Delivery On
D.X PRODUCTS
Phone 149-R2
ERNEST HENSCHEN
Klemme, Iowa

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

Wednesday
DECEMBER 1
THE COUNTERFEITERS
With
JOHN SUTTON
And DORIS MERRICK

Thurs., Fri., Sat.
DECEMBER 2, 3, 4
THE BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES
MYRNA LOY
FREDRIC MARCH
DANA ANDREWS
For Best Years there will be one showing only each night due to the length of the picture.

Sun., Mon., Tues.
DECEMBER 5, 6, 7
IT'S LAUGHTER So Impish!
IT'S ROMANCE . . So Wonderful!
THE LUCK OF THE IRISH
Starring
TYRONE POWER
ANNE BAXTER
With
LEE J. COBB
CECIL KELLAWAY

Wednes, Thurs.
DECEMBER 8, 9
EDDIE CANTOR
JOAN DAVIS
In
IF YOU KNEW SUSIE

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF
Dead Stock
Phone
KLEMME ---------- 580
BELMOND ---------- 580
We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.
Belmond By-Products
"Your Home Plant"
Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa

XMAS GIFTS

THAT THE WHOLE FAMILY WILL ENJOY - - -
We suggest that you buy a Gift for the entire family this year:
- Record Changer Radio
- Electric Range
- Hot Water Heater
- Washing Machine
- Record Player
- Album of Records
- Electric Heating Pads
- Health Ray Lamp
- Deep Freeze Unit

$500 IN FREE GIFTS
Don't forget to ask us about our big Christmas Gift Offer.
Josten Appliance
Everything Electrical Klemme, Iowa

MROCK NEWS

..... Iris Rosendahl
Ed. ..... Donna Fjetland
chool Rep. ..... Maurice Trumbell Rep. .... Isabelle Gibbs
s ..... Robert Baack

the Chicken Pox have t up with you too, Mrs. ee! Mrs. Voetberg is now ing in place of Mrs. Anand all the high school
ets wishes her a speedy rey. dnesday the cooks treats to a good old-fashioned sgiving dinner at school, plete with cranberries and beef.

HONOR ROLL

e second six weeks is fin-and these are the students the grades deserving the attention. The highest et this time was 2 A's and
: For the Freshmen Glen er and Delores Theimann;
rs, Ruth Janssen; Seniors, a Fjetland. Next was 3 and 1 A, with Phyllis Boa Senior, earning that.
but not least, was those
g through with 4 B's.
men. Maxine Barz and lee Ridder; Sophomore, Jo Hummel; Junior, Sylvia
and.

JUNIOR NOTES

e Junior boys have finally the girls the party they them for selling tickets the class play. The boys them to the Belmond Junior Play which was the same they put on. They think cond did very well but it agreed upon unamimously he Junior Class, that theirs much better. (Who's cond?")

SOPHOMORE SHORTS

In biology the Sophomores have been learning about Arthropods, the most numerous animals on earth. They have found everything from flies to cray fish are included in this classification. Mrs. Voetberg has been their substitute teacher for Mrs. Andreae in biology.

Wednesday Mr. Randall surprised them with a short quiz in history. By the looks of most of their papers, they found they hadn't studied enough.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

This weeks interview is centered on Paula Goll, also known as Polly. She is 16 and her birthday is November 10. Her interest is school as her favorite subject is Bookkeeping and her favorite sport is basket ball. Her pet peeve is not being able to sit with Marge in study hall. (After all, there is a reason for most happenings such as that girls.) Her ambition is to be a dress designer. Roller skating and collecting movie stars pictures take up most of her spare time and right now, "Buttons and Bows" heads the list for favorite songs.

GRADE NEWS

Kindergarten News

Marilyn, Duane, Jerone and Rodney have been absent this week.

The following children have returned their dental cards:

Marcele Bachman, Delores Finnegan, Mary Ellen Isvik, Judy Jorgenson, Melva Johnson, Rodney Lass, Claudia Neuberger, Dean Neuberger, Darly Schlei, Keith Voights, Ellen Waddingham, Patricia Finnegan.

First and Second Grade News

We have been talking about the first Thanksgiving and colored pictures of Pilgrims. We drew pictures of the things we are thankful for and told the rest of the class about the pictures.

Eighteen dental cards have been returned. We hope we can get 100 percent in our room.

The first grade has finished, "Fun With Dick and Jane" and are now reading "Rides and Sides" and "Day In and Day Out." We hope to read many books.

Second grade has one more story in "Friends and Neighbors" and then we will be ready for new books.

Third and Fourth Grade News

Not very many of the boys and girls in our room had chicken pox before this year—but it didn't take long—several can now say they have had them.

Jeanne Barz, Carol Moe, Fonda Bier, and Martin Brinkman had perfect spelling papers for the past six weeks.

The fourth graders, in social studies, just finished a unit on Switzerland. In connection with the unit they saw a movie entitled "Children of Switzerland."

We displayed ten new books in our room during book week We also read and dramatized stories for the other grades. The first and second graders did the same for us.

MENU

Monday, Dec. 6:
Juice
Noodle Soup
Egg Salad Sandwich
Scalloped Corn
Pudding
Bread and Butter
Milk

Tuesday, Dec. 7:
Juice
Potatoes and Gravy
Meat Loaf
Beets
Peach Sauce
Bread and Butter
Milk

Wednesday, Dec. 8:
Juice
Beef Hash
Green Beans
Letluce
Apple Crisp
Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Milk

Thursday, Dec. 9:
Juice
Macaroni and Tomatoes
Weiner and Buns
Mixed Vegetables
Corn Bread and Honey
Extra Bread and Butter
Milk

Friday, Dec. 10:
Juice
Potatoes and Butter
Baked Fish Fillets
B Carrots
Jelly Bread
Milk

COLLISION

Last week Roy Glenn of near LeMars caught his finger in a corn-picker. His wife rushed him to town and ran smack into a truck. Nobody was hurt and Mr. Glenn finally got to the doctor.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE—PUREBRED BERKshire Boars. Vaccinated and eligible to register. 4 mi west, 3 mi. north of Klemme. Paul Zrostlik, Garner. (Dec. 1 tp)

FOR SALE—POLAND CHINA boars, choice of 25 head. The easy feeding, faster maturing kind. Priced to sell O. W. Friedow, phone Britt 4616. (tfc)

FOR SALE—80 ACRES CLARion and Webster soil, fair buildings. Located 2 mi. north, 4¼ mi east of Klemme. See Curtis Riehm, Garner (tfc)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO., Goodell, Iowa.

FOR SALE—NEW AND USED Sewing Machines. All kinds of Tredles, Cabintes and Portable Electrics. You'll find the finest selection here Our prices are lowest, compare. All repair work guaranteed See these machines at 1014 So. 4th Street, Clear Lake, Iowa. E T Neu (Nov. 24, Dec 15 tc)

HOUSE FOR SALE — FOUR rooms, bath, completely modern with automatic heat, automatic hot water, Location, Morningside Add. Two lots. Very reasonable. Melvin Schlei. (N24-Dec. 1-8 tp)

FOR SALE—MODERN THREEroom house with full basement, Frank Hougland. (tfc)

FOR SALE — BALED HAY Walter Neuberger, 5 mi. east of Klemme. (1tp)

FOR SALE — NEW VARIETY Hybrid Corn. Out yields all others. Guaranteed to please - to ripen. Agents wanted Batz Seed Farms, Mason City, Iowa. (J-7-p)

FOR SALE—TREADLE SEWing Machines, 29.50 and up One Portable Singer Electric like new, $69.50 and your old machine. See these at 1014 So 4th St., Clear Lake, Iowa. (tfc)

FOR SALE — OR TRADE A Crosley car for another larger car to pull house trailer Good Condition. Jim Wolfe at REA plant, Klemme. (1tp)

A POST CARD asking us to send you a complete list of our new and used pianos in Spinets, Grand and small or medium-size Uprights may save you $200.00. Critchett Piano Co., 1409 Forest, Des Moines, phone 4-8927 (1tc)

Miscellaneous

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident. (Oct. 1948 tp)

For Rent

FOR RENT—THREE ROOM house in Klemme, from Dec. 1 to March 1. Willard Fesseenden. (tfc)

Lost And Found

FOUND—TWO WRIST WATCHes. Owner may claim same by identifying and paying cost of this adv. Hancock Co. Coop. Oil Association. (1tc)

Liberty School No. 3 First On Dental Cards

The students in Liberty No. 3 rural school are the first school to report 100 percent return of dental cards for the school year 1948-49.

This school was 100 percent last year also and a gold star will be added to the certificate issued them at that time.

Miss Ruth Upmeyer, Garner is the teacher. We do congratulate Liberty No. 3 school and hope in the near future to have other schools report likewise.

Harriet Oxley, R. N.

SUN ISN'T SHINING

"Somewhere the sun is shining, somewhere the chidlren shout" . . . but not in Elkader, Iowa, where the high school football team lost its first game in five years to the Postville eleven. Elkader's 40 game winning streak was just short of a state record.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harson entertained to Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Albro of Rowan who are Mrs. Harson's parents. Rev. and Mrs. S. W Cunningham and son of Garner were also guests. Rev. Cunningham is the new Minister of the Methodist Church at Garner.

Mr. Andrew Wellemeyer of Springfield, Missouri; Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Bacon and children, JoAnn and Chuck of Lake Mills; and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hanson and daughter, Linda Ruth of Wesley enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner Thanksgiving Day at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wellemeyer They also celebrated Linda Ruth's 3rd birthday. Linda received many nice gifts.

Mr and Mrs. Fred Pringnitz entertained the following to a duck dinner at their home on Thanksgiving day Mrs. Ida Pringnitz; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pringnitz and family of Swaledale; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pringnitz, Beverly and Raymond of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Avron Krutlaro and Donald of Goodell; Mr. and Mrs Bernard Pringnitz and family of Britt; Miss Helen Pringnitz of Mason City; Mr. Geo. Schmock of Mason City; Daryl "Punky" Schlei of Klemme and Mr. Rudy Endorf also of Klemme.

Mr and Mrs. C A. Larsen, Mrs Marvin Isvik, Lavohn Caroline and Mary Ellen and Mrs. B. R Meyers of Mason City went to Garden City, Minnesota to help Mrs. Larsen's and Mrs. Meyer's father, Albert Yahnke celebrate his 78th birthday. They went by Amboy, Minn and took Mrs. E. J Stokesberry with them. In the afternoon, Mrs. Albert Fuller and Ruth from Amboy and Mrs. Everett Stokesberry and Jimmy from Garden City, and Mrs. Dale Stokesbarry of Good Thunder called.

Advertisement

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Why Dutch is Growing a Beard

The beard on Dutch Miller's chin don't mean that he's getting ready to play Santa Claus. He's simply laying off the election bet he lost to Cappy Swanson.

And while some folks allow it's all a lot of nonsense — like the whole ride that Cappy had to shave Dutch after last election — from where I sit, it's a mighty wholesome aftermath to a difference of opinion.

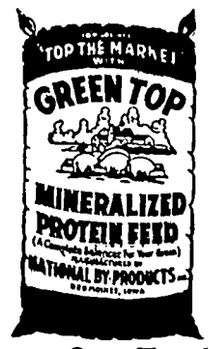
Because good Americans all take their politics and voting mighty seriously. But when the issue's settled, and the die is cast, they accept the verdict in a spirit of good humor.

And that's as it should be when it comes to any difference of opinion. Some folks vote for beer as their favorite beverage—others vote for cider. In fact, we all have differences of taste in almost everything! But that doesn't mean that we can't live together in a spirit of good fellowship.

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

DEAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED



Britt Rendering Co.
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22
WE PAY PHONE CHARGES
KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000
Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load
TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

SPECIALS ON
Tractor Tires
Regular Sure Grip
All Sizes
20% off
AS LONG AS THEY LAST
We now have passenger car tires—Mud and Snow—Sure Grip in all sizes
LET ME SUPPLY YOU WITH TIRES
One and Three-Quarters Miles South of Duncan
FRANK L. ZROSTLIK
BRITT, IOWA
5 mi. West, 4¼ mi. North of Klemme

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res. Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

Arthur Wellemeyer
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
—with long experince and best equipment.
PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE
Phone 23-R2 Day or Night
Klemme - Iowa

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

FENCING MATERIAL
NOW IN STOCK
AT OUR YARD

You can still build fence this fall. We now have in stock a good supply of Woven Wire and Steel Posts. Better come in and order what you may need.

HOG FEEDERS

We now have those 35 and 45 bushel Hog Feeders you have been looking for. They are dandies, too.

NORTHERN LUMBER COMPANY
LUMBER and BUILDING SUPPLIES
Lloyd Sherwood, Manager Phone 26

Terhufen's Corner Store
GIFT HEADQUARTERS

SHEAFFER'S
Statesman
ENSEMBLE
A gift of enduring beauty and utility. Pen, $10.00; Pencil, $4.00. In Persian Blue, Burnt Umber Brown or Classic Black. Sold separately or ensemble complete in gift box.
SHEAFFER'S
$14.00
no fed. tax.

Other Gift Items

The New SCHICK SUPER Electric Razor $21.00 is a gift he will enjoy for years. Other razors at lower prices.

Look Over Our Complete Line of Gifts and Decorations
The Corner Store
Klemme, Iowa
Glen Terhufen, Proprietor

We Are Now Taking Orders For FERTILIZER
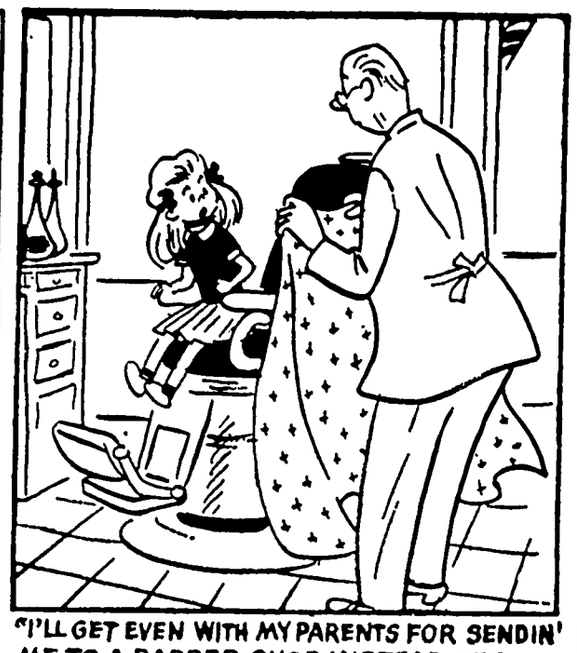
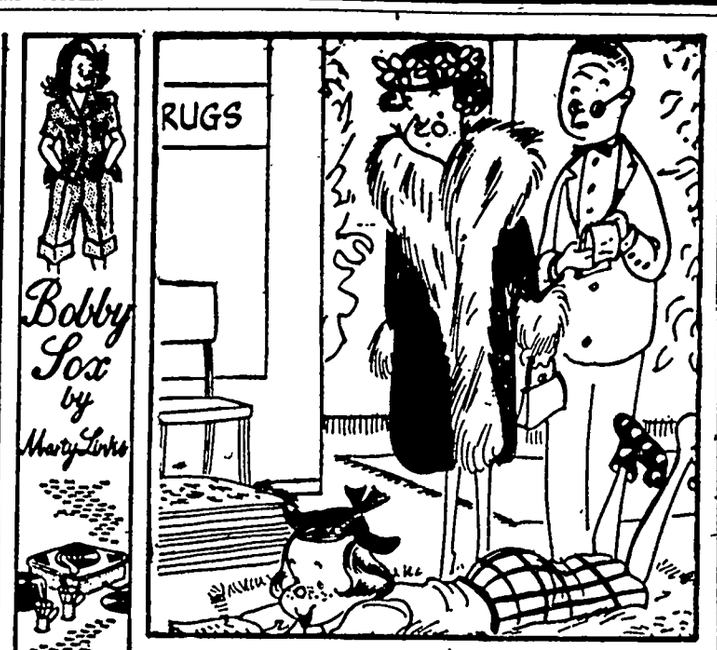
Give us a chance to furnish your requirements.
Klemme Coop. Grain Company
"The Farmers Elevator" Glen Bridges, Manager

Cross Town by Roland Coe



"I'LL GET EVEN WITH MY PARENTS FOR SENDIN' ME TO A BARBER SHOP INSTEAD OFA BEAUTY PARLOR-I'LL HAVE A CREW HAIRCUT!"

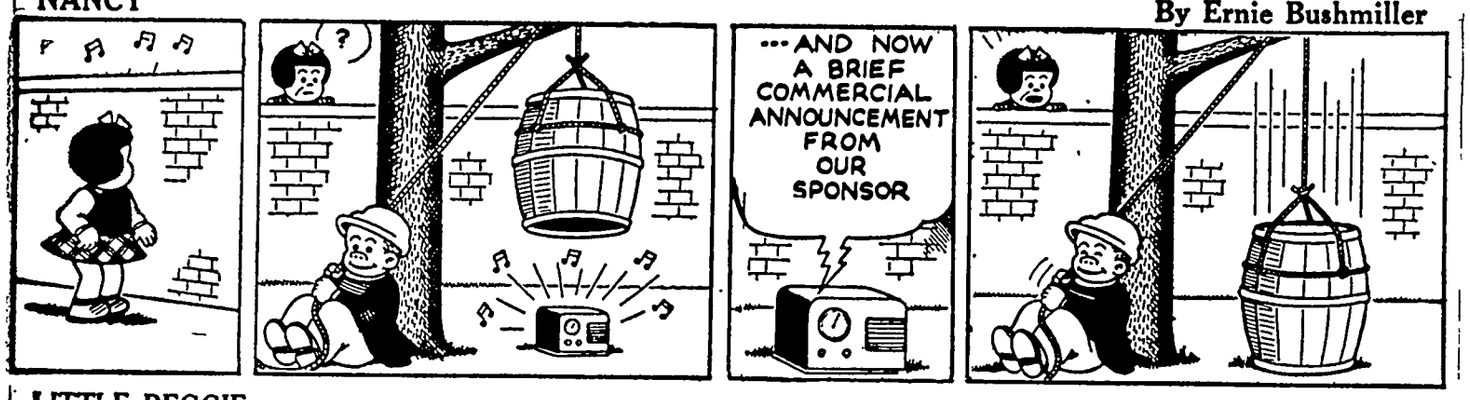
Bobby Sox by Mary Lewis



"THIS ONE WILL DO MOM--- JUST SOFT ENOUGH!"

NANCY

By Ernie Bushmiller



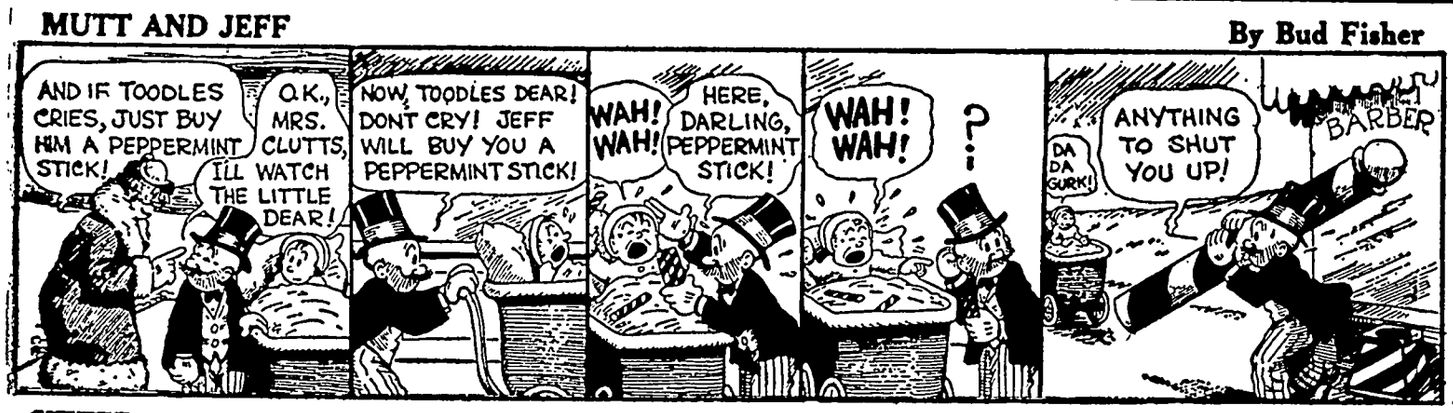
LITTLE REGGIE

By Margarita

HEAVENS! A RAINSTORM!
NOW WE CAN'T GO TO MRS VAN-LOON'S—CAN WE MA?
...AND I'M SORRY, BUT IT'S POURING SO HARD...WE JUST WON'T BE ABLE TO COME FOR TEA!
I'D BETTER CLOSE THE WINDOWS..... WHAT'S THIS ??
REGGIE!

MUTT AND JEFF

By Bud Fisher



AND IF TOODLES CRIES, JUST BUY HIM A PEPPERMINT STICK!
O.K., MRS. CLUTTS, I'LL WATCH THE LITTLE DEAR!
NOW, TOODLES DEAR! DON'T CRY! JEFF WILL BUY YOU A PEPPERMINT STICK!
WAH! WAH!
HERE, DARLING, PEPPERMINT STICK!
WAH! WAH!
?!
DA DA GURK!
ANYTHING TO SHUT YOU UP!
BARBER

JITTER

By Arthur Pointer

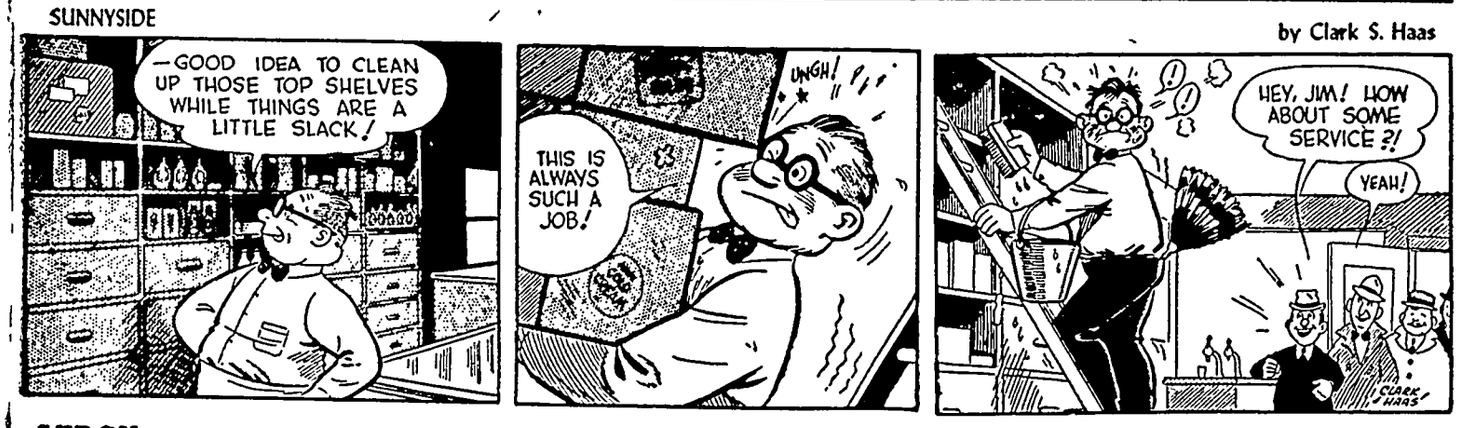
REG'LAR FELLERS

By Gene Byrnes

WINNIN' TODAY'S GAME DEPENDS UPON OUR STALLIN' CANNON-BALL' CASEY'
WHEN I COME BACK, I'LL HAVE A SCHEME T'BLOCK THAT GUY EASY!
I ONEY WANNA BORROW IT FOR TH' GAME, MISTER CASSIDY!
WELL-I'LL LET YE TAKE ME SUNDAY BEST, BUT I GOTTA HAVE IT TOMORROW!
R.R. CROSSING DANGER
NOT SO FAST, CANNON-BALL!
R.R STOP! DANGER

SUNNYSIDE

by Clark S. Haas



—GOOD IDEA TO CLEAN UP THOSE TOP SHELVES WHILE THINGS ARE A LITTLE SLACK!
UNGH!
THIS IS ALWAYS SUCH A JOB!
HEY, JIM! HOW ABOUT SOME SERVICE?!
YEAH!
CLARK S HAAS

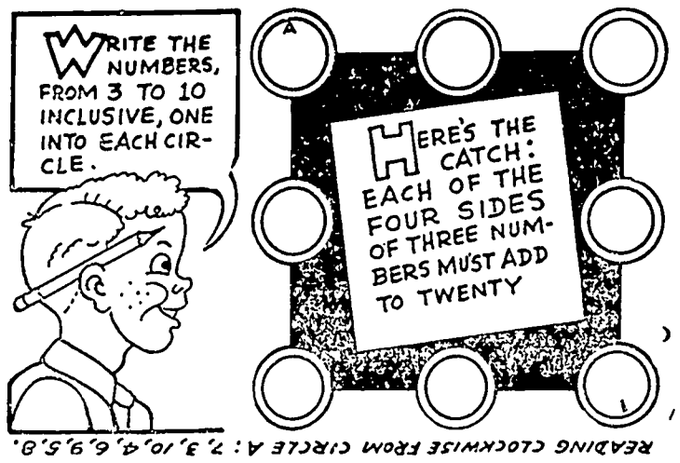
VIRGIL

By Len Kleis

CLINKLE CLATTER
I THOUGHT I TOLD YOU TO GET AT YOUR HOMEWORK AND STAY WITH IT FOR ONE SOLID HOUR
WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING FOR OUT HERE?
ER-NOTHING-- JUS' NOTHING
YOU'LL FIND THAT UNDER "ARITHMETIC" ON YOUR REPORT CARD!

FUNLAND

BY A.W. NUGENT



WRITE THE NUMBERS, FROM 3 TO 10 INCLUSIVE, ONE INTO EACH CIRCLE.
HERE'S THE CATCH: EACH OF THE FOUR SIDES OF THREE NUMBERS MUST ADD TO TWENTY READING CLOCKWISE FROM CIRCLE A: 7, 3, 10, 4, 6, 9, 5, 8.

HI KIDS! HERE'S THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT WITH THE A,B,C'S. TRY TO DUPLICATE IT!
SHADE IN ALL THE DOTTED SECTIONS.
REARRANGE THE INITIALS OF THESE SIX ILLUSTRATIONS TO SPELL A PLANET.
THE INITIALS OF STAR, ANT, EATER, TURKEY, UMBRELLA, RHINOCEROS AND NET SPELL SATURN.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

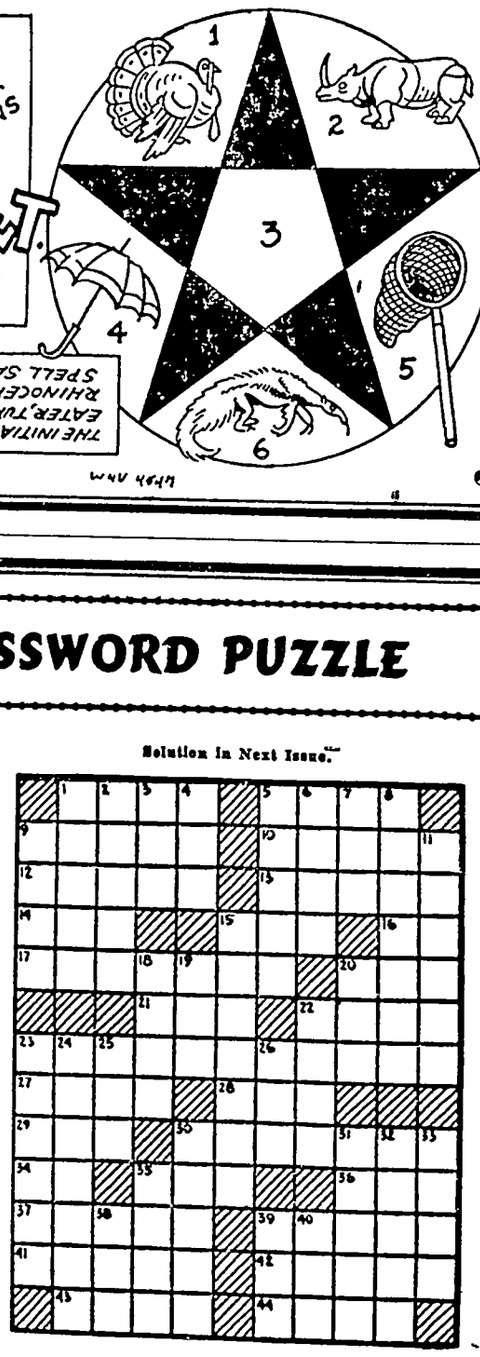
Horizontal

1 Dialect of Vedic Aryan
5 Applaud
9 English philosopher and writer
10 Corridors
12 Pungent vegetable
13 Perfect
14 Strange
15 Enemy scout
16 Calcium (sym.)
17 Good-luck persons or animals
20 Obese
21 Finnish seaport
22 Small object
23 Dogmatic
27 Length of walking step
28 Food (Hawaiian)
29 A pastry dish
30 Hen house
34 Forward
35 Turf
36 Snake
37 Booth
39 Sweeping implement
41 Weird
42 One's father's sisters
43 Knocks
44 Rulers (Tunis)

Vertical

1 Raccoon-like animal
2 Sour substances
3 Game of chance
4 Tavern
5 Fragments
6 Wife of a baronet
7 Malt beverage
8 Soothe
9 Bottom of a sail spar
11 Punished
15 Bent
18 Walking stick
19 Fetish (Afr.)
20 Suitable
22 Chief part
23 Resist
24 Artist
25 Frozen water
26 Not— prefix
30 Cavities
31 Black, hard wood
32 Digs up with the snout
33 Sweet potatoes
35 A cutting from a plant
38 Constellation
39 Not good
40 Regret

Solution in Next Issue.



No. 9

Answer to Puzzle No. 8

F	L	U	E		H	A	L	F
I	O	T	A		A	R	I	A
A	L	T	A	R		W	A	R	N	S
S	A	T		R	E	L	A	T	E
P	R	O	C	E	E	D		A	E
			O	F	F		L	A	I	D
I	M	P	E	T	U	O	U	S	L	Y
M	O	O	D		T	I	N
P	O			G	E	L	A	T	I	N
E	R	R	A	N	D			A	M	Y
L	I	A	N	A		A	R	R	A	Y
	S	T	O	W		W	I	N	G
	H	E	N	S		E	A	S	E

Series K—48

Pay Heed To Highway Signs And 'Stick Around' A

Signs and signals are an biggest helps to safe drivi National Safety council "They give drivers warnin dangers that lie ahead. B are worthless unless see obeyed. The safe driver low these signposts:

1. Give signs, signals and ings the same respect you traffic officer. Here's one pl may lose if you cheat.
2. Reduce speed and guard when you see a di shaped sign (this shape ca warning) or a round sign (t nifies a railroad crossing is
3. Come to a complete an eight-sided or octagona This shape means only one stop!
4. Know what an oblon says. This shape carries reg messages such as speed lim
5. Heed the cross-buck railroad crossings. If ther flasher or wig-wag, wait stops operating before cr There may be another tra can't see.
6. Watch for the signs even on familiar roads. fourths of the drivers in fat dents lived within 25 mi where the accident took plac

If you—like millions of o are pondering the Christma ent problem, a local dealer handy answer. He will Christmas gift cartons o mild Camel cigarettes and tins of flavorful Prince Smoking Tobacco. Both items come festively dress the holiday season and mak gifts for your smoking f The Camel carton contai mild, flavorful Camels, wh Prince Albert container is full of mellow smoking jo has made Prince Albert the try's largest-selling tobacco gifts require a minimum o due to the unique space pr for your personal Christmas ings. (Adv.)

COMMON SENS proved thousands u thousands of time ALL-VEGETAB LAXATIVE

NATURE'S REMEDY (NR) LETS—A purely vegetable laxa relieve constipation without th griping, sickening, perturbing tions, and does not cause a ra NR—you will see the differenc coated or candy coated—their is dependable, thorough, yet ge millions of NR's have proved. 25c box and use as directed.

Nature's Remedy NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW ALRIGHT

FUSSY STOMACH? RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN TUMS STOMACH DISTRESS THE TU

Beware Coug From Common Co That HANG ON

Creomulsion relieves promptly b it goes right to the seat of the t to help loosen and expel germ phlegm and aid nature to soot heal raw, tender, inflamed bro mucous membranes. Tell your dr to sell you a bottle of Creom with the understanding you mu the way it quickly allays the or you are to have your money CREOMULSI for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bron

CHANGE of LIFE?

Are you going through th tional 'middle age' period to women (38 to 52 yrs.)? D make you suffer from hot feel so nervous, highstrung Then do try Lydia E. Pin Vegetable Compound to relie symptoms. Pinkham's Com also has what Doctors call machic tonic effect!

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VE co

Kidneys Mu Work We

For You To Feel W

24 hours every day, 7 day week, never stopping, the kidn waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of kidneys must constantly rem plus fluid, excess acids and oth matter that cannot stay in th without injury to health, the be better understanding of whole system is upset when kid to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too freque tion sometimes warns that so is wrong. You may suffer nagg ache, headaches, dizziness, r pains, getting up at nights, swe

Why not try Doan's Pills? be using a medicine recommen country over. Doan's stimulate tion of the kidneys and help flush out poisonous waste f blood. They contain nothing Get Doan's today. Use with co At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PIL

FICTION CORNER

SQUALLS

By MAUD McCURDY WELCH

...o's experience in squalls with her seafaring husband pre- ...r admirably for the role she was called upon to play when ...d John called off their marriage.

...a had been crying. Sitting ...r chair by the big window ...ing room, Gramma went ...g. In one quick glance ...n that the girl had tried ...e tear-stains by an inex- ...king of powder around her ...e eyes.

...minute Gramma said cas- ...ohn left early."

...ot a minute too soon," ...rnurned quickly, sinking ...to the fireside chair and ...er face away.

...you two had a quarrel." ...mitted a little faster than ...

...conflagration, an explo- ...ssolution, a parting of the ... Nedra's voice was both ...d vehement, and a little ...co.

...d as that?" Gramma in- ...ildly.

...e him his ring. It's all ... Nedra swallowed a sob ...

...a made a little clucking ...t she went on plying her ...dustriously.

...d Nedra burst out unhap- ...Well, aren't you going to ...me, or congratulate me, ...r the case may be?"

...a stopped knitting for a ... looked up. "You and John ...rreled before. They are ...g like the squalls we'd ... meet up with on the Saint ...e when I'd made a trip ...r grandfather on his steam- ... was a sea-captain, you ...Well, there'd be a terrible ...ze and wind, and then the ...rtiful calm you ever saw. ...al for people in love like ... John to quarrel once in a ...

... sat up. "Darling, you're ...rable sentimentalist. John ...e sensible and modern and ...l about love, as all young ...re nowadays. We've had ...bitter quarrels since we be- ...gaged, so we've simply had ...he fact that we're not com- ...and that marriage would be ...e."

...s sensible of course to face ...re it was too late."

...he modern way," Nedra ... small, desolate voice.

...ove is not modern," Gram- ...erved quietly. Then she ..."but of course someday ...et the right man."

...dden white horror of Ned- ...et face was like a shock. ... never be another man, ...she exclaimed passionate- ...e rose and left the room.

... three days passed. One ...oon Nedra was lying on a ...gue in her room, listlessly ...the pages of a magazine ...amma burst in, excitingly ...wo important looking tick- ...

..., darling, we're going ...We're shipping on a fruit- ... for . . ." she studied ...s for a moment, "for Trin- ...

...e on earth is that?" Nedra ...ifferently, still pretending ...erested in her magazine.

...a lifted her shrewd dark ..."My dear, I don't seem to ... slightest idea, but if we ... the boat long enough, I ...we'll find out."

... sat up. "Now, look, you ...arling, if you're taking me ... voyage because you think ...s broken, that's out. Girls ...s when disappointed in ...n't waste time languishing. ...h for careers, maybe poli- ...mething."

"It's been the desire of my life to travel on a fruit-boat," Gramma said fervently.

Nedra stared at her for a moment; then yielded. "In that case we'll go."

So it happened that in a very few more days, Gramma and Nedra found themselves on a fruit-boat bound for the intriguing destination of Trinidad. And on their very first morning on deck, they both saw a tall, dark young man standing at the rail, gazing moodily out to sea.

Nedra's heart almost stopped. She clutched Gramma's arm and drew her around to the other side so quickly that she almost lost her breath. "Hey, what goes?" Gramma asked in Nedra's own jargon.

"We were silly to think we could," Nedra agreed softly.

"That was John," Nedra exclaimed breathlessly.

Gramma straightened her neat black toque and got herself better organized. Then Nedra's voice came suddenly accusingly, "And you knew it all the time. You did this on purpose." She whirled around angrily, "I'm going to my cabin and I'm going to stay there."

Nedra kept her word. She stayed in all day, even though after she'd had her dinner, Gramma reminded her that there was nothing on earth more beautiful than a moonlit evening at sea.

"What do I care about a silly old moon," Nedra retorted in a voice that shook with tears.

IT SEEMED a stalemate, so Gramma went on deck alone and soon found John, his boyish face looking tired and drawn even in the semi-light. Gramma slipped into the chair beside him, and he said unhappily, "Look here, Gramma, a man can't go a thousand miles away, more or less, to forget a girl and stay on the same boat with her all the way."

"Why don't you two youngsters make up?"

"We decided that if we quarreled before marriage, we'd do the same thing afterward. We're trying to be logical and modern but . . ." his voice trailed away sadly.

"Well, someday you'll meet another girl," Gramma said lightly.

"That'll never happen . . . never. Don't even mention a thing like that." John's voice was hoarse with pain.

But just the same, it looked more and more as if Gramma's plotting to bring these two stubborn kids together would come to nothing at all. It looked plain enough that John and Nedra had no intention whatever of making up their quarrel. . . .

Next morning Mother Nature herself decided to take a hand. They awakened to find the ship tossing in a sudden gale, thunder roaring in demoniac fury, lightning flashing with every split second, the waves tearing at the ship as if possessed of the fury of a thousand devils.

Nedra dressed hurriedly, went into Gramma's room to find her also dressed, as early as it was. "Is it a hurricane?" Nedra asked shakily.

"I don't know, dear. I think I'll just go and try to find out."

"Don't stay long. I'm beginning to be frightened," Nedra pleaded.

"I'll be back in a jiffy. There's nothing to worry about. At least I think not."

She'd hardly disappeared before there was a loud knock on the door and John came in. "Nedra, Nedra darling, I had to find you, I had to tell you in . . . in case anything happened, that I still love you, and I always will."

The next moment he had her in his arms "And I still love you, John. The moment I knew the ship was in danger, I thought of you." Nedra's voice was a happy whisper.

He bent his head and tilted her chin, "Which only goes to prove, dearest, that love is something that escapes all logic and reason and analysis. We can't argue ourselves out of it just on the pretense of being realistic."

"We were silly to think we could," Nedra agreed softly.

"The only reason we quarreled," John went on, "was because of my absurd jealousy, because I love you so very much."

"No," Nedra contradicted adoringly, "it was my bad temper."

John shook his head quickly. "You have the temper of an angel, and we'll never, never quarrel again in the future . . . if . . . there is a future left to us," he finished bravely.

Neither of them was aware that the wind had ceased its wild roar and the deceitful sea had suddenly become as calm and benign as a summer day.

Still holding each other in a close embrace, they hardly heard Gramma when she came back and saw them together. "Just a squall," she murmured softly as she went into her own stateroom, a happy smile wreathing itself around her lips.

tricks for teens

by NANCY PEPPER

BE-KIND-TO-NYLONS WEEK

Now, that your longer skirts and petticoats have forced you out of socks and saddles and into nylons and heels, we're declaring a "be-kind-to-nylons" week. We appealed to our hi style scouts for ideas on nylon preservation and they've come through as usual with flying colors — also with fewer runs. If nylons are one of your economic problems you might want to try out their ideas.

Preventative Measures—No more snags and runs from rough desk and chair edges in school, if you take a piece of sandpaper along with you and do a competent smoothing down job. Then the only disaster you need fear when you get up to go to the blackboard is not knowing the right answers.

First-Aid Equipment—Carry colorless nail polish with you wherever you go to stop those runs in their tracks. Use bright red nail polish to identify your stockings with your initials at the tops to avoid confusion with other nylons in the family. Nail polish is good for the nails, too—in case you forget.

Proven Precautions—Wash your new nylons before you wear them and wash after each wearing. One teen tells us a pinch of salt in the first rinsing strengthens the fibres. We only have her word for it. Don't hang them over the radiator to dry. If your nails and hands are rough, put on a pair of cotton gloves before handling your nylons.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Acts 1 8; 2 1-4; 4:1-4; 8:4-17, 25, 11 1-18; 13:1-3; 14 26-27; 16-1-10; 28 16, 30-31.

DEVOTIONAL READING. Acts 4.23-31.

Story of Revolution

Lesson for December 5, 1948

THE MOST important history in the world is in one small book. The most important movement, the most revolutionary, the one that is destined to change the world more than any other, is the Christian church. The story of how it began is in the book of Acts. No other book in or out of the New Testament tells the story The history of the beginnings of the one and only international, interracial, world-wide movement that sets out to aim at nothing less than a complete transformation of mankind, the Revolution from Within, the Christian Church.

Dr. Foreman

• • •

What the Church Is

THERE are hundreds of churches today and they do not all agree. But every church, whatever its name or peculiarities, aims to stay on the course marked out by the Christian church when it was one and undivided, the church of the Apostles. We look back to the story in Acts to see what the true church is.

In the very beginning, the church was not the place where the Christians met for worship. It was not the officers. The Apostles themselves were not the church. The church was not a thing at all; it was people.

In Acts these people are seldom called Christians and never called churchmen or church-members. They are given more meaningful names. They are called "disciples," that is, learners, students. They are called "believers" They are called "brothers" for their life was like that of a family. They are called the people of "the Way,"—travelers together to the same destination. The church, in short, is a fellowship, the Family of the Friends of Christ.

• • •

How the Church Began

THE infant church was like all human babies, it began small and poor. No bystander would have expected it to live, but it had life in its heart. Two forces set that church on its way. One was the command of Christ.

The people who were in it, or rather the people who were the church, took their orders from Christ. It was because of him that they went out to bear witness to him to the "uttermost parts of the earth."

Then the people were filled with the Holy Spirit; they were guided constantly by the Spirit. The book of Acts has often been called the "Acts of the Holy Spirit" rather than of the Apostles.

• • •

Leaders

GOD never does for people what they can do for themselves. So guidance of the Spirit was never a substitute for human leadership. A true church is not a mob: It acts, as the New Testament church did, in an orderly fashion.

One of the church's first problems was that of finding leaders. The history in Acts is largely the history of certain leaders—John, Peter, Paul. But these were not alone. Not even the Apostles tried to run the church like a dictatorship. The people themselves chose the officers who were ordained by the Apostles.

• • •

What the Church Does

FIVE things the Apostolic church did, and these mark any true church today. They "continued in the Apostles' teachings," the beginning of all our church schools and Sunday schools is in that brief phrase. They formed a fellowship; the church then was not a list of names of people who cared little for one another; it was a true family.

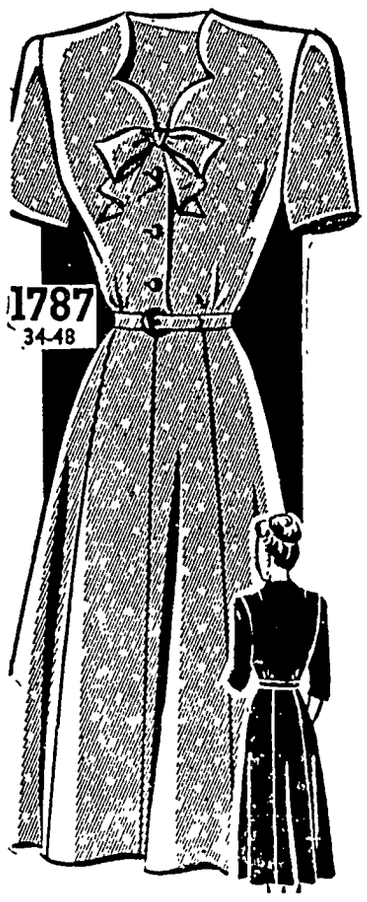
They observed the sacraments; they and their households were baptized, and they continued "in the breaking of the bread." Baptism and the Lord's Supper have always been observed in some form in every Christian church! They "continued in prayer;" a church in which only the minister prays is a feeble affair.

Above all, they were "witnesses." That is to say, they told the story of Jesus—his life, his teachings, his death, his resurrection. Jesus lives! Jesus is Lord! So the Apostles preached, from Jerusalem to Rome and far beyond. But their preaching would have been mere shouting in the wind, if Christ had not lived again in thousands of everyday Christians.

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERNS

Lovely Daytimer for Matrons
Two Piece Frock Is Youthful



Daytime Frock

THIS graceful daytime frock is designed to slim and trim the slightly heavier figure. Short or bracelet length sleeves are provided, finished with a softly tied bow at the neckline.

* * *

Pattern No. 1787 comes in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, short sleeve, 4½ yards of 39-inch.

Two-Piece Dress

A YOUTHFUL looking two-piece dress that's suitable to many occasions depending on fabric and sleeve. The pert flared peplum dips in back. The panelled skirt is easy to put together.

* * *

Pattern No. 1823 is for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Sizes 14, short sleeve, 4½ yards of 39-inch

The Fall and Winter FASHION offers a wealth of sewing information for the home dressmaker. Special designs, fabric news—free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.

Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.

Pattern No._____ Size_____

Name_____

Address_____

Development of Bicycles Traced to 1816 'Celeripede'

Joseph B. Niepce, French physicist best known as one of the inventors of photography, was active in other fields as well. In 1816 he invented the "celeripede," or "hobby-horse"—two wheels and a crossbar upon which the rider sat while he propelled himself with his feet against the ground. It was the forerunner of the modern bicycle.

There were a few minor improvements during the next two or three years. But the price was high and the machine was not within the reach of ordinary folk; thus it became known as the "dandy horse." It even reached America, but the natural crudities of the device finally ended the craze.

The idea of propelling oneself on wheels, however, had taken root. The velocipede, or "boneshaker," was the first crank-driven bicycle, developed in 1865. It was well named. With heavy wooden wheels, thick iron tires and a massive iron backbone, these machines were extremely heavy and they vibrated in a terrifying manner over the rough roads.

Then came the tall "ordinary," with front wheels sometimes over five feet in height. But it was not until 1876—a little over 70 years ago—when H. J. Lawson invented the first rear-driven bicycle. Then followed many patented improvements and in 1877 Col. Albert A. Pope of Boston organized the Pope Manufacturing company, launching the bicycle-making industry in the United States.

Pneumatic rubber tires followed in 1889. Free wheels, which enabled the bicycle to coast, were introduced in 1894. By the turn of the century the tandem, or "bicycle built for two," had become exceedingly popular. The bicycle industry, spurred by invention, zoomed to new heights.

Today it is estimated that more than 60,900,000 bicycles are in use throughout the world, 12,000,000 of them in the United States.

Italian Riviera Is Cheaper Than French

If you are confused on the "Riviera" shores of the Mediterranean, as between Italian and French, this may help: The French Riviera begins at Marseilles and runs past the resort cities and towns of Cannes, Nice, Cap d'Antibe and Juan Les Pins to Monte Carlo. There begins the Italian Riviera, much less expensive than its French neighbor.

Tells the World "No More Laxatives!"

"I was so constipated I had to take laxatives all the time. That's over now—I'll tell the world KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day really keeps me straight."—Mrs. Laura H. McNew, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

If your diet lacks bulk for normal elimination, this delicious cereal will supply it. Eat an ounce every day in milk—and drink plenty of water. If not satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Check that Cough from a cold Before It Gets Worse

—and get well quicker with the NEW FOLEY'S

The NEW FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR contains one of the most important cough treatment developments in years, one that ACTUALLY HELPS SPEED RECOVERY. Also soothes throat, checks coughing. Also delicious, non-narcotic, does not upset digestion. But most important, NEW FOLEY'S helps you get well quicker from cough due to cold. At your druggist.

IF PETER PAIN PLUGS YOU WITH RACKING

HEADACHE

● Rub in gently-warming Ben-Gay for soothing relief from simple headache! Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times more of two famous pain-relieving agents known to every doctor—methyl salicylate and menthol—than five other widely offered rub-ins. Insist on genuine Ben-Gay, the original Baume Analgésique. It brings quick relief!

Also for Pain due to RHEUMATISM, MUSCLE ACHE, and COLDS. Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.

QUICK... RUB IN Ben-Gay

For Safety—Invest in Your Own Country Buy Safe and Sound U. S. Savings Bonds

Make the 30-Day Test— PROVE CAMEL MILDNESS!

● Smoke Camels and only Camels for 30 days—and see for yourself how mild a cigarette can be!

This same test was made by hundreds of men and women under the eyes of noted throat specialists. The smokers in this test averaged 1 to 2 packs of Camels every day for 30 days. Their throats were carefully examined each week. After a total of 2470 examinations, these doctors reported

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS

...wels THROUGH GLASS

Grace Noll Crowell

I STAND before a jeweler's plate glass pane:
That crystal-clear conductor of the light.
I watch the sunshine pierce the gorgeous stain
Of rare gems clustered there before my sight:
Crimson and purple fires banked in gold,
And ice-white diamonds splintering the air,
Deep fires of brilliant beauty to behold
Displayed for any who may pass them there.

I think of God whose gracious hand prepares
His living truths for all mankind to see.
They shine as clearly as these jeweled wares,
To ever be revealed by you and me.
Lord, shine through me as jewels shine through glass,
That men may see thy beauty as they pass.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Edmund Josten, Mrs. Fred Barz, Mrs. Lena Schroeder and Mrs. Esther Barz were Mason City visitors Monday afternoon. Mrs. Esther Barz went to the hospital for a check-up on her recent operation. She is getting along fine.

KLEMME

MOVIES

DECEMBER 2

"Adventure Island"

CINECOLOR

DECEMBER 9

"Variety Girl"

All Star Cast

Comedy Each Show

SHOW AT 7:30 P. M.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thieman entertained Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Murray, Janet and Jerry to dinner on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yohn of Mason City are staying at the home of Mrs. Tillie Bachman for a few weeks.

Mickey Keraus of Garner spent the week end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mr. W. C. Keraus.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blumer entertained to dinner Thanksgiving Day, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Neuberger and daughter, Ruth.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harson and Mary were dinner and supper guests at the Russell Reasoner home at Crystal Lake on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milvern Barz had as their guests on Thanksgiving Day Mrs. Esther Barz and son, Edward, Edmund K. Josten and family, all of Klemme; Mr. and Mrs. Will Barz and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Voetberg of Garner.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Riemer of Garner were dinner guests at the Emil Beier home Sunday.

Glen Terhufen and family and Bud Neiman spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mrs. Ben Neiman at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hougland and daughter were visiting at the Elwood Geary home Friday evening.

Over fifty relatives gathered at the R. C. Ludeke home at Clear Lake Thanksgiving day for a family gathering and big dinner.

Claude White and family were dinner guests Thanksgiving day at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jans Topper at Hansell.

Ira Overholt arrived Saturday from his home in Keesville, New York, for a visit with Klemme friends and to visit relatives in Iowa. Mrs. Overholt was ill and staying with her daughter and was unable to make the trip at this time.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Walter Neuberger of Ventura, was a business caller in Klemme Wednesday.

Miss Susan Cutshall is recuperating from an operation which she had performed at the Belmond hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pearson and children of Dougherty visited at the John Lass home Sunday.

Prv. Francis Sherwood arrived home from Wichita Falls, Texas to spend a furlough visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sherwood.

Miss Della Christie, mother of Mrs. Sumner Trumbell, has gone to Roland for a visit with another daughter, Mrs. Clifford Tracy, for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Buntenbach, and son Edward, Larry Wicks, Bob Caffery, Mr. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Verle Keraus and children of Garner on Tuesday eevening for a pre Thanksgiving day dinner.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lacey were Mason City callers Friday.

Miss Minnie Lau entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving day Mr. and Mrs. Wes Schuldt, Walter Lau and Mrs. Frances Ridder.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi and daughters of Des Moines, spent Thanksgiving Day in Klemme with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell drove to Sioux City to spend Thanksgiving day and the week end at the Clair West home.

Miss Jeanette Richardson of Stilson was an over night guest Thursday in the home of her aunt and uncle, Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Boston of Goodell.

Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Boston and Bob spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lanheer of Buffalo Center. Mrs. Landheer is a sister of Mrs. Boton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heite of Kansas City came to spend Thanksgiving and the week end visiting at the parental Art Kudje home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer of Mason City and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Liebendorfer and son Jon of Clear Lake, were dinner guests Thanksgiving at the R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. home.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Schlawin entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving day Mr. and Mrs. Tom Needham of Mason City; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buseman and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Buseman.

Mrs. Henry Medaus entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving Day Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson and children, Linda Jean and Eugene, Jr. Carl Medaus was a supper guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Greiman and Walter Rosendahl and family left last week for Ohio where they spent Thanksgiving at the Louis Kock home. From there they went to Chicago to attend the big livestock show.

Mrs. Rosa Mitchel of Swea City entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving day Mrs. Antonio Keraus, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus, Mrs. Mary Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wilcox.

Mr. Andrew Wellemeyer of Springfield, Missouri came on Tuesday to spend Thanksgiving Day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wellemeyer. He returned home on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Jass of Garner entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving Mrs. Lester Stille and daughters, Ruth of Des Moines and Lois of Forest City; Bob Hartzell; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hartzell and son, Ted of Dows; and Grace Hartzell of Britt.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Dulmes and son Dick, and Graydon Barz returned home Sunday evening from Adel, Wisconsin, where they went to spend Thanksgiving and the week end visiting with the doctor's father and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bachman, Delbert, Darlene and Roger and Marilyn Nedved of Britt and George and Dave Henry of Ventura were Thanksgiving dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harm Aries in Waterloo.

Mrs. Clara Barz entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving Day Mrs. Lena Schroder, Grandma Born, Raymond Barz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Barz, all of Klemme, and Mr. and Mrss. Eldon Hagen of Hanlontown. Mrs. Hagen remained for a visit over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Cap Blank entertained to dinner Sunday of last week Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kimball of Ventura; Mr. Wieter and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barrow and Sherry of Boone; and Mrs. Ada Beck and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Whetsler of Laguna Beach, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kraus of Garner entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving day Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beier, Emil Blumer and family, Merlin Neuberger and family, Carol Brager and family, Geo. Kern and family, Wm. Riemer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Riemer.

Carpenter work on the George Buseman house in the northeast part of town is progressing. Some time ago Mr. and Mrs. Buseman purchased a house in the country which they moved to town. A large basement was excavated and the house moved onto the new foundation. A large sun porch is being built on the front, or south side of the house, and another addition is being built on the north side for an extra bedroom and a bath room.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Elsie Baack entertained the Howard Baack family at dinner Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs Elwood Geary and son Eldon were Sunday dinner guests at the Merle Schoenwetter home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bachman and Roger visited with Martin Bachman last Tuesday night.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Harvey and LaNelle were entertained to dinner Saturday noon at the Geo. Schoenwetter home.

Lyle Green and family enjoyed a delayed Thanksgiving turkey dinner Sunday at Mrs. Green's parents home, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gayken at Britt.

Mrs. Hilma Johnson and daughters, Bertha and Doris, entertained to dinner on Thanksgiving day Harold Johnson and family and Miss Lydia Bock.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Harvey and daughter, LaNelle of Waterloo came last Thursday and visited with Klemme friends until Sunday afternoon.

A fine new combination garage and machine shed was recently completed on the farm north of town where Everett Guth and family reside. It is a nice improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Schoenwetter entertained on Thanksgiving Day Mr. and Mrs. Merle Schoenwetter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Cutshall and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Geary and son.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Harvey and LaNelle of Waterloo and Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Missman were dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Mildred Day Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Hayenga of Cour Delane, Idaho, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cuypers of Dickey, North Dakota, visited at the Sumner Trumbell home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Jacobs of Garwin spent Thanksgiving day and the week end visiting at the parental Ed. Jacobs home. Mr. Jacobs is coach and high school teacher at Garwin while Mrs. Jacobs teaches in the grades.

Miss Patricia Kudje, who has been attending State Teachers College at Cedar Falls, came home for Thanksgiving. She will not return to her school work this quarter, but will assist with work at the Bank until the income rush is over in the Spring.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B entertained to a chicken din Sunday: Mrs. George Born, M Clara Barz, Mrs. Esther B and Edward, Mr. and Mrs. len Barz, and Mrs. Lena Schro er, all of Klemme, and Mr. Mrs. Eldon Hagen of Hanl town.

B. C. BERGE

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Office Over Federated Store

Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

A Fine Name on a Fine GIFT...

GEO. KYSETH

JEWELER

Clarion - Io

THADA'S Klemme, Ia.

The Store Of Every Day LOW PRICES!

Here Are A Few Of Our SPECIALS For Friday - Saturday Dec. 3-4

THADA'S are again holding their annual PANCAKE DAY in appreciation of the wonderful patronage you have given them in the past year. Why don't you plan to spend the day shopping in HANCOCK COUNTYS LARGEST GENERAL STORE. We carry a full line of groceries, meats, dry goods, frozen foods and Christmas gifts and toys. You need not drive farther than Klemme to do all your shopping and save money.

Free Hot Lunch Saturday, December 4th

Starting at noon Saturday, Dec. 4th, we will serve F R E E delicious Dixianna Pancakes, Penick Syrup and Folgers Coffee until everyone is served.

DIXIANNA PANCAKE MIX

PLAIN 3 pound package ------ 26c

BUCKWHEAT 3 pound package --- 31c

FOLGERS COFFEE per lb. ---- 52c

FANCY CHOCOLATE COOKIES 2 pounds --------- Special 49c

ADAMS ORANGE JUICE large 46 oz. cans 4 cans ---- $1.00

Pork Sausage ARMOUR'S STAR BRAND 1 POUND ROLLS-------- 35c

TEXAS TREE RIPENED GRAPEFRUIT per crate ---- Only $2.98

MY-T-FINE PUDDINGS For A Real Treat 4 boxes ------- 29c

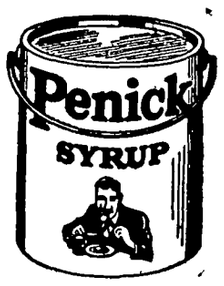
JACK SPRAT PEACHES (In Heavy Syrup) 3 cans - No. 2½ can $1.00

PENICK SYRUP 5 pound pail ---------- Golden 47c

10 pound pail golden 79c

5 pound pail, white - 49c

10 pound pail, white - 85c



MOTHERS BEST 50 lb. bag FLOUR $3.79

Sliced Bacon DECKER'S IOWANA Per Lb.------ 65c

KELLOGGS CORN FLAKES large 13 oz. boxes 2 boxes --- 35c

SUPER SUDS large box ------ 29c

A FULL LINE OF CHRISTMAS CANDY Starting At per lb. --- 19c

SPAGHETTI OR MACARONI Special At 2 pound box ----- 29c

RED PIE CHERRIES No. 2 can 4 cans ----- $1.00

BLOCK SALT per block ------- 49c

ENGLISH WALNUTS (new crop) per pound ----- Special 29c

STALEYS GLOSS STARCH Week End Special pound box ---- 09c

TRADE HERE AND SAVE EVERY DAY

Thada's

A Good Store In A Good Town

Highest Market Price For Your Eggs CASH or Trade

KLEMME, IOWA

FARMERS OF WRIGHT AND HANCOCK COUNTIES

RELIABLE AND EFFICIENT ARTIFICIAL BREEDING SERVICE For Dairy Cattle is now available for the improvement of you herds at minimum cost. We present our

New Technician With Highest Recomendation

LESTER ANDERSON

North Iowa Breeders Co-op. Phone 12

Kanawha, Iowa

KANAWHA INVITES YOU

BASKET BALL

At The K. H. S. Gymnasium On

Tuesday, Dec. 7th

First Game At 7:30 P. M.

KANAWHA H. S. GIRLS

vs

SHAMROCKETTES GIRLS

KANAWHA BULLDOGS

vs

KLEMME SHAMROCKS

This is Kanawha Night at the Klemme Gy Kanawha High School Invites everybody to these two thrilling ball games.

THE KLEMME TIMES

me 54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1948 Number 4.

RTHERN IMPLEMENT STORE BURNED EARLY MONDAY A. M.

LDING, EQUIPMENT, TOCK, TOTAL LOSS

New Tractors, Implements troyed In Early Morning $50,000 Blaze

e of unknown origin com- y destroyed the Northern er Company's implements ing and entire stock of ments, merchandise, tools equipment at Midnight Sun-

e loss included the main ture, 40 x 90 feet and a to additon, 2 new tractors, used tractor, service truck, ep freeze units, 1 refrigera- the complete stock of farm ements such as discs, culti- s, field harvesters, large of parts and vast quanti- of other merchandise.

A. Jennings, who has been ger of the implement com- for the past three years, d that no definite plans as yet been made, pending of the Company. How- a temporary office has been p in the lumber yard office business will go on as usual until definite arrangements made for the future.

e Klemme Fire Department assisted in fighting the big by companies from Good- Belmond and Garner, who able to keep the fire from ding and saved surround- property. Burning embers hurled high into the air fell in showers as far east he Geo. Lawhorn home.

was fortunate that a heavy had fallen Sunday after- , later turning to sleet and . Buildings were well coat- with ice and snow and pre- ed burning embers from ig- g roofs, grass and leaves.

he blaze consumed the build- in about an hour.

he fire alarm was turned in Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barz, were on their way home a neighbor's home and as came out of doors noticed thick smoke coming from west part of town and then the blaze.

he blaze originated in the k shop of the building in the thwest corner and that sec- of the building was all ze when the alarm was nded. A strong westerly wind ipped up the flames and en- gered other nearby build- s.

AME STORAGE PERMITS FREE

n cooperation with the Cold rage Locker Association, the te Conservation Commission making every effort to assist nters in the legal storage of me, and at the same time, ery effort is being made to event illegal storage. All me in Iowa must be disposed within ten days after the se of the season unless a stor- e permit has been secured. der permit game except water- wl may be held until June 30 the following year. Permits y be issued to hold migratory terfowl 90 days beyond the se of the season.

To store game beyond 10 days ter the seasons close, simply k your locker operator for an plication blank, fill it out, d mail it to the State Conser- tion Commission, 914 Grand, s Moines 8, Iowa. All locker ants have been supplied with rmit applications. They can- t, however, grant the permit. is issued directly from the ate Conservation Commision fice with no charge. Game ld in lockers may at no time ceed the legal possession limit d permits will be granted for ch license under which game taken.

COOPERATION IN PREPARING CHRISTMAS MAIL, MAIL EARLY

Mailings for distant States should be deposited by December 10, to assure delivery before Christmas Day. Greeting cards for local delivery should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Helpful Suggestions

Prepay postage fully on all mail matter. Address all matter plainly and completely giving street address or box or rural route number whenever possible. Pack articles carefully in strong durable containers. Wrap parcels securely Perishable articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for the transportation should not be mailed.

Written greetings such as "Merry Christmas" "Happy New Year" "Best Wishes" and names for the purpose of description, may be enclosed with third or fourth class (parcel post) mail. Other written additions subject parcels to letter postage. This also applies to unsealed greeting cards mailed at the third class rate of postage.

Christmas seals or stickers should not be placed on the address side of mail.

Mailers may save time in buying postage stamps in advance.

The handling of Christmas mail will be greatly facilitated with your cooperation.

PVT. DUARD LEWIS HOME FROM SERVICE IN PACIFIC

Pvt. Duard H. Lewis, of Klemme, Iowa, has returned to the United States from active service, aboard the U. S. Army Transport General Patrick, following completion of his tour of duty with the U S. Army in the Philippines, it was announced by the Public Information Office of Headquarters, Philippines Command in Manila.

During his stay in the Philippines, Pvt. Lewis served with the 29th Engineer Base Topographic Battalion.

Pvt. Lewis, who arrived on the West Coast over a week ago, arrived in Klemme Saturday morning after ahving received his honorable discharge from the Service. He is the son of Mrs. Fred Bell.

The Babe Ruth Cancer Fund is a testimonial to two men who had "six months to live"—Babe Ruth, whose death inspired it, and Sam Briskin whose $100,000 started it. The immigrant boy who was "doomed" to die is now president of the Revere Camera Company of Chicago. Read "Six Months To Live" in SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD - AMERICAN.

GOODELL

Evangelical United Brethren Church

W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.
Evening Service 7:30 P. M.

Girls Missionary Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. V. E. Harris Thursday evening, Dec. 9th. Bring guest and Christmas exchange gift.

All the children of the Sunday School are asked to meet at the Church the next two Saturdays at 1:30 to practice for the Christmas program to be given Christmas Eve.

Next Sunday is Universal Bible Sunday. A display of Bibles will be shown. If you have an unusal Bible; large, old, new, of different language, etc., bring it for this display either before or on Sunday morning.

MILDRED STUPKA, GARNER, BRIDE OF CALVIN SCHAEFER

Miss Mildred M. Stupka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Martin Stupka of Garner, became the bride of Calvin Schaefer, son of Mr and Mrs. Roy Schaefer of Klemme, November 25, Thanksgiving day, at 10 a. m with the Rev. Father Mullin performing the double-ring ceremony at the St. James Catholic parsonage, Forest City.

The bride wore a dress suit of royal blue with a white rose corsage and a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid, Blanche Brcka, wore a grey suit with a red and white corsage

The bridegroom wore a brown pin striped suit, and the bestman, Gene Schaefer, Klemme, also wore a brown pin striped suit. They both had boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a teal blue dress and had a pink and white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a purple dress and she, too, had a pink and white carnation corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Hayfield high school and before her marriage was a clerk at Reuben's department store in Forest City The bridegroom attended Klemme high school and served 3 years in the Navy He is employed by E. G. Greiman, contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer left on a short honeymoon and upon their return will make their home in Forest City.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents north of Garner.

Out-of-town guest were Mr and Mrs. Joseph Boush and David of Joice, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tlack and daughters of Thompson, and Hearold Stupka of Albert Lea, Minnesota.

ROCKETTETS WIN FIRST GAME

SHAMROCKS BEAT THE BULLDOGS IN CLOSE GAME HERE

In the curtain raiser here on Tuesday night Klemme High School Girls' basketball team, the Shamrockettes, won their first game of the season by downing the Kanawha H. S. Girls 21-18.

Shamrocks Win

After dropping games to Britt and Belmond, the Shamrocks again hit their stride by defeating the powerful Kanawha Bulldogs 36-26. The visitors were ahead 17-16 at the half.

BELMOND BRONCOS WIN FROM SHAMROCKS IN LAST HALF

In the double header basket ball game at Belmond Friday night, the Shamrocks dropped both decisions. The Belmond Reserves won over the Little Shamrocks in a close one, 19-18.

In the feature game of the evening the Shamrocks outplayed the Broncos and held a slim 14-12 advantage at the half. Belmond came from behind and were leading 5 points at the close of the last quarter with 27-22. This margin was stretched into 42-28 to end the game.

Brinkman tallied 8 for the Shamrocks, while Kinseth lead Belmond with 13.

FAREWELL PARTY HELD FOR WILBUR HAEFNERS AT LIBERTY

The young adult Sunday School class of the Liberty Methodist Church held a party Sunday evening in honor of the Wilbur Haefner family who have moved to Klemme.

The evening was spent informally and a nice lunch was served. The Haefners were presented with some gifts from their Liberty friends.

XMAS PARTY FOR THE CHILDREN

FREE MOVIES FOR KIDDIES AT THE COMMUNITY HALL DEC. 23RD

Santa Will Be Here In Person With Treats For All Boys And Girls

The Klemme Civic Club will sponsor a free movie and Christmas party for the children of this community at the Community Hall on Thursday afternoon, December 23rd, beginning at 2.00 o'clock.

Santa Claus will be here in person and will have a big free treat for every boy and girl in the community. Santa wrote the Civic Club that there is a lot of snow between Klemme and the North Pole and that he will get here in time for the big party on Thursday, December 23, and he wants to have a great big crowd of boys and girls here to meet him.

Don't forget the date; Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23rd.

Klemme Civic Club Will Hold Meeting December 16

Dr A. H. Dulmes, president of the Klemme Civic Club announces that a meeting of the club is called for Thursday evening, December 16 at 7 30 o'clock. Important business will be presented and the annual election of officers will be held

All members are urged to be present as this is the last meeting for this year.

HAEFNER WILL HAVE FORMAL OPENING ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Wilbur Haefner, who recently purchased the Smith Service, announces that on Saturday afternoon he will serve hot coffee and doughnuts to all who visit his place of business on his opening day.

Large Number Of Relatives Gathered At Wm. Ax Home Sunday

The following relatives met on Sunday afternoon at the Wm Ax home for a visit with Mrs Carl Suckow and son, Warren and wife, who are here from Jennings, Louisiana on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ludeke, and Mr and Mrs. Paul Ludeke and son of Meservey; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schoenwetter and Homer; Mrs. Mildred Weisbrod, Marlene and Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Art Schoenwetter; Ralph Weisbrod of Fenton; Mrs Herman Meyers and children; Mrs. Fred Schlichting, Mrs. Harold Lassahn and children; Mr and Mrs. Ralph Ludeke of Clear Lake, and the honored guests, Mrs. Carl Suckow and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Suckow.

Mrs. Ax served a lovely lunch to the guests late in the afternoon.

Mrs. Wesley Patterson Entertained Saturday Bridge Club

Mrs. Wesley Patterson entertained the Saturday Bridge Club at her home Friday afternoon. Mrs. Asa Arnold won the high score and Mrs. Stanley Bulka held low score. Mrs. Wm. Fuss was a guest.

The hostess served a nice lunch after the games. The next meeting of the club will be a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Sumner Trumbell.

WORK CIRCLE TO MEET DEC. 16TH, INVITE ALL TO COME

The Work Circle of the Methodist Church will meet Thursday afternoon, Dec. 16 at which time they will have a short program and a gift exchange. Gifts limited to 75c.

Alfred Josten, Former Triple A Chairman Is Promoted

Announcement was made this week of the appointment of A. E. Rasmussen of Garner to the position of chairman of the Hancock County AAA. He succeeds Alfred V. Josten who was recently promoted to farmer fieldman for the State Marketing and Production Administration.

Mr. Rasmussen has been a member of the County Committee since 1940 Prior to that he served as township AAA committeeman in Concord township from the beginning of the farm program.

Mr. Rasmussen owns a 320 acre farm north of Garner. He is acquainted with farm problems, and is well qualified for this new position.

Sam A. Barber of Kanawha, first alternate of the county committee now becomes an active member of the county committee. He owns a 160 acre farm in Twin Lake township and also has served as towship committeeman for the farmAAA program.

Clarence A. Bird of Woden, who has served as third member of the county committee has been advanced to the position of Vice Chairman.

FIRST BLIZZARD HIT THIS SECTION OF IOWA SUNDAY P. M.

An early Sunday morning rain that fell steadily until early Sunday afternoon, turned into sleet and snow and with a strong northwesterly wind, this section of Iowa experienced its first real blizzard of the season.

In some sections of the state roads were blocked and others the highways were slippery with ice. Roads did not block around Klemme, although they were slippery and made driving hazzardous.

ETCHENS OBSERVE 25TH WEDDING

SPEND SECOND HONEYMOON VISITING CHICAGO SIGHTS

A number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen, south of Klemme, on Sunday evening, November 28th to help them celebrate their Silver Wedding Anniversary

The evening was spent in playing "500" after which a delightful lunch was served as the self-invited guests had brought prepared food for the occasion. They also brought a sizeable sum of silver and paper money which was presented to the bride and groom of 25 years.

Mrs. Carl Swanson brought a large bouquet of rust and yellow chrysanthemums for the occasion, and Mrs Etchen's sister Esther brought a nice 2-tier cake, decorated with silver flowers and a good luck horse shoe and the numerals "25."

For the occasion Mrs. Etchen wore a robin egg blue crepe dress with silver braid trim and Mr Etchen wore a blue suit.

Take Wedding Trip

On Tuesday, November 30th, Mr. and Mrs. Etchen, in company with their best man and bridesmaid of 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Rhine Schlawin, left on their second honeymoon trip to Chicago where they visited relatives, took in the live stock show, radio broadcasts and many interesting sights. They returned home Saturday night.

They especially enjoyed the live stock show and were thrilled to see so many Iowans walk away with prizes.

MAIL CARRIER

Southwest Iowa has a new mail carrier—a woman. Mrs. Hilda McGovern, formerly the postmaster at Brayton, resigned as postmaster to take over the RFD route. She travels in a jeep.

SOUTH EAST HANCOCK GOES OVER THE TOP IN CROP DRIVE

STREETS DECORATED THE PAST WEEK ARE VERY COLORFUL

Klemme's Main Street this year presents the most attractive Christmas decorations of any year in the past. With Bert Jones in charge of putting up the decorations and lights, the decorations were suspended over Main Street's business section last week.

Mr. Jones has worked out a permanent system that will enable the decorating committe to put up the lights in the future much easier than before. This year evergreen strings were used along with the colored lights, and each string has a special round wreath decoration in the center.

Business Decorations

Main Street business is going all out for Christmas decorations and most of the stores have nice displays. Some of the business places also have outside decorations and at night Klemme Main Street is very bright and colorful.

Local Church To Sponsor Play Here Sunday Night

The play "The Tinker" will be given by the Young People of the Hampton Evangelical and Reformed Church This play will be given in the Klemme High School Auditorium, Sunday, December 12 at 8 o'clock. Produced by special arrangement with the Walter H Baker Company of Boston, Mass. No admission will be charged but a free will offering will be taken for the purpose of World Service.

Sponsored by the Young Peoples Bible class of the Klemme Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Sells Home In Klemme

Last week Mrs. Louisa Knoke sold her residence west of the Eckard Zeidler home in Northwest Klemme to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conners who expect to move into their new home soon.

Mrs Knoke has been living in her newly-built modern home in Southeast Klemme for several weeks.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

Morning Worship at 10 A. M.

The Sermon theme will be "The Book of Ages" in recognition of "Universal Bible Sunday."

Sunday School at 11:00 A. M.

Youth Fellowship at 7 for both High School and Intermediate groups.

Christmas meeting of the 50-50 class at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening at the Parsonage.

The Choir will meet for rehearsal in the church on Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The Christmas Party of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be held in the church on Thursday afternoon. The party will replace the Work Circle usually held on the 3rd Thursday of each month. All ladies of the congregation are invited to attend. There will be a program and exchange of gifts. Lunch will be pot luck.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

Sunday School 10:15 A. M.

Morning Worship 11:20 A. M.

Sermon theme "The Book of the Ages". in observance of "Universal Bible Sunday."

The December Birthday social announced erroneously for last Monday will be held next Monday the 13th at 8 o'clock. The Official Board will hold a brief organizational meeting during the evening.

CHRISTIAN RURAL OVERSEAS PROGRAM

Southeast Quarter Of Hancock County
Calvin Grosshuesch, Chairman

AVERY TOWNSHIP
Jule Cook and LeRoy Johnson Chairman

Dist.	Canvasser	Amt.
1	Walter Rosendahl	$ 102.00
2	Verner Nelson	54.00
3	Roy Arnold	123.00
4	Dale Brede	23.50
5	John Lauen	86.50
6	Raymond Wille	89.00
7	Paul Ludeke	61.00
8	John Henn	34.00
9	Jule Cook	28.00
	Total	$ 601.00

TWIN LAKE TOWNSHIP
Herman Schmidt and Erwin Nuehring, Chairman

Dist.	Canvasser	Amt.
1	Dale Schlei	$ 56.50
2	Earl Nuehring	102.00
3	H Kudje	117.00
4	Russel Hansen	145.00
5	Gerald Janssen	20.00
6	Wm Janssen	69.50
7	Walter Lauden	61.00
8	Henry Nolte	79.00
9	Arthur Chelsvig	140.00
	Total	$ 790.00

LIBERTY TOWNSHIP
Aaron Stromer, Chairman

Dist.	Canvasser	Amt.
1	Ray Haberkamp	$ 200.00
2	F. A. Bredlow	135.00
3	John Buizicky	47.00
4	Lewis Abele	110.00
5	Elmer Huenemann	141.15
6	Mrs. Ruben Lemke	118.00
7	Curtis Waddingham	125.00
8	Elmer Beier	125.00
9	Bernard Pringnitz	131.00
	Total	$1,132.25

ELL TOWNSHIP
Alvin Goll, Chairman

Dist.	Canvasser	Amt.
1	Gordan Schubert	$ 61.00
2	Lewis Wieland	100.00
3	Clarence Greiman	186.00
4	Alvert Stryle	185.00
5	Paul Goll	125.00
6	Curtis Greiman	135.00
7	Werner Schlawin	207.50
8	Roy Swanson and Ronald Barz	107.00
9	Leonard Kaduce	92.00
	Total	$1,198.50

GOODELL
Jule Cook, Chairman
Gerald Burk, Canvasser - $ 66.00

KLEMME
Emil Beier, Chairman

	Northwest
	Mrs. Carl Finders and Mrs. Harvey Barz	$ 46.50
	Southwest
	Mrs. Edmond Josten and Mrs. John Chambers	126.25
	Southeast
	Mrs. Ed Becker and Mrs. Vivian Mace	167.25
	Northeast
	Mrs. Naska Bosk and Mrs. Art Kudje	160.50
	Total	$500.50

GRAND TOTAL -- $4,288.25

As reported by Martin Barz, Hancock County CROP Treas.

HERE'S ONE FOR RIPLEY!

The Klemme American Legion were using one of the International deep freeze units in the Northern Implement Co. show room as a place to store some fowl for their Christmas party.

The Legionaires envisioned a complete loss of their poultry as the deep freeze had gone through the terrific fire Sunday night and appeared to be burned to a crisp. However, they opened it up expecting to find some nicely roasted ducks . . . instead they were still frozen as hard as ice.

The insulating material used in making the deep freeze had withstood the melting heat and kept the inside of the unit ice cold.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Pressure 'Out' in Berlin Controversy; British Welcome Lilibet's Princeling; Farmer Priority Looms in Legislation

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

PRESSURE:
Polite 'NO'

Sore point in all the Berlin controversy continued to be the Soviet blockade of the ex-Reich capital. The Big Three Western powers still blamed Russia for continuation of the crisis through perpetuating the blockade, and President Harry Truman had given emphatic evidence that he planned no further discussions with Russia on the subject until the blockade was lifted.

Following his return from a Florida vacation, the President went into a full-dress review of American foreign policy with Secretary of State Marshall and W. Averell Harriman, U. S. ambassador-at-large in Europe.

The gravity with which United Nations leaders viewed the Berlin situation was evidenced in the efforts of U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, and H. V. Evatt, general assembly president.

THESE TWO made urgent appeal to chief executives of the four big powers—going over the heads of these nations' U. N. delegations to do so—to bring the Berlin dispute to an end and thus bring about world peace.

This appeal was without avail. The United States, France and England said "no," politely but firmly. They declared the issue must remain in the hands of the U. N. security council until the Russian blockade is lifted. Russia reacted as usual, blaming the Western powers for the stalemate.

Evatt and Lie argued that the dispute cannot be settled within the cramped confines of the security council and should be aired in the wider fields of the general assembly.

AGGRAVATING the situation was the coming winter with its consequent obstacles to the air lift. The Russians appeared content to wait out this phase of American aid to Germany in the apparent conviction, or hope, that bad weather would so impair air lift efficacy as to make it negative in the battle for Germany.

If the situation were to be resolved by diplomatic means, American thought and procedure on the question would carry top weight with the Big Three.

Under this setup, President Truman's evident intention to spurn discussion of the problem unless the Berlin blockade were lifted, would indicate the United States was prepared to continue the "cold war" with the Russians, and to bet with the elements that the air lift would continue to be efficient and that Premier Stalin and his Communists would have to come to terms in the end.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN reiterated that he planned no American mission of any sort to Moscow, and that he and Secretary Marshall were in accord on all questions. The President would stand for no pressuring in discussion of the Berlin question, even if it came from top chieftains in the U. N.

PRIORITY:
For Farmers

The man with the hoe put the "X" where it counted November 2, and, as a result, America's farmers are to reap a share of President Truman's smashing victory at the polls.

Even now, administration chiefs are moving to give the nation's farmers top priority over labor in any legislative program coming up for action by the next congress.

THE FARMER'S reward is to come immediately—not in the future—and the outlook is that labor may have to stand behind the farmer when awards for a part in President Truman's triumph are to be handed out in a legislative program.

Best friend of the farmers when the plums are to be passed around is Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan. No doubter of where credit for Mr. Truman's victory belongs, Brannan already has assigned Louis M. Bean, department economist and election forecaster, to prepare charts and graphs to show the President that he owes his election primarily to the farmers.

THAT ISN'T all that will be done to insure the farmers a fair return on their investment in Mr. Truman, for top level planners are drafting a new "flexible" price support program to go into effect early in 1949, instead of 1950, as would have been the case under the Republican Aiken farm bill.

Add to this the fact that Senator-Elect Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), former agriculture secretary, took a direct hand in supervising drafting of the new measure and personally will introduce it, and it becomes evident the farmer's happy place in the administration sun is most assured.

BASIS of Brannan's contention that farmers elected Mr. Truman: if it weren't for the farm states in the agricultural west, the 11 industrial states on the Atlantic seaboard that voted for Governor Dewey would have swung the election Republican.

How will farmers fare under the administration plan? Here's the projected program:

To protect the farmer against anticipated crop price fall-offs, he would be given a flexible price floor that would protect growers, but would not burden U. S. taxpayers with an extended permanent subsidy of farm surpluses.

PROVIDE adequate storage facilities for farmers in corn and wheat belts to prevent loss of bumper crops.

Extend reclamation and soil conservation benefits to more farmlands and provide an increased rural electrification for more farmers, this to be sponsored and paid for by the government.

This, then, is an extension of the benefits which farmers may have felt were imperiled in the Dewey program, and for which they felt they were voting when they cast their ballots for President Truman.

WELCOME:
Infant Rex

For hours the solemn-faced constable had kept his vigil in the chill of the November night. Impassive in the fact of the huge throngs that pushed against the gates he guarded, he waited for the word.

At last he saw a royal page, garbed in blue, walk stiffly from a palace doorway. The page strode to the constable's side, bent over and spoke in a low voice.

THE CONSTABLE'S face lighted, he walked quickly to the iron railing against which the crowd was densely packed and declared exultantly: "It's a boy!" Then throwing his head back, he shouted: "A prince has been born."

To Princess Elizabeth, heir-apparent to the throne of England, and her consort, Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, had been born a son. A prince by a special royal decree of King George VI issued several days before the birth of the child. Their young prince was born just six days short of the royal couple's wedding anniversary, November 20.

THE NEWS that Elizabeth's child was a son told the usually stolid Londoners what they wanted to hear—that the royal heir was a child who might someday be their king.

Into a world of crisis and unrest, an age of a dwindling empire for Britain, was born a princeling whose future as a potential ruler is fraught with imponderables.

Both he and his mother would be cut off the line of succession to the throne should a son be born to the king and queen; monarchial governments, even of the benevolent type, are fading from the world scene; the contracting empire's dimensions are subject to speculation, but even were these things nonexistent, there is the last and greatest imponderable of them all—the atomic bomb.

REFUND:
Pay Up

If you're an ex-GI and figure to cash in on those service insurance dividends next year, make sure you're square with the Veterans' administration or you're likely to get left in the cold.

VA says it may withhold all or part of the checks of two groups of veterans—those who have received overpayments for education or training subsistence and those who have defaulted on GI loans.

Day of Judgment

Hideki Tojo, former prime minister and top war lord of Japan, was found guilty of wartime atrocities by an allied tribunal in Tokyo and was sentenced to death by hanging. He is the last survivor of the infamous Hitler-Mussolini-Tojo axis.

Missing Link?

Anthropologists appear to have turned up another "missing link" in the evolution of man.

The latest find, discovered in an ancient Transvaal cave in South Africa, may provide a clue to the earliest known of man's ancestors. The bones of this prehistoric creature, who may have lived a million years ago, indicate he might have been a "man-ape" who carried weapons and built fires.

? Current Events ?

You probably will recall that the U. S. had a presidential election (sounds of screaming) a few weeks ago. It was the biggest upset since Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lantern in Chicago, and it will take its place as one of the most unusual in a long line of distinguished American elections. The subject merits a few questions which merit a few answers. Do you know them?

1. Mr. Truman is the first native of Missouri to be elected President. In what two states were the largest number of Presidents born?

2. In this election four southern states voted against the regular Democratic party. How many southern states deserted the party in 1928?

3. Seven vice-presidents have succeeded to the presidency on the death of the chief executive. How many of these, besides Mr. Truman, were elected to a full term as President in their own right?

4. When does the President's term of office begin? And when do those of senators and representatives?

5. There are nine men in Mr. Truman's cabinet. Other Presidents elected recently have had 10-member cabinets. Why the difference?

ANSWERS

1. Virginia—eight (Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Wilson); Ohio—seven (Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft, Harding).
2. Five. Texas, Virginia, Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee voted Republican.
3. Two. Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge.
4. President's term begins January 20, those of senators and representatives on January 3.
5. Under the armed forces unification act of 1947 the cabinet positions of secretary of the navy and secretary of war were eliminated and just one office — secretary of defense — was added.

MILLENNIUM:
Very Unfunny

When a radio comedian backs off from laughs, the event rates in news value with the man-bites-dog item.

But there's method—about $16,000 worth weekly—in Arthur Godfrey's madness. Godfrey is the guy who has ordered his musicians not to laugh at any of his jokes.

THE RED-HEADED radio comic explains wistfully that his musicians used to laugh at his jokes, sing with him and "have all kinds of fun." But that's all over now, Godfrey says.

He adds that union rules provide that if his musicians laugh at his jokes, or join him in songs, they will come under an additional union, the American Federation of Radio Artists. And that, says Godfrey, would mean an extra cost of $800 to $900 a week for each musician.

His men would sing choruses and they'd kid each other, the comedian says, but now "if they open their mouths to sing they come under AFRA's jurisdiction. That adds the extra salary."

No Hairshirt Here

A picture of carefree contentment, President Truman accoutered himself in casual shirt while tripping lightly through his post-election vacation at Key West, Fla. He whiled away the drowsy hours by formulating the broad outlines of his administrative policy for the next four years, and paused for a moment to turn down a proposal for another Big Four conference at this time.

NEW LIGHT:
From Isaiah

New light and interpretation may be thrown on the Old Testament by discovery of the complete scroll of the Prophet Isaiah. All 66 chapters of the book, with only a few portions missing, have been found.

One of the most dramatic Biblical discoveries of all time, the scroll was brought to light recently when four of the oldest Hebrew manuscripts thus far known were found in a cave near the northern end of the Dead Sea.

Scholars date the Isaiah scroll as early Maccabean, or second century B. C., which would make it the oldest Biblical document yet to be discovered intact.

THE DISCOVERY of a complete Isaiah scroll, dating back a thousand years before the oldest one known, promises scholars an opportunity to seek new meaning from the Bible, and to determine by comparison the extent that errors may have found their way into Biblical manuscripts with the passage of time.

Bible scholars point out that the Book of Isaiah, like all of the Bible, came down to us as the result of many copyings by scribes who would make additional scrolls as the old ones wore out.

Washington Digest

The Election Has Changed Both Democrats and GOP

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—There are two experiences which no one should miss if he can help it. Coming into Paris, the "city of light," and Washington, "the city of magnificent distances," at twilight by airplane.

Lately I dropped down from the clouds upon Washington, with the lingering embrace of southern sunlight about me. The tiny sparkling lights below winked their welcome. But this esthetic experience ended bruskly when I left the airport. The winking lights stared, and by the time I reached the National Press club, eyes winked but they belonged to my colleagues who patrol the beat from the White House to the Capitol.

Fresh from the innocent delights of the vacationing fisherman, I bragged about my tan, and then carelessly inquired: "What is going to happen in congress next month?"

Baukhage

One of the colleagues answered: "Harry Truman is lucky. He owes one debt he never will have to pay—to Henry Wallace. When Wallace bowed himself out he stepped on the red ruffles of Miss Democrat's petticoat, and pulled it along with him."

And it was generally admitted that much of the stigma connected with the charge of "coddling Communists" was removed when Wallace left. Like the Pied Piper (not of Hamelin, but once of Iowa) he piped away a lot of the "lunatic fringe" which is the eternal headache of all political parties.

The rodents in this case (both red and pink) followed the piper's dulcet promises. But the piper was unable to take his revenge. Unlike the flutist in the poem who lured Hamelin's children away when their parents wouldn't pay the rat-exterminator, Henry's piping titillated few Democratic ears. The voters didn't follow.

There were other unwept losses among Harry Truman's alleged supporters. He won the election without the solid south. The other end of the Democratic spectrum colored by the views of those who preferred mint juleps under the fragrant magnolias, to straight Yankee or middlewestern spirits withdrew discreetly and completely to their jasmine-curtained verandas. This doesn't mean they won't be heard from later, but they aren't the worry they once were.

While no one would bracket the conservatives with the "lunatic fringe," the Dixiecrats did cause many embarrassments to the Democrats. Now they are at least separately ticketed.

The Republicans likewise derived certain healing qualities from the cold douche they took on November 2, not unlike Mr. Truman's. A number of their die-hards died in the struggle with the electorate.

Minority-Leader-to-Be Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, is no wild-eyed radical. So what he says on the subject of change (which is what the radical always wants) is significant.

Joe warned his friends back in Attleboro, Mass., a district which probably will elect him as long as he chooses to run, that the Republicans in the recent campaign offered the people "too many Brahmins, too many plutocrats." These Republican candidates, said Joe, likewise offered too little personality, did not appeal to the people, and formed a narrow circle which prevented what he called "expansion and the opening of ranks." (Of whom could he have been thinking?)

"We digressed too far from the people," the former speaker said, and the "GOP must reorganize in the cities and towns, getting in new blood at every level." Joe was speaking then out of his deep political wisdom.

Social Legislation Is Here to Stay

Rep. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican national committee in the recent campaign, gave another significant post-election warning to his party. Republicans must recognize, he said, that legislation embodying social gains is here to stay.

So it would appear that these men, and many of the other Republicans who now represent the GOP in congress, are as happy to be relieved, not of a lunatic fringe like the Democrats, but of an albatross around their necks.

The Republicans who are trying to re-form their ranks and re-build for 1950 are by no means pessimistic. To quote Joe Martin again, he predicted that the GOP would snap back quicker than they went out. They know now, if some of them didn't before, they must keep in step with the times. One of the great problems the Republican national committee faced in the campaign was reconciling the progressive ideas set forth in Mr. Dewey's speeches with the somewhat pleistocene attitude (as one observer described it), of some of the ex-candidates for house and senate.

Witness the embarrassing situation in West Virginia, not to mention Illinois. The New York governor simply couldn't stomach crossing the borders of West Virginia to embrace its recalcitrant senator.

Chicago on the other hand is a railway center and it was necessary for Governor Dewey to change trains there and "in Rome do as Romans do." He did, and endorsed the Republican senatorial candidate from Illinois. But the citizens of Illinois did not.

Had Mr. Dewey been elected, and had the Republican senator from Illinois been re-elected, the White House would have faced difficulties, among them the embarrassing paradox: Sen. C. Wayland Brooks opposed the Marshall plan which Dewey strongly endorsed. Taking that as a guide, it seems possible that Brooks could have been counted upon to vote against a Dewey-Dulles foreign policy as he did against Mr. Truman's.

Liberal Thought Growing in U. S.

The election, I believe, caused thoughtful people to emerge with one idea which the entire nation, regardless of its politics, will have to get used to. The thought is not original with me, but it is one that was mentioned by the only person who did predict the election result (except the man I lost a bet to). Agriculture Economist Bean said something like this:

The wave of liberal thought which appeared to have reached its zenith under Roosevelt is still on the upswing. Apparently the natural post-war reaction stopped it, but didn't start it going in the opposite direction.

Now some of you may not like that thought, but it were well to accustom oneself to the idea. Nor need you expect the pendulum ever to swing as far back as you might wish. Personally, I enjoy riding behind a spanking team in a buggy "with the fringe on top," and I wonder if we wouldn't all be better off if the internal combustion engine had never been invented. But I am willing to admit, things being what they are, that we have traffic lights and other annoying regulations.

At any rate, when President Truman takes the rostrum to deliver his message in January, he will look out on a congress which, his friends claim, he fashioned in large part with his own hand. Or I might say with his own sharp tongue from a back platform.

Harry Truman went out and fought tooth and nail, no holds barred, for the kind of congress he wanted. The people, whether or not that was their only intention, gave it to him.

And now as one somewhat cynical observer remarked to me:

"Harry's got what he wanted, God help him."

He has to deliver now.

The Wednesday Democrats" have turned out to be Saturday's children when it comes to getting jobs in Washington.

* * *

An elephant can do a lot of things with his trunk but he has to carry it with him when he travels. I can check mine.

* * *

The ocean is growing saltier, according to the National Geographic. Probably getting jealous of the Great Salt lake.

* * *

Television is climbing out of its cradle, says Electrical Advertising. Let's hope it won't crawl back to meet the occupants of cradles half way.

* * *

Export of butter from the Argentine is increasing. Perhaps because it won't melt in President Peron's mouth when he tells what he'll do to people who want to prevent his re-election.

* * *

It's an ill wind (I'd say seriously ill) that blows nobody's good cigarette lighter out.

* * *

It's hard to find anything you like to eat when you're on a diet. But suppose you were an ant-eater?

* * *

Home sewing is a bigger business than ever—but what's being sewed is nobody's business.

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

THE most serious matter that will confront football's rule-makers at their next meeting will be unlimited substitution, where changes are often made in groups of 11 at a crack.

It is this highly diseased arrangement which permits squads, rich in material, to use separate teams for attack and defense. It is murder for the smaller colleges and those that have no such material to call on. Imagine 292 substitutions in the Cornell-Columbia game.

Grantland Rice

Here is a rule that is hated by most of the coaches—that is despised by the public—that is highly unpopular with all real football players who happen to like both sides of the game—offense and defense. Michigan and Army might be exceptions.

Under its protecting banner, fine football players can leave college without ever having made a tackle, broken up a block, covered a hostile fumble or intercepted a pass. Most of the better football coaches are dead against it, which means that some definite changes will be made this winter as said coaches are backed up by public opinion.

It would be exactly the same if a baseball team had a fielding outfit and, in addition, had a batting order that included none of the defensive players. There are more than a few who can hit but who can't field. There are still more who can field but who can't hit. To be a real ballplayer you have to do both. This isn't true in football.

As Earl Greasy Neale puts it—"The real football player can give you from 50 to 60 minutes. If he can't, then he isn't a real football player."

Here is another side, presented by one of the best football minds in the game: "In regard to free substitutions, there is a difference between using free substitutions—using from 30 to 50 players in a game—and employing offensive and defensive teams.

"When you watch Michigan you always know who is on the field. There are two solid units, one for offense and one for defense. Each is a well-drilled team, with perfectly co-ordinated units. By resting one or the other, the coach always has a fairly fresh eleven in the field.

"They are specialists—but where don't you find specialists today. There are specialists in dentistry, medicine, architecture, advertising and manufacturing.

"Crisler with his two-team idea has produced the most interesting football ever seen at Michigan. His offense is the finest and most interesting in football. Try to buy a seat for any Michigan game at Ann Arbor."

The only answer is there are two sides to every question, the same as a plank.

* * *

Dealing in Nostalgia

BOTH the Yankees and the Giants, whatever they might do in the way of new material, have taken on a strong nostalgic turn.

The Yankees keep the able Crosetti and then send for Bill Dickey, one of the real Yankees of all time. The Giants send a hurry call to Frankie Frisch and Freddie Fitzsimmons to bring the past into the present and future.

Both these moves are popular with the fans at large. Frisch and Dickey are among baseball's immortals. They were part of the grandeur that was the Giants and part of the glory that was the Yankees.

But, Herman Hickman said when told of the famous stars from the past who once wore the Blue: "I know—but I can't use 'em today."

Neither Leo Durocher nor Casey Stengel can win a pennant with the material that finished out the campaign of 1948. Durocher needs battery help and infield help. The Yankees need better catching, better pitching and infield rebuilding.

Cleveland will be even stronger than a year ago. So will the Red Sox who, in some fashion, will come up with a pitcher or two so badly needed last season.

It is difficult to believe that even Billy Southworth can repeat with that collection of ballplayers he had last year, unless the entire National league remains second-class.

The mighty Casey has put the blast on the Dodgers, but they still have enough good ballplayers to win a pennant if properly handled in the front office, or if Burt Shotton is let alone.

The teams in the first division should find the Cubs, Phillies and Reds much improved if properly directed. But the Giants' bid for a pennant is going to call for a large amount of smart rebuilding. The same is true of the Yankees, whose main strength last season was an outfield headed by Joe DiMaggio.

CLASSIFI
DEPARTME

AUTOS, TRUCKS & ACC
REO 1946, 19BHS, 8:25 tires, 2 axle, hoist stock rack, gr. radio, heater. Exc. cond. Call o ORLIE BESLER - Casca

BUSINESS & INVEST. O
IF YOU ARE contemplating on or now operating a War Surplus s are in the position to furnish y many original War Surplus ite are also manufacturers of ma saleable items that bring you good Write for full details. General Co., 15 E. Grand, Oklahoma Cit

1 ACRE LOT—Good location for grocery store, pool hall and e Highways jct. 34 and 71. $1,000. of two houses close by reasonabl ORTON MOTORS
Villisca - -

FARM MACHINERY & E
SALE
H D 10 Allis Chalmer caterpillar pump, long track. Baker dozer call M. C. Runyon, thru Sherid

FARMS AND RANCH
CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FRE FORMATION on farm settlement opportu Fertile soils. Reasonably priced lt. C Bos Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Statio Paul, Minn.

HELP WANTED—WOM
HOUSEKEEPER wanted in mot farm home with three small ch ALFRED WOODWARD
New Sharon - -

LIVESTOCK
Reg. Hereford Bull. Domino. Br age 23 months. Guaranteed bree MELVIN FAUST - Dexter,

MISCELLANEOUS
ASTHM
Here's help—for the cough, choki Asthma. The expectorant medicin Dr. Frank Whetzel, the Asthma Spe dispensed to his patients will help and remove mucus — giving yo breathing, sleep. Trial offer. Write telling your age. Receipt 1.50 bottle as directed. If satisfied—in 10 day 1.50; if not satisfied, you owe us n WRITE NOW!
FRANK WHETZEL COMPAN
412-A W. Peachtree - Atlanta

WINTER NIGHTS — Play "Fast Fr the fascinating new game from Cali 48 actual railroads represented in 2, 3 or 4 players. Handsome gift. Sen (check or money order only) to CO PHELAN & CO., 487 West Californ Pasadena 2, California. Prompt s

5x7 ENLARGEMENT 20c
Pictures of vacation or family dese better showing. Send us NEGATIVE 20c each (no stamps) for 5x7 enlarge PHOTOS, 4200 Cuming, Omaha, 1946 Taylorcraft for Sale, B C 12 d Sensitive altimeter. New Met. L. prop hrs. $1400. Robert Farnsworth, Easton,

REAL ESTATE—BUS. PR
FORCED TO SELL on account of my modern food store and locker terms if desired. Write HENRY MARTIN, Box 026, Pierce,

Buy U. S. Savings Bon

NO other rub acts faster
CHES COLD
to relieve coughs—aching muscl
RUB ON MUSTEROL

FINE STRONG CHILDREN
You'll be proud of your strong, husky children when you give them Scott's Emulsion every day! Scott's is a "gold mine" of natural A&D Vitamins and energy-building natur oil. Helps children grow right, develo sound teeth, strong bone Helps ward off colds when th lack enough A&D Vitami food. Many doctors recommen it. Economical. Buy today your drug store.
MORE than just a tonic— it's powerful nourishmen
SCOTT'S EMULSIO
HIGH ENERGY TONIC

KEMP'S BALSA
FOR COUGHS DUE TO COLD

WNU—N 48

IF YOU WERE A WAVE, WAC, MARINE or SPA
Find out what Nursing offers you!
— an education leading to R. N.
— more opportunities every year hospitals, public health, etc.
— your allowance under the G. I. Bi of Rights often covers your entir nursing course.
— ask for more information at the hospital where you would like to enter nursing.

the Helena Rubenstein beauty salon, polaroid s installed in a specially lighted affair gives the rt a clear view of the subject's skin.

lachine-Made Maids

nsider what the poor girls go through se days in order to be beautiful. It's azing! The inside of a modern beauty on is as full of weird machines and dgets as a scientific laboratory en- ged in advanced atomic research. The male of the species thinks the gad- ts used in the beautifying process are e so many instruments out of a medie- l torture chamber; but not milady. She's t terrified one bit. She wants only to ve the machines mold or bake her to alth and beauty regardless of the so- lled "torture" to which she submits. Although many girls develop naturally o the beautiful creatures that have ere men standing on their ears, others ake the grade scientifically.

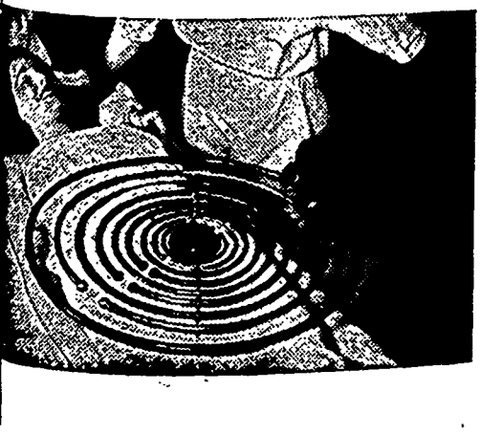
Weekly Picture Story

It may look a bit terrifying, men, but it really isn't. Thousands of women expose themselves to the magnetic waves of this gadget to tone up and revitalize the nervous and glandular system.

The Black Ray machine is turned on for treating skin fections, imperfections and eruptions. This "patient" esn't look as though she required its sevice, but it is pposed to be a great help for those who do have emishes.

There's nothing mysterious about the crystal ball in the background. From it escapes refreshing and therapeutic pine air which helps a lovely young lady relax. Well equipped establishments like this are called physiotherapy salons.

This machine, which doesn't take your pulse or blood pressure, gives a local galvanic treatment that helps ick up the slack underneath the chin and makes milady look years younger. It's one of the most important eapons in the "battle of the bulge."



The multiple wave oscillator looked like a machine gun with an enlarged sight before the maze of concentric circles was placed over the subject. Whereas a machine gun is deadly, this machine is said to perk up the nervous and glandular systems.

MIRROR of your MIND ● ● ● Disciplining Teen-Agers

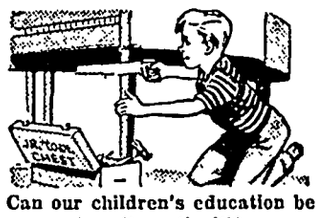
By Lawrence Gould

Should teen-agers be spanked?

Answer: There could be no more humiliating admission of parental failure. The necessity of punishing a child at all—and it is sometimes necessary—grows out of the fact that we have not yet been able to make him see why it is to his own advantage to do as we tell him, and the older the child is, the less excuse we have for substituting force for reason. Even if it does not make him hate us, treating a teen-ager like a five-year-old can only slow up his development and discourage his achieving his own moral standards that much earlier.

Is marijuana "habit-forming"?

Answer: Apparently not in the sense that opium is. It seems to cause no organic changes which will make the user ill if deprived of it. But that doesn't mean that using it may not become a mental habit, and a very dangerous one. Anything that creates an illusion of happiness with no basis in reality is the same threat to your mind that learning to stop being hungry without eating would be to your body. You may starve emotionally because it seems too much trouble to earn the real satisfactions which a normal mind requires.



Can our children's education be too "practical"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. M. F. Ashley Montagu in Marriage and Family Living. Because both our individual happiness and the world's future depend on our solving the problems of human relations, the first object of child training, both at home and in school, should be to show children how to get along with one another, and studies of merely economic value should be secondary. There is no use teaching a boy to be a skilled mechanic if he cannot hold a job because he is perpetually quarreling with his employer or his fellow-workers.

LOOKING AT RELIGION

By DON MOORE

WAY BACK IN THE DIM DAWN OF HISTORY LIVED AKHENTAN HE HAS BEEN CALLED 'THE FIRST INDIVIDUAL IN HISTORY' BY STUDENTS.
...SOUND EVIDENCE REVEALS THAT HE TRIED TO FORM A LASTING RELIGION!
SCHOLAR PATON HAS DETECTED 10 SETS OF THE 10 COMMANDMENTS IN THE BOOK OF EXODUS.
ONE THEORY IS THAT THERE WERE 10 COMMANDMENTS SO THE UNEDUCATED COULD EASILY MEMORIZE THEM ON THEIR 10 FINGERS.
A LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS
FREEDOM OF RELIGION WAS ANNOUNCED AS BEING STILL EXISTENT IN THE RUSSIAN SECTOR OF BERLIN
MOORE

KEEPING HEALTHY

Don't Let Fear Ruin Your Life

By Dr. James W. Barton

A SURGEON relates the story of how three different women were so afraid that a lump in their breast was cancer that they suffered with this fear for months before they finally consulted him only to find that in each case the lump was an enlarged milk gland, not cancer.

On the other hand, I have in mind the case of an individual who, notwithstanding evidence of heart disease—shortness of breath—postponed consulting a physician until it was too late.

As in other conditions in life, it is only too true that the thing we have to fear is the fear of fear itself.

"Perhaps the most deadly form of fear is that which holds a person back from seeking early professional attention for an ailment. One of the worst features of cancer, for instance, is the fear it instills into people.

"Cancer can be cured in most cases, and this is true of the majority of troubles. But all have to be attacked early. The thing to dread is not the disease itself, but the fear which paralyzes the initiative to do the obvious—that is, to get help to fight it, at once."

In one of the cases above mentioned by the surgeon, the whole family was to take a trip around the world.

This wife and mother, fearing the lump in her breast was cancer, took the trip with this fear in her heart rather than spoil the pleasure of her husband and family. We only can imagine how little joy the trip gave her.

In another case, it was the fear that the removal of his tonsils would mean bleeding after operation—because bleeding had occurred when his son's tonsils had been removed—that allowed a man's infected tonsils to poison his blood and then the lining of his heart which, in a short time, caused his death.

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

The time to prevent overweight is the period just before 35 in men and 45 in women. The appetite will be just as good, but the physical activity will be less. Overweight will come silently without notice.

• • •

The voluntary entrance of a patient into a mental institution means that he realizes his condition and wants to be helped.

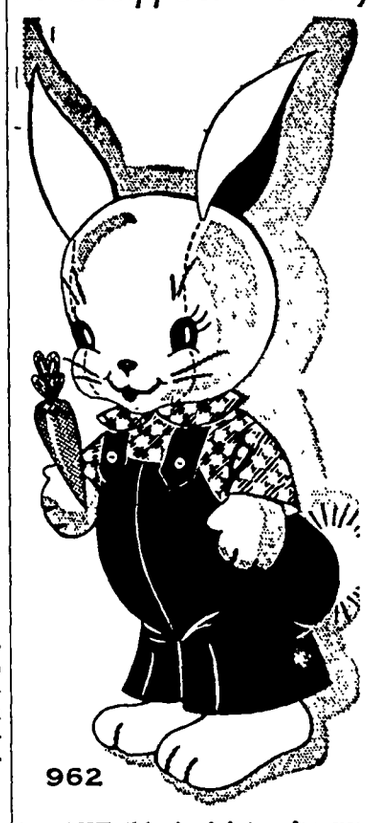
Since about three-fourths of the food eaten is needed to supply heat and energy, it is only natural that we eat more food in cold than in hot weather.

• • •

Milk is the foundation food for all young animals, which is one reason that milk is one food found in all school lunches provided by school authorities.

NEEDLECRAFT PATTERNS

A Stuffed Bunny for Kiddies



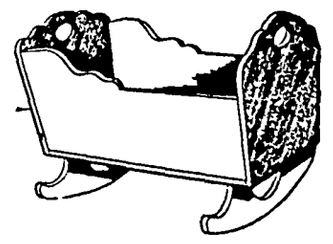
Stuffed bunny, fine for birthday or bazaar! Pattern 962 has transfer of toy, clothes patterns.

Our new, improved pattern makes needlework so simple with its charts, photos, concise directions.

Sewing Circle Needlecraft Dept.
564 W. Randolph St. Chicago 80, Ill.
Enclose 20 cents for pattern.
No.
Name
Address

MAKE this joyful toy for your youngster! Funny Bunny is such a cheerful companion, all dressed up, too. He's easy sewing.

Old-Fashioned Rocker Makes Children Happy



THIS 22-inch copy of an old-fashioned rocker will make any little girl happy. Many of the originals are now being used to hold fireplace logs. Full size patterns simplify making. Materials specified are obtainable at any lumber yard. Merely trace the pattern on wood, saw and assemble. No special tools or skills are required.

• • •

Send 25c for Colonial Cradle Pattern No 64 to East Bild Pattern Company, Dept. W, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Household Hints

Wonder how to get rid of a scratch on your furniture? Try rubbing it with an oily nut meat such as walnut or pecan.

—•—

You can remove the odor of onions from a frying pan by boiling a mixture of three cups of water and three tablespoons of vinegar in the pan for a few minutes. Drain, wash in hot soapy water and rinse in boiling water.

—•—

Add two tablespoons sugar to the water in which you cook corn on the cob. Makes it juicy and sweet.

—•—

Do not use water from the hot water tap in brewing coffee; the water should be freshly heated to obtain the best tasting coffee infusion.

—•—

Brushing plain biscuits and rolls with milk before baking gives crusts a rich golden color.

—•—

Have creamed chicken on crisp brown waffles for one extended main dish.

Fluorine Checks Decay

A group of men working with hydrofluoric acid in an atomic energy project have been found to have unusually healthy teeth, the Journal of the American Dental Association says.

The phenomenon is cited as additional evidence that fluorine is valuable in preventing dental decay.

The workmen laboring continuously in an atmosphere laden with acid fumes were found to have less than half the number of dental fillings as others in the same plant not exposed to the fumes.

Get Well QUICKER
From Your Cough Due to a Cold
FOLEY'S Honey & Tar Cough Compound

FIRST CHOICE OF MILLIONS
St.Joseph ASPIRIN
WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢

7 DAYS WILL DO IT

YES, in just 7 days . . . in one short week . . . a group of people who changed from their old dentifrices to Calox Tooth Powder averaged 38% brighter teeth by scientific test. Why not change to Calox yourself? Buy Calox today . . . so your teeth can start looking brighter tomorrow!

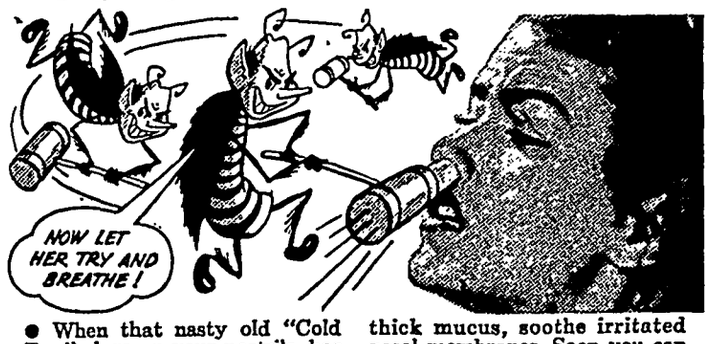
Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping

CALOX TOOTH POWDER
McKesson & Robbins Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

Wanted Everywhere
SINGERS AND MUSICIANS TO SING, PLAY AND SELL
The Latest REAL SONG HIT
"I Want Some-one Who Wants Me"
4 verses with waltz music.
Single copy 50c with order.
Special quantity prices to dealers.
A. L. WOLFF, Box 337, Chicago 90, Ill.

CHRISTMAS EVERGREEN ASSORTMENT
Decorate your home with fragrant boughs of Norway Pine, White Pine, Jack Pine, Red Princess Pine, Cedar and Balsam. 17 colored and natural Pine Cones, silver-colored Alder twig, Leather Leaf, wires and Your Home Decorating Booklet. Makes an excellent Christmas Gift, too.
APPROX. 4lb. box, only... $2.00 ppd. in U. S. A.
THE PINE-PAK CO. Two Harbors 7 Minnesota

"COLD BUG" GOT YOU ALL STUFFED UP?



● When that nasty old "Cold Bug" clogs up your nostrils, has you gasping for breath—quick, Mentholatum! Instantly it starts to lessen congestion, thin out thick mucus, soothe irritated nasal membranes. Soon you can b-r-e-a-t-h-e! Don't let the "Cold Bug" keep a stranglehold on your breathing—get Mentholatum.

GET MENTHOLATUM QUICK!

Notice

The Methodist Study Group meeets Friday this week at Mrs. C. A. Larsons', on account of Mr. Moberly's funeral on Thursday.

Shirley Beier Had Birthday

Shirley Beier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beier was fourteen years old Sunday, Dec. 5th, and many of her friends were invited in for the afternoon of fun and frolic. After the games, Shirley opened many nice gifts. A nice lunch was served, after which her friends left wishing her many more happy occasions.

Have you paid your subscription?

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office Over Federated Store
Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

FOR CORN SHELLING
Phone 11R-1
Delbert
SANKEY
Garner -- Iowa

N. G. MOBERLY DIED AT HIS HOME HERE TUESDAY NOON

N. G. Moberly died at his home in Klemme Tuesday noon following an illness.

Funeral services will be held this Thursday afternoon at the Klemme Methodist Church at 2:00 o'clock with the Rev. E. M. Egeland in charge.

BELL PRODUCE BUILDS STORAGE FOR FEED AND TRUCK

Fred Bell of the Bell Produce is putting up a new building, size 22x24 feet at the back of his store. The new building will give him a large storage room for feeds and poultry supplies, while part of the new building will house his truck This is a nice improvement and will give Mr Bell more room to carry a larger stock of merchandise.

Xmas Seal

Don't forget to send your money for the xmas seal sheet, or bring it to Lau Brothers, where there is a box for it. If any were skipped, you may stop at Thada's store and Mrs. Bredbenner will supply you with the seals.

TWINS

At Little Rock, Mrs. Jerry Janssen of Sibley and Mrs. Tom Kruse of Little Rock, twins, celebrated their 70th birthday.

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE DEALS

The First Nat'l. Bank of Chicago to Rush, Oscar J. and Velma A., wife 11-3-48 QCD all int. N½ SE¼; SW¼SE¼ and E½ E½SW¼ 13-97-26.

Cook, Virgil A. and Genevieve, wife to Neuberger, Melvin L. 11-18-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 L7, Blk. 9 Klemme's 1st Add to Klemme.

Brugman, Maude E. and Lloyd A, husband to Boehnke, Albert 11-19-48 Wty. Deed. $1.00 L5 and N 5' of L6, Blk. 6 Park Add to Town of Garner.

Brown, John W. and Myrtle M. to Trulson, Theodore and Violet, L 1, 2 and 3 Blk. 3 Orig Town of Britt.

Kurtz, Eunice and Ernie, husband to Wesenberg, Pearl 11-9-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 SE¼ of SE¼ Sec. 36-96-24.

Maben, Jennie B., widow to Thurston, N. T. 6-1-48 Wty Deed $1.00 SW¼ and NW¼SE¼ Sec. 7 and NW¼ Sec. 18 all in 97-23.

Christians, John P., widower to Haefner, Wilbur 11-4-48 Wty. Deed $4,000 L1, 2, 3, and 4 Blk 6 Barz Add. to Klemme.

Day, Mildred and John N, husband et al to Elder, Ralph W. 2-19-47 Wty. Deed $1.00 tract of land in Out Lot 1; comm at NE corner of L13, Blk. 1 thence N 70' on W line, thence E112½' thence S 70'; thence W 112½' to beginning in Town of Klemme, Iowa.

Jost, Helen Kirwood and Henry F., husband to Anderson, D. P. and Geneva E., wife 10-16-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 L3, 4 and 5 Blk. 8 in Orig. Town of Klemme

Refinishing Gives— NEW LOOK FOR OLD FURNITURE

Many a good piece of furniture looks weary because of years of hard wear. Refinishing at home can make it look almost as good as new.

Have you let your good, sturdy household furniture carry on all these years with out really looking at it? Of so, some furniture refinishing may be in order and you're just the person who can do it.

It's not a hard job, but you'll want to follow directions carefully. Be sure to put your efforts only on furniture that's going to serve for some time to come.

Refinishing Steps

Home furnishings specialist of Iowa State College say that furniture refinishing is done in 3 steps. removal of the old finish, preparation of the surface for the new finish, and application of the new finish.

Sometimes it isn't necessary to take off the old finish. Just sand the furniture lightly with fine sandpaper. Then sponge it with warm water and dry, or wipe it with a soft, dry cloth.

To put a new finish over the old one, remove any old wax or oil by means of turpentine, benzine, naphtha, or warm water and soap Use 4-0 sandpaper or pumice stone and water on the surface.

To take off the old finish, use a good commercial paint and varnish remover. Apply the remover to a small space and wait until the old finish is soft. Then take it off with a putty knife, soft cloth, or a pad of steel wool and warm water. Clean the varnish remover from the surface, following directions on the container.

If you need to scrape off the old finish, use a putty knife or kitchen knife. Work carefully with the grain of the wood.

Here's how to get the bare wood ready for a new finish. Smooth the surface with fine sandpaper. Sand with the grain of the wood. Then, remove any dark spots by sanding or by a household bleach. Apply the bleach to the spot with a soft cloth. Let it stand 15 to 20 minutes; repeat if necessary. Then bleach the entire surface so it will look the same. Rinse the surface with a weak ammonia or borax solution.

Fill up the cracks and holes. Sawdust and glue works fine in cracks, nail or screw holes.

Glue the loose joints and parts. Be sure to scrape off old glue first.

Then raise any dents or bruises in the wood. Apply a wet blotter or woolen cloth to the spot. Hold a hot iron near the wet blotter or cloth until steam rises. Be careful not to burn the surface. And most important, be sure not to use this process on veneered wood. It loosens the veneer.

Stains, Fillers, Paint

Apply stains if you wish to change the color of the furniture. Also apply filler. Any wood needs filler, either paste or liquid, to fill the pores and serve as a protective coating. Check with your local merchant to know what type of filler to use on the particular kind of wood you're refinishing. Follow directions carefully.

As to finishes, if you have a beautiful wood, you will want to show it. Use a natural finish. Remember that a dull, satin finish is nicer than a hard, glossy one. Natural finishes are raw or boiled linseed oil, varnish, shellac or penetrating seals such as floor seal.

Paint and enamel are nontransparent. They are usually used on less valuable woods and for covering old finishes.

Production of Steel Rails Demands Close Supervision

Despite costly improvements and rigid standards of production, rail prices have dropped decade by decade from Bessemer's original $250 per ton in 1863 to less than $50 a ton, or approximately two and one half cents a pound in early 1947.

The 1947 production of two million tons of rail steel is being put to use on the 398,000 miles of track that bind the continent together carrying one billion passengers and 2.5 billion tons of freight each year.

On the main lines, the modern steel rail has an average service life of 15 years. In the last decade, rail failures per 1,000 miles of trackage, after two years' service, dropped from 12.7 per cent to 3.6 per cent.

Almost as exacting an operation as watchmaking, production of rail steel begins as a heated ingot is taken from the soaking pit and delivered to the blooming mill. Then the steel is rolled in a 20-step operation, through "roughing" and finishing machines, designed not only to shape the rail but literally to knead and "work" it to greater tensile strength.

Uniformly cooled to reduce the danger of internal shatter-cracks, the rail is straightened and its bolt holes drilled. At this point, the laboratories conduct resilience tests on sections of each lot of rails, dropping a ton weight from a height of 20 feet to deliver a blow 25 per cent greater than the steel will ever receive in roadbed service.

Samples are then given physical examinations and put through stress tests to show that they will stretch a minimum of six per cent without cracking. Finally, each rail is measured and checked against rail standards to insure that it does not vary more than three-eighths of an inch in length over its 39 feet.

Insect Control Practiced Centuries Before Christ

The practice of fumigation is not a new one. As early as the 12th century B. C. sulphur was burned as a measure to keep down insect infestations.

Different materials such as incense, smokes and aromatic substances were tried from time to time until in 1886 hydrocyanic acid gas was first used; and today it is one of the most outstanding fumigants on the market.

The scientific history of hydrocyanic acid commences with the accidental discovery of Prussian blue by a German chemist early in the 18th century. Investigations of this compound led to the discovery of hydrocyanic acid, or as it was then called, Prussic acid.

The reason for the practice of fumigation is to aid the elimination of insects in homes, flour mills, cereal plants, grain storages and other types of buildings. The big problem is to make sure that the fumigant reaches the insect in a high enough concentration and for a long enough time to insure a 100 per cent kill. Insects breathe the toxic fumigant and are subsequently asphyxiated.

Theoretically, this practice amounts to introducing a lethal concentration of gas in an enclosed space for a certain length of time under certain conditions.

Jeep Fan Belts, Tires Freeze In Alaska Cold

SEATTLE —Here are a few of the inconveniences experienced by members of the navy's cold weather unit during maneuvers in Alaska:

Fan belts on jeeps stiffened in sub-zero cold and shattered like glass rods; rubber tires froze solid; vehicles could not be started by towing because gear oils and wheel bearing greases stiffened so the wheels would skid rather than turn.

Portable high-tensity heaters were turned on automotive engines for a couple of hours before they started. When cars were parked they had to be left in gear so that when the engine started they could move. Shifting gears was out of the question.

Humble Peas Used to Sell As Luxury for $62 a Pint

Most people do not know that peas once sold for $62.50 per pint—enough money to buy 400 cans of peas at the grocer's today.

Nor do they know that most of the 30,000 farmers for whom peas are an all-important cash crop get paid on the calculations of an instrument called a tenderometer, which crushes a given quantity of green peas and determines their tenderness. The easier the crush the higher the price the canner pays the farmer.

Last year canners packed nearly 800 million cans of peas, which, if placed end to end, would girdle the globe twice.

Peas costing over a cent a piece, or $62.50 a pint, were a delicacy indulged in by members of the French court during the reign of Louis XIV. The author of the Life of Colbert wrote in 1696 that peas were "both a fashion and a madness."

Flavor and quality in peas are captured by canning them as soon as they reach the correct stage of maturity. Even a small pea cannery can turn out 300 cans per hour. Working night and day during harvest time, members of the industry in 27 states last year packed enough peas to provide everyone in the United States with 25 generous servings.

Wheel-Chair Kitchen

As a first step in a program to aid an estimated five million disabled U. S. housewives, a complete kitchen that can be operated by a woman in a wheel chair has been designed, in Bridgeport, Conn.

The program is sponsored by the Institute of Rehabilitation in New York, an outgrowth of affiliation between New York university and Bellevue hospital. The institute is supported by a $250,000 grant from the Bernard Baruch committee on physical medicine and by resources from the Milbank memorial fund and other agencies. According to Dr. Howard A. Rusk, executive chairman of the institute and wartime army rehabilitation head, work in the field of rehabilitation has thus far overlooked the five million disabled housewives in the United States. Of this number, Dr. Rusk asserted, "two million depend on crutches or wheelchairs. They constitute the largest occupationally disabled group in the country."

Phone your news to 12.

Klemme American Legion's CHRISTMAS
FEATHER PARTY
and
CARNIVAL

Community Hall
MONDAY
DEC. 20
Begins At 8:00 P. M.
- Turkeys
- Geese
- Ducks

FREE COFFEE AND DOUGHNUTS

FUN FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR FUN

Everybody Welcome
Bring The Family

THADA'S

THE STORE OF EVERYDAY LOW PRICES!

Friday & Saturday DECEMBER 10 & 11

Dates Imported - Pitted Per Pound 19¢

FRIDAY - SATURDAY
BEEF STEAK Per Pound-- 69¢

ANOTHER SPECIAL!
MAZOLA OIL Pint------ 40¢

JACK SPRAT
FLOUR 5 Pound Bag------ 37¢

CREAM STYLE NO. 2 CANS
CORN 2 CANS FOR ONLY---- 29¢

Spry or Crisco 3 Pound Can $1.09

CRYSTAL WHITE LAUNDRY Giant Bars
SOAP 3 BARS FOR---------- 19¢

LARGE 46 OZ. CANS
GRAPEFRUIT JUICE 5 for 89¢

RED
SALMON 1 POUND CAN 69¢

VAN CAMPS NO. 2 CANS
PORK & BEANS 2 For---- 33¢

Bologna Home Made --- Pure Meat Per Pound - - - 45¢

MIRACLE
CLOTHES BLEACH Gallon 29¢

FRIDAY - SATURDAY
RAISINS 2 LB. PKG.---- 29¢

JACK SPRAT CONDENSED
MILK 2 LARGE CANS-- 23¢

WHOLE or STRAINED
CRANBERRIES 1 LB. CAN 17¢

CHOCOLATE CHIPS pkg. - - 19c

CHRISTMAS TREES WE HAVE A FULL LINE OF SIZES OF WESTERN SHEDLESS FIR TREES. Come in and make your selection now!

MIXED CANDY Per Pound - - - 19c

Highest Market Price For Your Eggs CASH or Trade

Thada's

"A Good Store In A Good Town" Klemme, Iowa

Exquisite Gifts For HER . . .

ARE GIFTS FROM MARIE'S TOILETRIES

To pay her pretty compliments . . . gifts boasting the practical too . . . for they're usable in spite of their beautiful trappings . . . sweet fragrance.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS

Combs
Bath Salts
Perfume Sets
Gift Soap
Bath Powder
Lotions
Nail Polish
Lipstick
Toilet Water
Cologne
Newest Compacts
Bubble Bath
Baby Soap
Bath Mitts
Hand Creams

FOR HIM

We suggest Shaving Sets and Cologne

SPECIALS

Wrisley Bath Soap (4 bars) ---------- 98c
Revlon Lipstick and Polish Set ---------- 75c
(This Is a $1.25 Value)
EVENING IN PARIS $1.75 Value For
Face Powder and Perfume (both) ------ $1.00

EVERYTHING IN COSMETICS

Marie's Beauty Shop

Marie Blank, Proprietor Klemme, Iowa

DEAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED

Britt Rendering Company
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22

WE PAY PHONE CHARGES

KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000

Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load

TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Yes Sir, Insomnia's Contagious!

When Bud Swanson had trouble sleeping nights, and tried to get over it by turning up the radio full blast, he started an epidemic of insomnia all down the block!

Folks finally dropped a hint to Bud that he close the windows or turn the radio a little lower. Bud did—and that was the quickest cure for other folks' insomnia I've ever heard of!

Not that any of us object to the radio, or swing bands, or anything else that helps another person relax of an evening. (Myself, I like a glass of beer with a bit of cheese before I go to bed. I can't speak for you.)

From where I sit, good neighborliness means nothing more than simply respecting the other person's tastes and rights—without forcing your own tastes or opinions down his throat. And that goes for Bud's radio, my glass of beer, or whatever temperate pleasure you happen to enjoy.

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

SPECIALS ON
Tractor Tires
Regular Sure Grip
All Sizes
20% off
AS LONG AS THEY LAST

We now have passenger car tires—Mud and Snow—Sure Grip in all sizes

LET ME SUPPLY YOU WITH TIRES

One and Three-Quarters Miles South of Duncan

FRANK L. ZROSTLIK
BRITT, IOWA
5 mi. West, 4¼ mi. North of Klemme

REMIND EACH OTHER OF Christmas Everyday!
WITH GIFTS FROM OUR STORE!

For Him

Electric Drills
Saws
Hammers
Drill Sets
Blow Torch
Soldering Iron
Flash Light
Jack Knife
Electric Razor
Drop Light
Tap and Die Set
Electric Grinder
Pipe Wrenches
Crescent Wrenches
Levels
Box of Shells

For Her

Westinghouse Refrigerator
Westinghouse Electric Stove
Moore, Skelgas, Maytag Gas Stoves
Westinghouse Electric Roaster
Pop-Up Toasters
Electric Food Mixers
Coffee Makers
Waffle Irons
Electric Irons
Revere Ware
Aluminum Ware
Kitchen Clocks
Mixing Bowl Sets
Ice Box Sets
Pyrex Ware
Pressure Pans
Hoover or McAllister Vacuum Sweepers

OTHER CHRISTMAS ITEMS

We also have Sleds, Velocopedes, Wagons, Tree Stands, Light strings.

Klemme Hdw. Company
Willam Fuss - Harry Schuster
Klemme, Iowa
Phone 13

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE DEALS

Wesenberg, Lewis W. and Pearl, wife to Nelson, Verner G. and Jennie, wife 11-6-48, Wty. Deed $1.00 SE¼ SW¼ Sec. 9-94-23.

Peterson, Mrs. Kate surviving spouse of Christie Peterson, deceased to Peterson, Frank F. 9-27-48 QCD $1.00 L1 of Auditor's plat of Britt except the S 33' thereof.

Schlei, Bertha, widow to Anderson, D P. and Geneva 11-1-48 Wty Deed $1.00 L8 Blk. 20 Klemme's 1st Add to Klemme.

Riehm, Paul and Alice E., wife to Robertson, William C and Eunice F. 11-6-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 L4, Riehm's Subdiv., Britt.

Childers, J. C. and Winnie, wife to Sloter, William and Lela, wife 11-9-48 Wty. Deed $2250.00 a tract in L. 34 Blk. 2, Sapp's Add to Corwith.

Greiman, Geo. H. and Nannie K., wife to Brugman, Maude E. and Lloyd A., husband 11-12-48 QCD $1 00 L5, 6 and 7 Blk. 6 Park Add. to Garner.

Orthel, Oscar, single to Lackore and Helen, wife 11-9-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 L5 Blk. 6 Orig. Town of Woden.

Carlson, Oscar E., single to Schleusner, Henry 11-15-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 All that part NE¼ Sec. 27 lying E of center of open ditch in DD No. 3 and 4 in 96-24

Brunsvold, Maurice and Erling S., wife to Pollock, Bertna M. 9-11-48 QCD $1.00 E½ L16 and all L 17 and W½ L18 Sunset View Add., Garner.

Pollock, Bertha M., widow, et al to Templeton, G. W. 6-14-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 E½ of L16, all L17 and W½ L18, Sunset View Add., Garner.

Bush, J. E. to Schmidt, Lee F. 11-16-48 Wty. Deed $3.30 part of L8, Blk. 1 in Seymour's Add. to Concord.

Gardiner, A. R., widower to Dawson, Lavoy, E. 10-23-48 Wty. Deed, $1 00 L11 in Auditor's Subdiv NE½ Sec. 6-94-26.

Jacobs, Jesse W. and Rose to Goll, George L.,11-1-48 Wty. Deed $5.000 E 61' of L4, Blk. 34 Orig Town of Garner.

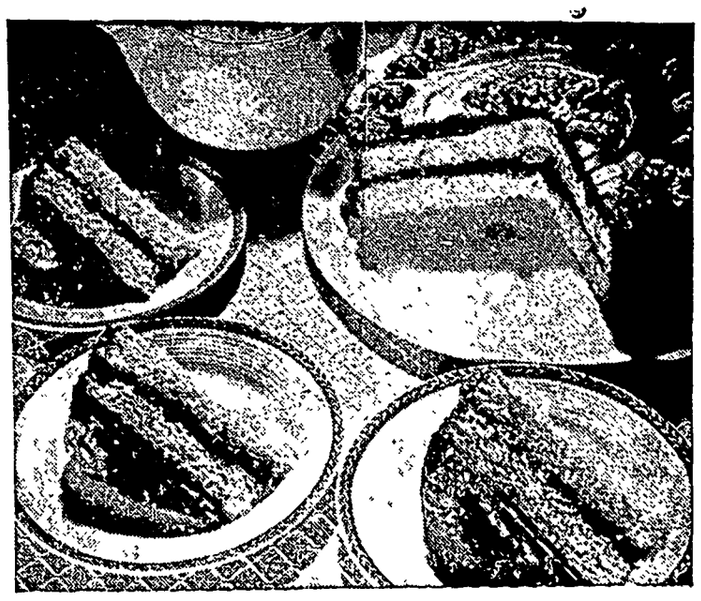
Radloff, Harold, exec. of Estate of Fred Radloff to Radloff, Laurence 10-11-48 $40,000.00 Executor's Deed SW¼SE¼ Sec. 3-95-23 and E½NW¼ and NW ¼NW¼ except 1 A. and NE¼ Sec 10-95-23 and W½NW¼ Sec. 11-95-23.

Radloff, Fred, et al to Radloff, Laurence 4-20-48 QCD $1.00 SW¼SE¼ Sec. 3-95-23 and E½ NW¼ exc. 1 A. and NE¼ Sec. 10-95-23 and W½ NW¼ Sec. 11-95-23.

Riehm, Paul and Alice E., wife to Brandt, Stanley C. and Doris A. 11-4-48 Wty. Deed $1 00 L3 Riehm's Sub-div., to Britt, Iowa

Richards, Kenton and Lois, wife to McKee, W. B. 11-12-48 Wty Deed $1.00 E½ L3 and 4 Blk. 11 Orig. Town of Garner.

HOLIDAY TIME IS— CAKE TIME



From now until New Year', most families will be holiday "open house" to friends and relatives Then's when delicious cakes and other holiday sweets deserve special attention.

Cakes, cookies and candies—what a delicious trio they make for the holiday season.

Successful cake making, we're told, cannot be guesswork even though some folks seem to have the knack for whipping up good cakes time after time Yet, for most cake makers, accurate measuring is the secret of success.

Measure Carefully

This means using standard measuring cups and spoons—for all recipes are carefully worked out this way It is helpful to use a liquid measuring cup that you can see through to measure correct amounts.

Flour is a delicate substance A little too much or not enough does funny things to a cake. Best way to measure white flour is to sift it onto a wax paper or into a bowl; then lift it lightly into a straight-top standard measuring cup with a spoon. Level off with a spatula or straight-edge knife. Don't shake.

Sift granulated sugar before measuring it, but pack brown sugar firmly in your measuring cup. Keep all dry ingredient measurements level. If your recipe calls for ½ cup of fat, fill your measuring cup half full of fat, pushing them under the water until the cup is full. Pour off water, and ½ cup of fat is left. Of course, you can also measure solid fat in a measuring cup of exact size—¼ cup measure for example. Just make sure to press it down firmly so no air spaces are left, and level off the top.

When you're measuring liquids, set the glass cup on a level surface and read it at eye level

If you're using an electric mixer, time the mixing carefully. It's easy to over-mix a cake. One hundred and fifty strokes of hand mixing equal 1 minute on the average mixer at slow or medium speed

Butter Cake

Here is a good standard cake recipe from foods specialists of Iowa State College.

The conventional butter cake calls for two-thirds cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3 cups cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Assemble ingredients. Have butter, eggs and milk at room temperature Light oven and egulate at 365 degrees F. for a layer cake or 325 degrees for loaf cake.

Prepare the cake pan. Sift flour and measure; add salt and baking powder and sift together 3 times. Measure fat; add vanilla and work with wooden spoon to soften. Add sugar gradually, creaming after each addition until fluffy. Beat 200 strokes after all the sugar is in. Beat egg until thick and foamy, and add graadually to creamed sugar and fat. Beat until mixture holds its shape. Add one-fourth flour mixture and stir until most of flour is blended. Add one-third milk and stir; then add flour and milk alternately. After final addition, stir 150 strokes.

Turn into pans and spread batter well. Divide evenly if for layer cake. Bake layer cake 25-30 minutes; loaf cake 40 to 45 minutes. The cake is done when it shrinks from the sides of the pan. Remove cake from oven and let stand for a minute or two. Then remove from pan to cool. Take off wax paper. Use 7-minute frosting or confectioner's frosting.

We specialize in printing Wedding Announcements.

AROUND IOWA

81 YEARS

Perhaps the oldest twins in the middlewest celebrated birthday anniversaries at Rock Rapids recently. They are Jul and Til Olsen, now 81, who for many years operated a millinery shop there.

HITCH-HICKER

As Tim Larimore, a Shelby County auctioneer, was driving last week, a chicken-hawk flew into the path of his automobile, with a dull thud A few miles down the road, Mr Larimore stopped his car at a stop-sign and the hawk took off from his front bumper apparently none the worse for wear.

TRIPLETS

A Holstein cow of the Willard VanDeHoef farm near Sheldon gave birth to triplet calves recently All three are husky and lively The calves were named Eeny, Meeny and Minie, There was no "Mo"

RADIOSONDE

The REA of Wright County caught a "radiosonde" in one of its transmission lines last week A "radiosonde" is a device released by the weather bureau, a ballon carries it to a height of 12 miles, at which point the balloon bursts and comes down by parachute, broadcasting weather information as it decends. The one which landed in Wright County came from Omaha.

NEIGHBORLY

Neighbors of Melvin Engleby of Rake pitched in and husked 55 acres of corn for him in six hours one afternoon recently. Mr. Engleby is in the hospital at Rochester

BULLET

When James Bloom of Jesup investigated a leaking auto radiator recently, he found that a 22 bullet had gone through two plies of steel and cut a tube in the radiator. He attributes the "shooting" to a careless hunter.

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res. Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA

Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED

Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

Thank YOU
EVERYBODY!

We want to thank Klemme, Goodell, Belmond and Garner Fire Departments for the excellent work they did in trying to save our building and equipment . . . and to all others who offered their assistance.

A special "Thank You" to Tom Roths who opened his cafe and served hot coffee to the firemen, and also to Wilbur Haefner who opened his super service building to the fire fighters so they could get warmed up.

Yours truly,

NORTHERN LUMBER COMPANY
FARM IMPLEMENTS
Phone 49 Klemme, Iowa

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF
DEAD STOCK
Phone
KLEMME ---------- 580
BELMOND ---------- 580
We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.

BELMOND By-Products
"Your Home Plant"
Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa.

Terhufen's Corner Store

Look Over Our Complete Line of Gifts and Decorations

Our unusually large and complete selection of Gift Merchandise is ready for your choosing — all is displayed where you can easily inspect its quality. Select here the gift for Mother, Father, Sister, Brother, and the entire Family . . . For Sweetheart, too!

Here Are A Few Helpful Suggestions For Gifts - -

Jewelry	Bibles	Brush Sets
Alarm Clocks	Cameras	Traveling Cases
Pens and Pencils	Cigarette Lighters	Cosmetics
Bill Folds	Mens Shaving Sets	Dresser Sets
Boxed Stationary	Electric Razors	Diaries Albums
Toilet Sets	Heating Pads	Dolls, Dishes
Baby Books	Fine Soaps	Trucks, Cars

Also A Full Line Of Christmas Tree Decorations

For The Last Minute Shopper
Boxed Candy
Christmas Cigars
Christmas Cigarettes

The Corner Store
Glen Terhufen, Proprietor Klemme, Iowa

Anniversary Special - - -

We have been in our new location one year. To celebrate the event we are offering the following special this week:

HORNET BATTERIES

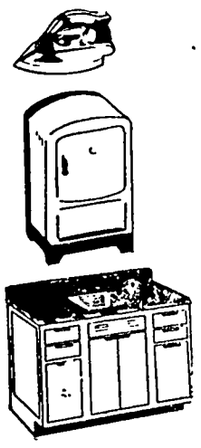
TO FIT ALL CARS
$11.60
and your old battery

GUARANTEED FOR TWELVE MONTHS

HANCOCK COUNTY COOP. OIL ASSOCIATION

Harold Kothenbeutel, Mgr. - Klemme, Ia.

ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES



What More Useful Gifts???

ELECTRIC RANGES	ELECTRIC BLANKETS
ELECTRIC OVENS	XMAS TREE LIGHTS
VACUUM CLEANERS	ELECTRIC WASHERS
DEEP FREEZE UNITS	KITCHEN MIXERS
ELEC. REFRIGERATORS	ELECTRIC MANGLES
ELEC. HOTPLATES	XMAS TREE ORNAMENTS
G-E SUN LAMPS	ELECTRIC DRILLS
RADIOS	FLASH LIGHTS
PORTABLE RECORD PLAYERS	ELEC. SPACE HEATERS
ELECTRIC TOASTERS	ELEC. WATER HEATERS
SCHICK ELEC. RAZORS	GAS WATER HEATERS
TOASTER and SANWICH GRILL COMBINED	PRESSURE COOKERS
DOOR CHIMES	PRESSURE PANS
DESK LAMPS	WATER SOFTENERS
COFFEE MAKERS	AUTOMATIC ELEC. IRONS
FLOOR LAMPS	SUNBEAM ELEC. RAZORS
TABLE LAMPS	COLEMAN ELEC. RAZORS
ELEC. HEATING PADS	G-E MANTAL CLOCKS
	ELEC. KITCHEN CLOCKS

ASK ABOUT OUR FREE XMAS GIFTS

On Wednesday evening, December 22nd, we will give away $500 in merchandise. Come in and ask us how you can receive a nice gift.

JOSTEN APPLIANCE

SHELLANE GAS - ELECTRIC WIRING
Edmund K. Josten, Prop. Phone 149-R2

AROUND IOWA

BALLOT

Among those casting a general election ballot at Rolfe recently, was Mr. Dewey Warren Vote.

PANTHER?

Josef Knoflik, elderly resident of South Tama County, reports that he saw a panther at large near the Iowa River. The animal appeared as Mr. Knoflik was taking a moonlight stroll, but did not molest him. If he sees it again, Mr. Knoflik reports he will be "the first Czeck to leave Iowa."

WEAVER

89 year old Mrs. Hannah Rickey, of Woodward, still pursues a pleasant and profitable hobby, weaving rag rugs on a loom purchased 15 years ago. In spite of her years, she is able to complete a rug in one day when "feeling good."

HUNTERS

Leo and Roman Tekippe of Decorah went deer-hunting in Canada recently. Each man had his limit of one deer within 90 minutes after the season opened.

THRILL

Hard luck continues to dog Bobby Crane, 11 year old polio victim of Denison. While a patient at Council Bluffs, his "iron lung" blew a fuse. An emergency unit was rushed to the hospital and the lad was transferred.

REMEMBERED

Mrs. J. E. Colby of Lake Mills received a nice surprise recently; a huge bouquet of beauty roses. They were sent by Sam Sollid, of Conrad, Montana, 50 years from the date he started to school in America with Mrs. Colby as his teacher. He is now a wealthy rancher. His schooling under Mrs. Colby, starting as an imigrant Norwegian boy of 12, was the only education he received.

DIED

Forty years ago, C. F. Pommerer left Belmond with his family and moved to North Dakota. Last week, the 82-year old former resident came back to Belmond for a visit and died of a heart attack a few minutes after he got off the train.

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

For Quick Truck Delivery On
D.X PRODUCTS
Phone 149-R2
ERNEST
HENSCHEN
Klemme, Iowa

SHAMROCK NEWS

Editor -------- Iris Rosendahl
Asst. Ed. ------ Donna Fjetland
Hi School Rep. ------- Maurice Trumbell
Grade Rep. ---- Isabelle Gibbs
Sports ---------- Robert Baack

The beginning of the third six weeks has most of us making resolutions about our grades and such. Here are a few of the most common resolutions:

1. Do less whispering in class and study hall.
2. Get assignments in on time.
3. Definitely less noise in the halls.
4. Study harder.
5. Raise that deportment grade.

Tuesday the whole high school drew names. What a confusing time that was, all the boys trying to get that certain girls' name and all the girls bribing each other for some other persons name.

We are wondering how many friends Mr. Bulka had after his long band session Wednesday evening. It lasted for three hours and I think most of the members agree that they felt like they had been practicing three hours. From what I hear, some of them even brought pillows to help make the chairs soft.

What about having the people that attend basket ball games show some school spirit? When the school song is played by the band, stand up and show which school you are boosting for. Show the boys you are really behind them.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

They think biology isn't as easy as it seems. They say they are really in a frenzy, trying to keep the different structures of the Arthopods to the right class and animal.

English literature finds them starting an essay on the defeat of Lee.

FRESHMAN NEWS

In Algebra they have been learning to use the decrease and increase expression and to remove parentheses.

The boys in manual training are working on their projects which they are making from wood.

The girls have started on the second half of the second project in home economics. They really seem to be enjoying sewing.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

This weeks subject is Isabelle Gibbs. She is by far the tallest girl in the class and claims she is 5' 10½" tall. She is also blond and has blue eyes. Her birthday is October 23rd and she is now 17. We are proud to have her on our basket ball team, which is naturally her favorite sport. "Lavender Green" is her favorite son and Literature, her favorite subject. Her favorite food is Angle Food cake. She likes to do oil paintings of pictures in her spare time. Being either a Missionary or Social Worker is what she would like to do after she graduates. Oh, yes, that pet peeve—people who can't keep their feet at home when sitting at a study hall table!!

GRADE NEWS
7th and 8th grades

We have been preparing for the Christmas holidays this past week. The entire class is working and is doing a fine job of this.

The 8th graders have been studying percentage and discounts for Arithmetic.

The 7th graders have been making bar graphs in Arithmetic class. Beverly Sobeck had 100 percent in Spelling for the second six weeks.

The 7th and 8th grade won a basketball game from the 5th and 6th grade by a score of 10-9 this week.

MENU

Monday
Juice
Scalloped Potatoes and Ham
Buttered Peas
Celery
Cookies
Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Milk
Tuesday
Juice
Potatoes
Weiners
Tomatoes
Half an apple
Bread and Butter
Milk
Wednesday
Juice
Bean Soup with Ham
Cabbage Slaw
Upside Down Cake
Bread and Butter
Milk
Thursday
Juice
Vegetable Hamburgers
Scalloped Corn
Carrot Strips
Muffins with Honey
Extra Bread and Butter
Milk
Friday
Juice
Mashed Potatoes and Butter
Cheese
Lettuce and Dressing
Half an Orange
Bread and Butter
Milk

Farm Bureau Calendar Of Coming Events

December 9:
F. B. Captains meeting. Hull's Cafe. 6:30 p. m.
December 10:
Garfield - Concord Homemakers Training School at Mrs. Lewis Formanek. 1:30 p. m.
December 10:
The Orthel Britt Homemakers Training School at Mrs. Elmer Knoedlers. 1:30 p. m. "Cooking Meat According To Kind."
December 10:
District DHIA meeting at Mason City.
December 11:
Ell Tip Topper's 4-H meeting at Bob Marshall's at 2 p. m.
December 13:
The Ell-Liberty Homemaker's Training School at Mrs. Clarence Lenz, 1.30 p. m. "Cooking Meat According to Kind."
December 14:
Hog Cholera Vaccination School at the CD of A. Hall, Garner. 9 a. m. Tuesday.
December 15:
Boone Busy Boys' 4-H meeting. 8 p. m. at Hulings'.
December 15:
Liberty Township Farm Bureau meeting (School No. 7) 8:00 p. m.

AUCTIONEER

- FARM SALES
- HOUSEHOLD GOODS
- STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
SWALVE
Klemme - Iowa

PEA-KNIFE

Not at all satisfied with present rules and regulations concerning eating peas with a knife, Leo Flaherty of LeMars has invented a pea-knife. The knife is like other knives, except that a channel along the blade will hold the peas.

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS
Osteopathic Physician
Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

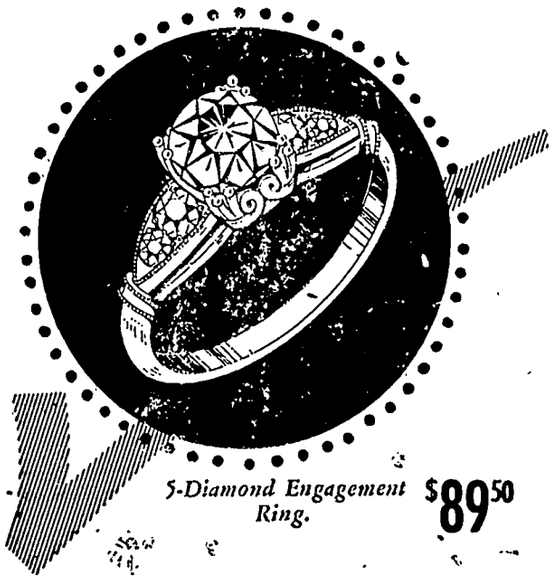
SHOP EARLY

ONLY 14 SHOPPING DAYS UNTIL CHRISTMAS!

Give him a carton of his favorite Cigarettes, tobacco or a case of beer.

Meet Your Farmer Friends At

Joe's Place



5-Diamond Engagement Ring. $89.50

Check "ALL FOUR"

BEFORE YOU BUY A DIAMOND

Size is only ONE factor in diamond value. Weight, cut and degree of perfection are equally important. You must know all four factors to establish the true value of a diamond. We give you authentic information on all four.

GEO. KYSETH

JEWELER CLARION, IOWA

FERTILIZER

0-0-50
33-0-0
0-9-27
0-20-0
3-12-12
0-12-12
2-12-6
4-16-0
4-12-8
0-45-0

Get
Get Yours Now!
Now!

•

Order
Order Yours Now!
Now!

•

We have a half carload of 0-20-0 on hand now for immediate delivery.

We will have a carload of 4-16-0 on track for immediate delivery next week.

4-16-0 is an excellent number for oats in Northern Iowa, and 0-9-27 is ideal for peat ground, Mucks and all other "cold" soils.

Klemme Coop. Grain Company

"The Farmers Elevator" Glen Bridges, Manager

Enjoy AUTOMATIC SLEEPING COMFORT

for Only A FEW PENNIES A NIGHT!

Now available in One-or-Two-Control models

Automatic Blanket keeps you cozy all night—no matter how the weather changes outside!

Let the winter winds blow! You can sleep sweetly, cozily all night through under your cloud-light G-E Automatic Blanket. Exclusive G-E Bedside Control adjusts automatically to weather changes within the bedroom.

G-E Blankets come in One-control models, or Two-control models (for double bed sleepers who like different degrees of sleeping warmth). 72x86 inches. Blue, rose, green, cedar. At your G-E dealer's, or leading department stores.

Launders beautifully. Carefully made to rigid General Electric safety standards, and approved by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

Central States Electric Company

BIG MUSHROOM

Lineville, 81 year old Mrs Duncan found a big mushroom recently, measuring nine inches across and weighing one pound and 11 ounces. Mr. Duncan has made a study of mushrooms and has found about 50 varieties.

CORN PICKER

Albert Fuhr of near Grant, Iowa, has a collie dog which can pick corn. The dog will walk up to a stalk of corn, claw it down, tear the ear from the stalk and return the ear to his master.

CHINCHILLAS

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fredrickson of near Walnut are now members of the Chinchilla Breeders Association. They recently purchased four of the animals, at a cost of $1200 per pair. Coats of chinchilla fur are valued as high as $25,000.

UPSET

Mrs. Doyle Boone of Manchester is sporting a large lump on her head As she crossed the street, she stepped on a wire which was dragging behind a moving automobile and was literally up-ended, lighting on the back of her neck.

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

BEEF

Three Texas GI's were not at all satisfied with the kind of beef that was available to them in Texas. Last week they flew from San Antonio to Eldora, purchased a quarter of Iowa corn-fed beef, flew back to show the Texans what good beef is like.

SHOT PET

Pheasant hunters who complain that many farms are "posted" against them should know about Paul Stillman, 11 year old West Union lad, and his pet snow-white cat. Two "hunters" drove past the Stillman home, saw the cat out in the road and shot it.

POWER LINE

A fallen power-line brought death recently to Dale Shipp of Irwin. While hunting with a companion, Shipp went into a nearby field to investigate smoke that was rising. His body was found later, lying on the power-line.

LIGHTING

As Mr. and Mrs. Homer McMoorane and infant were sleeping peacefully in their home at Carbon recently, lighting literally demolished the north end of the house. The family slept in a room at the south end and were unhurt.

OWL

A group of Colfax duck hunters set out some decoys on the Gearhart Lake. The decoys fooled a Great Northern Horned Owl, who swooped down for an early duck breakfast. The owl with a four-foot wing spread, became tangled in the decoys and was easily captured

THIS YEAR "PERSONALIZE" YOUR
CHRISTMAS CARDS
WITH PHOTOGRAPHS . . . .

I am now making up CHRISTMAS CARDS using photographs of children and adults, and have samples on display at the Corner Store.

I am equipped to come to your home and take pictures of yourself or children and make up the cards.

All work guaranteed to be satisfactory, and prices are no more than other good cards.

CHRISTMAS PHOTO CARDS, EACH ---------- 10c

Phone 7F58
DEAN RASMUS

Christmas...
Will Soon Be Here!

. . . and with the hustle and bustle of the Holiday Season you will need help with those meals . . That's where the Bakery comes in . . we can help you by furnishing a large variety of Breads, Rolls, Cakes, Pastries, etc.

They can furnish the "back-bone" of any a hurry-up meal.

We Will Take Care Of Your Special Orders For Dinners and Parties

Garner Bakery
Otto Lehman, Prop. Phone Garner 134

We Are Still
In Business!

Despite the loss of our building, stock of merchandise, repairs, etc. WE ARE STILL IN BUSINESS and have set up our temporary office at Where our customers can come in and see us regarding any business they may wish to transact.

We will continue to take care of your needs in Farm Equipment and Supplies at the Lumber Yard Office.

Northern Lumber Company
Implement Department
Klemme, Iowa
L. A. Jennings, Mgr.

2ND ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
November 29, 1948

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with J A Chambers, George Th Gerdes and F J Schoun present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the following Official Bonds are hereby approved Curtis C Riehm, County Attorney, W E Pavey, Justice of the Peace and Fern Ratter County Recorder

Supervisor Gerdes is appointed a Committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D No 1 and 2 West Main

Supervisor Schoun is appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to me made in D. D. No. 1 and 2

In the matter of the reconstruction of Drainage District No. 105, petitioned for by Town of Britt, Iowa, et al, by its Mayor, A F Drieste.

WHEREAS Wm Henschen was appointed Engineer as Commanded in Charter 455 Code of Iowa, A. D., 1946 and laws amendatory thereto, on March 2 1948 to make a survey, investigation and report on the feasibility and necessity of the reconstruction petitioned for in D. D No. 105 and said engineer did file his report on November 16, 1948 which report states that he has investigated and surveyed the lands in D D No. 105 and finds the present system of drainage inadequate and recommends that Drainage District No. 105, Hancock County, Iowa be reconstructed as requested in the prayer of the petitioners and that such improvement will be Conducive to public health, convenience and welfare and will be of greater benefit than the cost thereof The above recommendation of the engineer is on condition that the town of Britt Iowa and its residents pay the largest part of the Costs

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County Iowa acting for and in behalf of Drainage District No 105, that the report of the Engineer be and the same is hereby approved as a tentative plan and may be amended before final action thereon and said report of the engineer and plan shall come on for further hearing at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa, at 1 30 o'clock P M on the 10th day of January A D., 1949

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of hearing on the report of the engineer and plan of said improvement to be published in the Britt News Tribune a newspaper of general circulation, published in Britt, Iowa, advising all owners, occupants lienholders and encumbrancers of record in the proposed district of the petition on file for reconstruction, the favorable report of the engineer thereon, the approval of the Hancock County Iowa, Board of Supervisors of the report of the engineer as a tentative plan and that same may be amended before final action thereon and that all claims for damages and all objections to such reconstruction shall be in writing and must be filed with the County Auditor at or before the time set for hearing thereon

The foregoing resolution was read by Supervisor Gerdes who moved its adoption and was seconded by Supervisor Schoun, whereupon the Chairman J A Chambers placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is George Th Gerdes, F J Schoun, and J A Chambers Aye Nays, none Whereupon the resolution duly adopted

Whereas Roy Charbonneaux of Britt Iowa has been given a double assessment on lots 1 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 of Block 8 Lattimores Add to Britt Iowa, and

WHEREAS said Roy Charbonneaux has paid the taxes on above mentioned property vaued at $700 with a millage levy of 84 358 in the amount of $59.05

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the County Auditor is hereby authorized and directed to write on the Refund Fund of Hancock County Iowa in the sum of $59 05 to correct said double assessment

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Gerdes who moved its adoption was seconded by Supervisor Schoun whereupon the Chairman J A Chambers placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is George Th Gerdes, F J Schoun and J A Chambers, Aye, Nays none Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted

On motion and second the Board adjourned to December 2, 1948 at 9 o'clock A M

ATTEST
MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J A CHAMBERS,
Chairman

NEW CAR AND TRUCK SALES

Edward Halfpop, Goodell, Ia., Dodge truck, Gilbert Jones Klemme, Chev.; Kenneth Voights, Klemme, Plymouth; Northern Lumber Co, Klemme, Int'l. truck, Homer Schoenwetter, Chev truck.

Home Freezer Saves Time In Packing School Lunch

Getting the children off to school on time with a good packed lunch is a double duty many homemakers face five mornings a week. But if you have a home freezer this amazing device can take one of those tasks off your hands during busy morning hours.

Many good lunch-box foods, such as sandwiches, can be prepared in less busy hours, frozen and used when needed.

Most sandwiches, when properly packaged, freeze well, says Flora L. Carl, Missouri university extension nutritionist. And you can make a two weeks' supply of sandwiches at once in much less time than you can make one day's supply each morning.

Also, most last-minute preparation for buffet meals, picnics and teas is saved if you prepare and freeze sandwiches in advance.

For frozen sandwiches, use any variety and thickness of bread. Day-old bread is best. Open-face or closed sandwiches freeze equally well.

Here are some sandwich fillings suitable for freezing: cheddar cheese, cream cheese, sliced or ground meat, sliced or ground poultry, fish, cooked egg yolk (whites may become tough when frozen). Do not use fillings containing raw vegetables, those having hard cooked egg whites, or those containing fruit jellies. Such fillings do not freeze satisfactorily

Fresh greens add zest to most sandwiches. Wrap fresh greens in cellophane or waxed paper and pack with the lunch to be put on the sandwich just before it is eaten.

Spread butter on the bread; then the filling. Do not use mayonnaise for a sandwich spread for it separates upon freezing and soaks into the bread. Fillings for sandwiches can be frozen separately.

Electronic Range Now Used In Restaurants and Hotels

Quick-as-a-flash electronic cooking has become a reality in nearly 100 hotels and restaurants and in many factory cafeterias, where speed and perhaps novelty are important features, says the Industrial Bulletin, of Arthur D. Little, Inc. In other fields, including defrosting of cooked foods for restaurant use, large-scale defrosting of uncooked foods, quantity cooking, and home cooking, much further development is apparently needed.

The problems and possibilities of electronic cooking are tied up with the characteristics of the electromagnetic waves through which it operates. Light, heat from a boiler, radar and radio waves are all electromagnetic waves differing in frequency and in their effect on foods and other materials.

Light, whose waves are very short, is not suitable for cooking Heat waves, slightly longer, will cook a steak from the outside in, giving the characteristic crust and flavor. Radar waves cook it all the way through at once, producing a different flavor and appearance. Radio waves, longest of all, generally have little effect on food, but those between the radar and radio frequencies are sometimes useful.

The electronic range now used in restaurants, called the Radarange, operates in the radar frequency, and is used in preparing, among other things, meat, fish, eggs, and even live lobsters It will cook a ten-ounce steak in about 45 seconds and a six-pound rib roast in two minutes. Because meat cooked by the new process is gray, rather than brown, and lacks the usual crust, a unit is provided to flash-sear before cooking to obtain the desired surface appearance.

Some people find the flavor developed by electronic cooking superior to the ordinary flavor, others find it comparable, while a few feel that flavor components are not fully matured and they complain of a "steamy" taste.

Equipment cost is high, but operating cost is comparable to that of an electric stove. The 6.5-kilowatt electronic range, the restaurant size, is not sold, but leased for $150 a month, including maintenance. Many restaurants consider its advertising value important, and feature it on menus.

Iowa Tallying Game

One thousand of Iowa's 1,400 rural mail carriers will assist the state conservation commission in determining game populations during the next year. Four surveys will be made during 1948. Under the plan the carriers who have signified their willingness to cooperate will record their observations of all pheasants, quail and cotton-tails seen while driving their routes every day for six days. At the end of the six-day period the tallies will be mailed to the biology section of the state conservation commission for compilation. The mail carrier tally is being carried out successfully in several states at the present time; however, Iowa's road system and much of the terrain of this state are "made to order" for wildlife counts by this method. The average route length is 45 miles, which means that if the anticipated 1,000 carriers cooperate voluntarily, records for 45,000 miles of road will be tabulated each day, with a total of 270,000 miles kept during the week.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE—POLAND CHINA boars, choice of 25 head. The easy feeding, faster maturing kind Priced to sell O. W. Friedow, phone Britt 4616. (tfc)

FOR SALE—80 ACRES CLARion and Webster soil, fair buildings. Located 2 mi north, 4¼ mi. east of Klemme. See Curtis Riehm, Garner (tfc)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO., Goodell, Iowa.

HOUSE FOR SALE — FOUR rooms, bath, completely modern with automatic heat, automatic hot water Location, Morningside Add Two lots. Very reasonable Melvin Schlei (N24-Dec. 1-8 tp)

FOR SALE—MODERN THREE-room house with full basement. Frank Hougland. (tfc)

FOR SALE—GIRLS SNOW SUIT and coat, size 12-14 Mrs. C G Waterman, (1tc)

FOR SALE — NEW VARIETY Hybrid Corn Out yields all others Guaranteed to please - to ripen Agents wanted Batz Seed Farms, Mason City, Iowa. (J-7-p)

FOR SALE—ONE PURE BRED Duroc Boar Available after the 25th of Dec Verner Nelson, 4½ miles southeast of Klemme (1tp)

Miscellaneous

NOTICE—BECAUSE OF THE increase in the implement and repair business we have found it necessary to give up our heating business. What parts and supplies we had on hand we sold to Klemme Hardware We are sure they can give you good service.
Fred J Arnold. (2tc)

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident.
(Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS--ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired Expert workmanship, reasonable prices Times Office (tfc)

For Rent

FOR RENT—THREE ROOM house in Klemme, from Dec 1 to March 1 Willard Fesseenden. (tfc)

Card Of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank all who sent me cards and who came to visit me while I was a patient in the Hampton hospital, and also to all who called on me at my home
Luverne Schmidt. (1tp)

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the kindness shown us following the death of our husband and father, and for the beautiful floral offerings, cards, and money for missions Also those who assisted in any other way.
Mrs. E H. Ludeke and Family (1tc)

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank the men in the Klemme Fire Department for their good work in saving our place of business when it was seriously threatened by flames Sunday night. We also thank all others who offered their assistance. Bell Produce, Mr and Mrs. Fred Bell, Proprietor. (1tc)

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank Tom Roths for serving us hot coffee, and thanking Wilbur Haefner for opening his place where we could warm up during the fire Sunday night. The Klemme Fire Department. (1tc)

TRAIN

As Mrs. Ole Hauge, 69, of Ossian crossed the Milwaukee tracks there recently, she was struck by a passenger train and killed. Slightly hard of hearing, Mrs. Hauge did not hear the train as it bore down upon her until too late.

Ben Franklin Contributed To Knowledge of Farming

One of the earliest Americans to perceive that the agricultural resources of the country should not be wasted, Benjamin Franklin termed farming "the most honorable of all employments, the most useful in itself and rendering man the most independent." This remarkable inventor and scientist felt that farming must be something of a business and a science as well as a way of life.

Franklin's work in the field of writing had perhaps the most widespread influence in directing attention of the public at that time to the value of education in agricultural science. On May 14, 1743, he published his "Proposal for promoting useful knowledge among the British plantations in America." In it he suggested the collection and dissemination of information on a great variety of scientific and practical subjects, such as the virtues and uses of new-discovered plants, herbs, trees, roots; new discoveries in chemistry; introduction of new methods of improving the breed of useful animals; new improvements in planting, gardening and clearing land; and the nature of the soil and productions of different regions.

Outstanding among Franklin's services is his introduction of new varieties of useful plants and grains. From Europe he brought Scotch kale, the kohlrabi and Swiss barley. He promoted silk culture in Pennsylvania. He introduced the yellow willow for basket making and he taught the farmers of Pennsylvania to plaster their land. From Virginia he brought the broom corn, and from China, by way of England, he brought rhubarb used in medicine, unlike the already common garden type known as pie-plant in America. Abroad his agricultural activities profited France, which learned of the Newtown Pippin while England became acquainted with fowl meadow grass. To France he also brought knowledge of various American trees, including nut-bearing trees and shrubs.

Beekeeping in California

The honeybee is not a native of California. Early records indicate that it was first imported in 1853. In March of that year, 12 hives were landed at San Francisco but only one colony was alive. This was moved to San Jose, where it cast three swarms the same season; two of these swarms were sold at auction that fall, one for $105 and the other for $110. By importations and natural increases, the number of colonies in Santa Clara county alone reached about 1,000 by the beginning of 1860. Beekeeping continued to expand in California to a point where, in 1873, John S. Harbison, a pioneer beekeeper of the state, shipped the first carload of comb honey to Chicago. At present, approximately 12,000 individuals own some 461,000 colonies of bees—an investment of several million dollars. The number of colonies maintained by each beekeeper varies from one to several thousand, with a majority of the keepers owning a comparatively small number.

BACK HOME

Queenie, the family pet police dog of Rev. and Mrs. Wolsted of Nashua, is now back home after a long absence The dog came back, crippled and "worn out." It is believed she may have been taken away in a car and had to travel a long way to get back home.

ENDED COMA

17 year old Joyce Musel, Cedar Rapids, has regained consciousness after 66 days in a coma, following a motorcycle accident. Her first word was "No," her second and third, "I'm hungry" She does not remember the accident. Two Marion chiropractors, Dr H. G. Stizel and Dr. R. A. Hender, administered the treatment which ended the coma.

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

Wednes, Thurs.
DECEMBER 8, 9
EDDIE CANTOR
JOAN DAVIS
In
IF YOU KNEW SUSIE

Friday - Saturday
DECEMBER 10, 11
TARZEN AND THE HUNTRESS
Starring
Johnny Weissmuller
Brenda Joyce
Johnny Sheffield

Sun., Mon., Tues.
DECEMBER 12, 13, 14
BELLE STAR'S DAUGHTER
With
GEORGE MONTGOMERY
And
RUTH ROMAN

Wednes. - Thurs.
DECEMBER 15, 16
DREAM GIRL
Starring
BETTY HUTTON
And
MACDONALD CAREY

"TAKE A CHANCE"
SALE
Hundreds Of Real Gifts
Valued From $1.00 To $6.00
In Gift Wrapped Grab Boxes
ONLY 50c
No Returns — No Refunds
UNDER THE TREE AT BOYD'S

USE THIS COUPON
Good Thursday, Friday and Saturday
DEC. 9, 10, 11 ONLY

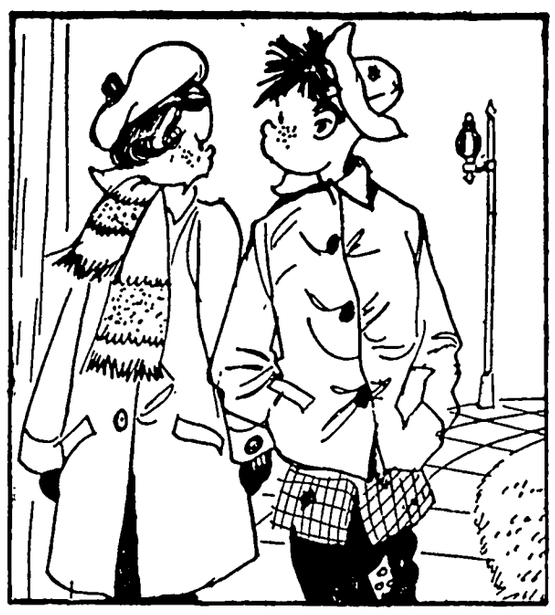
Any Purchase Of $25 to $35 With
THIS COUPON WORTH $8.00
Towards Purchase of Additional Merchandise

Any Purchase Over $36.00 With
THIS COUPON WORTH $10.00
Towards Purchase of Additional Merchandise

Boyd's Clothing
FOREST CITY, IOWA

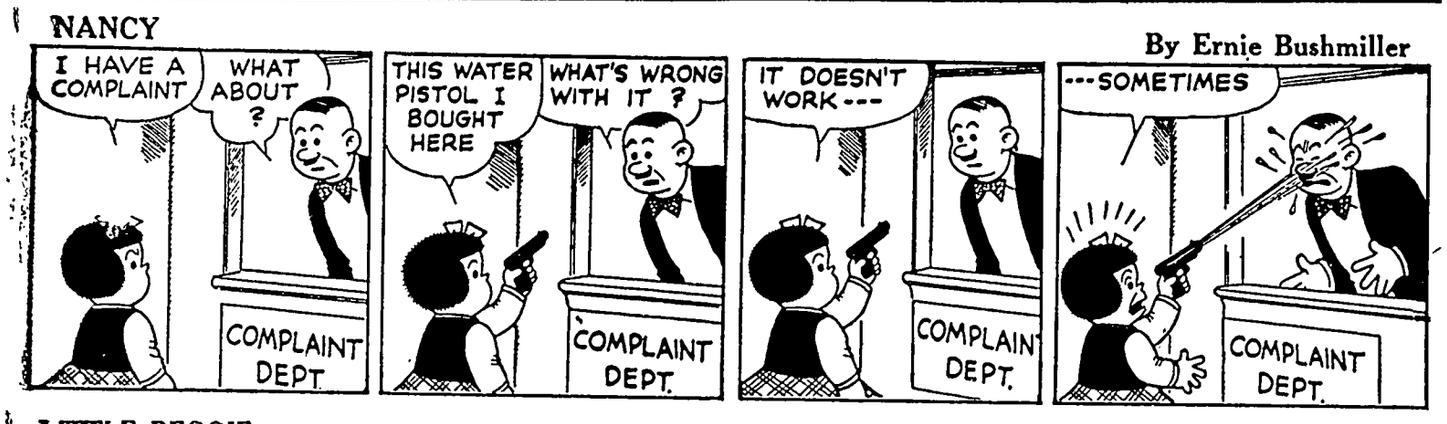
Cross Town by Roland Coe

Bobby Sox by Mary Links



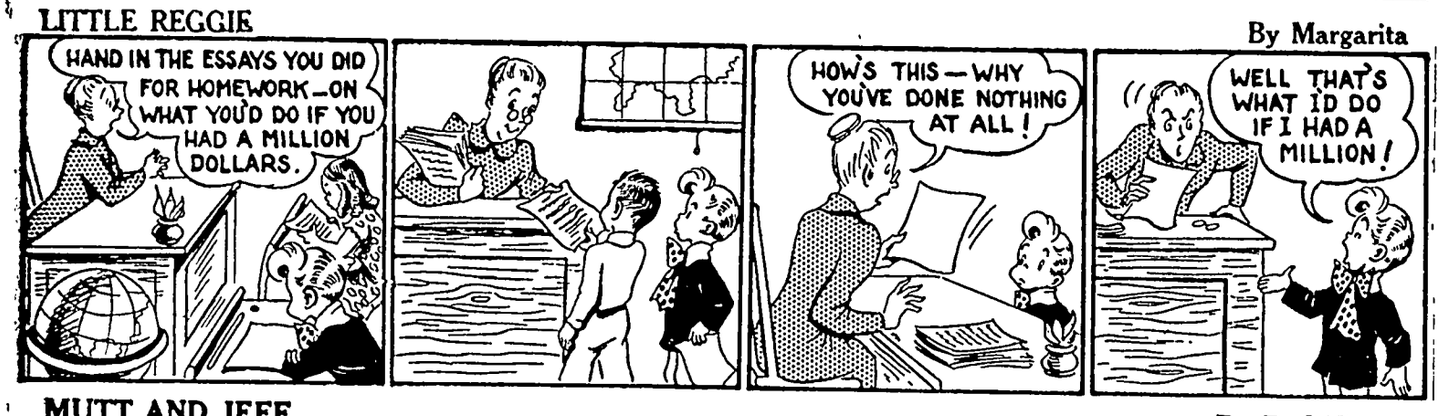
NANCY

By Ernie Bushmiller



LITTLE REGGIE

By Margarita



HAND IN THE ESSAYS YOU DID FOR HOMEWORK—ON WHAT YOU'D DO IF YOU HAD A MILLION DOLLARS.
HOW'S THIS—WHY YOU'VE DONE NOTHING AT ALL!
WELL THAT'S WHAT I'D DO IF I HAD A MILLION!

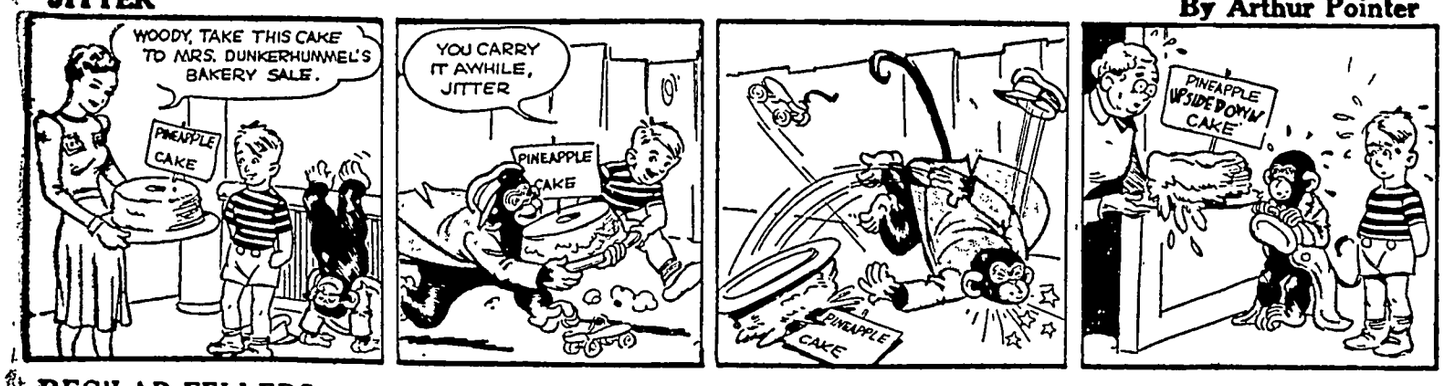
MUTT AND JEFF

By Bud Fisher

A-CHOO
ALL DAY YOU GO AROUND HERE SNEEZING YOUR FOOL HEAD OFF! WHY DON'T YOU DO SOMETHING FOR THAT COLD?
WHAT SHOULD I DO, MUTT ?
TAKE A HOT MUSTARD FOOT BATH AND GO TO BED!
MUSTARD-- MUSTARD-- NOW, WHERE'S THE MUSTARD?
I COULDN'T FIND THE MUSTARD SO I USED KETCHUP!

JITTER

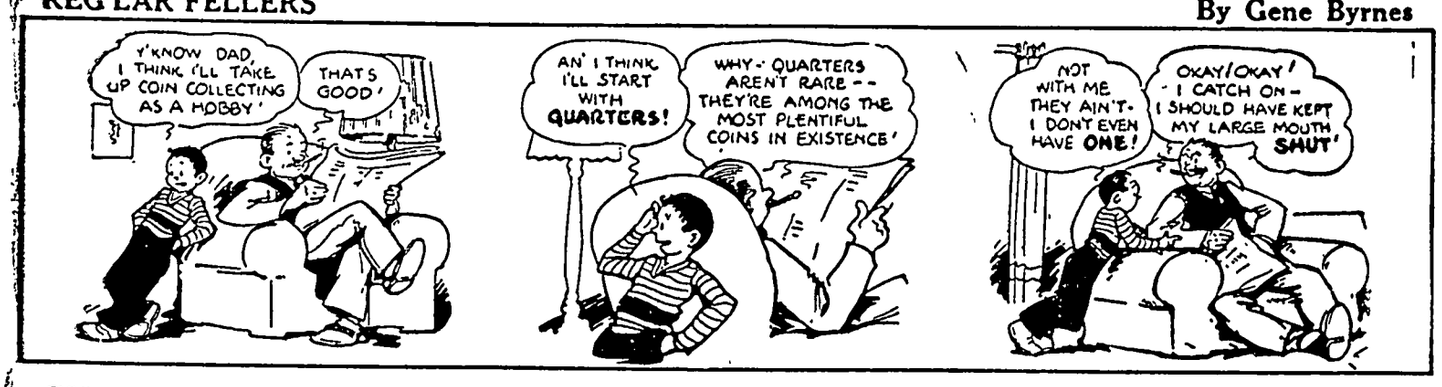
By Arthur Pointer



WOODY, TAKE THIS CAKE TO MRS. DUNKERHUMMEL'S BAKERY SALE.
PINEAPPLE CAKE
YOU CARRY IT AWHILE, JITTER
PINEAPPLE CAKE
PINEAPPLE CAKE
PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

REG'LAR FELLERS

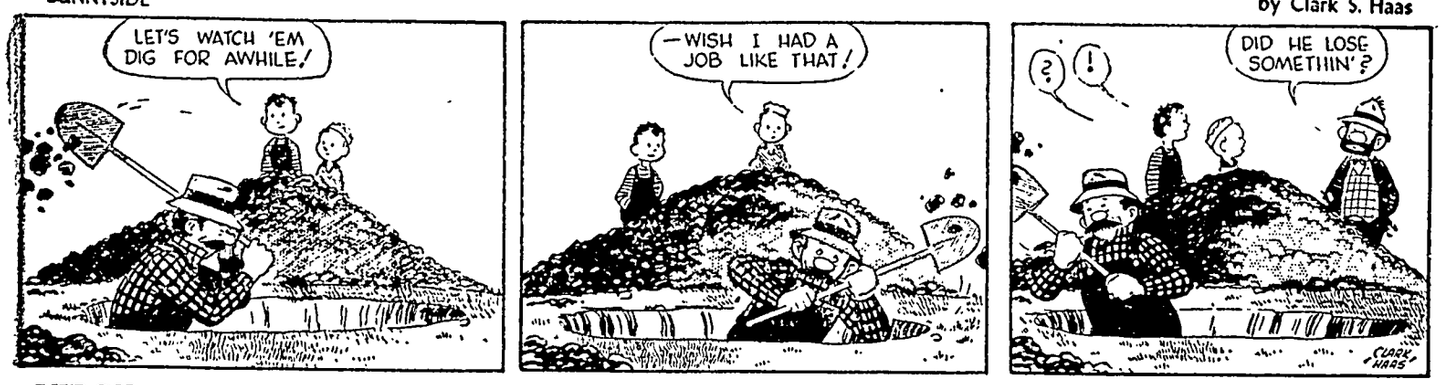
By Gene Byrnes



Y'KNOW DAD, I THINK I'LL TAKE UP COIN COLLECTING AS A HOBBY'
THAT'S GOOD'
AN' I THINK I'LL START WITH QUARTERS!
WHY-- QUARTERS AREN'T RARE-- THEY'RE AMONG THE MOST PLENTIFUL COINS IN EXISTENCE'
NOT WITH ME THEY AIN'T-- I DON'T EVEN HAVE ONE!
OKAY! OKAY! I CATCH ON-- I SHOULD HAVE KEPT MY LARGE MOUTH SHUT'

SUNNYSIDE

by Clark S. Haas



VIRGIL

By Len Kleis

FUNLAND

By A.W. NUGENT

3 IN ONE FUN

1, CONNECT THE DOTS IN THEIR ORDER.
2, THEN READ THE LETTERS AS THEY APPEAR IN NUMERICAL ORDER.
3, SHADE IN ALL THE SECTIONS IN WHICH THERE IS A Z
A.W. NUGENT

LITTLE CARTOONISTS:

CHANGE ONE LETTER IN EACH GIVEN ANIMAL TO SPELL 5 DIFFERENT ANIMALS.
1 HOG
2 COW
3 HARE
4 BEAR
5 MULE
A.W. NUGENT
1, DOG; 2, SOW; 3, MARE; 4, BOAR; 5, MOLE

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

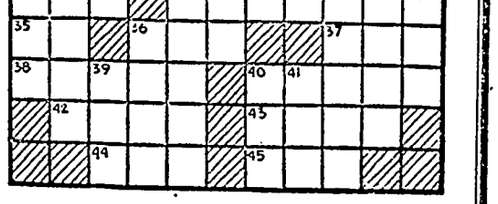
Solution in Next Issue.

Horizontal

1 Part of a locomotive
4 Mandarin tea
7 French cheese
8 A stunted thing
10 Obsequious flatterer
11 In the rear
13 Fortify
14 Away
15 Negative reply
16 Sympathetic relationship
19 Strange
20 Hindu garment
21 American Indian
22 Public notice
24 A grudge
26 Perform
27 Supports
29 Ore-bearing vein
31 Devoured
32 Feminine name
35 Sun god
36 Fuel
37 Place
38 King with the golden touch
40 Subside
42 A light
43 Hawaiian garlands
44 Part of a lock
45 Thrice (Mus.)

Vertical

1 Hampers
2 Help
3 Turkish title
4 Artifice
5 Puff
6 Insect
7 Cold, dry wind (Adriatic)
9 Served
10 Black, viscous substance
12 Round up
14 Brightly-colored birds
17 Go by
18 Grampus
19 Conjunction
21 Yield
22 Warning
23 Single item
25 Steal
28 Earth as a goddess
30 A cream-filled cake
32 Grating
33 Felines
34 Affirmative vote
36 Scheme
39 East-Indian tree
40 High (mus.)
41 Winged insect



No. 10

Answer to Puzzle No. 9

		P	A	L	L		C	L	A	P
B	A	C	O	N			H	A	L	L	S
O	N	I	O	N			I	D	E	A	L
O	D	D			S	P	Y		C	A
M	A	S	C	O	T	S		F	A	T
			A	B	O		M	I	T	E
O	P	I	N	I	O	N	A	T	E	D
P	A	C	E		P	O	I
P	I	E		H	E	N	N	E	R	Y
O	N		S	O	D			B	O	A
S	T	A	L	L		B	R	O	O	M
E	R	I	E		A	U	N	T	S
	R	A	P	S		D	E	Y	S

Series K—48

FIRST AID TO AILING H
By Roger Whitman

QUESTION: The floor trailer home is covered asphalt covering which is badly worn. Would you mend laying tile over this ing, or taking up the old an ing from scratch?

ANSWER: A good floor-c contractor probably would to take up the old covering it might make an uneven b the tile. He would know bes that, however, after seeing tual condition of the prese ering.

QUESTION: Is there a p seal leaks in a roof by p over the roofing?

ANSWER: Leaks often stopped by the application asphalt roofing cement. A can do this job for you. Bu roof leaks all over, a ne would be more advisable.

'Tis the season to be joll if you're a woman facing th ing question of what to ge here's a two-way perfect so If he's a smoker who lik cigarettes on the cool, mild get him a carton or two of C Their choice tobaccos are s please him on Christmas D perhaps he enjoys smoking a too. If so, mellow Prince Smoking Tobacco will roun your gift selection in a n handsome manner. Both iten right in keeping with your day sentiment; they come wrapped in special Chri packages. The Camel carton tain 200 cool, mild Camel rettes. And the pound tin of P Albert is brimful of mild, smoking that has truly earn title — the National Joy S Each gift has space for your ten greetings. When you Camels and Prince Alber Christmas, you can be su pleasing him! They're easy der, too; a local dealer is supplied right now. (Adv.)

Older folks say it's common sense...

ALL-VEGETABL LAXATIVE

NATURE'S REMEDY (NR) T LETS—A purely vegetable laxativ relieve constipation without the griping, sickening, perturbing s tions, and does not cause a rash. NR—you will see the difference. coated or candy coated—their a is dependable, thorough, yet gent millions of NR's have proved. G 25c box and use as directed.

Nature's Remed NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW ALRIGHT

FUSSY STOMACH? RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN

EAT LIKE CANDY TUMS STOMACH DISTRESS TUMS TUMS FO THE TUM

How To Relie Bronchiti

Creomulsion relieves promptly bec it goes right to the seat of the tro to help loosen and expel germ la phlegm and aid nature to soothe heal raw, tender, inflamed bronc mucous membranes. Tell your drug to sell you a bottle of Creomul with the understanding you must the way it quickly allays the co or you are to have your money b

CREOMULSIO for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronch

Relieves Distress of MONTH

FEMALE WEAKNESS

Also Helps Build Up Red Blo

Do female functional periodic turbances make you suffer pain, fee nervous, irritable—at such times? T try Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS relieve such symptoms. Pinkha Tablets are also very effective to b build up red blood in simple anem

Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLET

That Nagging Backach

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and wo irregular habits, improper eating drinking—its risk of exposure and i tion—throws heavy strain on the of the kidneys. They are apt to bec over-taxed and fail to filter excess and other impurities from the life-gi blood.

You may suffer nagging backa headache, dizziness, getting up ni leg pains, swelling—feel consta tired, nervous, all worn out. Other of kidney or bladder disorder are s times burning, scanty or too freq urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help kidneys to pass off harmful excess waste. They have had more than h century of public approval. Are re mended by grateful users everyw Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILL

...ICTION Corner

GREAT GRAPE GLUE

By MARY K. CHEATHAM

...es was so thrilled over her new home that she didn't realize what ...ce the grape arbor would prove to her newly-found happiness, ...l challenged her to the supreme test.

...EN they bought the house, ...gnes hadn't thought much ...the grape arbor. She knew it ...ere, of course, but it was ... and the tendrills were just ...ing to green out along the ...walk. Now, it was summer, ...he vines were heavy with ... clusters.

..." Isn't that something?" said ...at breakfast. "Our own vine-...right in our own back yard. ...if there's one thing I like to ...it's fresh, homemade grape ...

...es felt a twinge of misgivings, ...ven then, she failed to recog-...the arbor for what it was—a ...e to her marriage.

...ess I'll have to make some," ...answered, with just a shade of ... "I'll go out and pick the ...s right after I get you off to ..."

...se," beamed Greg, swallow-...e last of his coffee. "Mom al-...makes it with pure grape juice ...sugar. Better call her if you ...any trouble."

..., I'll manage," answered Ag-...smiling with a great show of ...fence. "After all, I learned to ... didn't I?"

...re did, Hon," agreed Greg, ...ing for his hat. "Got to run ..., now. Good luck with the ..."

...y exchanged their usual after-...fast bride-and-groom kiss, and ... hurried out the front door. ... the breakfast dishes were ...illy cleared up, Agnes took a ...an and approached the arbor. ...s pleasant there. Working in ...unshine, to the busy humming ...es, she felt the lightness come ... into her heart. After all, any-... could learn to make jelly. Dew ...eavily upon the purple globules, ...e placed them, bunch by bunch, ...e dishpan. She breathed deep ...eir winey fragrance, and smiled ...r new sense of ownership.

...aking jelly?" called her neigh-...across the back fence. "Those ...es always did make the best ..."

...oing to try it," Agnes called ... "I've never made any before, ...I have a good cookbook, and I ...I can do it all right."

...'s easy," said the neighbor. "I ...r bother with a cookbook, my-..."

...nes took her grapes into the ...en and began washing and sort-...them at the sink. When they ... ready, she put them into a ...epan and crushed them slightly, ...t said in the cookbook. She ...d a small amount of water and ...ght them to a slow boil, letting ...n cook gently until the juice had ...out. Straining the juice through ...oth was a messy business, but ... enough, as she remembered ...ng seen her mother do it at ...e.

... wonder," she thought, "why I ...'t pay more attention to jelly-...ing?"

...e brought out the little glasses ...sterilized them until they were ...tal bright. In the grip of a quiv-...g excitement, she measured the ... and sugar. Now came the ...tening part. Tensely, she ...ped the cookbook within view, ...e bringing the juice to a vigor-... boil. She added the sugar and ...ed carefully until it had dis-...ed. She studied the jelly test ...res until her eyes ached. One ...re showed the jelly dripping ... the spoon in two drops, the ..., two drops running together ... leaving the spoon in one flake. ... important thing was to know ... when this took place.

Back and forth, Agnes gazed, from picture to spoon, from spoon to picture, until both seemed to blend into one. At this point, she thought the mixture had neared the jellying stage, but her eyes ached so from their intentness, she was no longer certain whether two drops had really run off the spoon, or she had just imagined it. Better cook it a little longer, she thought, to be sure. Slightly after the time specified, she poured the jelly into the hot glasses. Not until then did she relax. Her nerves, she realized, had been pounding like trip hammers.

As she tidied the kitchen, Agnes gazed with pride at the glasses on the utility cabinet. Her first jelly! It looked a trifle dark, but then grapes were dark, naturally. She had a good dinner waiting for Greg when he came from work.

"Greg!" she cried. "See if your folks would like to come over to dinner. We'll have crispy little biscuits, and—"

"I thought we might try a little for dessert," she suggested, bringing out one of the glasses.

"That's right," Greg recalled happily. "Grape jelly!" He plunged a spoon enthusiastically into the glass. He pulled — hard. "Great grape glue!" he cried, "what have we here?"

Agnes stared, astonished, at the gooey blob on the spoon. Fine, sticky threads trailed behind it from the glass, like fronds of cotton candy. She blinked back the tears, just in time, and changed her exclamation to a laugh If only she had thought to try it first!

"Perhaps," she suggested, "we could spread it on paper to catch flies."

ONE of the tears spilled over the edge of her laugh, and Greg caught her to him. "Never mind," he soothed. "It tastes good, anyhow." He kissed her, and they both nibbled at the spoon, like two children sharing a lollypop. "When you try it tomorrow," he mistakenly continued, "Mom can tell you what you did wrong"

Agnes pulled stiffly away, and began stacking dishes. She shoved the jelly glasses viciously out of sight, and went around the rest of the evening feeling vaguely irritated at Greg. Ensconsed behind the evening paper, he appeared not to notice He even failed to notice when Lucille called, though he usually liked to twit her about her conversations with the girls.

"Why don't you use commercial pectin?" asked Lucille, when Agnes had confided her failure. "Then you can use the short-boil method, and it's practically fool-proof."

"Because Greg's Mom doesn't," Agnes answered crossly. "It's got to be the long-boil method or nothing."

"Fiddlesticks," concluded Lucille. "Buy the pectin, and come to the card club tomorrow afternoon."

But Agnes shook her head stubbornly. "No old grape jelly," she said, "is going to stand in the way of my wedded bliss."

She went at it again the next morning with great determination. This time, she was careful not to overcook the boiling mass. Jubilantly, she poured it into the glasses. "There," she thought, setting it to cool "Just let my fine Gregory find fault with that!"

She put on her frilliest apron, and smiled at Greg over the dinnertable. This time, when he plunged his spoon into the glass, he did not have to pull. The jelly trickled off the spoon in a ruby stream.

Greg grinned, uncertainly. "Wonderful stuff for pancakes," he said. With great restraint, Agnes checked the most amazing desire to throw something. After all, it wasn't Greg's fault he had a stupid wife! She sighed, wearily, but that evening, too, had a defensive overcast. Unmollified, she accepted the unexpressed apology in Greg's goodnight kiss. "Honey," he said, "you know I don't care a hoot about those old grapes."

The following day was hot, but Agnes doubled her hours at the kitchen stove. The warmer she became, the greater grew her resentment. "Why," she asked herself, "did we ever have to buy a house with an old grape arbor'"

Batch after batch she cooked, alternating between syrup and gum. Somehow, she just couldn't get it right. Grimly, she poured the last sticky mess into the glasses. Not waiting to clear the kitchen, she marched upstairs and threw herself across the bed.

"Only a silly bride," she said, "would cry over not being able to make jelly" But the tears soaked into the pillow all the same and, discouraged and exhausted, she fell asleep.

She awoke with a start at Greg's touch on her shoulder. Late afternoon shadows lay across the floor. She jumped up, guiltily, but Greg pushed her gently back against the pillows.

"I'm home early," he said. "Relax, poor kid. You're all tired out."

"I knew you could do it," he added, and Agnes became aware, for the first time, that he had something in his hand. He was taking huge bites from a piece of bread and butter and—yes, something else, gleaming in jeweled beauty upon the yellow surface.

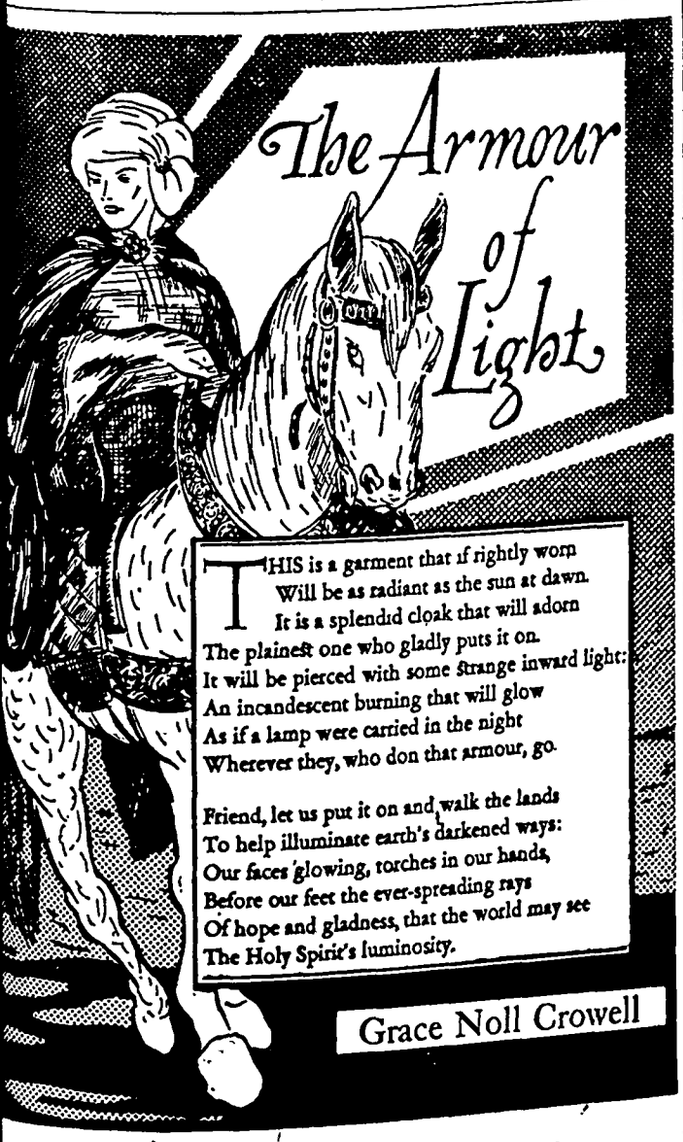
"That last batch," mumbled Greg, with his mouth full, "has jelled."

Agnes leaped out of bed, her face ablaze with excitement.

"Greg!" she cried. "See if your folks would like to come over to dinner. We'll have crispy little biscuits, and—" she reached out and touched the quivering rubies with a reverent finger, "Great Grape Glue!" she breathed, rapturously, "Jelly!"

Clay Poem Translation

A poem inscribed on clay tablets about 1750 B. C., which tells in lofty language of a political "congress" held about 5,000 years ago in Erech, a city in ancient Sumer, has been translated by Dr. Samuel Noah Kramer, Clark research professor of Assyriology and curator of the tablet collection of the University of Pennsylvania museum. The assembly, according to Dr. Kramer's translation of the inscriptions found on six tablets and fragments, convened while the hero Gilgamesh was king of Erech to make a decision on an issue of war or peace. Sumer corresponds roughly to the southern half of modern Iraq.



The Armour of Light

THIS is a garment that if rightly worn
Will be as radiant as the sun at dawn.
It is a splendid cloak that will adorn
The plainest one who gladly puts it on.
It will be pierced with some strange inward light:
An incandescent burning that will glow
As if a lamp were carried in the night
Wherever they, who don that armour, go.

Friend, let us put it on and walk the lands
To help illuminate earth's darkened ways:
Our faces glowing, torches in our hands,
Before our feet the ever-spreading rays
Of hope and gladness, that the world may see
The Holy Spirit's luminosity.

Grace Noll Crowell

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Philippians; I Timothy; I John.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ephesians 3:13-21.

Letters in the Bible

Lesson for December 12, 1948

A LETTER in the mail! Those are exciting words. It was so when the Babylonians chipped open their dried clay envelopes, it is so when we rip the end off our paper envelopes, it was so when the marooned and homesick Timothy broke the seal on the papyrus notes that his old friend and teacher Paul sent him. Most letters reach the wastebasket, and we know that some of Paul's did. But fortunately his friends thought enough of about a dozen of his letters to save them and copy them and file them with some others and pass them around. And so we got more than a third of our New Testament, and perhaps a good deal more than a third of our theology.

Dr. Foreman

• • •

Yesterday in Television

THESE letters that have come down to us from so long ago are not only keenly interesting, they are immensely valuable. An honest informal letter is like an open window. We see into the writer's mind and life, we see the life of his times. Any historian feels lucky when he lights on a packet of old letters. Here is yesterday in television.

The letters of the New Testament, especially Paul's, are not propaganda literature. Paul was not writing for publication or for posterity. He would be bothered by a problem; he would think and pray about it, and then he would sit down and write about it.

However trivial the problem might seem, such as a local church quarrel, Paul never wrote trivially about it. He would pour out his mind on papyrus, usually dictating his letters to a secretary and sometimes so fast that the secretary obviously had a hard time keeping up.

If you want to know how an Apostle's mind worked, here it is. If you want to know how an inspired religious genius, one of the great of all time, planned and grieved and hoped and rejoiced, read these letters. Further, these letters televise for us the early Christian church. This is not a view of the church on parade, this is a glimpse of the church as it was "on the hoof," struggling, quarreling, ignorant, scarce one step removed from raw heathenism, and yet with the root of Christian faith in its heart, the seed of the great church that has grown up through the centuries.

• • •

Friend to Friend

THE letters in the New Testament are of various kinds. The letter to the Philippians from Paul was written, from prison, to some of his best friends Recently they had sent him not only money but a man named Epaphroditus to stay with Paul and help him, Paul being in constant bad health. But Epaphroditus himself had fallen ill, and when he grew better he was still homesick.

Paul, generous as always, decided to send his sick friend home to convalesce, and by his hand sent the letter which the Philippian church loved, saved and copied, so that it eventually made its way into the New Testament collection.

There is some high theology in the letter; but there is also some warm human friendship, and some of the best advice Paul ever gave. It is in this letter we discover Paul's secret of happiness. I have learned (he wrote) in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content. (See chapter 4.)

When you read those paragraphs, simply glowing with happiness, remember they were written by a sick man, in jail, facing a serious charge on his forthcoming trial. Paul had actually discovered a joy which is trouble-proof.

• • •

Father to Sons

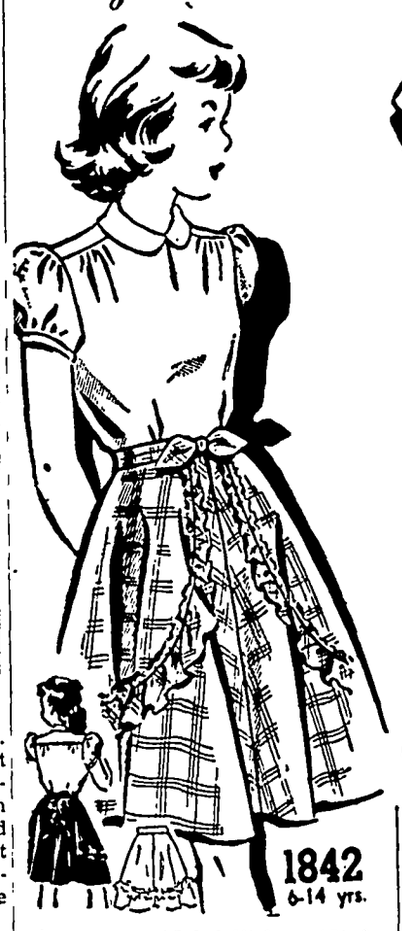
PAUL knew he would not live forever on this planet and could not live everywhere. So he spent much effort training helpers and successors. Some of these disappointed him sorely; but he was never disappointed in Timothy.

His letters to Timothy are personal, but they are more than that. They are advice from an older minister to a younger one, from a veteran missionary to a fresh recruit.

In I John we have another kind of letter, from an old, perhaps retired minister to a congregation he knows and loves. Again in I John the reader gets the impression of reading a family letter from father to sons and daughters.

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

Blouse-Skirt Pair for Girls
Diagonal Interest on Daytimer



1821
36-52

1842
6-14 yrs.

AN ADORABLE little outfit for a six to fourteen miss—the beruffled skirt can be worn front or back, the bow knot tie is a nice trim. To match, a crisp puffed sleeved blouse with tiny peter pan collar.

• • •

Pattern No 1842 is for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years Size 8, skirt, 1¾ yards of 35 or 39-inch or 1⅜ yards of 54-inch; blouse, 1⅝ yards of 39-inch.

Handsome Daytimer

DESIGNED with a flattering youthful air for the larger figure is this handsome daytimer that comes in a wide size range. Note the one-sided interest on bodice and hipline, the choice of sleeve lengths.

• • •

Pattern No. 1821 comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, cap sleeve, 5¼ yards of 39-inch.

Send an additional quarter for your copy of the Fall and Winter FASHION—it's brimful of ideas for smart winter wardrobes. Free pattern printed inside the book.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.
Pattern No._____ Size_____
Name_____
Address_____

NEW! BRAN MUFFINS WITH TANGY PINEAPPLE

Grand Idea For Sunday Night Supper

Aah! Crunchy toasted Kellogg's All-Bran dotted with flavorful pineapple! Different and dee-licious!

¼ cup shortening	½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar	1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1 egg	1 cup undrained crushed pineapple
1 cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder

1. Blend shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well.
2. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add All-Bran. Stir into first mixture alternately with pineapple. Mix only until combined.
3. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Yield: 10 muffins — 2¼ inches in diameter.

America's most famous natural laxative cereal —try a bowlful tomorrow.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

JOLLY TIME POP CORN — Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping — ALWAYS POPS — JOLLY TIME POP CORN

This Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Is Most Effective

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

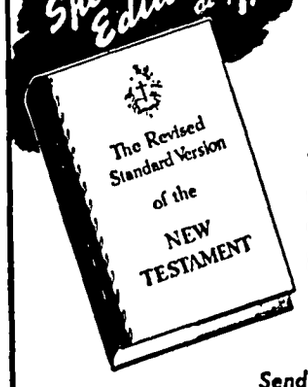
Then get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving because it gives you about four times as much for your money. Never spoils. Tastes fine.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough relief. Swiftly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for quick and pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Pinex Is Dependable!

Special Edition at $1.00



The REVISED STANDARD VERSION of the NEW TESTAMENT

- Easier to Understand.
- Large clear type.
- Over a million copies sold.

The New Testament of the Holy Bible recently revised to help you in your daily reading. Never before at this price. 553 pages, 5 x 7 inches, $1.00.

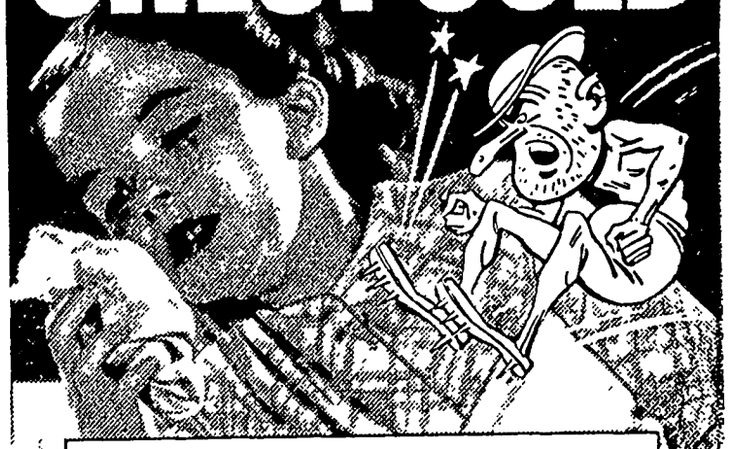
FREE with every Testament a 72 page booklet explaining why revisions from original Greek were necessary.

Send your $1.00 today to

THOMAS NELSON & SONS 385 MADISON AVENUE NEW YORK 17, N. Y.

IF PETER PAIN TORMENTS YOUR CHILD WITH

CHEST COLD



● Rub in Ben-Gay for prompt, soothing, gentle relief from chest-cold miseries. Your doctor knows about those famous pain-relieving agents—methyl salicylate and menthol. Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times more of them than five other widely offered rub-ins. Mild Ben-Gay was especially formulated for children's delicate skin. Ask for genuine Ben-Gay.

Also for Pain due to RHEUMATISM, MUSCLE ACHE, and STRAINS. Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.

QUICK... RUB IN Ben-Gay

PROVE

CAMEL MILDNESS

IN YOUR "T-ZONE"!

MAKE the Camel 30-day mildness test—and see how mild a cigarette can be! When hundreds of men and women made this same test—smoking Camels exclusively for 30 days—an average of one to two packs a day—noted throat specialists who examined the throats of these smokers every week (a total of 2470 examinations) reported

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beier spent Sunday evening visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bynes Lemke.

Mrs. Lloyd Sherwood is at Mason City this week helping care for Mr. Sherwood's mother who has been seriously ill.

KLEMME

MOVIES

DECEMBER 9

"Variety Girl"

All Star Cast

DECEMBER 16

"Sis Hopkins"

JUDY CANOVA

Comedy Each Show

SHOW AT 7:30 P. M.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Frances Ridder entertained Miss Minnie Lau to a duck dinner at her home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Utterbach and daughter of Des Moines spent Saturday evening visiting at the E. G. Beier home. They were on their way to Minneapolis.

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX AND ADMINISTRATOR

STATE OF IOWA, ss.
HANCOCK COUNTY No. 3200

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix and Administrator of the estate of George Born Deceased, late of Hancock County All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment, and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

CLARA BARZ, Administratrix
RAYMOND BARZ, Administrator
B. C. BERGE, Attorney
Dated November 20, 1948.
RUTH HUGHES,
Clerk District Court
(Pub. Nov 24, Dec. 1-8, 1948)

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Edward Peterson of Goodell was a business caller in Klemme Monday.

Sunday dinner guests at the George Schoenwetter home were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Suckow and Mrs. Carl Suckow of Jennings, La.; Ralph Weisbrod of Fenton, Iowa; Mrs. Mildred Weisbrod, Marlene and Maynard and Homer Schoenwetter.

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

STATE OF IOWA, ss. No. 3202
HANCOCK COUNTY,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the estate of LeRoy W. Bachman Deceased, late of Hancock County All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment, and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

TILLIE BACHMAN
Administratrix
SENNEFF & BUCK
Attorneys
Dated December 2, 1948.
RUTH HUGHES,
Clerk District Court
(Pub. Dec 8-15-22, 1948)

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. A. G. Koerner and Mrs. Orville Stokesbary were Garner visitors Saturday afternoon.

Ira Overholt left Friday for Osceola for a visit with his parents. Mr. Overholt plans to spend the winter in Florida.

Lloyd Sherwood's mother, who has been seriously ill at Mason City, was reported to be greatly improved the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Conrad Quandt went to Des Moines last week for a couple of weeks visit with her son-in-law, Ernest Gerardi and family.

Mrs. Lew Neuberger is making a good recovery from an operation which she underwent at the Mercy hospital at Mason City last week, Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Calvin Grosshuesch, Miss Gertrude Grosshuesch, Mrs. J. W. Grosshuesch of Klemme, and A. L. Kingery of Fort Dodge were dinner guests Thursday evening at the Dr. Dulmes home.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Ernest Helps of Garner was assisting with work at the Roths Cafe the first of the week.

Earle Smith of Garner, was a business caller in Klemme Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Neuhring entertained to dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neuhring and Charlotte.

C. E. Melcher and family and Lillian Brooks of Clear Lake were dinner guests Sunday at the Fred Bell home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark of Des Moines spent the week end visiting at the parental Benn Coobs home.

Mr. annd Mrs. Jim Bolgers and son of Belmond were entertained to dinner Sunday at the M. L. Harson home.

Mr and Mrs. Verner Lewis entertained to dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark of Des Moines, and Mr. and Mrs. Benn Coobs.

LuVerne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmidt is making a good recovery from an operation performed at the Lutheran Hospital at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Finders and Jerry were supper guests Sunday at the Clifford Montgomery home. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brede and children were evening visitors.

Mrs. A. L. Kingery, who was ill about two weeks ago and was a patient in the Fort Dodge hospital for over a week, was able to return to the Kingery's apartment at Fort Dodge last week,

The 50-50 class of the Methodist Sunday School will have a Christmas party at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Egeland Sunday evening, December 12th. There will be a gift exchange. Mrs. Carl Finders is in charge of the program.

Deer Hunters Visited Here

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartunek and Rickey of Cedar Rapids came Monday and visited over night at the George Lawhorn home. The Bartuneks were returning home from Wisconsin where they went hunting near Superior. They brought home a deer which they shot on the trip.

Jolly Workers Club Of Avery Plan Christmas Party

The Jolly Workers Club will have their Christmas party and gift exchange at the home of Lily Pearson on next Wednesday, December 15th. Each member will bring a gift for their "mystery friend," not to exceed $1.50 in value.

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH

Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

Sunday:
10.00 A. M. Worship Services.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.
1:30 P. M. Rehearsal for the Christmas Program.
8:00 P. M. Play given by the Young People of the Hampton Evangelical & Reformed Church in Klemme High School. No admission, free will offering at the door for World's Service.
Wednesday:
8:00 P. M. Choir.
Saturday:
9:00 A. M. Confirmation Class.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr . and Mrs. John Clement, Jimmie and Jerry, and Mrs. W. F. Pavey were visiting at Belmond Friday.

Miss Ada Mutch of Grundy Center came Friday afternoon and visited until Sunday at the Dr. A. H. Dulmes home.

Mrs. Mildred Day went to Mason City to spend the week end visiting with her son, Dorance and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Suckow and Mrs. Carl Suckow of Jennings, La. were dinner guests in the Henry Ludeke home at Meservey on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Suckow and Mrs. Carl Suckow of Jennings, La. came to Iowa last week to attend the funeral of Elmer Ludeke which was held at Britt last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Suckow and Mrs. Carl Suckow of Jennings, La. spent the week-end visiting with friends and relatives around Klemme and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen recently purchased about a 60-ft. frontage of Mrs. J. N. Day's property, between the Day and Jorgenson homes on Main Street. Mr. and Mrs. Larson plan to build a modern house sometime in the near future, on their newly acquired lot.

KLEMME LOCAL NEW

Mrs. Geo. Albers is this wee staying with her son-in-law an daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edge Buss.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Elde drove to Amboy, Minn. Frida for a visit at the Albert Fulle home over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Suckow and Mrs. Carl Suckow of Jennings, La. were guests at the El mer Weisbrod home on Thurs day evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weilan and family and Mr. and Mrs Verner Nelson were visiting o Friday evening at the Everet Weiland home.

Pvt. Francis Sherwood left vi Mason City Saturday night fo Wichita Falls, Texas, after en joying a furlough spent in Klem me visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sherwood.

Arthur Wellemeyer

FUNERAL DIRECTOR

—with long experince and best equipment.

PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE

Phone 23-R2 Day or Night

Klemme - Iowa

Klemme Food Mkt.

Friday & Saturday Specials

Save The Self-Serve Way!

Beef roast Lb. 46c

Beef steak Lb. 59c

TIDE 3 for $1

STANDBY SEEDLESS RAISINS Special 1 pound 13c

HERSHEY'S CHOCOLATE SYRUP Special 13c

ARGO GLOSS STARCH Only 10c

Breakfast Cereal Special CHEERIOS 2 Boxes for 29c

Friday and Saturday WHEATIES Large Box for 19c

LUX TOILET SOAP 2 bars for 19¢

BUY YOUR CHRISTMAS CANDY NOW!

BREEZE 3 BOXES ------- $1.00

MONARCH GRAPE PRESERVES Special 20c

Friday and Saturday TUNA FISH Special, Per Can 44c

MONARCH EGG NOODLES Per Package 29c

"CINCH" CAKE MIX Per Package 39c

SOS Pads PKG. 19c

Beef boil Lb. 31¢

CHOCOLATE CREAM COFFEE Per Pound, only 49c

STANDBY BRAND TOMATO JUICE Tall Can for 23c

LIBBY'S MIXED VEGETABLES 2 Glass Jars 25c

MATCHES Per Carton, only 36c

Hienz Cooked Spaghetti PER CAN 15¢

Bring Us Your Eggs CASH or TRADE

Klemme Food Market

Klemme, Iowa

We Reserve The Right To Limit

Christmas Cards

LARGEST STOCK IN TOWN . . .

We have thousands of Christmas Cards in stock and can take care of late orders. We feature only the highest grade cards at reasonable prices:

18 Beautiful Oilette Cards	.98
21 De Luxe Die-Cut Cards	$1.00
12 Silk Printed Cards	$1.20
18 Art Craft Cards	.98
12 Childrens' Cards	.68

Times Office

Quite A Few People

Are being far-sighted enough to get their corn pickers etc. overhauled now for next year.

HOW ABOUT YOURS?

It will cost you nothing for us to look your machinery over and give you an estimate. Also you will be pleased to know that Oliver has reduced the price on parts an average of 5 per cent in the last two weeks. Let's get in there before they go up again.

FRED J ARNOLD

Oliver Sales and Service Klemme, Iowa

YOU ARE INVITED TO ATTEND OUR

FORMAL OPENING

Saturday, December 11

From 1:00 to 6:00 P. M.

Come in and see us in the former Smith's Service this Saturday and have a FREE TREAT on us when we will serve . . .

Free Hot Coffee and Doughnuts

We invite everyone to come in and get acquainted and to have a hot lunch with us.

Haefner's Super Service

Wilbur Haefner, Prop. Klemme, Iowa

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER

THE KLEMME TIMES

Volume 54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1948 Number 5.

SERVICES FOR CPL. SCHOENWETTER AT GARNER THURSDAY AFTERNOON

WAS KILLED IN ACTION MAR. 2, 1945 NEAR GUSTORF, GERMANY

Garner Legion Will Hold Military Rites For Returned Hero Thursday

Funeral services for Cpl. Lyle Edward Schoenwetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schoenwetter of Garner, who was killed in action in the European theatre on March 2, 1945, will be held this Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Bohn funeral home and at the Garner Methodist Church at 2:00 p. m. with the Rev. S. W. Cunningham in charge, assisted by the Gifford Olson Post of the American Legion and the Edwin Jante Post of the V. F. W.

CPL. SCHOENWETTER

Obituary

Lyle Edward Schoenwetter, born May 11, 1918 on a farm in Twin Lake Township, son of Edward and Nora Schoenwetter and died March 2, 1945 at the age of 26 years, 9 months and 21 days.

He spent his entire life workin on a farm prior to entering the service.

He was baptized in the Liberty Methodist Church and later became a member of this church.

Lyle entered the service July 8, 1941 in the 79th Coast Artillery, taking his early training in Camp Wallace, Texas. Lyle was home on his first furlough when war broke out, and when he returned to camp he was sent to Ft. Bliss, Texas, where he remained for sometime. Lyle was then sent to Hartford, Conn. on guard duty in the Coast Artillery. Shortly before he was sent overseas Lyle was transferred to the infantry at Atlanta, Georgia. He was sent overseas on January 1, 1945 He went through Belgium, France, Holland, and Germany. It was near the town of Gustorf, Germany near the Rhine River that Lyle was called upon to give his life. Lyle was buried at Margraten, Holland where his grave was adopted and cared for by a Hollandl girl.

Lyle's commanding officer wrote that he was an excellent soldier and was well thought of by his buddies. Lyle will always be remembered by those who knew him by happy smiles and his friendly personality.

He is survived by his parents; 3 sisters, Velda, Mrs. Forest Cutshall; Irma, Mrs. Russel Hansen; and Wava, Mrs. Elwood Geary; two brothers, Merle and Wayne, all of this vicinity.

Cpl. Schoenwetter will be buried in the Concord Cemetery near Garner and will be carried to his resting place by John and Jesse Schwichtenberg, Ernie Eliason, Merle Hegg, Mervin Groesbeck and Harold Kothenbeutel.

When he accidentally picked up a can of gasoline while trying to light a fire in a kerosene stove, Don Johnson of Rock Rapids was severely burned.

HANCOCK COUNTY CROP DRIVE OVER TOP BY $12,000

The Hancock County CROP drive has gone over the top with over $12,000 in cash reported to date, according to the county chairman, Hilary Greiman. Some precincts are incomplete and several have not reported in the totals listed.

Chairman Greiman is anxious to close the books on the CROP drive and urges any committees who have not completed their work to do so at once and report by December 20. Individuals who have been missed by canvassers and who wish to contribute are urged to mail their contribution direct, designating their township and church to which they want donation credited and receipt will be mailed. Such contributions should be mailed to Chairman Hilary Greiman, Garner.

Hancock County CROP officials are deeply grateful for the generous response from citizens to the drive and for the wonderful co-operation received from the township and precinct workers.

IMPLEMENT COMPANY HAS OFFICE AT NORTHERN'S YARD

In the advertisement last week of the Northern Lumber Co Implement Department, a line was accidently left out designating the location of their temporary office. It should have read "at the Northern Lumber Co. Yard Office."

At any rate you will find L. A. Jennings doing business in the office at the Northern Lumber Company.

KLEMME GIRL ELECTED TO HONORARY SORORITIES

Miss Eunice Larsen, of Klemme, senior majoring in Institute Management and Dietetics at Iowa State College, Ames, Ia. has been elected to membership in two Home Economics honoraries, Amicron Nu and Phi Upsilon Omicron. She was pledged Saturday, December 11, 1948

Membership in Omicron Nu is based upon leadership, scholarship and research in the field of Home Economics and is limited to people comprising the upper one fourth of the senior class and the upper one fifth of the junior class.

Phi Upsilon Omicron is a professional honorary whose membership is limited to juniors and seniors outstanding in scholastic ability, leadership, character, and professionanl interest in their chosen field.

Miss Larsen is also president of her sorority, Alpha Gamma Delta, secretary and treasurer of Women's Pan Hellenic Council, and treasurer of the Institutional Management Club.

GOODELL
Evangelical United Brethren Church
W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.
Evening Service 7:30 P. M.

Girls Missionary Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. V. E. Harris Thursday evening, Dec. 9th. Bring guest and Christmas exchange gift.

All the children of the Sunday School are asked to meet at the Church the next two Saturdays at 1:30 to practice for the Christmas program to be given Christmas Eve.

Next Sunday is Universal Bible Sunday. A display of Bibles will be shown. If you have an unusal Bible; large, old, new, of different language, etc., bring it for this display either before or on Sunday morning.

REJECTED BIDS ON THE KLEMME PAVING PROJECT

At the letting of bids on the paving project in Klemme the State Highway Commission rejected all bids filed as they were considerably above the engineer's estimate.

The Maudlin Construction Co. of Webster City was the successful bidder at Ames last Tuesday on the surfacing with gravel of the Hayfield-Miller farm to market road recently constructed.

The bid on the project was $7,176 and was accepted by the state highway commission and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. Work on the project will get under way within a few days according to Engineer C. F. Merten.

County Engineer C. F. Merten and Supervisor John Chambers, F. J Schoun and George Th. Gerdes attended the letting.

Supervisors Attendd Meeting

Hancock County Supervisors attended a state weed meeting at the Savory Hotel in Des Moines Jan. 6 and 7. The weed law revision was discussed and recommendations made to the next session of the Iowa legislature.

MOBERLY RITES LAST THURS.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD ON THURSDAY FOR N. G. MOBERLY, 76

Had Been A Resident Of Klemme For The Past 23 Years

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Klemme Methodist Church for Mr Newton G. Moberly, 76, who, died at his home last week Tuesday after a long illness. Rev. E. M. Egeland, pastor, gave the funeral sermon.

Obituary

Newton G. Moberly, son of Irwin and Sarah Moberly, was born at Doverhill, Indiana on February 17, 1872. His father was a native of Kentucky and his mother of New Jersey. He was the only remaining member of his family, two sisters and two brothers having preceded him in death.

When 13 years of age Mr. Moberly went to Nebraska where he remained three years going from there to Champaign, Ill. He found work on a farm at Galesville, Illinois and was converted in a school house while a young man and became a member of the Christian Church.

On the 25th day of December, 1900 he was united in marriage to Mary S. Halforty at Farmer City, Illinois and started housekeeping on a farm near Deland, Illinois. From there the Moberlys moved to Lamar, Missouri and again in 1907 to a farm east of Klemme.

After coming to Klemme, Mr. Moberly together with his surviving wife joined the Methodist Church. For a number of years prior to his death he was prevented by illness from attending church, but listened regularly to sermons on the radio and contributed toward their financial support.

In 1925 they moved to Klemme, Mr. Moberly's health failing gradually through the following years. On Tuesday, December 7th, at 1.00 p. m. he quietly passed away at the age of 76 years, 9 months and 20 days.

Two daughters were born to the Moberlys, Sylvia (Mrs. Arthur Brouwer of Sheffield) and Golda (Mrs. Alvin Goll of Klemme) who together with their mother survive. There are seven grand children and one great grand child. One grand child preceded Mr. Moberly in death.

Mr. Moberly was buried in the Ell Township Cemetery near Klemme and was carried to his final resting place by Benn Coobs, Dwight Hummel, Emil Beier, Elmer Arnold, Verner Nelson and Roy Schaefer.

SANTA HERE ON THURSDAY

FREE MOVIES FOR KIDDIES AT THE COMMUNITY HALL DEC. 23RD

Santa Will Be Here In Person With Treats For All Boys And Girls

The Klemme Civic Club will sponsor a free movie and Chrismas party for the children of this community at the Community Hall on Thursday afternoon, December 23rd, beginning at 2:00 o'clock.

Santa Claus will be here in person and will have a big free treat for every boy and girl in the community. Santa wrote the Civic Club that there is a lot of snow between Klemme and the North Pole and that he will get here in time for the big party on Thursday, December 23, and he wants to have a great big crowd of boys and girls here to meet him.

Don't forget the date; Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23rd.

HANCOCK COUNTY HAS ONE POLIO CASE IN HOSPITAL

Roy L. McMillin, chairman of the Hancock County Infantile Paralysis Association, reports that this county is fortunate in having but one polio case so far this year.

Marilyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Ben Aukes, of Woden, is a patient in the Methodist hospital at Des Moines where she has been in an Iron Lung for over 2 weeks. She is making progress, however and is able to be out of the lung for intervals of 6 hours daily, the past few days.

Mr McMillin received a bill from the hospital in the amount of $768.80 from the hospital Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Sr., secretary has mailed a check for the above amount. Mr. McMillin says, "We will take care of this case as we do all others."

Fifty-Fifty Class Met

The Fifty-Fifty Class met Sunday at the Egeland home with a good number present. After a business meeting, games were played and Dwight Hummel showed some movies which were enjoyed by all A gift exchange was held.

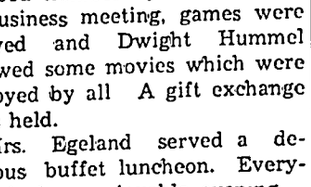
Mrs. Egeland served a delicious buffet luncheon. Everyone had an enjoyable evening

The next meeting will be a taffy pull in January at the church.

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH
Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

Sunday:
10:00 A. M. Worship Services.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.
1:30 P. M. Rehearsal for the Christmas Program.
7:00 P. M. Young Peoples Bible Class.
Wednesday:
8:00 P. M. Consistory Meeting.
8:00 P. M. Choir.
Saturday:
9:00 A. M. Confirmation Class.

HELLO, FOLKS!



Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson of Goodell are the proud parents of a baby daughter, weight 6 lbs. 13 oz., born Saturday morning, December 11, 1948. They have named her Bernita Arlene.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sandry are the proud parents of an 8 lb. baby girl born at the Belmond Hospital December 12th. They also have 3 boys.

METHODIST HIGH SCHOOL FELLOWSHIP TO PRESENT CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The High School Fellowship of the Klemme Methodist church will present a Christmas program in the Sanctuary of the church on Sunday evening at 8.00 o'clock. The service will center around the showing of a new sound film strip in color, "Holy Child of Bethlehem." The film strip prepared by Cathedral Films, a religious film service, was produced during the past year for release and use the first time this Christmas season.

The service will be in charge of Isabelle Gibbs, Youth Fellowship president Assisting her in the service will be other members of the youth group. The Beier girls' trio, LaVonne, Beverly and Shirley will sing a Christmas Carol and Judith and Delwyn will present an instrumental duet.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude White, youth counselors have assisted in the preparation of the program. The public is cordially invited to share in the beauty and inspiration of this Christmas service There will be a free-will offering for the Youth Fellowship treasury.

STORES OPEN WED. & THURS.

TO ACCOMODATE PRE-CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NEXT WEEK

The Klemme stores will be open next week, Wednesday and Thursday nights, December 22 and 23 to accomodate Christmas Shoppers. The stores will not be open on Christmas Eve. Friday evening or on Christmas Day, Saturday

Thursday A Big Day

Plan to spend next Thursday afternoon and evening in Klemme. Santa Claus will be here Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23rd and will give treats to all the kiddies. There will also be a free moving picture at the Community hall in the afternoon, and the regular show in the evening.

Klemme Civic Club Will Hold Meeting December 16

Dr. A. H. Dulmes, president of the Klemme Civic Club announces that a meeting of the club is called for Thursday evening, December 16 at 7.30 o'clock. Important business will be presented and the annual election of officers will be held.

All members are urged to be present as this is the last meeting for this year.

LEGION AUXILIARY HELD CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Christmas program and party for the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the Legion Hall December 7 with 28 members present. Mrs. Carrie Schwichtenberg presided at the business meeting in the absence of the president.

Mrs. Lena Lewis, chairman of child welfare, was appointed to select and send a Christmas gift to the Auxiliary's asigned child in Des Moines.

Homemade candy will be made and packed by Mrs. Louise Etchen, Mrs. Lois Chambers, and Mrs. Wm. Fuss to send to the Veterans Hospital.

The date for the Community Sing was set for January 5.

All members are asked to bring a pound ball of sewed carpet rags to the next meeting.

Marie Blank had charge of the program. Mrs. Thelma Arnold read the Christmas Story from the Bible. Several other selections were read by Marie Blank. All the ladies joined in singing the Christmas Carols. A gift exchange closed the program.

Hostesses for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Roths, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Helps, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thomas.

TRIPLE A TOWNSHIP CHAIRMEN NAMED FOR THE COMING YEAR

ELMER LUDEKE, FORMERLY OF KLEMME, DIED AT BRITT

(Editor's Note: The item concerning the death of Elmer Ludeke, Britt business man and former Klemme resident, was evidently lost and did not reach The Times for earlier publication. Because of the lateness the story is condensed for the benefit of our out of state readers.)

Funeral Services for Elmer H. Ludeke, 61, Britt businessman, were held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at Osman's funeral chapel and at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church. Burial in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Ludeke died of a heart attack Sunday.

Survivors include the widow, 2 daughters, Mrs. Ellis Swan and Mrs. Alpha Lloyd, and 2 sons, Clarence and Lyle, all living in Britt with the exception of Lyle whose home is at Ames.

Mr Ludeke owned and operated the coffee shop in Britt from 1931 to 1943 and for the past 3 years had owned and operated Ludeke's appliance shop.

Mr. Ludeke is a brother of Mrs. Geo. Schoenwetter, Mrs. Art Schoenwetter, Mrs. Wm. Ax and Mrs. Fred Schlichting, all of Klemme; Henry Ludeke of Meservey, Ralph Ludeke of Clear Lake; Mrs. Carl Suckow, Jennings, La., and Mrs. Elmer Weisbrod of Fenton.

MUSKRAT AND MINK SEASON CLOSES DEC. 20TH

The drastically curtailed muskrat and mink season closes at midnight, December 20, and the trapper are required by law to dispose of all muskrat and mink furs within ten days of the close of the opeen season. By writing the State Conservation Commission, they may secure permits cost free to hold legally taken furs for a longer period Trappers are also required to secure a permit from the State Conservation Commission to ship raw furs out of the state.

The trapping season on protected long-haired fur-bearing animals, including racoon, skunk, oppossum, civet cat, and badger, remains open until January 10, and furs of these species may be legally held in possession without permit until midnight, Jan. 20.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH
E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

Christmas Worship Service at 10. The Sermon theme will be "The Marvel of Jesus." There will be special Christmas anthems by the choir.

Sunday School at 11.

Intermediate Youth Fellowship at 7:00.

On Sunday evening at 8:00 the Senior Youth Fellowship will present a Christmas program in the Sanctuary which will include the showing of a new sound film strip in color, "Holy Child of Bethlehem." The general public is invited to attend. There will be a free-will offering.

The Choir will meet for rehearsal in the Church on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

The Sunday School will present its Christmas program at 7.30 on Friday, Christmas Eve.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH
E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Sunday Services:

Sunday School at 10: 15.

Christmas Worship Service at 11:20. The Sermon theme will be, "The Marvel of Jesus." There will be special Christmas music.

The Sunday School will present its Christmas program on Friday, Christmas Eve at 7:30 o'clock.

TRIPLE A OFFICERS ELECTED FOR THE COMING YEAR

Anton E. Rasmussen, Garner, was re-elected chairman of the Hancock County AAA Committee at the annual County AAA Election held in Garner on Friday forenoon, December 10th.

Clarence A. Bird, Woden, was re-elected vice chairman and Sam A. Barber, Kanawha, regular member.

Alternates to the committee elected were Arthur C. Fredrickson and Lewis S. Fisher of Britt.

The county election followed a series of township AA election meetings during the dates of December 1st through the 9th when farmers in each township selected committeemen to serve them in administering the AAA Program for the coming year.

These recently elected farmer committeemen who will administer the 1949 Agricultural Conservation and related programs in counties and Communities will take office in Iowa on Monday following their election.

A total of 51 regular and 34 alternate committeemen have been elected this year to administer the 1949 farm program in Hancock County.

Through the conservation program they are key figures in the nation's efforts to encourage soil and water conservation to maintain current and future production.

They are key positions to pass soil and water conservation methods along to their fellow farmers. They are familiar with both the conservation and production problems in local areas and therefore are in a position to help farmers adapt the Agricultural Conservation Program to local needs. They have available both the technical knowledge from agronomists and soil specialists and the practical understanding from their experience in farming.

Listed below are the results of the township elections:

Ell Township
John E. Humphrey, Chairman
O. A. Steward
Richard F. Bamman
Alternates:
Ewald V. Josten
Leslie Hartbeck

Avery Township
Morton C. James, Chairman
Carl L. Wille
Ernie F. Kurtz
Alternates:
Vern W. Schluter
Herman Lauen

Liberty Township
Wm. L. Haberkamp, Chairman
Aaron A. Stromer
Elmer Hueneman
Alternates:
Gordon Upmeyer
Harold Haberkamp

Twin Lake Township
Gerald Janssen, Chairman
Harold Eliason
Arthur Chelsvig
Alternates:
Ole Eliason
A. G. Ruka

Hancock Supervisors Spread Drain Levies

Drainage levies totaling $11,363 were authorized by Hancock County Supervisors to be spread against several drainage mains and laterals in Hancock County. The levy will be spread and collected with the regular property tax of 1948 payable in 1949 and is for outstanding warrants issued for minor repairs on the various districts.

Lease Gravel Pit

Hancock County Supervisors have leased a 5-acre tract from W. G. McFarland near Crystal Lake to be used for gravel purposes. The land was leased for a period of years at an agreed rental of $2,600.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

President Hints Controls on Way As Cost of Living Drops Slightly; Western Mutual Aid Pact Prepared

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DILEMA:
Sharp-Horned

Perched uncomfortably astride a dilemma having the sharpest horns ever to plague a sitter, President Truman ponders ways and means of getting off. The situation is as clearly defined as it is bothersome.

IN SHORT, the President must work the seemingly impossible miracle of knocking prices down while keeping wages and farm prices up. Mr. Truman is indubitably committed to the former, and it was a great majority of opinion that he could do just that which helped account for his victory. That he will also do the latter is a campaign pledge he must exert every effort to keep.

No less a personage than Henry Ford II has sharpened one of the horns. The industrialist touched off the "fourth round" of wage increases, with consequent high-prices maintenance, when he announced a wage hike for all his workers. Then, Mr. Ford delivered himself of the observation that wages generally must go up and that prices must do likewise.

THE PATTERN is clear. Industry raises wages and the cost of its products goes up. Wages must increase if these products are to be purchased. Labor comes in to ask for more money in order to buy these products. And so the circle continues.

Meanwhile, it is obvious that Americans expect the President and congress to do something about getting the cost of living within reasonable bounds—and to do it quick. On the other hand, labor, which backed Mr. Truman at the polls, and farmers, who generally supported him, are expecting action as swift on legislation favorable to them.

As administration leaders sought a course of action to satisfy all groups, congress said little for public consumption. Methods of price control, if any have been conceived, have not been discussed.

ONE THING, however, is clear. The situation poses the major test of how effective in solving the problem will be the cooperation of congress and the President.

From Capitol Hill came persistent whispering that Mr. Truman's thumping victory did not necessarily arm him with the equivalent of a magic wand which he might wave over congress to bring about legislation in any form he may desire.

Solution?

Then there was a break on the inflation front. Americans who had come to accept the inevitability of the high cost of living raised their eyes with surprise over the development — although it amounted to only the merest chink in the price barricade.

TWO THINGS happened almost simultaneously:

President Truman ordered administration agencies to work out a "definite" anti-inflation program to be presented to the Democratic congress in January, and the bureau of labor statistics reported a dip of one-half of 1 per cent in its cost-of-living index for October.

The significance of Mr. Truman's proposal for anti-inflation legislation was established; it was something to look forward to. But how much real importance should be attached to the almost infinitesimal break in the price line would remain to be seen.

FOR ONE thing, the price dip—unless it grew to miraculous proportions—would not cancel out any anti-inflation measures, such as "standby" price control and rationing, which might be imposed.

Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's council of economic advisors, opined that a lowering of prices, washing out the need for drastic controls, would be "swell." But he didn't predict it would happen.

Another top fiscal official said he believed inflationary forces still had the upper hand. And Chester Bowles, one-time OPA boss, stated that congress "unquestionably" would act against inflation.

The precise nature of the program President Truman will lay before congress in January was not yet known—probably not yet determined. Its general outline probably will be made public when he delivers his "State of the Union" message in January.

But there was little doubt that a return to more or less stringent economic controls was in the cards for 1949.

Global Christmas

People of the nations of the earth are going to see Christmas from an American viewpoint this year through the medium of typical American Christmas greeting cards being sent by the state department to U. S. embassies and consulates throughout the world. Here Miss Frances Kane, state department employee, sits below an enlarged photograph of the cards.

TREATY:
Mutual Aid

The cold freeze being turned on Russia by the western nations plummeted several more degrees when Great Britain, France and the three Benelux nations, after long negotiations, agreed on a 17-point mutual assistance pact.

THAT the U. S. is involved in the agreement goes almost without saying, for without American sanction and at least an implied willingness to help out militarily in the event of aggression no western Atlantic treaty would be worth a "whereas" or even a "hereinafter."

Primary proposal in the plan calls for a pledge of mutual armed assistance by the U. S., Canada and the five western European nations in case one or more of them should be attacked.

SECONDLY, it provides that the pact be left open to membership of certain other nations. It calls, also, for the setting up of military and political boards—immediately after the pact's signature and ratification—to make the treaty operate.

Containing 17 points in all, the program of "agreed opinions" has been presented to the U. S. and Canada for consideration. There was no immediate reaction from the two governments on the matter, but it seemed logical to presume that the idea for such a treaty had received their prior blessings.

Although the pact in its present form refrains from designating a fixed period of years for its life, it does recommend "a long duration." Actually, the five European governments have been thinking in terms of a 50-year period, but the decision on that is being left to the last stage of negotiations.

RUSSIA as a nation—peaceful or belligerent—is scrupulously ignored in the document. Nowhere is any mention made of the Soviet Union.

Nevertheless, the treaty itself offers grim proof of the fact that the western democratic nations have seen fit to construct the nucleus of a great regional defensive alliance against Russia and the spread of communism.

PEACEABLE:
Party Line

The official "line" of the Communist party has gone off on a new tangent in a tactic described as a "peace offensive" by U. S. intelligence authorities who reported the switch.

WORD IS that the Kremlin has ordered peace propaganda and demonstrations of various kinds as the official party line for all Communist parties, organs and front organizations. The intelligence boys claimed that this ostensible about-face would become apparent in the near future.

Soviet rulers are supposed to be setting the stage for a world-wide "peace" maneuver as part of their cold war strategy to embarrass the United States and its western allies in the clash over the Berlin situation.

How much will this spurious peace offensive mean? Literally nothing, as far as any genuine desire or effort for peace is concerned. The Russians haven't undergone a change of heart; their aims are the same as always.

KEEP DIGGING:
No Tax Cut

All hope for an income tax cut in January may as well be ruled out now. This is on the authority of Sen. Walter F. George (D., Ga.) who is returning to chairmanship of the senate finance committee. He has said that increased aid to Europe and additional funds for national defense would bar any reductions. He estimated that ERP would get an additional one or two billion dollars.

Atlantis Debunked

If you take the word of Dr. Maurice Ewing of Columbia university, everyone who's been waiting around for the fabled "lost continent" of Atlantis to show up may now relax. Dr. Ewing says he has mapped, photographed, probed, sounded and visited the ocean floor since 1935, and there just isn't any evidence of the mysterious continent. Atlantis was believed to have sunk in a great prehistoric cataclysm.

ARTERIAL:
Kingly

Great Britain's royal family was keeping well in the forefront of world news. First it was Princess Elizabeth's baby, then it was King George's leg.

But while the first was an event of hysterically happy proportions for all Britons, the second most certainly was not. The king, apparently, was in a relatively serious condition. The royal family's projected trip to Australia and New Zealand next month had to be cancelled.

IT WAS suspected that 52-year-old George VI was suffering from a disease known to doctors as thrombo-angitis obliterans, more easily referred to as Buerger's disease, an inflamation of the linings of the arteries. There was some speculation, also, to the effect that the king might have diabetes or hardening of the arteries.

But the king's doctors weren't committing themselves. The five physicians described his symptom as "an obstruction to the circulation through the arteries of the legs."

THERE IS no known permanent cure for thrombo-angitis obliterans. Anyone suffering from it might be expected to live out his normal span of years if he were careful, stayed off his feet and led a sheltered life.

It was pointed out that standing and walking for hours at a time, which has been part of the king's job as figurehead of the empire, has aggravated his condition. Part of the treatment will be to cut out this important part of his duties and assign the walking and standing performances among other members of the royal household.

Meanwhile, favoring his imperilled right foot, King George was conducting the business of state from his bedroom in Buckingham palace.

Atomic Researcher

Dr. Frank D. Fackenthal, until recently acting president of Columbia university, has been named as head of Associated Universities, Inc., which operates Brookhaven national laboratory at Upton, N. Y. The laboratory is financed by the U. S. government to provide facilities not available at universities, but essential to nuclear research.

WAR RULES:
Atomic

The need for this sort of thing is purely speculative at this point, but the International Red Cross is preparing to propose a new set of war rules that would compel nations to establish safety zones to protect civilians in the event of a future atomic war.

THESE zones would be set up in the rear of combat areas of each battling nation. Belligerents, theoretically, would recognize them as shelter areas and would spare them from atomic attack.

Treaty conventions outlining this new security zone principle now are being circulated to all nations prior to submission to a general diplomatic conference in March.

Red Cross officials say they conceived the idea for large shelter areas as a result of their experiences in setting up neutral zones in Palestine.

Three general types of people would be protected under the Red Cross plan:

WOUNDED and sick persons, whether combatant or non-combatant.

CHILDREN under 15, expectant mothers or mothers of children under seven, and the aged over 65.

PERSONS entrusted with the control and management of the zones and the care of those in them.

Although these proposals cannot be formally binding until after approval by the diplomatic convention, officials view them as so extremely important that they are urging all countries to abide by them morally without waiting for formal treaty signing.

In addition to the atomic security zone proposal, other projected war rules would cover treatment of prisoners, prohibit kidnapings and the taking of hostages. Also, the Red Cross wants to outlaw the current Russian practice of living off the land in occupied areas.

What, No Brass?

A noted industrialist, who was a war-time brigadier general; has come up with a proposal that military brass hats should divest themselves of insignia, and that West Point and Annapolis should be converted into postgraduate schools open to all ranks.

The author of these proposals is Robert Wood Johnson, chairman of the Johnson & Johnson surgical firm.

Washington Digest

No Future to Presidency, Pension Plan Is Proposed

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Harry Truman, President, is going to be able to consider one measure which probably will come up in the approaching congress with more objectivity than some of his friends thought would be possible. It offers an answer to the question: what to do with ex-Presidents.

The idea is not entirely altruistic, although the United States in the past has shown rather shabby gratitude in tossing aside, without further concern, the man who has served as the republic's head.

Many, if not most, of our former chief executives might provide counsel and advice based on their experience which could be most valuable. Herbert Hoover is an example. At present, he is rendering important service as head of the commission appointed by President Truman which has just drawn up the plan for the re-organization of government departments which congress will consider at its next session.

BAUKHAGE

Hoover has served in many other useful public capacities since he left the White House. He can afford to. Indeed, he not only spent considerable sums out of his private funds on secretarial and research assistance when he was secretary of commerce, and later in the White House, but he also voluntarily turned back a part of his salary as President in 1932 when, under the Economy act, the salaries of all government employees were cut.

Franklin Roosevelt also turned back part of his salary under that same act, and later, in 1943, when he was advocating a $25,000 ceiling on all salaries, FDR again voluntarily refunded to the treasury a portion of his own.

But not all presidents are born with, or acquire, silver spoons. Few could afford the luxury of working for nothing and so, when they leave office most have to look around for a job.

Fortunately, former President William Howard Taft, in the years before he was called back to Uncle Sam's workbench as chief justice of the supreme court, possessed enough of the world's goods so that he could afford to render at least semi-public services teaching in the Harvard law school — a position which a man of slenderer means might have had to turn down in favor of a higher salary from some purely private enterprise. His son, Sen. Robert Taft, mentioned this recently when he suggested that former presidents should receive a substantial pension, "perhaps $25,000 a year."

Ex-presidents also should have the privileges of the senate floor, Taft believes, with the right to speak, but not to vote, on pending legislation. In so honoring them the nation would benefit.

Coolidge might or might not have welcomed an opportunity to take on some governmental responsibility after his presidential term expired. As it was, he accepted a lucrative position with an insurance company and continued his private law practice as well until he died.

Most presidents leave the White House poorer than when they went in. Franklin Roosevelt wrote a $2,000 personal check every month to meet White House expenses, and other recent residents have estimated that they had to go down into the old sock to the tune of $25,000 a year over and above what the government gives them, to meet the cost of living in the executive mansion.

Why Not Provide For Ex-Presidents?

When the pollsters were writing off Harry Truman as merely an "ex," come January 20, the proponents of the idea of providing for former chiefs of the United States were pointing out that Harry Truman does not have the private means that Franklin Roosevelt or Herbert Hoover had.

There was some talk that Mr. Truman might run for representative of his home state as President John Quincy Adams did. Adams served 17 years in the house and, if anything, increased his prestige by doing so. But Mr. Truman's fellow Missourian, Rep. C. Jasper Bell, had another idea in July of 1946 during the last session of the 79th congress.

He proposed that the house and senate enact a bill to provide an annual pension of $50,000 for men who had served as president of the United States. Bell pointed out that army officers, congressmen, senators, cabinet members, heads of government departments, and even the most humble of federal workers are provided with retirement pay and he couldn't see why the head of the federal government should be discriminated against in this regard. He felt that in the long run, retirement pay for a chief executive would be a step toward better government.

A Missouri newspaper editor, shortly after Bell's resolution was first introduced, claimed in an editorial that the pension idea was alright, but that the amount of his pension, $50,000, seemed a little high. He, like Mr. Taft, felt that $25,000 a year would be a more equitable sum. Representative Bell's reply to that objection was that if congress did fix the figure at $50,000, taxes would shortly whittle it down to $25,000 anyway.

Mr. Truman may have been touched with what was intended as solicitude on the part of his fellow-show-me's but he did not feel the matter was of immediate concern.

So far as the memory of this man runneth not to the contrary, there have never, in recent years, been more than two co-surviving ex-presidents.

Until the death of President Coolidge in 1933, he and Herbert Hoover were co-survivors. Coolidge had earlier shared that position with Chief Justice Taft until the latter's death in 1930. Taft, who lived to be 73 years old, co-survived and outlived Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

"No office in the world today," wrote the English professor of economics and political science, Harold J. Laski, "carries with it greater responsibilities than the presidency of the United States."

No one who has made even a superficial study of the duties of the president fails to realize how hard a job it is, hard in the sense of long hours, nervous strain, and physical effort. Since the death of Woodrow Wilson, brought on by his herculean efforts during and after World War I, much study has been given to the problem of lessening the burden of the chief executive.

Herbert Hoover has spoken of the "vast and intolerable labor" of the man who sits in the White House for four years or more. Merriman Smith in his book: "A President Is Many Men," commenting on the "complicated and burdensome" quality of the task, makes this pithy observation: "And his job is one with no future."

The "ex" has a value and the problem of finding it can be solved easily by congress without the knowledge of algebra.

• • •

U. S. Population Growth Studied

What size population do we want for the United States? Or does it make any difference?

The question is important enough to merit a continuing study by the U. S. commerce department, and the conclusions which have been reached so far appear to have an important bearing on the problem of securing world peace.

"Whatever the future of world organization, the relative population of the various nations will be a matter of profound importance in determining the shape of things to come."

That statement was made in a report by the national committee on immigration policy, headed by Earl G. Harrison, which is plumping for immigration increases in this country.

In 1923 the commerce department estimated that a population of at least 200 million and very probably 300 million could be supported in the U. S. without lowering the habitually high American standard of living.

The Harrison group pointed out that "even if we accept the lowest figure, it is still 35 millions more than the peak which the American population will reach in 1990."

These are some of the assertions the group made in a special report on immigration and population policy:

Population of the U. S. should be 159 million in 1970. That of Russia should be 251 million—an extremely sharp increase. Italy, Spain and countries back of the iron curtain also are expected to show population gains.

For other nations: Population of Germany, Denmark and Finland will remain approximately stationary, while the population of England, France, Sweden and Switzerland is expected to hit a downward trend.

By the end of this century—and that's only about 51 years away, remember — the population of the United States will be proportionately smaller in relation to Russia, China and India than it is now.

It means that the great, teeming population masses of Asia are moving forward numerically with a force and inexorability that is bound to exert a profound effect on "the shape of things to come."

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Our water supply has so much iron in it that the wash looks yellow, especially sheets, pillow slips, towels, etc. The water doesn't seem hard, and it is easy to make good suds. Is there any help for the trouble?

ANSWER: Yes, but at a price. You need an iron removal unit in the water supply. For information on this unit, inquire of the Architects Samples exhibit, 101 Park avenue, New York 17, (a non-commercial organiaztion.)

QUESTION: How can I remove rust stains from rubber tile?

ANSWER: You may be able to make them less noticeable by rubbing with very fine steel wool moistened with a little water.

A cheerful Christmas note is the news that your Christmas budget can be made to perform wonders with little time and effort. Just write down the names of friends who smoke; then visit a neighborhood dealer. He'll be well stocked with gay cartons of mild, flavorful Camel cigarettes and pound tins of mild, mellow Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the National Joy Smoke. Both gifts come ready-dressed in colorful Christmas containers. You can even dispense with the usual fussing with cards, due to the novel space provided for personalized season's greetings on the wrappings of both items. Your budget will like these modest gifts. And your friends are certain to welcome holiday-sent Camels and Prince Albert! (Adv.)

CHRISTMAS TREAT ALWAYS POPS
CRISP-TASTY-TENDER
JOLLY TIME POP CORN

Check that Cough from a cold Before It Gets Worse
—and get well quicker with the NEW FOLEY'S

The NEW FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR contains one of the most important cough treatment developments in years, one that ACTUALLY HELPS SPEED RECOVERY. Also soothes throat, checks coughing. Also delicious, non-narcotic, does not upset digestion. But most important, NEW FOLEY'S helps you get well quicker from cough due to cold. At your druggist.

NATURE'S REMEDY (NR) TABLETS—A purely vegetable laxative to relieve constipation without the usual griping, sickening, perturbing sensations, and does not cause a rash. Try NR—you will see the difference. Uncoated or candy coated—their action is dependable, thorough, yet gentle as millions of NR's have proved. Get a 25c box and use as directed.

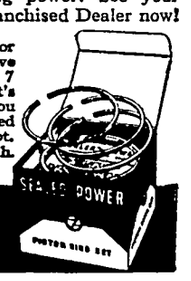
Nature's Remedy NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW ALRIGHT

FUSSY STOMACH? RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN
EAT LIKE CANDY TUMS 10¢ STOMACH DISTRESS
FOR THE TUMMY!

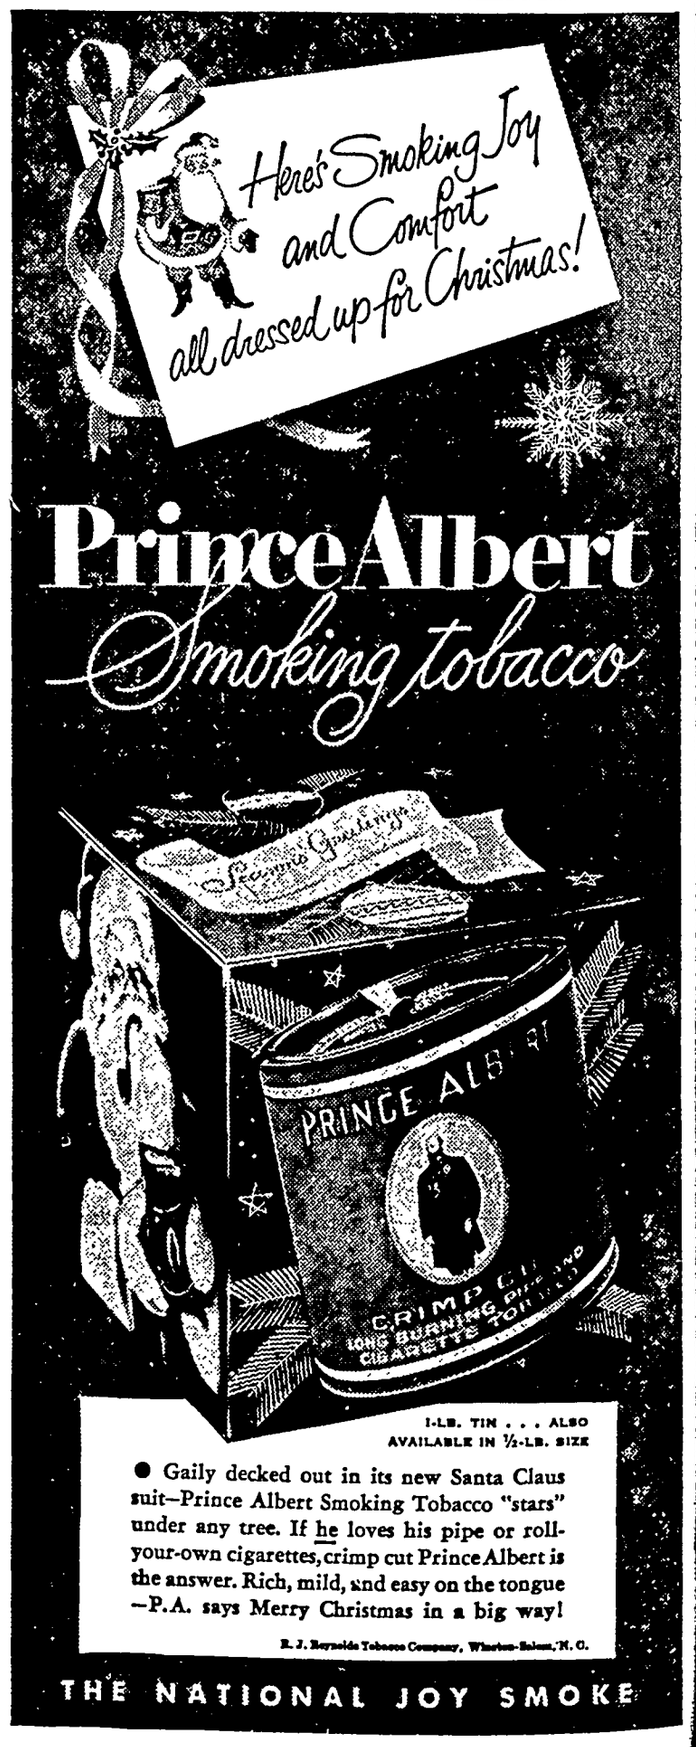
THAT NEW-CAR FEEL—"like putting on wings"

It's like putting wings on your car when your Sealed Power Franchised Dealer overhauls your old engine and puts in new Sealed Power Piston Rings! He can make your old car, truck or tractor engine work like new, whatever the make, model or cylinder wear condition. You'll save oil. You'll save gas. You'll thrill to its new wealth of surging power! See your Sealed Power Franchised Dealer now!

Send a postal for illustrated, informative new booklet on 7 ways to save oil. It's free and may save you lots of money. Sealed Power Corp., Dept. W12, Muskegon, Mich.



SEALED POWER PISTON RINGS
BEST IN NEW ENGINES BEST IN OLD ENGINES



Here's Smoking Joy and Comfort all dressed up for Christmas!
Prince Albert
Smoking tobacco
PRINCE ALBERT
CRIMP CUT
LONG BURNING PIPE AND CIGARETTE TOBACCO

1-LB. TIN . . . ALSO AVAILABLE IN ½-LB. SIZE

● Gaily decked out in its new Santa Claus suit—Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco "stars" under any tree. If he loves his pipe or roll-your-own cigarettes, crimp cut Prince Albert is the answer. Rich, mild, and easy on the tongue—P.A. says Merry Christmas in a big way!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE

MIRROR of your MIND

Does Pity Mean Dislike?

By Lawrence Gould

Does pitying people tend to make you dislike them?

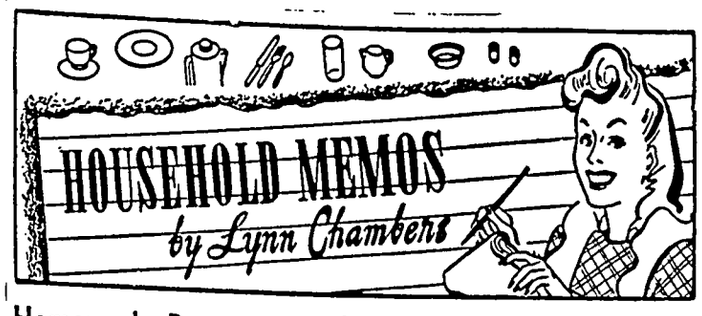
Answer: That depends on whether you feel that you are to blame for their misfortunes, although, of course, you may have this feeling without being conscious of it. For you can't help but dislike a person who makes you feel guilty and ashamed of yourself. We're particularly apt to have a secret sense of having taken an unfair advantage of those members of our family who are worse off than we are, because that is what we should have liked to do as children. Few of us like our "poor relations," no matter how sorry we are for them.

Can psychiatry rear healthier-minded children?

Answer: The first large-scale effort to prove that it can is under way at the Rochester (Minn.) Child Health Institute, an offshoot of the Mayo Clinic. Some 300 children born since 1943 have been reared by the new "permissive" methods under supervision of child specialists with psychiatric training, and will be kept under observation through their school days. It is hoped that their experience will show that "a generation of children can be developed in such a way that emotional stability will go hand in hand with physical health."

Is disliking to gamble a neurotic symptom?

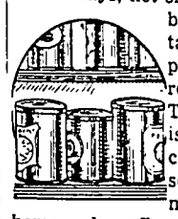
Answer: That depends upon the deeper feeling the dislike is based on. There are people who are afraid to "take chances" because they are sure that luck will always be against them, and this belief is essentially neurotic, since it really means that they're identifying luck with parents who, as they thought, always did them out of anything they wanted. But "gambling fever" based on the conviction that you're bound to win is equally unrealistic, and a mature person would rather rely on his own efforts than on fortune to help him.



Homemade Presents Are Sure to Please Discriminating Friends

A DAY or two or three spent in the kitchen instead of out among Christmas crowds will yield several lovely as well as edible presents to give your closest friends.

Most people are so busy around the holidays, not only with shopping but with entertaining that food presents will be really welcome. Think how nice it is to receive some colorful jelly to serve with Christmas dinner or a homemade coffee cake done up in gala wrappings!



Make a gift list of food presents, then bring out the recipes and decide just how much of each to make. Wrap prettily and deliver just as you would other presents Keep a few extra boxes of food gifts to give just in case someone you'd forgotten drops in unexpectedly.

If you put up a lot of jellies, jams and preserves during the summer, bring these out and wrap in gay paper and tie with fancy bows. Even one jar makes a perfectly delightful present.

For more elaborate presents you might want to give several jars on a tray that may be used for relish or sandwiches.

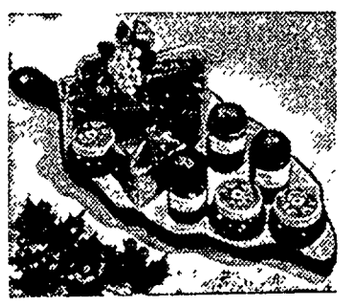
* * *

JUST IN CASE you do not have enough jars of jelly from summer, here are some recipes to replenish the supply.

Cranberry Jam
(Makes 13 6-ounce glasses)

- 7 cups prepared fruit
- 3 cups sugar
- 3 cups light corn syrup
- 1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, add four cups water to about three and one-fourth pounds of fully ripe cranberries Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Sieve pulp to remove seeds, if desired. (For spiced cranberry jam, simmer fruit with one-half teaspoon ground cloves and one teaspoon cinnamon



Presents made in your kitchen reflect your interest and thoughtfulness to the recipient of the gift, especially if you give gay and colorful jars of jellies and other canned goods. Use some of the stock you put up this summer for gifts.

or one and one-half teaspoons of any desired combination of spices)

Measure sugar and corn syrup into a dry bowl and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a five to six quart kettle filling up the last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour in sugar and syrup at once, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, one-fourth teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full, rolling boil and boil hard one minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

Apricot Jam

- 1 pound dried apricots
- 1½ cups sugar
- ¼ cup seedless raisins
- ¾ cup water in which apricots were soaked
- 1 orange

Wash apricots and soak in water enough to cover for one hour. Slice orange fine and cut each slice in fine pieces. Mix all ingredients together.

Cook slowly until thickened. Fill jelly glasses and seal with paraffin at once.

Pear and Apple Conserve

- 9 hard pears
- 6 tart apples

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

Pot Roast with Potato Pancakes
Apple Sauce Green Beans
Pineapple - Cabbage Slaw
Rolls Beverage
Orange Tapioca Pudding
Cookies

- 1½ lemons
- ⅛ pound preserved ginger
- ½ pint water
- Sugar

Pare, quarter and core pears. Pare apples, core and cut crosswise into one-half inch slices. Grate rind of lemons and add juice to the water. Cut ginger in small pieces. For every pound of fruit allow one pound of sugar. Boil sugar and water to a syrup, then add remaining ingredients and boil 45 minutes or until thick and clear. Place in

This Christmas tree coffee cake will make a welcome present for neighbors or close friends, because it's good to eat as well as very festive appearing. To make it, use a yeast dough recipe given in the column and decorate with candied red and green cherries to give the effect of lights.

sterilized cans or jars and seal at once.

Christmas Tree Coffee Cake
(Makes 1 tree cake)

- 1 cup ready-to-eat bran
- 1 cup scalded milk
- ¼ cup shortening
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cake compressed yeast or
- 1 package granular yeast
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 2¾ cups sifted flour

Combine bran, milk, shortening, sugar and salt. Stir until shortening is melted, then cool to lukewarm Soften yeast in this mixture. Add egg Stir in flour to make a soft dough; cover. Let stand ten minutes. Knead on lightly floured surface. Place in a greased bowl. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Punch down.

Form dough into a long rope or roll about one inch thick, swirl back and forth on a cookie sheet in shape of a pine tree, reserving a small portion of the dough to use for the trunk of the tree. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk.

Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for about 25 minutes. When cool, frost with uncooked icing (made out of powdered sugar and a little milk) and decorate with candied cherries to represent lights on a tree.

* * *

HERE IS an excellent fruit bread to have on hand for the holidays because it will keep fresh for weeks if kept wrapped in waxed paper and placed in a tin. Slice it thin and use for sandwiches. It makes a lovely gift.

Fruit Bread
(Makes 3 loaves)

- 12 eggs
- 3 cups sugar
- 6 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons baking powder
- 2 cups chopped seedless raisins
- 2 cups chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped candied orange peel

Beat the eggs and sugar together for 10 minutes on an electric mixer. (Hand beating will take an hour so you'll have to enlist help from the youngsters!) Fold in the flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Add the fruits, mixed and floured with a bit of extra flour. Bake in greased loaf pans in a slow (325-degree) oven for one hour.

This is a nice bread for a gift. It's rich and has a distinctive flavor because of the walnuts. Serve it for sandwiches when entertaining, rather than for a meal.

Released by WNU Features.

Make or buy biscuit and pastry mixes and store in the refrigerator to have them ready for quick use.

Make it easy to stuff your holiday bird by getting crumbs ready early and storing them in glass jars.

Round cereal boxes such as those in which oatmeal comes may be covered with candy striped paper and filled with cookies.

Children's goodies can be given away in small socks. Put in a red candy cane for color and tie the sock with a red, green or colorful bow.

LYNN SAYS:
Make Wrappings Gay For Home-Made Gifts

Plum puddings can be given away in small colorful bowls or molds with the paper over the top. The scallop treatment around the paper gives a festive effect.

When you're giving away cookies in a round, flat, tin box, make it decorative by placing a lacy frill around the edge of the cover. A real holly sprig on top will show off much better if placed on a small lace doily.

Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

The Amateur Colleges

THERE are now probably eight or 10 strictly amateur colleges or universities in the United States. The others are either semi-pro or strictly pro in many details.

There is at least a taint of professionalism connected with any college that proselytes, solicits or gives out a scholarship or a dime to any athlete. Only those colleges that treat an athlete as they would a leading math or English scholar come under this heading.

Grantland Rice

Which are these few colleges? We first contacted Jim Gregg, an alumnus of Sewanee, the university that started the pure amateur plan.

Sewanee has had its day of glory from 1892 to 1936. It has had its great teams, its leading stars—Simkins, Lanier, Lex Stone, Faulkenberry, Harris Cope, Rex Kilpatrick (brother of the general, and much bigger) Kirby-Smith, etc.

"But," as Jim Gregg put it, "Sewanee decided in the winter of 1945-1946 that 'big-time football' didn't belong in Sewanee's scheme of scholastic life. The athlete was to be treated as any other student.

"Sewanee had no fault to find with other universities. We simply believed that subsidized football was not for us. Then the problem of a schedule came up. We finally lined up Centre, Mississippi college, Presbyterian, Hendrix, Maryville, Hampden Sydney and Kenyon. Only one of these failed to keep its agreement. Hendrix dropped out because the cost of traveling to Sewanee and Millsaps was added.

"We tried to get others to join us—such as Washington and Lee, Davidson and the Citadel, but they declined to leave the Southern conference because they claimed they needed the money they received from big guarantees, and also they were afraid of their own alumni groups. We'll get more followers eventually.

"Gate receipts are unimportant. (As we understand it, there are no gate receipts. Possibly nominal ones against the $4 and $5 collected today.) Football at Sewanee cost the university $19,000 in place of the $500,000 or $1,000,000 that Michigan, Notre Dame and others earn from the sport. Football is simply treated as Latin, English and math are treated—a necessary part of a university's curriculum."

In other words, Sewanee's educational course wasn't arranged to strengthen the Bears, Packers, Giants, Eagles, and Forty-Niners, where four years of college is a waste of time. Not a bad thought.

"Sewanee has about the right idea," Johnny Kieran says. "Only if they will do the right and smart thing and abolish gate receipts you won't have to bother with football pay rolls or proselyting. Let the public in free. This settles all arguments."

It is the only way that all arguments will ever be settled. I still don't believe college football was started to bring in $500,000 or a $1,000,000 a year to university funds, through its winning teams, frequently built up at any price.

* * *

Big Ten Again?

There is a chance that the Big Nine will become the Big Ten again.

If this happens, the new member will be Michigan state. Why not? Michigan state today has 15,000 students. It also has one of the best football layouts in the game, a new stadium that can handle 55,000 spectators, the most modern one yet built.

In Dr. John A. Hannah, it might also be noted that Michigan state has one of the leading college presidents of the country, whose slant on football is sound.

The Big Nine was also the Big Nine in 1908. That is the year when Michigan revolted. The Wolverines stayed out until 1917 when they finally returned to the fold. The Big Ten stuck until Chicago university abolished football, and ever since then there have been attempts by several outsiders to take Chicago's place.

The Big Nine has been in no hurry to make it the Big Ten again. But, if there is any change, Michigan state is almost certain to be the one selected.

Michigan state and Michigan are something like California and U. C. L. A. The first two are state universities in Michigan, just as the two others are state universities in California.

Beaten only by Michigan and Notre Dame, Michigan state has known one of its best seasons this fall. It has a better team than several members of the Big Nine have, including Indiana, Wisconsin and probably Iowa.

NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS

Mexican Designs to Embroider Gay Potholders Are Fine Gift

HERE are some amusing Mexican figures to brighten your kitchen. Embroider them on curtains, breakfast cloths and tea towels. And why not make a gay, practical apron to match?

* * *

To obtain hot iron transfers for 4 motifs, measuring approximately 7 inches by 5½ inches, color suggestions stitch illustrations and complete directions for embroidering designs (Pattern No 5793) send 20 cents in coin, your name, address and pattern number

Useful Potholders

YOU can crochet these clever and ever so useful sugar and creamer potholders in no time at all. The pair illustrated were made of white cotton, trimmed with a bold blue. A grand idea for kitchen showers.

* * *

To obtain complete crocheting instructions and stitch illustrations for crocheting and embroidering letters for Pot Luck Holders (Pattern No 5820) send 20 cents in coin, your name, address and pattern number.

SEWING CIRCLE NEEDLEWORK
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 20 cents for pattern.
No._____
Name_____
Address_____

Colorful Toy Chest Is Simple to Build

HERE is a colorful, gaily decorated toy chest that can be made in a short time. This chest is roomy enough to hold many small toys. User merely traces pattern on wood, saws and assembles exactly as pattern indicates. You don't have to know anything about painting to decorate this chest as illustrated.

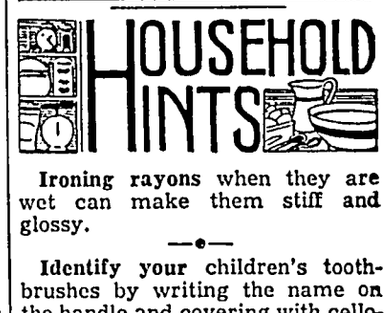
The outlines of the lamb and flower are full size and are merely traced directly to the wood This insures decorating with a professional touch. No special tools or skills are required.

* * *

Send 25 cents for Toy Chest Pattern No. 65 to East-Bild Pattern Company, Dept. W, Pleasantville, N Y.

Salesman Vacuum-Cleans Herd of 46 Dairy Cows

A vacuum cleaner manufacturing firm reports that one of its products increased the output of a dairy herd. The 46 bovines were infested with lice. Using a cleaner with a furniture brush attachment, a company salesman cleaned the entire herd and burned the leavings. Milk production increased about 25 per cent.



Ironing rayons when they are wet can make them stiff and glossy.

—•—

Identify your children's toothbrushes by writing the name on the handle and covering with cellophane tape.

—•—

Shift furniture occasionally so that legs will not crush rugs in spots.

NEWS that makes folks sleep all night!

Thousands now sleep undisturbed because of the news that their being awakened night after night might be from bladder irritation—not the kidneys. Let's hope so! That's a condition Foley Pills usually allay within 24 hours. Since bladder irritation is so prevalent and Foley Pills so potent Foley Pills must benefit you within 24 hours or DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK. Make 24-hour test. Get Foley Pills from druggist. Full satisfaction or DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

LOOKING AT RELIGION By DON MOORE

MISSIONARIES
ANONYMOUS
THE KINDNESS OF AMERICAN G I'S ON OKINAWA PAVED THE WAY FOR A 400% INCREASE IN CHRISTIAN CONVERTS AMONG THE NATIVES. ANCESTOR WORSHIP WAS ORIGINALLY THE ONLY RELIGION OF THE ISLANDERS.
GOOD NEWS
JUDGING BY CHURCH MEMBERSHIP IN RELATION TO THE POPULATION AMERICANS ARE TWICE AS RELIGIOUS AS THEY WERE 50 YEARS AGO!
SHOULD BE ENOUGH! - THE PURCHASE OF 500,000 BIBLES TO SUPPLY THE NEW PEACETIME ARMY WAS RECENTLY AUTHORIZED BY CONGRESS.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Heredity Seen in Peptic Ulcers

By Dr. James W. Barton

WHEN a patient is suffering from chronic indigestion, has pain two or three hours after eating which pain is relieved by taking a dose of baking soda or other alkali, the physician feels certain that this patient is suffering from a stomach ulcer.

If the pain comes three to four hours after eating, there usually is present an ulcer of the duodenum, the first part of the small intestine into which the stomach empties the food after stomach digestion. However, in all such cases a barium meal is given and an X-ray of this barium taken at intervals until it finally leaves the body by way of the large intestine.

While physicians agree that there are some cases of stomach and intestinal ulcer that may be caused by infection and eating of improper foods, nervous and emotional disturbances are the most common causes.

As to heridity being a cause of ulcer, it is known that just as there is an hereditary tendency to tuberculosis, diabetes and cancer, so is this tendency present in ulcer.

In the British Medical Journal, Drs. Hugh Gainsborough and Eliot Slater report their study of 130 men and 32 women suffering from ulcer of the stomach or intestine (peptic ulcer).

A careful analysis of the family history of these ulcer patients showed a "constitutional or inherited factor or condition often present."

Among the mental and emotional features found were that the male patients showed chiefly an energetic disposition and tendencies to anxiety, irritability, obessions and depressions In most of the cases, it was the small (almost unimportant) things in life that kept them anxious, irritable, afraid of illness —thus upsetting the appetite, interfering with digestion and the getting rid of wastes from the lower bowel.

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

We have all heard that protein in fish was a brain food, but research workers have found that brain tissue derives its nourishment not from proteins but from sugar—a starch food.

* * *

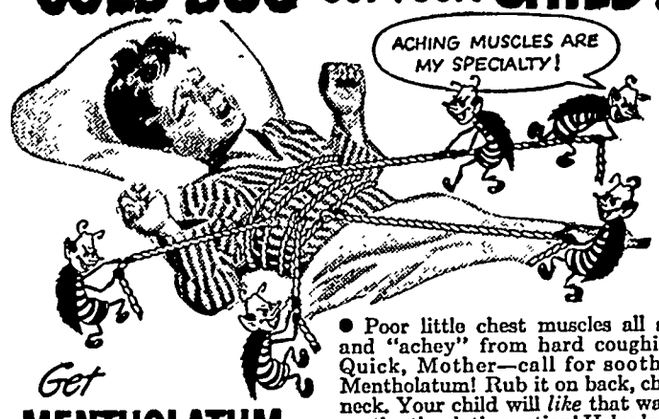
When DDT dissolved in kerosene is sprayed on house screens, it destroys the flies and prevents them from entering the home.

Nearly all food experts advise giving children three good meals a day so that they will not eat between meals and thus spoil their appetite for the next meal.

* * *

A city or neighborhood that can get rid of unnecessary noise and reduce the intensity of necessary noise is doing a real service for the community

"COLD BUG" GOT YOUR CHILD?



Get MENTHOLATUM quick!

● Poor little chest muscles all sore and "achey" from hard coughing? Quick, Mother—call for soothing Mentholatum! Rub it on back, chest, neck. Your child will like that warm, gentlystimulating action! Helps lessen congestion without irritating child's delicate normal skin. At same time, comforting vapors lessen coughing.

SHOULD A MAN OVER 40 STOP SMOKING?

Change to SANO— the Safer Cigarette with

51.6%* LESS NICOTINE

Not a Substitute—Not Medicated

Sano's scientific process cuts nicotine content to half that of ordinary cigarettes. Yet skillful blending makes every puff a pleasure.

FLEMING-HALL TOBACCO CO., INC., N. Y.

*Average based on continuing tests of popular brands

ASK YOUR DOCTOR ABOUT SANO CIGARETTES

ANOTHER GENERATION

It has been over 50 years since 81 year old A. L. Shocker, of Makuoketa, taught in Fairfield No. 2 rural school. But another generation is carrying on; his grand daughter, Mrs. Donna Suthers, is now the teacher at "No. 2."

KLEMME

MOVIES

DECEMBER 16

"Sis Hopkins"

JUDY CANOVA

DECEMBER 23

ROY ROGERS

"HOME IN OKLAHOMA"

Comedy Each Show

SHOW AT 7:30 P. M.

TURN ABOUT

At Remsen, garagemen Jack Thiel took his wrecker out to pull a truck owned by Alfred Keffeler out of the mud. Thiel pulled the mired truck out okay, but in doing so the wrecker got stuck, Keffeler hitched his truck onto the wrecker and pulled it out but his truck mired down a scond time . So Thiel hitched his wrecker back onto th truck and both vhicles made it safely to dry ground.

STILL TRYING

Over 20 years ago, George Howard of Grinnell was "gassed" in World War I and since that time has spent about half of his time in veterans hospitals. In between, Howard works at one or more of the 15 trades he has learned, which include bricklaying, lathe operator, interior decorator, glove cutter, steam fitter and arsenal worker. Now a hospital patient again, he employs his time at leatherwork, making one or two bill-folds per day.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.—A hazing in which a fraternity pledge was left bound, blindfolded and only partly clothed in a cornfield on a freezing night was revealed at the University of Illinois.

The university announced it had "suspended and denied university recognition" to the fraternity, Tau Epsilon Phi, one of the oldest and largest on the campus.

Joseph Ewers, university security officer, said he was making a full investigation of hazing reports at a number of the university's 55 other fraternities.

He said he had received reports from farmers about freshmen being taken into the country, mistreated and left to walk home, as far as eight miles, on bitterly cold nights.

"Hazing will not be permitted," said Dean of Students Fred H. Turner. "It was barred when I came to the university 30 years ago, and it still is."

The pledge whose hazing brought the action against Tau Epsilon Phi is a 17-year-old high school graduate.

He was left in the field with only his topcoat, put on backwards by his tormentors, and with eggs rubbed in his hair and his face painted, the university's disciplinary committee said.

Uncle Sam Says

Graduation days are now over and millions of youngsters are enjoying that annual summertime vacation. Now is the time for you parents to give serious consideration to their future education. Thousands of students will enter high school or college this fall with no financial worries. Their parents started buying Bonds early and with maturity those bonds are now yielding $4 for every $3 invested. You know Savings Bonds yield a good profit at no risk to the principal.

U. S. Treasury Department

Battleship Oregon Will Rust in Guam

WASHINGTON.—Famous old battleship Oregon, which set a speed record in 1898 in a dash from San Francisco to Florida to help finish off the Spanish fleet, will rust away in Guam.

It will not be brought back as a memorial of the Spanish-American war, the navy has decided.

Stripped of its engines and superstructure during World War II, the hull of the Oregon was used as an ammunition barge at Guam.

Navy officials said it would cost too much to repair the rusting hulk for reconditioning as a naval shrine stationed at Portland, Ore.

The 10,288-ton battleship made its mark in American history 50 years ago with its remarkable run to join the American fleet off Santiago harbor in Cuba where the Spanish fleet was bottled up.

The Oregon raced from San Francisco 14,700 miles around Cape Horn through the Straits of Magellan to Jupiter Inlet, Fla., averaging 11.6 knots—an incredible speed for that period, according to navy records.

In the decisive naval battle on July 3, when the Spanish fleet of Adm. Cervera tried to escape from Santiago harbor, the Oregon destroyed the Spanish flagship the Admirante Oquindo, put the Viscaya out of action, and captured the Colon with the help of the Cruiser Brooklyn.

Hen Crosses Road to Lay Eggs in Neighbor's Bedroom

DENMARK, IA.—E A. Lauffer claims a neighbor of his has been getting an egg delivered regularly in his bedroom from a hen whose owner lives across the road.

Lauffer said the hen, apparently looking for a place to lay her egg, saw the open bedroom window of the neighbor's house, went in and laid the egg on the bed.

She did this every morning until she started setting, Lauffer said, and then came back to repeat the act when she resumed laying.

Two Men Find Open Deposits Of Uranium Ore in Wyoming

DENVER, COLO.—The existence of open deposits of uranium which may add greatly to the nation's store of atom bomb materials was reported by two Denver men.

The pea-sized yellow pellets were found in dry creek beds in the Red Desert northwest of Rawlins in southern Wyoming. The men said a specimen assayed as high as 30 per cent pure uranium. The ore can be mined with a bulldozer or a steam shovel.

Kenneth Robinson, an attorney, and Walter Byron, a former private investigator and mining man, announced plans to mine the ore.

The atomic energy commission in Washington said the discovery is "of sufficient interest to warrant further examinations."

Existence of the ore in southern Wyoming has been known for years. A sample was sent to Mme. Marie Curie in 1910. She said it was uranium, but it was useless for her work. The United States geological survey looked it over in 1944.

Recently, Byron made an operating agreement with owners of a lease of nine square miles of state-owned land in the area. He had it assayed, and he and Robinson conferred with the atomic energy commission.

Police Find Charred Body of Man Wired to Wheel of Auto

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The charred body of John A. Hoover, 54-year-old business man, was found wired to the wheel of his flame-swept automobile on an abandoned road south of the city.

Hoover disappeared while en route to a boxing tournament. He was carrying about $950

Wind-driven snow had almost covered his car in a rut on the old road.

Police said Hoover had not been shot. They said he apparently had been soaked in gasoline and set afire.

"There must have been something behind it more than the money he carried," one of the policemen surmised.

Hoover was associated with the Hoover Bros. Construction company and the Federal Engineering company here. He also had interests in Arkansas coal mines.

He lived a short distance from where his car was found.

Illinois Woman, 27, Has Ten Children; Claims Record

STREATOR, ILL. — Mrs. John Cole believes she may be the youngest mother, with the largest family in the nation.

Mrs. Cole, wife of an electrician, is 27 years old and has 10 children. All births were single.

The children are: Selena June, 2½ years; Mildred Ellen, 5; Devon Edward, 7; John, 8; Jacqueline, 9; Carol Jean, 10; Carson, 6; William, 4; Craig Eugene, 18 months; and Rose Ann, 4 weeks.

The family has been living in the basement of a new home under construction.

DEAD STOCK

PROMPTLY REMOVED

'TOP THE MARKET' WITH GREEN TOP MINERALIZED PROTEIN FEED — NATIONAL BY-PRODUCTS

Britt Rendering Company

Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22

WE PAY PHONE CHARGES

KLEMME Phone 700

GARNER Phone 4000

Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load

TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

Advertisement

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The Missus "Ducks" Out

Slim Hartman took his missus duck hunting the other day. And after five hours of sitting in a swamp, she'd had enough! Going home, Slim reminded her good-naturedly of the time she'd taken him to a woman novelist's lecture, and insisted that he sit it out.

So now the missus and Slim have an understanding. No more duck hunting for her—no more lectures for him. They decided each to his own taste.

It's because they can agree to disagree like that, I think, that Slim and the missus get on so well—content to stay home nights together, enjoying one another's company over a glass of beer and a game of chess.

From where I sit, we can't all enjoy the same things—but we can share those little pleasures that we do enjoy—a glass of beer, a game of chess, some music on the radio—and live-and-let-live when it comes to the others.

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

With Delicious Baked Goods And Pastries . . .

We Will Take Care Of Your Special Orders For Dinners and Parties

Garner Bakery

Otto Lehman, Prop. Phone Garner 134

ATTENTION! HANCOCK COUNTY

TAXPAYERS

The 1949 Real Estate and Personal Property Assessment is getting under way in Hancock County.

Under a ruling by the State Tax Commission, buildings are to be measured this year. The work of measuring has been started. Taxpayers are urged to assist assessors when requested and fieldmen have been instructed to extend every courtesy in their work. Failure to do this should be reported to the County Assessor's office.

The purpose of assessment is to get a fair and equitable valuation as a tax base and other than this the assessor's office has no authority in any tax matters.

The appraisal of Hancock County property will be done by local people who are your friends. Help us to do a good job; one that is equitable, just and fair.

MAYNARD SCHONEMAN

County Assessor exOfficio

FRED C. MISSAL

Chief Deputy

Klemme Food Mkt.

Friday & Saturday Specials

Save The Self-Serve Way!

Breeze 1 pkg. for 10¢

(With Purchase of 1 Package at Regular Price)

Friday and Saturday

PIC L JOYS per jar _____ 37c

WELCH'S GRAPE JUICE Special At qt jar _____ 45c

PORK & BEANS 2 CANS for 35¢

Monarch Fancy Black RASPBERRIES No. 2 Can_____ 49c

K. C. Brand BAKING POWDER 25c jar for__ 09c

Monarch Red KIDNEY BEANS Per can_____ 19c

Charmin' TOILET TISSUE pkg. of 4 rolls____ 33c

Rinso RINSO 1 Reg. Size Package for __ 5¢

(WITH PURCHASE OF 1 LARGE PACKAGE)

Pork Chops lb. 49¢

Monarch CATSUP Per bottle_____ 23c

For Holiday Dinners: CRANBERRY SAUCE per can__ 17c

Hamburger lb. 42¢

Jello 3 for 23¢

Breakfast Cereal Special RICE KRISPIES 2 pkgs. for_____ 25c

Yacht Club Brand DRIED APRICOTS 11 oz. box_____ 35c

Beef steak Lb. 59c

Sugar Powder'd 2 pkgs. 23¢

The Old Standby: SHREDDED WHEAT 2 pkgs. for__ 35c

Beef roast Lb. 46c

Beef boil Lb- 31¢

P & G SOAP 3 bars for - 19c

Bring Us Your Eggs CASH or TRADE

Klemme Food Market

Klemme, Iowa

We Reserve The Right To Limit

WE HAVE MANY

Small Gifts, Too!

Sometimes people think of a Furniture store as just a place to buy large gifts, such as living room, bed room and dining room suites, easy chairs, etc.

But we also have dozens of small things, too, that make splendid Individual Gifts. For instance, we have: Magazine Racks, Card Tables, End Tables, Mirrors, Pictures, Smoking Stands, Sewing Cabinets, etc. Any of these items will make an appropriate, useful gift.

WELLEMEYER FURNITURE

Hancock County's Largest Furniture Store
Klemme -- Iowa

MENU

December 20:
Juice
Mashed Potatoes and Gravy
Meat Loaf
B. Green Beans
Sauce
Milk
Bread and Butter

December 21:
Juice
Baked Beans
Buttered Corn
Carrot Strips
Cup Cakes
Milk
Bread and Butter

December 22:
Scalloped Potatoes
Lettuce and Dressing
Wieners
Half an Apple
Milk
Bread and Butter

December 23:
Juice
Chili
Cabbage and Carrot Salad
Pudding
Milk
Bread and Butter

December 24:
Juice
Potatoes
Meat
Pea Salad
Milk
Dessert

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF

DEAD STOCK

Phone

KLEMME ---------- 580
BELMOND ---------- 580

We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.

BELMOND By-Products

"Your Home Plant"

Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa.

SAY "Merry Christmas" WITH SOMETHING ELECTRICAL

"YOU don't have to slide down chimneys at Christmas time to feel like Santa," says Reddy. "You can fill stockings with gifts that mean more, the easy way, when you give something electrical. If the stockings on the mantle are nylon, an electric toaster, mixer, coffee maker or blanket makes a wonderful surprise on Christmas morning. Electric shavers, clocks and blankets will fit in Dad or brother's socks without cramping your gift buying budget."

☆ Mr. Kringle has nothing on Reddy when it comes to making Christmas fun for families everywhere... for when you give something electrical you say "Merry Christmas" in a very special, work-saving way.

See the displays at your appliance dealers or our showrooms... TODAY!

Central States Electric Company

SHAMROCK NEWS

Editor ---------- Iris Rosendahl
Asst. Ed. ---------- Donna Fjetland
Hi School Rep. ---------- Maurice Trumbell
Grade Rep. ---- Isabelle Gibbs
Sports ---------- Robert Baack

HI-SCHOOL HI-LIGHTS

The Curtiss Publishing Company, which sponsored the magazine drive in school, awarded prizes to the boy and girl turning in the most money for subscriptions. Janice Hummel was the happy receiver of a jewelery case awarded by the company and Maurice Jacobs, a Babe Ruth desk pen and pencil set. Also, a medal for selling the most subscriptions for the Saturday Evening Post, was awarded to Doris Gruis by the Curtiss Publishing Company.

The school has assumed the Christmas spirit by having a tree in each grade room and one in the study hall in high school. They all look swell and the Student Council did a swell job on the one for the high school.

The Seniors had a very important class meeting, at least they thought so, at which they decided their motto, flower, and colors. They chose for their motto "The higher we rise, the broader the view." Their flower is the Gardenia and colors, silver and green.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

First and Second Grade News

This weeks subject, who is a blond, brown eyed and 17, is Donna Greiman. She evidently doesn't like to study too much, because when asked what her favorite subject was she said that none of them were. Driving her dad's car, roller skating and dancing are some of the things she likes to do in her pastime. Her favorite sport is basket ball. Angle Food Cake is her favorite food also. She says the Army is her pet peeve. Her only ambition in life is to be a good roller skater. Her birthday is Oct. 1th and her favorite song is, "Buttons and Bows."

GRADE NEWS

We have been decorating our Christmas tree and our room for the Christmas holidays. We have made bells, stockings and a Santa Claus.

Those in second grade who received 100 percent in Spelling Wednesday are Virginia Kudje, Cozette Lau, Harlan Baack, Craig Larson, and Myrna Barz.

In first grade we have started a new book, "Little Lost Dog." We want to read as many books as we can. In second grade we are reading about Alice and Jerry in "Round About" and "Down the River Road."

Fifth and Sixth Grade News

The Fifth and Sixth grade boys have played a couple of basket ball games with the Seventh and Eighth grade boys. They lost both games but the Fifth grade played the Third and Fourth grade and won 13 to 0, so they felt better about their losses.

The boys and girls are busy decorating the Christmas tree and room. They are also busy making gifts for Christmas.

Terry Koerner and Cecil Jacobs made a large Santa Claus four our bulletin board.

The following people have received A's in Spelling the last two weeks: Bob Arnold, Margaret Haefner, Lois Heginger, Ione Rosendahl, Beverly DeMerritt, Faye Janssen, Terry Koerner, Donald Kramer, Carol Montgomery, Donald Thieman, and Sharon Reed.

Seventh and Eighth Grade News

It certainly seems as if the Christmas season is here because we have our room nicely decorated and we also have a Christmas tree. All have tried their skill at portraying Christmas scenes and some of the best pictures have been put up on the bulletin board in the hall.

The 7th and 8th grade boys feel very happy because they have won both basket ball games played with the 5th and 6th graders.

SCHOOL CALENDAR

Dec. 15 Corwith (here) 2 girls games.
17 Fertile (here)
21 Britt (there)
24 to Jan. 3 Christmas Vacation.
Jan. 7 Thornton (here)
10, 11, annd 12 Semester Tests.
12 End of the 1st Semester

Farm For Sale

Sealed bids will be received by mail up to December 29, 1948, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the 200 acre farm; N. W. ¼ and N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of Sec. 35, Township 94, Range 23. This farm is about 4 miles east of Goodell on a good gravel road. Improvements consist of an 8 room house, barn, sheds, hog house and other buildings. The farm has electricity.

The terms of sale are $2000 down, and balance on or before March 1, 1949. Sale is subject to a cash rent lease for the year commencing March 1, 1949. Rent $1800. Lease will be assigned to buyer. Good title, guaranteed. The right to reject bids is reserved.

Bids May Be Sent To:

Wm. P. Butts

Referee c-o State Savings Bank, GOODELL, IA.

F. J. McGREEVY, Attorney, Ackley, Iowa

Merry Christmas

We have a nice Christmas Gift for our customers and friends. Stop in at our store and get your Gift FREE! You'll be sorry if you miss out on this.

●

FOR YOUR HOME

For a Merry Christmas 365 days A year get one of our Refrigerators or A Deep Freeze

for your home - - - - and you'll thank us for the suggestion.

●

Ask George At The

Urich Implement Co.

GARNER, IOWA

SANTA SAYS:

"Buy His Gift At A Man's Store"

HERE ARE SOME SUGGESTIONS:

- Interwoven Socks
- Cooper's Socks
- B. V. D. Pajamas
- Arrow Sport Shirts
- B. V. D. Sport Shirts
- Wool and Rayon Robes
- Wool and Rayon Mufflers
- Arrow Ties
- Noreast Ties
- Stetson Hats
- Resistol Hats
- Hickok Jewelry
- Hickok Suspenders
- Hickok Belts

●

- All Wool Worsted Suits
- All Wool Worsted O'Coats

●

GET TO KNOW

GILDNER - PAULSON

Clothing and Shoes Garner, Iowa

For Special Gifts Shop Here!

You can solve many of those Gift problems by shopping here . . . We have a nice selection of suitable gifts for Dad, young man, for brother or her.

We Suggest The Following Items For Gifts:

A Pipe For "Him"
Carton of Cigarettes
Box of Cigars
Box of Candy For Her
Tobacco Pouch
Pound of Tobacco
Bulk Candy

Quandt's Cafe

Conrad Quandt, Proprietor Klemme, Ia.

ONLY ONE MORE WEEK BEFORE WE GIVE AWAY - - - -

$500.00

IN MERCHANDISE FREE

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING HERE. GET ADDITIONAL GIFTS FREE!

Just one more week before we give away $500.00 in valuable merchandise. Come in and do your Christmas Shopping today and ask us how you may receive a beautiful gift absolutely FREE.

On Wednesday evening, December 22 at 9:00 o'clock we will give away

Majestic Console Radio and Record Player
Portable G. E. Radio
Universal Electric Bed Blanket
Eureka Cordless Electric Flat Iron
2-Slice Electric Toaster
3 Kinkless Extension Cords
50 Other miscellaneous items including Kitchen Cutlery, Utensils, Flashlights, Soap, Etc.

Make This An Electrical Christmas!

JOSTEN APPLIANCE

SHELLANE GAS - ELECTRIC WIRING
Edmund K. Josten, Prop. Phone 149-R2

FELCO
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

MINERAL

- EVERY HOG RAISER SHOULD USE MINERAL. But we know that many farmers have wasted money buying mineral from agents who add large commissions to their prices.

FELCO MINERAL IS NOT A MEDICINE and will not cure everything. It will keep the hogs in condition and will furnish the things needed for their growth and health. We think that is all that is required of a mineral.

TRY A SACK NOW!

Klemme Coop. Grain Company

"The Farmers Elevator" Glen Bridges, Manager

HANCOCK COUNTY REAL ESTATE DEALS

Trca, Frank J. and Abbie, wife to Beers, Warren and Anna Mae, wife 11-20-48 Wty. Deed, $1.00 L11 and 12, Sunset View Add. to Garner.

Koerner, A. G. and Lillie M., wife to Stokesbary, Orville T. and Nova T., wife 11-22-48 $1.00 tract 838' S of NE corner of NW ¼ 119.5' E and W by 109' N and S in Sec. 31-95-23.

Studer, Gladys and Wilbur, husband, et al to Oxley, Frances 11-20-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 Blk. 3 Stilson's Add. ot Corwith.

Smith, Earle L. and Edna M., wife to Haefner, Wilbur 11-22-48, $1.00 Wty. Deed L10 and 11, Blk. 8 Orig. Town of Klemme.

Day, Mildred, widow to Larson, Rosa May 11-12-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 L4 and 5 and W 10' of L3 Blk. 7 Klemme's 1st Add to Klemme.

Barz, Ronald and Emma E., wife to Larsen, C. A. 11-27-48 Wty. Deed $1.00 E½ SE¼ Blk. 11 Barz Add. to Klemme.

Fohrman, John and Viola, wife wife to Nuehring, Herman and Caroline B. 11-30-48 $1.00 QCD all E½ SW¼ Sec. 35-96-26 except tract in NE¼ of E½ SW ¼ Sec. 35-96-26.

Stille, Quentin and Evelyne, wife to Bachman, Elmer and Mary Lou, wife 11-10-48 $1.00 Wty. Deed L5, Blk. 1 Morningside Add. to Klemme.

Whitney, Charles S. and Mildred M., wife to Moffat, Jefferson R. 11-17-48 $1.00 Wty. Deed L5 and 6 Blk. 6 West Side Add. to Garner.

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res. Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS
Osteopathis Physician
Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

CORN SHELLING
Phone 11R-1
Delbert SANKEY
Garner -- Iowa

YOUR HOME LIBRARY

One of the nicest ways to build up your home library is by giving books at Christmas time. Today's variety of colorful books for all ages and interests is almost endless.

Just watch the youngsters on one of your holiday shopping trips. Of course, the mechanical toys and gadgets fascinate them. But then comes the book counter—and all the little folks who are learning the wonders and mysteries of the world of learning enter a new world of imagination as they gaze at the colorful pictures and try to figure out the stories.

The bedtime reading hour, the Sunday afternoon reading session or those after-school moments are the times when Christmas books are read and re-read and loved.

Books for All Ages

One of the nicest things to know about buying books these days is that they are carefully displayed in groups according to the age of the boy or girl. For the very small folk— the 3 and 4 year old—there are stories about familiar things—animals and children.

Because they are little themselves, they like stories about little animals, little people and little objects. Wise authors are writing just such books for the pre-school age child. "Mr. and Mrs. Noah" and "Andy and the School Bus" are typical of the good books on the market.

Children are natural little poets, says Marjorie Clark, extension librarian at Iowa State College. They delight in stories with rhythm and life. Thus such books as "White Snow, Bright Snow" and "Down Huckleberry Hill" have much appeal.

If you are buying a book for the child of 8 to 12 years of age, you'll need to cater to his main interests of the moment, Miss Clark says. Third-graders often study Indians at school. Thus books of Indian lore, with colorful pictures, may be just the thing.

Books about horses, airplanes or adventure make equally good gifts. Of course, there are the standard books which have been favorites for many years—"Black Beauty," "Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn" and "The Little Lame Prince."

Teen-Age Interests

Boys and girls of high school age prefer novels of adventure and romance. They like stories about young people of their own age, and books about hobbies or things they can do when they are grown up. They also like true stories about real people.

Examples of some of the excellent books for teen-age interests are "Watch for a Tall White Sail," a book for girls, or "Bright With Silver," a book which will appeal to boys.

Family Books

Many books can be shared by the whole family. "A Fireside Book of Folk Songs" is a good one for family "sings," and there is "The Partybook" with a host of suggestions for family good times.

Other books which the whole family can share are "The Golden Book of Poetry" and any number of beautifully written and illustrated books on religion.

Good stories art not always confined to books, of course. Many lovely and educational stories now come in record form. The records are often made of vinylite, an unbreakable material, so even small children can play them.

If you want a clue to your children's interests, Miss Clark suggests, just take him along with you while you browse through the book and record offerings at your local store.

TREES AVAILABLE FOR CONSERVATION PLANTINGS

Eighteen varieties of trees and shrubs for erosion control, wildlife, and water conservation planting will be available this spring from the Iowa State Forest Nursery at Ames. The nursery is operated by the State Conservation Commission in cooperation with the United States Forest Service under the provisions of the Norris-Doxey and Clark-McNary Acts of Congress. No orders for less than 250 plants of any one specie will be supplied and each order must total at least 500 trees.

Trees and shrubs listed for sale include one-year seedlings of black locust, green ash,, black walnut, cottonwood, American elm, burr oak, white oak, osage orange, black oak, Russian olive, wild plum, red haw, wild grape, button bush, and white mulbery. Six to eight-inch transplants of white pine and red pine are also listed. Stratified black walnuts for spring plantings are available at $4.00 per thousand with other prices ranging from $5.00 to $15.00 per thousand.

Price lists and order blanks may be secured from the county agricultural agent, state conservation officers, soil conservation representatives, or by writing directly to the State Conservation Commission Office at Des Moines.

Klemme American Legion's CHRISTMAS

FEATHER PARTY

and

CARNIVAL

Community Hall
MONDAY
DEC. 20
Begins At 8:00 P. M.

- Turkeys
- Geese
- Ducks

FREE COFFEE AND DOUGHNUTS

FUN FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR FUN

Everybody Welcome
Bring The Family

SURE ENOUGH . . .

Winter's Coming!

And it will pay to be sure your car is ready! Get it in perfect shape before sub-zero temperatures and avoid the unpleasant car troubles when you really need perfect performance.

You'll find we are ready to do your job right—large or small—whatever it may be.

HAEFNER'S SUPER SERVICE

Wilbur Haefner, Prop. Klemme, Iowa

Over 100,000 People

SAY "YES" FOR MILK

• * •

Delicious, refreshing, wholesome, satisfying—these are the adjectives most Americans use when they tell you how much they like milk! Be sure you're getting the BEST milk, Klemme Pasteurized Milk.

• * •

KLEMME COOP. CREAMERY COMPANY

Pasteurized Milk and Cream Klemme, Iowa

Exquisite Gifts For HER . . .

ARE GIFTS FROM MARIE'S TOILETRIES

To pay her pretty compliments . . . gifts boasting the practical too . . . for they're usable in spite of their beautiful trappings . . . sweet fragrance.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS

Combs
Bath Salts
Perfume Sets
Gift Soap
Bath Powder
Lotions
Nail Polish
Lipstick
Toilet Water
Cologne
Newest Compacts
Bubble Bath
Baby Soap
Bath Mitts
Hand Creams

FOR HIM

We suggest Shaving Sets and Cologne

SPECIALS

Wrisley Bath Soap (4 bars) ---------- 98
Revlon Lipstick and Polish Set ---------- 75
(This Is a $1.25 Value)
EVENING IN PARIS $1.75 Value Fo
Face Powder and Perfume (both) ------ $1.0

EVERYTHING IN COSMETICS

Marie's Beauty Shop

Marie Blank, Proprietor Klemme, Iow

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

Wednes, Thurs.
DECEMBER 15, 16
DREAM GIRL
BETTY HUTTON
And
MACDONALD CAREY

Friday - Saturday
DECEMBER 17 18
"LASH" LaRUE
In FIGHTING VIGILANTES

"BANJO"
With
SARYN MOFFETT

Sun., Mon., Tues.
DECEMBER 19, 20, 21
WHAT AN AFFAIR!
A FOREIGN AFFAIR
JEAN ARTHUR
MARLENE DIETRICH
JOHN LUND

Wednes. - Thurs.
DECEMBER 22, 23
LOVE MADNESS!
SO EVIL MY LOVE
RAY MILLAND
ANN TODD
Geraldine Fitzgerald

URSULA MARIE VAN SICKLE BRIDE OF LEROY BAMMAN

—Russell Photo
MRS. LEROY BAMMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Sickle of Swaledale announce the marriage of their daughter, Ursula Marie, to LeRoy Bamman, son of Mr and Mrs. Richard Bamman of Klemme, which took place in the Immannuel Congregation Evangelical and Reformed Church November 27. The single ring ceremony was read by the Rev Calvin Grosshuesch.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Wayne Nail of Webster City, as matron of honor. Miss Carmen Winey of Des Moines, was bridesmaid. Nuptial music was provided by Miss Iris Rosendahl. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Webster City, and Cedar Rapids business college The bridegroom is a graduate of Klemme high school and is engaged in beekeeping and farming. Mr. and Mrs. Bamman will be at home at 724 North Federal, Mason City, Ia.

MUTUAL FIRE UNIT AT PEAK OF BUSINESS

The Hancock County Mutual Fire and Lightning Association held sit annual meeting at the I O. O F. hall at Garner Thursday afternoon and re-elected C D Daniels of Garner and Geo Th Gerdes of Woden and Harry Ruka of Goodell, directors for a 3-year term.

Following the stockholders' meeting the board of directors convened and re-elected T. C. Nelson of Garner, President; E I Brooker of Forest City, treasurer, and Orville Maben, of Garner, secretary.

The stockholders voted to renew their charter, which expires this year, on a perpetual basis and adopted a standard policy form The association now has business in force totaling $21,-123,-232, which is an all time record and an increase of $2,-412,657 over last year. The association was organized 60 years ago and the meeting Thursday was the 60th annual meeting.

MRS. JAMES CHRISTIE DIED THIS NOON AT GOODELL

Mrs. James Christie, age 84, died at her home in Goodell this Wednesday noon.

Funeral arrangements were not complete when the Times went to press this afternoon.

Have you paid your subscription?

For Quick Truck Delivery
On
D.X PRODUCTS
Phone 149-R2
ERNEST
HENSCHEN
Klemme, Iowa

U.S. Forecasts Price Troubles For Housewives

WASHINGTON.—Complicated figures just released by the federal reserve board and the department of commerce carry storm warnings for housewives who are already having trouble making both ends meet.

The story is just more of the same old thing, shortages We want more than is being turned out.

The possible dynamite under prices lies in three new large sums about to go into circulation: (1) money "saved" because of lower income taxes, (2) increased installment payments, (3) increased defense appropriations.

Taxes have been cut 4.8 billion dollars. Much of that tax cut went to working families who are expected to spend it instead of save it.

Americans are expected to go on the cuff for at least 3.2 billion dollars worth of goods this year They'll get them through installment buying and through charge accounts. That's the amount they went on the cuff for in 1947, and the rate was rising rapidly at the end of last year.

That kind of buying dropped off through the war because there were government controls on it, but congress let the controls go in November Immediately there was an upsurge

Funds for the Military

War clouds have forced the government to talk of spending more for the army, navy and air force At first it looked as though the military services could get along on $2,250,704,300 more this year than last.

Even so, that would have meant so much more money competing for steel, woolen yard goods, leather, autos. But now there are plans to increase that by another three billion dollars Whether it's two or five billions that the services have to spend this year, it's all new money bidding for what American farms and factories turn out.

Together those three figures add up to between 10 and 13 billion dollars of new spending this coming year, depending on which sum you bet on for the military

Prices Skid Down

There have been flurries of lower prices which gave rise to hopes among the majority of Americans that live on weekly pay checks The most dramatic was the downward skid of food prices It didn't last long. Most of those skids started to climb back up right away

Anyway, those food prices were only part of the picture The important figure to consider is how much money mills around daily through the stores and banks. It is now around 28 billion dollars Economists call that "money in circulation." Add another 10 billion dollars to 13 billion dollars and you've got a lot of money bidding for the same amount of goods.

All through 1947 the numbers of people at work hung close to 60 million and their numbers are going up. So far this year 1,759,000 more people were at work than last year

Business itself was so optimistic that in 1947 more than 200,000 new concerns opened shop. During those 12 months only 3,476 concerns failed, the lowest number since 1871.

Read This, Men, Before You Criticize the Wife's Hat

CHICAGO, ILL.—Pause long enough to read this, fellows, before you blow your top about the ladies' bonnets

A delver into history comes up with the information that men originated the idea of wearing hats for the sake of ornamentation Specifically, they were ancient Egyptian men. Their crowning glory was a military type cap made of stiff wool. It was a foot and a half high

"They wore such a hat because it could be adorned with symbols of rank," says J Morris Jones, managing editor of the World Book encyclopedia. "These symbols included the asp for sovereignty, the lotus for abundance, the feather for authority They were the equivalent of today's low license number and identified the wearer as an important character.

"Hats for women did not appear until centuries later."

Only One Per Cent of Vets Fail to Re-Pay Home Loans

CHICAGO. — Ninety-nine out of every 100 veterans have kept up their GI home loan payments promptly, according to a year-end survey by the United States Savings and Loan league.

Less than one per cent of the veterans' loans made by the 3,600 savings and loan associations and cooperative banks comprising the league's membership are reported to be delinquent.

Nine out of 10 of these associations report the payment record of veterans is better than or at least equal to that of non-veterans, according to Ralph M. Smith, West Somerville, Mass., president of the league.

Less than one GI loan in every 850 has resulted in foreclosure, according to the League's survey. The total number of families affected was 215 for the whole country.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE — SPINET GRAND Piano in walnut finish. Close out at $295.00. See piano in Klemme Write Critchett Piano Company, 1409 Forest, Des Moines, or phone 4-8927. (1tc)

SEE R. W. ELDER FOR HANcock Co. Mutual Fire & Lightning Insurance renewals or new policies. (D 15-c)

FOR SALE—METAL CLARInet in good condition. Boehm system. Call 147. (d-15c)

FOR SALE—FRANKLIN LITter Carrier complete with inside track and outside cable. Mitchell Bock. (1tp

FOR SALE—POLAND CHINA boars, choice of 25 head. The easy feeding, faster maturing kind Priced to sell O W Friedow, phone Britt 4616. (tfc)

FOR SALE—80 ACRES CLARion and Webster soil, fair buildings. Located 2 mi. north, 4¼ mi. east of Klemme. See Curtis Riehm, Garner. (tfc)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal. We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO, Goodell, Iowa

FOR SALE—MODERN THREEroom house with full basement. Frank Hougland. (tfc)

FOR SALE — NEW VARIETY Hybrid Corn Out yields all others Guaranteed to please - to ripen. Agents wanted Batz Seed Farms, Mason City, Iowa. (J-7-p)

Miscellaneous

NOTICE—BECAUSE OF THE increase in the implement and repair business we have found it necessary to give up our heating business. What parts and supplies we had on hand we sold to Klemme Hardware We are sure they can give you good service.
Fred J Arnold. (2tc)

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident.
(Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS— ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired Expert workmanship, reasonable prices. Times Office (tfc)

For Rent

FOR RENT — THREE ROOM house in Klemme, from Dec 1 to March 1 Willard Fesseenden. (tfc)

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our husband and father. Also all those who assisted us in any way
Mrs. N G Moberly
Mr and Mrs A B Brouwer
Mr and Mrs Alvin Goll.
(1tc)

To Relatives and Friends at Klemme, Iowa We are deeply grateful for all the kindness shown us in our great loss. Funds sent are being given to Missions and Help for Crippled Children Our sincere thanks.
Mrs. Charles Edward Gibbs,
Mrs. James Kenn Figeus Lau,
Big Lake Minnesota. (1tc)

LOST

A former Iowan, Dr. L. N McNay of Garden Grove, moved to Camden, New Jersey recently. One afternoon he parked his car downtown in Camden, and promptly forgot where he had left it. After a two hour search, he asked police help and cruised with officers for two hours without finding his automobile. Police offered to take him home but he could'nt remember the address of the apartment into which he had moved a few hours before! Another "tour" of the city followed hunting for land-marks. Finally his wife called the police station for help in finding her husband and Dr. McNay made it safely home. Police found his car, eventually, right where he had left it.

NEW CAR

Herman Nielsen of Harlan returned from a visit to Denmark recently and brought with him a new automobile; a Studebaker, which he purchased in Copenhagen for $232.

BEST

We think the best hunting story of the new season comes from Algona, where Bud Morck, hunting near Emmetsburg, got two Canadian geese with a single shell.

SHE WOULD LIKE A - - -
UNIVERSAL CLEANER

The Nation's most amazing Cleaner buy. All the modern features at a new low price! The conventional model sells for:

$49.95

or you can get the new tank-type model—complete with 13 De Luxe Attachments for only:

$69.95

Give her a lasting Gift that she will enjoy 365 days a year!

JOSTEN
Appliance
Klemme Iowa

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA
Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED
Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

Keep Your Farm Records this Easy Way

KEYSTONE FARM RECORD BOOK

We have a FREE copy for You

The favorite record book for thousands of farmers for the past 6 years . . . It is easily kept, yet complete. Especially designed for helping prepare your income tax report . . . Also very useful when dealing with banks and government agencies . . . Can help improve your farm operations, too . . . Prepared by competent accountants; approved by county agents and other farm authorities.

So in 1949, keep better financial records of your farm operations with this 32-page, Keystone Farm Record Book.

Ask for your FREE copy today!

NORTHERN Lumber Co.

THIS YEAR "PERSONALIZE" YOUR
CHRISTMAS CARDS
WITH PHOTOGRAPHS . . . .

I am now making up CHRISTMAS CARDS using photographs of children and adults, and have samples on display at the Corner Store.

I am equipped to come to your home and take pictures of yourself or children and make up the cards.

All work guaranteed to be satisfactory, and prices are no more than other good cards.

CHRISTMAS PHOTO CARDS, EACH ---------- 10c

Phone 7F58
DEAN RASMUS

COLD WEATHER AHEAD

But who cares? Come in here where it's warm and cheerful. Pass the time with a game of pool.

Meet Your Friends At
Joe's Place

Terhufen's Corner Store
GIFT HEADQUARTERS

We feature Gifts for every member of the Family

Our stock is still good on most items and we can take care of the "last minute" shopper. You can find a suitable gift here for any member of the family:—

Jewelry
Billfolds
Toilet Sets
Baby Books
Alarm Clocks
Pens and Pencils
Boxed Stationary
Bibles
Cameras
Fine Soaps
Heating Pads
Electric Razors
Cigarette Lighters
Mens Shaving Sets
Albums
Cosmetics
Brush Sets
Dresser Sets
Dolls, Dishes
Trucks, Cars
Traveling Cases

CHRISTMAS CARDS

We have a nice assortment of Christmas Cards. You can buy one, a dozen — or more. A card for every purpose.

For The Last Minute Shopper
Boxed Candy
Christmas Cigars
Christmas Cigarettes

The Corner Store
Klemme, Iowa
Glen Terhufen, Proprietor

Fire Damaged Implements For SALE
From Northern Implement Fire

I have purchased the entire fire damaged stock of farm implements, tools, etc. from the Northern Implement Co. Much of this is not badly damaged and can be used, and will be sold at Public Auction on the premises in Klemme on

Saturday, Dec. 18

Sale Begins Promptly At 2:00 P. M.

THIS STOCK INCLUDES:

Several Discs
Some Steel Drags
Wagon Hoist
3 Hog Feeders
Assortment of Bolts
Manure Loader
Some Oil In Barrels
Hammermills
Feed Grinders
Repair Parts
Miscellaneous Items and tools

Come and look this over. You will find a lot of good usable merchandise that will be sold very cheap.

Terms—Cash.
No property to be removed until settled for.

Lloyd Lau
OWNER

"Red" Buntenbach
Auctioneer
First National Bank
Clerk

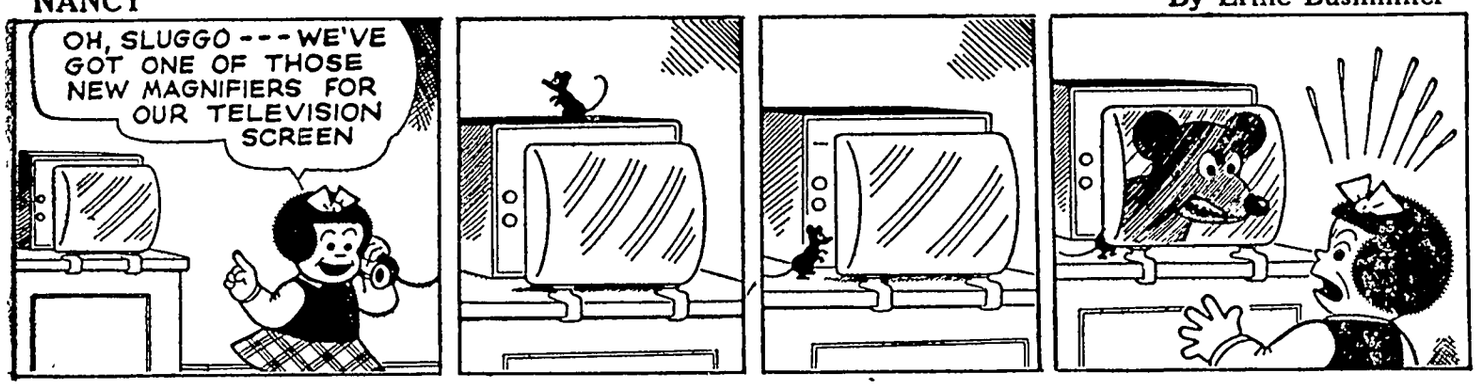
Cross Town by Roland Coe

"IT'S MONDAY AGAIN—HERE COMES MRS. SLOAN FOR ANOTHER DEMONSTRATION!"

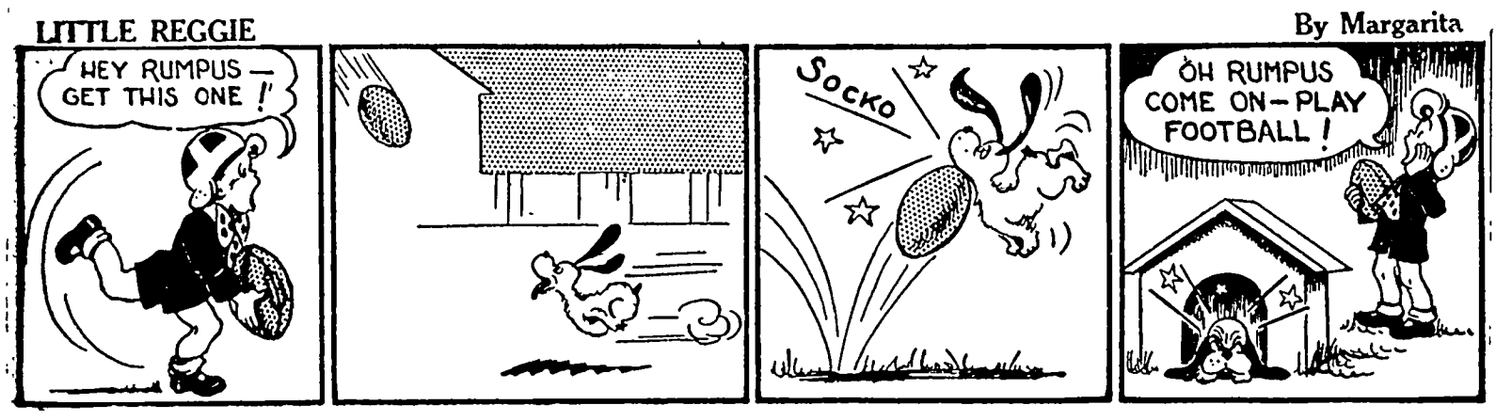
Bobby Sox by Mary Links

"MY RATES ARE FIFTY CENTS AN HOUR—PLUS USE OF YOUR PHONE AND REFRIGERATOR!"

NANCY — By Ernie Bushmiller



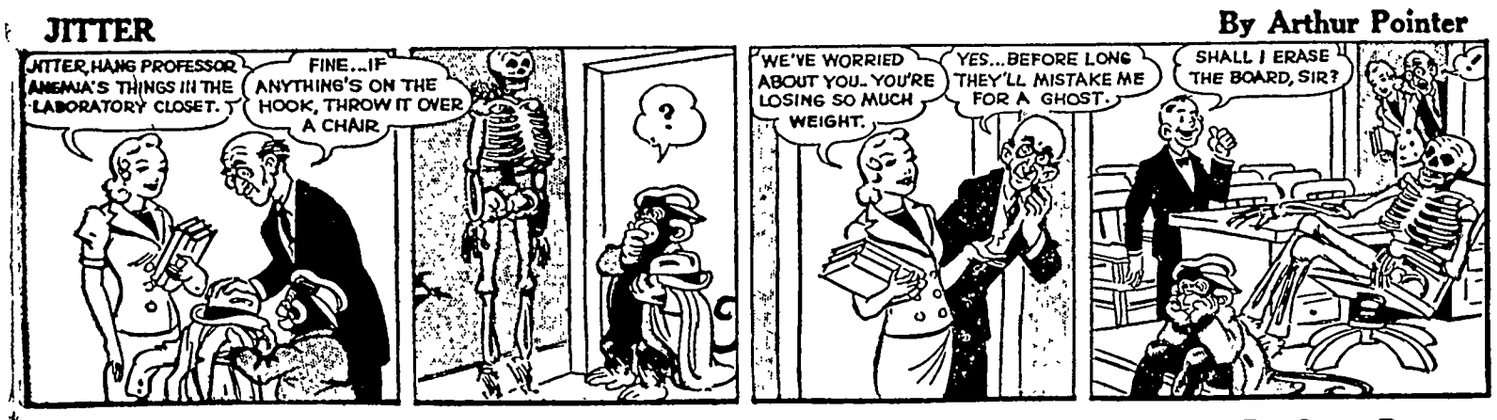
LITTLE REGGIE — By Margarita



MUTT AND JEFF — By Bud Fisher

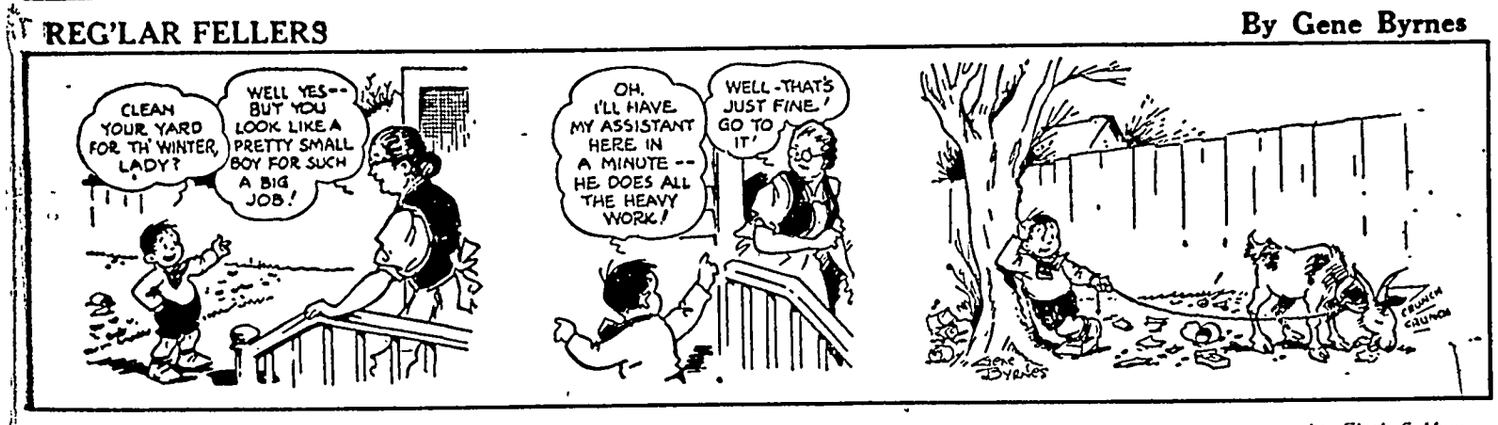
YOU OWE ME THREE WEEKS RENT! NOW KICK IN OR STAY OUT!
JEFF, YOU CAN SEE HOW IT IS!
I DO! WE'RE OUT!
OH, BOYS, WOULD YOU DO ME THE FAVOR OF LIVING AT THE HOTEL I BOUGHT AND TAKING CARE OF THINGS WHILE I'M AWAY?
WOULD WE?
SIR SID!
ROOMS WINTER IS COMING!
WHAT LUCK! FREE ROOM AND BOARD!
JUST FOR TAKIN' CARE OF THE HOTEL!
DID YOU RING, SIR?
YES! WHAT DAY IS THIS?
EIGHTEENTH, SIR!
PULL DOWN THE SHADES AND CALL US THE THIRTY EIGHTH

JITTER — By Arthur Pointer



JITTER, HANG PROFESSOR ANEMIA'S THINGS IN THE LABORATORY CLOSET.
FINE...IF ANYTHING'S ON THE HOOK, THROW IT OVER A CHAIR
?
WE'VE WORRIED ABOUT YOU. YOU'RE LOSING SO MUCH WEIGHT.
YES...BEFORE LONG THEY'LL MISTAKE ME FOR A GHOST.
SHALL I ERASE THE BOARD, SIR?

REG'LAR FELLERS — By Gene Byrnes



CLEAN YOUR YARD FOR TH' WINTER, LADY?
WELL YES-- BUT YOU LOOK LIKE A PRETTY SMALL BOY FOR SUCH A BIG JOB!
OH, I'LL HAVE MY ASSISTANT HERE IN A MINUTE -- HE DOES ALL THE HEAVY WORK!
WELL-THAT'S JUST FINE! GO TO IT!
Gene Byrnes

SUNNYSIDE — by Clark S. Haas

—THIS IS THE BIGGEST CROWD WE'VE EVER HAD AFTER THE SHOW!!
—I WONDER WHAT MAKES PEOPLE SO THIRSTY TONIGHT ??
LOOK HERE, BOSS!
GLUCK! GLUCK!
NO WONDER !!
DESERT SAND
"DESERT SAND" PLUS "SAHARA SAFARI"
CLARK S. HAAS

VIRGIL — By Len Kleis

FUNLAND

BY A.W. NUGENT

ALPHABETIC Riddles

1 WHICH TWO LETTERS OF THE ALPHABET SUGGEST A GIRL'S NAME?

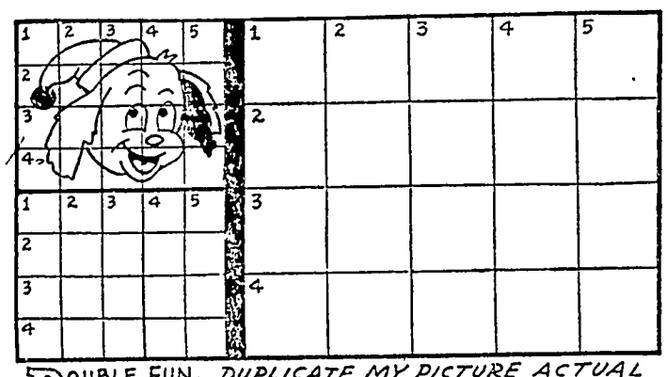
2 WHICH TWO OTHER LETTERS SOUND LIKE A GIRL'S NAME?

3 WHICH TWO LETTERS ARE A BOY'S NAME?

4 NOW TRY TO FIND TWO LETTERS THAT SUGGESTS ANOTHER BOY'S NAME.

SOLUTION: 1. ELSIE (LC); 2. KATY (KT); 3. ABIE (AB); 4. ARTIE (RT).

A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z



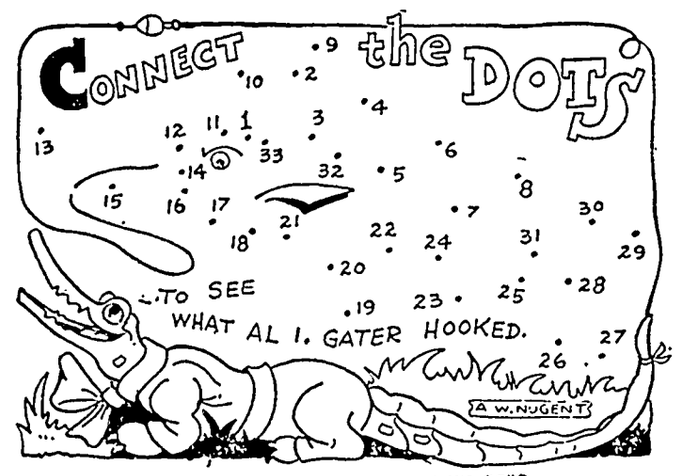
DOUBLE FUN. DUPLICATE MY PICTURE ACTUAL SIZE AND THEN ENLARGE IT IN THE TWO GROUPS OF EMPTY BOXES . . . MAKE SURE YOUR LINES CUT THROUGH THE SQUARES JUST AS THEY DO IN THE ORIGINAL.

OTTO, TOM, OSCAR, ART, TED, ED, SAM, AMOS, AL, MOE, BILL, JOE, RAY.

FATTY MATTY CHALLENGES YOU TO SPELL THIRTEEN BOYS' NAMES BY READING THE LETTERS IN ROTATION AROUND THE CIRCLE, IN THE DIRECTION OF THE ARROWS

A W NUGENT

CONNECT the DOTS



WNU 4849

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

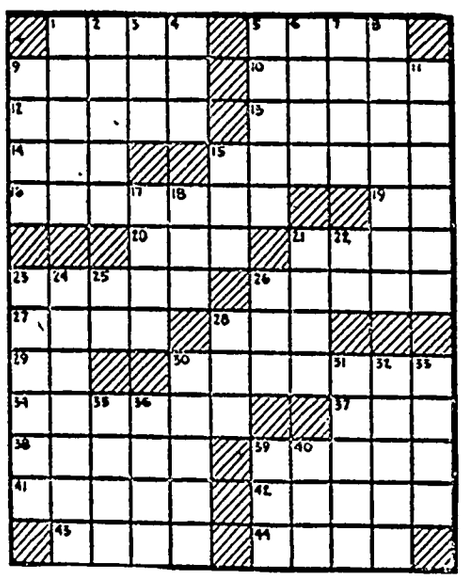
Horizontal

1 Long nail
5 Sob
9 Pincer-like organ
10 Mohammedan god
12 Port
13 Southern constellation
14 Open (poet.)
15 Sets again
16 Reads
19 Close to
20 Monetary unit (Latvia)
21 A fuel
23 A child's disease
26 Seized
27 Ugly old women
28 Crown
29 From
30 Natives of Korea
34 To make angry
37 Prosecute judicially
38 Bondsman
39 Short surplice
41 Weird
42 Incites
43 Vend
44 Lean and strong

Vertical

1 Metal tip of a scabbard
2 Pry
3 Malt beverage
4 Pale
5 Whip marks on skin
6 High priests
7 River (Ger.)
8 Receive a share
9 Mince
11 Hurry
15 Soak flax
17 Eskimo tools
18 Juice of plants
21 Point of land
22 All correct (abbr.)
23 Select
24 Sells, as chances
25 King of Bashan (Bib.)
26 Sailor
28 Food fish
30 Rest on the knees
31 Flower
32 Full of nuts
33 Bodies of water
35 Price of passage
36 Wicked
39 Crow's cry
40 Sash (Jap.)

Solution in Next Issue.



No. 11

Answer to Puzzle No. 10

		C	A	B		C	H	A
	B	R	I	E		R	U	N	T
T	O	A	D	Y		A	F	T	E	R
A	R	M			O	F	F		N	O
R	A	P	O	R	T		O	D	E
		S	A	R	I		C	R	E	E
A	D		S	C	O	R	E		D	O
L	E	G	S		L	O	D	E
A	T	E		R	E	B	E	C	C	A
R	A		G	A	S			L	A	Y
M	I	D	A	S		A	S	I	A	T	E
	L	A	M	P		L	E	I	S
		K	E	Y		T	E	R

Series K—48

WNU 4849

CLASSI
DEPARTM

AUTOS, TRUCKS &

ST. LOUIS
AUCTI
EVERY MONDAY &
3807 EASTON AVE., ST L
DEALERS ONLY—Pho

REO 1940, 19BHS, 8:25 t axle, hoist stock rack radio, heater. Exc. cond.
ORLIE BESLER

DOGS, CATS, PET

SALE—10 CANARIES, C
Come see them. MRS
Searsboro, Iowa. No Sunda

FARM MACHINERY

FOR SALE
Late Model Schield R
Trench Hoe, Shovel. Good
ROY DAVIDSON

FARMS AND RA

CANADIAN FARMS—Write u
FORMATION on farm settlement
Fertile soils. Reasonably price
Canadian Pacific Railway, Unio
Paul, Minn.

FARMS FOR SA
200-acre improved, 160-acre fa
H. H. DEYLOFF

MINN.—HIGH QUALITY 80-
All modern with excellent soil. Consolidated school bu and mail past farm. $188 per a east of Austin, Minnesota. Ea
Write
W. C. PETERSON, O
Rose Creek

INSTRUCTION

TRADE TRAI
DAY OR EVENING S
Air Conditioning
Body and Dent
Carpentry
Electricity
Lithography
Plumbing
Radio
Refrigeration
Architectu
Automobil
Mechanica
Machine S
Pattern M
Power Pla
Ranken is approved for trai ans under the G. I. Bill of an endowed trade school
1907. Visitors are welcom
Telephone FRanklin 0233
The David Ranken, J
of Mechanical Tr
4431 Finney Avenue, St. Lo

MISCELLANEO

ICE CREAM EQUIPMENT
Mills 2½ gal. freezer with 60
20 gal. cabinet, 40 gal. cabine
H. H. DEYLOFF
Aurelia

REAL ESTATE—BUS

FORCED TO SELL on acco
my modern food store and terms if desired. Write
HENRY MARTIN, Box 626,

GARAGE and implement located in small town Fa
new sales with all kinds tractor repair and h outlet. Write or call Mar
Store, Martelle, Iowa.

You Can Be a Pa
Buy U. S. Savings

AS PURE AS MONEY
St. Joseph A
WORLD'S LARGEST SELLE

Helps keep on my fee

say many about go
SCOTT'S E

Thousands folks know t tasting Scott's helps you ward off colds—get well faster—and helps going strong when your d more natural A&D Vitamins
a HIGH ENERGY FOOD rich in natural A&D and energy-buildin oil. Try it! See ho feel. Easy to take Economical. Buy to drug store!

MORE than just it's powerful nou

SCOTT'S EMU
HIGH ENERGY T

Made ESPECIAL
KIDDIE CHEST CO
to relieve coughs—achin
Child's Mild MUSTE

WNU—N

Watch You
Kidne

Help Them Cleanse
of Harmful Body

Your kidneys are constan waste matter from the blood kidneys sometimes lag in the
not act as Nature intended move impurities that, if re poison the system and upse
body machinery.
Symptoms may be naggin
persistent headache, attacks getting up nights, swellin
under the eyes—a feeling anxiety and loss of pep a
Other signs of kidney or order are sometimes burnin
too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt
treatment is wiser than Doan's Pills. Doan's have b
new friends for more than
They have a nation-wide
Are recommended by grateful country over. Ask your neig

DOAN'S PI

CTION Corner

THE JAGGED SCAR

By DONALD HUNTER

...d his dad had always been pals, so much so that when "the ...ddenly became sullen and morose toward his son, Tom attrib... his "growing up" and he began to find life almost unbearable.

...ox-Headed Boy with the ...lose cropped didn't know ...was. The old man spent ...t gazing off into space. ...the top front porch step, ... between his knees, his ...ted on the second step and ... end set on the bottom ... his hands crossed over ... head, the right hand ...covered the jagged scar ...e back of the left one. ...times, when the boy was ...e always seemed busy ...e newspaper. He kept it ... he could hold it with one ...e scarred hand concealed ...

...p.

...rse, he had never been ...ative. Stoic, like the hill ...e came from, he never ...d his troubles. When he'd ...his hand with an ax out ...ack yard, he'd sneaked ...he kitchen hiding the man... ...ody member behind him ...y's mother wouldn't see. ...y had stood in the front ...gle-eyed and anxious with ...n the old man saw him. ... tell your mother, boy!" ...ned before he went into ...om to tear up an old sheet ...ping his hand.

...e boy's mother had noticed. ...ed the strange atmosphere, ...al actions. She'd followed ... the bedroom, and the boy ...d the old man shushing ...e she bawled him out for ...e thing. He kept saying ...thing—and afterwards he ...ked about it, never com... He just never let anyone ... jagged scar across the ...is hand if he could help it. ... the old man was with... ...e couldn't get near him ... couldn't talk to him. ...'d been able to get a kind ...t of the old man. He'd ...hat's good, Tom!" or, ...ot the way that ought to ... Son!" And though there ...very many words between ...y were the kind that made ... feel good, and know that ...g was all right.

...t was different. The old ...n't seem to have time for ... didn't want to take their ...t walks together anymore, ...ed to. And he didn't move ...uch. He even seemed to ...e boy's presence, like ...'d stumbled that time in ... room and caught himself ...e. He growled at the boy, ...him speechless and hurt. ...asn't old, not like Grampa ...d the old mare down on ...

...e last time he'd brought ...t card home from school, ...expecting the old man to ...e sometimes did, "That's ..., good that you're getting ...rning!" and smile at him ...e hadn't done it.

...ly glanced at the card on ... then turned it over and ...ething that sounded like ..." and handed it back to ...tly. The boy had worked ...d that last month to get ...es up hoping the old man ...eak through to him again. ...n't understand that short ..."

...was something wrong, and ...ondered if it could be him. ...er seemed to act the same ...rd him. Cut him off short, ...d tried awkwardly to ask ...t how dad was treating him. He called him the old man when he was with the other boys his age, not with any disrespect but he always called him dad around his mother.

"Oh, leave your father alone, can't you?" she said. And he went away sensing an even greater wrong.

Even little Rosemary, the girl he talked to shyly in the school yard sometimes, seemed to be treating him different lately. "What's wrong with you?" she'd ask right in the middle of his wondering what was wrong with the old man and his mom.

"Oh, nothing—nothing!" he'd say quickly. "Why?"

"Well, you don't talk near so much anymore," she'd say, "and you seem so far away like!"

He wondered if just not paying any attention to her while he was thinking about his dad and mom made her think there was something wrong with him. Or if maybe there was really something wrong with him.

"Oh, leave your father alone, can't you?" she said. And he went away sensing an even greater wrong.

He hated the thought, but it kept cropping up in his mind. Maybe he was adopted! Maybe the old man and his mom were not really his father and mother, but had just adopted him—and he was just now finding it out. The thought frightened him, and he buried it deep in his mind. If it was true, he'd be like the old man, hide his hurt. He'd never let them know he knew!

His father called him "boy" now, instead of "Tom" or "Son," like he had. And he was sharp, almost harsh sometimes.

HE WAS bouncing his ball off the side of the house when the old man came around from the backyard In an excess of boyish joy, he forgot for a moment what the situation was between them. He threw the ball to the old man. Instead of catching it and firing it back so it would sting his hands the old man ignored it. He did nothing till the ball hit him, and bounced harmlessly off his shoulder.

He tensed then, lifted his cane. "Stop that infernal nonsense, boy!" he yelled.

The boy could feel his own lip tremble as he stared at the old man's angry face. He took a deep breath, his young chest swelling quickly with the sharp intake of air. He held it, stiffened his lip. He would not cry. Crying wasn't grown up!

The thought struck him then that maybe that was the whole thing that was wrong. He was growing up! He wanted to turn down that thought right away. If this was what it was like, if this was growing up—then he didn't want to be big! He didn't want to be. It hurt too much.

Why couldn't it be like it used to be with the old man and him? But if that was it—if it was just growing up—then it never would be like that again. And Rosemary—she would never treat him the same again, either. She knew, too! Just getting big, you had to be hard, cold, without love, understanding, feeling or— There was something wrong in just growing up!

The boy started to rub his knuckle into his eye, but stopped. A bleak chill was settling in his heart, as he watched the old man go in the front door. But he followed him, some strange knowingness urging him to get his answer confirmed. To make sure that was it.

The old man was bent over fumbling around on the floor for the worn leather change purse he'd dropped, when the boy walked in. His hand closed on the purse and he straightened quickly

"Here, boy," he said hurriedly, digging into the pouch. "Run down to the corner and get me a paper!"

He often asked him to do that, and the boy felt a rise of that good feeling at anything he could do fo. the old man He held out his hand and the old man laid three coins in his palm.

"Now hurry, boy!" he urged harshly The boy felt disappointment at the sharp, urgent tone, until he glanced down at the coins.

Suddenly, he stood very still. Two dimes and a penny lay in his hand to pay for the three-cent paper. Waves of coldness washed up his spine as the bitter acid of knowledge bit into his nerve ends and settled in his brain.

He made no outcry; not even the sound of a murmur passed his tight lips. But hot liquid emotion scalded two lines of silent tears down his cheeks as he gazed, knowingly at last, up into his father's slowly blinding eyes.

"Okay, dad!" he said, his voice stumbling over his heart, "Okay, dad!"

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 1:18—2:12; Mark 1:1-11, Luke 2:1-20.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 9: 2-7.

The Best News

Lesson for December 19, 1948

WHAT kind of news is good? Christians always have called the heart of their religion "Good News," for that is what "Gospel" means. We do not call it "Good Resolutions" or "Good Ideas" or even "Good Ideals." Just Good News. But what is good about it? It is a fair question to ask at Christmas time, for the story that Christmas brings is the beginning of the Gospel.

Dr. Foreman

• • •

News of Peace

ONE of the best kinds of news there is is to learn that someone we thought was an enemy, is actually a friend. The end of misunderstanding, of estrangement—what a rush of warmth to the heart it brings!

That is the news of the first Christmas—that God is our friend. Christ did not come to assure men that there is a God. That was well known, indeed few doubted it. He did not even come to announce that there is but one God, for that was already known to the wiser sort of men Neither did his coming unveil the God of justice The Greeks and Romans, as well as the Jews, knew such a God only too well.

No wonder a Roman poet, looking about on the religions of his time, concluded that fear is the great god-maker His notion was a mistake, but it was a natural one. For all the religions of the ancient world, even the religion of the Jew, were attempts to ward off the anger of offended gods.

The coming of Christ was to put an end to all that. This was more than a friendly gesture, it was an act of love. Those who have discovered God in Christ have found that God is not only our Maker but our heavenly Father and Friend. There is no better news!

• • •

News of a Gift

IT IS good news also when we hear of a legacy or gift of some sort, especially when it is something we could not have expected. And the story of Christmas is the news about God personally entering the life of man. It is God giving us himself True, the world is full of the gifts of God.

In the Child of Bethlehem, in the Man he was to become, in the work he was to do, there was a new thing—the self-giving of God. That is one reason why Christmas means infinitely more to a Christian than to any one else.

For the non-Christian, the story of Christmas, for all its charm, is only another story of a child born to poverty, doomed to pain—another chapter in the long agony of man For the Christian, the story of Christmas is the Good News of how God gives himself, for our sake.

• • •

News of Rescue

MANY Americans, caught in the war, starving behind electric fences for years on end, caught their first news of victory from seeing American planes roaring high overhead. No words were needed. It was news, good news, the news of rescue, of freedom.

So it is with man. Caught in the long war between good and evil, a prisoner in the enemy's country, behind the high fences of frustration, plodding heavily through the freezing mire of barren sins, man despairs of strength or freedom.

To all mankind, to each one who will listen, the Christmas story is good news of rescue. A Child is born, but more . . . "a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord."

• • •

From a Far Country

IT IS good news when from a far country, until now dark and unknown, we learn that it is a land of friends who send us welcome across the miles. So the meaning of Christmas is good news from a far land, the land beyond what we call death. "Our Saviour Jesus Christ hath abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel" (II Tim. 1:10).

As on the first Christmas, so ever since, the Gospel of God is not alone the good news of a God who loves and forgives and who brings us the victory, it is the news of God who stands at the end of our dark journey to welcome his children home.

Good news! The world has none to equal the news of Christmas.

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

Youthful Yoked Frock For Teen-Aged Misses

8367
10-16

Yoked Frock

YOUTHFUL and smart is this yoked frock for the teen-age miss. The demure Peter Pan collar has a pert bow. A purchased belt snugs in a tiny waistline. Try a brightly colored plaid fabric with crisp white collar.

• • •

Pattern No 8367 is for sizes 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16 Size 11, short sleeve, 3⅝ yards of 39-inch, ¼ yard for collar.

The Fall and Winter FASHION offers a wealth of sewing information for the home dressmaker—special features, fabric news, free pattern printed inside the book . 25 cents.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.
Pattern No._____ Size_____
Name_____
Address_____

Electric and Mechanical Toys

Electric toys should never be handled with wet hands. If a youngster has been playing in the rain or snow, he should put on dry clothing before playing with electric toys. A heavy mitten worn by a child when using a play electric iron or stove will help prevent hand burns. All electric toys should be of approved design and construction such as those bearing the label of the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. All electric toys should be maintained in a safe condition. At the first sign of a defect, the necessary repairs should be made or the toy discarded.

RELIEF AT LAST For Your COUGH

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

CHANGE of LIFE?

Are you going through the functional 'middle age' period peculiar to women (38 to 52 yrs.)? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel so nervous, highstrung, tired? Then do try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect!

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

IF PETER PAIN CLUBS YOU WITH RHEUMATIC PAIN

● Hurry—rub in Ben-Gay for fast, soothing, gently warming relief! Insist on genuine Ben-Gay, the original Baume Analgésique. Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times more methyl salicylate and menthol—two pain-relieving agents known to every doctor—than five other widely offered rub-ins. Ben-Gay acts fast where you hurt.

Also for Pain due to COLDS, MUSCLE ACHE, and STRAINS. Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.

QUICK... RUB IN Ben-Gay

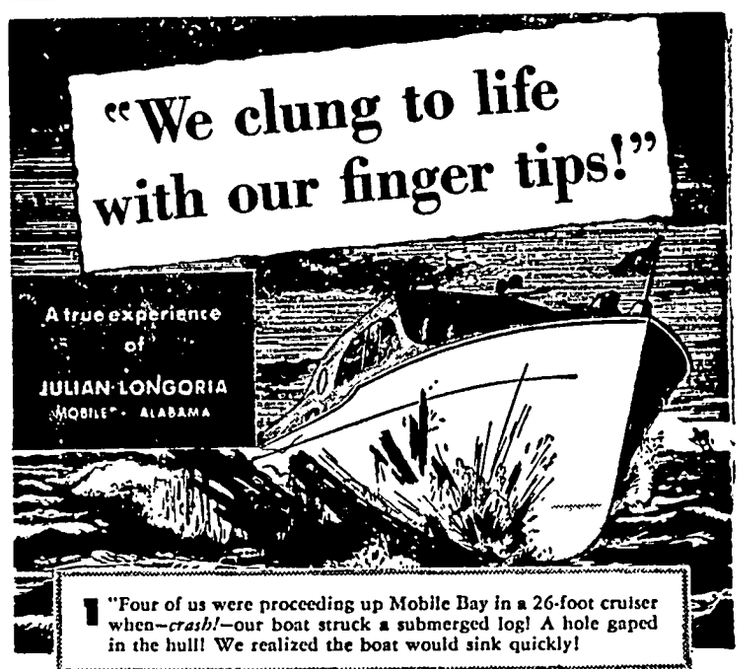
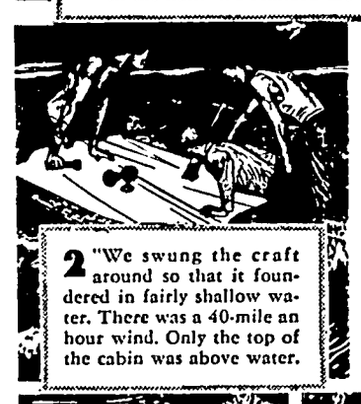
"We clung to life with our finger tips!"

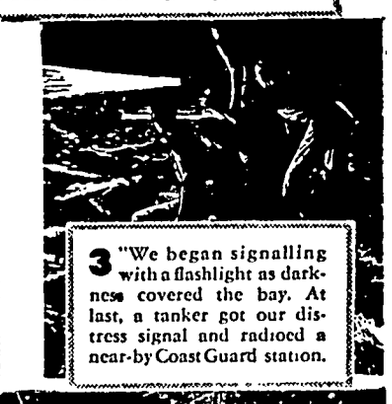
A true experience of JULIAN LONGORIA MOBILE, ALABAMA



1 "Four of us were proceeding up Mobile Bay in a 26-foot cruiser when—crash!—our boat struck a submerged log! A hole gaped in the hull! We realized the boat would sink quickly!



2 "We swung the craft around so that it foundered in fairly shallow water. There was a 40-mile an hour wind. Only the top of the cabin was above water.



3 "We began signalling with a flashlight as darkness covered the bay. At last, a tanker got our distress signal and radioed a near-by Coast Guard station.

4 "After we had clung to the cabin top for three hours, a Coast Guard boat arrived. We can thank our flashlight—and its long-lasting 'Eveready' batteries—for our rescue!"
MR. LONGORIA adds:
BELIEVE ME I'LL NEVER USE ANYTHING BUT EVEREADY BATTERIES IN MY FLASHLIGHT THEY SAVED MY LIFE ONCE—AND I KNOW THAT YOU CAN'T BEAT THEM FOR LONG LIFE AND DEPENDABILITY
EVEREADY
Fresh Power
BRIGHTER LIGHT LONGER LIFE

For brighter light and longer life in your flashlight, insist on "Eveready" flashlight batteries—America's largest-selling brand!

The registered trade-mark "Eveready" distinguishes products of NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, INC.
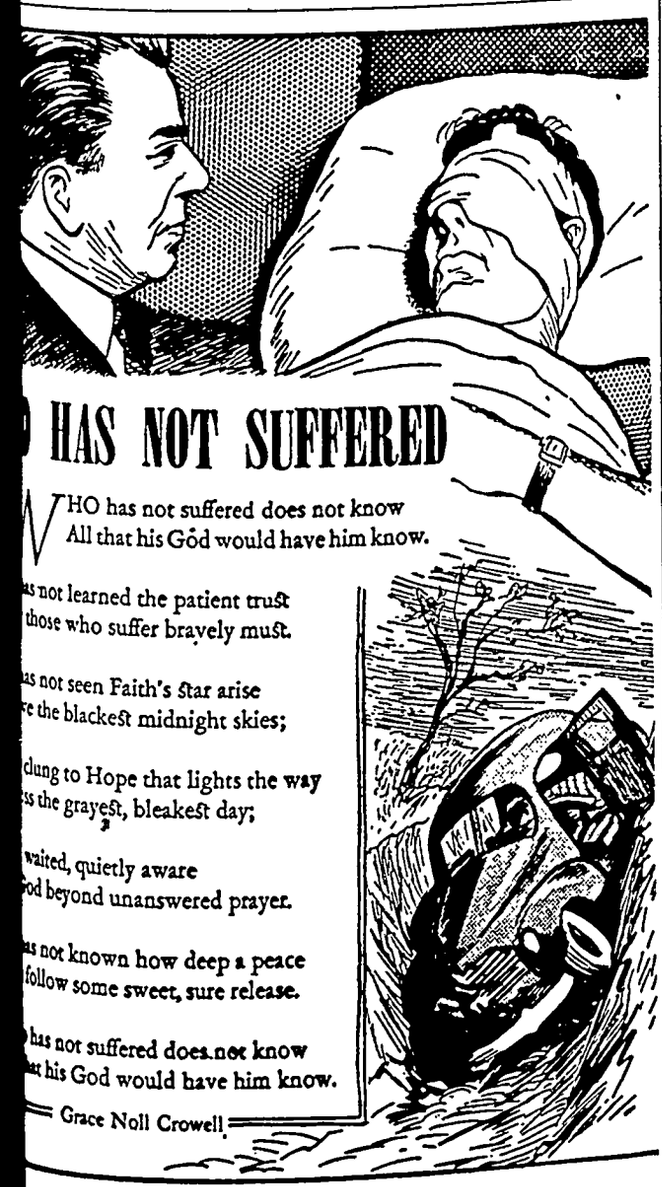
30 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.
Unit of Union Carbide UCC and Carbon Corporation



HAS NOT SUFFERED
WHO has not suffered does not know
All that his God would have him know.
...as not learned the patient trust
... those who suffer bravely must.
...as not seen Faith's star arise
...e the blackest midnight skies;
... clung to Hope that lights the way
...ss the grayest, bleakest day;
... waited, quietly aware
...od beyond unanswered prayer.
...as not known how deep a peace
... follow some sweet, sure release.
... has not suffered does not know
...at his God would have him know.
Grace Noll Crowell

tricks for teens

by NANCY PEPPER

PARTY PICKUPS

We could tell you that the new party game is called "photography" but you'd know that was only a gag, because blackout stuff and kissing games went out with "Chibaba Chibaba." Here are some really good party ideas to keep your guests in circulation and good humor.

Balloon Busters—Tie a balloon to the ankle of every girl at the party. The object of the dance that follows is for the girls to burst each other's balloons. The boys are the steering committee, steering their partners into strategic positions for bursting other girls balloons or protecting their own. Last one with a balloon wins a prize. She may need an aspirin, too.

Paper Dolls—Each boy is equipped with old newspapers, a scissors and a paper of pins. Within a specific time he must create a newspaper dress on his partner. Cleverest design wins prizes for the designer and his victim. She also receives assorted stabs and pin pricks.

If those games don't help break the ice, better bring on the refreshments early. There's nothing like a banana-peanut butter and marshmallow slurpwich to put everybody in a mingling mood.

NOTICE I'VE CHANGED TO CAMELS. THAT 30-DAY MILDNESS TEST WON ME OVER FOR KEEPS!
CAMELS ARE SO MILD! AND THEY HAVE SUCH A WONDERFUL FLAVOR!
CAMEL
CIGARETTES

PROVE
CAMEL MILDNESS
FOR YOURSELF!

● Make the Camel 30-day test! When hundreds of men and women recently, from coast to coast, smoked Camels exclusively for 30 days in a similar test, noted throat specialists who examined the throats of these smokers every week—a total of 2470 examinations—reported

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office Over Federated Store
Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

At last....ELGINS for every Santa!

Lady Elgin. 19 jewels, adjusted. DuraPower Mainspring. 14K natural gold filled case. Smartly styled. $67.50†

★ Lord Elgin. 21 jewels, adjusted. DuraPower Mainspring. 14K natural gold filled case. Curved crystal $71.50†

★ Elgin De Luxe 17 jewels, adjusted. DuraPower Mainspring. 10K natural gold filled case. $55.00†

Remember ELGIN alone has the DuraPower Mainspring*!

*Made of "Elgiloy" metal. Patent pending. †Including Federal Tax

These new Elgins are the finest ever. Beautifully styled. And their DuraPower Mainspring eliminates 99% of all repairs due to steel mainspring failures. Come in and see the stunning new models now.

GEO. KYSETH
JEWELER CLARION, IOWA

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. John Clements and sons spent Monday visiting with relatives at Estherville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Busse spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson of Garner.

Mrs. Martha Bredbenner asks that all who have not sent in their money for Christmas Seals, please do so this week.

Ray Jorgenson, Jr. attended a meeting of the Air Corps Reserve officers at the Legion hall at Mason City Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Arnold were in Des Moines last Wednesday and Thursday attending the Oliver Implement Dealers' Convention.

Paul Halfpop has been seriously ill the past week following an appendectomy at the Belmond hospital. Reports are that he is much better at this time. He is a brother of Mrs. Harvey Hubbard of Klemme.

There was a steady stream of visitors at the Haefner Super Service Saturday afternoon to enjoy a cup of hot coffee and doughnuts served by the new proprietor, Wilbur Haefner, who was assisted by his daughter, Gloria.

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

STATE OF IOWA, ss. No. 3202
HANCOCK COUNTY,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the estate of LeRoy W. Bachman Deceased, late of Hancock County All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment, and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

TILLIE BACHMAN
Administratrix
SENNEFF & BUCK
Attorneys
Dated December 2, 1948.
RUTH HUGHES,
Clerk District Court
(Pub. Dec 8-15-22, 1948)

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Missman were Mason City visitors Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmen Trampel and sons visited relatives at Williams Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beier were entertained to supper Friday evening at the Will Reimer home at Miller.

Mrs. A. G. Koerner, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold and Evelyn were visitors in Mason City on Saturday.

Mrs. Art Wellemeyer, Mrs. Mary Waterman, Mrs. D. P. Anderson, Mrs. Lena Schroder and Mrs. E. G. Beier were visiting in Forest City Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schneider and son, Bob, drove to Ames Sunday where they were guests at the Fred Schneider home. They report that streets were very slippery with ice at Ames.

The twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Blanchet, Sharon Ann and Karen Sue were baptized at the Evangelical and Reformed Church by Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch Sunday morning.

Harold Wingate, Harry Youngdahl and Red Alberts from Ocheyedan, Iowa, spent the week end visiting Herbert Schwartz. Herbert was employed in Ocheyedan before he broke his leg and had to quit.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorance Day and son, Gary of Mason City were guests of Mrs. Mildred Day on Saturday evening. This week end the Day family will move to Des Moines where they have purchased a house.

Conrad Quandt drov to Des Moines Sunday for a visit with his son-in-law, Ernest Gerardi and family. Mrs. Quandt, who had been visiting at the Gerardi home for the past two weeks, returned home with Mr. Quandt Monday.

Methodist Women Will Meet This Thursday

The ladies of the Klemme Methodist Church will meet this week Thursday afternoon for their annual Christmas Party.

A short program will be given and gifts exchanged after which a pot luck lunch will be served. The meeting is called for 2 p. m.

AVERY SUNBEAMS MET

A Christmas party was held at the home of Doris Gruis on December 11. Seventeen members answered roll call by telling their favorite recipe.

Mrs. Harlow Helps gave an interesting demonstration on accurate measurements, which was followed by presenting each girl with a set of measuring spoons, a gift of the leaders.

Betty Kramer lead us in many lively games. Eunice Helps had charge of the singing. The last thing on the program was the exchange of gifts. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Pauline Kramer.

Doris Gruis, Reporter

Study Group Met

The Study Group of the Methodist Church met on Friday, December 10th at the home of Mrs. C. A. Larsen. The history of the song, "It Came Upon The Midnight Clear" was given by Mrs. Elmer Arnold. Christmas carols were sung by the group.

Devotions, "The Road of the Wise Men" was given by Mrs. Frank Sandrey.

Rev. E. Morris Egeland started the new lesson. The theme of which is "Newness of Life." Questions and answers by Mrs. R. W. Elder.

Four boxes of used clothing, etc. were packed and sent to a Missionary in Japan. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Larsen and Mrs. Isvik.

"The Atheists' Child"—A penetrating ananlysis of the famous McCollum Case which banned religion in the public schools of Champaign, Ill. As a logical sequence of the federal verdict some legal experts foresee a situation in which: There may be no chaplains in the U. S. military forces . . . the name of God may be dropped from public documents and proclamations . . "In God We Ttrust" may disapear from American money. Read this amazing story in the American Weekly the great magazine distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Kropp of Goodell visited at the Emil Beier home Sunday evening,

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fuss were entertained to dinner Sunday evening at the Marvin Isvik home.

Mr. and Mrs. "Dutch" Turgasen and sons of State Center spent the week end visiting at the parental J. E. Stille home.

Mrs. Lewis Neuberger has returned home from the hospital where she underwent an operation. She is making a good recovery.

George Lawhorn had a birthday Friday, December 10th. As George has had quite a few birthdays it was nothing special and he said he is just a year older now.

Mrs. Mary Waterman entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman, Mrs. Herman Bridges, Mrs. Clara Barz and Mrs. Lena Schroeder to a goose dinner Sunday.

Marvin Bredlow and Kenneth Boller of Goodell and Clifford Montgomery called on Paul Halfpop Monday evening. Mr. Halfpop just returned home from the hospital where he submitted to a major operation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen were dinner guests Saturday evening at the Marvin Isvik home. The dinner was in honor of Mrs. Larsen, who celebrated her birthday on Friday, December 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Elder were entertained to dinner Sunday at the E. G. Ell home in Belmond. The dinner was in honor of Mr. Elder's birthday on Dec.4, and Mrs. Larsen's on Dec. 10th.

Miss Marie Blank, Joan Hummel, Neva Ann Anderson and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson drove to Clear Lake Monday evening to attend an initiation of the Rainbow for Girls at the Masonic Temple. Joan and Neva Ann are officers in the Garner Assembly.

Mrs. Wm. Ax Entertained

Mrs. Wm. Ax entertained Mrs. Wellemeyer's Circle of the Methodist Church at her home Saturday evening. A good program was enjoyed and the ladies exchanged Christmas Gifts.

Beverly DeMerritt and Joyce Lassahn favored the ladies with a couple of vocal numbers. Mrs. Ax served a nice lunch later in the evening.

HORSE LOST

A horse, pulling a buggy, crashed head-on into an automobile near Cedar Falls recently. The machine age won. The horse was killed, the buggy wrecked and the driver, 86 year old Edward Shields, went to the hospital with a mild gash on his head.

BOUGHTON RESIGNED AS SECRETARY OF DRAFT BOARD

Kenneth Boughton, Britt funeral director has resigned as secretary of the Hancock County Draft Board and John Applehons has been named to fill the vacancy. Both men are World War II Veterans.

Other members on the draft board are Ernest Haes, Garner and Lyle Ruka, Kanawha. Attorneys Frank Senneff and Irwin Buck are the Board of Appeal Members.

According to law, all male citizens physically qualified must serve in the peace time draft between the ages of 18 and 26, for a period of 21 months.

MEMORIAL BOOKS

The Adam Schaefer American Legion Auxiliary has placed three books on the Jennie Reed Memorial Shelf in the Garner Public Library in memory of the three Klemme boys who have lost their lives. This memorial shelf was established by the daughters of Mrs. H. V. Reed following her death in memory of her faithful service on the Garner Library Board for so many years. Books can be placed on this shelf in memory of any loved ones.

"Modern American Poetry," Edited by Louis Untermeyer was placed in Lt. Dorance Grange's memory; "Complete Works of O'Henry" for Private First Class Charles Bock; and "Fifty Great Americans," by Henry and Dana Lee Thomas in memory of Lt. Harold Wicks.

AUCTIONEER
- FARM SALES
- HOUSEHOLD GOODS
- STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
SWALVE
Klemme - Iowa

Arthur Wellemeye
FUNERAL DIRECTO
—with long experince best equipment.
PROMPT AMBULANC SERVICE
Phone 23-R2 Day or Ni
Klemme - Iow

Christmas Cards
LARGEST STOCK IN TOWN . . .

We have thousands of Christmas Cards stock and can take care of late orders. We fe ture only the highest grade cards at reasonab prices:

18 Beautiful Oilette Cards .. .9
21 De Luxe Die-Cut Cards .. $1.0
12 Silk Printed Cards $1.2
18 Art Craft Cards 9
12 Childrens' Cards 6

Times Office

DOUBLE HEADER
Basket Ball
At The K. H. S. Gymnasium On Friday, Dec. 17th
First Game At 7:30 P. M.

FERTILE H. S. GIRLS
vs
SHAMROCKETTES GIRLS

FERTILE INDIANS
vs
KLEMME SHAMROCKS

TONIGHT—WEDNESDAY
Double Header Girls Games
1st and 2nd Games
CORWITH H. S. GIRLS
vs
KLEMME SHAMROCKETTES

THADA'S
THE STORE OF EVERYDAY LOW PRICES!
Friday & Saturday December 17 - 18

Sausage ARMOUR'S STAR 1 Pound Roll . . 35c

FRIDAY & SATURDAY—
NOODLES pound package 25c

PLAIN AND FANCY
COOKIES 3 pounds..... $1.00

4 Ruby Red Tumblers FREE with each sack!
OMAR FLOUR 50 lb. sack $3.69

HERE'S A REAL TREAT:
CANDY BARS 3 Bars for 10c

Ground Beef lb. 39c

NO. 2 CANS
PEAS 2 Cans for 19c

PRINCE ALBERT OR—
VELVET TOBACCO, package.. 10c

GRAPE
JAM OR JELLY 1 lb. glass 21c

FANCY BOXED CHOCOLATE
CREAM CANDY ½ lb. 39c

Picnics SMOKED AND READY TO EAT Per Pound 39c

MAKES WHITE CLOTHES WHITER
BLUE WHITE Per Box..... 08c

ALL FLAVORS—
JELLO 3 pkgs. for..... 20c

SAVE ON THIS SPECIAL!
SUPER SUDS Large Box.... 29c

LAY IN A SUPPPY OF—
SCOURING PADS ONLY 05c

We carry a full line of Christmas Candies and Nuts

Highest Market Price
For Your Eggs
CASH or Trade

Thada's

"A Good Store In A Good Town" Klemme, Iowa

Santa Claus
IS ON HIS WAY TO
Klemme
And Due To Arrive At 2:00 P. M.
Thursday, December 23
Bring The Kiddies To Greet Him
FREE MOVIE SHOW
BIG FREE TREATS
At The Community Hall
KLEMME

Klemme Civic Club
invites you to do your holiday shopping in
KLEMME

CIAL
NTY
ER

THE KLEMME TIMES

me 54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1948 Number 6.

We Wish Everyone A Merry Christmas

RVICES HELD SATURDAY AT ODELL FOR ELIZABETH CHRISTIE

S RESIDENT OF GOODELL FOR NEARLY HALF CENTURY

odell Woman Had Eighty-Eight Living Decendents

uneral services for Mrs. Elizth Christie, 86, were hald at United Brethren Church at dell on Saturday, December with the Rev. W. T. Boston iating. In his sermon Rev. ton used as his text: Isaiah : "We all do fade as a leaf." rs. Robt. McNutt and Mrs. ry Brede, accompanied by Paul Veldhouse at the pi, sang "No Night There," "In Garden," and "Sweet Hour Prayer."

Cut by Wellemeyer Funeral Service

ELIZABETH CHRISTIE

Obituary

rs. Elizabeth Christie, daughof John and Barbara Brade, born on a farm near Potosi, sconsin, May 3rd, 1862. Her nts were natives of Germany. hen her father, John Brade, in 1868, the family consistof four children, namely: niel age 8, Elizabeth age 6, n age 4, and Margaret was a y.

ome time later her mother rried a widower with four ldren and then three more e born into the home. Two pted children were also addto the family circle, thus mak a total of thirteen happy ldren in a most hospitable ce.

lizabeth attended the rural ools and also church instruc at Potosi, Wisconsin and became a member of the thodist Church.

later she came to Iowa and nd employment with an aunt Garner.

ere she met James Christie, they were married July 18th, 0. Her husband was a woodrker by trade and operated a gon repair shop in Garner later moved to Goodell.

leven children were born to es and Elizabeth Christie, ephine died as an infant, Min, Mrs. Julius Nolte, also pre ded her mother in death. And e children survive.

he husband, James Christie, d 1908. And since then, for years, the wife Elizabeth has ried on alone.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie were a y couple and the latch string their home was always out all of their many friends and ghbors.

But finally, on the morning of cember 15th, 1948, death came Mrs. Elizabeth Christie, as it st to all of us, and she enter eternal sleep.

She reached the age of 86 rs, 7 months and 12 days.

She was privileged to be other" or "Grandmother" to living descendants as follows: ine children: Jenny, Mrs. n Schreckengast, Mason City, a; Mrs. Ella Garberich, Will, Minn.; Elizabeth, Mrs. Char Peterson, Goodell, Iowa; Lau Mrs. L. P. Peterson, Goodell, a; Veda, Mrs. Henry Nolte, odell, Iowa; Agnes, Mrs. Ar Blickenderfer, Elma, Iowa; ra, Mrs. Martin Burrs, Good Iowa; Miss Ione and John ristie at home. Also 41 grandldren and 38 great grandchildand a host of more distant atives and friends.

nterment was on the family in the Amsterdam Cemetery, st of Goodell and she was ne to her final resting place six of her grandsons: Dwayne rberich, Edward Peterson, orge Nolte, Lauretz Peterson, njamin Nolte and Virgil Nol-

OTHER OF LLOYD SHERWOOD DIED MONDAY AT MASON CITY

Mrs. Sherwood, mother of oyd Sherwood, died at Mason y early Monday morning lowing an illness of several eks.

Funeral services will be held the Patterson Funeral Home Mason City this Thursday ernoon at 2:00 o'clock.

KLEMME EVANGELICAL AND REFORMED CHURCH

Christmas Program Begins At 7:30 P. M. Dec. 24th

1. Choir - "Joy To The World."
2. Scripture Reading - Junior Young People.
3. Prayer - Minister.
4. Primary - Christ Is Born."
5. 1st Grade - "Happy Chimes."
6. Song - "Shine Out Oh Blessed Star"
7. 2nd Grade boys - "Christ's Messengers."
8. 2nd Grade girls - "Good From God."
9. 4th Grade - "The living Christmas Thee."
10. 3rd Grade - "Guiding Stars"
11. 5th Grade - "Did Mary Know?"
12. 6th Grade - "Which Way, Old Glory?"
13. Song - "The Angels Sang Onen Starry Night."
14. Announcements.
15. Offertory.
16. Choir - "Sing For Joy."
17. Confirmation Class - "The Christmas Story."
18. Candle Light Procession - Junior Choir.
19. Benediction.
20. Doxology.

NATION'S 1948 CROP OUTPUT MAKES NEW ALL-TIME RECORD

Washington,— A final survey showed Friday that this year's production of crops set a new record.

Reporting this, the agriculture department said the aggregate volume of all crops is 37 per cent higher than the 1923-32 base, and 11 points above the previous record set in 1946.

Featuring the record harvest was a bumper crop of 3,651,000,000 bushels of excellent quality. This corn crop not only set a new record but exceeded last year's harvest by about 1,200,000,000 bushels.

IOWA CORN YIELD UP

Des Moines,—Iowa's record corn yield Friday was estimated at 666,730,000 bushels— a record total production for any year and larger than earlier estimates. The estimated per acre yield is 61 bushels.

The previous record production in Iowa was 634,638,000 bushels in 1946 when the corn averaged 57 bushels an acre.

Means More Meat

This huge corn yield opens the way to a sharp increase in production of meats, dairy products and poultry products.

The current short supply of livestock reflects last year's short corn crop.

Other crops in the record production class include flaxseed, soybeans, peanuts, rice pecans, and cranberries.,

The wheat yield was exceeded only in 1947. Nevertheless, there is enough of this grain to permit record exports of cereals this crop year.

Near Record

Other crops produced in near record volume this year include oats, sorghum grain, potatoes, dry beans, popcorn and citrus fruits.

Despite the record crop output, farmers will receive perhaps about 10 per cent less for this year's production than last year. This decline in income, estimated by the department, reflects a reduction in prices of many products during the harvest season.

Rivaling the record corn crop was a record production of vegetable oil seeds—soybeans, flaxseed, peanuts and cottonseed. This production will help meet a world shortage of food fats.

KILLED

As he was assisting at a funeral, undertaker David Sons was called from the services at Riceville to learn that his 14-month old daughter, Sue Ellen, had been accidentally strangled in her high chair.

ICE AND SNOW CAUSED WRECKS

ICE AND SNOW CAUSE OF SEVERAL MINOR WRECKS HERE

The slippery roads caused by ice and snow were the direct cause of several auto accidents here over the week end and Monday.

Sunday, at the intersection 2 miles north of Klemme at the Wm. Greiman school cars driven by Clarence Lemke and Mike Kurtz collided The Lemke car toppled into the ditch and Mrs. Lemke was slightly injured. Both cars were badly damaged.

Monday noon Elwood Geary was driving his car pass the new Henry Buseman home when it skidded on the rounded-up street and slid into a car owned by John Karr, who was plastering the Buseman house. Both cars were damaged.

Monday evening cars driven by Mervin Barkema and Don Christiance collided at the Main Street intersection at the drug store. Both cars were damaged

In all cases the accidents were caused by icy road conditions.

MRS. WILMA SWALVE ODEGAARD INJURED IN CRASH

Family On Way To Spend Christmas With Home Folks

Mrs. Erling Odegaard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Swalve of Clear Lake, formerly of Klemme, is in a Carroll, Iowa, hospital, being treated for a skull fracture.

Mr. and Mrs. Erling Odegaard and baby son, of Hastings, Nebraska, in company with another coach in the college, in whose car they were riding, were on their way to Clear Lake to spend the Christmas holidays at the John Swalve home, when their car skidded and crashed near Carroll. Mrs. Swalve received a skull fracture; Mr. Odegaard several cuts and bruises, but was released from the hospital. The baby and the other man in the party were not injured. The car was badly wrecked.

Mrs. John Swalve and son, Harold, left immediately after they had received the news of the wreck on Sunday. They brought the baby to Clear Lake.

SANTA CLAUS HAS TREATS + MOVIES

SANTA CLAUS IN KLEMME THIS THURSDAY P. M.

Santa Claus will be in Klemme this Thursday afternoon and is scheduled to arrive at the community Hall at 2:00 p. m. where he will meet all the boys and girls.

A Free Moving Picture show will be given at the Community Hall and Santa will have treats for all the boys and girls too.

All boys and girls in the Klemme trade territory are invited.

KLEMME STORES WILL CLOSE HERE SATURDAY

As Christmas falls on Saturday this year, the Klemme business places will be closed on Christmas Day.

However, in order to accommodate the trade the stores will be open this week on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Santa Claus Here Thursday

It will be a big day in Klemme this week Thursday afternoon when Santa Claus comes to town to give the kiddies free treats and a free movie at the Communtiy hall. There will also be the regular show in the evening. Make Klemme your shopping center this week. Our stores are well stocked with Christmas merchandise and you can find just what you want in the way of Gifts.

Shop in Klemme and save.

LYLE "BUDDY" WILCOX IS GRADUATE OF IOWA STATE COLLEGE

Lyle W. Wilcox, of Klemme, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, Minneapolis, Minnesota, was one of 300 graduates at the fall quarter commencement ceremonies today at Iowa State College.

Lyle was awarded the degree of bachelor of science in animal husbandry.

Dr. Charles E. Friley, president of Iowa State, addressed the graduates and conferred the degrees in exercises held at 10:30 a. m. in State Gymnasium.

The group was the largest ever to be graduated at the close of a fall quarter at Iowa State.

Lyle is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman of Klemme.

UP AND IN FOR THE SHAMROCKS

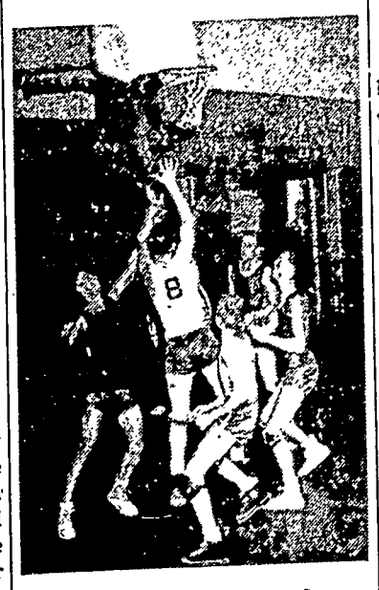

Photo by Dean Rasmus

The above picture taken by Dean Rasmus during the exciting Fertile - Shamrock game, shows "Red" Schmidt swishing one through for Klemme, but it was not enough to win for the Shamrocks. Brinkman in foreground is backing up the play ready to take the rebound in case of a miss.

Basic Skills Tests To Be Given In All Schools In January

All schools in Hancock County will make the Iowa Every Pupil Tests of Basic Skills on the same dates, January 18 a. m. and January 19 p. m. Those dates and plans of administering the tests have been approved by the County Schoolmaster's Club and it has the cooperation of its membership.

The pupils of the Hancock County school system grades 6, 7, 8 will write in five town centers, namely: Klemme, Kanawha, Britt, Garner, and Woden The pupils in grades 3, 4, 5 in the county system will write in their respective subdistrict schools

The results of the tests in grades 6, 7, 8 will be used by the County Board of Education in its reorganization of school districts surveys. This is a statewide testing project carried on in every county, by every school, in the state of Iowa this year.

This is the fifth year these tests have been given in the county system. The Hancock County school system was one of seventeen in the state taking the tests last year.

INDIANS DOWN SHAMROCKS

SHAMROCKS DROP DOUBLE HEADER TO FERTILE INDIANS

The Shamrocks met their equal here Friday evening in a game with the Fertile Indians that saw 36 fouls committed The Indians took advantage of "Red" Schmidt's absence from the game on account of fouls in the last quarter to bang in enough points to win 45-41 in closely contested game The game was tied 23-all at the half but the Indians pushed to a 31-29 lead as the last quarter started. Red Schmidt sent in 13 counters before he left the game to lead the Shamrocks scoring, while Elthon for furtile racked up 17 points to lead the Indian attack.

Rockettes Lose

In the opening game the Fertile H S. Girls had easy going to defeat the Shamrockettes 37-14. They had a 27-7 lead at halftime.

No more home games until after the holidays when Thornton comes on January 8th to do battle.

CAN REPORT CORN LOAN AS 1948 INCOME OR 1949 INCOME

Hancock County farmers who have taken government loans on their 1948 corn crop have a choice in reporting the income when making out their income tax, reports Paul Henderson, the County Extension Director.

He reports that many farmers have asked him about this problem. Information from Francis Kutish, Iowa State College extension agricultural economist, has cleared up the point.

Kutish says that a farmer can follow either of two plans. First, he can report the loan as income this year when the farmer receives the money. Then, when he sells the corn, he would report any additional income which might be received at that time.

Second, the farmers can regard the transaction as a loan, and report the income next year, when he delivers the crop.

However, Kutish points out that once a farmer starts reporting it one way, he must keep on reporting it that same way unless he gets permission to change from the Internal Revenue Departmnt.

ASA ARNOLD HEADS KLEMME CIVIC CLUB FOR COMING YEAR

HOLIDAY BRIDE-TO-BE

MARIE EVA NEDVED

Mr. and Mrs. John Nedved of Garner, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Marie Eva to Wayne C. Schoenwetter of Klemme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edd Schoenwetter of Garner. The wedding will take place at the St. Boniface Catholic Church at Garner, Tuesday morning, December 28th.

GREIMANS SHOT TWO FOXES THE PAST WEEK

Last week Junior, nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Greiman, shot a fox on his grandfather Wm. F. Greiman's farm southwest of Klemme. The fox was a cross between a silver fox and a red fox and the fur was very beautiful. Junior was hunting rabbits with a .410 shotgun when he shot at the fox, crippling it. He then ran back to the farm house and got a .22 with which he finished off Mr. Fox.

Sunday Wm. Greiman and son, Herb and Robert chased up another fox which they shot with a high powered rifle This fox was evidently a mate to to the one Junior had shot as it was also a cross between a sliver and a red fox. Both furs are being tanned.

Fox hunting is picking up and a number of hunters around the county have been getting foxes since the snow fall.

Birthday Dinner Held

Mr. and Mrs R. W. Elder entertained a number of relatives at a dinner Sunday in honor of Ellen Waddingham's 5th birthday on Monday,, and Ivan Katter's 4th birthday on Tuesday

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Elder and family of Ames; Ben Katter and Duane Katter and family of Garner; Cecil Katter and family and John Waddingham and family of Klemme.

In the afternoon C. E. Elder showed colored slides of Alaska where he had been on a trip, and pictures of Iowa State College and other Iowa place of interest.

Ell 4-H Girls Meet

Seven girls answered roll call with their favorite breakfast menu at their regular meeting Saturday, December 11 at the home of Marlys Marshall.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party. Iris Schaffer gave a talk on Courtesy and Shirley Bisom and Marlys Marshall demonstrated the making of, baking powder biscuits which were used as part of the refreshments.

The plans for the making of the 4-H uniforms was discussed and material distributed.

BUSINESSMENS' CLUB ELECTS '49 OFFICERS

At a meeting of the Klemme Civic Club held at the Community Hall Thursday evening, President A. H. Dulmes reviewed the activities and projects completed by the Civic Club the past year. Altogether, it was a very successful year for the Club. Reports of various committees were given.

Asa Arnold was elected President to succeed Dulmes; Martin Barz was named vice president to succeed Mike Lemke, and Ray Jorgenson, Jr. was named secretary to succeed Asa Arnold.

Christmas Lighting Excellent

The Christmas street lighting and decorations this year are far ahead of anything Klemme has ever had. Credit for this fine showing goes to C. G. Waterman, chairman of the committee and his group of helpers: Mike Lemke, Bert Jones and son, Bill, Harry Schuster and others and some 20 business places who sent their men to help with the work.

Mr. Waterman, in his report, stated that the equipment for lighting is permanent. A lot of new wire, lamps and material was purchased and permanent installations made for wiring in the lights each year. Besides the street lights, the Becker sisters donated a fine large tree which was set up and lighted on Jacobs' lot. Another tree for the Community hall was also on the project.

Mr. Waterman also brought out that nearly every business place in Klemme went all-out this year on special decorations and altogether, Klemme is proud of the lighting and decorations on Main Street. Residence owners have also come out for more lighting and decorating than usual, and Klemme really looks pretty at night.

Other projects which were successful the past year included assistance in housing and with building new homes; backing the soft ball and lighted field project of which Orville Stokesbary was in charge and who did a fine job all the way through. The Civic Club got behind the Farm-To-Market Road and paving project in Klemme. This is now in the construction stage. The Club sponsored movies in Klemme, and this entertainment is going over big and will no doubt be permanent. Other lesser projects will be on the program for the coming year.

It is the purpose of the Club to work for the betterment of Klemme and the surrounding community.

MASONS ELECTED OFFICERS AT GARNER BLUE LODGE

At the annual election held by Bethel Lodge at Garner, I. R. Beattie was elected Worshipful Master; Ray Love, Senior Warden and M. L. Harson of Klemme, Junior Warden. Other named were Frank Morrow, secretary; C. G. Waterman, Klemme, treasurer and Vern Pringle, trustee.

Rites At Dows

Military funeral services were held Thursday at Dows for Russell LaRue who lost his life at Okinawa. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom LaRue. The family were former residents of Goodell for several years, Mr. LaRue being foreman on the Rock Island railroad. They left Goodell 16 years ago.

Cross Town by Roland Coe

"AND B'LIEVE IT OR NOT, YESTERDAY HE COULDN'T PUSH A LAWN MOWER!"

Bobby Sox by Marty Links

"MOM! HEY, WOULD IT BE OKAY FOR ME TO STAY ALL NIGHT WITH ELLEN?"

NANCY — By Ernie Bushmiller

LITTLE REGGIE — By Margarita

DON'T FORGET YOUR APPOINTMENT AT 3 O'CLOCK — TO HAVE YOUR TOOTH PULLED.
I WON'T MOM
WHY THERE'S REGGIE STILL PLAYING — AND IT'S 4 O'CLOCK!
REGGIE — DID YOU GO TO THE DENTIST ?
DON'T HAVE TO MOM — I GOT THREE TEETH KNOCKED OUT ALREADY !

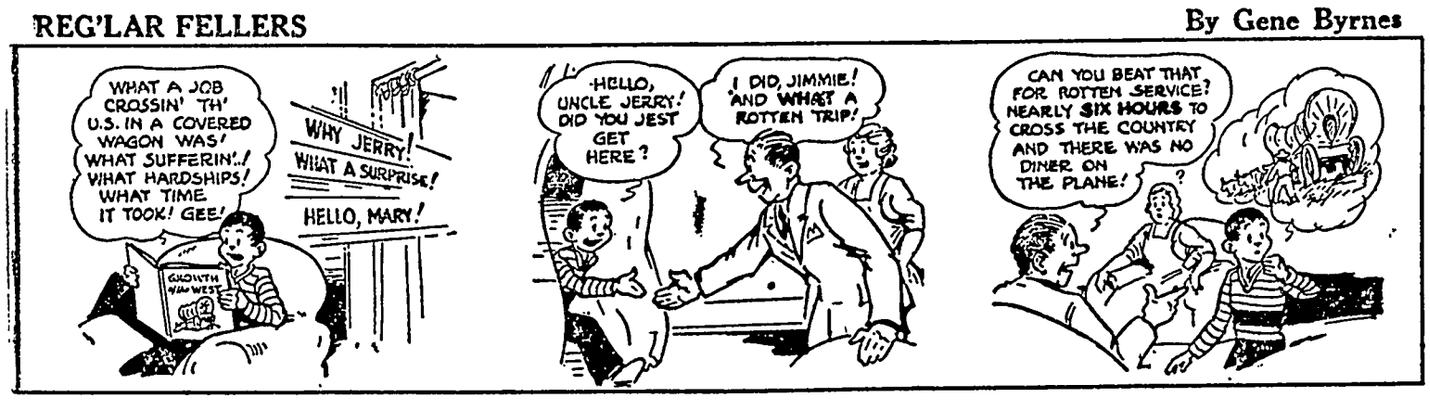
MUTT AND JEFF — By Bud Fisher

BONGO-BONGO BONGO - I ? DOAN WANNA LEAVE THE CONGO! OH NO NO NO NO NO!
AH-YES YES YES ! YES! I WILL SING! TRA LA LA LA LA
SINGER WANTED APPLY ONE FLIGHT UP
TWO LOVES HAS ME
OUCH! WITH A VOICE LIKE THAT THEY'LL TOSS THE LITTLE SAP OUT ON HIS EAR!
YESSIR, JEFF'S SINGING WILL REALLY BOOST THE SALES OF MY PRODUCT!
JEFF, DID THAT GUY REALLY HIRE YOU TO SING ON THE RADIO?
SURE! THAT'S MY SPONSOR
HE SELLS SOUNDPROOF EAR MUFFS!

JITTER — By Arthur Pointer

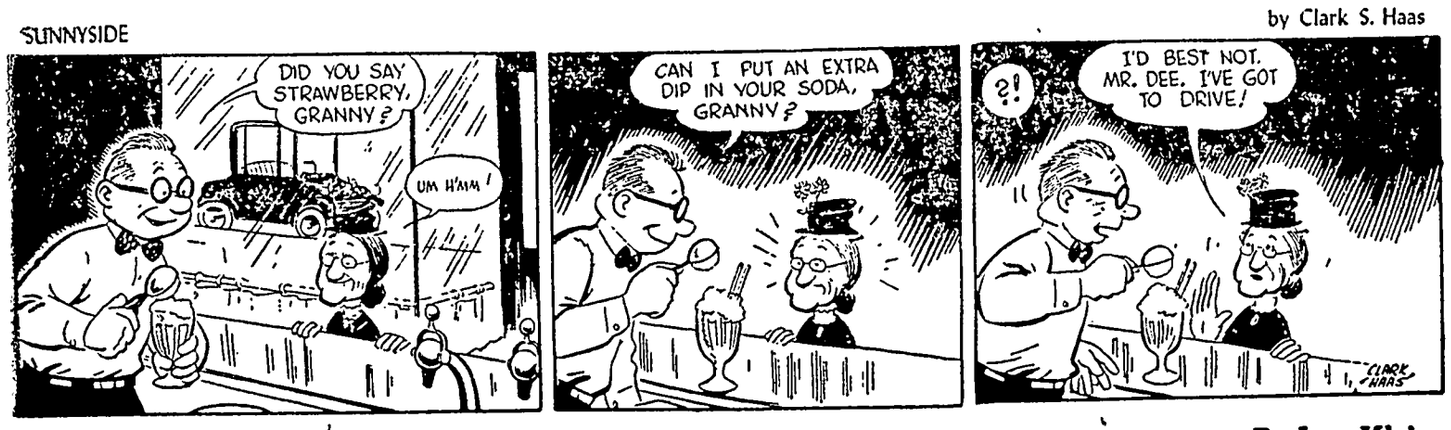
TRIXIE SAID YOU COULD BE TRUSTED TO DELIVER THESE CAKES SAFELY.... I HAVE MY DOUBTS!
I TRUSTED YOU AND THEN YOU ATE ALL BUT ONE.. .YOU'LL HAVE BREAD AND WATER FOR SUPPER!

REG'LAR FELLERS — By Gene Byrnes



WHAT A JOB CROSSIN' TH' U.S. IN A COVERED WAGON WAS! WHAT SUFFERIN'..! WHAT HARDSHIPS! WHAT TIME IT TOOK! GEE!
GROWTH OF THE WEST
WHY JERRY! WHAT A SURPRISE! HELLO, MARY!
HELLO, UNCLE JERRY! DID YOU JEST GET HERE?
I DID, JIMMIE! AND WHAT A ROTTEN TRIP!
CAN YOU BEAT THAT FOR ROTTEN SERVICE? NEARLY SIX HOURS TO CROSS THE COUNTRY AND THERE WAS NO DINER ON THE PLANE!

SUNNYSIDE — by Clark S. Haas



VIRGIL — By Len Kleis

NATIONAL BANK
DO YOU HAVE AN ACCOUNT HERE, SIR?
NO-I'VE NEVER HAD A BANK ACCOUNT MYSELF-BUT-
YOU'LL HAVE TO WAIT HERE! THIS SECTION IS RESERVED FOR OUR CUSTOMERS ONLY!

The Once Over by H. I. Phillips

A BABY DOES IT

Forget the war threats, the economic crisis, the Communist sweep in China, the predictions of a tough winter and the development of a midget-sized turkey! Everybody's happy. The world is smiling. Princess Liz's baby has arrived! Mother, child and publicity are doing well.

—•—

The world needed a baby. A V. I. P. baby, a baby that would glamorize and romanticize all babies, a Page One Infant in a day when the grown-ups as a whole are such bad advertising for any planet.

—•—

There is something about a baby that stirs the human heart, brings out the tenderest emotions and makes the whole world kin from jungle cave to palace penthouse. It probably makes even Vishinsky a little less denunciatory. It can even make the Republicans drop their hatred of poll-takers.

—•—

Millions of 'em are born daily, many just as lovely as the Princess's honey chile, but they get no press or radio. Their mothers are happy and their dads are proud, but it takes a baby like Liz's to make Old Man Earth strut around passing out the stogies.

—•—

It was easy to have misgivings about this royal infant. It was slated to come into a bitter, sour, groggy, scared and preoccupied world. It's debut was market for a period of fist shakings, violent speeches, marching armies and a million tough problems for man and beast. There was a time when the world was a pushover for any royal babe, but this time we wondered about it.

—•—

Then it happened and—socko! the first wail of the child put global trouble flat on their backs and made also-runs of all the great figures of the planet.

—•—

The doctor had no sooner given it the usual slap before London had Moscow, Berlin, Mukden, Israel and Washington in the minor leagues.

—•—

Guns boomed, bands played and people cheered in all parts of the British empire, and there were few countries that didn't throw a hat into the air and feel better about life in general. For once the question "Do you think there will be another war?" gave away to "Is it a boy or girl, and how's mom doing?"

—•—

Even Pravda had no derogatory comment. Henry Wallace didn't disapprove and may even claim some credit. Lots of Democrats declared it couldn't have happened if Truman hadn't won.

—•—

Sourpusses that haven't known a smile in years flashed a supergrin. Lovers and old married couples felt fine. Bus drivers stopped barking at passengers. Editors smiled. Printers and proof-readers seemed their happiest in years. Here and there somebody said "Please" and "Thank You." Strikes were deferred. Picket lines seemed less menacing. A tight board of corporation directors decided to declare an extra dividend. The dog wagged his tail more. The canary went juke-boxy.

—•—

Why? Because no matter how thick your hide is, you have a deep-rooted affection for story book kingdoms, princesses, palaces, pumpkin coaches, and all on top of your natural reaction to a newborn babe.

—•—

It could be that this is just what the world needed. It can warm it up, make it more human, take that sneer off its puss. It is hard to read about a baby and still want to punch anybody in the nose. This planet needs something around which to center a publicity that will dwarf unpleasant news. It has too many unblessed and not enough blessed events. Hooray for the royal youngster! It's just what the doctor ordered!

* * *

EPITAPHS FOR TOJO
Here Tojo sleeps
Flat on his back,
Too deep to make
A sneak attack!

* * *

It used to be thought difficult to find men ignorant and inexperienced enough to want to run the world, but it now requires no effort whatever

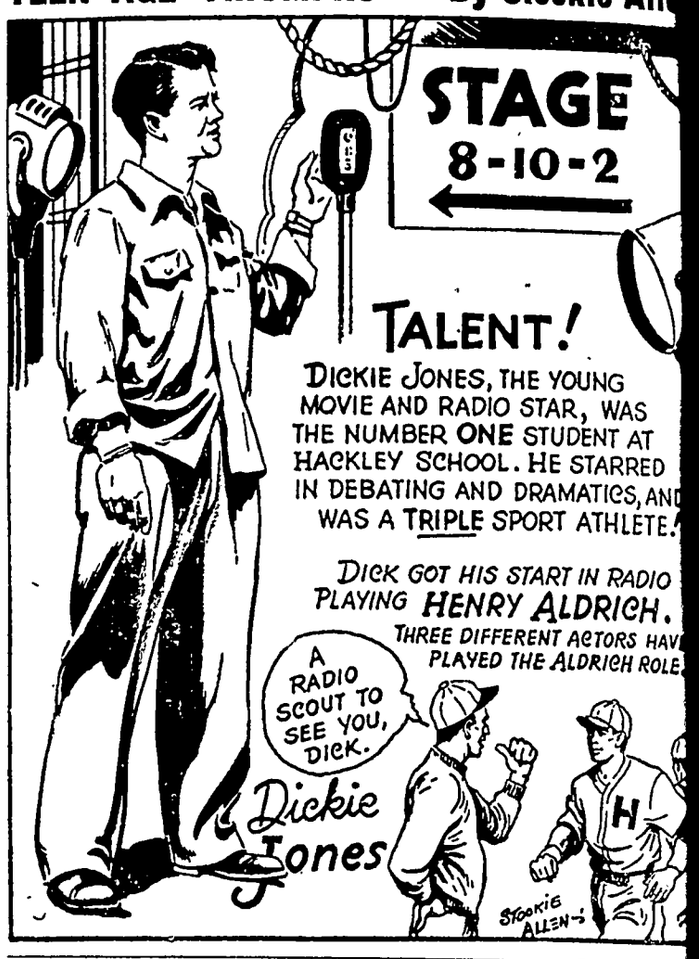
* * *

Would you call that row between Gypsy Rose Lee and that night club trouble in the Tease Zone?

* * *

Snowden Carter, a Baltimore newspaper handicapper picked eight straight winners the other day. A $2 parley would have won more than $3,000. Mr. Carter asked later if he had cleaned up said, "No, I lost $4 in actual bets." "See what I mean," moaned Shudda Haddim today. "It's them last minute switches."

TEEN-AGE TRIUMPHS — By Stookie Allen



STAGE 8-10-2
TALENT!
DICKIE JONES, THE YOUNG MOVIE AND RADIO STAR, WAS THE NUMBER ONE STUDENT AT HACKLEY SCHOOL. HE STARRED IN DEBATING AND DRAMATICS, AND WAS A TRIPLE SPORT ATHLETE.
DICK GOT HIS START IN RADIO PLAYING HENRY ALDRICH.
THREE DIFFERENT ACTORS HAVE PLAYED THE ALDRICH ROLE.
A RADIO SCOUT TO SEE YOU, DICK.
Dickie Jones
STOOKIE ALLEN

WHY WE SAY — by STAN J. COLLINS & L. J. SLAWSON

Cockfighting was usually limited to two roosters, but occasionally, especially when a king attended the performance, several birds were put into the ring so that the royal personage might enjoy a super show.

WHY WE SAY — by STAN J. COLLINS & L. J. SLAWSON

Today "gilt edged" is a term describing stocks or bonds which involve little risk. Originally, it referred to expensive letter paper with gilt edging, used by the wealthy.

KRNT RADIO THEATER
DES MOINES, IOWA.
3 BIG NITES—DEC. 27, 28, 29, 8:30 P. M.
SPECIAL MAT. WED., DEC. 29, 2:30 P. M.
IN PERSON!
OLSEN and JOHNSON
'And An All-New 1949 Version of HELLZAPOPPIN'
FOR BEST SEATS
MAIL YOUR ORDER NOW!
Enclose proper remittance and self-addressed stamped envelope. Please specify performance desired.
PRICES: Eves.—Main Floor $3.66, $2.05; Balcony $3.66, $2.44, $1.83. Wed. Mat.—Main Floor $3.05, $2.44; Balcony $3.05, $2.44, $1.83, $1.22. All prices include tax.
WINDOW SALE OPENS WED., DEC. 8 AT THEATER AND NEW UTICA
Give Tickets For Christmas!

THE FICTION CORNER

WALTER BUTTON'S IDEA

By JOHN SHARDA

Walter loved his wife but wished she did not neglect herself or herself so wholly to the art for which he knew she had no talent. He found a way at last to make her understand his feelings.

ALTER BUTTON put the last spoonful of plum pudding into mouth and swallowed slowly. er the edge of his plate he ed a generous tip and pushed chair back from the table. Care- y he put on his coat and hat sauntered to the cashier's coun- He paid his check and casually ted a good cigar from the wide rtment of boxes. After pausing ght it he strolled out of the aurant. Outside, he made his quickly to his battered, pre- coupe.

n the way home he reflected ut the meal he had just finished. ma, his wife, wouldn't approve such extravagance. But it had worth it. He hadn't known that could be so good. That steak been broiled until it was medi- well done, the way he liked it. snowy white mashed potatoes ed with a delicious, rich gravy ed even better than it had ed. And such service!

siness had kept him in town eral hours past his usual quit- time. He had phoned Emma ay that he would be late and ld grab a bite to eat on the way e. He knew how she hated to go ny trouble to fix him a snack never he had to work late at ffice.

turned his car into the drive led to his small, unpretentious e. As he locked the garage he ted a bright light upstairs in the oom. Walter shrugged his shoul- disgustedly. She's painting n," he said, half out loud. "Why n't she have a good hobby, like ing detective stories?" He was avid reader of such literature elf. Emma had taken up oil ting almost a year ago, much Walter's contempt. She consid- herself quite talented and doz- of hideous pictures were dis- ed throughout the house. More half of the bedroom had been erted into her "studio," as Em- fondly called it. Most of the it was cluttered with half fin- d paintings, easels, brushes and of paint.

alter entered the house and went airs. It would be best to let her immediately that he was e.

mma's harsh, unpleasant voice ed him before he was in the "Haven't got anything for to eat." She was busily daub- away at a canvas, her hair gled and her face smudged.

hat's all right, Emma," re- Walter. "I stopped in at the restaurant after work."

hat! The Regal restaurant!" Emma. "Walter Button, you good and well we can't af- such fancy places!"

was a very good meal, Em- answered Walter, his voice and low don't doubt it one little bit," nde said with as much sarcasm r tone as possible. "For the of prices they charge the food d be fit for a king." She turned to her work with a grimace. r stepped over a little closer could see what she was paint- He studied it intently for sev- seconds. Then his face lit up. 's a picture of a rainbow, isn't ainbow!" Emma shrieked. just shows how much you about art." Walter shifted his easily ell, what is it, if it's not a ow?" he cautiously inquired. s an abstract painting," said a, "though of course you n't understand that. It repre- a slice of bacon frying in a Walter looked at the picture and muttered something un- s breath. "What did you say?" Emma, suspiciously.

just said I think I'll go down- and read awhile," said Wal-wife sniffed contemptuously. e silly detective stories!"

er gave no indication that he her last statement. He went tairs and picked out a maga- rom the supply on his desk. a sigh of contentment he set- own in his comfortable, if old, s chair. This is the kind of ation a person should have, d himself. It was long past ght when he finally layed his reading and went to bed.

great idea came to Walter eakfast the next morning. He ome down ravenously hungry. omily, Walter looked at his The bacon was only half done. eggs, however, were fried so that they were crisp. The too, was burned and the or- juice had been poured into an hed glass that had contained he night before.

ere must be some way to get to improve her cooking," he ed. "And I wish she'd watch ooks more." Emma often d around the house with her nkempt and her face soiled household chores. She was etting stout. He vividly re- ered the few occasions when dared to criticize Emma's doing things.

enly he knew what he would would take quite a bit of trouble and effort on his part but it would be worth it if it worked. He managed to choke down the breakfast, and in a matter of minutes he was in his car, and on his way to the office.

Walter had found through long experience that the best time for him to think was when he was driving along by himself. Long before he reached a parking place his plan had taken form. He would have a talk with Emma A long, heart-to-heart talk. He would be tactful, but firm. He'd tell her that she must improve her cooking and her appearance—or else. (Just what "else" meant, Walter didn't quite know himself) But—and here's where the brilliance of his plan was evident—first he must prepare for the talk with Emma In the past, Emma had always countered with a long list of his faults whenever he mentioned one of hers. As a result, Walter got nowhere with his line of attack. "This time," he promised himself, "it's going to be different."

"I'll keep a list of all the poor meals she cooks And I'll mark down each time she forgets to do her hair or wash her face Then I'll have some concrete evidence to show her when I get ready. But before I start on this list, I'm going to concentrate on improving myself so she won't have any comeback." He was talking aloud to himself in the solitude of his car

She looked up and smiled. "What is it, Walter?"

The hours dragged by at the office at a pace which seemed much slower than usual Walter could hardly wait to get home and put his scheme into operation. At lunch time he hurried out and bought himself the new necktie that he had admired in a window display All afternoon his mind spun with excitement. He'd show Emma!

THE next two weeks were busy ones for Walter In fact, he was so busy that he almost forgot Emma's cooking and her appearance. Each morning he arose a full hour earlier than had been his custom so that he would have time to shave more carefully, comb his hair with great exactness and shine his shoes until they gleamed. During the day he practiced good posture, walking and sitting with his chest out, stomach in and back straight. Each day after work he would stop in at the "Y" for a brisk workout or swim. Color came back to his cheeks and there was a new spring in his step.

In the evenings he cut down the time he spent in reading detective stories. He made it a point to ask Emma if there was anything around the house that needed repairing. If there was, he fixed it quickly and efficiently. Before he retired for the night he laid out his clothing for the next day, selecting his apparel with unusual care. At the office he worked conscientiously and took pains to turn out more than was expected. His boss soon took notice of this and hinted that Walter could soon look forward to a "nice little raise "

One Sunday morning Walter woke up with the satisfying realization that he had, indeed, transformed himself into a "new man " He arose and dressed rapidly, but with care He displayed pardonable pride as he looked at himself in the mirror. Today would be the day He'd have that talk with Emma She'd have nothing to say. No excuses She wouldn't be able to find a thing wrong with him in return. He busied himself in the living room while Emma prepared breakfast. While he tidied his desk and bookcase, he thought of what he would say. When his wife called "Breakfast, Walter," he felt that his speech was all prepared. He politely pulled out her chair at the table. Then he sat down himself. I'll wait, he thought, until we're almost through with the meal.

It took Walter only a few mouthfuls to realize that this was quite a breakfast. Golden brown waffles, light and fluffy with plenty of maple syrup. The chilled orange juice was served in a sparkling clean glass. Delicious sausage patties were also on his plate And that toast! Done to a delicate brown. What sort of magic was this?

He glanced at Emma, then back at the tastefully prepared food and back to Emma again Her hair was gracefully arranged Her face was immaculately clean and just the right amount of make-up brought out the natural beauty that Walter had almost forgotten was there. She was wearing a neat housedress and she appeared decidedly slimmer

He finished breakfast in silence. He was wide eyed with amazement. Forgotten was his speech, his "heart-to-heart" talk.

After only one cup of coffee, he went hastily upstairs to the bedroom He must have time to think. What had caused this change in Emma? It must have been gradual.

He sat on the edge of the bed and stared at the walls Something was missing For an instant he couldn't figure it out. Then he knew. The paintings They were gone. And there was no trace of the brushes or the easel Not even a paint can. He couldn't stand it any longer. Down the stairs he raced. Emma was in the kitchen, washing dishes "Emma," he said "I must talk with you "

She looked up and smiled "What is it, Walter?"

He gulped and blurted out "I've got a confession to make Emma." And he told her The whole story. When he was done, his wife was silent for a long minute. Then she spoke

"Walter, dear, when you started to make yourself over a few weeks ago, I began to take stock of myself And I decided that there were many things that should be changed for the better It hasn't been easy but I've enjoyed every minute of it, especially when I realized you weren't noticing because you were so intent on yourself."

Walter groped for a chair and sat down heavily He was still in a pleasant state of bewilderment.

"Oh, Walter," said Emma, "one thing more. I've given up my hobby of oil painting I'd like to do some reading. Could you recommend a good detective story for me?"

There Still Are Mothers

WHATEVER else be lost along the way
There still are Christian mothers in all lands
Acknowledging a higher power than they:
These queens who have no scepter in their hands
And yet who reign upon a firmer throne
Than any that the earth has ever known.

Rulers of life itself, with love as pure
And true and selfless as the old earth knows,
Their trust in God unshakable and sure,
Their faith implanted in their children grows
Into a living, lifting, shining thing
That through life's stress can know no conquering.

There still are mothers who will ever hold
The old sweet ways of truth and righteousness .
Before their children's eyes, who long have told
Christ's teachings to their young to heal and bless:
Thank God for any mother, anywhere,
Who loves and serves, and finds her strength in prayer.

Grace Noll Crowell

Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

World's Best Golfer

IN THE midst of this weird, wild and woolly football upheaval, now reaching a magnificent anti-climax, the time seems to be ripe for a much quieter and much more sensible game known as golf.

Golf is played by a great many more people than football has ever known in any single year. It is a much sounder game for the average citizen. It is also a game that doesn't lend itself to as much bickering and vituperative conflict as football does.

Ben Hogan

Also it has a top man who stands far above any top man in football. His name is Ben Hogan, the 137-pound Texan who today is by all odds the greatest golfer in the world.

Hogan has proved his worth, not in a few games each autumn, but in many tournaments from the Pacific to the Atlantic and back, from the massive lakes of the North to the Gulf, month after month after month. He competes against the pick of the field—not nearly so many setups as football knows—in the main.

Why is Ben Hogan the world's best golfer? We discussed this matter with Al Ciuci, veteran golf pro, star instructor and one of the ablest students of the game.

"Let's take the fellow apart," Al said. "What makes a great golfer—first, a fine swing. Second, a smart head. Third, a stout heart on the competitive side. Fourth, ability to work for the top.

"Hogan has all these things. He has one of the finest swings in golf. He has one of the best heads golf has ever known, not even barring Walter Hagen, one of the smartest of them all You can ask Gene Sarazen and Bobby Jones what they think of his competitive ability or his willingness to outwork a horse.

"In my opinion, Ben Hogan combines more of the factors that make a great golfer than anyone I have ever seen play in the last 30 years—on back to Vardon through to Jones, Hagen and Sarazen. At 137 pounds, Ben isn't equipped physically as well as they were, but he has always been long enough—able to hit a 500-yard green with two shots."

This statement is completely true. No one can say that from 1920 to 1930 Hogan could have beaten Jones, Hagen and Sarazen. Certainly no one can say that Jones, Hagen and Sarazen could have handled Ben Hogan from 1944 through 1948.

In the matter of scoring, Hogan is well ahead of any rival. But perhaps conditions have changed.

The Last Move

"Hogan," Al Ciuci continued, "made his last and smartest move this past season. Through 1947, Ben had been bothered here and there with a hook. Not too much, but enough to get him into trouble at times. A hook can nearly always get you into more trouble than a slice. It travels farther.

"So this last season, Hogan decided to give away a few yards and play for a slight fade, rather than a hook. You can control a fade. No one can control a hook steadily. From that point on, Texas Ben became unbeatable. Now and then he would drop a tournament against a band of brilliant scorers. Someone would get unusually hot, or Ben would have a slight lapse in concentration or determination or timing.

"No one can keep at the peak physically, mentally and emotionally all the time. They'll tell you fooball teams can't even do this three times a season. But Hogan plays in 30 or more big tournaments.

"Hogan has marvelous use of his hands," Ciuci continued. "His left hand remains firm and strong all the way through the swing. The left hand controls the club head. But in Ben's case his right hand has one of the finest finishes I've ever seen in golf. It lashes out with terrific force, banking on the left hand and wrist to keep the club face where it belongs.

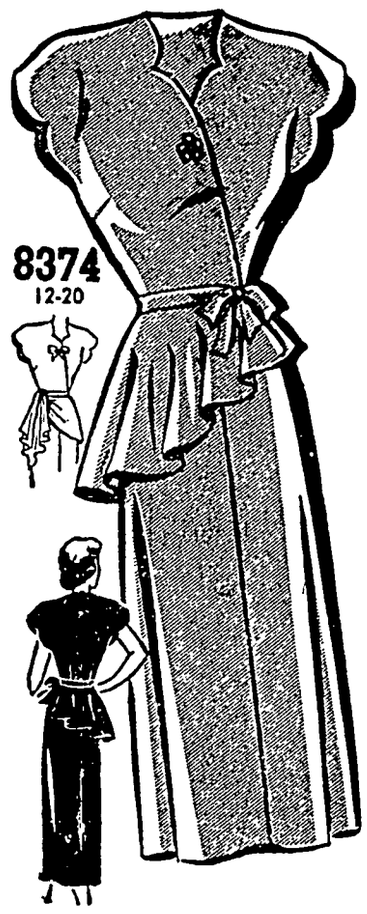
"Then watch Ben in putting. One of the biggest mistakes most putters make is letting the body or knees move through the action of the putt. Not Hogan. Ben locks his body and knees before his hands start the putter blade in motion.

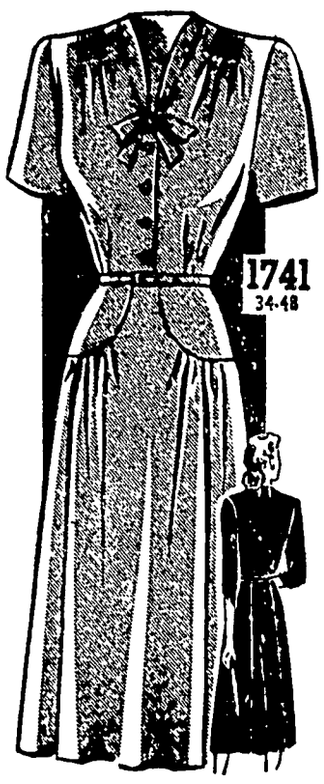
"He turns over the physical action of the putt to his hands. He has already decided on the correct line and the speed of the green. These two details are all set. So, for a final move, all he has to concentrate on is the smoothness of the swing, which is rarely hurried or turned into a jab or a stab.

"More golfers should follow this method—I mean deciding in advance what the right line is—the speed of the green—and then giving their entire concentration to the smoothness of the putting stroke."

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERNS

Basic Frock With Peplum Trio
Lovely Frock in Larger Sizes





Detachable Peplums

YOU'LL have a variety of smart costumes when you sew this charming basic frock. Three detachable peplums are provided—scalloped sleeves add a dress-up note.

• • •

Pattern No. 8374 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 Size 14, 3¼ yards of 36 or 39-inch, circular peplum, ⅞ yard, draped peplum ⅞ yard, pocket peplum, ½ yard

Afternoon Style

FOR the woman of slightly larger figure, a flattering afternoon style with softness at shoulder and hipline. Sleeves can be the regular short length, or three-quarter. Add a self bow at the neckline.

• • •

Pattern No. 1741 is for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, short sleeve, 3⅝ yards of 35 or 39-inch.

Send for your copy of the Fall and Winter FASHION—60 pages of style, color, easy-to-make frocks for all the family Free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.
Pattern No._____ Size_____
Name_____
Address_____

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION· Is there any remedy for crumbly brick?

ANSWER A partial remedy is to give the bricks two coats of a cement base paint, to be bought from a dealer in mason supplies. This is a powder to mix with water. This will protect the surface of the brick only; it will not harden them throughout. Very poor bricks should be replaced with a harder burned variety.

QUESTION: I intend to put in a new cement walk in the gangway, and need to know the amount of sand, gravel and cement that I will need.

ANSWER: There is much more to be said about laying a sidewalk than the proper mixture of cement, etc. For complete information on laying concrete walks as well as proportions and amount of necessary material, ask the Portland Cement association, 33 West Grand avenue, Chicago, to send you a copy of their booklet on this subject.

QUESTION: We had planned to use a creosote stain on a white cedar rustic fence, but understand that this would be injurious to the adjacent shrubbery. What type of paint would you recommend?

ANSWER: As the cedar is resistant to deterioration, it will hardly be necessary to apply any kind of finish unless you have a special reason for doing so. A liquid wood preservative that can be brushed on could be used instead of the creosote, or else a good spar varnish.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It is so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial irritations.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough medicine, very effective and quick-acting, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Pinex Saves You Money!

Swaps Cathartics For Real Relief

"I loathed taking cathartics. Now I don't use them any more, for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every morning keeps me well regulated."—John Vargis, Detroit, Mich.

If your diet lacks bulk for normal elimination, this delicious cereal will supply it. Eat an ounce every day in milk—and drink plenty of water. If not satisfied after 10 days, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

● Rub in Ben-Gay for gently warming, soothing, speedy relief from cold discomfort! Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times more of those famous pain-relieving ingredients known to every doctor—methyl salicylate and menthol—than five other widely offered rub-ins. Insist on genuine Ben-Gay, the original Baume Analgésique. It acts fast!

Also for Pain due to RHEUMATISM, MUSCLE ACHE, and STRAINS. Ask for Mild Ben-Gay for Children.

CAMELS? THANKS! DID YOU MAKE THE CAMEL 30-DAY MILDNESS TEST, TOO?
I'VE SMOKED CAMELS FOR YEARS! I KNOW THEY'RE MILD— AND HOW GOOD THEY TASTE!
PROVE
CAMEL MILDNESS
FOR YOURSELF!
CAMEL

● Smoke Camels for 30 days—and see for yourself how mild a cigarette can be!

In a recent national test, hundreds of men and women smoked Camels exclusively for 30 days. The throats of these smokers were examined each week by noted throat specialists who reported

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

Keep Posted on Values by Reading the Ads

TYPEWRITERS — REPAIRED and cleaned. All work guaranteed. Leave at Times Office.

For Quick Truck Delivery On

D.X PRODUCTS

Phone 149-R2

ERNEST

HENSCHEN

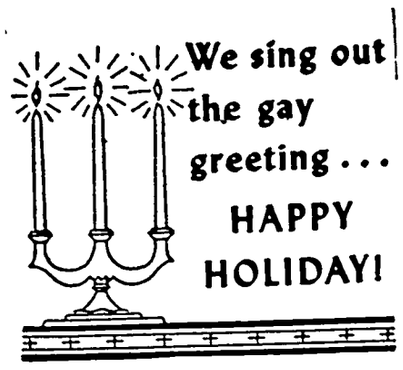
Klemme, Iowa

SATURDAY CLUB HELD ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Saturday Bridge Club held their annual Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Sumner Trumbell Friday afternoon.

Contract bridge was played at two tables and Mrs. Geo. Lawhorn, who was a guest, won the high prize and Mrs. Kenneth Medin, second high.

After the games a nice lunch was served and the ladies exchanged gifts.



We sing out the gay greeting . . . HAPPY HOLIDAY!

Stub's Surge Service

Surge Milkers and Service

Sell Better Cattle Late, Poorer Grades Sooner

Head plain cattle for spring markets and good to choice cattle for summer and early fall markets is the advice of Rex Beresford, extension animal husbandman at the Iowa State College.

Beresford points out that normal seasonal trends in prices show that plain spring cattle bring most money on the spring markets and that the better grades of cattle bring most money on later markets. He says that next spring and summer will be no different based on the way cattle were bought this fall and on feeders' plans.

Prices of plain cattle will be high in the spring because of the short supply of that type of cattle then. They are plentiful later in the summer when grass-fed cattle begin showing on the market.

On the other hand, the market is crowded with the better grades of grain-fed cattle in the spring. Later in the summer good to choice cattle will be scarcer and will bring a better price, Beresford says.

Market trends show that in the past 10 years the spread in the market between plain cattle and good to choice cattle is narrow in the spring. In other words, buyers don't offer as large a premium for quality in the spring as they do later in the early fall.

"Amazing New Treatment for Epilepsy"— Paradione, a new drug, offers new hope to the suffers of the petit mal form of epilepsy. Over one-third of those treated with Paradione in a Boston clinic were freed of their symptoms, and doctors agree that Paradione promises to revolutionize science's attack on epilepsy. Read this interesting story in The American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with the CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN.

Have you paid your subscription?

Find Runaway After 58 Years' Absence

LANCASTER, PA.—A 76-year-old man who ran away from his Newark, N J., home 58 years ago and was given up for dead has been found in the Lancaster county home for aged.

A volunteer worker in the home was given credit for solving the disappearance of Samuel Gleitzman.

Five years ago a man who gave his name as Samuel Gleitz came to the home with a broken leg. He said he had no home and no relatives He has lived here since then.

Mrs. Abe Levitt became interested in Gleitz. After hours of conversation she learned he ran away from home because he was tired of his father's strict discipline.

Mrs. Levitt's friend, Mrs. J. M. Booth, was going to Newark and offered to search for Gleitz's relatives. There were no listings under that name in the Newark phone book.

On a hunch, Mrs. Booth looked at the Gleitzman listings and selected at random the number of Harold A. Gleitzman.

Gleitzman remembered his long-lost uncle.

Back in Lancaster, Gleitz was reluctant to talk about himself, but admitted to Mrs. Levitt that he had changed his name and that Harold Gleitzman is his nephew.

The aged man chuckled when he recalled that for more than two years after leaving home, he worked in a small hat shop "only a few blocks from my home."

"The police were looking for me, but they didn't find me," he told Mrs. Levitt.

Woman Recovers Her Money From Dump After Hour Search

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Mrs. P. C. Smith was ready to believe in miracles after garbage collectors hauled off $800 she had placed temporarily in a trash box in the Smith grocery store.

Forgetting the money, she helped garbage collectors haul the box out of the store.

An hour later she remembered, and her husband dashed after the garbage truck. He enlisted five workers to help him at the city dump and after an hour's search, the money turned up. Smith took home the $800 minus the $5 bills he gave to each helper.

Field Mouse Control

Field mice do untold damage each year to cucumber, cantaloupe, and watermelon fields by destroying the seed which have been planted and also by damaging the plants after they are up and bearing. The damage is done by meadow and pine mice.

The meadow mouse destroys the seed after they have been planted while the pine mouse burrows into the ground, following ground mole tracks, and cuts off the plants at the ground. The destruction of plants is usually done when they have fruit varying from the early stage to fruit about ready to be harvested. The mice produce rapidly and it is estimated that from one pair a million mice are produced in one year. Two poison baits have given very satisfactory control for a number of years. One of these is strychnine-treated rolled oats. Another bait, which can be prepared at home, is made by using one-fourth ounce strychnine sulfate, one pine syrup, and one pint water. The mixture is brought to a boil and allowed to cool after which two or three saccharine tablets are added. The poisoned syrup is used on old melon, cucumber, or cantaloupe seed, grain, chicken feed, peanuts, or small cubes of cheese. The above mixture makes a sufficient amount of poison syrup to treat six or eight quarts of bait, depending upon the kind of bait used.

Pipe-Smoking, Old Custom

Use of the pipe in America is of unknown duration. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, the most ancient American pipes are found in the Indian "pipe mounds," in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa. Many highly decorative pipes are found in the Mississippi valley and in Mexico, indicating that pipe-smoking was prevalent in the pre-Columbian era. In Great Britain and Ireland, small clay pipes are often dug up. These are frequently associated with Roman relics. However, there seems to be no reason to believe that these pipes date back beyond the 17th century for it is thought that the first Indian pipe to arrive in Europe was presented to Sir Walter Raleigh in 1586 by Ralph Lane, first governor of Virginia.

Making Maple Syrup

About six runs of sap are considered a good season for maple syrup producers. If the sap is of average sweetness, around 2 per cent, it takes about 45 quarts to make one quart of syrup. Because of high labor costs, farmers have been developing gadgets and devices to cut down expenses. Some have devised home-made power-tapping machines or have purchased commercial makes; others are using pipe lines to take sap downhill instead of using team or tractor; and there are new methods of filtering that speed the work. Two hours is the ceiling for efficient production of a gallon of syrup. Last year the average time spent by producers who kept records was one hour and 26 minutes.

JOLLY WORKERS CLUB MET

The Jolly Workers club met at the home of Lily Pearson on December 17th for their annual Christmas party. Everyone furnishes something for the dinner and with Mildred Gruis leading with the Lord's Prayer. We all joined in saying it before we ate our dinner.

Each one of us read a story of how different countries observe Christmas Day. Mrs. Pearson furnished some games for entertainment and several of the ladies won prizes.

Nineteen members were present for the party and Norma Albers was a visitor. We voted to send a dollar to the Christmas Cheer Fund. Norma Albers joined our club for the new year and Louise Waddingham withdrew her name as it is hard for her to get to the meetings.

We also drew names for our new "Mystery Friend." We found out who our Mystery Friend was for the past year by opening our Christmas presents

The January meeting will be at the home of Dorothy Helps on Jan. 12th, with Irene Waddingham as co-hostess.

BUREAU SEEK NEW MEMBERS

The Hancock County Farm Bureau is planning its annual membership kickoff meeting for January 10, accordiny to announcement by Jack Dethmers, President.

A quota of 1,636 members has been set and the membership campaign will be conducted under the direction of Paul Shurts, newly appointed organization director.

Team captains and townships leaders have been appointed and briefed on the forthcoming campaign. The Hancock County Farm Bureau voted to increase dues of members from $10 to $15 at the annual meeting held recently.

GOOD CROP

At Humbolt, Merlin Tinken, 22, has raised 10,000 bushels of corn on 146 acres of land which he rented last spring from his father

TOUGH YOUNGSTER

John McMorris, Jr., of Van Vert is four years old. Last week he fell into the path of a tractor driven by his mother and it passed squarely over his middle. A thorough examination by a doctor revealed no injuries. John wants to be in a circus when he grows up and appears to be well qualified.

New "Farmer's 1948 Income Tax" Circular At County Extension Office

The new "Farmer's 1948 Income Tax" Circular has arrived at the county extension office, Paul Henderson, county extension director, reports this week.

The circular was prepared by the North Central Farm Management Committee representing Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, and Wisconsion. The circular is designed to aid farmers in filling out their income tax reports.

Only a limited number are available for distribution, Henderson said.

Worker Resigns

Mrs. Evelyn Elefson, Hancock county welfare employe, has resigned her position and will move to Charles City January 1 to accept other employment. Hancock county courthouse employees honored her with a farewell party last Wednesday evening and presented her a gift.

FUR-TRIMMED CLOTHING REQUIRES SPECIAL CAR

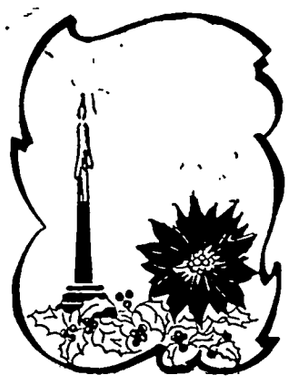
Popular as fur-trimmed coa are these days, it pays to kno that the fur detail needs speci care to stay good looking.

The ordinary dry cleanin process for fabric takes the o out of fur and makes it stif says Frances Friedell, clothin specialist at Iowa State Colleg

If the fur trim is detachabl be sure to remove it before th garment goes to the dry cleane A zipped-in fur lining shoul also be removed at home.

The fur detail may not com off easily. In that case. it's good idea to take the garmen to the furrier . Have him take apart for separate cleaning fo fabric and fur. It might pay have tthe fur trim made mor easily removable at this time

Good quality fur outlast fab ric if it gets proper care, Mr Friedell points out. It may b restyled and used again whe the coat is out-worn Thu special care at dry cleaning well worth while.



May we extend Our Best Wishes To You and You MERRY CHRISTMAS

GET TO KNOW

GILDNER - PAULSON

Clothing and Shoes — Garner, Iowa

Pre-Inventory Sale

TUESDAY, DEC. 28th

Through

Friday, December 31st

Values For Which You Have Been Waiting

PRE-WAR PRICES!
Post War Merchandise!

At

Pease The Clothier

CLEAR LAKE, IOWA

Our store will be closed all day Monday, December 27th and will open at 9 A. M. Tuesday, December 28th.

Christmas SALE

WEDNESDAY
THURSDAY
FRIDAY

Dec. 22, 23, 24

20% OFF

ON ALL

Trucks and Cars
Guns - Dolls
Dishes - Toys
Icicles - Snow
Angel Hair
Outdoor Lights

FREE TREATS TO ALL

FRIDAY
DECEMBER 24

In appreciation of your trade and good will of the past year we will give FREE ice cream cones to all the Kiddies and also have a treat for the grown-ups.

COME IN FRIDAY FOR YOUR

FREE TREAT

CLOSED CHRISTMAS DAY

In order that we too may enjoy Christmas . . . our store will be closed all day CHRISTMAS, December 25th.

The Corner Store

Glen Terhufen, Proprietor — Klemme, Iowa

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS
Osteopathis Physician
Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

GOOD PRICE

In Mahaska County, a 184 acre farm belonging to the estate of Josephine Ruby sold at public auction for $52,000, or $282.60 per acre. Orville Montgomery, of near Oskaloosa, was the purchaser.

GHOST

Rumors of "ghost squirrels" in the cemetary at Waukon were partially verified last week, when Harold Smith caught one of the critters; a white-bodied, redtailed squirrel.

Message from St. Nick 1948

Wishing you the merriest Christmas possible.

That means you, you... and you!

Roths Cafe

TOM LEODA
JUNIOR BOB

a Merry Yuletide to All

FOR THE - - - -

Last Minute Shopper

WHY WORRY WHEN YOU CAN FIND NICE GIFTS AT MARIE'S?

For the "last minute shopper" we can help you with a suitable gift from our shop:

IDEAL "LAST MINUTE" GIFTS

Combs
Bath Salts
Perfume Sets
Gift Soap
Bath Powder
Lotions
Nail Polish
Lipstick
Toilet Water
Cologne
Newest Compacts
Bubble Bath
Baby Soap
Bath Mitts
Hand Creams

We have nice shaving sets and cologne for men.

SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK ONLY

Fancy Boxed "Tangee" Rouge, Powder, Lipstick 50 cents

$1.50 value Gold and Assorted Compacts $1.00

50c Pan-American Body Powder at ----- 39c

$2.50 val. Zipper Case with Comb, Hair Brush, and Clothes Brush $1.95

EVERYTHING IN COSMETICS

Marie's Beauty Shop

Marie Blank, Proprietor Klemme, Iowa

'Food Thief' Lurks In Bean Family

LINCOLN, NEB.—A new kind of "food thief" has been found lurking in soybeans, lima beans, black eye peas, garden beans and peanuts.

This thief is a natural part of the raw bean. It can prevent the living body from properly using proteins, the foodstuffs essential for health.

It does this by interfering with a chemical, the enzyme trypsin, which splits up proteins so that the body can use them.

Fortunately, this food thief is killed by cooking or heating. But its discovery, in so many different common foods, poses a new problem for nutritionists.

It points to possible drawbacks if humans eat these things raw or if they are fed in uncooked form to animals

Some time ago scientists noticed that soybeans were better as food if they were cooked or toasted a bit. Animals eating the cooked beans grew better than those eating uncooked soybean meal. Some substance in the uncooked bean was responsible

At the University of Nebraska agricultural experiment station, R. M. Sandstedt and Weldell E. Ham showed that this something was a chemical that prevented trypsin from breaking up proteins efficiently.

The chemical thief could be extracted from the soybeans, they showed When it was added to animal foods, it slowed down the growth of rats chickens and turkeys

Cut-Rate Sale of One Dollar Bills Attracts Few Customers

BLUEFIELD, W VA. — One-dollar bills don't sell very well here—even for 89 cents.

By way of advertising for his new store Olin Austin offered to sell each adult customer two $1 bills for 89 cents apiece.

But most people thought there was some catch to it and business has been pretty slow," Austin reported

Some hard-to-please customers have even grumbled that 89 cents is more than a dollar is worth anyhow

Son Tries To Evict Mother With Noise Making Bull

OTTAWA, ILL — The appellate court says farmer Henry Factly, jr, must not try to evict his aged mother, Rosa, from his home by using a noise making bull, an electric fence and other devices designed to annoy her

The decision said that Factly:

Tied a bull to a tree near the house and "provided the bull a plaything which caused his mother many sleepless nights He tied a milk can to the tree leaving it suspended in the air, and placed in it some rocks so that when the bull butted the can, terrific noises would result."

Placed an electric fence across the driveway, "so that his unsuspecting mother might receive a sudden shock"

Caused the water supply to be shut off.

Chased the chickens from the chicken house and placed iron pipes in the weeds near by, "so that his mother would stumble and fall over them."

According to testimony, Henry Factly, sr, and his wife, Rosa, deeded the 94 acre farm to their son in 1936, and he signed an agreement that they could live in the farmhouse all their lives. The father died in 1941. Henry, jr., farms the property but his mother and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fillmore, reside in the house

Scientists Develop Possible Antidote for Radioactivity

VENTURA, CALIF.—A new substance called rootin, believed to be an antidote for radioactivity from atom bombs, has been developed by California Polytechnic college scientists, it was disclosed.

Von T Ellsworth, legislative director of the California Farm Bureau federation, told a farm bureau district convention about rootin.

He indicated an official announcement of the new substance would be made soon Ellsworth said the rootin had been developed at California Polytechnic under an appropriation supported by the state farm bureau.

U. S. Will Try to Stimulate Crops With Atom By-Products

WASHINGTON.—The government has set out to find out whether the radioactive by-products of atomic-bomb production really will stimulate farm crops.

The research will be conducted by the Agriculture department under a grant from the atomic energy commission.

Radio-isotopes from the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic-energy plant will be used in varying intensities in fertilizers applied to growing plants.

As of now, atomic scientists doubt that nuclear radiation is capable of stimulating plant growth to anything like the extent suggested in unconfirmed reports which have appeared in print from time to time.

SHAMROCK NEWS

Editor ---------- Iris Rosendahl
Asst Ed. ------- Donna Fjetland
Hi School Rep. -------- Maurice Trumbell
Grade Rep. ---- Isabelle Gibbs
Sports ---------- Robert Baack

STUDENT COUNCIL BUYS CHEER LEADERS NEW UNIFORMS

Next Friday night at the Fertile game, the four cheer leaders of Klemme High will be wearing their new uniforms for the first time. The Student Council furnished the money for the material and the cheer leaders made their own uniforms. Congratulations are to be extended to the cheer leaders and the student council.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Student Council is sponsoring an all high school Christmas Party Wednesday evening, December 22. The party will be financed by the student council. It will consist of a full length movie and comedy, dancing and refreshments. Gift exchange between students and teachers will also be Wednesday evening.

INQUIRING REPORTER

What Are You Going To Do During Christmas Vacation?

Bill Back—I'm going to work
Mr. Andreae—Take things easy.
Luverne Schmidt—Shoot bunnies.
Sondra Bridges—Going visiting.
Doris Gruis—Do some loafing and do some work.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Our brunette, green eyed Marjorie Lau is our interesting subject for this week She has no favorite subject but likes to cook. Perhaps that will come in handy in later life. Marge, which is her nickname, has only one ambition and that is to become a nurse We all think that would be quite a good one at that. Her birthday is May 17, and she is 16 years old Angel food cake is her favorite food since she likes to cook she is probably quite good at baking them Marge's favorite pastime is roller skating and her only trouble is that she doesn't get to go skating quite as often as she would like to She says "Buttons and Bows" is her favorite song (why is that Marge?)

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADE NEWS

In Art, we have been making Christmas pictures. Margaret Boland and Richard Baack drew a large picture on the blackboard with colored chalk. This was of interest to the entire room. We have our room and Christmas tree decorated.

In Science, the eighth grade have been studying about beans and their different parts. We have some beans planted in a glass jar so we can watch them grow. This helps us to understand what we have read.

The dummies this time were LuVern Heginger, Roger Terhufen, Ronald Karsjens, Mary Ter Hark, Richard Baack. The ones who do not act the way they should in the class room are called dummies.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADE NEWS

The following fifth and sixth grade students received A's in Spelling this last week:

Bob Arnold
Dennis Haefner
Margaret Haefner
Lois Heginger
Marlys Marshall
Ione Rosendahl
Warren Terhufen
David Waddingham
Beverly DeMerritt
Graydon Barz
Lois Boland
Dick Dulmes
Cecil Jacobs
Faye Janssen
JoAnn Lemke
Carol Ann Montgomery
Alan Neuberger
Donald Theiman
Sharon Reed

The sixth grade have completed a unit on animals near us. They have made attractive book covers to keep notes on the different animals.

Both the fifth and sixth grade are spending this week on extra work in Arithmetic. Seems we all need work in multiplication and division.

Have you paid your subscription?

DOLLAR-LOSING CATTLE GRUB EASY TO CONTROL

Cattle grubs cost Iowa farmers as much as $1.00 per pound of beef they market at this time of year, according to Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College. He points out that the packer knows from experience that his loss from buying grubby cattle will be at least equal, and in some cases greater, than this amount, and so offers less for cattle during winter months.

Losses come from holes punched in the hide, grubby meat trimmed from the carcass, and loss of the use of gullets for sausage casings because of grub punctures.

Estimates made by Iowa packers in 1942 indicated an annual loss due to grubs of 8 million dollars. That estimate was based on beef selling at 17 cents a pound Gunderson estimates that at present prices, the grub loss is 12 to 16 million dollars annually.

This loss is a preventable waste, Gunderson says. Grubs can be easily controlled with rotenone sprays or dusts. Both are effective.

If the farmer has his own spraying rig, he recommends a mixture of 7½ pounds of five percent rotenone powder mixed in 100 gallons of water. Add 10 to 12 ounces of a wetting agent such as Vel, Dreft or Swerl to the spray for best results. Apply the spray to the grubby portions of the animal at pressures ranging from 75 to 200 pounds.

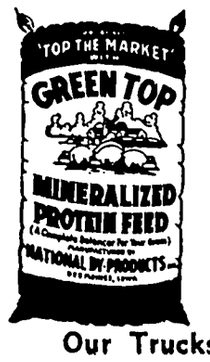
If dust is used; Gunderson recommends a 1 to 1.67 percent rotenone dust rubbed into the backs of the cattle.

At least two treatments 30 days apart are usually necessary to control grubs, according to Gunderson. He also points out that cattle show no ill effect from being sprayed in cold weather.

DUCK

Marlin Hinrichs of Rockwell City is drinking bitter tea these days. All during the duck hunting season, he failed to bag a single one and was twitted right merrily by his wife. The other morning as Mrs. Hinrich was out walking, she had to dodge to avoid a flying duck. The duck landed a few feet away. Mrs. Hinrichs caught it and presented it to her husband.

DEAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED



Britt Rendering Company
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22

WE PAY PHONE CHARGES
KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000

Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load

TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

1948 BEST WISHES FOR Christmas

Cheerily we add our voice to the many happy ones raised in the wish... MERRY CHRISTMAS!

NORTHERN LUMBER COMPANY
FARM IMPLEMENTS
Phone 49 Klemme, Iowa

Breezes are bursting with gaiety during this season and we're mighty glad to be a part of it all. We hope that this Christmas for you is your happiest ever.

The Klemme Times

BILL
RAY Jr.
WOODY
JUANITA
MARY JANE
"JERGIE"

NOTICE OF THE APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

STATE OF IOWA, ss. No. 3202
HANCOCK COUNTY,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the estate of LeRoy W. Bachman Deceased, late of Hancock County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance, and file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court.

TILLIE BACHMAN
Administratrix
SENNEFF & BUCK
Attorneys

Dated December 2, 1948.
RUTH HUGHES,
Clerk District Court

(Pub. Dec. 8-15-22, 1948)

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office Over Federated Store
Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

AUCTIONEER
- FARM SALES
- HOUSEHOLD GOODS
- STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
SWALVE
Klemme - Iowa

SHE WOULD LIKE A - - -
UNIVERSAL CLEANER

The Nation's most amazing Cleaner buy. All the modern features at a new low price! The conventional model sells for:

$49.95

or you can get the new tank-type model—complete with 13 De Luxe Attachments for only:

$69.95

Give her a lasting Gift that she will enjoy 365 days a year!

BEAUTIFUL HASSOCK CHEST
—At Half Price—

With the purchase of Universal tank type cleaner you can get a beautiful Hassock which doubles as a storage for your cleaner as well as a beautiful piece of leather covered furniture at HALF PRICE.

JOSTEN
Appliance
Klemme Iowa

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

Wednes, Thurs.
DECEMBER 22, 23
LOVE MADNESS!
SO EVIL MY LOVE
RAY MILLAND
ANN TODD
Geraldine Fitzgerald

Saturday
DECEMBER 25
ONE DAY ONLY
(Matinee and Night
LORETTA YOUNG
JOSEPH COTTEN
ETHEL BARRYMORE
In
THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER
A Gal Who Really Goes To Town

Sun., Mon., Tues.
DECEMBER 26, 27, 28
Frontier Adventure
RACHEL AND THE STRANGER
LORETTA YOUNG
ROBERT MITCHUM
WILLIAM HOLDEN

Wednes. - Thurs.
DECEMBER 29, 30
SHIRLEY TEMPLE
FRANCHOT TONE
GUY MADISON
In
HONEYMOON

HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

3RD ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
December 2, 1948

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with George Th. Gerdes, J. A. Chambers and F. J. Schoun present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

WHEREAS Mrs. Lilly Almy has applied to the Hancock County, Iowa Board of Supervisors for financial aid her cause having been fully investigated and she having been found to be worthy of such aid.

BE AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors in and for Hanncock County, Iowa that effective December 1st, 1948, Mrs. Lilly Almy be allowed $15.00 per month cash allowance.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Gerdes who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Schoun, whereupon the chairman J. A. Chambers placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is George Th. Gerdes, F. J. Schoun and J. A. Chambers, Aye, Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

BE IT RESOLVED THAT THE CLAIMS hereinafter set out be allowed in amounts designated thereon and the County Auditor be and he is hereby authorized and ordered to draw warrants on the several funds of Hancock County, Iowa in payment of such claims in amounts set opposite each claim

Yohn Motor Freight, freight	1.43
M. L. Swaney-Acting Postmaster, Pstg-Cthouse	85.65
L. M. Brower, Sher exp.	93.50
Roy L. McMillin, Exp. Sch. Instr	7.25
Bernita Conway, wk. Auto Dept.	32.13
N W. Bell Tele. Co., tele. Serv., Cthouse	101.29
John Carothers, Fre., Court house	3.04
Roy L. McMillin Co. Treas. Nov. Bounty	36.60
New York Casuality Co. Treas. Bond	370.00
J. A. Chambers, sess-comm	168 50
J A. Chambers, sess-comm. ml	71 60
J. A. Chambers, tele tolls	10.66
F J. Schoun, sess-comm	171.40
F. J. Schoun, sess-comm-ml	76.40
F J Schoun, Tele-Tolls	12.92
Geo. Th Gerdes, sess-comm	141 80
Geo Th Gerdes, sess-comm ml	63 90
Geo. Th Gerdes, tele-tolls	14 19
Harriet Oxley, nurse-exp.	40.00
Jim Cooper, dep. sher exp.	17 60
Garner Motor Sales Co. wrecker serv Sher	5.00
Grill Cafe, meals prisoners	.78
Maynard Schoneman, Del. Ballots and Sup. G.	26.60
Maxane I Panosh, money Adv OAA	5.45
Central States Electric Co. Serv., Cthouse	96.21
N W. Bell Tele. Co., Tele. assr	6.01
Britt-News Tribune, Bd. Proc. and Ads	84.07
Kanawha Reporter, bd proc and ads	34.72
Garner Prtg. & Publ. Co., Bd proc. and ballots	222.34
R. A. Jorgenson, Bd. proc. Env., ballots	269.86
Koch Brothers, Supp. Aud. Treas., Clk.	180.71
Acres Blachmar Co., Supp. Clk., Treas.	431.83
Boon Blank Book Co., Supp Aud. Assr. Clerk	84.63
Klipto Loose Leaf Co. Sup. Ass. Rec. Treas.	636.91
Matt Parrott and Sons Co. Supp-Treas.	121.69
Fidlar & Chambers Co., Assr	94.35
Elling Ins. Co., Notary Bond Assr. Office	8.00
Boyd Typewriter Co., Typewriter Aud	169.37
Loring Supply Co., Meno Stencils Aud.	3.68
Monroe Calculating Machine Co., Ribbons Treas. and Aud	4.48
Procision Instrument Co., Arithmometer Case Assr.	2.95
Addressograph Multigraph Corp. Mach serv.	23.00
Earl Henschen, Supp money Adv	3.50
Coast to Coast Store, Supp. Cthouse	22.94
Farmers Cooperative Soc. Material, Cthouse	50.84
Ed Rhodes, wk. janiter	8.00
Ray E. Hunsley weed comm.	20.30
Merlyn L. Borchers, DD No. 151 Co. Advance	52.50
J. N. Stell, DD No. 151 Co. Advance	52.50
Wm. Henschen, DD No. 151 Co. Advance	156.00

Ellington Twp. Trustees

A. E. Boman, Trustee Mtg.	4.00
K. P. Juhl, Trustee Mtg.	4.00
Olaf Wesenberg, Trustee Mtg.	4.00
Fred L. Reinecke Clerk, Trustee Mtg	4.00

Magor Twp Trustees

W. E. Puffer, Clerk	4.00
Wm. F. Erdman, Trustee	4.00
Tom Hain, Trustee	4.00

Bingham Twp. Trustees

C. A. Bird, Chairman	4.00
Fred Gerdes, Trustee	4.00
George Sene, Trustee	4.00
W. H. Sonius, Clerk	4.00

Twin Lake Twp. Trustee

S. A. Baker, Trustee	4.00
A. G. Ruka, Trustee	4.00
Gerald Janssen, Trustee	4.00
Arthur Chelsvig, Clerk	4.00

Madison Twp. Trustees

Albert Lundberg, Trustee	4.00
Gustav Schulz, Trustee	4.00
N H. Willis, Trustee	4 00
A. C. Taylor, Clerk	4.00
Gambles, Supp., Cthouse	2.46
C. F. Merten, County Construction	367.77
G. D. McNabb, Foreman	91.51
Wm. Hughes, Labor	95.71
John Brower, Labor	83.16
H. J Brouwer, Labor	97.39

POOR FUND

Mrs. Josephine Stooldryer Cash Allowance	10.00
St. Monica's Home, May to Sept., Erickson	112.00
Dept. of Social Welfare, Aid to Blind	25.78
Garner Elec. Shop,, Supp. Co. Home	12.96
Jackson Nursing Home, care Heath and Lanz	80.50
Garner Refrigerator Locker, Buthchering County Home	11.66
Louis Jensen, wk. County Home	39.60
Griesemer Harness Shop, shoes and rep., Co. home	37.71
D and W Dept. Store, mdse. County Home	11.82
Joe C. Johnson, Digging Sewer OAA Prop.	97.00
Butz Hatchery, Feed, Co. Home	41.44
Hancock Co. Oil Co-op. Co. Fuel, County Home	41.01
W. W. Olson, Groc. Co. Home	2.27
Dept. of Social Welfare Aid to Dep. Children	152.15
Farmers Coop. Soc., Coal Kalig	12.77
Dept. of Social Welfare, Emerg. Rel.	13.33
Dr. F. F. Denny, Med. Care Hansen, Garcia	165.25
Oscar Durham, papers, Co. Home	6.60
Garner Motor Sales Co., repairs, Co. Home	4.10
Crescent Macaroni and Cracker Co., Prov Co. Home	15.39
General Hospital (Algona) Med. Care, Krambeer	25.00
Textile Industries, Supp. Co Home	64.05
Geo. R. Stokesbary, Supp. Co. Home	25.82
Men's Reformatory, Supp Co. Home	104.04
Gildner - Paulson, Clothing Co. Home	57.59
Farmers Hybrid Hogs, Hog Co. Home	195.00
Garner Bakery, Prov. Co. Home	53.96
Edelen Food Mkt., Prov. Co. Home	45.72
C. J. Schneider, rep and Groc. Co. Home	93.33
Peter Falanda, prov., Co. Home	40.35
Wesenberg & Son, repairs Co. Home	306.47
Klemme Food Mkt., Feed Co. Home	78.75
C & H Dime Store, Mdse. Co. Home	2.85
Farmer's Coop. Co., Oats and Grdg. Co. Home	46.60
Blank Drug Store, Supp. Co. Home	7.72
Cental States Electric Co. Serv. Co. Home	46.80
Fred Stockwell, Rep., Co. Home	4.75
Lutheran Welfare Soc., Nov. Care, Dinghman, Fisher Brones	177.22

ASSESSOR FUND

Iowa State College, 3-Soil Assoc. Charts	3.00
Fred C. Missal Assr. Mi.	5.60
A. C. Fredrickson, mi and wk Assr.	9.00
D. E. Keat, Assr. Wk and Mi.	8.20
Rudolph Reinert, Assr. Wk	7.00
Edward Mullin, milage	5.95
Gloria Greiman, Wk. Assr. Office	118.68
Harrison Taylor, Assr wk. and mi.	8.10

REFUND FUND

Roy L. McMillin, Co. Treas. refund on double Assess	118.10
Roy Charbonneaux, refund on double Assess.	69.05

COURT EXPENSE

Frank J. Trca, Bailiff	25.00
Grill Cafe, lunch Jury	5.56

Domestic Animal

Auditors Cash, Examinors Report 1947	21.00

Bang's Disease

Dr. D. G. Quist, Inspector	19.70

DRAINAGE WARRANTS

H. C. Young, Estimate No. 4 DD No. 1 and 2 SM	12,775.35
Armco Drain. & Met. Prod. Steel Pipe DD No. 1 and 2 SM	412.06
C. F. Merten, Engineer, DD No. 1 and 2	11.88
Nielsen Bros., Estimate No. 4, DD No. 3 and 4	5,026.93
J. A. Chambers, Hearing, DD No. 3 and 4	3.50
Wm. Henschen, Engineer, DD No. 3 and 4	59.40
J N Stell, Rodman, DD No. 3 and 4	13.86
Merlyn L. Borchers, Rodman DD No. 3 and 4	13.86
Merlyn L. Borchers, Rodman DD No. 6	6.93
C. F. Merten, Engineer, DD DD No. 6	13.63
J. N. Stell, Rodman, DD No. 6	3.42
Philip Johnson, Inst. Main DD No. 6	4.21
Kenneth O. Boller, labor, DD No. 6	9.90
Marvin Bredlow, labor DD No. 6	24.75
Bernard Abbas, Labor, DD No. 6	29.70
Elmer Carr, labor, DD No. 6	19.80
George Stille, labor, DD No. 6	34.65
Wm. Henschen, Engineer, DD No. 8	5.94
Ernest Helps, Nat. and labor DD No. 9	19.80
Nielsen Bros., Ditch Cleanout, DD No. 13 M	304.47
Ernest Helps, Nat. and labor DD No. 14	54.00
Ernest Helps, labor, DD No. 58	25.24
Ernest Helps, labor, DD No. 63	23.76
Lars Jorgenson, labor, DD No. 80	37.50
Wm. Henschen, Engineer DD No. 105	35.64
Fabian Kadera, labor, DD No. 122	30.69
C. F. Merten, Engineer, DD No. 130	12.23
Bowen's Sup. Expl. Co. Dynamite, DD No. 130	53.04
Morris Milsen, labor, DD No. 130	24.00
Don Rasmuson, Tile Repair DD No. 130	28.75
W. H. Egemo, labor, DD No. 32-98	1.53
Harry Hasbrouck, labor, DD No. 32-98	2.24
Orval Minor, labor, DD No. 32-98	1.53
Don Sherman, labor, DD No. 32-98	1.53
Geo. Gerdes, labor, DD No. 46-3	7.30
Drain Tile, DD No. 101	33.36
Milbern Rapp, labor, DD No. 46-3	3.60
Leo L. Hughes, labor, DD No. 46-3	6.95
Henry Steenblock, Sr., labor DD No. 49-1-125	1.16
L. A. Daken, tile repair Lat. No. 2 Joint, DD No. 52-54-17	26.00
Harry Hasbrouck, labor, DD No. 54-121	3.86
Orval Minor, labor, DD No. 54-121	2.81
E. H. Egemo, labor, DD No. 54-121	2.81
Don Sherman, labor, DD No. 54-121	2.81
Vernon Miller, Engineering DD No. 93-100-131	4.91

ROAD MAINT.

Central States Electric Co. Service	15.51
Hancock Co. Co-op. Assn. Deisel Fuel	444.60
Yohn Motor Freight, freight	5.11
Wright Co. Treas, Taxes on Co. Land 1944-48	261.11
Northwestern Bell Tele. Co. Tele. Service	9.69
Rich Line, Freight	1.20
John Carothers, Freight	1.42
Bernard Abbas, labor	222.75
Kenneth O. Boller, labor	212.03
Marvin Bredlow, labor	218.30
Elmer Carr, labor	202.85
Marle Deibler, labor	218.10
Emmett Devin, labor	222.75
Robert Devin, labor	21.00
John Faff, labor	205.55
Paul Halfpop, labor	217.50
Donald Hodson, labor	222.15
Leo L. Hughes, labor	218.00
Ivan Iverson, labor	218.10
Carl Kluseman, labor	201.55
Louis Knoke, labor	209.85
Clifford Montgomery, labor	213.85
Milbern F. Rapp, labor	216.85
Harold H. Rhine, labor	200.28
L. F. Schleuger, labor	218.10
Henry Steinlicht, labor	222.75
Gene Sweeney, labor	217.50
J. L. Tobin, labor	225.12
Wm. J. Wood, labor	218.10
Fabian Kadera, labor	49.50
Pat Scanlon, labor	63.00
Wesley Steiniker, labor	63.70
C. F. Merten, Engineer	205.04
C. F. Merten, car milage	50.80
Ernest Helps, labor and cement	45.26
Geo. Gerdes, labor	7.50
Armco Drainage & Metal, Culverts	1,508.75
Concrete Prod. Corp., culverts	90.58
Zrostlik Truck Lines, Tire	65.12
W. C. Brown Supply Co. Washers	14.99
Sieg-Fort Dodge Co., mtrls.	105.44
Garner Motor Sales Co. materials	64.24
Wesenberg & Son, Hardware	30.81
Central States Electric Co. Elec. Co.	1.02
Earl Anderson, Culverts	151.20
Gilbert Guenthers, Road Tile	26.92
Keuffel & Esser Co., Ruling Pen Set	13.72
Clear Lake Sand & Gravel Sand and gravel	128.28
Paper Calmemson & Co. Steel	28.62
Barclay Co., welding supplies	4.09
W. F. Pavey, repairs	13.25
G. L. McMullin Oil Co. Alcohol	7.65
Garner Prtg. and publ., notice	1.88
Globe Machinery & Supply Co. Clips	3.68
Dukehart Hughes, Equip. Co. Repairs	102.85
O. Sandberg, repairs	43.95
Stockwell Machine Shop, repairs	4.00
Haefner's Super Service Repairs	3.43
Barton Stephens & Co repairs	5.77
Thomas Machine Co., repairs	10.82
Smith' Service, repairs	13.95
Dukehart-Hughes Equip. Co Repairs	3.28
Lessman Mfg. Co., repairs	25.77
Wesenberg & Son, repairs	39.16
Floyd & Leonrad Auto Ele. Repairs	32.00
Zack Bros. Electric Co. repairs	8.50
Woodford Wheeler Lbr. Co. Sash	2.04
Corwith Lumber Co., coal	12.83
J. C. Heln, Hardware	47.84
Northern Lumber Co., cement	142.86
K & H Service, brake fluid	2.71
Socony Vacuum Oil Co., oil	67.32
Britt Oil Co., gasoline	1,960.03
Farmers Coop. Society, material	127.53
Coast To Coast Store, material	3.88
Standard Bearing Co., bearings	56.29
Central States Electric Co. Service	3.06
C. H. Paulson, Express Pd.	1.97
Armco Drainage & Metal Prod., Steelox Bldg.	3,151.68
Carl John Heginger, labor	218.10
George Stille, labor	206.52
Robert C. Hansen, labor	218.10
Lampart Yards, material	28.69
Gibbs-Cook Tractor & Equip. Repairs	26.43
Wheeler Lumber Bridges & Sup., lumber	1,823.93
Herman M. Brown, repairs	197.62
Arthur Johnson, repair intakes and tile	31 00
Nebraska Bridge Supp. & Lumb., stakes	50.00
Norton Machine Wks., repairs	3.35
Thompson Distrb. Co., repairs	9.19
Central Auto Elec. Co., repairs	20.52
Gamble's, repairs	6.17
Marvin Nielsen, labor	24.00

ROAD CONST.

Frank Thada, right of way	9.00
J. M. O'Conner gravel checking	45.98
M & St. L. RR, freight and lumber	880.60
Merl M. Cockerell, labor	74.66
Donald D. Geddes, right of way	38.50
Mona Lowe, right of way	544.60
J. N. Steil, Rodman	99.98
Philip Johnson, Rodman	214.68
Merlyn L. Borchers, rodman	76.46

On motion and second the Board adjourned to December 6th A. D., 1948 at 9 o'clock.

ATTEST:
MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J. A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman

PROCEEDINGS OF THE HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

4TH ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
December 6, 1948

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with F. J. Schoun, J. A. Chambers, and George Th. Gerdes present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion annd second the Bond of Leslie M. Brower, Sheriff, is hereby approved.

BE IT RESOLVED that there be and is hereby levied on all taxable property in Hancock County, Iowa, the following taxes fixed by budget hearing on the 9th day of August A. D., 1948 for the year 1948 for the various funds, viz;-

FUNDS	MILLS
General County	2.723
Court Expense	.174
Poor	.194
State Institution	.776
County School	.233
Soldiers' Relief	.388
Bond Interest	.058
County Bonds	.368
County Assessor	.698
Board of Education	.444
Bang's Disease	.039
Sec. Road Maintenance	2.000
Optl. Maint. or Constr.	.582
TOTAL	8.697

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that there be against all taxable monies and Credits 5 mills, which has been duly and legally certified to the County Auditor by the State Tax Commission as provided by law.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Auditor is hereby ordered and drected to carry on the tax list, the number of miles, the value per mile for the year 1948 of the several telephone, telegraph, railroads, express, transmission and pipe line companies as fixed by the State Tax Commission in Compliance with the provision of Chapter 433 Code of Iowa, A. D., 1946 and laws amendatory thereto, Viz:-

ELLINGTON TOWNSHIP

	No. Miles	Valuation
Interstate Power Company	.20	230.
Western Union Telegragh Co.	.21	29.
Northern Natural Gas Co., Pipe 16"	5.940	35,848.
Pipe 16"	5.997	36,191.
Fertile Incorporated Telephone Co.	.50	48.
Cedar Teephone Line	1.50	68.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	.25	75.
Ellington Center Mutual Tele. Co.	8.00	176.
Ellington-Concord Telephone Line	3.00	90
Ellington Telephone Line	6.00	234.
Gem Telephone Line	5.00	360.
Lime Creek Telephone Line	4.50	104.
Mountain Telephone Line	1.80	74.
North Ellington Telephone Co.	13.50	608.
North Riverside Telephone Co.	12.00	300.
Winnebago River Telephone Co.	3.50	126.
American Railway Express	.21	3.
C. R. I & P. R. R. Co.	.21	2,083.

MILLER IND. ELLINGTON TWP.

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.64	370.
Central States Elec. Co.	1.75	1,088.
Northwestern Bell Telephonen Co.	.81	1,104.
Farmers Mutual Switchboard Co. (Miller)	.25	192.
Ellington Center Mutual Tele. Co.	2.50	55.
South Side Telephone Line	1.25	64.
Star Telephone Line of Miller	2.00	70.
American Railway Express	2.64	35.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	2.64	26,184.

MADISON TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	7.89	1107.
Central States Elec. Co.	8.35	5,192.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	6.75	9,198.
Central Iowa Teephone Co.	1.25	375.
Cedar Telephone Line	4.50	202.
Lake Side Mutual Telephone Co.	5.00	150.
Madison Mutual Telephone Co.	14.00	784.
North Madison Telephone Line	9.50	359.
North Riverside Telephone Co.	2.	50.
American Railway Express Co.	7.89	105.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	3.55	35,208.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	4.34	17,004.
Winnebago River Telephone Co.	2.00	72.

HAYFIELD CONSOLIDATED MADISON

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	6.81	955.
Central States Elec. Co.	8.4	5,223.
Garfield Rural Line No. 16	.2	4.
American Railway Express Co.	6.81	91.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	3.85	38,184.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	2.98	11,597.
Hayfield Mutual Telephone Co.	20.25	810.

MILLER INDEPENDENT MADISON

	Miles	Valuation
Central States Elec. Co.	.35	218.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	.26	354.

CRYSTAL TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central States Elec. Co.	2.	1,244.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	2.21	3,011.
Britt & Crystal Lake Telephone Co., No. 1	8.	320.

CRYSTAL LAKE CONSOLIDATED CRYSTAL

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	6.15	863.
Central States Elec. Co.	6.65	4,135.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	1.65	2,248.
North Crystal Rural Tele. Co.	10.50	861.
Britt and Crystal Lake Telephone Co. No. 1	21.	840.
Lake Side Mutual Telephone Co.	1.5	45.
American Railway Express	6.15	82.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	6.15	60,995.

HAYFIELD CONSOLIDATED CRYSTAL TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central States Elec. Co.	1.25	777.
Hayfield Mutual Telephone Co.	1.5	60.

BINGHAM TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	3.96	555.
Central States Electric Co.	3.	1,865.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	5.26	7,167.
North Crystal Rural Telephone Co.	1.	82.
Hollendale Rural Telephone Co.	1.50	63.
Lake George Co-op. Telephone Co.	7.	266.
Woden Farmers Rural Telephone Co.	10.5	378.
South Woden Telephone Co.	9.	315.
American Railway Express Co.	3.96	53.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	3.96	39,275.
K. & H. Co-operative Telephone Co.	1.75	56.

WODEN INDEPENDENT BINGHAM TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.00	140.
Central States Electric Co.	.7	435
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	1.98	2,698
Grant Co-operative Telephone Co.	1.75	39.
Lake George Co-op. Telephone Co.	1.5	57.
Tri-County Co-op. Telephone Co.	3.0	96.
Woden Farmers Mutual Rural Telephone Co.	1.	36.
Woden-Titonka Co-op. Telephone Co.	7.25	189.
South Woden Telephone Co.	.50	18.
American Railway Express Co.	1.	13.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	1.	9,918.

ORTHEL TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	6.03	846.
Central States Elec. Co.	6.75	4,197.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	23.43	31,926.
Farmers Ideal Telephone Line	2.0	22.
Woden Farmers Rural Tele. Co.	1.	36.
Line No. 329	5.0	120.
Orthel Twp. Rural Telephone Co-op. Ass'n.	36	13. 442.
Progressive Telephone Line	2.50	68.
Wesley Rural Telephone Co-op Ass'n. No. 1	2.	54.
American Railway Express Co.	6.01	80.
C. M. St. P. & P. Ry. Co.	6.01	77,791.
K. & H. Co-operative Tele. Co.	1.50	48.

BRITT TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	5.67	795.
Central States Electric Co.	21.75	13,523.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	11.51	15,684.
Britt & Crystal Lake Telephone	8.	320.
Flatt Independent Telephone Co.	6.50	208.
Duncan Telephone Co.	3.0	141.
American Railway Express Co.	5.67	76.
Eagle Lake Telephone Co.	6.0	138.
C. M. St. P. & P. Ry. Co.	2.	25,887.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	3.67	14,379.

BRITT INDEPENDENT BRITT TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	4.23	593.
Central States Electric Co.	7.2	4,477
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	8.70	11,855.
Northern Natural Gas Co. Pt NW¼ Sec. 33	1.	90.
Bldg. & Equip.	1.	1,982.
2" pipe	.41	310.
Duncan Telephone Line	.5	24.
American Railway Express Co.	4.23	66.
C. M. St. P. & P. Ry. Co.	2.74	35,465.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	1.49	5,838.

GARFIELD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	7.33	1,028.
Central States Elec. Co.	21.05	13,088.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	9.98	13,599.
Independent Line No. 12	4.	68.
Duncan Telephone Line	25.	1,175.
Garfield Rural No. 16	7.0	147
Garfied Rural Line No. 23	1.5	29.
Garner Northwestern Line No. 29	5.90	65.
Adam Schmidt Telephone Co.	2.5	55.
Simper Telephone Co. Line No. 37	2.	60.
West Rural Line	6.	120.
American Railway Express Co.	7.33	98.
C. M. St. P & P. Ry. Co.	5.46	70,672.
C. R. I & P R. R. Co.	1.87	18,547
North Telephone Ass'n.	7.00	140.
Garner Northwestern Tele. Line	5.00	110.

HAYFIELD CONSOLIDATED GARFIELD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telelgraph Co.	3.02	424.
Central States Elec. Co.	6.5	4,042.
Duncan Telephone Line	8.	376.
American Railway Express Co.	3 02	40.
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	1.60	15,869.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	1.42	5,564.
Garfield Rural Line No. 23	3.	57.

GARNER INDEPENDENT GARFIELD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	.49	69.
Central States Electric Co.	1.	622.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	3.53	4,810.
Liberty-Ell Telephone Co.	.50	13.
Adam Schmidt Telephone Co.	2.	44.
Simper Telephone Line No. 37	.25	8.
American Railway Express Co.	.49	7.
C. M. St. P. & P. Ry. Co.	.49	6,342.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	6.04	847.
People's Gas & Electric Co.	3.	2,474.
Central States Electric Co.	6.1	3,793.
Northwestern Bell Telephone oC.	4.54	6,186.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 20" pipe	.750	5,657.
Independent Line No. 12	3.	61.
Concord & Ell Co-op. Telephone Co.	7.50	360.
Garfield Rural Line No. 16	3.00	63.
Garfield Rural No. 23	3.00	57.
Quintus Rural Telephone Line	.5	32.
American Railway Express Co.	6.04	81.
C. M. St. P Ry. Co.	2.36	30,547
C. R. I. & P. R. R. Co.	3.68	36,498.
Star Telephone Line	12.75	255.

Christmas Cards
LARGEST STOCK IN TOWN . . .

We have thousands of Christmas Cards in stock and can take care of late orders. We feature only the highest grade cards at reasonable prices:

18 Beautiful Oilette Cards	.98
21 De Luxe Die-Cut Cards	$1.00
12 Silk Printed Cards	$1.20
18 Art Craft Cards	.98
12 Childrens' Cards	.68

Times Office

Santa Claus
IS ON HIS WAY TO
Klemme
And Due To Arrive At 2:00 P. M.
Thursday, December 23
Bring The Kiddies To Greet Him
FREE MOVIE SHOW
BIG FREE TREATS
At The Community Hall
KLEMME

Klemme Civic Club
invites you to do your holiday shopping in
KLEMME

GARNER IND. CONCORD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	3.3	463.
Central States Electric Co.	2.95	1,834.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	2.85	3,883.
Northern Natural Gas Co.
Pt. NW¼ SW¼ Sec.	1.
Bldg. & Equipment		55.
2" pipe	437	2,349.
Independent Line No. 12	1.25	331.
Line No. 10	2.50	21.
Concord & Ell Co-op. Telephone Co.	3.50	73.
C. & W Rural Telephone Line	.5	168.
Garfield Rural Line No. 16	.5	18.
Garfield Rural Line No. 23	1.5	11.
Liberty-Ell Telephone Co.	.25	28.
Simper Telephone Line No. 37	1.00	5.
American Railway Express Co.	2.29	30.
C. M. St. P & P. Ry. Co.	1.29	31.
C. R. I & P. R. R. Co.	1.	16,697.
Star Telephone Co.	1.75	9,918.
		35

MILLER INDEPENDENT CONCORD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	.48	.67.
American Railway Express Co.	.48	6.
C. R. I. & P. RR. Co.	.48	4,760.

VENTURA CONSOLIDATED CONCORD TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.79	251.
People's Gas & Electric Co.	6.6	5,444.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	5.34	7,276.
Northern Natural Gas Co. 20" pipe	4.405	33,223.
16" pipe	996	5,830.
10" pipe	.695	2,621.
16" pipe	945	5,703.
Pt. NW¼ SW¼ Sec. 32	1.	440.
Struct. & Imp.
Wood Cooling Tower with Coils
Steel Water Tank
Found & Conc Floors
Equipment		45,597.
Mics. Pipe
Material & Supplies		153,408.
(Constr. in Progress)
Warehouse Stock		13,567
Concord & Ell Co-op. Telephone Co.	4.	8,215
American Railway Express Co.	1.79	192.
C. M. St. P. & P Ry. Co.	1.79	24.
Ventura Telephone Exchange	6.	23,169.
		648.

ELL TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	4.08	572.
Central States Electric Co.	8.20	5,099.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 20" pipe	5.742	43,307.
6" pipe	3,815	9,428.
2" pipe	970	734
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	22.80	6,849
Concord & Ell Co-op. Telephone Co.	5.50	264.
G & W Telephone Line	3.50	123.
Quintus Rural Telephone Co.	2.5	160.
American Railway Express Co.	4.08	54
C. R. I. & P RR. Co.	4.08	40,465.

KLEMME INDEPENDENT ELL TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.	140
Central States Electric Co.	1.6	995.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 20" pipe	.708	5,340.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	7.05	2,118
American Railway Express Co.	1.	13.
C. R. I & P RR. Co.	1.	9,918.

VENTURA CONSOLIDATED ELL TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
People's Gas & Electric Co.	.3	247.
Central States Electric Co.	1.	622.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	.90	270

LIBERTY TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central States Electric Co.	2.35	1,461.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	6.	6,813
Northern Natural Gas Co., 6" pipe	3.093	7,644
4" pipe	2 868	4,323
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	29 10	8,741.
Duncan Telephone Line	8.25	388.

COLD WEATHER AHEAD

But who cares? Come in here where it's warm and cheerful. Pass the time with a game of pool.

Meet Your Friends At

Joe's Place

ertisement

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Dutch Miller's Back In Uniform

After ten days in the city, Dutch is back in uniform. I don't mean Army khaki or Navy blue—but a different uniform, that's every bit as patriotic and American.

Blue jeans and a denim shirt, for work around the yards and barns; stout boots for tramping through the fields; and a straw hat when the sun gets high—a uniform you see from Maine to Texas, Iowa to Alabama.

It's the uniform of an army—the great army of American farmers who, by their productivity, are helping to keep this nation strong—bolstering the forces of democracy that guard our freedom.

And in their way of life, too, they are champions of freedom. Temperate folk who enjoy a moderate glass of beer—but never quarrel with those who prefer cider. Tolerant people who fight to the bitter end against oppression and intolerance. From where I sit, a credit to America!

Joe Marsh

Copyright, 1948, United States Brewers Foundation

Farm For Sale

Sealed bids will be received by mail up to December 29, 1948, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the 200 acre farm; N. W. ¼ and N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of Sec. 35, Township 94, Range 23. This farm is about 4 miles east of Goodell on a good gravel road. Improvements consist of an 8 room house, barn, sheds, hog house and other buildings. The farm has electricity.

The terms of sale are $2000 down, and balance on or before March 1, 1949. Sale is subject to a cash rent lease for the year commencing March 1, 1949. Rent $1800. Lease will be assigned to buyer. Good title, guaranteed. The right to reject bids is reserved.

Bids May Be Sent To:

Wm. P. Butts

Referee c-o State Savings Bank, GOODELL, IA.

F. J. McGREEVY, Attorney, Ackley, Iowa

G & W Telephone Line	1.50	52.
Liberty-Ell Telephone Co.	11.50	288.
West Rural Line	2.5	50.

ERIN TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.64	370.
Central States Electric Co.	6.95	4,321
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	35.39	48,222.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 4" pipe	3.481	6,247.
2" pipe	.963	729.
Norway Rural Telephone Co.	5.	585.
Duncan Telephone Linee	1.75	82.
American Railway Express Co.	2.64	35.
M. & St. L. Ry Co.	2.64	10,344.

BOONE TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	3.61	506.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	12.64	17,223.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	8.25	2,478.
Farmers Ideal Telephone Line No. 2	.75	19.
American Railway Express Co.	3.61	48.
M & St. L. Ry Co.	3.61	14,144.

CORWITH CONSOLIDATED BOONE TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	3.02	424.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	4.	5,450.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	15.20	4,566.
American Railway Express Co.	3.02	40.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	3.02	11,832.

MAGOR TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.31	324.
Central States Electric Co.	3.75	2,332.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	9.76	2,929.
Norway Rural Telephone Co.	11.	1,287.
American Railway Express Co.	2.31	31.
M. & St. L. Ry. Co.	2.31	9,051.

CORWITH CONSOLIDATED MAGOR TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.80	393.
Central States Electric Co.	2.75	1,710.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	14.45	4,341.
American Railway Express Co.	2.80	37.
M. & St. L. Ry Co.	2.80	10,970.

AMSTERDAM TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	4.21	590.
Central States Electric Co.	12.75	7,928.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	2.97	4,047.
Norway Rural Telephone Co.	44.	5,148.
American Railway Express Co.	4.21	57.
M & St. L. Ry Co.	4.21	16,495.

KANAWHA INDEPENDENT AMSTERDAM TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	.11	15.
Central States Electric Co.	1.6	933.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	1.63	2,086.
Norway Rural Telephone Co.	7.25	848.
American Railway Express Co.	11	1.
M & St L Ry Co.	.11	431.

TWIN LAKE TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central Electric & Telephone Co.	14.5	3,894.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 20" pipe	1.369	10,325.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	14.9	4,356.
Norway Rural Telephone Co.	11.	1,287.

GOODELL INDEPENDENT TWIN LAKE TWP.

	Miles	Valuation
Central Electric & Telephone Co.	5.5	1,477.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 20" pipe	2.202	16,608.

AVERY TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central Electric & Telephone Co.	17.30	4,646.
Western Union Telegraph Co.	3.52	494.
Central States Electric Co.	3.60	2,238.
Northern Natural Gas Co., 20" pipe	3.709	27,973.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	12.65	3,800.
American Railway Express Co.	3.52	47.
C R I & P RR Co.	3 52	34,911.
Federated Cooperative Power Assoc. 3 Acres (Now Is Corn Belt Power Co-op.) Structures & Improvements		719.
		63,573.

GOODELL INDEPENDENT AVERY TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central Electric & Telephone Co.	4.	1,074.
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.03	2,856.
Central States Electric Co.	1.75	1,088.
American Railway Express Co.	2.03	27.
C R I & P RR. Co.	2.03	20,133.

MESERVEY CONSOLIDATED AVERY TOWNSHIP

	Miles	Valuation
Central Electric & Telephone Co.	5.5	1,477.
Central States Electric Co.	.16	93.

BRITT CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.42	339.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	9.40	12,808.
American Railway Express Co.	2.42	33.
C M St P & P Ry Co.	1.25	16,180.
Orig Lots 11 & 12, Blk. 5		100.
M & St. L. Ry Co.	1.17	4,584.
Central States Electric Co.
Office-Lot 1		1,000.
Blk. 1-Anderson's Add.
Structure & Equip.		11,283.
Plant, Equip. Dist. & Trans.		59,307.
Gas Distribution		13,201.
Heat Distribution		13,792.
Personal (On regular Tax List

CORWITH CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.87	262.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	.20	273.
Central States Elec. Co.
Distri. & Substation		1,223.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	1.44	433.
American Railway Express Co.	2.14	29.
M St. L. Ty Co.	1.89	7,405.

CRYSTAL LAKE CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	.54	76.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	.27	368.
Central States Electric Co.
Distribution		4,273.
North Crystal Rural Telephone Co.	1 25	103.
American Railway Express Co.	.54	7.
C R I & P RR. Co.	.54	5,356.

GARNER CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.76	247.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	7.20	9,811.
Central States Electric Co.
Substation Office & Store Room		825.
Office		700.
Structures & Equip.		30,030.
Distr Substation & Trans.		15,908.
Gas Distribution		15,545.
Personal (On regular tax list)		37.
American Railway Express Co.	2.77	9,837.
C. M. St. P & P Ry. Co.	.76	19,935.
C. R. I & P RR. Co.	2.01

GOODELL CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	51	73.
Central States Electric Co.
Distr. & Trans.		3,270.
American Railway Express Co.	.51	7.
C R I & P RR. Co.	51	5,058
Central Electric & Telephone Co.	1.10	295.

KANAWHA CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	2.08	292.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	1.55	2,112.
Central States Elec. Co.
Substation, Distr. & Trans.		13,565.
American Railway Express Co.	2.08	28.
M & St L. Ry. Co.	2.08	8,149.

KLEMME CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.12	158.
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.	.56	763.
Central States Elec. Co.
Substation, Dist. & Trans.		11,629.
Central Iowa Telephone Co.	2.56	768.
American Railway Express Co.	1.2	15.
C. R. I & P. RR Co.	1.12	11,108.

WODEN CORPORATION

	Miles	Valuation.
Western Union Telegraph Co.	1.	140.
Northwestern Bell Teeephone Co.	.71	968.
Central States Electric Co.
Distribution		4,242.
Woden Co-op. Switchboard		2,155.
Lake George Co-op. Telephone Co.	.50	19.
American Railway Express Co.	1.	13.
C. R. I & P RR Co.	1.	9,918.
Woden Co-op. Telephone Assoc.	8.	824.

WHEREAS there are deficits and outstanding warrants on the following named reclassified drainage district and laterals thereof in payment of repairs and

WHEREAS it is deemed for the best interests of the taxpayers in said districts that a levy be made at this time to reimburse said districts for outstanding warrants and deficits.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of the following named reclassified drainage districts and laterals thereof, that there be and is hereby levied the sums set opposite each named district and lateral as follows;

Drainage District No. 3 and 4
Lateral No. 1	$140.00
Lateral No. 2	873.00
Lateral No. 3	2,120.00
Lateral No. 4	1,400.00
Lateral No. 5.	190.00
Lateral No. 8	640.00
Lateral No. 49	1,600.00
DRAINAGE DISTRICT NO. 7 SEC.
Drainage District No. 7 Sec. 5	$500.00
Drainage District No. 9
Lateral No. 2	$100.00
Lateral No. 6	50.00
Lateral No. 7	25.00
Drainage District No. 48	$175.00
Drainage District No. 58	300.00
Drainage District No. 72	150.00
Drainage District No. 80	250.00
Drainage District No. 83	250.00
Drainage District No. 99	100.00
Drainage District No. 101	1,400.00
Drainage District No. 129	400.00
Drainage District No. 145	700.00

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the levies hereinafter set out be extended against all lands, tracts, parcels, highways and railroads in the watershed of the hereinafter mentioned districts in accordance with the reclassification of said districts and when so extended to be collected with the regular tax of 1948, payable in 1949, all as provided for by law

Whereas there are deficits and outstanding warrants in Hancock County, Iowa, drainage district number 7, expended for minor repairs and

WHEREAS it is deemed for the best interest of the taxpayers in said district that a levy be made at this time to reimburse said district for deficits and outstanding warrants and,

WHEREAS the total of such levy will be less than 10 per cent of the original cost of said district.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, acting for and in behalf of drainage district No. 7, that there be and is hereby levied the percentage set opposite the following named district·

D. D. No. 7 1%

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the levy herein set out be extended in accordance with the original classification against all lands, tracts, parcels, highways, and railways in said districts and when so extended to be collected with the regular tax on 1948, payable in 1949, all as provided for by law.

On motion and second the gravel pit lease between Hancock County, Iowa by its Board of Supervisors, and W. G McFarland of Crystal Lake, Iowa for 15 years from and after the 6th day of December 1948 at the agreed renewal of $2600.00 for the entire period, and consisting of 5 acres, is hereby approved and John Chambers, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, is hereby authorized to execute a contract relative to said gravel pit lease

On motion and second the Board adjourned to December 13th A D., 1948 at the hour of 9 o'clock A M.

ATTEST.

MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J A CHAMBERS,
Chairman

HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

5TH ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
December 13 1948

The Hancock County, Iowa Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date, pursuant to adjournment with Geo Th Gerdes J A Chambers and F J Schoun present

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read

On motion and second the application, bond and permit for sale of beer is hereby approved for Fabian Kadera of Hayfield Iowa

On motion and second the application Preliminary Engineer's Bond of Wm Henschen on D D No. 106 is hereby apptoved in the amount of $300

RESOLUTION

Concuring in Recommended Award of Contracts for FEDERAL AID SECONDARY ROAD PROJECT NO S-1048 (1) Hancock County, Iowa

WHEREAS the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, has considered the bids received by the Iowa State Highway Commission on December 7th 1948, for construction work on Federal Aid Secondary Project No. S-1048 (1) (or projects as listed herein) Hancock County

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the said Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, concurs in the Commission's recommendation that contracts for said work be awarded to the low bidders as follows

Surfacing

Maudlin Construction Co., Webster City, Iowa $6,624 00

Passed And approved this 13 day of December 1948

Board of Supervisor
Hancock County
(s) By J. A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman

Attest (s) Maynard Schoneman,
County Auditor.

On motioin and second the bond of F A Chisel, Constable of Ellington Township, Is hereby approved

WHEREAS Hancock County, Iowa, By its Board of Supervisors, has deemed it advisable to sell Lot 4, Block 11 - West Side Addition to Garner and

WHEREAS Wilfred J. Gilles was the high bidder at a public auction held at 1 30 P M on Dec. 11th 1948 for the purpose of selling said County real estate.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors for and in behalf of Hancock County, Iowa that J A Chambers chairman of the Board be and he is hereby authorized to execute a contract, in the form of a special warranty deed to Wilfred J Gilles, in behalf of Hancock County, Iowa.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Schoun who moved its adoption, was seconded by Gerdes, whereupon the Chairman, J A Chambers placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is F J Schoun, Geo. Th Gerdes and J A Chambers, aye, nays-none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted

On motion and second the resignation of Myrtle White, Deputy County Auditor effective January 1, 1949 is hereby approved.

On motion annd second the Board adjourned to December 20th, 1948 at 9 o'clock A M.

ATTEST

MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J. A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman

MEAT

Jack and Glen Roberson, Ames hunters, recently brought back two Canadian jackrabbits, two bull moose, or should we say "meese," which dressed out a total weight of 1643 pounds. They were bagged about 200 miles north of Port Arthur after four days of hunting.

MOUSE

Mrs. Elizabeth Spindler, 90, had a new automatic oil furnace installed in her home at Schaller recently. It worked fine for awhile, then failed to go on. The dealer found that a mouse had crawled into the furnace and interfered with the mechanism.

VENEZUELA

R. J. Boles, Milford farmer, feels that word about his fine herd of Hampshire hogs is getting around. Recently he had an inquiry from the agricultural department of Venezuela, South America, which wants to buy a few Iowa hogs.

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA

Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED

Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

That's our greeting to you in this happy season.

H. Lau Sons

Farm Implements

A Cheery Christmas Season To All . . .

Harvey Barz

MAY THIS CHRISTMAS SEASON BRING YOU MANY BLESSINGS AND MUCH JOY AND HAPPINESS.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF
DEAD STOCK

Phone
KLEMME ---------- 580
BELMOND ---------- 580

We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.

BELMOND By-Products
"Your Home Plant"
Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa.

Merry Christmas 1948

A triple wish for all of you is ours:
Good Cheer! Good Friends!
Good Health!

HAROLD DON
GEORGE HANK
EVERETT TUBBY

HANCOCK COUNTY COOP. OIL ASSOCIATION

WATCH BUSINESS BUYING FOR KEY TO '49 PRICES

Keep one eye on business and government spending if you want to see what prices are going to do in 1949, says Francis Kutish, extension agricultural economist at Iowa State College.

If they hold up, or increase in total, no recession is in sight. If there is any sharp increase in spending, more inflation is in the cards.

Kutish points out that the economists at Iowa State College have set up a "model" of the probable markets for all the goods and services available in 1949 to serve as a guide. The model is based on the assumption that military spending will hold to present authorizations or about $15 billion for 1949. It takes into account that a drop in business buying and home building will take place.

If the actual spending activity holds true to the "model" figures, no recession is likely Kutish says. If actual spending drops below the figures in the "model" a recession may occur. But no 1921 skid is likely. If spending goes above the "model" figures, more inflation is likely.

Here are the model figures: business buying and home building, $32 billion compared with 1948 actual of $37 billion; consumer buying, $177 billion—the same as in 1948; net foreign sales, $3.5 billion compared to $3.7 billion in 1948; government spending, $38 billion compared with $32 billion in 1948; disposable personal income, $189 billions—the same as in 1948.

USDA Asks Cut In Iowa Potato Acreage In '49

A substantial cut in the 1949 Iowa potato acreage goal has been requested by the U. S. es Department of Agriculture The 1949 goal for commercial production for this state has been set at 1700 acres as compared to 2390 acres which was set for 1948.

Iowa is not alone in the requested acreage reduction. The national goal for 1949 has been set at 1,938,300 acres. This is about 200,00 acres less than was planted last year.

The decrease in the acreage has been requested to aid farmers in making adjustments to the patterns of production which are better adapted to the peacetime demands. This is also expected to give aggresive encouragement to the best soil practices. The price support for potatoes has been lowered to 60 percent of parity.

'Get Rich Quick' Man of 1920 Is On Relief Now

RIO DE JANEIRO.—Charles "Get Rich Quick" Ponzi, the wizard of scrambled finance who hoaxed Americans out of millions of dollars in 1920, is now a charity patient in a Brazilian hospital.

Ponzi is 70 or thereabouts (accounts of his birthdate differ, but most agree he was born in Italy in 1878) and semi-paralyzed. He cannot move his left leg or left arm and has a cataract on his right eye. But he recalls with a chuckle the days when he had millions.

"I was number one in those days before Al Capone. I guess the only news about me that most people want to hear is my death. Once I had 15 million dollars. I used to carry a couple million in my pockets, in certified checks and cash. Look at me now. I guess a lot of people would say I got what I deserved.

"Well, that was 28 years ago. A lot of water has gone under the bridge since. But I hit the American people where it hurts—in the pocketbook. Those were confused, money-mad days. Everybody wanted to make a killing. I was in it plenty deep, rolling in other people's money.

People Jam Building

"I had so many people coming to my office that the other tenants in the building couldn't get in the elevator. They tried to throw me out, but I wouldn't leave my well known address, 27 School street, Boston, next door to city hall. I told them I would buy the building. They let me stay. People were sending me money from all over.

"My business was simple. It was the old game of robbing Peter to pay Paul. You would give me $100 and I would give you a note to pay you $150 in three months. Usually I would redeem my note in 45 days. My notes became more valuable than American money.

"I had to keep the ball rolling and so I bought a bank. I didn't need any advertising. Everybody knew about it. I did a lot of business by mail. That's what got me in trouble. Pretty soon postal inspectors and policemen were dropping in asking questions.

Business Not Honest

"They said my business couldn't be honest. I showed them the facts. Fifty per cent on your money in 45 days. Everybody wanted to get rich quick. I was rich, too. Only two cars, the mayor's and mine, were allowed on School street. Everything was rosy.

"Then came trouble. The whole thing was broken. They closed my bank to investigate and a lot of money was lost. They indicted me on I don't know how many charges. I turned over everything I had to the bankruptcy court. I could use some of it now!

"Both the federal government and the state wanted me. I went to Plymouth and served time for the state. When I came out I did a 'number' in vaudeville for $1,000 a week. Pretty soon they handed me another indictment. I went to Atlanta as a guest of the federal government. That was the mail charge.

"I came out and there were still more charges. I conducted my own defense and I fought hard, but I lost. I had never completed my citizenship and they deported me."

Stephen Foster's Home Rots From Lack of Maintenance

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Once again Pittsburgh is letting go of a memorial of Stephen C. Foster—one of its most famous sons—and in doing so may leave three descendants of the composer homeless.

Unwilling to spend $10,000 to rehabilitate the Stephen Foster Memorial home, the city is giving up the 14-room mansion some biographers term the authentic site of Foster's birth.

The once stately place has become dilapidated, with plaster falling, porches collapsing, and romping school children peppering its windows with stones.

Three direct descendants of Foster still live in the building. They are a grandson, granddaughter, and great-granddaughter.

"We're terribly worried—we can't find anything to move into," said the pink-cheeked and gentle granddaughter, Mrs. Jessie Rose, 72. "We are just waiting for something to turn up."

City council said the rambling brick homestead has "ceased to have any value as a memorial" and isn't worth repairing.

Surgeons Remove Extra Leg From 2-Week-Old Baby Boy

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—A 2-week-old Melbourne baby is recovering successfully from an operation in which doctors removed a perfectly formed third leg.

When born, the baby boy was normal in every way except that a third leg was attached to the base of the spine. It was the same shape and size as his other two legs.

Doctors believe that before birth the child was one of Siamese twins and that the third leg was all that remained of the second twin.

Early American Expedition

Stretching from the shores of beautiful Puget Sound to the foothills of the majestic Cascade mountains, with towering Mount Rainier in the distance, is Fort Lewis, Washington, largest military installation in the western states and home of the famed 3d Infantry division.

The fort's name commemorates the exploits of Captain Meriwether Lewis who in 1805 led the historic Lewis and Clark expedition down the Columbia river and into the virgin territory now contained in the state of Washington.

With more than 70,000 acres of land, 80 per cent of it virgin timber, the huge post has dozens of target ranges and training areas. Its reservation includes every kind of terrain on which almost any type of military problem may be practiced. Within a half-day's journey lie low hills, pathless forests, beautiful groves, rivers, lakes, and the sea itself.

The fort was originally established in 1917 as Camp Lewis, and became a permanent installation 10 years later. During World War I the hard-hitting 91st division was organized and trained at Camp Lewis prior to its participation in fighting in France. Also organized there was the 13th Infantry division during Lewis' growth as a wartime military training center.

Today, all Fort Lewis' activities are closely related to the training of the 2d (Indianhead) division which, in 1917, was organized in Europe. The division, then composed of regular army and marine corps regiments, served with distinction in World War I and was decorated with the French fourragere. In World War II the Indianheads fought all the way from Omaha beach to the Rhine. For their valiant stand during the "battle of the bulge" the command was decorated with the Belgian fourragere.

Farmer With Horse Team Wins Decision Over Taxi Driver

CHATTANOOGA, TENN. — Taxi driver James E. Roberson had a hard time breaking even with a farmer on a 20 mile taxi trip.

Loaded down with the farmer, his wife, two children, 100 pounds of cow feed and a heavy load of groceries, Roberson started out for the farm. A tire blew out near the farm, the taxi became stuck in the mud, and then ran out of gas.

The farmer went for a dollar's worth of gas and his mule team. He pulled the taxi out of the mud and back through it again after the groceries had been delivered at the farm.

James collected $5 for his fare and then forked over $4 to the farmer for pulling him out of the mud.

Plane Flight Cures Baby Girl of Whooping Cough

VANCOUVER, B. C.—A one-hour high-altitude plane ride is believed to have cured 22-month-old Suzanne Carlsen of whooping cough.

Suzanne's father, Camillo Carlsen, chartered a twin-engine plane after hearing that high-altitude flights have been 90 per cent effective in curing whooping cough in Europe.

Dr. W. R. S. Gove, who accompanied Suzanne, said the child's coughing diminished after the first half hour and had disappeared entirely by the time the plane landed.

• * •

Along with Christmas pine and holly . . . may health, wealth and happiness deck the halls of your home.

• * •

Larson's Hiway Service

A Merry Christmas to you. And that's a wish we'd like to shout to the uttermost parts of the earth. But right now, we'll be content to tell you quietly and very sincerely that we hope this Christmas will bring you the peace and serenity that you deserve.

•

Swanson's Hatchery

Merry Christmas 1948

† † Christmas is an old-fashioned holiday, a time for reliving childhood days and for recalling old times, old friends.

May all the peace and tranquility of the season be yours in full measure.

Lloyd Sherwood
Henry Smid
Wilford Back
Orville Stokesbary

John Suckow
Orville Bridges
Wm. Tiggeman
Bernard Smid
Ronald Brinkman
Ed Tiggeman
Garland Brinkman
Wesley Suckow

Northern Lumber Company

It's a real pleasure to extend these greetings to you.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

SPORT MIKE
WAYNE WALT
ELMER DICK

Klemme Coop. Grain Company

Shop and Save in Klemme.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE—1941 V-8 TUDOR, brand new motor, A-1 shape. J. A. Chambers. (1tc)

FOR SALE—SUPER-FEX PARlor Oil Heater. Wm Ax. (D 22-c)

FOR SALE — 2-HOLE CORN Sheller with elevator and cob stacker. Phone Klemme 93. (1tp)

FOR SALE—OLIVER MANURE Spreader, used very little. Clarence Nanmega, Klemme. (D 22-c)

FOR SALE—POLAND CHINA boars, choice of 25 head. The easy feeding, faster maturing kind. Priced to sell O. W. Friedow, phone Britt 4616. (tfc)

FOR SALE—80 ACRES CLARion and Webster soil, fair buildings. Located 2 mi. north, 4¼ mi. east of Klemme. See Curtis Riehm, Garner. (tfc)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal. We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO., Goodell, Iowa.

FOR SALE—MODERN THREEroom house with full basement. Frank Hougland. (tfc)

FOR SALE — NEW VARIETY Hybrid Corn. Out yields all others. Guaranteed to please - to ripen. Agents wanted. Batz Seed Farms, Mason City, Iowa. (J-7-p)

Miscellaneous

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident. (Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS— ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired. Expert workmanship, reasonable prices. Times Office. (tfc)

For Rent

FOR RENT — THREE ROOM house in Klemme, from Dec. 1 to March 1. Willard Fesseenden. (tfc)

Lost And Found

FOUND — BLACK SCOTCH cap wrapped in Federated store paper. Owner claim same. Harvey Hubbard. (1tc)

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who sent cards, flowers, and gave money for memorials in the memory of our son and brother, Cpl. Lyle E. Schoenwetter. Your kind thoughts and deeds will never be forgotten. Mr. and Mrs. Edd. Schoenwetter and family. (1tp)

I wish to take this means to thank my friends, neighbors and relatives for all the lovely cards, letters, gifts and flowers I received and those who visited me while I was a patient at the Mercy Hospital at Mason City and also at home. It was all greatly appreciated. Mrs. Lewis Neuberger. (1tp)

OVERWATERING HARMS MANY HOLIDAY PLANTS

Too much attention rather than too little is usually the cause for trouble with holiday plants, according to L. C. Grove, horticulturist at Iowa State College.

Overwatering is a common fault. The soil in which plants are growing should go through a drying and wetting action, Grove says. When a plant comes wrapped in oilcloth or tinfoil, cut a small hole in the bottom so the excess water can drain out. It's giving plant the water they need under home conditions of temperature and humidity that counts in keeping plants healthy.

A cyclamen should be kept at 65 to 68 degrees and where it gets a little morning light. It should bloom for several months. Never let the soil dry out completely as long as the plant is flowering. When leaves start to fall, store in a cool, dark, damp celler until the next season.

Everblooming begonias will bloom through the year, even in warm rooms and low humidity, if they get full sun during the winter months. The large showy begonias should be discarded, however, after they're through blooming.

Primrose do best at about 65 degrees. They rot easily if overheated, Grove says. See that a primrose gets plenty of light in the winter.

In caring for African violets, let the soil get dry before watering. Use water several degrees warmer than room temperature Be careful not to get moisture on the foliage and watering from the bottom won't be necessary. Keep an African violet in a sunny window until February, and then put it in the shade.

We specialize in printing Wedding Announcements.

Interest in Jade Awakens As U. S. Enters Production

A few thousand years late, but with promise of abundance, the United States has entered the production lists of one of the oldest and most glamorous of minerals—jade.

Recent commercial development of jade deposits in Wyoming, California and Alaska—estimated to contain many thousands of tons of this gem stone—is stirring new currents in an industry long associated almost exclusively with the Orient.

China, for untold centuries has been the outstanding center of jade carving and trade. The earliest Chinese character for the word "precious" included symbols for jade beads and utensils. Jade has been found in ancient Chinese weights and measures. Cut into various forms to give off sounds when struck, it was made into "musical stones" or chimes centuries before Christ.

It is an odd fact that although jade is known to have been used in strikingly similar ways by prehistoric peoples in both Old and New Worlds, the bulk stone has turned up in comparatively few places.

Archeological expeditions, such as those of the National Geographic society-Smithsonian institution to southern Mexico, have uncovered spectacular jade collections in ancient burial sites. But no jade mines yet have been discovered in that part of the world. The only local source of raw materials for such objects would appear to be jade pebbles or boulders found in the stream beds

Doctors Say Bone Bank Has Great Possibilities

Bone preserved n a frozen state for weeks is of "definite value" in bone-grafting operations, Dr. Leonard F. Bush, Danville, Pa., and Dr. C. Zent Garber of New York report in the Journal of the American Medical association.

In an article entitled "The Bone Bank," the two doctors say that "If foods, serums and other perishable substances could be kept in a low temperature freezing cabinet, we decided that perhaps this method could be used to preserve bone so that a constant supply would be available at all times."

Experiments were undertaken and it was found that human bone can be preserved apparently indefinitely in a freezer at minus 20 to 30 centigrade

"Spinal fusions for scoliosis (abnormal curvature of the backbone) and disorders in the lower part of the back, the filling of large bone cysts and the replacement of defects in bone are a few of the common problems in which large quantities of bone are necessary," the doctors point out in their article.

The doctors, in their experiments, used large chinchilla rabbits. Control studies were made. Thirty-two bone transplantations were made by 28 operations on 19 animals. There were no casualties and in only one wound was there a superficial infection.

Protecting Basements

Precautions which home builders should take to insure dry basements include locating the house so that the ground falls away from the foundation in all directions, thus providing natural drainage. Gutters and downspouts should not only be sound and clean but large enough for a capacity downpour. Where there is danger from surface water, the foundation walls should be drained with joint draintile laid at or below the level of the footing to carry off excess water. When ground water is present near the level of the basement floor, moisture may enter by capillary action. Even solid concrete, properly used and thick enough to withstand pressure, is not watertight without waterproofing. Some waterproofing materials are mixed with the concrete itself. Dampproof cement plaster may be applied either to interior or exterior walls, or both.

New Hope for Amputee Vets

New hope for the 17,000 war wounded in Britain who lost limbs has been raised by a remarkable artificial hand, just perfected. It has jointed fingers which enable an amputee to tie shoe laces, light cigarettes, shave, write and do dexterous manual work. It has just concluded long practical tests made by British veterans who lost limbs during World War II. The "hand" was invented by a young Irish architect. It is made of wood and metal, and weighs 17 ounces. The hand can get a firm grip by means of small rubber pads set on the inside of fingers and thumb. A larger pad of rubber sponge covers the palm. The controls are connected to a shoulder brace. The wearer has only to exert an almost imperceptible shrug of his shoulder or back to grasp any object he wants.

America's Meat Prospects

Amount of meat that will be available to the American consumer during the next few years remains a question mark. The peak in per capita supply was reached last year. The records show that there were 155 pounds of pork, beef, veal, lamb and mutton for each person in this country during 1947. That figure compares to 138 pounds per person for the five-year average from 1935-39 and a probable per capita total of 144 pounds this year. Just how much meat will be available depends on hog production during the next few years.

COOKIES AND CANDIES

Christmas Magic From Here

Filled cookies, dropped cookies, rolled cookies, and endless varieties of homemade candies—these are the holiday remembrances that cost so little but mean so much to those far away from homee. Make them soon, pack them carefully and send with gay greeting.

It may be a long way from your kitchen to the homes of kinfolk or friends. But boxes of homemade cookies and candies, somehow, shorten that distance in a magical way.

So "tune up" your cookie cutters, make a survey of your baking supplies and set to work. If you're a speciality cook, noted for those choice morsels of cookie or candy goodness, make the most of this year's plentiful supplies of nuts, citrus fruits, sugar and chocolate. You can't go wrong with a holiday greeting straight from your kitchen.

If some new ideas are welcome, take a tip from Maragaret Kagarice, extension foods specialist, Iowa State College, and try these recipes:

Honey Chews

Use ½ cup of butter, 1 cup honey, 1 cup walnuts and ½ cup dates. Mix all ingredients except dates. Cook over slow fire about 50 minutes or until a firm ball in cold water. Stir often. Remove from fire and add chopped dates. Let cool and cut in squares. Wrap.

Apricot Tibits

Put dried apricots, raisins and nut meats through food chopper. Add a pinch of salt, 2 tablespoons of sugar, and 1 teaspoon of lemon juice, mixing well. Shape in balls about ½ inch in diameter and roll in cocoanut.

Baked Honey Fudge

Use ½ cup butter, 1 cup nut meats, ½ cup honey, one-third cup cocoa, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs and ½ cup cake flour. Cream honey, sugar, fat and eggs thoroughly. Then add sifted dry ingredients and broken nut meats. Bake at 325 degrees about 30 minutes. Make honey cookies in advance, they are better when aged.

Pecan Tea Balls

Use 1 cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups flour, 1 cup pecans. Cream the butter, add sugar, salt and vanilla. Cream thoroughly. Add flour gradually. Add chopped nuts. Mix well. Roll in balls in palms of hands. Bake 30 to 40 minutes in a slow oven. Roll in powdered sugar.

Lebkuchen

Use 1 quart sorghum, 1 cup butter, 2 teaspoons soda, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon each of allspice, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 cups hickory nuts, 1 cup raisins chopped, 1 cup currants, ½ cup finely sliced citron and 7 cups sifted flour.

Boil sorghum 5 minutes. Add butter and soda and stir until both are dissolved. Cool. Add brown sugar, spices, lemon juice and rind, fruits and nuts. Stir then add flour. Mix until well combined. Roll about one-eighth inch thick, about the same as for crisp vanilla cookies. Cut with star or other fancy shaped cutter. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 20 mintues.

Honey Date Bars

Use 3 eggs, 1 cup honey, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup nut meats, 1 cup flour, three-eighths teaspoon salt and 1 lb. dates. Combine ingredients and bake at 350 degrees F. for 20-25 minutes.

North Iowa Assessors Met At Garner

Assessors from ten north Iowa counties met at the courthouse in Garner Tuesday to discuss personal property assessment and schedules for 1949. Compensation of field assessors and matters relating to real estate assessment also appeared on the agenda.

TRIPLE AFFAIR

December 5 is a rough day on the pocketbook of Russell Bergdale, of Hawarden. His wife, daughter Barbara, 3, and son Larry, 1, were all born on that day and a birthday party is a triple affair in the Bergdale home.

KLEMME FARM WOMAN SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

Funeral services for Catherine Agnes Costello, 77, were held Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 10 a. m. in the St. Francis Church at Belmond with the Rev. Father R. Ormsby officiating. Burial was in the St. Francis cemetery at Belmond.

She was born Feb. 24, 1871, on a farm near Rockford, Ill. When a small child she came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Costello, to Wright county living there one year and the remainder of her life on the Costello far southeast of Klemme. She died Saturday, December 11 at 5 p. m. following a year's illness.

She is survived by one brother, John Costello of Klemme, one sister, Mrs. John Dominy of Goodell. Three brothers, Frank, Joseph and James and a sister, Mrs. Will Smith, preceded her in death.

OVER 200 KLEMME FARMERS ARE USING GARNER'S
FARM TAX RECORD
EVERY YEAR!
Completly Meets All Income Tax Requirements.
Apprved by Tax Experts, Bankers and Farmers.
● Simple ● Economical
● Complete ● Efficient
Printed for the Farmer who wants the best in Approved by Tax Experts, Bankers and Farmers.
This is the same Record you have purchased the past several years
for $1.50
●
THE KLEMME TIMES
Commercial Printing Phone 12

CAMEOS
she'll cherish
★ Add beauty to her costumes with delicately hand-carved cameos... exquisite examples of the jeweler's art. High in fashion, lasting in quality, low in price.

GEO. KYSETH
Jeweler Clarion, Iowa

And lots of it, for friends, old and new.

HAEFNER'S SUPER SERVICE
Wilbur Haefner, Prop. Klemme, Iowa

As the wonderful, star-crowned story of Christmas moves once more through our lives, there is no one of us who is not conscious of the inexpressible divinity of the season. It is a time to be generous, a time for deep happiness, a time for neighborliness and good will towards all.
KENNETH HARVEY
QUENTIN MERVIN
KARL
Klemme Coop. Creamery Co.
Pasteurized Milk and Cream Klemme, Iowa

It's an ideal time to wish for you all
the good things in life.
We're delighted to extend this holiday
greeting to all our friends.
Central States Electric Co

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Cooling to Chiang Kai-shek; Russians Agree to Blockade Talks; Truman Wary on Deflation Prospect

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HOLE CARD:
China's Missing?

With stakes terrifically high and the Communists having him beat showing, China's Chiang Kai-shek fingered the pasteboards for a look at his hole card. In a quick double-take, he looked again. Was it gone, or had it dwindled to a deuce?

That's the way poker players might have described the tense situation which faced beleaguered China and her generalissimo. The United States, China's only and all-powerful ally, appeared waning in ardor for the generalissimo's leadership. No less an authoritative U. S. foreign-policy spokesman than Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), who will head the senate foreign relations committee in the 81st congress, had spoken.

PUTTING IT BLUNTLY, Senator Connally had said, in effect, that China generally, and Chiang Kai-shek especially, should have done more to help themselves in the battle against Chinese Communist forces before pressing an 11th-hour appeal for more American aid.

The senator emphasized his viewpoint: He stated that the visit of Madame Chiang Kai-shek to the United States was "not by invitation of the United States government." He made it clear that Madame Chiang was "just a protagonist of the Chinese government."

WOE PILED UPON WOE for the Chinese. Coincident with Senator Connally's statement, press services carried the following dispatch from New Orleans: "William McChesney Martin, president of the U. S. Export-Import bank, said the bank would not even consider a loan now to Nationalist China. He said the Export-Import bank does not have on hand as much money as China probably will want, and that China is a 'poor business risk'."

Why was Connally giving the back of his hand to the generalissimo? Hear the senator: "Chiang is a generalissimo except that he doesn't go out and generalize. . . . If he took command of one of his armies in the field, he would do more to revive the morale of his people than anything else."

The Texan was but voicing publicly what other administration officials have been saying privately—that they are not too keen about Madame Chiang's all-out propaganda drive to divert more money and materials to China, possibly at the expense of the Marshall-plan countries. Connally summed up by saying that he was not prepared at this time to pass any opinion on increasing the aid to China, but added, "I am not in favor of sending combat troops to China."

MEANWHILE, CHIANG'S Suchow garrison was under orders to sally forth in an effort to save Nanking and rescue an entire army group trapped by the rampaging Communists—but gave no indication of heeding the call. The fate of the frightened capital depended on the ability, or willingness, of the 250,000-man Suchow force to quit its fortress 211 miles northwest of Nanking.

While the garrison was deliberating its next move, latest battle-front dispatches said the government's 12th army group, totaling about 140,000 men, was encircled by Communists 67 miles south of Suchow and 145 miles northwest of Nanking. Little defense remained on the route to Nanking.

BERLIN:
Blockade Talks Set

Hope for an early end to the Berlin blockade flared upward. Russia had accepted a new formula by the neutral nations of the U. N. Security Council for mediating the Big Four deadlock on the German capital issue.

Juan A. Bramuglia, Argentine foreign minister, announced that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky had agreed to the plan at a meeting with him. It called for the naming of a "neutral" commission of currency experts.

BASIS for the resurgence of hope that the issue could be amicably resolved was a statement by U. S. Senator Connally that he believed the Russian land blockade of Berlin "would be lifted soon."

Senator Connally told a news conference that "there is bound to be a way out" of the deadlock over Berlin. He said the argument over the circulation of Russian currency in Berlin does not justify the cost of the air lift supplying the city, and does not "relieve us of any threats of conflict." He insisted on joint control of any currency distributed in Berlin.

The United States, France and Britain gave approval in principle to the Bramuglia proposal. Bramuglia stated he hoped for immediate formal acceptance by the three western powers and saw a possibility for the new mediation effort to get results.

THE NEW FORMULA of the "neutrals"—China, Colombia, Syria, Canada, Argentina and Belgium—was aimed at meeting western objections to talks on the currency issue under the threat of the Soviet blockade of Berlin. It was also known to contain provisions for a commission of experts to try to unravel the Berlin currency problem in consultation with the Big Four's own experts.

The plan would recommend a complete and final lifting of the Berlin blockade at the same time the Soviet-zone mark is introduced in Berlin as the sole currency.

The four powers agreed on the use of the Soviet mark August 30, but became entangled in a dispute over when the measure should take effect and what kind of currency controls should be established.

DEFLATION:
Truman on Lookout

Like the horseman who galloped off in all directions, President Truman is sprinting both to and fro in the vexatious price control rise.

Just as the administration was girding to battle mounting living costs, prices sagged and now its economic experts are debating the need to don armor against deflation.

Most economic policy-makers believe inflationary forces still dominate the national scene—but some of them feel these forces are just about spent.

ONE TOP-LEVEL fiscal official declared, "inflationary pressures still outweigh the deflationary forces. But they aren't as great as they were a few months ago."

Inflationary pressures have subsided somewhat in recent weeks, but many government economists have adopted a "wait and see" policy. They want to know, first, how much President Truman will ask for "cold war" spending.

The cost of living is one of the important economic barometers indicating at least a temporary slackening of inflationary pressures. As measured by the bureau of labor statistics, living costs dropped slightly between mid-October and mid-November for the first time in seven months. And department store sales have been below their usual pre-Christmas levels.

However, economists point out that heavy spending for the armed services could quickly change the picture.

They expect President Truman's 15 billion dollar ceiling on defense spending to be boosted, and military aid for China and lend-lease arms for western European governments, they add, could swell the cost of foreign aid.

THAT KIND OF SPENDING, economists point out, puts more money in circulation and reinforces inflationary pressures by bidding up the price of labor and scarce material.

Red Mayor

German Communists named Fritz Ebert, son of the late President Friedrich Ebert of the Weimar republic, as mayor of Berlin at a frenetic outdoor rally before Berlin university. The "rump" city assembly, attended only by Communists, voted for the immediate resignation of the acting mayor, Ferdinand Friedensburg.

HOUSING:
Realtors Critical

State socialism was the goal seen by the National Association of Real Estate Boards for the promoters of public housing.

A pamphlet published by the board's legislative committee charged a "clever propaganda campaign" about housing has been "developed by a coalition of planners," socialists and radicals.

"The objective of this powerful coalition is simple," the pamphlet continued, "state socialism with all its dangerous implications. Control of housing is their first and logical step."

THE PAMPHLET, entitled "The world owes me a living," appeared to be an attack on public housing features of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill. President Truman is committed to ask congress in January to revive and enact this measure.

The bill failed to pass in the 80th congress. It would lay down a long-range housing program, including incentives for private industry, and federal subsidies for construction of 500,000 units of low-rent housing.

The real estate group pointed out that many people think meat costs too much. Yet few of them, the pamphlet added, would propose that the government go into the meat business.

YET, ALL OBSERVERS of the situation were agreed that no answer would be forthcoming to the continuing and aggravating national housing shortage until more rental units were constructed.

NO MONEY:
No Draftee

Army draft calls for January and February were reduced more than two-thirds when military officials realized this was necessary if limits on defense spending fixed by Mr. Truman were to be observed.

THE JANUARY QUOTA was cut from 20,000 to 10,000 and the February call, which had been set to take 25,000 to 30,000 men, was lowered to 5,000.

The army stated simply that the proposed budget for next year isn't big enough to build the 900,000-man army authorized by congress.

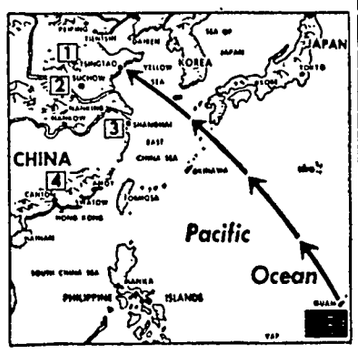
The armed forces had asked for 23 billion dollars for the fiscal year beginning July 1. President Truman set a 15 billion dollar ceiling on defense spending.

Of this total, 600 million dollars must be spent on stockpiling strategic raw material. The balance of $14,400,000,000 will be split among the armed forces, with the army expected to get about 5 billion dollars.

BECAUSE OF THAT, the army figures it will have to limit its strength to 677,000 officers and men. This is 223,000 (24.8 per cent) under the 900,000 authorized by congress last summer.

Army officials saw in the budget difficulty probability of sharp reductions in later draft calls, too. Instead of some 225,000 or 250,000 men marching off to the colors this fiscal year ending June 30, prospects were that the total would be but a fraction of either of those two figures.

Embattled China



Map shows how U. S. marine reinforcements from Guam (lower right) were moved to Tsingtao (1), American evacuation center. Safe conduct for evacuating Americans was considered imperative as the desperate battle for Suchow between Chinese Reds and Chinese Nationalists went into its final phase. Suchow (2) is the hot spot of China.

WARNING:
Doctors Must Offer

It's up to the nation's doctors themselves whether they'll be drafted. Physicians attending the interim session of the American Medical association in St. Louis were warned they must volunteer in sufficient numbers or face a special draft.

Dr. James C. Sargent, chairman of the AMA council on emergency medical service, said "many doctors are going into uniform in the months ahead—make no mistake about that." Sargent said a special draft would be undesirable, but that it may have to come. "We must provide adequate medical care for our fighting men," he said.

HUNGRY FED:
U. S. Great Sharer

America's millions shared with the hungry of the world in record amount during the past crop year, and yet managed to feed themselves better than in all their previous history.

Exports during the crop year ended July 1 totaled 19,347,000 long tons. This is the largest quantity of food ever shipped by any country in a single year. It topped American exports of the previous crop year by 187,000 tons.

The Cross Triumphant

Church Operates Underground in Russia

Millions of Christians are worshipping God in Russia despite Soviet opposition. The Rev. Kurz Szkalla, who recently visited Moscow in disguise, said that during his travels through Russia he discovered that Christians of all faiths, opposed to what he called the Moscow orthodox church, have formed a "cave church."

They are active, he said, in the western part of the Soviet union, particularly along the Don and the Dnieper rivers. He said the underground church has millions of followers, but he does not believe the time ripe to reveal details concerning the movement. Its leaders, he said, are being vigorously prosecuted by Soviet authorities.

Washington Digest

Christmas This Year Finds World Still Without Peace

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—I've been looking over old Christmas cards!

Christmas, 1945!

The message I sent you that Christmas came from amidst the rubble and the ruin of shattered Nuernberg where I experienced the saddest Holy Day season of my memory. It was spent with the ugly symbols of "man's inhumanity to man" all about me, the bitter negation of our Saviour's teachings.

BAUKHAGE

I was in uniform, the uniform of a non-combatant correspondent but I felt unhappy in it, though I had dreamed of wearing what we called "olive drab" in 1918, once again. My "assimilated rank" was undeserved. Young men had fought, survived or fallen, finishing a job that I and my generation in high-necked "blouses" and wrapped leggings had only started. On that day, Christmas, 1945, I wrote:

"I was as homesick as any young soldier in a lonely outpost with the threat of battle about him. I pictured my own hearthside, my wife and the others about the happy tree, my own tinseled packages unopened and my empty hands reaching out for them vainly over the oceans too wide to span."

Everywhere I looked that cold, damp day I saw, not war, but something more tragically eloquent—stunned, cramped souls in pinched bodies, hurrying amidst the wreckage of a city which had seen the blossoming of art and handicraft in stone and canvas and parchment which had enriched the world for centuries.

Now—1945—what is Nuernberg? Seat of the trial of Nazi war criminals.

That was my Christmas, 1945!

Christmas, 1946!

"The second one in seven years when one could really talk about 'peace on earth' without shamed and downcast eyes." That's what I wrote in this column then and I went on:

"While armies struggled who could think of the message to the shepherds from the angel's chorus promising peace on earth for all men of good will."

There was, indeed, much to be thankful for and much to be hopeful about on Christmas, 1946.

Then came—Christmas, 1947!

I was far away from fields whitened with snow. No bright red of the holly berry. Instead, the burning hibiscus and beyond it the feathery tops of the Royal palms.

The day started not with the creak of shoes over the frozen snow or a wind which "checked mid-vein, the circling race of life-blood to the sharpening face," but with the soft lap of water against the prow of our little boat which lulled me to lazy reminiscence.

We slipped along the river and into the inlet. High above coursed a flock of graceful, never-lighting, man-of-war "frigate" birds. To see them so far inland, said my naturewise companion, meant a rough ocean. These tireless creatures, it seems, prefer to hunt in the ocean unless the white caps are breaking too wildly.

Out sweeps a fish-hawk. In close pursuit, an eagle, who prefers a pilfered meal to one he must work for. The fish-hawk darts ahead, holding his dinner in his bill. The eagle sweeps down but the kingfisher banks and turns sharply. The big bomber must make a wide circle before it can change its direction. On the straight course he gains but loses again at each turn.

This goes on until finally the eagle, disgusted, gives up the chase and the kingfisher fades, fat meal in mouth, to a tiny spot in the sky. The men-of-war come back, high above us, even at this distance, with their seven to eight-foot wing spread, There is poetry of motion! They are gone and my eyes drop to the rushes. A tranquil water turkey!

We slow down and pull in toward the shore, close to an island swamp, its edges laced thick with mangroves, those mysterious plants whose grim brown fingers clutch deep into the water as if they sought some invisible and ghoulish enemy in the depth of the water. Low tide leaves them skeleton bare. The sun and part of the sky is overcast but the rest is robins' egg blue and the water about it is tinted lilac.

Trout begin to bite. And the snook! We are very busy for a while. Then the fish begin to elude me so I take up the camera. A stubborn crane lures us on but always manages to hide behind the mangroves out of focus. One more cast! A fine, fat trout—and it's time to go in.

We push back through the twilight. Into the truck and we bounce back to a gay little tree with the familiar decorations on its branches—branches which never knew the kiss of a snowflake, although the spot where I cut the pine tree the day before, a sandy flat, shone as white in the sunlight as a snowbank in Maine. (A photograph could fool you.)

People Await Peace on Earth

My thoughts weren't on the news that Christmas a year ago, but as I look back over what David Wills (who was broadcasting in my place) said, I read this line:

"The collapse of the London conference of foreign ministers is a tangible result of the mistrust pervading the world," broadcast Wills, "for the conference adjourned without having taken those essential and decisive steps along the road of peace for which the people of the earth are waiting in anguish."

The aftermath of that collapse is still with us and the path which the nations have trod since has led us to an "uncertain" peace at best.

On Christmas eve a year ago the pope, delivering his annual message from the Vatican, spoke of a Europe "shivering and feverish from economic difficulties and social chaos." He talked about "the lie." The "deliberate lie," he said sadly had become an established weapon of international relations. The lie of "garbled word or fact," part and parcel of the modern technique in the art of forming public opinion or controlling it and of making it serve the political ends of those bent on winning at any cost the battle of ideologies.

That was a not-too-happy Christmas for all the world (despite my selfish pleasures and perhaps yours, too) but, if the past year has not greatly changed that picture, it has changed it a little for the better.

I has given us some satisfaction to know that one idealistic concept has materialized. We have successfully prevented the spread of the powers against which the Christian world has been struggling. The Marshall plan, so far, has been a success.

Between last Christmas and this we saw Russia's cold war offensive stopped. Stopped at the Adriatic, stopped along the Seine, stopped in the low countries. Within that time the theory of an economic campaign moved from an idea to a blueprint, to the active and effective European cooperation administration, an efficient business organization headed by an efficient businessman, Paul Hoffman.

That is America's Christmas gift to humanity.

Two of the world's architects for peace, President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall, were the chief figures in the launching and implementation of the Marshall plan to aid Europe and curtail Communism. It was America's Christmas gift to the world in 1948.

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

BUSINESS & INVEST. OPPOR.

$20 A DAY. SELLING ENTIRELY NEW auto accessory to service stations and car owners. Nothing like it on the market, work full or part time. Sample $1.00. COURANT DIST. CO. 817 Walnut - Kansas City, Mo.

FOR SALE—CAFE, Manly, Iowa. Stock, fixtures, and two-story brick building, $15,000. Payments possible with $7,000. Cash down. M. RUSLEY, Manly, Iowa.

GARAGE, equipment, modern, parts invoice $1800. MIKE WALTJER, Little Rock, Iowa. Box 134.

DUTCH INN CAFE Brooklyn, Iowa. Doing $12,000 gross business per quarter. Priced reasonable. Also selling 3 rooms blonde modern furniture.

WILL SELL my half interest in a good well established hardware and bottle gas business. Building can be bought, rented. ALBERT BENTZINGER Donnellson - - Iowa.

DOGS, CATS, PETS, ETC.

SALE—10 CANARIES, CHOICE BIRDS Come see them. MRS. G. G. BOWEN, Searsboro, Iowa. No Sunday sales.

GREAT DANE A.K.C. reg. pups 8 weeks old. White and blue Harliquins and blacks. AL DUHAIME Jefferson - - So. Dak.

FARMS AND RANCHES

CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FREE INFORMATION on farm settlement opportunities Fertile soils. Reasonably priced. R. C. Bosworth Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station, St Paul, Minn.

700 ACRE GRAIN AND STOCK FARM about half valley farm land balance good pasture, two extra good sets buildings, one modern, outstanding. Price $125 will finance right parties with very reas. payment at 4% long term. Dissolving partnership. J. E. HALE Box 293 - - Clarinda, Ia.

FARM MACHINERY & EQUIP.

HAMMERMILL Gehl 14", Waukesha motor, mounted on Chevrolet truck, for sale, $1200.00. HARVEY C. PAULL, Greenfield, Iowa.

1945 20" GEHL feed grinder, with 6 cyl. Wauk. motor on 95 H P, V-8 truck. Feeder operates on ground. Good shape. L. A. BANISTER Cherokee, Iowa. Phone 107 W 4.

TD9 INT. BULLDOZER with Bucyrus Erie 8 ft. dozer. Good condition. Used less than two seasons. Ph. GLEN BOYLAN - Blanchard, Ia.

FOR SALE 1935 Ford truck, Continental Port Huron power unit No. PR501,953, 1941 KSG Int. with K7 motor, tractor and 1940 22' Fruehauf grain trailer. 1942 Dodge 2 ton tractor, new paint and 1946 22' Trailmobile grain trailer. 1944 K7 Int. tractor and 1946 22' Omaha Standard grain trailer 1945 EHT Mack tractor, air, and 1946 24' Spencer grain trailer 1946 EHT Mack tractor, air and 1945 28' Fruehauf tandem grain trailer

Buy now. Haul beans and wet corn. Reason for selling, we purchased new outfits. Phone 27R3 or see FREDRICKSON GRAIN COMPANY Meriden - - Iowa.

HELP WANTED—MEN

SALESMEN WANTED to sell Silver and Copper and Aluminum Trays. Comm. basis only. AMERICAN SILVER & GIFT CO., 67 Sutter Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

OPENING FOR MEN financially able to handle State Distributorship of farm implements. Write or phone MR. WILBUR THELEN of the DEARBORN IMPLEMENT CO., Rt. 4, Box 366, Lansing, Michigan. Phone 72281

LIVESTOCK

LUCIE & SLATER INBRED AND HYBRID BOARS for sale A new era has arrived in the swine industry. Use a LUCIE & SLATER boar for More rapid gains—better carcasses—less feed per hundred pounds of gain.

The best commercial hog breeding program is based on cross-breeding with the use of inbred boars. We can supply you with the proper line to use this year and in succeeding years.

Minnesota No. 1 Hamprace. Minnesota No. 2 A-Line Polands.

Purebred Minnesota No. 1 gilts and other gilts carrying one or more crosses of the inbred lines also for sale.

LUCIE & SLATER FARMS Augusta - - Illinois.

LIVESTOCK

FOR SALE. Shropshire sheep. Yearling rams and bred ewes. Best blood lines. Quality with size. Prices reasonable. H. E. Hazen, Denmark, Ia.

BEAUTIFUL TOY SHETLAND PONY stallion for sale. Black and white spotted sound, broke for children, also black mare pony, glass eyes. Both 5 years old. AHERN'S TAVERN Keokuk, Iowa - Ph. 1506

REAL ESTATE—HOUSES

TO trade for a farm an ultra-modern 4 apartment brick house with an income of $180.00 per month located in a college town. For particulars send inquiries to EDGAR CARNEY Conesville - - Iowa

REAL ESTATE—MISC.

CITY HOMES, FARMS AND ACREAGE All Sizes and Prices MARTIN & STUBBS, 102 E. Main St. Marshalltown, Iowa. Dial 8636, 8660, 3101

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

Get Well QUICKER
From Your Cough Due to a Cold
FOLEY'S Honey & Tar Cough Compound

Why EVER PAY MORE? Why St. Joseph ASPIRIN WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢ ACCEPT LESS?

7 DAYS WILL DO IT

YES, in just 7 days . . . in one short week . . . a group of people who changed from their old dentifrices to Calox Tooth Powder averaged 38% brighter teeth by scientific test. Why not change to Calox yourself? Buy Calox today . . . so your teeth can start looking brighter tomorrow!

Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping

CALOX TOOTH POWDER
McKesson & Robbins Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

TAKE MY ADVICE FOR BAKING SUCCESS

CHRISTMAS STOLLEN
1 package Red Star Dry Yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup milk
¾ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
3½ cups sifted flour (approximately)
½ cup shortening
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup chopped dates
2 tablespoons shaved citron
½ cup sliced pecans
6 candied cherries, chopped
Dissolve 1 package Red Star Dry Yeast in ¼ cup warm water Let stand 2 to 3 minutes. Scald milk. Add salt and ⅓ cup sugar Cool to lukewarm Stir yeast solution thoroughly and add to milk mixture Add half the flour and beat well. Stir in shortening. Add fruit and nuts and remainder of flour and mix to a smooth dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead for 5 minutes. Shape into smooth ball and place in greased bowl. Brush top lightly with shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place for 45 minutes. Shape and place on greased baking sheet. Let rise in warm place for 45 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 40 minutes. Makes 2 stollens. Frost with plain icing and decorate.
HOW IS IT YOU NEVER HAVE ANY BAKING FAILURES?
I ALWAYS USE RED STAR DRY YEAST...EACH PACKAGE GIVES ME THE SAME HIGH QUALITY RESULTS IS RED STAR AS FAST AS THE YEAST I'M NOW USING?
IT'S FASTER. . .STARTS WORKING THE MOMENT YOU ADD WARM WATER
Red Star QUICK RISING Dry Yeast

KAY ROGERS SAYS: "Yes, you can save time with RED STAR. Better yet, you get extra flavor and texture. For good Christmas eating, try this RED STAR Stollen recipe"

RED STAR DRY YEAST

"COLD BUG" "GOT CHILD ALL STUFFED UP?

Get MENTHOLATUM quick!

● Poor little nose—raw and tender and stuffed up from a cold! Quick, Mother, Mentholatum! Immediately it starts to lessen congestion, thins out thick mucus. Soon child's head feels clearer. She breathes better, sleeps better.

JUST RESTING

Big Program

Refreshments, a thin sandwich and two olives, had just been served at the town dance in the hill country.

"Is your program filled?" asked a local Romeo of a hillbilly belle when the dancing was resumed.

"Filled!" glared the girl. "Look here, young feller, it takes more than a skinny sandwich and two green plums to fill my program."

Tricks of the Trade

The night was dark and the hour was late as a solitary wayfarer passed along the deserted street. Suddenly three slinking figures emerged from the shadows marked their prey, and then attacked him.

Three to one is powerful odds, but the wayfarer held his own. One by one his assailants landed with a thud on the ground, battered and bruised, their clothing torn.

A policeman hurried up and surveyed the wreckage.

"Fine work!" he said, addressing the hero, who was calmly lighting a cigarette. "Ju-jitsu?"

"No," answered the hero. "Railway porter."

You can breeze through a good part of your Christmas shopping by simplifying your gift list. It's probably a fact that a good many of your friends enjoy cigarette or pipe smoking. You can easily please these friends by ordering several cartons of mild, mellow Camels and pound tins of rich-tasting Prince Albert from a local dealer. Both these popular gifts come ready-wrapped in gay holiday dress. No other gift wrapping is necessary. There's even space for your personal greeting. Save time and energy this Christmas season by giving cool, mild Camels and mellow Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco. (Adv.)

Beware Coughs From Common Colds That HANG ON

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

ALL-VEGETABLE LAXATIVE

NATURE'S REMEDY (NR) TABLETS—A purely vegetable laxative to relieve constipation without the usual griping, sickening, perturbing sensations, and does not cause a rash. Try NR—you will see the difference. Uncoated or candy coated—their action is dependable, thorough, yet gentle as millions of NR's have proved. Get a 25c box and use as directed.

Nature's Remedy
NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW ALRIGHT

FUSSY STOMACH?
RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN
EAT LIKE CANDY TUMS 10¢ STOMACH DISTRESS
FOR THE TUMMY!

Relieves Distress of MONTHLY
FEMALE WEAKNESS

Also Helps Build Up Red Blood!

Do female functional periodic disturbances make you suffer pain, feel so nervous, irritable—at such times? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Tablets are also very effective to help build up red blood in simple anemia.

Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS

When Your Back Hurts—

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

DOAN'S PILLS

Your Christmas Cards

CALENDAR
SEPTEMBER 1947
FIFTEEN MONTHS AGO, WHEN WOMEN'S FASHIONS WERE JUST GETTING THE "NEW LOOK," PUBLISHERS BEGAN DESIGNING THE 1948 CHRISTMAS CARDS
ARTISTS CAPTURED THE HOLIDAY SPIRIT IN FULL-COLOR PAINTINGS. MANY GREETING CARD ARTISTS SPECIALIZE--SOME IN WINTER SCENES—OTHERS IN CHRISTMAS FLORAL DESIGNS
SPECIAL PAPERS WERE OBTAINED—HEAVY VELLUM, RICH FOILS, HIGH-GLOSS COVER STOCKS, SHEETS OF PLASTIC, DELUXE HAND-MADE PAPERS WITH DECKLED EDGES
STEEL DIE ENGRAVINGS AND CAREFULLY DETAILED FULL COLOR LITHO PLATES WERE PREPARED FOR THE BIG PRINTING PRESSES. MANY DELIGHTFUL CARDS, HOWEVER, ARE STILL HAND COLORED VIA SILK SCREEN OR AIR BRUSH
MERRIE CHRISTMAS
A Friendly Christmas Greeting
CHRISTMAS GREETINGS
NO MACHINE CAN MATCH THE PRECISE BOWS OF RIBBON TIED BY NIMBLE-FINGERED WOMEN. SATIN INSERTS, RHINESTONES, AND OTHER ATTACHMENTS ARE APPLIED BY HAND, TOO
GAY CHRISTMAS CARDS, PRODUCT OF A DOZEN HANDS AND SKILLS, CARRY YOUR HOLIDAY GREETINGS TO FRIENDS AND RELATIVES EVERYWHERE. AMERICANS WILL EXCHANGE ONE AND A HALF BILLION CHRISTMAS CARDS THIS YULETIDE.

MIRROR of your MIND ● ● ● Why Women Don't Marry

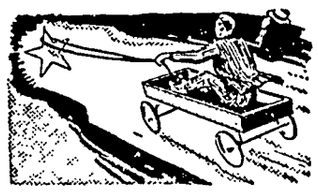
By Lawrence Gould

Can sex jealousy keep some women single?

Answer: Yes. This probably is the main reason why many attractive women do not marry, even though they'll say it is because they "never met the right man." A girl who grew up with the impression that her brothers had the best of her because they were boys, and her mother was exploited by male members of the family because she was a woman is apt to become so jealous of the whole male sex that the idea of "playing second fiddle" to a husband is intolerable to her. And although she may be lonely, such a girl is happier single.

Does handwriting reveal neurosis?

Answer: Not as satisfactorily as other methods, reports H. J. Eysenck in the Journal of Abnormal Social Psychology. A well known London graphologist was asked to rate the degree of neurosis of 176 patients in an army hospital on the basis of handwriting samples, and while his analysis conformed to some extent with the findings of other tests, it failed to agree with the results of psychiatric diagnosis. The writer concludes that while some aspects of neurosis do show in handwriting, other tests are more trustworthy and quicker.

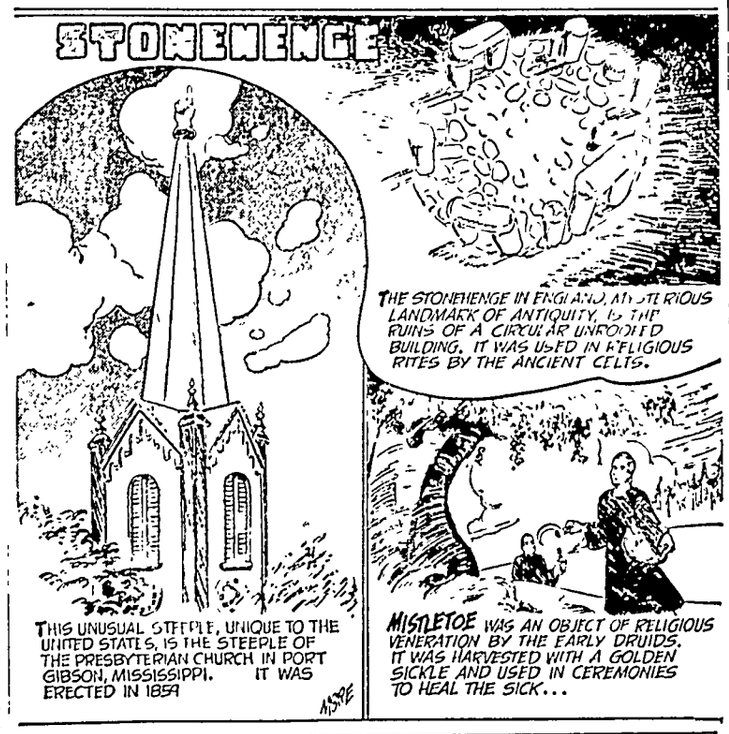


Is "self-improvement" a desirable aim?

Answer: That depends on what inspires your efforts. As long as you're mainly trying to learn more effective ways of getting satisfaction out of life, you can work to the limits of your strength and suffer from no inner friction. But if to "improve yourself" means trying to change your character by main force and will power, you will achieve little except inner conflict and neurosis. You'll do better to accept the fact that you're the sort of person you are and find how such a person can be happy in ways that society approves of.

LOOKING AT RELIGION

By DON MOORE



STONEHENGE
THE STONEHENGE IN ENGLAND, MYSTERIOUS LANDMARK OF ANTIQUITY, IS THE RUINS OF A CIRCULAR UNROOFED BUILDING. IT WAS USED IN RELIGIOUS RITES BY THE ANCIENT CELTS.
THIS UNUSUAL STEEPLE, UNIQUE TO THE UNITED STATES, IS THE STEEPLE OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN PORT GIBSON, MISSISSIPPI. IT WAS ERECTED IN 1859
MISTLETOE WAS AN OBJECT OF RELIGIOUS VENERATION BY THE EARLY DRUIDS. IT WAS HARVESTED WITH A GOLDEN SICKLE AND USED IN CEREMONIES TO HEAL THE SICK...

KEEPING HEALTHY

Watching Emotions in Teen-Agers

By Dr. James W. Barton

ONE of the problems for parents and physicians is the way the average boy at puberty dislikes admitting that he is not well physically. He feels that it is beneath his dignity as a boy approaching manhood.

Physical disability of any sort is reacted to as a tremendous threat to prestige and in the competitive relationship which characterizes the attitude of the adolescent or teen-age boy.

He just does not want to be considered weak enough to be sick or have any physical disability. Yet if he is not well, trying to play hard with thin blood or some infection of the teeth, gums or tonsils, considerable harm can be done physically if his parents fail to notice his "drawn" appearance or lack of energy.

While the boy who denies any symptoms of illness is a cause of anxiety to his parents, the boy who "leans" on any slight physical disability as the reason for not measuring up in work or play really should be a cause of still greater anxiety.

A boy who uses slight illness or physical defect as his reason for not engaging in group games in which he must give and take is likely to become a nervous or neurotic adult.

When boys and girls do not play or mix regularly with those of their age, then the time which should be spent in play is spent in some other way.

Unfortunately, many of these boys and girls at or approaching the puberty age spend much of their spare time in eating rich, starchy foods. Instead of this extra food being used or burned in play, it is stored in the body as fat.

A fat child, and particularly a very fat girl, is likely to draw within himself or herself, avoid playmates, and store up a neurosis.

Instead of the excess fat being "worried" off them, as normal fat is worried off those of normal weight or underweight, the fat deposits increase as the excess food is eaten and there is no work or play to remove it.

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

As every pound of fat holds three pounds of water, removing a pound of fat by exercise or eating less food means loss of four pounds of weight.

• • •

Two conditions which cause breathlessness are eating too much avid food—meat, eggs, fish—and having a blocked nose which does not allow enough oxygen to reach the lungs and purify the blood.

The liver does more different kinds of work than any other organ in the body. Anything that interferes with its work upsets all the body processes.

• • •

Best method for inducing sleep is to take a few minutes' exercise or a warm bath immediately before retiring. This generally will bring sleep, in most cases.

Christmas Toys For Every Need

Be a careful shopper when you select Christmas toys

Just as there are different types of toys for each age level, so there are toys that serve different purposes in each age group.

There are manipulative toys, toys for physical development, balance and skill, toys for dramatic, imaginative play, toys to teach arts and handicrafts, and toys to encourage an interest in nature, science, hobbies and pets.

A child needs some of each in the form best adapted to his age level.

Toys for babies should be selected primarily from the standpoint of safety. They should have no sharp edges, no loose parts small enough to be swallowed. Animals with eyes glued or pinned on, toys covered with poisonous paint or made of glass or china are taboo. The best choice is something that can be washed when it becomes soiled.

Great Royal Feasts Once Marked Yule

A modern Christmas dinner is a mere "snack" compared to the royal Yule banquets of Kings and Queens in history.

For one of Edward III's Christmas feasts 2,000 oxen were prepared. The guests ate as much as they could and the vast leftovers were distributed to anyone who happened to come along. Edward was the first English king to employ French cooks for a Christmas feast.

When Henry III spent Christmas of 1241 at Gloucester, he ordered the sheriff to buy 20 large salmon to put into pies for the Christmas dinner. Richard II feasted 10,000 people at a banquet in 1399. He kept more than 1,000 cooks, each of whom specialized in one kind of food.

Hang Stockings For Santa Claus

Why have stockings come to be a traditional receptacle for Christmas gifts?

Although historians can give no authentic answer, they point out that children's stockings are usually hung by the chimney to keep warm or dry out, so it was natural that Santa Claus should pick them as the place in which to deposit gifts.

In certain regions of France it is the shoe that is put out on Christmas Eve. Some authorities say that shoes and stockings were put near the fireplace for the same reason that an old boot was associated with a wedding—in order to bring good luck and drive away evil spirits.

Good Yule Stories By Americans

Probably the most famous American story is Kate Douglas Wiggin's "The Birds' Christmas Carol." Others worth reading are Louisa May Alcott's "Christmas at Orchard House" and Vincent Starrett's "Snow for Christmas." Christopher Morley's "The Worst Christmas Story" happens to be almost one of the best.

Yule Record Begins In Fifth Century

There is no mention of a Christian observance of December 25 as Christmas before the fifth century. There is, in fact, no record to indicate what date Jesus was born.

Various researchers have set the day as January 6, March 25, May 20, April 19 and November 17. In order to win Christian converts away from their observance of the pagan mid-winter festival, early churchmen induced them to observe the birth of Christ Jesus at that time instead. Thus December 25 came to be established as Christmas.

Real Santa Claus A Youthful Saint

The name of Santa Claus is merely slurring the Dutch San Nicholas, which is, of course, St. Nicholas. American children are probably the only ones who say it exactly that way

Nicholas was an actual person. He was Bishop of Myra, in Lycia, Asia Minor, in the first part of the fourth century He was also the youngest bishop in the history of the church.

From the day of his birth Nicholas revealed his piety and grace. He refused on fast days to take the natural nourishment of a child.

But Nicholas was not a barefoot recluse vowed to poverty. His father was a wealthy merchant, and his riches enabled him to be a dispenser of the good things of life.

The feast of St. Nicholas was originally celebrated on December 6. Later, when church people in the late Middle Ages tried to suppress the festivities which grew up around the Boy Saint's day, his festival came to be associated with Christmas day.

Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

Mrs. Rose Maselauskes, of Chicago, makes bird cages and geometric figures of straw to trim the Lithuanian Christmas tree,

Santa's Enemies

In Newark, N. J., Santa is required to pass a stiff physical examination before he can serve in a department store. And even then it is verboten for him to kiss any of the children who perch upon his knee.

In Charleston, S. C., charity Santas have been forbidden to make a pitch on public streets on the grounds that children flocking to see them may create a traffic hazard.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Daniel 7; Revelation 1; 4:8b, 11; 11:15b; 15:3b-4; 21-22.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Revelation 7:9-17.

God's V-Day

Lesson for December 26, 1948.

EVERYBODY loves a fight, they say. But the underdog does not love it, and nobody loves one that goes on and on and seems to have no end. The longest war in history is the war that mankind wages against everything that is out to destroy him. It is the war between man at his best and man at his worst, between the angel and the devil in man himself. We seem to be the underdogs—and how tired we grow of it!

Dr. Foreman

• • •

God's Fight

THE Bible shows us that this fight is not one in which we human beings are left to defend ourselves alone. We have an enemy, Satan; and we have an ally, God. Whenever a man lines up against anything that is wrong, hateful, deceitful, destructive, and on the side of what is creative, just, brotherly and true, he finds that this is not a private fight, it is not even the struggle of mankind alone. It is a cosmic conflict.

God's universe is not a neat garden in which only flowers grow; he has to work cutting down the weeds. His universe is not a realm at peace, with no need even for police; treason is abroad, rebellion breaks out here and there.

The Greeks used to think that the gods never went to any trouble, they ruled without effort. But the Christian Bible tells of a God who does have troubles, who meets opposition and fights against it.

• • •

Bright Books for Dark Times

TWO books in our Bible bring this out in a startling way: Daniel and Revelation. We have been thinking through three months now about various kinds of literature in the Bible. The kind represented by these two books is called "Apocalyptic." Scholars have discovered a number of similar books, but these two are incomparably the greatest and were the only two to be admitted to the Bible. One feature of all apocalyptic literature is that it always appears in dark times, and its first readers are people down at the bottom of the heap, people beyond all human hope

Daniel, long before the time of Christ, and Revelation, two generations later than Christ, came as lights in a very dark world. The first of these books circulated when the Jews were hard pressed by Syrian persecutors, and when the other came out, the Christians were about to be crushed out of existence by cruel Roman emperors.

Observing what went on in those days, you might have thought the Jews, or the Christians as the case might be, had no prospects of surviving. But these books brought a brighter message: Have courage! God will not lose!

• • •

A Code in Pictures

DANIEL and Revelation are both hard to understand, and for the same reason. Their messages are framed not always in plain language but in symbols. Hidden meanings abound.

This had to be so; if one of these books fell (as sometimes they did) into the hands of the persecuting agents of the Syrian or Roman governments, it would not get the owner into trouble, for the agent would hardly be able to interpret the strange language.

All sorts of weird creatures and events move through these mysterious pages, and they often probably refer to persons or events known to the writers and the first readers: beasts with iron teeth and horns with eyes; a flaming throne set on a river of fire; golden vials filled with the wrath of God; a red dragon sweeping the stars down with its tail.

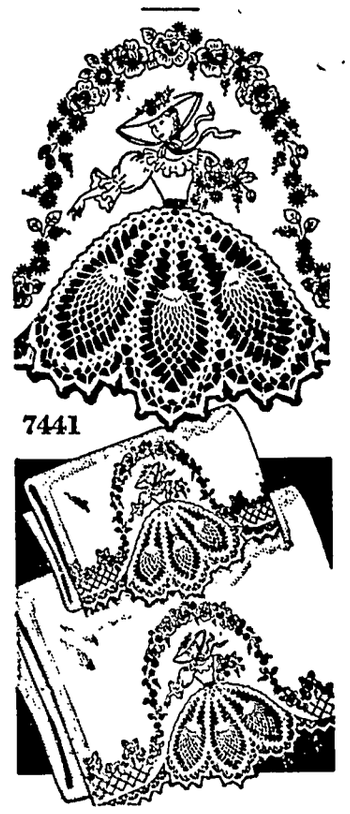
• • •

God's Victory

WE NEED not be distressed now at not being able to unlock all the code in which these extraordinary books are written. We can read them for their sheer beauty and force of imagination, for one thing, and we cannot miss their main truth. The bright picture of the New Jerusalem in Rev. 21, 2^ is one of the loveliest and most comforting passages in the entire Bible

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

Variety in Embroidery



7441

YOU'LL have such fun with all the needlework variety here! Embroidery and crochet in a fascinating old-fashioned girl design for linens.

• • •

The daintiest decoration! Pattern 7441; transfer of a 9x19½ and two 7x15 inch motifs; crochet directions.

Put your spare moments to good account! Our Needlework Book will show you how It's only 15 cents. This edition has illustrations of the best designs yet. Embroidery, knitting, crochet, toys, children's clothes, accessories Each design comes in a simplified pattern that is so easy to follow Plus—FREE—a pattern printed in the book.

Sewing Circle Needlecraft Dept.
561 W. Randolph St. Chicago 80, Ill.
Enclose 20 cents for pattern.
No._____
Name_____
Address_____

Promptly relieves coughs of
TIGHT ACHING CHEST COLDS
RUB ON MUSTEROLE

FEELING POORLY?

See how SCOTT'S helps build you up!

If you feel run down, and colds hang on—maybe you don't get enough natural A&D Vitamin food. Then try good-tasting Scott's Emulsion—the HIGH ENERGY FOOD TONIC! See how you begin to get your strength back! How you can fight off colds! Scott's is a "gold mine" of natural A&D Vitamins and energy-building natural oil. Easy to take. Economical. Buy today at your drug store.

MORE than just a tonic—it's powerful nourishment!

SCOTT'S EMULSION
HIGH ENERGY TONIC

How You May SLEEP Tomorrow Night
—without being awakened

If you're forced up nightly because of urges, do this: Start taking FOLEY PILLS for Sluggish Kidneys. They purge kidneys of wastes; they soothe those irritations causing those urges. Also allay backaches, leg pains, painful passages from kidney inaction. Unless you sleep all night tomorrow night DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK. At your druggist.

WNU—N 50—48

BLOWERS FOR CORN DRYING
USE THESE BIG BLOWERS
TO DRY CORN, HEAT THE BARN, VENTILATE THE ATTIC, FURNACES, ETC.

Blowers — Used LENNOX Squirrel Cage Type Impellers 28" x 22" Discharge—Pillow Bl. Bearings — V Belt Drives with or without motors.

JOSEPH BEHR & SONS, Inc.
1164 Seminary Rockford, Ill.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

* • *

To All My
Register and Tribune
Customers

Reverdy Mace

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Xmas Cactus

Grandma Albers has a Christmas cactus with 55 blossoms and buds on it. The plant is in a small pot and is not very large.

CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

Snow the latter part of the week put a Christmas touch to the scenery around Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker of Clear Lake were visiting in Klemme Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albers returned home Thursday from Mason City hospital where he recently underwent an operation.

A number of young men and women who are attending college have already returned home for the holiday vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer of Mason City, Titus Davis of Merriam, Kansas, and Ray Jorgenson, Jr. and family were entertained to dinner Sunday at the R. A. Jorgenson home.

Snow and ice have made it hard going for both cars and pedestrians. John Neuberger took a bad spill up town Saturday and hit the sidewalk pretty hard. No broken bones, but John said he got a good shaking up.

From Brownsville, Texas we learn that Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bailey have visited at the E. J. Blumer and other homes there and that Herb and Emil have been out fishing in the gulf. Mr. Bailey was married recently.

Mrs. Dwight Hummel is assisting with work at the Post Office during the annual Christmas rush. Postmaster Kluckhohn says that the peak of the outgoing mail rush was hit Saturday.

Lloyd Lau reports that he had a very successful public sale of fire damaged merchandise at the N rthern Implement Co. Saturday. There was a large crowd present and bidding was lively. "Red" Buntenbach was the auctioneer and did a real job of selling.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Trumbell attended the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Christie at Goodell Saturday.

Ray Jorgenson, Jr. and family moved Saturday into the Wm. Stille house 1 block north of the Post Office.

Mrs. Mary Wells of Michigan, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Schuster until Thursday, when she will go to Missouri to spend a few days with her parents.

Titus Davis. of Merriam, Kansas, who has been visiting with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs. Lyle Liebendorfer of Mason City, came Sunday for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. until after the holidays. Mr. Davis is 91 years young.

Ell Tip Toppers

The Ell Tip Toppers report that they had a very successful bake sale at the Klemme Food Market Saturday afternoon.

Pink And Blue Shower

Mrs. John Schwichtenberg was honored at a pink and blue shower on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Schwichtenberg. The ladies enjoyed the afternoon playing games, at which prizes were awarded. Mrs. John Schwichtenberg received many nice gifts. Lunch was served by the hostess later n the afternoon.

"Red" Buntenbach and Larry Wicks flew to Minneapolis Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gordon of Rowan visited at the Mitchel Bock home Monday evening.

Jimmy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchel Bock, had his tonsils removed at the Hampton hospital Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Albers and children of Swaledale and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lauster spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. George Albers.

Joyce Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchel Bock, spent last Wednesday annd Thursday at Dows with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Beesman.

Mrs. Carl Suckow and son, Warren, and his wife of Jennings, La., who have been visiting with friends and relatives in the Garner and Klemme communities, have returned home. They were called here by the death of Mrs. Suckow's brother, E. H. Ludeke of Britt.

Mrs. Mildred Day went to Mason City Thursday evening to be present at a farewell dinner for Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Day and Gary at the M. D. Kubicek home. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mathews and Mrs. Mary Petersen of Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorance Day and son, Gary, moved last week to Des Moines where Mr. Day has been transferred by his insurance company. The Days sold their house in Mason City and purchased a nice home in West Des Moines. Mr. Day will be the assistant mananger in the office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Their new residence address is 3514 54th Street.

Phone your news to 12.

Mr. and Mrs. "Stub" Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Wes Schuldt left Saturday on a trip to the west coast. Mr. and Mrs. Schuldt will spend a month or more visiting their son, Raymond and family at Sacramento, California and will return home on the train. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will tour the west and south seeing places of interest. They will also visit with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lewis while in the west.

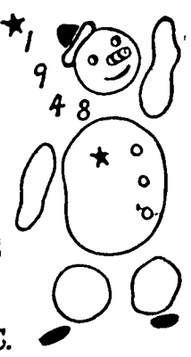
FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

KLEMME
MOVIES

DECEMBER 23
"HOME IN OKLAHOMA"
ROY ROGERS

Dec. 30
SLAVE GIRL
(In Technicolor
Yvonne DeCarlo
Comedy Each Show
SHOW AT 7:30 P. M.

"OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS!" WE HOPE YOU HAVE ONE, AND THAT THE THOUGHT OF SUCH A DAY BRINGS YOU A FLOOD OF HAPPY MEMORIES.



Bell's Produce
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell

Arthur Wellemeyer
FUNERAL DIRECTOR

—with long experince and best equipment.
PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE
Phone 23-R2 Day or Night

Klemme - Iowa

GOODELL
Evangelical United Brethren Church
W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Worship Services at 11 A. M.

"The Wise men and the Star" will be the pastor's subject. We are still thinking of presenting the Christmas Message. There will also be special Christmas music.

Our Christmas program will be given at 8 o'clock on Christmas Eve.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH
E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

The Sunday School Program will be held on Friday, Christmas Eve, at 7:30 o'clock. The children of the school will present the Christmas Story in song, recitation, and tableau. Everyone welcome.

Sunday, December 26th:

Morning Worship at ten and Sunday School at eleven. The Fellowship groups will not meet.

The Klemme-Liberty Brotherhood will meet in the Liberty Church on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The program will include devotions, group singing, a talk by William Lemke, and a sound motion picture in color, "Realm of the Wild." The Liberty men will serve "Oyster Stew" following the program.

"New Year's Eve in the Church" from 9 to 12 will be sponsored by the High School Youth Fellowship in the Klemme Church. There will be an hour of entertainment, a social period with refreshments, and a worship service of commitment to close the passing year. All members and friends of the churches are urged to attend and thus welcome the New Year in a spirit of devotion.

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH
E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

The Sunday School Program will be held on Friday, Christmas Eve, at 7:30. Songs and recitations and a pageant will comprise the program. The public is invited.

Sunday, December 26th:

Sunday School at 10:15 and Morning Worship at 11:20.

The Liberty men will entertain the Klemme-Liberty Methodist Brotherhood in the church on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The program will include devotions, group singing, a talk by William Lemke, and a sound motion pictures in color, "Realm of the World." The group will enjoy an "Oyster Stew" following the program.

"New Years Eve in The Church" from 9 to 12 will be sponsored in the Klemme church by the High School Youth Fellowship. There will be an hour of entertainment, a social period with refreshments, and a worship service of commitment to close the passing year. All members and friends of the churches are urged to attend and thus welcome the New Year in a spirit of devotion.

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH
Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

Christmas Eve, Dec. 24th:

7:30 P. M. Sunday School Program. Offering for the Orphan's Home.

Christmas Morning, Dec. 25th.

10:00 A. M. Morning Worship. Offer for Mission House.

Sunday, Dec. 26th:

10:00 A. M. Morning Worship.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.

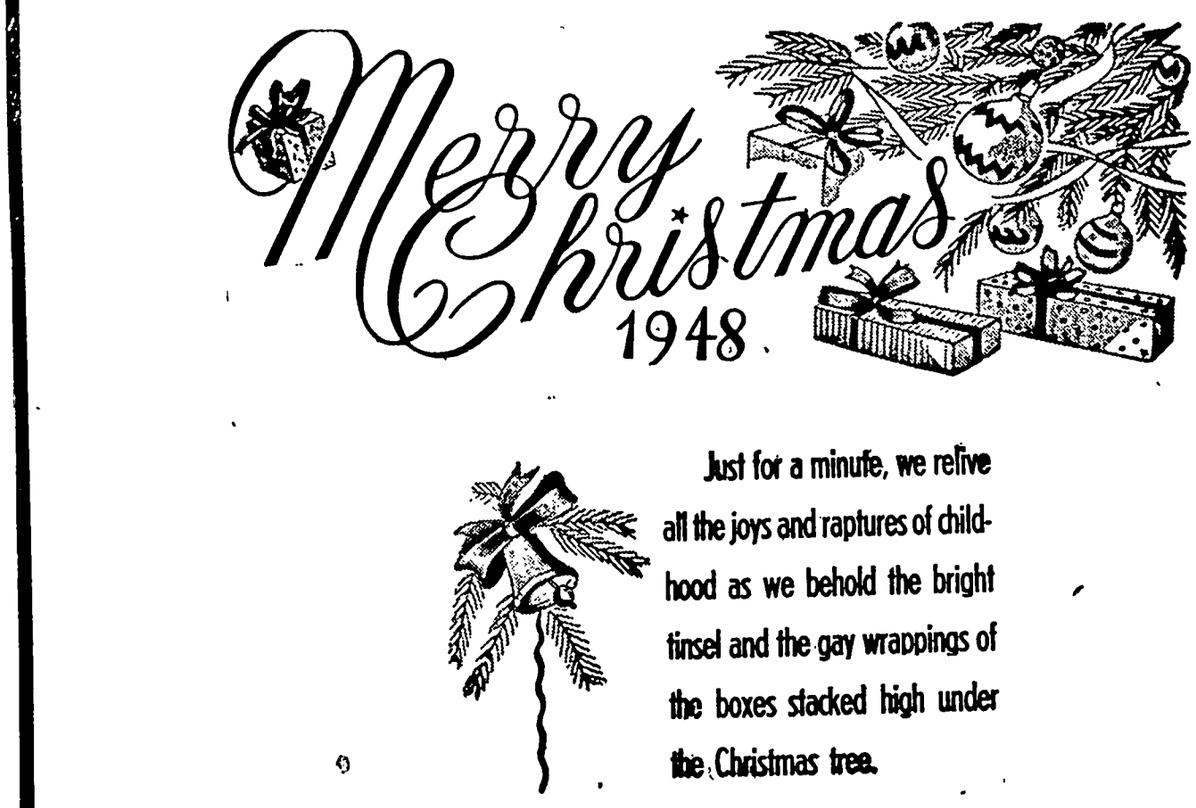
Mr. William Lemke will speak at the worship service and Miss Helen Lemke will present the Christmas message to the Sunday School with the aid of a Biblio Graph.

Sunday School election of officers during S. S. Session.

Shop and Save in Klemme.

TO ALL OF YOU, A SEASON BRIMFUL WITH HOLIDAY JOY.

J. C. Thomas
Barber



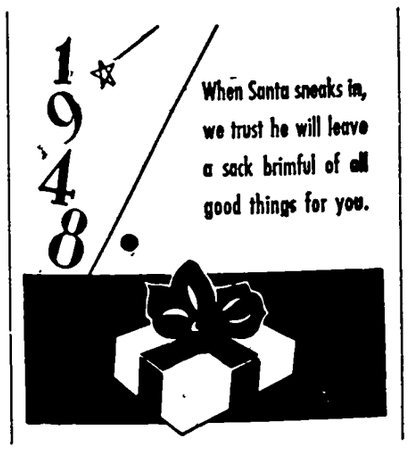
Just for a minute, we relive all the joys and raptures of childhood as we behold the bright tinsel and the gay wrappings of the boxes stacked high under the Christmas tree.

May your gift be an assurance that all your most cherished dreams and hopes will be realized—that is our wish for you at this happy Yuletide season.

C. A. LARSEN
LYLE
DORIS

MARTIN
HERMAN
ELSIE

Klemme Food Market



EDDIE
EDWARD

ETHEL
IHLA

TED

JOSTEN APPLIANCE

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER

THE KLEMME TIMES

Volume 54. KLEMME, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1948 Number 7.

We Wish Everyone A Happy New Year

TELLS OF BENEFITS OF BELONGING TO THE FARM BUREAU THIS YEAR

WHAT IS THE FARM BUREAU?

The Farm Bureau is so often confused with governmental agencies of a farm nature, and with various other organizations of many sorts, that it is necessary to repeatedly define the organization and to outline its purposed and objectives.

The Farm Bureau is an organization of farm families, who pay annual dues for its financial support. In Hancock County there are 1632 members. In Iowa there are 134,000 members and in the United States there are 1,250,000 members.

Members are defined as a farm family is counted as one member The Farm Bureau has three main parts: (1) Education. (2) Legislation. (3) Service for members. Education—The educational part of the organization's activities are carried out largely through the working relationship between the Extension Service and the Farm Bureau. The Farm Bureau serves as the means by which educational material of an agricultural nature is distributed and put into use through organized effort of the farmers.

Thousands of farmers spend a great deal of time which they devote to the promotion of these educational activities, such as 4-H club work, soil conservation, and women's activities.

Legislation — The legislative phase of the Farm Bureau has come to be recognized as one of the most effective methods of representing the masses of farm people ever instituted in the United States.

Great care is taken to keep the organization on a bi-partisan basis. This means simply that the Farm Bureau work through both of the major political parties in each county and state, as well as the national level.

In Iowa, the Farm Bureau has taken an active part in the affairs of government. In the June Primary elections, the organization's leaders and officials exert every effort to secure the best possible candidates for office in both parties.

This is done through an extensive and intensive campaign to cause all citizens to be aware of the various issues involved. Everyone is urged to study carefully the record or the platform of the various candidates for office.

Farm Bureau last year originated and carried out the greatest "Get-Out-The-Vote" campaign ever staged in Iowa. Every county Farm Bureau in the state was asked to organize on a township basis an effective machine to get all eligible voters to go to the polls and vote.

The Farm Bureau does not participate in the General Election, because of the partisan factor involved. However, the organization does urge all citizens to go to the polls in the General Election, as well as in the primary.

The farm Bureau never has and will not endorse any particular candidate for any office, either county, state or national. Its legislative policy is based entirely upon the issues at hand, and its only design in this field is to elect candidates of either party who are sympathetic to the problems of agriculture.

Service—In getting up services for members, the Farm Bureau has gone a short way into the cooperative field. The first move to enter this field was in 1928, when the Iowa Farm Service Company was established for the purpose of distributing petroleum products to farmers to a more reasonable cost than they had been paying

Prior to 1928, the margin of operating profit per gallon of gasoline overaged from nine to 12 cents in Iowa. Since that time the margin of profit has averaged about four cents per gallon. Thus, not only farmers, but everyone who uses gasoline has saved a great deal of money as the result of this move.

Gradually, the Farm Bureau has set up a few other companies. These include the Iowa Farm Serum Company, the Iowa Farm Mutual Insurance Company, the Iowa Life Insurance Company, the Iowa Mutual Hail Insurance Company and the Iowa Plant Food Company.

All of these companies are designed to render a better service for Farm Bureau members than they can get any other place, and also at a lower cost. None of the companies affiliated with the Farm Bureau make a practice of cutting rates. Upon receiving his merchandise, the Farm Bureau member pays regular established market price

At the end of the year he is given back whatever share of the profits he has earned in proportion to the amount of merchandise he has purchased This refund is known as dividend payments, most of which are paid on a cash basis.

Each company affiliated with the Farm Bureau must stand on its own financial feet. No money from organization dues, and no tax money of any kind is ever used to promote any of the commercial companies in any manner.

The commercial companies affiliated with the Farm Bureau pay taxes in a manner identical to most other corporations of businesses.

Klemme Girl Sings In College Chorus

Elizabeth Goll of Klemme is a member of the Iowa State Teachers college mixed chorus which gave the annual presentation of Handel's oratorio "Messiah" at the college Sunday, December 19, at 4 p. m.

The "Messiah" was presented in the men's gymnasium for the first time this year in order that a larger crowd may attend

Dr. Edward Kurtz, head of the department of music at the college, conducted the chorus, which was prepared by Maurice Gerow, and the college symphony orchestra.

Legion And Auxiliary Will Meet Tuesday Night, Jan. 4th

The American Legion and Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday evening, January 4th at the hall. The ladies are asked to bring one pound of carpet rags for Knoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hess and Mr. and Mrs Albert Etchen are on the serving committee.

GOODELL

Evangelical United Brethren Church

W. T. BOSTON, PASTOR

Sunday School at 10:00 A. M.
Worship Services at 11 A. M.
This will be our New Year's Sunday Service.
Choir practice Wednesday evening at the parsonage at 7:30.
Holy Communion will be observed Sunday, January 9th.
A record attendance of about 275 was present at the Christmas program and a good offering of $172.00 has been received for the Otterbein home. Our goal is at least $181.00.

FORMER KLEMME RESIDENT DIED SUNDAY P. M.

Charles P. Ell, printer employed by the Mitchell County Press at Osage, died of a heart attack at a hospital in Mankato, Minnesota, Sunday evening. He was past 70 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Ell were spending the holiday with relatives at Good Thunder, Minnesota and were about to return to Osage in mid-afternoon when Mr. Ell was stricken as he went to start his car He was taken to a hospital at Mankato where he died without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Ell was a resident of Klemme several years ago and is well known here.

FORMER KLEMME MAN DIED AT BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS

Word has been received in Klemme of the death of Marlin Croner, former Klemme carpenter and contractor, who died in a Brownsville, Texas hospital from a blood clot when he was recuperating from an appendix operation. Mr Croner died on December 8th and was 64 years old

He leaves his daughter, Dorothy (Mrs. Wm. Johnson of Chicago.) His wife, the former Selma Schroeder, preceded him in death a number of years ago.

Services were held at Garnett, Kansas, Mr Croner's former home and he is buried there with his parents.

BRITT EAGLES WIN OVER KLEMME 44-29

The Britt high school Eagles scored their 6th victory in 7 starts of this season by downing Klemme 44-29 Tuesday night at Britt. Britt was slow in starting and didn't score a point in the first quarter as Klemme led 6-0. But the Eagles took over by halftime 16-10 and never again lost the lead. Jim Harvey with 15 points and Jack Thies with 14 paced the winners while Marvin Schmidt counted 10 for the losers and Merlin Brinkman, turned in a good floor game

Mr. Stille In Hospital

Mr. Wm. Stille, who is staying at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Anderson at Charles City, was taken to the Charles City hospital Monday morning for treatment as he has not been too well the past few days. Mr. Stille's friends hope for his speedy recovery.

HELLO, FOLKS

Mr and Mrs Donald Schafer of Klemme are the proud parents of a 5 lbs. 11 oz. baby girl born Sunday, December 26 at the Mercy hospital in Mason City.

Mr and Mrs. Doyce Friedow of west of Klemme are the parents of a baby girl, weight 7 lbs. 6 oz. born Monday, Dec. 20 at the Belmond hospital. They have named her Donyce Ann.

New Born Baby Has Tooth!

A daughter was born on Sunday, December 12 to Mr. and Mrs. William Sandrey of Goodell with a full tooth on the lower gum. Mrs. Sandrey is the former Lena Gruis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Klaus Gruis of near Meservey.

INCOME TAX LAW HAS CHANGES

NEW LAW WILL CUT 1948 INCOME TAX

Husbands and Wives May Each File Returns If They Wish To Do So

Three major changes in 1948 income tax returns will affect Iowa farm families, says H. B. Howell, economist at Iowa State College.

The new income tax law reduces individual income taxes through percentage reductions and through increased exemptions. It also permits husbands and wives to divide their combined income equally for filing joint tax returns. However, the new legislation, the Revenue Act of 1948, does not change, in any way, the method of computing net profits, Howell points out.

Lower Surtax Rates

Dividing incomes equally gives farmers and their wives a chance to compute the amount of tax due at lower surtax rates. The divided income may be used only by persons filing joint returns. He thinks that joint returns are usually best unless the taxpayers have had high medical bills or other unusual expenses.

Howell reminds farmers whose business year starts January 1, that they have until January 15 to file their returns or an estimate of the tax to be paid The amount of the estimate must be paid by January 15, if that method is used.

Two copies of all of the forms needed may be obtained at a post office or bank or from the Collector of Internal Revenue One copy is for the taxpayer to keep for his records, and it's good business to keep a copy of all returns filed.

No Mail New Year's Day

Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn says the post office will be closed on New Year's Day as there will be no mail deliveries to or from Klemme.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The girl scouts held their meeting Monday, December 27, at 4 o'clock at the Trumbell home. We opened the meeting by giving the pledge to the flag. We gave the girl scout promise and laws.

We had election of officers. Carol Bridges was elected as patrol leader Margaret Haefner was elected scribe.

We have chosen the purple pansy for our flower. We have chosen yellow ties for our uniforms.

The tenth of January the number ones will serve the lunch. We closed our meeting by singing White Christmas.

Margaret Haefner, Scribe

Christmas Eve Party

Mrs. Clara Barz entertained all her children and their families at a Christmas Eve party after the church program. Other guests were Mrs. Lena Schroeder, Mrs. Mary Waterman, Mrs. Herman Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barz and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Voetberg.

Christmas Programs

There were large crowds present at each of the churches in the community Christmas Eve. The Sunday Schools gave programs in the Evangelical and Reformed; the Klemme and Liberty Methodist Churches, Peace Reformed and at the Goodell U. B. Church.

DHIA Training Course In January

"For a man interested in sound, down-to-earth training in dairy management, a year or two as a Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisor is time well spent," says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

He points to the tuition-free DHIA supervisor's training course that will be held at Iowa State College, January 3 to 22.

At least 25 DHIA supervisors will be needed in the state within the next few months, according to Don Voelker, extension dairyman at the college. Opportunities for placement of supervisors are excellent, he reports. While there are 95 associations in Iowa at the present time, several other countries are interested in forming new associations as soon as qualified supervisors are available.

Hancock County men who wish to find out more about a chance to learn dairying and earn a good salary at the same time, may write Voelker at 202 Morril Hall, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

Reports Of ACP Practices Must Be Completed On or Before January 10, 1949

A. E. Rasmussen, Chairman of the Hancock County Aricultural Conservation Committee, said today that farmers should keep in mind the deadline for filing reports of ACP practices performed on their farms in 1948, in order to be eligible for ACP assistance payment.

There are two items to comply with (1) That all practices must have been completed before Dec 31, 1948, (2) That the signed report of that performance be filed in the AAA office on or before January 10, 1949.

Mr. Rasmussen urged all farmers to give this their immediate attention and to call at the county office before the deadline date of January 10, 1949, in order to file their report on time to be eligible to receive any payment that might have been earned by practice performances.

Young Man Preached At Estherville

Worthie Taalkeus Usher, the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank, was the guest speaker at the First Methodist Church in Estherville Sunday for Dr. DeLong. On Sunday, January 2nd Mr. Usher will preach at the Congregational Church at Rowan.

STORES CLOSE NEW YEAR'S

BUSINESS PLACES WILL CLOSE FRIDAY EVE. TO MONDAY

Klemme business places will observe New Year's Day by closing from Friday evening until Monday morning.

The Klemme schools will enjoy their holiday vacation until Monday morning, January 3.

A number of business places will invoice over the week end.

Hog House Caught Afire On Christmas Eve

As the Elmer Beier family were getting ready to go to the Christmas Eve. program at the Liberty Church, they discovered that there was a fire in the hog house. An alarm was sent to Klemme for the truck, but the Beiers were able to extinguish the flames and called in not to send the truck. The blaze started from a hog water heater in the hog house.

CROP DRIVE COMPLETED IN HANCOCK COUNTY GOES OVER TOP

WILL CELEBRATE TWELFTH NIGHT NEXT WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 5TH

Twelfth Night will again be celebrated this year at the Klemme Community Hall on Wednesday, January 5th when the Legion and Auxiliary will have a program of community singing and burning of the Christmas trees.

Leave your Christmas tree in front of your house or bring it to the Community Hall.

PROGRAM

1. Band — Prelude.
2. Invocation, Rev Egeland.
3. Saxaphone Solo, Pat Kudje.
4. Group Singing, Christmas Carols.
5. Piano Duet by Iris Rosendahl and Maurice Jacobs.
6. Group Singing, Christmas Carols
7. Band Selection.
8. Readings, Mrs. Bob Andreae
9. Talk by Commander, Bob Hartzell.
10. Benediction, Rev. Grosshuesch.

SANTA CLAUS GREETED BY BIG CROWD OF BOYS AND GIRLS

Santa Claus came to Klemme Thursday afternoon and there was a big crowd of boys and girls waiting for him at the Community Hall where Santa invited all to a free movie and then handed out treats to all the boys and girls.

Klemme business places had a big day and all the stores were crowded with Christmas shoppers.

GERALD BURKE SHOT WOLF THURSDAY MORNING

Gerald Burke, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs Jay Griggs, who lives on the Griggs farm southeast of Klemme, shot a wolf Thursday forenoon with a .22 calibre rifle loaded with a hollow-point bullet.

Gerald spotted the wolf with a pair of field glasses out in his corn field and went after it with his rifle and killed it with one shot through the head at about 40 rods distance.

This is the first wolf killed in this vicinity that we have heard of this season. Gerald had the wolf in town on display Thursday. It was identified as a grey timber wolf.

Meet the Spellmans — Cardinal Spellman's illustrious family — in the American Weekly. Read how Will Spellman, a simple country storekeeper, kept his faith in American ideals, and raised one of the most prominent families in America. For this inspiring portrait of Cardinal Spellman's family, be sure to read "The Spellman Story," in The American Weekly, the great magazine of true-life stories, distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD - AMERICAN.

EVANGELICAL & REFORMED CHURCH

Calvin Grosshuesch, Pastor

New Year's Day:
10:00 A. M. Morning Worship.
2:00 P. M. Annual meeting of the congregation.
Sunday:
10:00 A. M. Morning Worship.
11:00 A. M. Sunday School.
7:00 P. M. Young People's Bible Class.
Wednesday:
8.00 P. M. Choir.
The confirmation class will meet January 4th.

CROP DRIVE HAS BEEN COMPLETED

The Hancock County CROP drive has been completed according to a report released by Hancock County CROP Chairman Hilary Greiman. The report indicates that Hancock County citizens were very generous in their response and contributed a total of $13,221.16 to be spent for food for needy Europeans.

The Hancock County drive was well organized on a town, township and school district bases and nearly every person in the county was contacted. A few straggling contributions continue to trickle in from people who were missed when solicitors were around.

Following is a breakdown of receipts from various towns and townships.

The Crystal Lake report included Crystal township report, Woden is in the Bingham report and Corwith is included in the Magor report.

Ellington Twp.	$569.50
Madison	385.00
Crystal	613.50
Bingham	684.50
Onthel	598.05
Britt	205.50
Garfield	523.00
Concord	718.00
Ell	1198.50
Liberty	1132.25
Erin	460.00
Boone	322.00
Magor	501.25
Amsterdam	1025.00
Twin Lake	800.00
Avery	601.00
Goodell Corp.	66.00
Klemme	500.50
Garner	1282.37
Kanawha	731.24
Britt	304.00
County Total	$13,221.16

As reported by Fred C. Missal.

Coop. Oil Held Party

The Hancock County Coop. Oil Association held its annual Christmas dinner at 6:30 Tuesday evening, December 28th at the All Veterans Social Center at Clear Lake. The party was for the employees, officers and directors of the company.

A program was enjoyed and gifts were exchanged.

Soldiers Home For Holidays

Privates Dick Finders, Roger Ridder, Elwyn Etchen and Dean Pannhoff, who have been stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, came home to spend the holidays with their respective parents. The boys will report January 4th at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey.

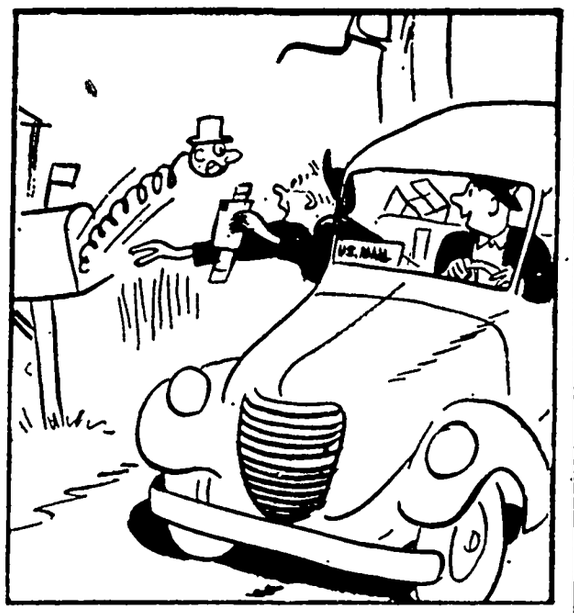
Pre-Christmas Dinner At The Art Kudje Home

Mr. and Mrs. Art Kudje and daughters, Pat and Ginger, entertained to a pre-Christmas dinner on Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hummel and daughters, Art Johnson, Eunice Larsen, of Klemme; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hevilin and family, George Johnson and Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Potter of Mason City; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pengundi and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Johnson and daughter, all of Renwick.

Induction Deferred

Merle Klinge and Clarence Seebeck, Hancock County selectees, who were to have been inducted earlier in December have been granted until Dec. 29 before being inducted to enable them to spend Christmas at home.

Cross Town by Roland Coe



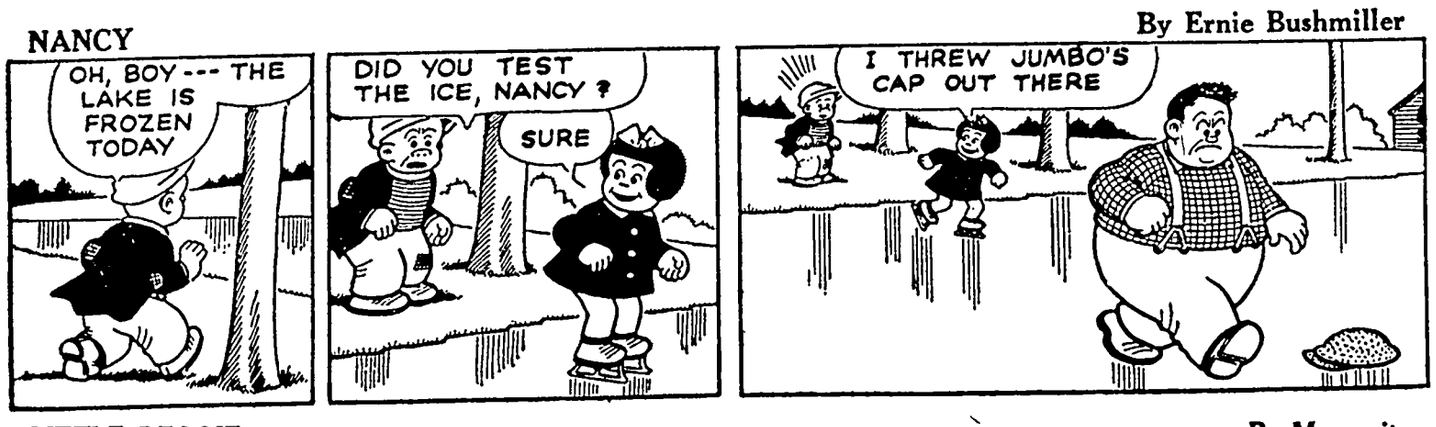
"THIS IS OLD CHARLIE ANDREW'S PLACE —HE'S QUITE A CHARACTER!"

Bobby Sox by Mary Links

"OH, ALVIN, YOU DO LOOK DISTINGUISHED IN A HOMBURG!"

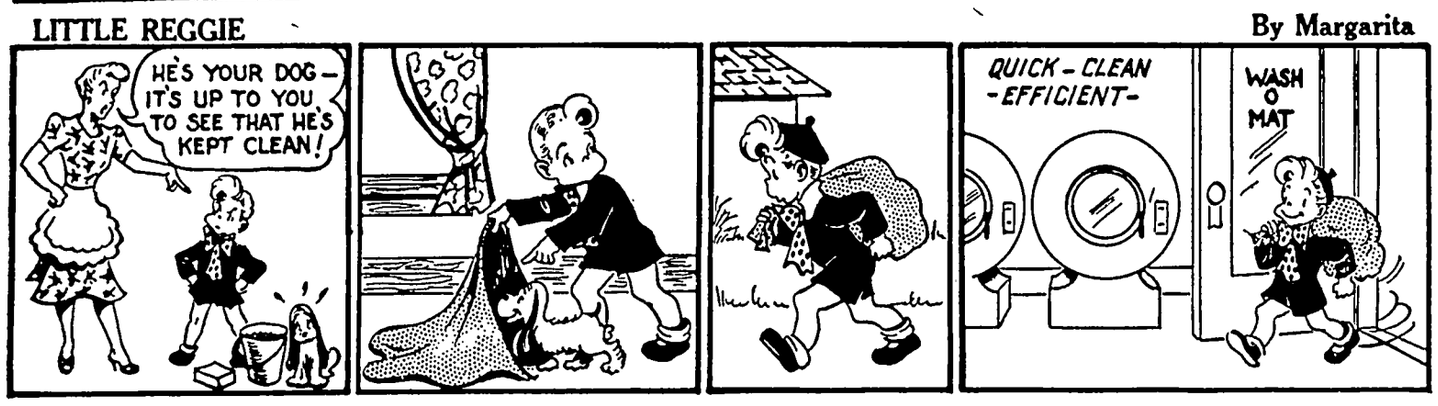
NANCY

By Ernie Bushmiller



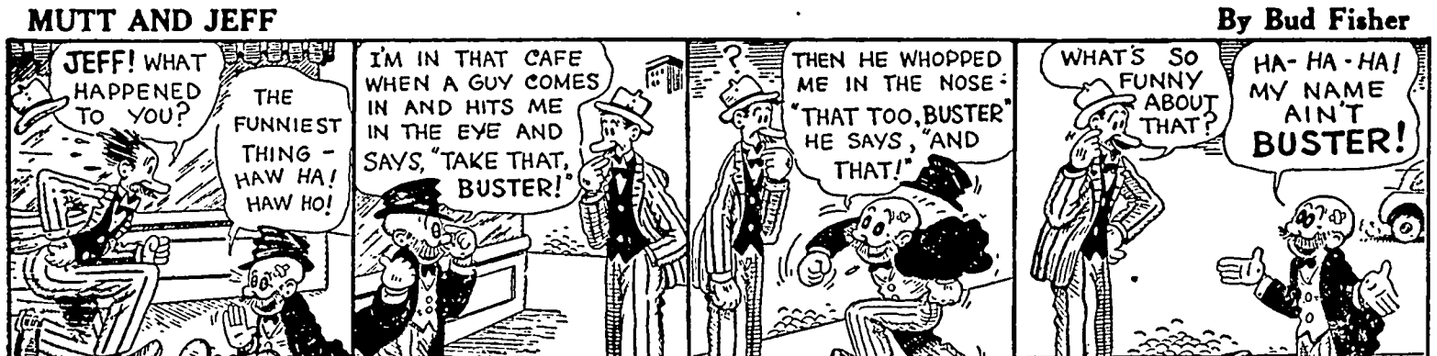
LITTLE REGGIE

By Margarita



MUTT AND JEFF

By Bud Fisher



JEFF! WHAT HAPPENED TO YOU?
THE FUNNIEST THING - HAW HA! HAW HO!
I'M IN THAT CAFE WHEN A GUY COMES IN AND HITS ME IN THE EYE AND SAYS, "TAKE THAT, BUSTER!"
THEN HE WHOPPED ME IN THE NOSE: "THAT TOO, BUSTER" HE SAYS, "AND THAT!"
WHAT'S SO FUNNY ABOUT THAT?
HA-HA-HA! MY NAME AIN'T BUSTER!

JITTER

By Arthur Pointer

JITTER IS LOOSE IN A DEPARTMENT STORE.
PERFUME
MADAME, THEES PERFUME SHE DO THEENGS FOR YOU SHE EES EXQUISITE SEE .....
DO AWAY WITH FLIES, FLEAS, ROACHES AND OTHER PESTS INSECT SPRAY

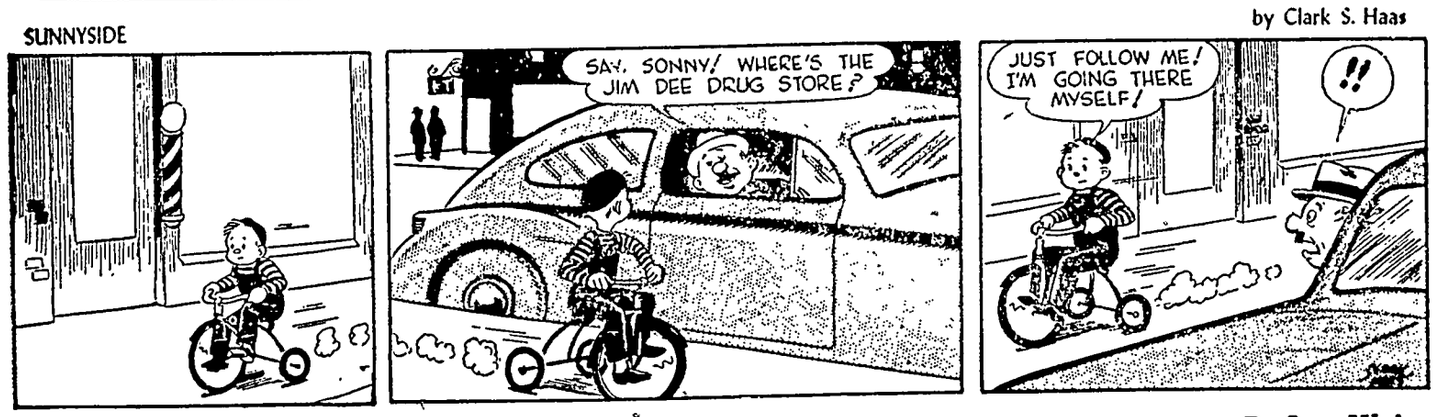
REG'LAR FELLERS

By Gene Byrnes

JUST THINK, JIMMIE, TODAY IS OUR ANNIVERSARY!
IT IS, MOM? - THA'S GREAT!
JUST THINK! SIXTEEN YEARS AGO DAD AND I EMBARKED ON THE SEA OF MATRIMONY!
THAT'S RIGHT, SON-
-AND WE'VE BEEN SAILING INTO EACH OTHER EVER SINCE!
HEH! HEH!
Gene Byrnes

SUNNYSIDE

by Clark S. Haas



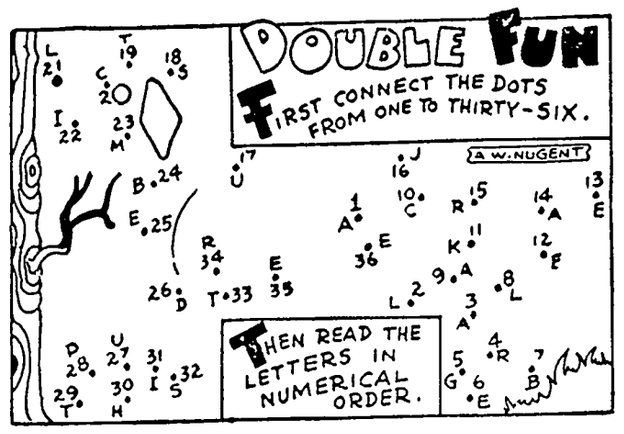
VIRGIL

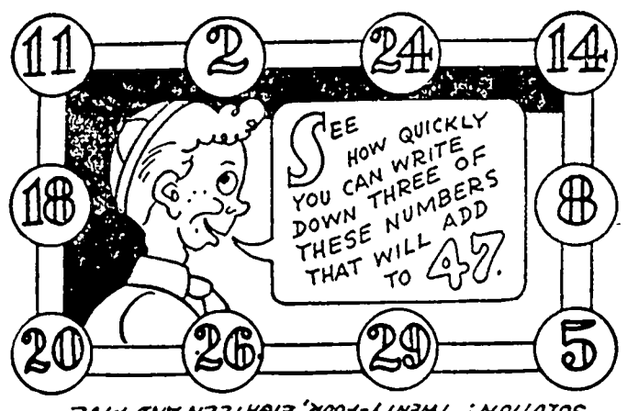
By Len Kleis

LOOK AT YOUR FACE - COVERED WITH JAM -
WHAT ARE YOU? - A LITTLE PIG?
WELL - WHY DON'T YOU ANSWER ME?
I DON'T WANT TO GET A WHIPPIN'
DON'T YOU KNOW WHAT A PIG IS?
SURE -
IT'S A HOG'S LITTLE BOY

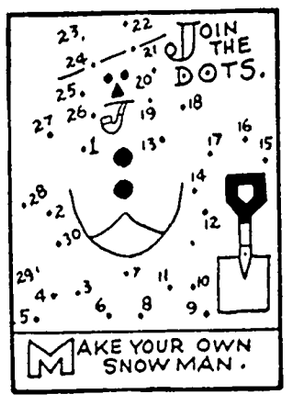
FUNLAND

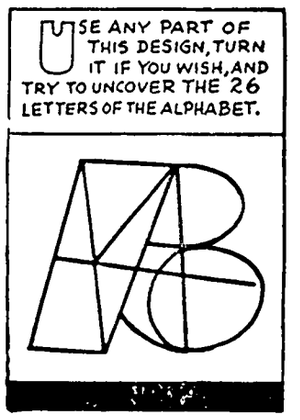
BY A.W. NUGENT



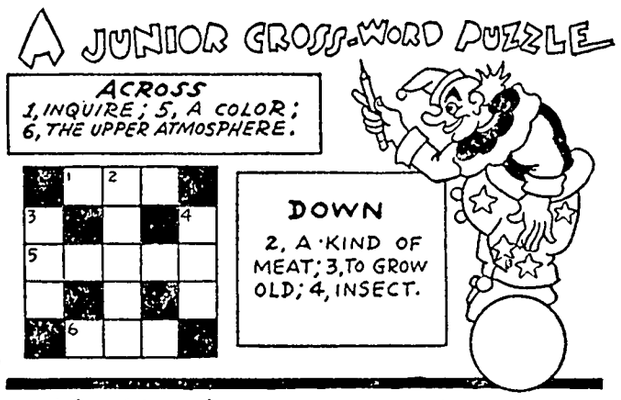


SOLUTION: TWENTY-FOUR, EIGHTEEN AND FIVE





JUNIOR CROSS-WORD PUZZLE



ACROSS - 1, ASK; 5, GREEN; 6 SKY DOWN - 2, STAK; 3, AGE, 4, ANT

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

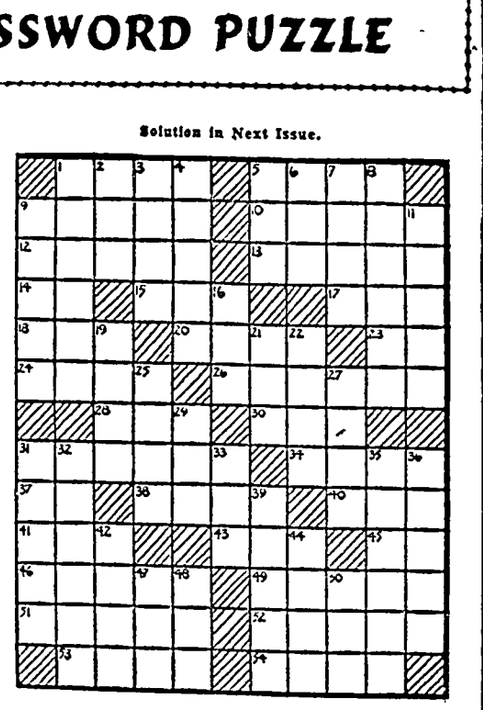
Across

1 Young cow
5 Line of junction
9 A shade of red
10 Volume of maps
12 Full of lumps
13 Variety of chalcedony
14 Conjunction
15 Place
17 Evening (poet.)
18 Employ
20 Strain
23 Erbium (sym.)
24 Not alive
26 Loose cape
28 Polish
30 Court
31 Small freshwater fish
34 Unit of weight (India)
37 Indefinite article
38 Pitcher
40 Evening sun god (Egypt)
41 Away
43 Vat
45 Rough lava
46 Bankrupts
49 To intersect
51 Outcome
52 Employs
53 Girl's name
54 Freshwater tortoise

Down

1 A channel
2 Fortify
3 Folds over
4 An airman
5 American Indian
6 Anglo-Saxon letter
7 Toward the lee
8 Prodigy
9 Visible mass of fog in the air
11 Cubic meter
16 Head covering
19 Merit
21 Cry of a crow
22 Unit of speed (Naut.)
25 Sand hill
27 To blow a horn
29 Arch
31 A Polynesian (New Zea.)
32 Instill
33 Damp
35 Rented under lease
36 Accumulate
39 A plaited frill
42 Clenched hand
44 Border of a hat
47 Indehiscent fruit
48 Body of water
50 Abounding in ore

Solution in Next Issue.



No. 13

Answer to Puzzle Number 12

		C	H	I	C		A	M	A	H
P	O	A	C	H		M	I	N	A	S
R	U	P	E	E		P	R	I	M	P
O	P	S		S	A	L	E		M	A
W	E		S	T	A	Y		F	O	R
		D	E	E	R		R	I	C	E
C	L	E	A	R		K	I	N	K	S
H	E	A	L		P	E	N	D
O	I	L		C	O	R	K		A	T
I	S		T	H	I	N		O	B	I
C	U	R	I	E		E	A	S	E	L
E	R	O	D	E		L	I	L	L	E
	E	W	E	R		S	L	O	E

Series K—48

Knitted Wool Baby

58

Baby Set

JUST about the most ado knitted bonnet you've seen made of kitten soft blue wool pale pink pompons. Or use own color scheme. Matc thumbless mittens are trim with tiny pompons. Simple ting even for a beginner.

* * *

To obtain complete knitting instru and stitch illustrations for Baby Mi (Pattern No. 5804) send 20 cents in your name, address and pattern nu

SEWING CIRCLE NEEDLEWO
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7,
Enclose 20 cents for pattern.
No.
Name
Address

Traffic Light Controls Planes and Automobil

What is believed to be the traffic light which regulates automobile and airplane traffi located at Merrill field, Anc age, Alaska. The light halts on the highways near the while planes arrive and dep

Helps keep me on my feet!

say many old fo about good tast SCOTT'S EMULSI

Thousands of happ folks know this! Goo tasting Scott's Emulsio helps you ward off colds—helps yo get well faster—and helps you kee going strong when your diet need more natural A&D Vitamins! Scott's a HIGH ENERGY FOOD TONIC rich in natural A&D Vitamin and energy-building natur oil. Try it! See how well yo feel. Easy to take and diges Economical. Buy today at you drug store!

MORE than just a tonic- it's powerful nourishmen

SCOTT'S EMULSIO
HIGH ENERGY TONIC

IT'S ASPIRIN AT ITS BES
St. Joseph ASPIRI
WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT

FOLEY PILLS
Relieve Backache due to Sluggish Kidney —or DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BA

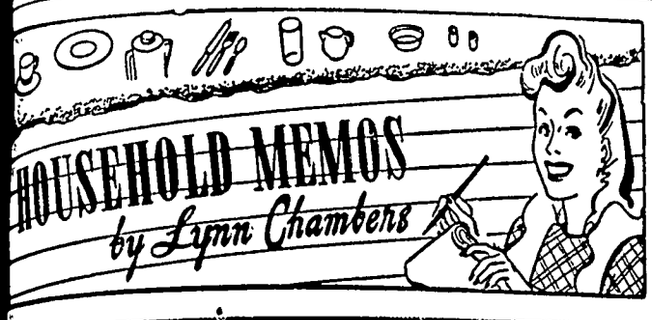
KEMP'S BALSA
FOR COUGHS DUE TO COLD

IF YOU WERE A WAVE WAC, MARINE or SPA

Find out what Nursing offers you!

—an education leading to R. N.
—more opportunities every year hospitals, public health, etc.
—your allowance under the G. I. B of Rights often covers your enti nursing course.
—ask for more information at the hospital where you would like to enter nursing.



Let Ham Grace the Yuletide Table
(See Recipes Below.)

Star Attraction

ROM YEAR to year we look ward to Christmas dinner as one of the most notable meals of the year. I've planned this year's menu with special care, with an eye to the delightful and green color scheme, and icular consideration for the t taste-tempting recipes. You're ain to receive plenty of com- ents on it!

nce the foods for the menu are attractions, have the table ing as simple as possible.

• • •

TART OFF the menu with a th-watering soup, so delicious n beginning to end, you'll want serve it often. It doesn't take to make, and the cooking time hort.

Tomato Richard
(Serves 6)

ups tomato juice
medium onion, coarsely chopped up coarsely shredded carrot up thin sliced celery up shredded green pepper easpoon salt
easpoon papper easpoon sugar
ay leaves
ablespoons real mayonnaise

mmer tomato juice, vegetables sonings for 10 minutes. Remove leaves. Stir a little of the hot ture into the mayonnaise. n blend all together. Top with following Whip one-half cup eavy cream and add to it one- rter cup of real mayonnaise sprinkle with chopped chives.

• • •

HOLIDAY HAM is a wise in- tment in this season where e are plenty sizable in- ds on your get; the ham not only fill bill for istmas din- but will also out other menus during the day weekend The leftovers can the base for a main dish gelatin d to grace the buffet table; for ain dish salad; and the "final s" can go into sandwich eads for lunches during the tide vacation.

rve your ham, resplendent on best platter, with a garnish of ge slices topped with oran- y Christmas trees. To ma e, cut canned cranberry sauce, ed to make sure it's firm, in and one-third inch slices. Cut a paper tree pattern and place slice of sauce; carefully cut nd pattern with point of knife. ace the tree on orange slices. am a small amount of milk with m cheese; put through pastry on to trees in scallop pattern esemble Christmas tree gar- s.

Baked Ham

lace ham, fat side up, in an n roasting pan. Do not add wa- and do not cover. Do not baste. e in a slow (325° F.) oven, ac- ding to the time given below. If have a meat thermometer, in- it through outside fat into ter of thickest part of ham so t the bulb does not rest on bone fat.

CHRISTMAS DINNER

*Tomato Richard
Crackers Assorted Relishes
*Baked Ham Garnish
*Sweet Potatoes and Apples
Buttered Green Beans
Fruit Salad Hot Rolls
Plum Pudding *Sauce
*Recipe given

Roasting Time Table
(For Ham)

Oven temperature 300 F.—325°F.

	Thermometer Reading	Minutes Per Lb.
Ham, whole, uncooked
10-12 lbs.	160°F.	18-20
Ready-to-eat
10-12 lbs.	130°F.	10
Ham, half, uncooked
6-8 lbs	160°F.	22-25
Ready-to-eat
6-8 lbs. . ..	130°F.	10
Picnic (shldr.)	170°F.	30-35
Boneless Butt	170°F.	40-45

These times are given for ham at room temperature If ham is just removed from refrigerator before starting, allow a little longer time

One-half hour before cooking time is completed remove ham from oven, peel off rind with sharp knife and score the fat surface. Place a whole clove in each section Glaze with the following sauce:

Tabasco Orange Sauce

2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup water
¼ cup white corn syrup
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce
1 cup orange sections

In a sauce pan, blend cornstarch, brown sugar and salt. Add water and mix until smooth, add corn syrup. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Remove from heat; stir in orange juice and tabasco sauce. Add orange sections and return to heat until sauce is hot. Serve with ham.

Sweet Potatoes and Apples
(Serves 6)

Peel 6 medium-sized sweet potatoes and 4 medium-sized apples. Slice potatoes, slice and core apples. Place alternating layers of potatoes and apples in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with one-quarter cup brown sugar and three tablespoons butter. Pour one-quarter cup water or fruit juice over all. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for one hour or until potatoes are tender.

Plum Pudding Sauce

2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
½ pint cream, whipped
Flavoring

Mix well beaten eggs with sugar; add butter and cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool, then fold in whipped cream. Flavor as desired. This is not only delicious on plum pudding but also on ice cream.

Released by WNU Features.

m Says:
These Last Minute
s for Christmas

your plans include mincemeat s, use a small starshaped kie cutter on the top crust after ing. Youngsters will enjoy this el touch especially if you in- t a small red candle in the cut- when serving.

weet potatoes, mashed and sea- ed with butter, brown sugar and pped nuts are flavorsome. Bake a casserole with a topping of rshmallows, if desired.

If you're making pecan rolls for Christmas be sure to place a half candied cherry on top of each roll along with the nuts so the rolls will look more festive. When serving the rolls cold, sprinkle them with powdered sugar to make them look frosted.

Bring individual plum puddings to the table covered with sauce with a red or green cherry perched on top of each one

Having muffins for the holidays? Drop in some dates and nuts to make them more delicious.

The FICTION Corner

JOHNNY WAS WRONG

By DONALD HUNTER

He had placed his teacher up on a pedestal because she was "different" than all her predecessors. All his dreams for the future were crushed however, when she proved that she was just run-of-the-mill.

JOHNNY was as quiet as an empty cloakroom in Mrs Morner's class, but he wasn't listening to the talk about Vasco da Gama and Hernando De Soto. They were only a launching point for his dreams out the classroom window. If he could discover a country, or explore—or capture kidnapers like he read about in the paper—or bandits!

Suppose a bandit should walk into the school room, he dreamed, just suppose! With his mask and gun and rough voice and sharp orders, and he, Johnny, should rise—and —and maybe get shot, but save her? He ended the scene each time with Mrs Morner's grateful tears as she bent over his hospital bed.

That would be it. That would be something It wouldn't be making a fool of himself like some of the other kids did, by bringing her an apple in the morning, or a flower from his mother's garden or offering to clean the boards It would have to be something bigger than that, something no one else could do!

If he could risk his life for her —and not die — then she'd know what he thought of her. She was the kind of lady the knights of King Arthur used to risk their lives for —she was the greatest lady of them all! She made him feel good and warm inside. Of course, he couldn't tell her in words—not with his halting speech. But that way she'd know!

Mrs Morner was big, strong, and firm, and Johnny had been afraid of her at first—dreading the time when she would call on him, and he'd reveal his stuttering Then in turn she'd appear surprised, patient, urgent, and finally—harsh! He'd have to stare at her in stoney silence then—his only defense against an adult world

Then of course, she would decide, as all the others had, that he was bad She probably had some very solid ideas about discipline, about punishment and reward, and about boys she thought were bad.

But when she finally spoke his name, it was so softly that he turned around to see who else was named Johnny. He couldn't believe that easy, gentle tone was meant for him, until he looked up and saw her eyes, smiling directly at him. It was just like she knew him; like he was a real person.

She didn't try to hurry his speech, didn't excite him—and he could answer her almost without a halt. But just thinking of her sometimes was enough to bring that choking lump to his throat which broke up all his words into jumbled, meaningless sounds. When she caught him like that, she didn't raise a fuss. She simply nodded — and passed on to the next boy.

Of all his teachers, she was the one who didn't decide he was bad —the one he would do anything at all for—the one he loved.

He came out of his dream, with a sharp voice in his ear.

"Johnny!" It was her voice. He felt his stomach jerk up in a tight knot beneath his chest—pressing—pressing — so he could hardly breathe. Somewhere, there was a question with it — vaguely — he hadn't heard!

"You'll stay after school tonight, young man!" she said.

She hadn't even called him Johnny!

The empty room that night gave his mind space to wonder. He tried to force his eyes and attention to his history book, but only his eyes were there. He sneaked a glance at her desk where she was busy with her own papers. Was it such a bad thing he'd done? Were Vasco da Gama and Hernando De Soto so important?

Did she really think he was bad? Not that, please, his mind almost cried in his book. Not her—the only one!

Johnny's father was dead, and the love ties to his mother had been broken off one by one by her absent-minded attention to her flower garden, and by his own speech impediment. They'd hung dangling and loose about him, waiting for some other object to come along and attract them. And Mrs. Morner had drawn Johnny's loose ends, like steel cables to an electro-magnet!

He had to know how she felt. But he couldn't ask. He could feel that lump in his throat, and the steady pressure in his stomach. He heard the rumble of departing children die lower in the outer hall, and he thought that pressure had burst in him when three laughing girls ran into the room.

She laid her papers aside to smile at their giggling, excited chatter. Maybe he had been wrong, he hoped. Maybe she didn't think he was bad But he felt the depression of the distance separating him from them He was not one of them—until he heard their talk. About flowers!

He knew about flowers, too! His mother's flower beds—her constant talk about them. Sure he did. And that was the price of admission up there. They were all talking about flowers.

He plunged desperately toward his answer, without thinking. He knew thought brought fear If he didn't do it right away, he'd be tightened up beyond any possible sound from his throat. He was on his feet.

"Da—Dah—Dahlias," he began, "and—and zin—sinnias—"

HIS voice was cracked, sharp. It scared him in the sudden silence of the room. Four pairs of eyes were on him, questioning, waiting—then glancing at each other. One girl's smile faded to sympathy.

"My—my mother says they—"

He stopped. His throat was closed. There was not a pin-point of welcome Not even a hopeful face up there. There was only surprise in several degrees, and not a hint of help. And there was her blank stare!

"That will do for you, young man!" Her voice was hard, but no longer strange He'd heard it that way before. "You're not in this These girls are not here as you are. You're here for punishment—not reward!"

"Punishment, not reward!—Punishment, not reward!—Punishment, not reward!" The words settled from bright lightning flashes to a dull rumbling like thunder rolling about his ears. He knew even before their meaning came clear to him through the shock. He had failed!

Even the girls felt it, and excused themselves quietly, leaving the room so he didn't hear. He could feel himself preparing to stare at her in stoney silence.

But he was bad. And he was wrong. He didn't need any defense now. Those love ties were broken all at once now; but they weren't hanging loose and dangling, waiting for some other object to come along and attract them. A bitter acid was loose in him, burning them off at the roots. The only thing tight in him now was a new fearsome thing.

There was a faint stir of his old, dying feelings. How could he tell her how he felt about her? He wondered how she'd feel if he could let her know—really know—how he really felt about her now? He almost smiled, but he caught himself. He was wrong!

"That's all, Johnny," she said at three-thirty "You may go now. And don't let it happen again!"

"Don't worry!" he said. He did smile at her soft tones. He wondered if the pleasant smile was a part of her punishment and reward —sort of reward for punishment, maybe!

"But you're wrong, Johnny!" he told himself as he closed the school room door behind him and gazed down the empty hall. "You're wrong, Johnny!" His heels punched sharp, ominous sounds in the empty vastness as he walked down the hall.

"You're wrong, Johnny!" he told himself again. And all the rest of his life he kept telling himself he was wrong, as he kept walking in emptyness And all his life he was wrong As wrong as two left shoes —as everybody knew, when they called him Public Enemy Number One!

But when she finally spoke his name, it was so softly that he turned around to see who else was named Johnny.

tricks for teens

by NANCY PEPPER

TEEN QUEENS

How many queens have you crowned in your high school this season? In Oklahoma high schools every society and organization and every important social event has its individual queen, elected by an elaborate system of nominations and voting. This years' Oklahoma high school queens competed for the Queen of Queens title in a mammoth statewide contest conducted by an Oklahoma city disc jockey.

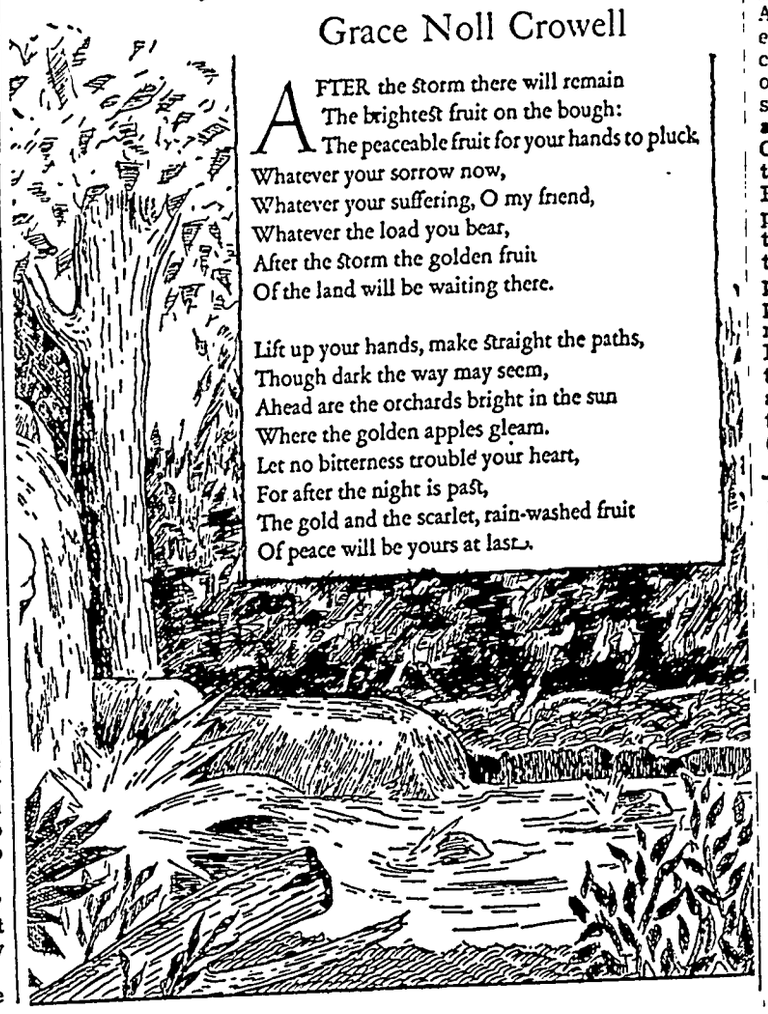
Contest Announced—A popular Oklahoma city disc jockey) conceived the idea of choosing the state Queen of Queens by high school student vote Any girl who had been queen of something or other in her high school this season was eligible. He announced the contest over his radio program and the race was on!

The Peaceable Fruit

Grace Noll Crowell

AFTER the storm there will remain
The brightest fruit on the bough:
The peaceable fruit for your hands to pluck
Whatever your sorrow now,
Whatever your suffering, O my friend,
Whatever the load you bear,
After the storm the golden fruit
Of the land will be waiting there.

Lift up your hands, make straight the paths,
Though dark the way may seem,
Ahead are the orchards bright in the sun
Where the golden apples gleam.
Let no bitterness trouble your heart,
For after the night is past,
The gold and the scarlet, rain-washed fruit
Of peace will be yours at last.



SEWING CIRCLE PATTERNS

Dainty Pajamas for Tiny Girls Tailored Lingerie Easy to Sew

Underwear Sets

SO EASY to sew you'll want to make several of these underwear sets. The princess-lined slip fits so nicely and can be edged with dainty lace Panties are neatly tailored. Grand gift idea.

• • •

Pattern No. 8364 is for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40, 42 and 44. Size 16, slip, 2¾ yards of 39-inch; panties, 1¼ yards.

Butcher Boy Pajamas

FOR the young girls of the family —adorable little butcher boy pajamas that are sure to please. The tiny collar is finished in scallops, the shaped pocket is just right for a hanky.

• • •

Pattern No. 1835 comes in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 4, 2⅞ yards of 36 or 39-inch.

The Fall and Winter FASHION contains 60 pages of smart, wearable styles you won't want to miss Free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT.
530 South Wells St. Chicago 7, Ill.
Enclose 25 cents in coins for each pattern desired.
Pattern No._____ Size_____
Name_____
Address_____

Household Hints

Mend your torn shower curtains by placing scotch tape directly over the tear.

—•—

Broken slats in venetian blinds may be patched with scotch tape. It may also be used to mend torn tape.

—•—

As a guide to retaining vitamins use the minimum amount of water that will cook the food without sticking.

—•—

Iron first those parts of a garment that will hang off the board while the rest is being ironed.

—•—

If you lack a clothesline, hangers hung from the shower rod can be used to hold drying clothes.

—•—

Drop cookies may often be flattened with the tines of a fork; just press fork in two directions, making a criss-cross pattern.

—•—

If your favorite lamp shade is torn and you don't want to part with it, place cellophane tape over the ripped part and it will be as good as new.

—•—

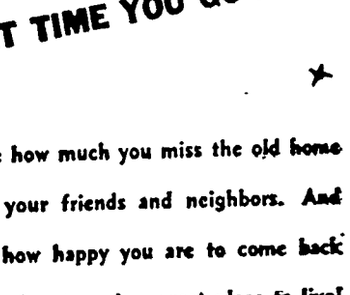
Worn and torn linoleum will take on new life if scotch tape is used to cover up the spots. A thin application of shellac over the tape will secure it for a long time.

If you suffer from pocket-book pinch come the Yuletide season, here's a grand way to get around the gift-giving problem. For the smokers on your list, order cartons of mild, flavorful Camel cigarettes and pound tins of Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the largest-selling smoking tobacco in the country. When you give Camels or Prince Albert, you're giving smoking pleasure at its best—and a generous supply of it! The Camel carton, for example, contains 200 mild, cool cigarettes. Both Camels and Prince Albert packages will fit in perfectly with the spirit of the season, thanks to their colorful and gay wrappings. There's even ample space provided for a "Merry Christmas" message in your own handwriting. If you remind your dealer now to put away a gift-quota of Camels and Prince Albert, he can have them ready when you want them. (Adv.)

JOLLY TIME
FOR YOUR HOLIDAY FUN
ALWAYS POPS
JOLLY TIME POP CORN

ARMORED PRINCE WATCHBAND
WITH Detachable IDENTIFICATION Plate
New — Different — Practical
Flexible, expanding, designed with classic simplicity to please every man.
IDENTIFICATION DISC 1½" x ¾"
Ideal Gift for Servicemen
Stainless Steel $1.50
Sterling Silver $5.50
Gold-Filled 12K 1/20 $6.00
Complete Postpaid No C.O.D.'s
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
UTILITY SPECIALTIES Dept. IA-12
15 West 36th St. Suite 301 New York 18, N. Y.

REASON IT OUT AND YOU'LL PREFER THIS



ALL-VEGETABLE LAXATIVE
NATURE'S REMEDY (NR) TABLETS—A purely vegetable laxative to relieve constipation without the usual griping, sickening, perturbing sensations, and does not cause a rash. Try NR—you will see the difference. Uncoated or candy coated—their action is dependable, thorough, yet gentle as millions of NR's have proved. Get a 25c box and use as directed.
Nature's Remedy NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW ALRIGHT

FUSSY STOMACH?
RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION, GAS AND HEARTBURN
EAT LIKE CANDY TUMS 10¢ STOMACH DISTRESS
FOR THE TUMMY!

NEXT TIME YOU GO AWAY

Notice how much you miss the old home town, your friends and neighbors. And then, how happy you are to come back again! Our town is a great place to live!

For Quick Truck Delivery
On
D.X PRODUCTS
Phone 149-R2
ERNEST
HENSCHEN
Klemme, Iowa

AUCTIONEER
- FARM SALES
- HOUSEHOLD GOODS
- STOCK SALES

CALL
CLARENCE
SWALVE
Klemme - Iowa

AVERY
—The—
Theatre Beautiful
Garner, Iowa

Wednes, Thurs.
DECEMBER 29, 30
SHIRLEY TEMPLE
FRANCHOT TONE
GUY MADISON
In
HONEYMOON

Friday, Saturday
DEC. 31, JAN. 1
IRENE DUNNE
In
I REMEMBER MAMA
THE STORY OF THE CENTURY

Sun., Mon., Tues.
JAN. 2, 3, 4
THE YEAR'S COMEDY HIT!
GREER GARSON
WALTER PIDGEON
JULIA MISBEHAVES
With
PETER LAWFORD
ELIZABETH TAYLOR
CESAR ROMERO

Wednes. - Thurs.
JAN. 5, 6
BARBARA STANWYCK
BURT LANCASTER
SORRY, WRONG NUMBER

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Geo. Kluckhohn was entertained Christmas day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Keraus.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Karsjens entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Waddingham to dinner Christmas day.

Miss Novella Bredbenner, who teaches in the Maple Grove school at Des Moines, left Monday for Indianola to attend the Methodist Recreation School.

Christmas Day dinner guests at the Elmer Arnold home were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Koerner and Kermit; Mrs. Martha Bredbenner and Novella; Leona, George and Erwin Lau and Marjorie Lau. Supper guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold and Billy. In the evening everyone enjoyed Roys Aleutian and Bruce's Japanese slides.

DR. F. L. HAYES
DENTIST
Office Over Rexall Store
Phone 21 Garner, Iowa

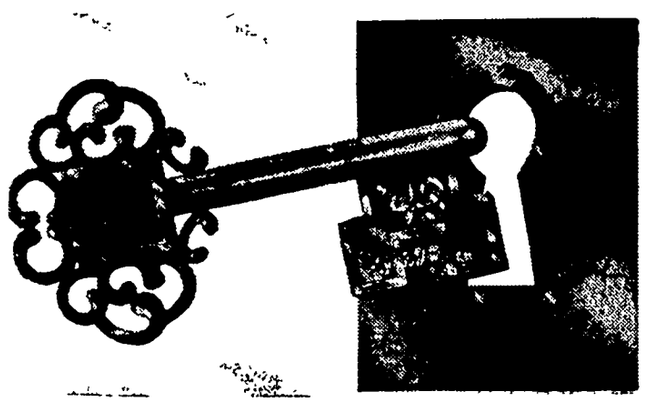
KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Montgomery were business callers in Thornton Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schulz enjoyed Christmas dinner at the Lester Neuberger home.

Dinner guests at the Clifford Montgomery home on Christmas day were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Welker of Clear Lake; Dave Henry of Ventura; Marilyn Nedved of Britt and Darlene and Delbert Bachman of Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blank had the following Christmas Day guests: Mr. and Mrs. Quandt, and Mrs. Agnes Ahrenkiel, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi and children of Des Moines, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lau and son Allan of North Dakota and Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Worthie Usher and sons of Rowan, Mr. and Mrs. Taalkeus Ahrenkiel and son Bobbie of Goodell, and Mrs. Kathrine Kwikkel and sons of Sioux Center, Iowa, making 21 in all. We are glad to report that Mrs. Tom Blank is improving in health, and is able to be up and around the house a little each day.



happy
New Year
you ever had
...Greetings
from

MARIE'S
BEAUTY SHOP

Make Your Plans Wisely—

HERE COME THE WHITE SALES

Here come the after-Christmas sales, those tempting mark-downs that mean year-end clearance of many a piece of merchandise from store counters and shelves

And, if you're like most homemakers, you want to be sure not to miss a good buy. With the family dollar to stretch as far as it can go, sales can mean an opportunity to make some much-needed purchases.

But, before you join the "bargain hunting" crowd, cautions Fannnie Gannon, home management specialist, Iowa State College, just make sure you know what will be the right bargains for your home and family.

One tip is to jot down on paper, for pocketbook reference, all the sizes of clothing the family wears. It doesn't pay to guess. If new draperies or curtains are on your shopping list, take along samples of color and correct measurements to avoid error in selection. Sale items are often hard to exchange.

Buy For Use

Quite often so-called bargains never get used at home, Miss Gannon points out. Perhaps there's that piece of yard goods that looks so pretty and comes at a reasonable price. Yet it's tucked away in the drawer and soon forgotten. Or perhaps it's a blouse that is an exceptional buy, but doesn't fit into your wardrobe at all. These buys actually turn out to be a poor use of money.

Best way to know a bargain, she says, is to rely on three reminders: paper and pencil planning of your needs at home; comparison of prices to see if the article is a bargain after all; and examination of quality.

The fact that sales have come back into the picture after a war-time absence is an encouraging sign that many types of articles are plentiful enough now that the stock needs to keep moving, Miss Gannon says.

White Sales

Most common among the well known sales are the white sales which came in January! This year these after-inventory sales are expected to be quite general Supplies of household linens have almost caught up with demand.

In some cases, manufacturers are culling their stocks to raise the quality of the merchandise they put on the market. "Seconds" are becoming prevalent once more, and quite often prove to be wise buys Bedding manufacturers are among the first to take this step, placing sheets and pillowcases with slight imperfections on sale at lower prices.

After-Christmas sales of clothing are a means of clearing store racks and shelves of merchandise which may soon be dated from the standpoint of style, Miss Gannon explains. Women's clothing is subject to this type of turnover much more than men's.

This large item salesmanship can mean some excellent buys. But, says Miss Gannon, sales really mean a price advantage only when you know how to shop. Some items will have a drastic mark-down; other very little. Good quality is always an asset But quality may be difficult to detect unless you know what labels mean and take time to make comparisons of materials. It's no time to rush through buying any more than you would under normal shopping conditions. The money will still be coming out of your pocketbook, and you'll still want the satisfaction of long lasting purchases.

WAYNE SCHOENWETTER AND MARIE NEDVED EXCHANGE VOWS

Were Married Tuesday Morning At St. Boniface Church In Garner

Miss Marie Nedved, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nedved of Garner became the bride of Wayne C. Schoenwetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edd. Schoenwetter of Garner at 8.00 a. m. at the St. Boniface Catholic Church at Garner. The double ring ceremony was afficiated by the Rev. Father Maternack.

The bride was attired in a white street-length dress with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses and her only jewelry was a gold bracelet, a gift of the groom. She carried her mother's rosary.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Melvin Alborn, sister of the bride wore a blue street-length dress with corsage of pink roses and white carnations.

The groom wore a gray suit with a carnation boutonniere.

The best man, Melvin Alborn, brother-in-law of the bride wore a tan suit with a carnation boutoniere.

The mothers of both the bride and groom wore black dresses and a corsage of pink roses and mums.

The bride is a graduate of the Garner High School and has been employed at the Nesbit's Cafe at Garner.

The groom attended the rural school in Liberty and the Klemme Schools. He has been employed by the Klemme Hardware Co. at Klemme.

A reception was held at Hull's dining room with the immediate family present.

Shop and Save in Klemme.

NEW POSTAL RATES ARE EFFECTIVE JAN. 1ST

Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn announces the following changes in postal rates effective January 1:

Effective Janury 1, 1949, the rate on domestic air mail up to and including eight ounces will be six cents an ounce. There also will be the establishment of a four cent rate for air mail post and postal cards. First class letters will remain unchanged at three cents per ounce.

Third class mail, such as unsealed greeting cards, will be increased to two cents for the first two ounces. This also applies to other micellaneous printed matter and merchandise mailed at the third class rate of postage.

In addition to the above, postage rates and special service fees will be increased on parcel post, books, catalogs, special handling, special delivery, postal cards, money orders, registered, insured and C. O. D. mail.

KLEMME METHODIST CHURCH

E. Morris Egeland, Pastor

Friday the High School Youth Fellowship will sponsor "New Year's Eve in the Church" from 9 until 12. All members and friends of the church are invited to attend.

Sunday Services:
Morning Worship at 10
Sunday School at 11:00.
Youth Fellowship 7:00 P. M.

The Official Board 7:30 on Monday evening in the Church.

Fifty-fifty class Taffy Pull in the church on Tuesdy evening.

We're looking forward to the coming year with optimism. We urge you to do the same, and we wish for you every success possible.

ETCHEN AUTO CO.
John Etchen, Prop.

WE HOPE YOUR NEW YEAR STARTS ON A CHEERFUL NOTE AND HOLDS THE TUNE ALL THROUGH 1949.

ERNEST HENSCHEN
D-X Truck Service

May your year be blessed by threes:
Happy Days! Fruitful Days!
Friendly Days!

WELLEMEYER FURNITURE
Hancock County's Largest Furniture Store
Klemme -- Iowa

It's a very happy New Year
we're wishing
for you.
Good Luck in '49!

SPORT MIKE
WAYNE WALT
ELMER DICK

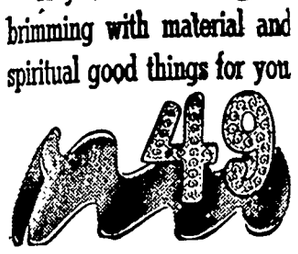
Klemme Cooperative Grain Co

...To all this town's fine people.

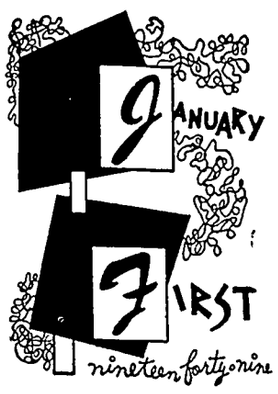
EDDIE ETHEL
EDWARD IHLA
TED

JOSTEN APPLIANCE
SHELLANE GAS - ELECTRIC WIRING

A year brimming with material and spiritual good things for you



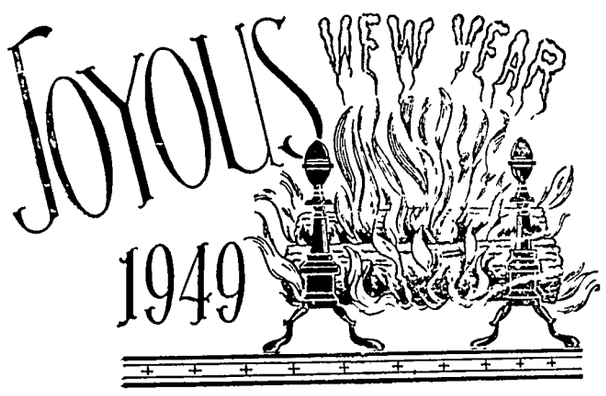
DR. W. F. MISSMAN
Physcian & Surgeon



A steady flow of happy days all through the New Year is our wish for you.

1949

W. F. PAVEY
Stormizing Shop



We send you our kindly greeting as the New Year dawns.

Bill
Melvin
Henry

Harry Art
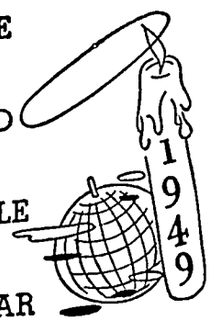
Wayne

KLEMME HARDWARE COMPANY
Phone 13 Klemme, Iowa

MAY YOUR TABLE BE FILLED WITH GOOD FOOD AND YOUR HOURS WITH WORTHWHILE DEEDS ALL THROUGH THE YEAR THAT LIES AHEAD.



SCHMIDT STOCK YARDS
Luther Schmidt Albert Schmidt

Beat the Beetle with DDT

Millions of Jap beetles will emerge from the ground this summer to wreak havoc upon some 275 varieties of plants, including flowers, ornamental shrubs, fruits and some garden vegetable plants. To combat the beetle, DDT is the preferred spray material. The spray is made by putting two pounds of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder into 100 gallons of water or by using four to five teaspoonfuls of the powder to one gallon of water. Five or 10 per cent DDT dusts also may be used instead of the spray. A lead arsenate spray also is effective but it acts chiefly as a repellent and leaves a conspicuous deposit which may be objectionable

Uncovered Refuse a Menace

How expensive is it to raise 120,000 rats in a year? How much food do five billion flies spoil in a season? The State Medical society of Wisconsin suggests that the housekeeper who allows the family garbage to accumulate in uncovered cans ought to find the answers to these questions. Every rat that revels in garbage-can hospitality is the potential ancestor of more than 100 000 in a year Any fly that buzzes over the uncovered refuse at the back door probably will produce the first in a long line of billions before winter comes.

Divorce Rate Dips in U. S., Nationwide Survey Reveals

Why the American divorce rate took a deep dive in 1947, the first decrease from a previous year since 1932, is explained in the results of a nation-wide survey among family service agencies.

A passing of the peak of marital breakdowns in the hasty wartime marriages and a general readjustment to more stable peacetime living were the reasons for the divorce decline most frequently mentioned by the family service agencies in 89 cities. The survey was conducted by the famiy service association of America.

The 450,000 divorces reported in the U S in 1947 represented a drop of 26.6 per cent from the total of 613,000 in the previous year. The national office of vital statistics figured the crude divorce rate last year at 3.1 per 1 000 population as against 4.3 in 1946. Despite this decline, the number of divorces per 1,000 population is still higher than in 1944. The 1947 rate is 55 per cent greater than in 1940 and about 200 per cent larger than that prior to World War I.

The survey presented the most complete picture to date of the trend in the divorce rate. The family service agencies were in agreement, however, that the general decline in divorce in one year should not be considered of itself a measure of increasing strength of marriage in the country.

Uncle Sam Conducts Tests To Foil Mosquito Biters

Wartime tests by U. S. department of agriculture entomologists developed methods of thwarting mosquito attacks on soldiers that civilians can use, too. One device consists in holding outer clothing away from immediate contact with the skin by means of a lining or undergarment of coarse mesh fabric that adds little to the warmth of the clothing but keeps the fabric far enough away from the skin so that a mosquito's biting apparatus does not reach through far enough to draw blood

Europeans in the Arctic areas where mosquitoes are a serious pest had tried out this method and the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine included it in tests of fabrics for uniforms. These tests showed that there are several tight woven fabrics that give good protection against mosquito biting. But the standard herringbone twill of army uniforms is not effective in thwarting the mosquitoes. What is known as Byrd cloth is one of the best anti-mosquito fabrics. The list includes some (but not many) nylon weaves, Jo-cloth and some poplins and broadcloths.

In one series of tests the fabric was lined with coarse net material The double thickness of the two fabrics gave good protection. Even the herringbone twill over the mesh did a good job of discouraging the mosquitoes and turned in as good a count as even the best anti-mosquito fabrics worn next to the skin.

Soybeans—East and West

Use of the soybean in the Orient where it "has meant bread, meat, milk, cheese and vegetables" is in contrast to its use in the Occident where it is primarily an industrial crop, comments W J Morse, soybean specialist of the U S. department of agriculture. The phenomenal spread of the soybean as an important crop in the United States, particularly since World War 1, has been because of the industrial market for the crop. Factors which have favored this expansion are: Improved and adapted varieties for industrial uses; mechanization of the crop with improved machinery for seeding, cultivating and harvesting; profit possibilities as a cash grain crop; relative freedom from disease and insect pests; dependability as a producer of forage and grain even under adverse weather, and the fact that it is a legume fitting favorably into corn belt rotations. In the East, where it has a history reaching far back of the earliest written records, Morse points out, the soybean is grown primarily for the seed which is used largely in preparation of numerous fresh, fermented and dried food products.

REDUCED PORK STORAGE IS CUTTING HOG PRICES

One of the reasons behind lower hog prices this winter is the fact that packers have not put as much pork in cold storage as usual, according to Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. However, he looks for a stronger hog market by late winter.

Packers usually store pork in the winter when hog slaughter is at the high point. But last year packers put an unusually large amount of meat into cold storage. Between November 1 and March 1 pork from 3½ million hogs went into cold storage This extra pork that was taken off the market raised live hog prices $2 to $3 above what they would have been had packers stored a normal amount of pork, Kutish points out.

Storing pork didn't pay last year In fact, some packers lost money on it So, this year they are going slow in putting pork into cold storage, according to Kutish.

Two results grow out of this year's lighter operations, Kutish believes. First, consumers are getting more pork at cheaper prices now, but at the expense of less pork later on The extra pork consumers are eating now won't be available from cold storage later on when most of the hogs have been sold Second, farmers are more likely to get a late winter rise in hog prices. There won't be a heavy load of pork in storage hanging over the market. Lighter marketings lin late winter will mean less meat in retail markets

DETHMERS SAYS FARMERS NEED ORGANIZATION

President, Jack Dethmers, of the Hancock County Farm Bureau this week reminded membership drive workers that the interests of farmers can best be protected through a strong, independent farm organizations. He asked that every farmer in Hancock county be invited to join with his neighbors in the Farm Bureau, which this year is working toward a quota of 1636 members in the county and 135,000 member-families in the state.

Quoting from the 1949 Iowa Farm Bureau resolutions on the matter of Agricultural representation, President Dethmers said "We are living in a world of organized groups. It is proper that farmers throughout this country should have a strong independent farm organization to represent them, just as the industrial and labor groups are represented by their organizations. We also believe in the "grass roots" power of the Farm Bureau We believe that our organization must have adequate personnel and adequate funds if we are to continue to be the leading organization.

"We believe the three phases of Farm Bureau work - education, legislation, and service-for-members-are the necessary parts for building a well-balanced program One of our greatest assets as an independent organization is our close alliance with educational people. We pledge continued close cooperation with the extension service in planning and carrying out programs that meet the needs of all people within the county and state"

President, Dethmers, who has just returned from the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting at Atlantic City said that basic farm legislation will be considered in the next session of Congress, and credited the American Farm Bureau Federation for its "effective and untiring" efforts in the passage of the Long Time Farm Program last summer.

LONG TIME

Near Traer, Mrs Walter Tomlinson received a pleasant surprise visit from a cousin, Mrs. Jess Evans of Montana The girls had lived side-by-side as younsters in Marshalltown but had not seen each other for 53 years.

"IT'S A BOY"

When a son was born to Mr and Mrs. Robert Combs, Chariton, the proud father, who operates a billboard company, proudly notified the community of the new arrival with an impressive billboard carrying the slogan, "It's a Boy—Robert Combs, III, December 6, 1948, weight 9 pounds."

WAS 107

Speaking of anniversaries, Mrs. Mary Kilworth of Exira observed her 107th birthday Dec. 18 and nearly 2,000 person attended the birthday party held in Exira high school. To make the occasion double significant one of the streets in Exira has been re-named to "Kilworth Street."

SCALDED

Jim Sherman of LeMars saw his little daughter playing near the kitchen stove and went over to turn the handle of a pot of boiling soup out of her reach. The handle caught on his sleeve and did a flip, landing on the child's head Sherman quickly put his hand over the child's face to protect her eyes and was scalded to the elbow but the girl's injuries were limited to bad burns on the side of her face, shoulders and arms Her injuries are not serious.

AND LET THE JOYS OF THIS SEASON STAY WITH YOU ALL YEAR.

DR. A. H. DULMES
Physcian & Surgeon

KEEP THE FARM SANITARY
2-HOUR SERVICE ON REMOVAL OF

DEAD STOCK

Phone
KLEMME ---------- 580
BELMOND ---------- 580

We Pay The Call
A Clean Truck With An Efficient Driver In Your Neighborhood Daily.

BELMOND By-Products
"Your Home Plant"
Phone 580 Belmond, Iowa.

Kluckhohn's Store
KLEMME IOWA

May your mail-box be loaded daily with bundles of good things all through the New Year. That's our wish for all our friends this Happy Holiday Season.

Juanita
Ray Jr.

Woody
Bud

Mary Jane
Ray Sr.

The Klemme Times

DEAD STOCK
PROMPTLY REMOVED

Britt Rendering Company
Dept. of Agr. Lic. No. 22

WE PAY PHONE CHARGES

KLEMME Phone 700
GARNER Phone 4000

Our Trucks Are Steam Cleaned After Each Load

TANKAGE AND MINERALIZED FEED FOR SALE AT OUR PLANT

May your every wish be granted this coming year.

Quandt's Cafe
Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Quandt

TRACTOR

As Russel Robinson, Marcus, was out hunting rabbits, his foot slipped. He fell and his rifle discharged a .22 caliber bullet into his foot. He jumped onto a nearby tractor and drove himself to a nearby farm home for help.

COVERED WAGON

At Albia, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bain observed their 58th wedding anniversary on Christmas Eve. By way of "warming up" for the occasion, Mrs. Bain processed, in a single afternoon, a half-hog delivered to her home. She was born in a covered wagon, as her parents were enroute from Lousia county to a new land claim in Kansas.

DR. E. H. PHILLIPS
Osteopathis Physician
Xray - Short Wave Diathermy and Ultra Violet Equipment
Phone 149 Garner, Iowa

TWINS

At Larchwood, John Herbst had two sets of twins within a month. But don't get excited; they were twin calves, born in a milking Shorthorn herd. Both sets of twins were produced by artificial insemination.

STITCHES

Arden Marco, Harlan young man, accepted an invitation to take down-hill sled-ride with a Harlan youngster and has decided the sport is too rough for any one but kids. He wound up under the exhaust pipe of an automobile and it required 30 stitches to close the wound in his head.

Will Hold Sub-District Brotherhood Meeting January 11

Plans have been completed for a Sub-District Methodist Brotherhood meeting to be held in the Garner church on Tuesday evening, January 11th. Dinner will be served at 7:00 p. m. at $1.00 per plate.

OVER 200 KLEMME FARMERS ARE USING GARNER'S

FARM TAX RECORD
EVERY YEAR!

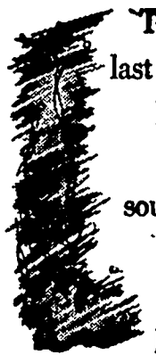
Completly Meets All Income Tax Requirements. Approved by Tax Experts, Bankers and Farmers.

- Simple
- Economical
- Complete
- Efficient

Printed for the Farmer who wants the best in protection and service at lowest possible cost.

This is the same Record you have purchased the past several years for $1.50

THE KLEMME TIMES
Commercial Printing Phone 12



The old year is breathing out its last hours in a hush of expectancy. But in that quiet we know that there are horns waiting to be sounded, bells waiting to be rung, hearts waiting to be lifted with bright new hopes. May 1949 be a happy New Year for you!

Hancock County Rural Electric Association

EMPLOYEES—
H. L. Bush, Jr., Pro. Supt.
Clarence Niemeyer, Line Supt.
DeEttal Hartwig, Accountant
Marlys Rawson
Phyllis Elling
Irma Bird
Wilbur Neimeyer
Kenneth Juhl
Arnold Jass
Henry Taylor
Dewayne Darting
Harvey Mitchell
Warren Beers
Leo Melaney
Clyde Towance
Leon Doran

—OFFICERS and DIRECTORS—
Victor Loebig, President, Wesley
M. C. James, Vice-Pres., Goodell
Aaron Stromer, Secretary, Garner
G. E. Gaskill, Treasurer, Corwith
L. V. Rasmus, Garner
Wm. E. Haes, Garner
Omar J. Maland, Kanawha
Alfred Boman, Forest City
C. J. Eisenmann, Woden

HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

6TH ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
December 20, 1948

The Hancock County Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with J. A. Chambers, F. J. Schoun and George Th. Gerdes present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the application, bond and permit for the sale of beer is hereby approved for J. H. and Amelia Schleuger's J. and N. Lunch of Britt, (Hutchins) Iowa.

BE IT RESOLVED THAT the claims hereinafter set out be allowed in amounts designated thereon and the County Auditor be and he is hereby authorized and ordered to draw warrants on the several funds of Hancock County, Iowa in payment of such claims in amounts set opposite each claim.

COUNTY FUND

Roy L. McMillin Co. Teas. post. adv - Auto Dept	17.00
M. L. Swaney, Act. P. M. pstg., cthouse	19 15
Edith Elling, bd of wel meetings	45.00
Veletta Schlei, extra help, Treas.	55.00
Betty Johnson, wk auto Dept.	55.38
M. L. Swaney, Act. M. M. pstg., Treas.	30.00
Eleanor Jakoubek, wk aud office	57.20
Curtis G. Riehm, co atty exp	30.24
Friden Calculating Machine Agc., mach rent and maint.	79.00
Office Machine & Supply Co. clean and adj typewriter	10.00
Burroughs Adding Machine Co. mechanical service	41.90
Addressograph - Mult. Corp. rep. and parts	5.30
Garner Printing & Publ. Co. bd proc, ads, supplies	108.70
R. A. Jorgenson, bd proc., supp, nurse	69.55
Koch Brothers, supp. assr.	51.59
Matt Parrott & Sons, supp. assr.	262.21
Clear Lake Sand & Gravel Co., sand and gravel, ct-house	36.85
Art O. Kramer cement, ct-house	40.95
Western Chemical Co., supp cthouse	10 78
Glenn Hanson, stolen Motor sheriff	8.00
F. A. Chisel, dog catcher	1.75
H. D. Schraeder, mi bd of Rev mtg	13 80

Crystal Twp. Trustees

Noman Hanson, clerk	4.00
J J Hanson, trustee	4.00
John Ruoss, trustee	4.00
Elmer Jensen, trustee	4.00

POOR FUND

American Optical Co., money adv., Korn	15.00
M. L. Swaney, Act. M. M. rev. stamps, co home	1.10
Dept. of Social Welfare, aid to dep. children	187.55
Dept. of Social Welfare, aid to blind	23.26
Dept. of Social Welfare, emergency relief	11.68
Bruecker's Drug Store, pres. Anderson, Gellner	40.34
Griesemer Harness Shop, rep. and supp. co home	3.28
Coast to Coast Store, supp. co home	1.46
Blank Drug Store, supp.	14 79
Geo. Goll, plants, co home	6.00
F. J. Falada, supp	39.00
Redden Hdw., supp., co. home	.38
Gildner - Paulson, clothing co home	16.66
Brueckner's Drug Store, supp., co home	1.94
Garner Bakery, bread, co home	30.10
Kreitinger Hdw., supp, co home	3 28
Farmers Cooperative Co. softener salt	5.00
George Drug Store, mdse. co home	1.02
Farmers Cooperative Society supp., co home	57.59
C. J. Schneider, supp, co home	137.20
Farmers Cooperative Company, sand and gravel, co home	2.40
Urich Implement Co., rep. co home	8.80
Thada's Store, supplies, co home	7.13
Woodford Wheeler Lumber Co., lumber, co home	4.19
Hancock County Co-op Ass'n. fuel, co home	51.26
Farmers Co-op. Elevator, coal, Omvig	19.14
Albert Swanson, care of poultry, co home	9.61
Arthur Wellemeyer, supp.	20.40
Garner Electric Shop, Xmas wreath and rep ct house	1.52
Louie Urich, phone calls, ct. house	3.22
Geo. R. Stokesbary, supp, co home	26.73

COURT EXPENSE

N. D. Linnell Ct. Rep., per diem and exp.	328.90
Hull's Cafe, meals, Jurors	17.65

ASSESSOR FUND

Gloria Greiman, wk assr. office	52.23
Chas. Hoeft, assr. meeting	7.00
Wm. Riemer, mi and assr. mtg.	7.90
Rollie Westerberg, meeting mi.	8.30
Fred L. Meinecke, assr. mtg. and mi.	9.20
Fred C. Missal, mi. assessing	3.40
Fred Gorton, assr. mtg. and mi.	9.30
Chester Williams, assr. mtg.	9.10

SOLDIER RELIEF FUND

C. S. Rice, sold. rel. mtg. and mi.	2.10
Dan Williams, sold. rel. mtg. and mi.	3.10
Rufus C. Welter, sold. rel. mtg. and mi.	4.50

BANG'S DISEASE

Dr. D. G. Quist, inspector	9.30
Dr. H. E. Harriman, inspector	5.50
Weston R. Gautt, stock slaughtered	25.00
Dr. R. T. Howard, inspector	29.20

T. B. ERAD.

Dr. F. A. Bonnstetter, inspector	65.80

ROAD MAINT.

Central States Electric Co. elec. and gas service	23.40
Hancock County Co-op. Oil tire cross chains	539.00
Fullerton Lbr. Co., cement and sand	1.39
Roy Schaefer, tile repair	7.90
Ernest Helps, tile repair	14.85
Hancock County Abstract, checking title	5.00
Haefner's Super Service, repairs	10.49
Urich Implement, repairs	32.49
Elmer Engstrom, repair damage	20.83
Famers Co-op Co., mtrl.	17.50
Urbatsch Hardware & App. supp.	41.60
J. J. Hrubes, cement	3.30
Corwith Hardware Company hardware	1.77
Zrostlik Truck Lines, tire	184.83
Federal North Iowa Grain, coal	17.77
Leo Sankey, gravel	31.75

ROAD CONSTRUCTION

W. H. Lemke, gravel checker	114.50
Iowa Concrete Products, material	230.72
Floyd F. Friedow, right of way	250.90
Carl Hampe, right of way	215.90
M. J. Howlett, right of way	253.88
Herman Buns & Son, grading	130.00
Gertrude E. Whitney, right of way	247.93

DRAINAGE FUNDS

Garner Construction Co. dragline wk, DD No. 3 - 4	30.00
Ernest Helps, labor, DD No. 3 and 4 L20	22.28
Adam Schmidt, labor, DD No. 3 and 4 L7 L14	63.76
Ernest Helps, tile repair DD No. 9	63.86
Garner Printing and Publ., notice, DD No. 65	4.19
Ernest Helps, labor, DD No. 80	17.82
Farmers Co-op. Company sand and gavel, DD No. 83	3.79
Albert Loeschen, labor, DD No. 36-2	5.18
J. A. Chambers, dr wk and mi, DD No. 36-2	4.40
Schram Bros., labor, DD No. 46-3	74.99
Chris Bulbranson, labor, DD No. 52-54-17	1.38
Luther Ingebretson, labor DD No. 79-49	.25
George Albertson, labor DD No. 79-49	.18
Peter Bartelson, labor, DD No. 79-49	.25
Dwight F. Graham, labor DD No. 87-5	1.80
C. H. Cooper, labor, DD No. 87-5	1 80
Shumway Kelly, labor, DD No. 93-100-131	.15
J. A. Chambers, dr wk and DD No. 93-100-131	4.40

On motion and second the Board adjourned to December 28th, 1948, at the hour of 9 o'clock A. M.

MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor
J. A. CHAMBERS,
Chairman

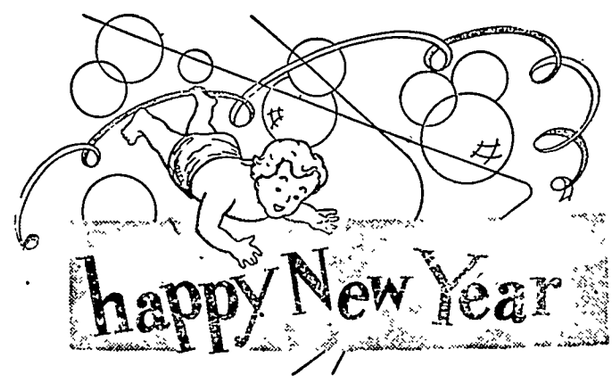
CURTIS G. RIEHM
Attorney-At-Law
Office Over Federated Store
Res. Phone 133W2
Phone 133 Garner, Iowa

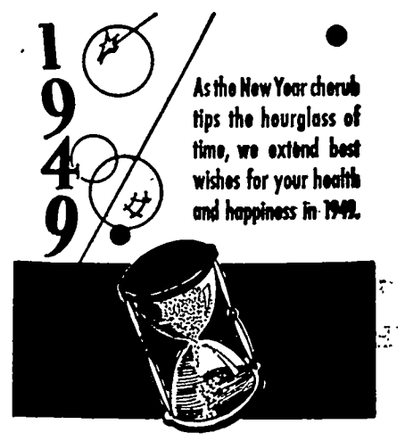
FOR EVERYONE IN THIS GREAT COMMUNITY.

R. W. ELDER
Insurance

Greetings at the start of a fresh New Year.

Thada's
"A Good Store In A Good Town"





Urich Implement Co
Elmer Urich, Prop. Garner, Iowa

Good Health
Good Cheer
Good Friends
Good Fortune—

May that be your lot in the coming year.

CHRISTIANCE
BARBER SHOP

There's a New Year dawning—a year which, we trust, will hold in store for you and yours health, happiness and prosperity in unbounded measure.

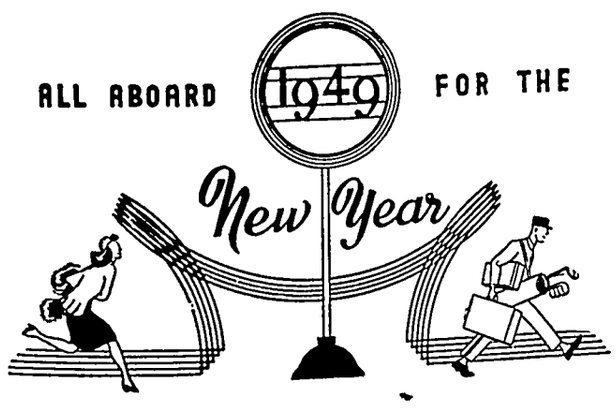
Dr. D. P. Anderson
Veterinarian

This is a good time, we think, to pledge ourselves to better serving you. We appreciate past favors and hope to merit your continued good will.

LEGAL HOLIDAY
This Bank will not be open for business on New Year's Day, Jan. 1, 1949

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

ALL ABOARD 1949 FOR THE New Year



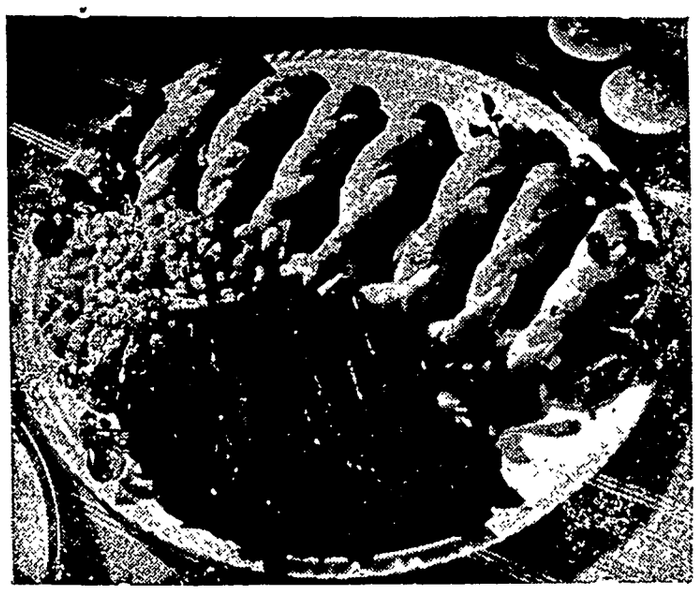
We want our wish of Good Luck to travel with you through the months of... A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

• * •

Garner Bakery
Otto Lehman, Prop. Phone Garner 134

New Year Meals Come—

STRAIGHT FROM THE LOCKER



Today's homemaker can really be thankful for her bountiful New Year's table. For these are the days when freezer-lockers and pantry shelves are paying off—when golden tender-kernel corn and garden-green asparagus are just two of the many summertime foods which are regular contributors to our wintertime menus.

And, then, of course, there's meat of most any variety right at hand if you have a locker at home, or in town or near by It doesn't take more than a few minutes to put dinner on the table when you have all the "fixings" there.

Quick Meals

The holiday season is one time when a multitude of activities and extra entertaining always demand much of our kitchen time Yet, thanks to freezer lockers, pressure saucepans, electric roasters and a wealth of new cookery methods, the task of fixing special and ordinary meals is much lighter.

Out of the freezer locker can come a vast parade of fresh vegetables and colorful fruits. There will be pies, cookies and cakes—and even ready-prepared foods, which just need a bit of cookery to be piping hot for the table.

Holiday preparations, even for the turkey or goose, can be cut down to the last few hourse before the family sits down to eat.

It's good to know, too, that this so-called "shorter work-week" in the kitchen doesn't mean that the food is less nourishing. In fact, it may be more so, says Mildred Nelson, extension specialist, Iowa State College. That's because the food is not overcooked.

Only within the last few years have homemakers enjoyed the ease of making baked products without going to a lot of fuss and bother. Ready-mixes, first entering the commercial market, have now become very popular. In fact, they can be made up in quantity at home

Home Mixes

After all, points out Miss Nelson, what's the use of stirring up a small batch of ingredients for pastry or biscuits every time you have a meal, when it would be much easier to mix up a large batch of the dry ingredients and have a ready supply on hand whenever you need it.

Miss Nelson says that ingredients for pastry, biscuits, griddle cakes, shortcakes, coffee cakes, cobblers, meat dumplings, cornbread and gingerbread can be mixed ahead of time, except for the egg and milk or other liquid ingredients Now that dried egg and milk are available, they can also be added right at the start.

The same idea will work for cornstarch puddings, pie fillings and cakes.

Here's the basic recipe to make pastry mix which can be used for meat pies. Use 6 cups of enriched, all-purpose flour, four teaspoons salt, 1½ cups fat (lard).

Sift the flour, measure flour and salt and sift twice. Cut in half the fat until the mixture feels like cornmeal. Blend other half of fat until the mix is the size of small peas. Measure the amount of mix made and label the jar Store the jar with tightly fitted cover in a cold place (refrigerator).

MENU

January 3:
Juice
Potatoes
Wieners
Tomatoes
Half Apple
Bread and Butter
Milk

Janury 4:
Juice
Mashed Potatoes
Baked Beans
Carrot Strips
Prune Sauce
Bread and Butter
Milk

January 5:
Juice
Veg. Beek Stew
Cabbage Slaw
Pudding
Bread and Butter
Milk

January 6:
Juice
Spaghetti and Meat
Buttered Peas and Carrots
Cup Cakes
Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Milk

January 7:
Juice
Mashed Potatoes
Cheese
Lettuce and Dressing
Graham Crackers
Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Milk

Miss Mildred Wolford of Lone Tree came back with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fuss, and will visit in Klemme until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Arnold and children went to Dysart Friday evening to spend the Christmas week end at the parental John Irvine home.

Mrs. Naska Bock entertained at a Christmas dinner on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bock and daughters of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Bock and children of Klemme; and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Burr and children of Ogden.

Want Ads

For Sale

FOR SALE—8 PIECE MODERN dining room suite, blond oak, 6-year old size Maple Crib with spring; 1 reed stroller; 1 baby basket and stand, some quart fruit jars. Mrs. Marvin Isvik, Phone 139-R2. (1tp)

YES, WE HAVE THEM, TWO great Hog Balancers, Nutrena Hog Balancer and Sargent Mineral Meal. We deliver ½ ton lots or more. GREEN ELEVATOR CO., Goodell, Iowa.

FOR SALE — NEW VARIETY Hybrid Corn. Out yields all others. Guaranteed to please - to ripen. Agents wanted. Batz Seed Farms, Mason City, Iowa. (J-7-p)

Miscellaneous

SEE R. W. ELDER FOR HANcock Co. Mutual Fire & Lightning Insurance renawals or new policies. (Dec. 29 tp)

INSURE WITH HENRY WARD, Klemme for Auto, Personal Property, Farm Liability, Life, Health and Accident. (Oct. 1948 tp)

Services Offered

TYPEWRITERS— ADDING MAchines cleaned and repaired. Expert workmanship, reasonable prices. Times Office. (tfc)

Card Of Thanks

We want to thank our neighbors who came to our assistance when our hog house was on fire, and thanking the Klemme Fire Department who were all set to come to the farm in case we needed help. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beier. (1tp)

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Harlow Helps and family and Bob Marshall and family were entertained to dinner Christmas day at the Herb Marshall home.

Miss Bertha Johnson entertained the pupils at her school to a Christmas party last Thursday with treats and gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Terhufen and sons drove to Clear Lake Christmas Day where they were guests at her mother's, Mrs. Ben Neiman.

Mrs Floyd Friedow returned home Monday from the Mercy hospital where she recently underwent a major operation. She making a good recovery

Mr and Mrs. John Schwichtenberg and Jesse Schwichtenberg were dinner guests Christmas day at the parental David Schwichtenberg home

Mr. and Mrs Wilbur Carr of Garner, Mrs. Ella Schneider and Miss Anna Gibbs of Klemme were dinner guests Christmas day at the Fred J. Arnold home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Finders and sons Don, Dick and Jerry spent Sunday with relatives at Eldora.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemke and children spent Christmas day at Nora Springs with Mrs. Lemke's parents.

Mr and Mrs Dan Webner had as their dinner guests on Christmas night Mr. and Mrs Mike Kinsella and Junior, Mr and Mrs Robert Anderson of Ventura, Mr and Mrs. Kenneth Schlawin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Webner and Denny of Garner, Mr and Mrs. Willard Palmer and family of Clear Lake, Mr and Mrs. Donald Webner and family of Corwith, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bier and Roberta and Ted Webner.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

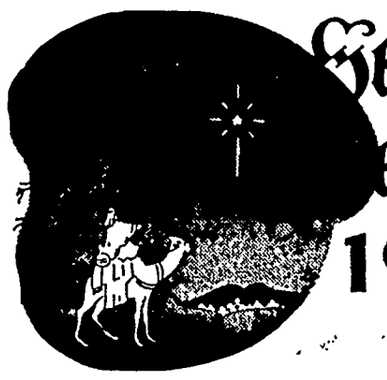
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Waddingham entertained to a Christmas dinner on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Waddingham and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Waddingham and children.

Mrs. Arley Blickenderfer of Elma fell on the ice at Goodell and fractured her right arm. She had come to Goodell to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. James Christie. Mrs. Blickenderfer has returned to her home.

B. C. BERGE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office Over Federated Store
Phone 20 Garner, Iowa

GARNER CLINIC
GARNER, IOWA
Dr. E. M. Christensen, M.D.
Physician & Surgeon, Ph. 18
EYES TESTED — GLASSES FITTED
Dr. A. G. Landon, D.D.S.
Dentist, Ph. 207

MARRIED COUPLES New Year's Eve DANCE
December 31, 1948
At The Klemme Community Hall
You Are Invited To Attend!



A YEAR CHOCK FULL OF THE BEST OF EVERY-THING IS OUR NEW YEAR WISH FOR YOU.

"Ship By Truck"
YOHN MOTOR FREIGHT
Dean Goll, Proprietor Garner, Iowa

Arthur Wellemeyer
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
—with long experince and best equipment.
PROMPT AMBULANCE SERVICE
Phone 23-R2 Day or Night
Klemme - Iowa

FEDERAL
Land Bank
LOANS
Long Term Low Interest
No Fees No Commission
Wm. F. Johannaber
Secretary-Treasurer
Forest City, Iowa
Phone 50

TAX COLLECTION
To Start Late

Hancock County taxes can't be paid until March "at the earliest" as a result of the rulings on the soldiers bonus.

Treasurer Roy L. McMillin, Auditor Maynard Schoneman made the statement Tuesday following a meeting to discuss the "tax muddle."

Usually the tax lists are made up by Dec. 31, and taxpayers start paying any time after the first of the year.

CHANGE NEEDED

Those normal tax lists are completed, but now there are complications.

The attorney general has ruled that the soldiers bonus tax of 1.95 mills must be added to the 1949 tax levy. This could not be done legally until a canvass of the Nov. 2 election proved the bonus measure had passed.

LAND CREDIT

Last week, to add another problem, the Iowa supreme court ruled the tax credit on agricultural lands is constitutional reversing its former stand.

That decision cannot become final until January 14, the last day for filing a petition for rehearing.

No action can be taken in Posting these credits on the tax lists until the ruling has become final.

Signed

Roy L. McMillin
County Treasurer

Maynard Schoneman
County Auditor

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

New Spy Ring Data Revives Probe; Tax Hike Bugaboo Frightens Some; Berlin Red Vote Tightens Issue

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

WITCH HUNT:
Pumpkin, Too

Like a delayed Halloween episode, with macabre rather than humorous undertones, was the revival of the spy hunt in Washington. All the ingredients were there—the cornfield, the pumpkin, and the specter of Stalin hovering over the unsavory whole.

But there was nothing funny in the situation to the house un-American activities committee or to a federal grand jury seeking to rush indictments against suspected traitors and espionage agents.

THE PROBE committee declared it had "definite proof of one of the most extensive espionage rings in the history of the United States." Bolstering this assertion was discovery of microfilm documents, termed by the committee of "tremendous importance," which had been removed from the state department for transmission to Russian agents.

The microfilm was revealed by Whitaker Chambers, a senior editor of Time magazine, who admitted its possession and declared Alger Hiss, president of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, had given it to him for transmission to Russia. Hiss promptly denied the charge.

PLACED ON the witness stand, Chambers said he had not had possession of the film during the years after 1937, until recently, and declined to name the persons in whose hands the film rested before being turned up in a pumpkin on Chambers' farm.

Meanwhile, Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, studied the microfilm documents, evaluated their contents, but declined to divulge their importance.

Chambers, an admitted member of a Communist spy ring which operated here a decade ago, was slated for further witness stand appearances, as was Hiss, who maintains he was never a Russian agent.

HIGHER TAXES:
Some Frightened

Some business men and industrialists, who feared a Truman victory might result in a new "sock-the-rich" tax program, shivered anew as they read a statement by one of the leading proponents of President Truman's twice-rejected plea to impose a modified form of the wartime excess profits tax.

THE SPEAKER was Wyoming's Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, who cited the 1929 financial crash as an argument for boosting taxes on business profits.

The senator declared that "if corporate profits of 1929 had been adequately taxed, this government would have been in a much better fiscal position to meet the depression."

He pointed out that corporate earnings now are piling up at the same rate as in 1929, although the companies are bigger. So earnings are greater than ever before.

HOWEVER, industrialists, leaders of the big labor unions, accountants and economists have been requested to give their views on what, if anything, congress should do about profits, estimated at a record 20 billion dollars this year.

O'Mahoney proposed that "little business," or small, independent corporations be given special exemptions under any excess profits tax plan.

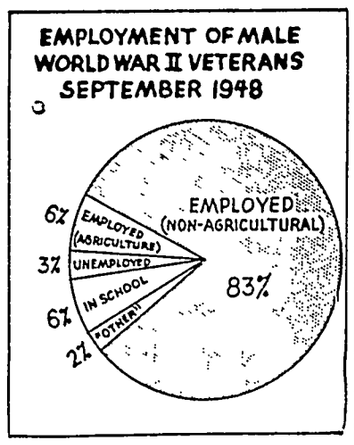
GOLDEN FLEECE:
Page Jason

The "golden fleece," subject of one of mythology's most romantic, colorful stories, crashed the world press by proxy as a result of a row over custody of its namesake.

The fleece, symbol of one of the world's most exclusive orders of nobility—not even the king of England is a knight—may be "kidnaped" by the city of Dijon.

THE GOLDEN fleece — of which small replicas were awarded the knights—was kept in Dijon, France, after the order was founded by Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, in 1429, for several generations until Mary of Burgundy took it with her to Austria when she married Maximilian the Fair.

The fleece remained in Vienna until the French army recaptured the city during the last war and returned the fleece to Dijon. Now, Austria is asking for it back. But the good Burgundians of Dijon have petitioned the city council to urge the French government to refuse the Austrian bid and to retain the fleece in Dijon.



Three years after the war most veterans, by and large, are firmly established in civilian employment, according to statistics compiled by the Research Council for Economic Security, Chicago. Eighty-nine of the estimated 14.9 million living veterans of World War II were employed as of last September. Of these, about 900,000 were on farms and another 900,000 in school. About 450,000 were unemployed, while an additional 300,000 were "resting" or unable to work.

DEAD END:
Reds Block Way

The struggle for a Berlin peace dragged wearily on, extended by Russian establishment of a Communist "government" in the Reich capital.

Demanding elections be held on a "city-wide basis," the United States, Britain and France told the Soviet union that there could be no solution to the Berlin impasse until the Russians disown the newly-installed Berlin government. The terms were clearly expressed in a note accompanying a list of Soviet violations of the Berlin constitution that the three powers had submitted for guidance.

ALTHOUGH FORMALLY addressed to a United Nations committee, the note obviously was meant as a strongly worded warning to Moscow. It indicated that if what it termed the "illegal body" in the Soviet sector were not disbanded, the western powers would take a series of measures required by the fact, in their opinion, that the "legal, unified administration" of Berlin had ceased to exist.

The western powers placed no time limit for the Soviet union to make a decision on whether to continue collaboration. However, the tone of the note, as informed sources stressed, indicated that unless the normal administrative conditions were reestablished "pretty soon," a new policy would be adopted.

FROM BEGINNING to end the note gave what the western powers regard as detailed proof that the Soviets have pursued in Berlin a policy of systematic violation of all quadripartite agreements.

POTATOES:
No More Doubt

There was no longer any doubt. Farmers, at last, had a full-blown portrait of the American housewife's ideal potato. The U. S. department of agriculture even suggested that farmers tack it up in the barn for quick reference.

The department found, after a survey among 3,300 housewives, that farmers and shippers should see to it that potatoes prepared for market are:

CLEAN, of medium size, marked by few "eyes," light in color, undamaged—and of such quality that they will cook up soft, mealy and evenly throughout, without falling apart.

Housewives like medium sized potatoes because they rate them easiest to peel and handle, and best for judging individual portions—the all-purpose potato, they say.

The survey showed more than a fourth of the householders disturbed by "mechanical and handling injuries" to potatoes. Said the department:

"IT IS PRETTY good evidence that too many potatoes are being dug and handled with improper machinery and tools, and that the potatoes are not properly culled before being sent to market."

Immediate question to arise: Will potato growers and shippers do anything about it?

ROBOT EAR:
New Magic

Alexander Graham Bell would have approved. Science had moved to make his telephone even more serviceable. Tom Edison also would have nodded in approbation, for these same scientists had tied together two great contributions to living to make their convenience even more marked, more appreciated.

A NEW robot ear that hears the phone ring and turns on the light was shown to doctors at the American Medical association meeting in St. Louis.

The ear could be used when no one is at home to turn on the light outside the front door. When the householder got ready to go home, he could call his house, and the ear would turn on the light. No one need answer the phone.

THE ROBOT is a box on which the telephone sets. When the phone rings, the noise of the bell vibrates a salt crystal in the box. The vibration makes electricity flow in the salt, and the current is amplified to turn on the light switch. The box and phone are set in the circuit with the light to be turned on. In this way, the ear could be used to light any lamp in the house, or outside.

The device comes from wartime submarine and surface ship detection by sound. Nothing but the vibration of a phone bell affects this ear

Besides doctors, FBI men have been getting these ears because they are on call 24 hours a day. Undertakers are getting them because more people seem to die at night.

RAIN-MAKER:
In the Bag

Perhaps it was in the bag, but Franklin Fenenga, an archeologist of California university wasn't saying. All he would say was that he did have the bag.

THE BAG was a complete rain-making outfit he had acquired from an Indian whose grandfather was a medicine man.

The bag and its potentialities came to light when Kern county, in the southern part of California's central valley, had its first rainfall in eight months not long ago. Fenenga was right there in the middle of the downpour. And, when he returned to Berkeley, the rain came down there in torrents.

NATURALLY, speculation arose concerning the properties of the rain-making bag, for, when the outfit, including the tail of a beaver, a bag of snapdragon seeds, a bag of eagle down, a fossil fish vertebra and various charm stones and pebbles, was brought out of storage, the rain started.

Fenenga had the bag with him when he entered Berkeley in a storm. It is now in possession of the university.

Polio Poster Girl

Linda Brown, 4, of San Antonio, Tex., has been selected the poster girl for the 1949 March of Dimes, January 14 to 31. Stricken with polio two and a half years ago, Linda was treated at the Robert B. Greene hospital in San Antonio with funds derived from the March of Dimes. She now walks without braces and has only a slight limp.

RANKIN:
Outward Bound?

Rep. John E. Rankin (D., Miss.) one of the foremost house opponents of President Truman's civil rights program, faces a strong fight by northern Democrats in congress to force him off the house un-American activities committee.

UNDER THE seniority system, Rankin is slated to become chairman of the house veterans' affairs committee. The attempt to oust him from the un-American investigating group will be based on the general house rule that the chairman of a committee may hold only one committee post.

The northern Democrats will argue that if Rankin accepts the veterans' affairs committee chairmanship, he should be restricted to that.

BIKINI:
Still Echoes

Bikini's atomic blast was still echoing.

President Truman denied a charge that the White House had suppressed a final report on the atomic tests off the atoll.

The President's statement, made at a news conference, was in answer to an assertion by a Mr. Bradley Dewey that the White House had clamped the lid on the Bikini findings

New Year's Eve Is 'Watch Night'

In addition to secular celebrations, many religious denominations hold special services on New Year's Eve from 9 or 10 until 12 midnight.

The Methodist Episcopal church was the earliest to adopt this custom and they are called "watch-night services."

In 1947, St. George's Methodist church in Philadelphia held its 178th watch night service. The church was founded in 1769 and in 1770 held what has been called the first Protestant church services in America. Many other churches are holding such watch night services today.

The far-famed Philadelphia Mummers' parade unfolds along a five-mile stretch of Broad street each January 1.

Mummers' Parade Each New Year

The Mummers' parade on New Year's Eve is to Philadelphia what the Mardi Gras is to New Orleans.

The earliest settlers in the vicinity of present-day Philadelphia were English and Swedes. The English cherished the traditional Mummer play "St. George and the Dragon," while the Swedes were fond of masquerading informally on New Year's Eve. The two customs had merged long before the Revolution and it was customary—even among the Quakers—to extend hospitality to the masqueraders or give them a dole for refreshments.

After the Revolution, George Washington replaced St. George as the central figure of the festivities which continued along the path of spontaneity until 1886 when the parade was sponsored by the Silver Crown New Year's association.

The municipal administration officially recognized the parade in 1901, and representative citizenry began turning out to watch and participate in the festivities.

Public Reception At White House

It has been the custom from the beginning of the Republic for the President of the United States to welcome the New Year by holding a reception open to the general public.

On the first New Year's Day after his inauguration, President Washington opened his home to receive the people. Throughout the seven years which Washington lived in Philadelphia, then the capital of the nation, he continued this custom.

New Year Kisses Began In Scotland

The custom of interchanging purely platonic New Year kisses started in Scotland.

In the memoirs of Lord Langdale by Sir T. D. Hardy, it is recounted how just at 12 o'clock, wherever you may happen to be, you proceed to kiss the nearest girl by way of a New Year greeting.

In Scotland, no work was done on New Year's as late as 1904. No porters or crabs were at the Waverly station in Edinburgh, and a visiting noble lord had to wend his way to his hotel in a milk cart.

January Named For Ancient God

The name January is derived from the two-faced god, Janus. He was originally the god of light and day. However, he gradually became the god of the beginning of things.

The beginning of the year was sacred to Janus and a festival in his honor called Angonia was celebrated. At the beginning of any importers or cabs were at the Wavervice was sought.

Janus was worshiped as the guardian of trade and shipping and he was the inventor of agriculture.

New Year's Started 50 Centuries Ago

New Year's has been observed as a holiday, either civil or religious, for the last 5,000 years. Nearly everywhere and at all periods it has been a day of rejoicing and of gift giving; and history tells us that in Babylon, 3,000 years before the Christian era, the day was sacred to Marduk, the solar god, of whom it was believed that all other gods were but various manifestations.

Sportlight by Grantland Rice

Scrub to Coaching Star

PRACTICALLY every one of the long parade of great football coaches has come from good or better football players — Camp, Haughton, Rockne, Little, Crisler, Bierman, Neyland, Thomas, Hickman, Voigts, Yost, Heisman, on and on indefinitely.

I can recall but one exception. His name is Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech, one of the top coaches of all time.

Alexander headed north from the red clay hills of Georgia to accept the accolade of the Touchdown club of New York. Today he is Georgia Tech's graduate manager, having turned over the coaching reins at Tech to Bobby Dodd after directing the destinies of the Yellow Jackets for 25 years.

Grantland Rice

But the important point is this—Alexander was never a college star. He was on the scrub team at Georgia Tech in 1907, 1908 and 1909 before he became John Heisman's assistant in 1912.

Bill Alexander, physically, was never quite equipped to be a college star. But, mentally and psychologically and emotionally he was far beyond most of the greatest players the game has ever known.

He knew football. He knew the physical side of football. But, better than most, he knew the value of deception, of using speed to match weight and power.

When John Heisman left Georgia Tech in 1920 to go to Pennsylvania, Alexander took over and set up a brilliant record for the next 25 years until he turned over the job to Bobby Dodd in 1945.

In that time, Old Man Alex had won seven conference championships—he was named the coach of the year in 1942—and he had baffled and bewildered more rival coaches than anyone I know, with lighter, faster, smarter working material.

It was lack of weight and power that bowled Tech over this year.

Bill Alexander is football's leading philosopher. He has known the game from the front line for over 40 years. He has a marvelous sense of humor—an amazing understanding of values.

Here's an Alexander story that goes back exactly 20 years to 1928 and explains Alex:

Georgia Tech was playing its final game of the season against Notre Dame. This game meant staying home or going to the Rose Bowl. "How are things?" I asked.

"How would I know," Alexander said, "I haven't seen the team in three days. I've had 122 tickets to collect and deliver to old grads. Say, who're we playing?"

* * *

The Four Horsemen

There have been many stories told about the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame since they rode to victory over 20 years ago, sweeping the plains from Army and Princeton to Stanford at Palo Alto.

You may remember their names —Harry Stuhldreher at quarterback, weight 154; Don Miller and Jimmy Crowley at the two halves, around 162 and 164; Elmer Layden at fullback, 162.

Some of the main arguments that always break out when their names come up are: "What did they all do? Who did the blocking? Who did the ball-carrying? Who did the kicking? Who did the tackling?"

This was undoubtedly the greatest pony backfield, pound for pound, in football history. The average weight was around 160 pounds. There wasn't a man on the job at 165 pounds or higher. Yet it ripped, ran and passed its way from coast to coast with a series of victorious thrusts.

One of the main arguments started when Don Miller, now a high-toned Cleveland judge, stopped me before the Army-Navy game a year ago and berated me soundly for picking him as a blocking back.

"I never blocked a guy in my life," Miller said with much indignation.

I told this to Elmer Layden, recently. Layden laughed. "I'll tell you the truth," he said. "We all had to block. We all had our blocking assignments, even bowling over the two ends, helping take out a tackle, or handle the secondary.

"Stuhldreher was probably the best of our blockers, but we had to block. Miller, Crowley and I handled most of the running. Stuhldreher did the passing, but we were more of a running team than a passing team. We all had speed. I could just shade 10 seconds—say 9⅘ for the 100, and the others were about the same. I did the kicking."

Also the pass interference, I suggested. In the Stanford game against Ernie Nevers and other Layden intercepted four or passes, running two interce back for touchdowns.

Insect Enemies Sought for Pacific Pests

The navy is recruiting insects to spearhead its current attack in the Pacific.

The attack is an all-out offensive against insect pests which are ravaging food plants in some Pacific islands. Final plans now call for biological control of the pests—introducing their natural enemies for a fight to the finish.

American scientists are scouting far-flung Pacific regions for enemies of island pests.

Theodore R. Gardner of the department of agriculture has gone to Malaysia to collect a species of scolia wasp, a known enemy of the rhinoceros beetle, which is damaging cocoanut trees.

Harold Compere of University of California is in Zanzibar seeking wasps that attack larvae of the rhinoceros beetle. Another University of California scientist, Dr. W. Harry Lange, is making a study of Marianas cocoanut beetles.

TEEN-AGE TRIUMPHS By Stookie Allen

WINNER
JOHNNY CHADIMA, 16, OF CEDAR RAPIDS IS A DOUBLE WINNER! FIRST, HE WON A NICE PRIZE AS THE CITY SOAP BOX DERBY CHAMP. NEXT, HE WON A FIRST PRIZE IN THE FISHER BODY CRAFTSMEN'S CONTEST
JOHNNY BUILT HIS DERBY RACER IN ONLY 3 WEEKS, BUT HIS MODEL CARRIAGE REQUIRED 1,300 HOURS OF PAINSTAKING WORK. IT BROUGHT HIM $5,000!
John Chadima
MOVE, BABY, MOVE!
12
Released by The Associated Newspapers
Stookie Allen

WHY WE SAY

By STAN J. COLLINS and L. J. SLAWSON

"Free Masons" are so called after the guild of stone cutters and bricklayers of the Middle Ages who specialized in building churches. These artisans were exempted from paying tithes, and so were "free masons."

Poisoning by Inorganic Selenium Menaces Cattle

A hitherto unrecognized form of selenium in range plants has been identified as inorganic selenium, and its existence in range forage plants is expected to force some revision in previously held theories of treating selenium poisoning in livestock, University of Wyoming points out. Inorganic forms of selenium are more often likely to cause very severe, acute types of livestock poisoning. These types of poisoning are much more difficult of treatment. Previously it was believed that only organic selenium could be found in range plants—that is only selenium which had been made a part of the living fluids and compounds within the plant. Inorganic selenium simply refers to forms which are taken into the plant, chemically unchanged.

Indians Winning Battle Against Tuberculosis

Early historical material indicates that since the coming of white men, tuberculosis has plagued the Indian race. Mortality rates according to early records were estimated to range from 200 to as high as 3,000 per hundred thousand. The national average in 1944 was 41.3 per hundred thousand, ranging from a low figure of 13.2 for Wyoming to a high of 122.9 for Arizona. There has been steady improvement in the nation since 1900, when deaths caused by tuberculosis occurred at the rate of 19.4 per hundred thousand. The Indian death rate, as of today, is approximately that of the national rate for 1900. The government is now concentrating on more medical care.

POOR RICHARD'S ALMANAC

Anniversary Highlights Book's Effect

Poor Richard's anniversary, January 17, 1949, highlights the influence of the almanac on American life. Poor Richard was the nom de plume of Benjamin Franklin, whose Poor Richard Almanac began the popularity of this type of publication.

In hundreds of thousands of homes, rural households especially, the almanac hangs on a peg in living room or kitchen. There, already, the 1949 almanac has begun to hide the 1948 and earlier editions.

The almanac is many things to many people. It carries an anniversary-listing calendar, astronomical data, information on how to get rid of rats, raise healthy chicks, how to stay awake in church.

KRNT RADIO THEATER
DES MOINES, IOWA.
2 NITES ONLY—Tues., Wed., Jan. 4th, 5th
3 YEARS ON BROADWAY! PARIS AND LONDON HIT!
MAX GORDON presents
BORN YESTERDAY
Top American Comedy Hit by GARSON KANIN with JEAN PARKER • LON CHANEY
(In Person) AND BRILLIANT NEW YORK CAST ...
FOR BEST SEATS, MAIL YOUR ORDER NOW!
Send proper remittance to KRNT Theater, Des Moines 14 with self-addressed stamped envelope. Specify performance desired.
PRICES: Main Floor $3.66, $3.05, $2.44; Balcony $3.66, $3.05, $2.44, $1.83, $1.22 (tax included)
SEAT SALE OPENS THURS., DEC. 16 AT THEATER AND THE NEW UTICA
"To visit 'BORN YESTERDAY' is to realize how MAGICAL the theater can be. BRIGHT and FUNNY ... incandescent HILARITY"—New York Times

Weekly Picture Story

● Displaced No More

KNOWN to the world as "displaced persons," thousands of frightened men, women and children are coming from the starved and bitter lands across the sea to find what they hope will be homes in the United States.

Torn from their native roots and set adrift by the war, these people, unable to go back, turned their hopes to America. Quotas were established for the DP immigrants, and a few weeks ago they began to arrive—all shapes, sizes and nationalities—still searching for homes.

Down to the last small child they all are thankful to be here. Eustachy Kozopas and his wife Katharina, who came all the way from the Ukraine, offered a prayer at the rail of the General Bundy as the vessel docked at the Commonwealth pier at Boston, bringing 600 DPs to a new life in America. The Kozopases will live in New York . . . Another striking personage aboard ship was the little girl (left) who toted an umbrella as big as herself and came equipped with built-in dreams of chewing gum, candy and American movies.

Those who arrived during the New York dock strike had to carry their own luggage ashore—and did so with no complaints. Ernest Geisthardt (above, right), a German DP, arriving on the U. S. liner Ernie Pyle, managed to travel on an even keel with pipe in mouth and stovepipe on head. His wife, a U. S. citizen, whom he last saw two and a half years ago, was there to meet him . . . The children, of course, are always in evidence—some happy, some taking a gloomy view of the whole migration.

MIRROR of your MIND ● ● ● Fear and Suspicion

By Lawrence Gould

Is fear what makes you suspicious?

Answer: Not primarily, though it might seem so. If your mental habit is to feel that everyone you meet is out to get the better of you, you are likely to be suffering from the rage left over from a childish feeling that no one loved or appreciated you. The resentment you originally felt toward your parents has been "displaced" onto everyone you meet, and you suspect others of unkind intentions toward you both because you assume they reciprocate your secret, hostile feelings, and because their "meanness" justifies your hatred.

Is there any "formula" for success?

Answer: None that everyone can follow. For to be outstandingly successful takes a singleness of purpose which the average person's feelings are too "mixed" for him to achieve, plus unusual freedom from the more or less unconscious fear most of us have of trying to outstrip our neighbors. Many men and women actually throw away success when it is all but won because they feel so much more secure in a position where they do not have to "stick their necks out." But you do not have to be successful to be happy, and that is what matters.

Is nail-biting commoner with boys than with girls?

Answer: Yes, reports a writer in the French Archives of Pediatrics. Study of 150 "backward" children who bit their nails showed the habit to be more than twice as prevalent in male children as in females, and that "the nail-biting child comes very often from an economically and psychologically unfavorable background." One plausible reason for the difference between the sexes is that biting one's nails generally is an expression of repressed aggressiveness, and boys seem to be more subject than girls to aggressive feelings.

LOOKING AT RELIGION

By DON MOORE

St. PATRICK
ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL BIBLES (OXFORD BIBLE, PRINTED BY J BASKETT IN 1631) BECAME KNOWN AS A BASKETFULL OF PRINTER'S ERRORS!
IT WAS SUPPRESSED AFTER THE PRINTER WAS FOUND TO HAVE LEFT THE NEGATIVE OUT OF THE SEVENTH COMMANDMENT.
WAS NOT IRISH-WAS NOT A SAINT-
WAS NOT ORIGINALLY NAMED PATRICK-
WAS NOT BORN ON MARCH 17th-
DID NOT DRIVE THE SNAKES OUT-OF IRELAND!
SAMUEL SEABURY WAS THE FIRST EPISCOPAL BISHOP IN THE UNITED STATES, CONSECRATED IN 1784. HIS GREAT-GREAT GRANDSON, ALSO SAMUEL SEABURY, IS A FAMOUS NEW YORK JUDGE.
MOORE

KEEPING HEALTHY

Symptoms Show Lack of Vitamins

By Dr James W Barton

IT IS told of a certain physician that when meeting another physician he would say, "Are you still taking vitamin B1 for your nerves?" The physician asked how he knew he was taking B1. The reply was that so many physicians now were taking vitamin B1, that he was trying the question on all his physician friends and found that not less than one in four were taking it.

While there is no question but that vitamin B1 helps the high-strung, nervous, hard-working individual, this physician who was asking the question thought that many who took vitamin B1 only thought they were being helped.

Now it is generally admitted that the vitamins are of great help to those who need them, and that the discovery of vitamins was the greatest advance in the knowledge of food and nutrition in modern times.

However, it now is generally agreed that the average or normal healthy individual does not need vitamins. Fortunately, vitamins do no harm when not needed—except perhaps vitamin D.

How can the individual know that he needs vitamins?

The first and outstanding symptom of lack of vitamins in the system is tiredness yet inability to sleep, lack of appetite, cramps in arms and legs, red tongue, ulcers of the mouth and at corners of the mouth, diarrhea from irritable bowel

The tired feeling may be suspected of being caused by infection—teeth, tonsils, gums, gall bladder—but where infection is present, the individual not only wants to sleep but can sleep all night and a part of the day also.

Where the symptoms point to lack of vitamins, eating enough of the protective foods will bring relief.

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

The high blood pressure patient is advised to rest more, not to attend events which excite him or perhaps make him angry.

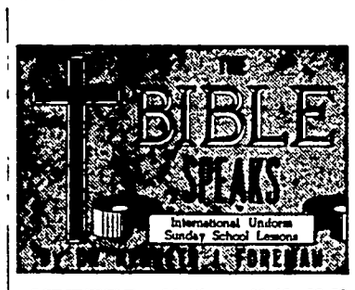
• • •

The muscles controlling the pupil and lens of the eye are used for exacting, close work and soon can tire if the worker does not look away from this close work from time to time.

Most difficult hour to obtain a physician is from 6 to 7 p. m. when physicians are on their way home or making calls on their own emergency patients.

• • •

In the weak solutions in which DDT usually is used—anywhere from 1 to 3 or 5 per cent—it is relatively safe as a sprav or powder around the house.



SCRIPTURE: Matthew 22:15—23:39; Luke 2: 3 1-3; Galatians 4:1-5.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 1:46-55.

Before Sunrise

Lesson for January 2, 1949.

TAKE another look at your new calendar. 1949 it says: 1,949 years since the one single event on which turns the history of the world—the birth of Jesus. (As is well known, the first calculators missed the exact date by four or five years; but the main idea is there all the same.) With the coming of the Son of God to this earth, it was as if a twilight world first saw the sun.

Dr. Foreman

• • •

Military Government

IF WE go back in imagination and think what the world was like before there was a bit of the Christian religion in it, we can better understand the story of Jesus and of the nineteen Christian centuries. For the next six months we shall be thinking, week by week, of the life of Jesus Christ. But first let us think of the world in which he lived.

Jesus' homeland of Palestine was run by a military government. Roman soldiers were everywhere, taking the best of everything. Jews could scarcely forget, even for a day, that they were a beaten people, any more than a Japanese or Austrian can forget it these days.

Jesus grew up in the sort of atmosphere which military occupation always tends to produce: uncertainty, fear, hatred and desire for revenge, tense with underground plots, rumors and conspiracies. The Romans found Palestine hardest of all their possessions to rule. When Jesus was a boy there was a terrific uprising near his home, and the Romans crucified 2,000 people in reprisals.

• • •

Established Church

WE MUST not think there was no religion before Jesus was born. There was too much of it—that is, of the wrong sort. The "established church" of Jesus' land was the Temple at Jerusalem, with its complicated ritual, its countless beasts roasting on the great altar, its white-robed choirs chanting by day and night.

The High Priest himself was appointed by the Roman overlords; chosen for his skill in rabble-soothing, he held office on condition that he could hold the masses in check. However, the Jerusalem temple was a very small part of the actual religious life of the ordinary citizen.

Even the most religious would see the place only a few times a year. Jesus seldom referred to it, and it was finally the leaders of the established church who hounded him to his death.

• • •

The Sects

THEN as now, not all the religion of the people was confined to the official priesthood and "officers of the church." There were other religious groups, unofficial sects, and not all good. There were the Sadducees, aristocratic and wealthy, professing a strictly this-world religion, not believing in any life after death and rejecting most of the Scriptures.

The Pharisees were the unofficial religious leaders of Israel, as the priests were the official leaders. They were the traveling preachers, the Bible teachers, the D. D.'s of that time. Closely associated with these were the Scribes, experts in the study of the laws of Moses.

They should have been good, but what Jesus thought of them can be seen in the blistering words of Matthew 23.

• • •

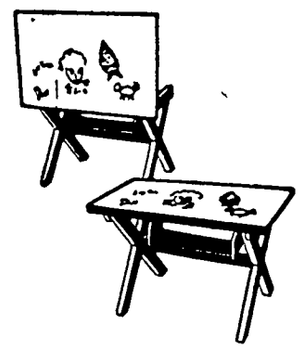
Watching for the Dawn

IT WAS a discouraging world in which to be born. Under the Roman heel, with government in the hands of foreigners, with religion under the leadership of political bosses, hypocrites, church lawyers and fanatics, it was not a hopeful time

And yet there were some really Godlike souls. The stories in Luke 1 and 2 bring before us God-fearing people old and young: a priest who had real faith in his heart, old, old people who prayed for nothing else so much as for God's kingdom, and simple shepherds who welcomed the message of God. And above all, Mary the blessed among women.

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Features.)

A Double Duty Table For Children to Use



THIS table does double duty. It can be used as a play table or the top, being hinged, may be raised to vertical position and used as a blackboard. The top is finished with black presswood or the plywood top may be covered with blackboard paint. The table stands 24 inches high and has a top measuring 22x36 inches.

• • •

Send 25 cents for Blackboard Table Pattern No. 117 to Easi-Bild Pattern Company, Dept. W, Pleasantville, N. Y.

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

BUSINESS & INVEST. OPPOR.

DISTRIBUTORS OR JOBBERS
Wanted to sell Men and Ladies' Mesh Belts. Write to J & J ENTERPRISES, 35 West 33 Street, New York City.

DOGS, CATS, PETS, ETC.

SALE—40 CANARIES, CHOICE BIRDS Come see them. MRS. G. G. BOWEN, Searsboro, Iowa. No Sunday sales.

FARMS AND RANCHES

CANADIAN FARMS—Write us for FREE INFORMATION on farm settlement opportunities. Fertile soils. Reasonably priced. B. C. Haworth, Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Station, St. Paul, Minn.

FOR SALE—570 acre estate in Atchison County, Kansas. Highly improved including tenant house. On concrete highway 3 miles from Atchison, Kansas. Strictly modern. Good deep soil. Priced low as heirs anxious to sell. Other listings. Further details contact BARTLETT MORTGAGE COMPANY, 815 Felix, St. Joseph, Missouri.

FOR SALE BY OWNER, 215 acre farm, 100 acres in pasture, balance good productive level land. Large 8-room white house, electricity, big red barn, granary, double corn crib, etc. 1¼ miles from school, on gravel road
Price $23,500 cash.
GEORGE W. MILLER
North Point Cabins, West Liberty, Iowa.

For Sale or Trade, 240 A. well imp, land. Complete set bldgs, 6 rm. hse. in excel. cond. Pressure water, REA, oil heat, mod. laundry rm. Farm will carry $10,000 mortgage, located 1¼ mi. from bus, community. C. J. Fox, Riceville, Ia.

HELP WANTED—MEN

COMMISSION SALESMAN
Auto seat covers, immediate delivery; protected territory, prices competitive.
DREXLER MANUFACTURING COMPANY
365 Marietta St. - Atlanta, Georgia

LIVESTOCK

FOR SALE. Shropshire sheep. Yearling rams and bred ewes. Best blood lines. Quality with size. Prices reasonable. H. E. Hazen, Denmark, Ia.

REAL ESTATE—HOUSES

TWO COTTAGES FOR SALE
Elks Park on Clear Lake at Waseca, Minnesota, $3,000. ALLEN E. WOLF, 219-221-223 No. State St., Waseca, Minn.

WANTED TO BUY

WANTED TO BUY
Second-hand French horns
512 Walnut St. - Muscatine, Iowa.

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds!

Check that Cough from a cold Before It Gets Worse —and get well quicker with the NEW FOLEY'S

The NEW FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR contains one of the most important cough treatment developments in years, one that ACTUALLY HELPS SPEED RECOVERY. Also soothes throat, checks coughing. Also delicious, non-narcotic, does not upset digestion. But most important, NEW FOLEY'S helps you get well quicker from cough due to cold. At your druggist.

CHANGE of LIFE?

Are you going through the functional 'middle age' period peculiar to women (38 to 52 yrs.)? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel so nervous, highstrung, tired? Then do try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect!
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harson and daughter Mary, were dinner guests on Sunday at the E. L. Albro home in Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hess spent Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Neuhring at Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coobs, of Iowa City, came home last week to spend the holidays visiting at the Benn Coobs home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Radics, Jr. of Detriot, Michigan, came Friday to visit over the Christmas week end at the parental John Etchen home.

Miss Ada Mutch of Grundy Center and Mrs. Lida Filkins of Iowa City came Thursday and were guests over Christmas at the Dr. A. H. Dulmes home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell entertained to a six o'clock Christmas dinner Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gordon of Rowan and Mr. and Mrs. Junior Pringnitz, and Duard Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Back entertained to dinner Christmas day Lynford Back and family; Franklin Buseman and family; Frank Kluckhohn and son, Franklin; and Graydon and Bill Back.

Mrs. Mildred Day entertained to dinner on Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nissen of Sioux City; Mr. and Mrs. Dorance Day and Gary of Des Moines; Mrs. Mary Petersen and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mathews of Clear Lake.

KLEMME

MOVIES

Dec. 30
SLAVE GIRL
(In Technicolor
Yvonne DeCarlo

Thursday, Jan. 11
"SOMETHING IN THE WIND"
Starring Deana Durbin

Comedy Each Show

SHOW AT 7:30 P. M.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hummel and children were Christmas day guests at the Stewart Hevilin's at Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Rasmus and children spent Christmas day at the Irvin Rasmus home at Garner.

Joyce and Russel Schubert of near Britt are spending this week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Neuhring.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fuss left Thursday for Lone Tree, Iowa, to spend Christmas at the home of Mrs. Fuss' folks.

Mrs. Esther Barz entertained to dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Milvern Barz, Edmund Josten and family, Grandma Wille and Edward Barz.

Mr. and Mrs. Verle Keraus of Garner entertained to dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Buntenbach, "Red" Buntenbach and Larry Wicks.

Mr. Harms, of Alden, Iowa came last week for a visit at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thomas. Mr. Harms is 89 years old and gets around remarkably well.

Guests over the Christmas week end at the Vern Bisom home were Mrs. Mable Maximer and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clements of Des Moines. Mrs. Maximer is Mrs. Bisom's mother and Mrs. Clements is her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Koerner had all of their children and their families at their home Sunday, December 26th for Christmas dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Levi Ridder and children; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Koerner and children; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bridges and children; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stokesbary and children, and Kermit Koerner.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meinders entertained the following to dinner at their home on Christmas day: Mr. and Mrs. August Josten and family; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Neuhring and family; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jungemeyer and family; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Meinders and family; Mr. and Mrs. Laurice Lemke; Mr. Henry Josten; and Mrs. Henry Foss of Goodell.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Edna Thada was a guest at the Ed. Thompson home on Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Riemer and Iola of Garner visited at the Emil Beier home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Naska Bock drove to Ogden Sunday for a visit with her son-in-law, Lyle Burr and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lawhorn drove to Cedar Rapids to spend Christmas Day at the home of hen neice.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Buntenbach, son "Red" and daughter, Larry Wicks, were dinner guests Christmas Day at the Verle Keraus home in Garner.

Miss Mary Egeland, student at Northwestern University, came home to spend the holiday vacation visiting with her parents, Rev. E. M. Egeland and family.

Mrs. Emil Patet has not been well for the past few weeks so Mr. and Mrs. Patet gave up their annual trip to Florida this year. Mrs. Patet, however, is better at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Gibbs of Garner had as their guests for dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gibbs and Isabelle; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gibbs and Ronna; Mrs. Emelie Arnold and Miss Minnie Lenz.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larsen, Eunice and Junior, drove to Garden City, Minnesota to spend Christmas at the Albert Yahnke home. They were guests at the Alvin Stokesbary home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bachman left in their car early Friday morning for McAllen, Texas for a visit with their daughter, Maxine and family. They expect to be in the south for about a month and will visit places of interest on the tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen and Mrs. Winnie Smith and son Avery Beir surprised Mrs. R. A. Schlawin on her birthday, Dec. 20th. The self invited guests brought food for nice dinner and presented Mrs. Schlawin with some nice gifts. Mrs. Schlawin also received many cards and gifts from friends and relatives.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Hammon Rouder were callers at the John Meinders home Friday, afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Keraus entertained to dinner on Christmas Day, Grandma Kluckhohn.

Mrs. Mildred Day accompanied her son, Dorance and family to Des Moines Sunday evening for a few days visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Isvik and daughters were dinner guests Sunday at the Elvin Stokesbary home at Amboy, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Phearson and son of Ames, came last week to spend the holidays visiting at the J. C. Thomas home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keraus drove to Swea City Sunday to enjoy dinner with Mr. Keraus' mother, Mrs. Antonio Keraus and with his sister, Mrs. Rosa Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Benn Coobs entertained to dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coobs of Iowa City; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark of Des Moines; and Mr. and Mrs. Verner Lewis.

Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Annderson entertained to dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. John Suckow and children; Mr. and Mrs. Arnett Waddingham and children; and Mr. and Mrs. Art Thompson of Britt.

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Lewis enjoyed visiting over the long distanc telephone on Monday morning with their children in California: Mr. and Mrs. Don Speers and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lewis.

Gordon Baack, who is a pupil at the Council Bluffs School for the Deaf, came home last week to spend his Christmas vacation with his mother, Mrs. Elsie Baack and his brother, Dorance and other relatives. Gordon is getting along fine with his schooling at Council Bluffs.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barz entertained to dinner on Christmas day their children and families. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harvy Barz and their children; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rosendahl and children; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Barz and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Barz and family and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Greiman and family.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beier were Sunday dinner guests at the George Kern home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Smith of Iowa Falls were guests on Christmas day and Sunday at the parental Matt. Smith home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm Ax and Irvin were entertained to dinner Christmas day at the Leslie DeMerritt home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Haberkamp of Decorah are spending the Christmas holidays at the home of the Becker sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Verle Keraus and children of Garner on Christmas eve.

Miss Novella Bredbenner, who teaches in Des Moines, came home last week to spend the holidays visiting wiht her mother, Mrs. Martha Bredbenner.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Schlei entertained to dinner on Christmas Eve Virgil Norris and his family of Dows, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hackley of Clarion.

Miss Darlene Perkins, of Chicago, came Friday morning to spend the holidays visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Isvik and two daughters spent Christmas day at the S. A. Isvik home at Jewell. There were 28 people present for the big dinner.

The Girl Scouts had their Christmas party last week Tuesday evening in the basement of the First National Bank. Games were played, gifts exchanged and a nince lunch was enjoyed.

Mrs. Ernest Henschen has had some remodeling done on her home across from the park. A porch has been rebuilt and converted into a downstairs bedroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bacon of Lake Mills entertained to dinner on Christmas Day Berton Hanson and family of Wesley, and Mr. and Mrs. Art Wellemeyer of Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Foss of Goodell entertained at a Christmas dinner on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Thiemann and children, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Albers and Mr. and Mrs. John Albers, all of Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thieman entertained on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thiemann and children; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Thiemann and children of Klemme, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hougleo and sons of Mason City.

Sunday dinner guests at the Edd. Schoenwetter home at Garner were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hansen and family of near Kanawha, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Schoenwetter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Geary and son, Eldon, Wayne Schoenwetter and Marie Nedved.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Priebe entertained at a Christmas dinner on Sunday. Fred Schmidt and family, Herman Schmidt and family, Dean Rasmus and family, Wm. C. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goll and Beulah, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Priebe, and Eleanor and Ann Stille.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beier and Miss Ruth Neuberger left Monday in the Beier car on a trip to Texas, with Brownsville as their destination. They expect to be in the south about four weeks. "Pat" Patterson will drive the school bus during Mr. Beier's absence.

Work on the new home for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buseman, south of the Cliff Montgomery residence, is nearing completion. The plastering has been finished and the house is ready for finishing and painting. The Busemans, however, do not expect to move into their new home for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stewart of Webster City entertaind to dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perkins and her mother, Mrs. Stella Hinton of Klemme; Miss Darlene Perkins of Chicago; and Mr. and Mrs. Vic Perkins and son, "Skippy" and Mr. and Mrs. Merele Yule of Estherville.

A Christmas dinner and party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Schlawin and son, Virgil. Others present were Glenn Schlawin and family; Kenneth Schlawin and family; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schlawin and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etchen. All brought food for the big dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schlawin provided the roasted goose and dressing for the occasion. Gifts were exchanged around the Christmas tree and a grab bag was also enjoyed by all.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ludeke of Meservey, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Suckow of Jennings, La. are enjoying a visit in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baack and children entertained Mrs. Elsie Baack, Dorance and Gordon to dinner on Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. and Titus Davis were guests at the Ray Jorgenson, Jr. home on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Tom Blank became ill suddenly Thursday of a heart attack, but at this writing is reported to be much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorance Day and son, Gary, of Des Moines, came Friday evening to spend the week end at the Mrs. Mildred Day home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmdit entertained at a pre-Christmas dinner last Sunday Dean Rasmus and family and Wm. Schmidt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clements, Jimmie and Jerry, went to Armstrong Friday to visit over Christmas with relatives. They returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. LuVerne Christians entertained to dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Eric Meyer and family; Mrs. Mary Dominy, Howard and Josephine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Waterman and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wilcox drove to Minneapolis Friday morning to spend Christmas and to visit until Sunday at the George Wilcox home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas entertained to dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Phearson and son of Ames; Mr. Harms of Alden; and Jimmie Thomas of Waldorf College.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buseman entertained at a turkey Christmas dinner on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Art Schlawin of Garner; Franklyn Buseman and family; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Buseman; Charles Velau and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pavey.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold entertained to dinner on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Koerner and Kermit; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold and son, Billie; Wilbur, Evelyn and Bruce Arnold.

Frank Hougland received the grand prize, a console radio with record player at the Josten Appliance Store Wednesday evening. Leonard Swanson got the portable radio and Menno Albers the electric blanket. About fifty other smaller gifts were given away by Mr. Josten.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thieman entertained to dinner Christmas night Mrs. Clara Barz, Mrs. Geo. Born, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neuhring and Charlotte, Raymond Wille and family, Evert Barz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Hagen, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Barz, Irwin Neuhring and family, Earl Neuhring and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Neuhring; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beiber, Henry Josten and Maurice Murray and family.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Miss Sylvia Egeland went to Lake Mills Saturday evening to spend a few days visiting with friends.

Garland Brinkman returned home last week from Dallas, Texas where he had been working.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schoenwetter of Anthens, Geonga, came last week for a visit with relatives here and at Alexander.

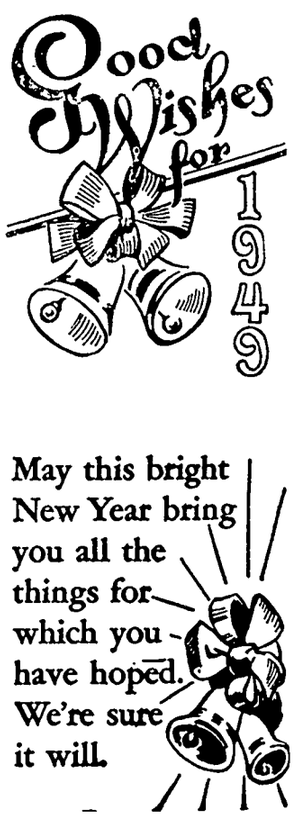
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Anderson of Charles City entertained to a Christmas dinner Mr. Wm. Stille and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stille and daughters Ruth and Lois.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Patet enjoyed Christmas dinner at the Jerome Erdman home at Forest City. Thirty-eight relatives were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Josten entertained at a Christmas dinner Mrs. Louisa Josten, Mrs. Lena Schroeder, Grandma Wille and Mrs. Esther Barz and Edward.

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Keraus of Osage entertained to a pre-Christmas dinner on Sunday, Dec. 19th Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus of Klemme, and Mr. and Mrs. Verle Keraus and children, Mickey and Kay of Garner.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Emil Patet entetained to a Christmas dinner Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Griewe and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. A. Gast of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schultz and Darlene of Britt; and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Griewe and Larry of Swea City.



May this bright New Year bring you all the things for which you have hoped. We're sure it will.

JOE'S PLACE

Lois and Joe

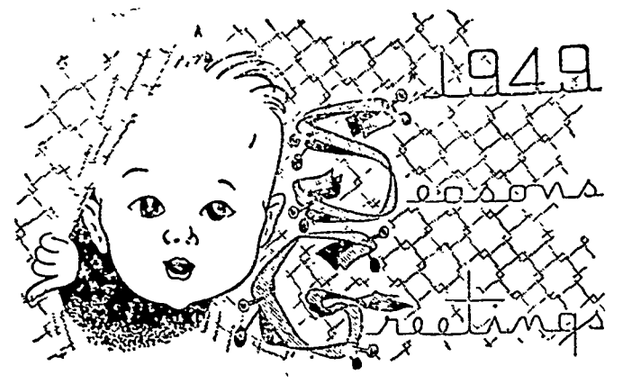
Hello, World! Young Mr. 1949 once again broadcasts his tidings of a new day aborning to a worn and weary world. Another year; another and much brighter page!

For you and yours, we reiterate his hope that the New Year will prove better and more fruitful than the old. May new faith and new courage be yours as you turn a new page in the journey through life, and may all your wishes be fulfilled!

C. A. LARSEN
LYLE
DORIS

MARTIN
HERMAN
ELSIE

Klemme Food Market



Make way for a Bright 1949 New Year, with every good wish for you.

Margaret
Glen

Jerry

Butch
Rog

THE CORNER STORE

Glen Terhufen, Proprietor — Klemme, Iowa